President Posts Faculty Changes In Harkins Hall

Many Professors Return From Studies

Appointment of three deans and several additional members of the Dominican Faculty have been announced by Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., Ph.D., president of the college. Father Slavin succeeds the Very Rev. Frederick C. Foley, O.P.

Rev. William J. Dillon, O.P., M.A., professor of English Literature, has been named Dean of Discipline.

Rev. Daniel F. Reilly, O.P., Ph.D., professor of American History, has been named Dean of Freshmen.

Rev. Thomas T. Shea, O.P., a for-at St. Pius Church, Providence, has mer Naval Chaplain and an assistant been named Dean of Men in charge of the resident students at Aquinas Hall.

New professors at the college are the Rev. Stuart B. Crowley, O.P., who recently was awarded the degree of Doctor of Sacred Theology from the Angelicum in Rome and Rev. Leo G. Duprey, O.P., S.T.L., M.A., who has been a professor of philosophy at the Dominican House of Studies in Oakland, California. Rev. Thomas M. Ziuraitis, O.P., Ph.D., of Austria, joins the faculty to teach French and German.

Two members of the faculty who have been continuing advanced studies have returned to the college for the present school year. They are Rev. Edward B. Hutton, O.P., M.A., who received a master's degree in physics at Ohio State University; and Rev. James G. Hackett, O.P., who has recently completed his work for doctorate in chemistry at Yale University.

Rev. Thomas U. Mullaney, O.P., S.T.D., Professor of Philosophy last year, has been transferred to the Dominican House of Studies in Washington, D.C., where he will become a professor of Theology. Rev. Francis D. Nealy, O.P., former Prefect of Aquinas Hall, has entered Notre Dame University to pursue higher studies.

Rev. I. A. Georges, O.P., for many years professor of philosophy at the college, has been assigned to the Christian Brothers' College of the South in Memphis, Tenn., where he is to head the department of philosophy.

Are You One?

If you see a blond headed member of the faculty pulling his hair out by the hands-full you will recognize him as Fr. Clark, the Moderator of the Veritas. And the reason is that one hundred—count them, one hundred—Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors ordered copies of the 1947 Veritas and left him holding the empty (money) bag.
Get it up!

ALEMBIC EDITOR SEEKS AUTHORS

Extending an invitation to members of all classes to participate in the production of THE ALEMBIC, Providence College's literary quarterly, Maximilian R. Knickerbocker, Jr., present editor, disclosed that the deadline for submission of articles for the year's first issue is October 15th, at a meeting of the editorial board in Donnelly Hall.

A new policy toward candidates for membership on the Alembic staff, designed to encourage in particular Freshmen with literary talent, was decided upon at this first session. In order to provide individual attention to the qualifications of potential writers and staff members, members of the present editorial board will be

War Memorial In Grotto Form For Alumni Dead

Sixty Five Alumni Lost In World War II

Sixty-five sons of Providence College died in the armed forces during the recent World War. As an enduring testimony of their courageous sacrifice, a memorial is now under construction on the campus. This memorial is taking the form of a magnificent grotto of Our Lady of the Rosary with an outdoor altar and sanctuary.

The topography of the area between the Eaton Street side of Aquinas Hall and the road leading to Guzman Hall has been completely changed. Masons, carpenters, and other tradesmen are working to complete the shrine before the advent of cold weather. The grotto which is being built of weathered field stone is to rise thirty feet in the air and in a niche at the top of the arch will be a white marble statue of Our Lady of the Rosary which is at present being carved in Italy. A sanctuary one hundred feet in length and fifty feet in width is stretched before the mound and in the center, elevated on three steps, is an altar of field stone capped with heavy blue flagstone. The entire sanctuary floor is also to be paved with the blue flagstone.

The grotto faces inward and the whole area in front of the sanctuary is to be excavated to form an amphitheatre which will seat, when finished, between three and four thousand people. Evergreens, and shrubs which will blossom in the early spring and the late autumn, will cover the mound and adorn the terrace surrounding the amphitheatre. Floodlights have been inserted in the sanctuary rail which will illuminate the statue at night. Installations have also been made for sound equipment.

It is the plan to have daily Mass at the shrine during the months of May and October; also the customary devotions in honor of Our Lady during these months, both at noon and in the evening, will be held there.

Bronze tablets will be placed on the rear walls of the sanctuary, one on each side of the grotto. The panel on the Gospel side will have the names of the sixty-five sons of the college who died while in the service; the panel on the other side will be entitled "Names Immortal" and will give a list of benefactors.

