Fr. Quinn Delivers Lecture On Education and the Home

Because the responsibility of the home has been placed to a large extent upon the institution called the school, the Rev. Robert G. Quinn, O.P., professor of education, declared that as such, "the definition of education depends upon our attitude of mind."

Speaking before a large crowd in the Harkins Hall Auditorium, Sunday night, Father Quinn went on to cite the various philosophies which educators follow as he delivered the third in a series of Lenten talks open to the public, entitled, "Education and the Home."

"The three most prevalent philosophies in our day," he said, "can be identified as Naturalism, Humanism and Supernaturalism. Therefore, the basic question is: What say you of man?"

He scored the first two philosophies by pointing out that if Naturalism is accepted, "then you fall into the idea of man considered as a biological entity. 'But,' he said, 'biology can only give us the origin of man and cannot give more than his physical side.'"

"Humanists," Father Quinn said, "consider man as merely a higher form of animal life with the added faculty of reason." But their experiments, he added, "have given lie to some of their supposed findings."

"Supernaturalism," he concluded, "is the Christian philosophy which holds that the object of Christian education is man whole and entire." It is the soul united to body in unity of nature with all his faculties natural and supernatural, such as right reason and revelation show him to be."

An open forum followed the lecture. It was conducted by the Rev. William R. Clark, O.P., co-ordinator of the series.

The Rev. Charles H. McKenna, O.P., Chaplain of the College, will speak next Sunday on the subject "Marriage Plays."

Civil Service Offers Student Aid Posts To College Juniors

Applications are being accepted by the Executive Secretary, Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners for Scientific and Technical Personnel of the Potomac River Naval Command, Building 37, Naval Research Laboratory, Washington 20, D. C., for filling Student Aid positions in the field of Engineering, Mathematics, Metallurgy, Chemistry, Physics and Meteorology.

This examination offers to college Juniors the opportunity of participating in special training programs at the National Bureau of Standards, the Naval Research Laboratory and the Naval Ordnance Laboratory. Satisfactory completion of the training course may lead to appointment to positions in the professional service for which the appointees are qualified.

The salary for Student Aid positions is $2,394 a year. To qualify, applicants must pass a written test and, in addition, they must have credit equivalent to at least three years of college study in one of the above subject-matter fields. Applications will be accepted from students who expect to complete the required

Dominican Master General Will Make Official Visit To Providence College

Cap and Gown Day

In honor of the official visitation by the Dominican Master General, "Cap and Gown" Day, for the class of 1948, has been moved up to this Friday, March 5th, the Rev. William R. Clark, O.P., moderator of the Senior class, announces.

Father Clark will be celebrant of a Mass at 9:30 a. m., which will commence the activities for the day. All Juniors will witness the academic investiture with the traditional dress on the 146 members of the graduating class. The Rev. William A. Hinnebusch, O.P., Ph.D., (Oxon), will deliver a special sermon for the occasion.

Serving on the "Cap and Gown" committee are: Eugene X. Hodge of Pawtucket as chairman, Alfred L. Boning of Providence, Maurice W. Grinstein of Providence, Raymond T. Neary of Providence, and Ferdinand J. St. Germain of Woonsocket.

Father Suarez Will Receive Honorary Law Doctorate At Sunday's Convocation

The Most Rev. Emmanuel Suarez, O.P., S.T.M., J.U.D., of Rome, Italy, Master General of the Order of Preachers throughout the world, will make an official visitation to the College next Sunday, Saint Thomas Aquinas' Day, March 7th.

For several weeks Father Suarez, in the company of other Dominican priests, high in the Order, has been visiting Dominican Houses of Study, schools, churches, priories, and convents in the United States. He intends to visit all of them before returning to Rome.

In the group coming to the College are the Most Rev. Paul A. Skehan, O.P., S.T.M., Procurator General of the Order, and the Very Rev. T. S. McDermott, O.P., S.T.Lr., L.L.D., Provincial of the Province of Saint Joseph, which embraces all Dominican houses in eastern United States. Father Skehan, a graduate of the College in 1923, is second to Father Suarez in the Dominican Order. Father McDermott is President of the Providence College Corporation.

The Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., S.T.Lr., Ph.D., President of the College, said a special academic convocation will be conducted at three o'clock Sunday during which the degree of Doctor of Laws will be conferred on the visiting dignitary. Later, a cornerstone will be laid for the College's new science hall—Alber-

Solemn High Mass Will Be Celebrated To Honor Aquinas

The feast of St. Thomas Aquinas will be celebrated with a solemn high Mass being sung at nine o'clock Monday morning in the Harkins Hall Auditorium in the presence of the Master General, the Provincial, and the President of the College.

The Rev. Charles H. McKenna, O.P., Chaplain, will be the celebrant. The Rev. Timothy E. Shea, O.P., Dean of Aquinas Hall, will serve as Deacon, and the Rev. William J. Dillon, O.P., Dean of Discipline, will be Sub Deacon.

The Acolytes will be James Eagan, '48, of Providence, and Joseph Flynn, '48, of New Haven. Paul Doonan, '50, of Providence, will act as Thurifer, and James Thorpe, '51, of Providence, will be the Cross Bearer.

The Glee Club under the direction of the Rev. Leo S. Cannon, O.P., will assist at the Mass and as their special tribute to the Master General will sing "Concordi Laetitia", "Land of Hope and Glory", "Panis Angelicus", and "Stella Matutina."

The Master General will address the student body following the Mass. Afterwards, official pictures of the Holy Name parade in Boston last October will be shown.

Call For Talent

The Pyramid Players are suffering from a lack of musical talent for their forthcoming Spring Musical. According to Henry J. Keenan, '50, Promotion Director, no worthwhile effort can be made towards the realization of a production which will be a credit to the College until a sufficient number of the student body respond.

Mr. Keenan urges those singers, dancers and instrumentalists who have preferred to remain unknown and unsung for one reason or another to bestir themselves in order that the

Press Association Sponsor Conference At Brown Herald

The Rhode Island Intercollegiate Press Association of which the COWL is a charter member, held its first annual press conference at Faunce House, Brown University, Saturday, February 28.

Dr. Bruce Bigelow, vice-president of Brown University, welcomed the delegates from the schools and colleges.

The conference, open both to college and to high school students, consisted of a general meeting and several panels dealing with the aspects and problems of journalism. The Rev. William R. Clark, O.P., moderator of THE COWL and Veritas, and members of both staffs were in attendance.

Don A. Brennan of the Curtis Publishing Company presented a sound and color film entitled, "Magazine Magic" which dealt with the growth and production of Curtis publications.

Following the movie, Mr. Brennan gave a short talk on the excellent career possibilities in the writing and creative fields. As evidence of the constant need for new talent in magazines he cited the fact that there were 270 new contributors to the Curtis publications in 1947. Mr. Brennan then answered various questions from the delegates concerning the type of material desired and the method of sending it to the publishing company.

Concurrently with this session, Mr. Joseph Leonelli of Brigham Junior High School, Pawtucket, gave a short talk and conducted a discussion period on "Mimeographed Newspapers." H. Webster Youlden of the Providence Evening Bulletin sports staff lectured on "Sports Reporting."

Jeanette Hopkins, feature writer of the Journal-Bulletin, gave an interest-

Fr. Slavin Stresses Religious Devotion In Special Address

The Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., joined with Protestant and Jewish religious leaders in sounding the keynote for the observance of American Brotherhood Week at a luncheon in the Narragansett Hotel last week.

More than 200 representatives of service clubs and religious groups gathered for the luncheon which was sponsored by the Rhode Island Seminar of Human Relations of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

All leaders stressed the need of religious devotion. Rabbi Abraham J. Feldman spoke for the Jewish religious leaders and Dr. Arthur Bradford represented the Protestant element.

Father Slavin's talk concerning the false kind of tolerance which exists was fundamentally aimed at people who have missed the real source of man's equality with man.

He declared: "One might think America is suffering from intolerance but what she is fundamentally suffering from is a false kind of tolerance, namely, tolerance of error, of vice, of license, of chaos. There is no other subject today in which the average mind is so much confused. In a sense, tolerance is the drab, half-way house between hate and charity. We can be tolerant of persons but we must be tolerant of principles."

"The modern mind has missed the real source of man's equality with man. It does not know what gives a

CRUSADE FOR CHILDREN'S LIVES

Two hundred thirty million children today are the innocent but suffering victims of a war that they did not cause. Even as this editorial is typed by the linotypist, a terrifying number of helpless children are slowly but surely dying of starvation and its attendant diseases. The more fortunate ones, the ones a few years younger than ourselves, are even now scrounging in garbage heaps for food—the symbol of life for them.

Two hundred thirty million children today are starving as a result of the scorched earth sacrifices that slowed the enemy, but rendered useless and unproductive vast agricultural areas of Europe and Asia. Their parents destroyed their own food to deny the enemy. And now the children suffer for those sacrifices.

We, as Americans, benefited materially from those sacrifices on the part of our allies in Europe and Asia. If it made sense for the peoples of those countries to scorch their earth, does it not now make sense for us to help them? Must we not now help assure their children a chance to survive and grow to normal adulthood?

The CRUSADE FOR CHILDREN, sponsored by American Overseas Aid-United Nations Appeal for Children, aims at raising $60,000,000 during the month of March. This appeal has the complete cooperation of twenty-six American welfare agencies, including the War Relief Services of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

Lent is a time of sacrifices. What better way can we share in the Divine Life of Charity than by depriving ourselves of a few expenditures on pleasure and contributing the consequent savings to the children of Europe and Asia, who, along with us, are the children of God.

You can perform your act of almsgiving by making your contribution to AOA - UNAC, New York City, right away. Remember TWO HUNDRED THIRTY MILLION CHILDREN ARE DYING OF STARVATION. You can help change the situation.

Veteran's Corner

BY TONY JARZOMBK '51

An opportunity to get in on the ground floor of the 380th Bombardment Squadron (L) which has been formed in Providence awaits any veteran who has had air force experience, regardless of the branch of service he was in. The 380th has emerged from the chrysalis of desk operations and blackboard tactics, and for almost a year now has been doing plenty of actual flying.

Many choice vacancies are offered (170 to be exact) in the enlisted ranks of this Reserve squadron of the Air Force for qualified veterans. Most of the officers have been selected, but 1st Lt. Zygmund K. Kochanek, squadron navigator and philosophy student here at P. C., informs us that a few openings are available for ex-officers, particularly navigators and bombardiers.

The 310th Bombardment Group will be ordered to active duty, as a unit, from 15 June through 30 June, 1948, at Stewart Field, West Point, New York. Members of the 380th Bombardment Squadron who are available will go on active duty with the Group; at which time they will receive pay, allotments, etc., commensurate with the Regular Air Force.

So if you're interested in renewing activities with a live wire squadron and getting in plenty of flying time, drop a line to the Commanding Officer, H. Q. 3rd Bombardment Wing (L), Bedford Army Air Field, Bedford, Massachusetts. You will receive complete information as to what to do and how to do it. So much for Air Force drum-beating.

After an informal cafeteria poll taken last week, we learned that many veterans were unaware of the time limits set by the VA for taking advantage of the G. I. benefits. That brought to mind the story of the World War I veteran who applied to the VA several weeks ago for his bonus money. To say the least, he was quite surprised to learn that no money would be forthcoming. . . bonus payments to World War I veterans had expired in January 1945. He was, in fact, indignant that the VA would not give him his money. But the law is the law for although the VA is carrying us, we can't be dragging our feet.

So here's a ready reference, revised to January 1, 1948, which you can paste in your favorite scrap book:

1. You have ninety days after discharge in which to apply for your old job. As this is not applicable to us now we'll pass out to . . .