1000 P.C. MEN SET FOR SUNDAY PARADE

Special Train Leaves for Holy Name Convention at One-Thirty

At least 1000 students from P. C. are expected to march in the Fourth National Holy Name Convention parade in Boston this coming Sunday. A special train, leaving at 1:30, from the Providence railroad station will transport the delegates to the meeting place in the Hub city where they will join with the 120,000 other delegates in a mass demonstration and profession of faith. The convention starts tomorrow with a public meeting at Braves field.

The Rev. Charles H. McKenna, O. P., chaplain and director of the P. C. delegation, has distributed pledge cards to the religion professors. He asks all those who are going to fill out cards and return them to him before Friday.

Father McKenna said that the pledge cards were not being filled out to make a check on students. But it is necessary for him to know how many are going, so proper railroad accommodations can be made. The college will pay the fare of all students travelling by special train. The delegates are expected to arrive back in Providence by 7:00 p. m.

It is significant to note, the chaplain stated, that Providence College is the only Catholic college that will march as an individual unit. It is essential, therefore, for the reputation of the college that we be represented by a group distinguished not only by its numbers, but by its decorum.

The Rev. Harry C. Graham, O.P., class of '25, is the National Director of the Holy Name Society, and coordinator of the fourth national convention.

The convention starts Thursday night with a public meeting at Braves Field. The Rev. Ignatius Smith, O.P., dean of the philosophy school at Catholic University will deliver the principal address. Friday evening the entire P. C. faculty will participate in the Holy Hour services.

CHAPLAIN LISTS SOCIAL EVENTS

The Chaplain's Office today made public the schedule of social events together with their tentative dates.

The annual sophomore dance, the first of the season, is scheduled for Friday, October 24. Last year's affair heralded by such publicity stunts as parading an old gray mare bedecked with placards advertising the dance, started the social season spinning.

A short time later, four weeks to be exact, on the 21st of November, the seniors will stage their dance.

The Pyramid Players will present their annual play for three nights starting December 11th. Later in the year, a successor to last season's "Sing Mr. Citizen," a musical comedy, will be offered from April 28th to May 1st.

The Friar's Club will sponsor the first formal dance of the season on December 19th. The affair, as usual, will be held in Harkins Hall.

The Mid-Winter Festival is slated for January 16th. This will be followed in three weeks by the Freshman Dance which last year was the

VERITAS EDITOR

DAN DIUGLIO

Di IUGLIO HEADS YEARBOOK STAFF

Mr. Dan DiIuglio, a philosophy student from New Haven, Connecticut, will be editor-in-chief of the college yearbook, the VERITAS, the Rev. William R. Clark, O.P., moderator of the Senior class, announced last night. Other appointments to the staff will be disclosed in the near future.

Mr. DiIuglio has been active in the extra-curricular activities of the college since his freshman year. Last year he wrote the column, Dorm Diary, for the Cowl, was secretary of his class, and acted as chairman of the annual Junior Promenade. At present he is president of the Carolan Club for resident students, and of the New Haven Club, and is continuing his column in the Cowl.

Father Clark also revealed that beginning this year the cost of each student's copy of the Veritas will be included in the publication's fee paid

Cowl Reporter Scores Staff and Faculty

This article is to introduce the incoming freshmen to that famous collegiate publication, namely the Cowl. This newspaper is almost the official organ of information in the school ranking second only to the Bulletin Board and possibly the Veterans' Office. Since we are an organ, occasionally we give a recital concerning all the comings and goings of the big wheels on the campus.

Some of the faculty claim that they would subscribe to Pravda before they would lower themselves to read the Cowl, but that's just because we have a much larger joke section than Pravda. The Cowl costs ten cents and is worth almost every cent of that dime. There is no direct charge for the paper because the cost is included in the general college fee, whatever that is. However, we had an unscrupulous editor who made a tidy sum selling Cows to gullible frosh. As a matter of fact, we still have that unscrupulous editor on the staff; so beware of a flamboyantly dressed fop with a battered tin cup.

We have championed many a lost cause too. For instance, we started a boom to turn the campus into a golf course but were foiled when Donnelly Hall was erected between holes two and three. Another Cowl movement to make the college co-ed was squelched simply because the Administration ruled that women were too effeminate and didn't measure up to the standards of a P. C. gentleman which all students must be.

All news is original in that it originates with us. The college upholds "truth" as its motto. To the Cowl staff this is a meaningless abstraction and it prefers a more mundane motto which is "Never be late for a meal."