2. Life insurance can be reinstated any time before August 1, 1948, without a physical examination.

3. If you haven't applied for your terminal leave pay yet, do it at once as applications must be in before September 1, 1948.

4. Readjustment Allowances ($50-20) can be claimed within two years after discharge, or by July 25, 1949.

5. Education, including on-the-job and apprenticeship training, must be started within four years after discharge, or by July 25, 1951. (Persons enlisting or reenlisting under the Armed Forces Recruitment Act of 1943 have up to four years from the end of their enlistment to apply for education or training, and nine years from same date to complete their training.) Education must be completed before July 25, 1956.

6. Apply for G. I. loans before July 25, 1957.

7. Appeals for reviews of discharges must be made within fifteen years after discharge.

8. Disability pension claims can be made any time within the lifetime of a disabled veteran.

9. Finally, applications for burial allowances should be made within two years from the death of the veteran.

What Do You Think?

What Do You Think of a Student Government Movement at Providence College?

C. J. Murphy (Freshman)

Student Government is necessary in all colleges. Many large schools are represented by a Student Council, why not here? One act they might accomplish is a revision of the present examination schedule.

Jay P. Rolison (Freshman)

I believe a lack of cooperation between the administration and students is evident here at P. C. An effective student government would do much to eliminate this condition.

Joe Cassidy (Senior)

I am definitely in favor of Student Government. Many things can be accomplished including a better method of examination procedure. However, the administration is under no obligation to offer the students such a representation.

Jerry McGurkin (Sophomore)

I believe that Student Government is a prime requisite in all colleges. Is there any reason why there should be an exception here at P. C.?

Ed Foley (Freshman)

Student representation would give the students a voice in the various activities of the College. It would also promote more interest in these affairs.

Lawrence Paul (Senior)

I believe that the students' complaints, etc., would be given more consideration than they would possibly be given without a separate council composed of students.

Roland Riccio (Senior)

Yes, by all means, perhaps the council could be influential in adding eight hours to the twenty-four day; we need it. But seriously, I believe that a Student Council would be a good idea for our rapidly-growing student body.

Robert Cappalli (Senior)

I do not believe in a Student Council. The students will "gripe" about everything if this council is formed. There will be much confusion and little will be accomplished by it. If a student has a complaint, take it directly to the Administration.

Gerald Miller (Junior)

A Student Council should consist of class officers. They have little to do during the year, except worry about when the next dance will take place. A Student Council would be helpful to everyone; the students, the officers and the college.

Senior Student To Represent P. C.

Providence College will be represented by Robert A. Smith, a Senior, at the National Catholic Conference on Family Life at Hartford, Conn., from March eighth to the tenth. Smith, a graduate of La Salle Academy, and a pre-med honor student, will discuss: "How My College Course of Studies Teaches Family Christian Living."

The conference, sponsored by the Family Life Bureau of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, will have as a general theme the Marriage Encyclical. Prominent Catholic educators will speak on the various aspects of the Christian Family including: Marriage counseling, dignity of a Christian Marriage, parent education as regards the pre-school and adolescent child and the School and the Family.

The Most Rev. Richard D. Cushing, D.D., LL.D., Archbishop of Boston, the Rev. Celestine Steiner, S.J., President of Xavier University, Cincinnati, O., and Sister M. Irmira, Ph.D., President of Albertus Magnus College, New Haven, Conn., will deliver addresses.

The Most Rev. Henry J. O'Brien, D.D., Bishop of Hartford, will open the Conference with a pontifical high Mass at St. Joseph's Cathedral in that city. During the course of the conference Bishop O'Brien will present medals to outstanding Catholic mothers.

I suppose I'm just an ignorant Freshman, but after seeing and hearing a certain name used as freely as "Kilroy's" and not knowing what it is all about, I now find myself again at sea as regards to the identity of one Cy Barker. So before I go completely whacky, please tell me who he is?

GEORGE STEVENS, '31.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Editors:

For a short period I thought that the Student Council had returned to Providence College and with it, ease of numerous student problems.

It was during this period that I visualized closer unity among the far flung ranks of day and dorm students. It was then that I pictured student control of student activities with a minimum of moderation and a maximum of cooperation from all the student body. Once again would students, representing all sections of the student body, meet in complete harmony and make efforts to discuss and solve the problems confronting the faculty and students alike.

Notices were posted that class officers meet to discuss the issue of student government. Though they met, the results were negligible. There is still no student government. If the so-called class leaders do not care to undertake the task, then, why not get others who will organize a student council and get it functioning for the benefit of all.

A student government; what a magnificent way to teach democracy to aspirant politicians and social leaders, long before they must undertake those obligations.

Yours in student government.

I wish to extend a hearty laugh and several loud guffaws to you for your excellent (?) handling of the Junior Prom band question.

Possibly, since the "prom" committee receives free admittance, you have no regard as to what the other fellow must pay. I'm sure your reward will appear in a smaller sale of bids than any of the preceding years.

Vet Doesn't Worry About Loss of Legs But Does 'Worry' About Exams, Etc.

Francis Crudele Wounded In Italy

A chronic worrier is not a totally strange person in this world of ours. Some people just have to worry or they cease to lead a normal life according to their way of thinking. Such a person is Francis Crudele, a 23-year-old Freshman Business student from North Providence.

Paradoxically, though, he doesn't worry about the one thing which, if he is a worrier by habit, would incline his thoughts to abysmal depths. Frannie is an amputee. Both his legs are off five inches below the knee.

He was wounded in Caserta, Italy, as the result of an impromptu bombing raid. But you would never know it from watching him walk around the corridors. Frannie is a determined, independent fellow, who knows what he wants out of life.

He is a married man and the father of a 2-year-old boy. Moreover, this softspoken, ex-serviceman could make a comfortably living solely on his singing ability, but right now he is content to live a quiet life, worrying about everything from daily quizzes to meeting his wife for the Thursday evening shopping for groceries.

But did he worry about the loss of his legs while spending over a year at the Walter Reed General Hospital? No. Instead, he was program director for the hospital, conducting shows over a local radio network three times a week. He concentrated on singing and "worrying" about staging a good show.

Frannie, who is a graduate of Hope High, '41, where he was featured in the "Hope, Hope, Arrays" was bent on a musical career until he was inducted into the Army, May '43. The intervening years were spent at Shepard's department store where he worked as an interior decorator while studying voice.

This song-loving soldier spent exactly twelve weeks in the States before being shipped overseas to the Allied Military Government Training School in Casablanca. Originally, Frannie's first duty in the Army involved service in a transportation company, but later he was classified as an interpreter because of his knowledge of Italian.

In November of '43 after a three-month training course in Casablanca, Frannie embarked for the land of his forefathers. But just eight days after landing in Italy, at five o'clock in the morning, a bomb blast severed his legs.

When he was hit and saw the extent of his injuries, thoughts of his mother and the fact that he would not be able to dance again seared his mind. But these thoughts were momentary. He began to pray. "I wanted to live," he said. He meant to say that he wanted to go on "worrying".

For the next 18 months his days were spent in various general hospitals; from Italy he went to Thayer General Hospital, Nashville, Tennessee, for observation, and then to Walter Reed for further treatment and fitting for artificial legs. Learning how to walk again was a trying task. Each day he would wear his new "legs" for varying lengths of time until he got used to having them on all day.

It was also while at Walter Reed that he met a girl from Texas who eventually became his wife. At the time she was in the employ of the F.B.I. in Washington, but she was just visiting patients at the hospital when Frannie turned the tables on her and "got his woman."

Meanwhile, back in Providence, Frannie's parents were totally unaware of their son's condition. He had written and said that he had a broken ankle, even went as far to send them pictures that showed him standing with other patients.

It wasn't until almost a year after the amputation that his parents knew the true story. He walked into the house at 5 o'clock in the evening with his crutches. He talked with his parents and two sisters until three in the morning. Then he told them. His mother's reaction was one of stunned shock, but then she recovered after reflecting on the spirit of her son who "didn't want to worry her."

He was discharged from Walter Reed in April of '45. A few weeks later he auditioned for a singer's spot at the "400 Club" in Washington. The engagement was supposed to last a week but this ballad singer stayed on for six months. However, he did take time out to marry the girl from Texas, the marriage being celebrated at the Walter Reed Catholic Post Chapel.

He received several offers to go on a singing tour after his successful run at the club but decided against it. One night stands and months away from his wife were not what he wanted. Frannie came back to Providence to lead a quiet life and to have children.

The Rhode Island Confederation of Musicians offered him a four-year voice scholarship, but after one year of study he decided to enter Providence College with an eye to entering a business career. Besides studying voice, he was on a daily radio program "Melodic Design" which was aired from one of the local stations. That still left him, he said, "with twenty three and a half hours with absolutely nothing to worry about."

Frannie became associated with many prominent people in the entertainment world while at Walter Reed and during his stay at the "400 Club". Helen Hayes in particular was a constant visitor of his at the hospital, and even today, corresponds with him regularly.

His hobbies are photography and reading, and to some extent pipe smoking. He has several pipes which he received as gifts from Perry Como when the latter was playing an engagement in Washington.

The interview with this chronic worrier ended on a note that was quite in keeping with the personality interviewed. Frannie was sorry, but he had to leave now; his wife was waiting for him to go shopping with her, and moreover, he had a history exam scheduled for the morning.

New Friars Take Oath

Friars Club Adds 3 More Members At Twentieth Anniversary Meeting

Three Freshmen were sworn into the Friars Club last week at a formal meeting which also marked the twentieth anniversary of the club's existence.

Stephen E. Marcucci of New Haven, Joseph A. Bouchard of Nashua, New Hampshire, and William J. Kerin of New Britain, Connecticut, took the Friar's oath, thus increasing the organization's membership to thirty.

The president of the Friars Club, Joseph R. Flynn, of Hamden, Connecticut, in recounting the history of the Club, told the members of the success now being enjoyed by the club's first officers in both the business and religious orders.

The Friar Club, whose activities extend to the welcoming of visiting athletic teams and ushering at the college's sporting and social events, came into existence mainly through the efforts of John E. Farrell, '26, former Graduate Manager of Athletics, and now executive secretary of the Rhode Island Medical Association.

Mr. Farrell, who is also a former president of the Alumni Association, was responsible to a marked degree for the success that Providence College enjoyed in athletic competition during the late twenties.

William H. Flynn, '28, the first president, is a Doctor of Medical Dentistry in New Haven and a prominent member of many civic organizations. Dr. Flynn is an uncle of the presiding president. Vice-president, F. T. McDermott, '28, is a Marine Insurance executive, and past president of the Alumni Association. His home is in Cranford, New Jersey.

Secretary, J. F. Waterson, '29, is a New London resident who worked as a teacher-coach in one of the city's schools, and at the present is associated, in an executive's capacity, as a member of the city's Employment Board. Treasurer, Edward J. McIsaac, is now Father McIsaac, Pastor of Saint Peter's Church, South Beloit, Illinois.

Following the formal ceremony of swearing in new members, a committee was formed to make arrangements for an outing to honor the members of this year's varsity basketball team. Edward T. Sullivan of Providence, was appointed chairman of the affair which is scheduled for the latter part of April.

Other committeemen assisting Sullivan are: Elmer Smith, '48, of Concord, New Hampshire; Roger Jackson, '50, of Waterbury, Connecticut; George Healy, '49, of Springfield, Mass.; Frank Conway, '49, of Jersey City, New Jersey; Joseph Goss, '49, of Springfield, Ohio; and Frank DiIuglio, '49, of New Haven.

Carolan Club Plans For Dorm Weekend

The resident club of Aquinas Hall announced more definite plans for the "Carolan Weekend" to be held Saturday, April 3, and Sunday, April 4, at a general meeting in the lounge last Thursday evening.