If you have any items of news value, there is a decrepit box unfortunately located in the Rotunda in which one may place such information. However, we reserve the right to print the unprintable but not the ineligible, so please write clearly in Basic English, and, if you don't know how to write, withhold your item until such time as you have completed your course in English Composition.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE TO THE COWL

I have been requested to send a message to the COWL, our weekly publication here at Providence College. It is my mind that while activities such as your paper are called extra-curricular, they enter intimately into our program at the College. They play their role in the integration and formation of the whole man. For this reason, the student body should take not only a live interest but also deep responsibility in all College activities. Do not expect your Moderators to do the work you should be doing. It is their task to point the way, you must do the work. Without your cooperation, you will never catch the spirit of Providence College. Without your interest, you are stifling the social life which is natural to all who lay claims to be called men.

We ask the blessing of Almighty God on your Editorial Board and pray that He will guide and protect you in your work.

The Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., Ph.D., President.

POLICY

With this first issue of the COWL we deem it appropriate that we let you readers know our Policy. We will attempt to report the news in an objective manner as far as it is possible. We will do all in our power to support the Administration and Faculty while not overlooking the fact that we are primarily concerned with reflecting student opinion. We will also feel free to express constructive opinions on a wide variety of subjects in conformity with the Catholic way of life.

But we do want it known that we will not function as an organization of destruction, nor will we cater to any single group. Furthermore, we will continually hammer at the enthusiasm displayed for extra-curricular activities. Participation in extra activities are as important to us as are scheduled subjects. When you just attend classes and glean all your learning from books, we feel that you are only partially educated.

Now we come back again to the reflection of student opinion. Ordinarily we have space dedicated for the printing of "Letters to the Editor," this week it is conspicuous by its absence. But we hope it will be the last time.

Letters to the editor must be signed and carry the students class status, but the name will be withheld on request. Naturally we can't print all the letters every week. The ones we don't, are referred to the proper authorities. May we also say that fear of incurring faculty wrath is not in order. Last year there were some pretty hot letters and none of the students were burned. Some improvements this year are the result of letters that were channeled to the proper authorities. So, let's hear from you. Drop your comments in the COWL box.

THINK IT OVER

This Sunday the fourth National Holy Name Convention will climax its five day meeting with a parade in Boston. It is not a parade to demonstrate physical might, nor is it one that offers gay music or splendid columns of nattily dressed men. But rather it is a mass demonstration of faith; men gathered together from all parts of the country to pay homage to our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ. We meet also to reaffirm our faith in the government under which we live.

It is significant to note that the eyes of the world will be upon us. No longer is Europe the citadel of the faith. It is us, Americans, that the rest of the Catholic world looks to for guidance and leadership. What if we fail? We must not.

The Chaplain has asked all Providence College men to participate in Sunday's parade. It is a request for one afternoon of your time. Think it over. Can you honestly say that you haven't the time? There must be hundreds of things for which you are grateful to Almighty God. Perhaps there was a time when you were marching, marching on foreign soil and for a different purpose. Next Sunday's parade is in honor of the Holy Name of God. Think it over.

DORM DIARY

By DAN DIUGLIO

Another year and once again the old diary is rolled out of the moth balls to give you all the info on the both new and old faces.

Highlights of the Week: "Puggy" Barrett enjoyed New Hampshire immensely while Walt "Curly" Lozowski batted clean-up man. Our hats off to Frank Conlon and a cigar for the boys. She's terrific and we all think the same. "Yolzie" Burns, remember, it's next August (Need we say more???) Cadillac convertibles may be obtained from Mr. Powell ($5000 plus eight quarts of blood, your own—that is). "Got a cigarette" Dunleavy, is fast becoming the serious type (Certain that Frannie will appreciate it). "The Body" Sinatra still keeps his own as No. 1 socialite. Deane De Augustine obtained a room at the Biltmore for his wardrobe. Note: Ed Cormier is installing a fireplace for the coming winter. Pete "Kramer" Burns is working out at the tennis courts. We think your serve is fine. The Boning Twins are set for the Notre Dame game and plane reservations made. Question: Is it one nature in two persons or two persons in one nature?? Ask Mr. Griffin. Happy Returns: Stever Marcucci (minus Don Murphy) is holding the straight path so far. Glad to see you back Ken Lyke. Lucky Joe "California" Goss was determined to make his first class and so he did. (Take good care of the right wing, Joe)...