Previously it had been reported that an informal dance was to be staged on Friday evening, April 2. However, plans now call for a formal dance to be held on the following Saturday night, April 3.

Dancing will be held both in the lounge and in the Penguin Room. Several orchestras are being considered, but the final choice won't be made until later this month. A report from the Committee Chairman concluded the business meeting.

Frank DiIuglio, '49, announced that plans for the cocktail party on Saturday afternoon are progressing very satisfactorily. Joseph Cassidy, '48, gave a brief talk on the cost involved in the preparation of a buffet supper.

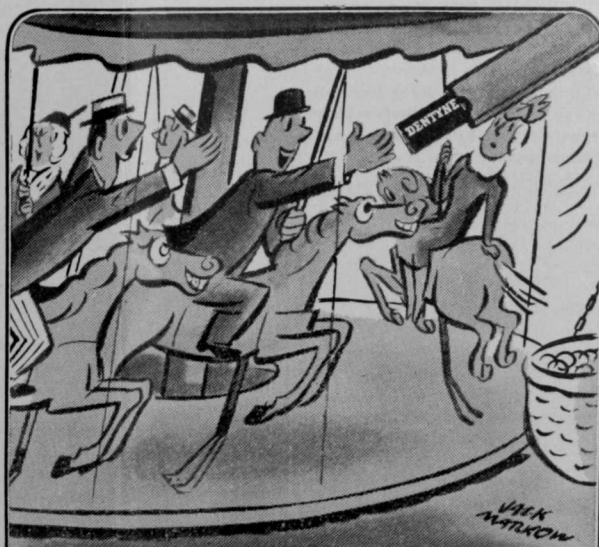

Art Rogers, '50, said that a "very liberal" discount on corsages can be obtained at a downtown floral shop. Owen Beatty, '50, in charge of obtaining a speaker for the Sunday afternoon lecture stated, "It is hoped that the president of the College will be available on that date."

A BALLPLAYER'S BALLPLAYER . . .

The greatest tribute that can be played an athlete is the simple statement—"He's a ballplayer's ballplayer." And it isn't a name that is thrown around freely or given to everybody in moments of lightheartedness. No, this is a name that is earned only after years of never tiring contributions, on the part of the individual so named, to all with whom he might come in contact on the field or in the gym.

It means that in addition to being a good athlete, that being taken for granted, the person so honored with this monicker must also be a leader, an aggressor, an example for others, a gentleman, and above all, an individual willing to forsake the limelight for the more tedious job of just playing.

Every sport has them but not as many as one might imagine. "Doc" Cramer, who is about to embark on his twentieth year in major league baseball and Frank Crosetti who only last week was returned to the active list of the New York Yankees after some 16 years of competition behind him are perhaps the outstanding examples of this type of athlete in the big leagues today.

Mel Hein, until a few years ago the perennial all-star center of the professional football leagues and now a coach, fits into this category nicely. Frank Brimsek of the Boston Bruins is perhaps professional hockey's front-runner for this nomination, and so on down the line. Every sport has at least one.

Perhaps you have noticed, of the major sports in this country, I have neglected to mention basketball. And for a good reason. All who may read this article have no farther to go in search of basketball's ballplayer's ballplayer than our own campus. There may be others in the basketball realm with as much right to this title, but I am sure that no other hoopster has more to offer, in the way of requirements, for this honor.

Until a better one comes, along and that's a remote possibility, my nomination for basketball's ballplayer's ballplayer is Capt. Ferd Sowa of the Providence College five. If you disagree, ask his teammates or coach, sometime—will you?

REMEMBER THAT SMOKER . . .

For all who want to enjoy a real evening of pleasure, mark down on your calendar in the seventeenth of March box a big S for smoker. On that date the Sophomore Class will present what should be, if the current list of events are an indication, one of the best programs of this or any other school year. Elsewhere on these pages will be found a list of events on the card for that date.

ROOKIE COACH OF THE YEAR . .

Forced to give up actual participation in basketball this year as the result of a hip injury, Walter Modzelewski of the Junior class ventured into the coaching field during the present basketball campaign. Offered the job as coach of St. Pius' quintet in the CYO Basketball League, Modzy quickly grasped the opportunity as he has always desired this type of work.

A few nights ago St. Pius won the game that practically clinched the championship in their division. The game was played before some 400 spectators, and the consensus of opinion among all was that St. Pius had a well drilled and well coached team. Walt is well on his way to realizing his ambition. He even gained a few grey hairs along the way.

Nissel Captain

Sam Nissel, high-scoring forward of the Providence College Freshmen quintet, was elected captain of the team at a recent meeting of squad members.

Nissel is leading the team in scoring, and has been a standout all year especially under the backboards, where he excels. He hails from St. Mary's, Pennsylvania.

LATE STATE RALLY TOPS FRIARS 79-61

For a full 29 minutes of playing time, over 4000 fans at the Rhode Island Auditorium roared their approval as Providence College outscored, outfought, and generally outplayed the favored R. I. State Rams. However, with terrifying suddenness, the famed State attack exploded. Suddenly, the Friars appeared fatigued, their defense faltered, and the Rams poured in 17 consecutive points before P. C. recovered enough to score.

Providence played the best brand of ball in the first half that they have exhibited all season. Sinking a very creditable percentage of their shots, the Friars kept the crowd on the edge of their seats as they battled neck and neck with the Rams. Leading 38-37 in the final second of the first half, Walt Lozoski sunk a sensational set shot from behind mid-court as the gun sounded giving P.C. a 40-37 half-time edge.

In the first nine minutes of the second half, the Providence attack didn't function too smoothly, but they managed to keep abreast of the Rams. Height and reserves can be designated as the chief causes of the Providence downfall. Early in the game, 6'5" Goodwin was being drawn out from under the hoop, but when Golembiewski, husky 6'3" Ram performer, was inserted the Rams had a big man both under the hoop and in the front court.

The Friars were unable to keep up with the fast pace set by State, and in the final eleven minutes the lack of reserve strength was the telling factor. Scalfani ran wild near the end, as he swished them from all angles. In the closing minutes State employed its well known freeze, and Providence was a beaten club.

Boxers Train for Sophomore Smoker

1947 Football Pictures, One Of Highlights On Program

By JACK SHEA

St. Patrick's Day will be observed on the Providence College campus in a manner that should be most pleasing to the fighting sons of Erin. Under the auspices of the Sophomore Class, a smoker, including six three-round boxing matches will be presented in Harkins Hall.

Plans for the Smoker have progressed smoothly, as a large number of men have shown their willingness to enter into combat. A training quarters has been set up in the locker room, and each afternoon the boys can be seen punching the bag, sparring, and doing other forms of strenuous exercise in an attempt to round themselves into top shape.

In addition to the student bouts, the committee is attempting to arrange an exhibition bout by a well-known local professional. Also included on the program are pictures of the Louis-Walcott fight, and the 1947 Football Review.

The following list of men are those who have expressed a desire to fight, and the actual participants will be chosen from among them:

BROWN TICKETS

Tickets for the Providence College-Brown University game at the Marvel Gym, Saturday night, are now on sale at the P. C. athletic office. This being P. C.'s home game, the Rev. Aloysius B. Begley, O.P., Athletic Director of Providence College, announced that students will be able to obtain tickets upon the presentation of their Athletic Cards.

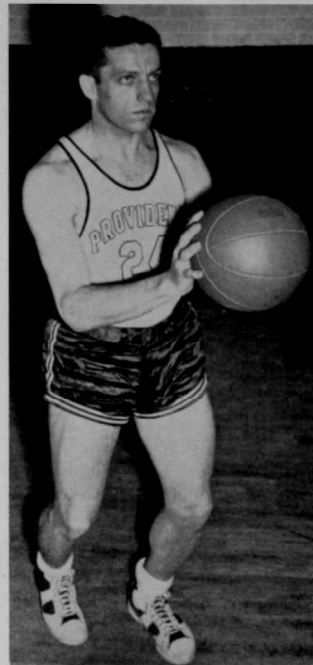

Tickets for non-students are also on sale at the A. A. Office for $1.20. The ticket sale will continue until noon Saturday. There will be no student tickets at the gate Saturday night.

RAMS NEED WIN FOR STATE CROWN FRIAR UPSET WILL PROLONG RACE

By DAVE CONNORS, Jr.

An underdog by some twenty points, to everybody but themselves, the Providence College Friars will invade the lair of the Rhode Island State Rams tonight and try to do what they failed to accomplish at the Auditorium two weeks ago and what Brown did accomplish last week. That is pin a defeat on the Rams of Frank Keaney.

Set for Action

Roy St. George

The Friars will enter the fray hoping to accomplish what everyone has designated as an impossibility until another year. The boys of Larry Drew are not supposed to win this game, especially since it is being played at Rodman Hall, long impenetrable to invaders. However, the Friars realize this and are going into the fray with the advantage of knowing that they have little to lose and everything to gain, a point that could be a decisive factor in the eventual outcome of the tilt.

In their last contest with the Rams the Friars hung on until the last nine minutes, when their lack of height, and even more important a scarcity of manpower, began to tell and they wilted before the continual onslaught of baskets propelled through the cords chiefly by Sal Scalfani and Ken Goodwin.

Height again tonight will continue to be a problem to Larry Drew and his boys, but the question of Friar endurance may not mean too much as the home court of the Rams is much smaller than the Auditorium, and it may be just short enough to allow the Friars to hang on for that final stretch drive.

Any chance of an upset tonight will depend on how well the Friars throttle Scalfani and Goodwin. Bruce Blount, capable of breaking out with a rash of baskets at any time, will also bear watching.

Larry Drew will probably go along with the same starting lineup that he has been sending out to answer the bell in the last four games. That would include Capt. Ferd Sowa at the pivot post, flanked by Ray St. George and Bill Littlefield at the forwards with "Cy" Killian and Walt Lozoski at the guard posts. This will be the last time that Sowa will face State on the basketball court. The Friar captain graduates in June. Sowa has yet to have played on a Friar varsity quintet that has come off the floor at the final bell a victor over State.

The P. C. Freshmen quintet will play the Ram yearlings in the preliminary, and the Friar Frosh will be out to score their second straight victory over the downstaters. A win will keep them in the running for the mythical R. I. Freshmen crown which will then be decided by the outcome of the P. C.-Brown Frosh tilt Saturday night.

Larry Drew will take his boys across

BOSTON COLLEGE DEFEATS P. C. 51-41 KENNY LEADS EAGLES WITH 14 PTS.

By VIN CINQUEGRANA, '48

For the second time this season Coach McClellan's clan, pushed along beautifully by some handy and opportune shooting by B.C.'s Danny Bricker, Carr, and Phil Kenny, put the damper on our hustling Friars to the tune of 51-41.

It developed, from the outset, into a contest of two teams battling under the stress of a terrific letdown after suffering heart-breaking setbacks from the country's best: B.C. by Holy Cross and P. C. by R. I. State.

In the opening stanzas the Eagles made the most of their not-too-frequent scoring opportunities to drag themselves into tedious 25-23 lead at intermission.

The bare two-point margin came as the result of a number of dazzling set shots by Charlie Bresnahan. The dependable Lozski, too, was not up to his usual efficiency, but the boys fought hard and desperate to the very end before succumbing eventually, 51-41.

The second half represented the perfect picture of frustration as the Friars drove in continually in an attempt to drag the game out of the fire. But Johnny Letvinchuk, Danny Bricker, and Phil Kenny thwarted most of these forays before the same Letvinchuk and Kenny departed from the game on fouls.

Kenny, incidentally, had a good night for himself as he racked up 14 points for B.C. Sowa and Bresnahan were the only Friars who scored with any consistency as both ended up with 10 markers for their evening's work.