Dennis Finn has returned with all his enthusiasm. (Yes, hockey will start soon). Sharp—But definitely: Pretty Boy Flynn's new addition of tweeds and flannels will give Joe Shanley rough competition. You can be sure that The Very Rev. Father Quirk was on hand to greet his returning "Quiz Kids," Harry D'Angelis, "Skeets" Di Francisco and Al Kuljian. Big Time: Headed by Larry De Palma and Bob Conte the "Rock" will stand its own on the courts.

Take Heed: We are sorry to inform you that once again the "Spider" has returned to Aquinas. Please accept our apologies. Freshman George Montane, "Pouch" Buccino and Fred Esposito (the lovers) have formed a lonely hearts club. All wishing to join, see them in Room 430. Veridame Note: Beware of Bob Caren. That is all. One of the finest saxmen resides here, in the person of Billy Cofronis. This column nominates Bill to replace Frank Simon as band leader. Double chow seems to be creating quite a problem. Those big eaters (Elmer Smith, Lou Martino) believe they have to eat twice at each meal. There are rumors that "Red" Bission plans to make it five in a room. Regret: Last year's infamous "table 7" has been demolished.

Vinnie the efficient Mess Sargeant is now wearing a smile. Sal Sica and Gene Fargeorge (proud papa's) plan to start a "Daddy Club". All interested please see them. Reply: In answer to many questions: Yes, Atlantic City was fine but Spring Lake has top priority.

Inside Scoops: Mr. Hughes is playing Pawtucket. John O'Hurley makes well with many suggestions. Dave "Doc" Connors will administer first-aid every evening after the attack. Kelley and D'Ambruso (Poets of the Keys) will be on hand. Jim Connors is in favor of getting to the point (we get you). "Derby" Cahill is about with his ten gallon. George "Lush" Healy expects great "Sack-Time".

Well, that seems to wind things up for this seven—till another, be good and keep this in mind: To acquire wealth is difficult, to preserve it most difficult, but to spend it wisely—most difficult of all.

... COMMENT ...

By M. R. Knickerbocker, Jr., '47

It is certainly no credit to this nation that two years after V-J day we should see so many people, particularly young married people, unable to find decent homes for themselves and their families. With all our vaunted industrial capacity and with all the activity in construction one would certainly be led to believe that the condition has at least been somewhat alleviated. Yet such is not the case.

This leads us to take a sharp look at the housing situation in America, at the building industry and at those whose business it is to provide housing for the public. On all sides this look reveals a shocking amount of what was once called the "public-be-damned" attitude. The building industry, enjoying its greatest boom, is bent upon a mad rush to construct everything but what is needed—homes for the American people. I do not refer solely to the bowling alleys, theatres, barrooms, stores, etc., which are eating so voraciously into the critical supply of building materials.

Under the guise of doing something for the veteran, the home building industry is busily engaged in throwing up (that about describes it) nice new homes with price tags so ridiculously high that most of these homes are utterly beyond the reach of the veterans the majority of whom are just starting to make their mark in life. Those who can take these homes or do, proceed to tie a very large millstone around their necks.

So the picture is this: while thousands of young married couples are looking for small, economical housing units to begin their family lives within their means, the only answer they have thus far obtained from American free enterprise is a glib suggestion to look at some of the new homes American construction companies are providing for them.

Another shocking aspect of the sorry mess is the almost universal blackballing of people with children.

It is very well to notice that in connection with this "public be damned" attitude, a current issue of a respected business magazine reports that the construction industry has all business worried over its reckless disregard of sound business methods. It had been hoped that the building boom would stave off any depression but the way it is going, building will be the first boom to burst.

DAYHOP DOINGS

By PAT ONOFRIO

A certain freshman by the name of Chuck DiOrio is going around boasting that life here at P.C. is grand (you'll be S-O-R-R-Y)...

Rumor has it that Charles McHugh is going to announce his engagement to a certain Miss Oliver in October. Do you know that Bob Harrison has vowed never to touch another drop of that foaming stuff again! Freshmen! Are you having trouble with your studies?

If so, see Andy Fortin for guidance. Freshman Pete Cefelli is about to become a father any day now. Good luck, Pete. Three cheers for John Lynch; he got rid of his old hat which he wore for eight years. Tom Malloy is still seen around locker 1096 at Rhodes. I wonder why. Have you noticed the peculiar walks of Anfield Mosca and Frank DePalo? They worked at Lincoln Downs this past summer. Leo Donahue, the genius, aroused suspicion when seen talking to a few of P.C.'s isolationists.

WORRIED: Frank Kilmartin was recently involved in an auto crash and is now worried on the outcome of the law proceedings. (We all got troubles Frank).