State Game . .

town Saturday to do battle with the vastly improved Brown Bears at the Marvel Gym in a game which is designated as P. C.'s home game. The Bruins have come fast during the past month and only last week pulled the upset of the New England basketball season when they triumphed over Rhode Island State and convincingly at that.

The Bears got off to a slow start this season chiefly because they were being indoctrinated into the Bob Morris style of play. But in recent games they have displayed a brand of ball that will give any team trouble especially such a rival as P.C.

After this week's game the Friars have only a contest with Clark left on their schedule. With a present record of ten wins and seven defeats, the Drewmen have high hopes of improving that record with wins eleven, twelve and thirteen. Rhode Island State is definitely the biggest barrier that must be hurdled, but if the score soars as high as the Friars expectancies they could conceivably clear that first barrier tonight.

BASKETBALL CONTEST

John R. Kenney, '50, of Pawtucket, won the shoes offered by Paul's Shoe Store for the closest guess of the score between P. C. and State. His prediction was 77-63.

Steve Brannon, '48, of Providence, tied Kenney as far as the nearness of score, 78-64, but lost the decision at the flip of a coin. As a consolation prize he was awarded two pairs of socks.

U.S. Looking For Kramer Substitute

ABSOLUTE SUPERIORITY of American amateur tennis players may get a rather rude shock come next summer when the challenge rounds of the Davis Cup tournament begin.

At the time of this writing, the U. S. is glaringly barren of an outstanding number one player—deficit caused when lanky Big Jack Kramer deserted the ranks of the simon-pures for the play-for-pay circuits.

From the looks of things, it will be Frankie Parker, Ted Schroeder, Gardnar Mulloy and Tom Brown carrying the Red, White and Blue into international battle. However, the elimination tournament which opens in May for the U. S. players may cause a few eyebrows to be lifted.

Youthful Dick "Pancho" Gonzales, the California court wizard who bumped Parker from the Pacific-Southwest tourney last year may move into the Davis Cup circles through the May matches. Not to be discounted are other outstanding American amateurs such as Jimmy Brink, Billy Talbert, Bob Falkenburg, Herbie Flam and Budge Patty, any of whom might turn the trick.

But although the defending champions will enter the Cup play as odds-on favorites, they will meet no end of trouble from foreign net aces.

In the singles divisions, 6-foot, 7-inch Yvon Petra, 1946 Wimbledon titlist, will carry the tri-color of France far into advance rounds. Czechoslovakia's brilliant Jaroslav Drobny, Hungary's Joseph Asboth, Australians John Bromwich and Adrian Quist and Sweden's Torsten Johansson will all have their hats in the giant ring.

Doubles competition will be the more rugged side for the U. S. representatives. Top trouble will be offered by the "Down Under" pair already mentioned, with the bid of Johansson and Lennert Bergelin. Sweden's smooth crowd-pleaser, not far behind.

Harps, Purple Aces and Conquerors Win Intramural Division Crowns

By VIN CLARK, '51

"Larry" Drew, head basketball coach and director of Intramural Athletics, inaugurated the Intramural League Round Robin play last night, when he officiated the game between "A" champions, the Harps, and the Division "B" champions, the Purple Aces. Both teams have spotless records with seven wins apiece.

Tomorrow night the Purple Aces will go against the Conquerors champion of the "Dorm" Division, who also have a spotless record. This should be the fastest game of them all because the Conquerors and the Aces are past masters of the fast break. The final game will be played Friday night, March 5th, between the winner of last night's playoff and tomorrow's. All games will start at 7:15.

FINAL STANDINGS

INTRAMURAL MUSES:

One of the Pre-Molars, probably looking for a little future "business," took a swing at Dolan of the Woonsocket Flyers during a game a week ago Thursday; but "Larry" Drew stepped in and stopped proceedings with his usual aplomb. How can McKnight of the Purple Aces run up and down the floor the way he does without breathing like a worn-out blast furnace? Did anyone notice who ranks one-two in "A" Division? The Irish to the front. Some people say there's nothing in a name, but how about the Sloshshooters and the Conquerors? The Sloshshooters wound up in the cellar in "A" Division while the Conquerors captured first place in the "Dorm" League. "Bill" Doyle, pivot man of the second place Seagrams quintet, broke the scoring record with a new high of 31 points; and five days later he duplicated it with a 14-goal, three foul effort. Burns of Fall River had the previous high of 28 points. Paul Doonan pushed in 33 points one day last week but they don't count because his team, the Woonsocket Flyers, played with an ineligible man thereby forfeiting the game.

LAST WEEK'S GAMES:

Harps 40, Shamrocks 38
Before the largest crowd yet to see an Intramural League game, the Harps squeaked by the Shamrocks to clinch first place in "A" Division. It was a hard fought game all the way, for a Shamrock win would have resulted in a first place tie between these two classy teams. The Harps' seventh straight win was due to their superior height which will also be an important factor in the coming Round Robin Tournament. Horan and Arzoomian led the Harp scorers with ten points apiece while Nocera netted eleven points for the losing Shamrock quintet.

Seagrams 55, Pre-Molars 41

Although "Bill" Doyle wasn't up to par (he only netted 30 points in this game instead of his usual 31), the "g6 proofers" defeated the Pre-Molars and finished in a tie for second place in "A" Division. In his last three games Doyle has hooped 92 points most of them by his overhead hook shot. Reuter helped the Seagram cause by sinking 13 points, and Lonergan dropped in 17 points for the losing "tooth extractors."

Jokers 36, Blackouts 28

The Jokers took undisputed possession of second place in "B" Division today by downing the Blackouts 36-28. Trailing at half-time, 18-15, the Jokers poured on the coal in the second half to knot the count and then go on to win. As usual T. Gallogly was high scorer for his team, this time with 14 points. Fachada played a fine game for the Blackout quintet and was their high scorer with four goals and a brace of successful foul completions.