Harry Keenen is also having troubles with his 1932 Plymouth coupe, the oil over-flow vent shoots oil fumes into the car (stops breathing), doors don't work; needs pliers and screw driver to open. (Does that remind you of anything?)

Dope Distributors. Joe Kelly and his associate Bill Gregory will give you information on anything and anybody. Don't be an addict and ask for any. Ed Gyns also follows through in the same department but deals with the feminine information. His office now located at Gibson's. Doc Kenney keeps an appointment every night, and it's always a different address.

John Henderson, the kid from Alabama—does he commute?

Paul Joyce our maestro, toots the horn at Lake Pearl on Saturday and trips the light fantastic on Wednesday. Bells will soon be ringing for Alfred Russo who became engaged this past Labor Day.

Glad to hear that Roland and Anthony Riccio are on the mend from their recent automobile accident last week.

Another man on the recovery list is Tom "Cuddles" Carroll who was smitten with swamp fever during the current horse racing season.

Obie the Great is on the loose again in the Providence area. This was confirmed by some of the local belles.

This is all for now, but we'll be back next week with all the misdoings of the boys who held an informal opening of the school season at Oate's

SPORTS PANORAMA

by Dave Connors, Jr.

WONT YOU TELL ME WHEN . . .

We will have football again this year, next year, or ever. Tra-la-la. This seems to be the question heard most often on the campus at least when athletics are the topic of discussion. Frankly, I don't know. From what I can gather, I don't think the Athletic Dept. knows. It is not an easy job to get a football team underway. Equipment must be bought, schedules arranged, and that usually is done two years in advance, a coach would have to be found, and Hendricken Field needs renovating just to mention a few of the many things that would have to be considered in bringing football back at P. C. All of these things cost money and plenty. Having just started my course in economics I am not prepared to tell the Athletic Dept. the cheapest and quickest way to bring football back to P. C. I realize the tremendous problem it presents to them and I hope that you do too. Still it would be nice wouldn't it to see the students, and sporting fans of the college, streaming across the campus toward Hendricken Field each Saturday in the Autumn, rather than straggling down the walk with a suitcase heading for home as soon as classes are over. Now are you satisfied? Tra-la-la. That, I am on your side Tra-la-la, Sunday, Monday and always.

NUMBER ONE FAN . . .

I was pleasantly surprised to see among the new faces on the faculty, that of the Reverend Herman D. Schneider, O.P. Father Schneider last year assigned to St. Pius Church across the way is one of P. C.'s greatest sports enthusiasts. Very seldom does he miss a Friar athletic contest. During the recent war many men were trained to be athletic specialists of the U. S. forces during moments of recreation all over the world. In my battalion in the Pacific we had none of these specialists assigned to our outfit. However, we had a man who for sheer enthusiasm for promoting athletics took a back seat to none. If I remember correctly the particular island that I was on was declared secure on June 21st two years ago. On July 1st our battalion had brand new baseball uniforms, a newly constructed baseball field, and a baseball team. In addition basketball courts were under construction, and just about every other kind of athletic equipment imaginable. Our athletic specialist, Oh yes, Father Schneider!

HE WAS ANOTHER LEAHY . . .

Each autumn since that gray, gloomy afternoon of late March in 1931 when Knute K. Rockne, the wizard of Notre Dame, crashed to his death in an airplane on a barren field in Kansas, some football coach guides his team through a great season and suddenly finds himself voted the coach of the year. He is the toast of the sporting world in general and his own school in particular. He is written about in the sports pages of newspapers, magazines and books throughout the nation. Eventually the old familiar line appears—he is another Rockne. But when a new season dawns this same coach who just the season before had been compared with the immortal 'Rock', meets with a few reverses and immediately the football world is looking about for another Rockne. This has been going on now for seventeen years and as yet, another Rockne has not emerged from the shadows that close in on the thousands of stadiums where the pigskin parades take place every Saturday afternoon each autumn. However, this fall, in fact starting on Saturday afternoon, a name will begin its ascent to the top, a name that will be emblazoned across the football horizon, a name that will be remembered as long as football is played in this country of ours. The name once again will be synonymous with Notre Dame as was Rockne's. The name is LEAHY. Frank Leahy a fighting name too for the often misnamed Fighting Irish. What Leahy and his Irish from South Bend accomplish this year will not alone put him on a football pedestal; but it will force the historians of the sport to pull out the record books and bring forth the results that he has accomplished since becoming a head football coach. Then, and only then, will the pigskin adherents at large realize that never a football coach lived whose record compares with the soft-spoken, hard-driving man who guides the destinies of everyone's football team—the Irish of Notre Dame. His record now stands at 42 wins, 5 defeats and 2 ties. Each year his Ramblers from under the Golden Dome face the great teams of the country, whether it be north, south, east or west. Always the pressure is on him. Every team in the country wants to beat Notre Dame. Never can a Notre Dame team let up for a moment, simply because they are Notre Dame. Never has Frank Leahy allowed them or himself to let up, and there lies the reason for his success. However, there is one goal that Leahy has not yet reached at Notre Dame as his predecessors, Hunk' Anderson and Elmer Layden also failed to do. Notre Dame since 1930, Rockne's last team, has not gone through a campaign undefeated and untied. Twice they have had undefeated records both under Leahy but on each occasion they were tied by Army. Several National Championships have been won by the Irish since the death of the master, but for seventeen years that perfect season, that Rockne made a practice of, has not been chalked up for the South Bend institution. This is Frank Leahy's goal this year. He has done everything else with a Notre Dame eleven except that. As a result each Saturday afternoon from now until the final game with Southern California, a drama, with Leahy in the leading role, will be unfolded, in every stadium that the Irish play in. If the once poor boy from Winner South Dakota achieves, and I predict he will, the only goal, a perfect season, that has slipped from his grasp, by virtue of a deadlock, on two other occasions during his tenure as leader of the nation's favorite team; then will the name Leahy advance to the front. No, they will not say that he is another Rockne, but rather, and it is about time, they will be saying that Rockne was another Leahy.

SHORT SHOTS . . .

Last Sunday at the Yankee Stadium as a preliminary to the Yankee-Athletics game, a two-inning game between former Yankee stars and former American Leaguers was held. And what a galaxy of the game's immortals took part. Ruth, Cobb, Speaker, Foxx, Simmons, Gomez, Pipp, Mack, McCarthy and Simmons just to name a few. All of these players were invited to participate in the first of what is planned to be an annual affair. The Yankee management is the host to all these players for the entire World Series, a very nice gesture on the part of the often criticised, Larry McPhail. . . . Saturday last saw the football season get away to a fast start and the usual upsets that are a part of king football. Who ever thought that California under new coach Lynn Waldorf would defeat highly regarded Navy or that Alabama and Gilmer would come a cropper against Tulane. However, the biggest upset took place at Evanston where Vanderbilt lightly regarded in pre-season forecasts took the measure of always strong Northwestern. . . . Having ended up with a big 0 in predicting the pennant winners in the major leagues this past season, I am about to redeem myself by giving you the World Series winner. A flyer on the Yankees, possibly in four games . . .

ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT PLANS FOR FUTURE SPORT EVENTS

Drew and Martin Return to Coaching Helms for Second Year

By DAVE CONNORS, Jr.

There is an old saying that all things whether good, bad or indifferent come in threes. Toss out the bad and indifferent part of the saying and that leaves us with three and good. And that just about describes the Providence College Athletic Department.

The Reverend Aloysius P. Begley, O.P., Lawrence "Larry"

Drew and Harold "Hal" Martin are the trio who will guide the destinies of Providence College athletics during the coming year. Father Begley is the Director of Athletics, the most thankless and least appreciated job in collegiate sports even though everyone realizes it is perhaps the most gruelling and nerve wracking positions in any athletic set-up. Drew and Martin are the head coaches of basketball and baseball, respectively, both returning for their second year at the helm of Friar teams.

New Freshmen Rule

With football temporarily off the Providence College sport's agenda, your guess is as good as the next fellows as to when it will return; it will be well into December before a Friar team goes into varsity action. However, that does not mean that the Big Three in the athletic dept. are basking in the sunshine on these infrequent warm days. Rather, they are busily laying plans for the coming basketball and baseball campaigns, both varsity and freshmen, along with the intramural program which includes football, basketball, and possibly softball. With the new Freshmen rule now in effect that is an additional burden on the coaching staff. Freshmen are no longer eligible for varsity competition, but still they must be indoctrinated into the type of game Drew and Martin will expect from them in future years. This puts a double load on the two mentors as they will have to tutor varsity and freshmen teams.

Coaches Return

Drew and Martin are both graduates of Providence College and both returned to the campus last year as freshmen once again but as teachers rather than pupil. Just as freshmen in school come up against obstacles, problems and difficulties so does the first year coach. Drew and Martin were no different. They met them also, but both came through bigger and better coaches and well on the road to becoming established names in their individual fields.