"DORM" DIVISION

Conquerors	5	0
Hilltoppers	5	1
Pajama Kids	3	1

Conquerors 37, Hilltoppers 35

The championship game in the Dorm Division produced the most thrilling contest of the season. The Conquerors, the majority of whom are freshmen, defeated the Hilltoppers, a group of Connecticut sophomores, 37-35 in an overtime affair. At the end of the regulation contest the score was 33-33, but the Conquerors notched four points in the five minute overtime period and held their opponents to one field goal to cop the "Dorm" Division crown.

"Joe" Beatrice paced the victors by netting 17 points while Leo Bisson tallied 16 in a losing cause. The victors are undefeated in five games and never were seriously threatened by any opponent previous to this game. Beatrice and Owen Beatty led the Conqueror attack throughout the season by averaging 15 and 13 points respectively per game.

DORM . . . ... DIARY

As a prelude to the weekly column, I wish once more to call your attention to our annual Carolan Club, week-end. This function has been formally presented in the past with all due pomp and splendor, but this time we are possessed with unusual means for our major social function and intend to take complete advantage of them. With our increased membership and correspondingly increased attendance (we hope), we can provide more and varied entertainment. I wish to state that a program of this type can be carried to a successful conclusion only by your fullest co-operation. This co-operation should be akin to that shown in the latest episode involving a certain member of the sheep family.

Highlights: Esposito's Barber Shop is in full swing. . . Iadorola made second assistant. . . An up and coming youngster is one, Antel, who is always in there pitching. . . Carmen Lombardi shows the spirit of a true "dormite". . . Owen Beatty currently seen wearing a big smile. . . Art Kavanaugh set to go on week-end. . . Mr. Bresnahan collecting certain dues on the top floor. . . Larry DePalma and Flaherty have certainly become a credit to the "Rock". . . Della Valle outshines Joe Cassidy with his bow ties. . . Frank Higgins and "Boxer" having complications. . . Sidelights: Thanking Fred Higgins for his work. . . Charlie Heyden studying the club constitution. . . Bob Moore featuring the black knits. . . Arnold Bernabei not seen too often with his side-kick, Lou Martino. (Say Lou, you're certainly an operator.). . . Burton Silver still remains as one of the efficient waiters. . . Bill Carroll supervising fine work in mess hall. . . Hoping John O'Hurley's suggestion pays off. . . Puggy Barrett and Bill Curran should get to-gether. . . Joe Bouchard continually giving E. Funds. . . Believe John Garvey liked "Gentleman's Agreement". . . Arthur Baker still remaining the quiet, silent type. . . Big Doings: The Boston Club under Fran Coughlin is planning big deals (good luck, Fran). . . Dick Maloney, Bill White and the rest of the mighty "mights" have been scheming (watch for results). . . Two peas in a pod, Skip Thibert and Al Carriero came thru with "foremornings". . . Fast Facts: Harold Fagan and Jim Cahill are now on the right path and have recuperated completely. . . Juniors and Seniors forget your plans for this Sunday. (What will Sal Sica do?) Say Sal, he certainly is a cute little thing. . . Jim Dunlevy stays til the last moment (we don't blame you one bit, Jim). Deane DeAugustine surprised us all by wearing green tie and brown jacket. . . Off the Record: Radstone planning trips in the future to Springfield. . . Lyke wearing union badge. . . Riverdale and New Haven invited weekly. . . DeFilippo in a "slump" after not getting in the act. (Possibly next year, kid). . . Last Minute Scoops: George Healey, the kid from Cal, really is in there pitching. . . Joe Goss planning on March 30th. . . Vinnie Messler ready to give support anytime. . . That does it until next week; try to keep this in mind:

There is no sense in having an argument with a man so stupid he doesn't know you have the better of him. . .

tus Magnus Hall—and an Alumni reception will be conducted.

Governor John O. Pastore, Mayor Dennis J. Roberts, representatives of other Rhode Island and New England colleges, ecclesiastical dignitaries, honorary alumni, alumni and students are expected to participate in the ceremony honoring Father Suarez.

Father Suarez was born November 5, 1895, in Campomanes, Asturias, Spain. He took the Dominican habit on August 28, 1913, and was professed the following year. He took degrees in philosophy and theology at Salamanca University, being graduated with honors. After further study at the University of Madrid, Father Suarez earned another degree in Theology and one in civil law, receiving both doctorate degrees summa cum laude.

He was called to the Angelicum in Rome for teaching and further study and while there took the Rota course and wrote for a thesis, "De Remotione Parachorum," which is now regarded as a classic in Canon Law. He was the Promotor of Justice in the Dominican Curia, Consultor to the Sacred Congregations of the Council, the Sacraments, and the Oriental Church, member of the Vigilance Committee for Ecclesiastical Tribunals on Matrimonial Cases, Consultor to the Roman Commission on the Interpretation of the Code, Advocate of the Sacred Rota as well as Defensor Vinculi for that body, and a prosynodal judge of the Tribunal of the Roman Vicariate. He is an accomplished linguist and knows Spanish, German, French, English and Italian.

success of this year's musical might be assured.

He believes that the list of potential performers is large. All that is needed is that these candidates visit the Pyramid Players' office in Donnelly Hall, or report at a meeting of the Society.

Present plans call for the musical to be built around the various individual acts. Such a method should make for the best possible distribution of parts in proportion to the talent available. The result should be a well-balanced and smoothly functioning presentation.

Some scenarios are under consideration by the selection board but the final choice awaits the arrival of the expected musical talent. A rush of candidates would be most gratifying to the Pyramid Players!

Chinese coolie the equality of a college president. It is the fact that both are created by the same God to enjoy Him fully for all eternity. Is it not heartening to us as Americans to realize that what man is before God, he is before the Constitution of the United States?"

Father Slavin concluded his talk by declaring that tolerance must be replaced by brotherly love.

"It is this personal dignity that enables us to become strong links in this great chain of brotherhood. We meet not with the vacuity of tolerance but with the warm flame of brotherly love."