Systems Installed

The won and lost records compiled by the Friar athletic teams last year do not look impressive on the surface. However, the athletes compiling those records were almost entirely freshmen with the exception of a few returned established players. With the coaches now knowing the capabilities of their athletes, their systems installed and the athletes in turn a year older and more experienced and knowing the systems taught by their coaches, the won and lost record should be much more imposing. However, this story is not one on the prospects of this year's teams but rather an introduction to our athletic heads. As you come to know this trio better you will find that they are capable and efficient. Support them and they will produce for the school and student body.

per session. With the Navy Department spending $100,000 on apparatus and renovating its buildings at the shipyard, the reservists will have an excellent opportunity for practical experience on the newest equipment.

INTRAMURALS

By VIN CINQUEGRANA

Once again, the autumn breezes sweep over the campus grounds, bringing with them new faces, cool weather, and a yen for the great outdoors. So, at this time, for all you fellows who are interested in sports, actively, allow your faithful correspondent to give you an insight on what is going on in PC sports this fall.

Since we have an influx of former high school athletes, and what have you, the mention of Intramural sports should catch your eye. First of all, our athletic mentor, Lawrence Drew, has announced that a Touch Football Tourney will commence on Oct. 6th. Therefore, all of you who wish to keep in trim, and want to break the monotony of studies, should get together, elect yourselves a captain, and then beat a hasty path to Room 108 and Coach Larry Drew who holds that important item known as the entry blank. He expects to have two divisions, the first of which will play all its games between the hours of 1:00 p. m. and 2:00 p. m. This applies only to Freshman. The second division will play all its games between 12:00 p. m. and 1:00 p. m., and includes everyone except Frosh. If the hours are bad, get together anyway and speak to Larry Drew personally. Perhaps, then, other arrangements can be made.

The athletic office also announces that the Cross-Country Run which was held last year, and was not successful, will be held again this year on Oct. 17th. The purpose of this race is to establish which class has the individual with the most speed and stamina. If you are interested in discovering the answer to this momentous question, sign up with Coach Drew in Room 108, and on the fateful 17th, a day which I hope will be brisk, we, the sports writers, the faculty, the student body as a whole, and everybody else concerned in some way with the college, will attend the meet and learn the horrible truth. So, if you can't toss a pigskin around, just run in this Cross-Country Track Meet. It has always been a lot of fun in the past and the one this year should prove no exception.

Friars Club Active In Sports Again

The Friars Club of Providence College, an organization composed of men who act as hosts for visiting teams, whether they be of an athletic or social nature, will hold their first meeting of the year Friday.

It is appropriate that this notice should be found on the Sports page for the Friars are an integral part of all the functions of the Athletic department. Last year the members ushered at the basketball and baseball games and performed graciously all matters directed to their attention.

Furthermore it is the aim of the Friars Club to act as liaison between the faculty and student body and to foster school spirit in all fields of extra-curricular activities.

The present organization is headed by Joseph R. Flynn, '48, of New Haven, Connecticut, and has as its moderator, the Rev. Edward H. Schmidt, O.P., head of the German department.

MARINE RESERVES SEEK STUDENTS

Lt. Gerald Flynn, Public Relations Officer of the 3rd 155 howitzer battalion, U.S.M.C.R., announces that the reserve is seeking men who would be interested in rounding out the battalion.

Flynn, a graduate in the class of Dec. '42, says a weekly two-hour session at the Walsh-Kaiser shipyard with a possible two week training period at an east coast camp is all that is expected of reservists.

THE THEATRE

By A. R. POUTRAY

Since this is an advance on Oklahoma, it is possible that by the time the Cowl is printed the whole cast of the show will be back west husking corn. But, barring hidden interference by today, if today is Wednesday, Oklahoma will be giving its 207th performance in London and simultaneously, its fourth in Providence.

Incidentally, the London show has grossed approximately $660,000 and has paid slightly more than one-third of it to John Bull in tax. Which all goes to prove it takes more than patriotism to run a government even if it is British.

Oklahoma is probably the most highly publicized musical to come out of Broadway in the past ten years and not unjustly so, the music, by Rodgers and Hammerstein has been whistled by everyone still young enough to pucker his lips. "The Surrey with the Fringe on Top", "I Can't Say No", "Poor Jud", "All er Nothin'", "Oh What a Beautiful Mornin'", "People Will say We're in Love", and of course the title song "Oklahoma" are a few of the familiar tunes.

There is a very light plot figuring between cattlemen and ranchers but as it should in a musical, it keeps its feet out of the spokes.

If you haven't already seen it, do so now before it gets away. I'm certain you'll enjoy it. Watch Curly when he sings about his shiny little surrey.

assigned to groups of underclassmen candidates.

Everyone interested in this college-sponsored activity is urged to submit his material as soon as possible to facilitate the selection of additional members of the staff. Contributions are welcomed from all students, whether they desire to serve actively on the staff or not. These may be left in the COWL mailbox or brought to the Alembic office in Room 4, Donnelly Hall.

Also determined at this meeting was the design for the covers of this year's issues of the Alembic. The new cover will have white lettering on a black background with simplicity as the keynote, conforming to the general trend in similar college publications.

The present staff of the Alembic, in addition to editor Knickerbocker, includes:

R. E. Doherty, '48, Associate Editor, Joseph Shanley, '49; George Eagle, '50, A. R. Poutray, '49, Wales Henry, '50, A. Boning, '48, John Deasy, '48, members of the Editorial Board.

Albertus Magnus Elects Officers

Alvin Gendreau, '48, was elected president of the Albertus Magnus Club at its initial meeting last week. The club is open to all Junior and Senior biology students who maintain satisfactory grades in that science. It was also disclosed that the Rev. Raymond S. McGonagle, O.P., will continue as moderator.

Other officers elected were: Vice-President, William Stevens, '49; Secretary, Thomas Regan, '49; Treasurer, Everett McCaughy, '48.

A Ways and Means Committee was also established and it is headed by Joe McNally, '48. Assisting him are George Healy, '49, and Dick Kaufman, '49.

At a future meeting the science boys will plan a program for the semester. Last year it was one of the liveliest clubs in the school and climaxed their spring term with a dinner and informal show at Oates Tavern.

Veteran Officers Housed in Rotunda

Representatives of the Veterans' Administration, who handle all contact work for veterans studying under public law 16 or 346, will again be located in room 103, two days a week.

Fridays from nine-thirty to twelve-thirty the representative from the training section of the Veterans' office will be available for consultation. His office is directly concerned with education. Matters concerning transfers, change of courses, marks, etc., have to be transacted with him.

Students studying under public law 16, the V. A. announced, need not contact the training officer until a notice is published to that effect. It will be either the first or second of October.

Mr. William Jordan will be the contact man who deals directly with problems and queries other than those concerned with education. Insurance and disability claims, rehabilitation requests, etc., should be taken to him. Mr. Jordan's visiting day has not been designated; watch the bulletin board for further announcements.

Debating Society Calls for Candidates

Not only pre-legal students but also those seeking to improve their powers in oratory are cordially invited to attend the initial session of the Debating Society which opens the season with a call for candidates this week.

According to the Rev. Ambrose P. Regan, O.P., all candidates will be given an opportunity to try out for the honor of representing the College in inter-collegiate competition. However, those failing to place will be allowed to continue in the Society, thereby gaining valuable experience which will supplement their work in oratory classes.

The importance of effective public speaking in all walks of life is self-evident. The Debating Society intends to fill this need as much as possible for that student who seeks self-improvement through a great deal of perseverance and a like amount of hard work.

Dramatic Club Plans Season

The Pyramid Players, College dramatic society, will initiate a school-wide membership drive this week as it points for a wider, more varied program in this, its second season after a war-time lapse.

The Players, under the direction of the Rev. Pierre H. Conway, O.P., assisted by the Rev. George Q. Friel, O.P., the Rev. John W. Fitzgerald, O.P., and the Rev. David A. O'Connell, O.P., are confident that, supported by a hard core of experienced upperclassmen, theatrics here will take a long stride toward excellence in the coming months.

Though beset with all the difficulties encountered by a newly-formed organization, last year's Players learned quickly and well, which augurs well for this year's performances.

According to Edward Gnys, president, the tentative program includes two plays plus a musical which will ring down the curtain sometime in May. A five-man board headed by John Feeley has been examining scripts and considering casting proposals with the aim of using to best advantage the talent and facilities found at the College.

As the dramatic season here at Providence College nears its official opening, those students with either talent or a liking for dramatics or both are asked to join the Pyramid Players.

exposed to this course, and they will eye critically any material that you might be so ill-disposed as to turn in. Any news is alright even if it's just a casual tip on a horse at Narragansett. Understand, we are not running a date bureau either, for that is the proper office of the Alembic which sporadically produces literature appealing to young ladies.

All in all, you will find the Cowl, at all times, to be a bankrupt fund of information. So, when you receive your copy, please read it carefully.
