Cowl Reporter Now Salesman Tells Trials Of Ticket-Selling

It was with a feeling of great confidence that the salesman left his house on Saturday morning. He had planned his movements with the utmost care; he had decided how he would approach each of his prospective customers, how he would present his sales-talk, how he would break through the customer's line of resistance with a most impassioned plea, and finally, the customer having surrendered to his most impassioned pleas, he would whip out his book and ask: "And how many tickets for the Providence College Building Fund Raffle will you take?"

He decided that the best place to start would be at the house of his next-door neighbor, since he and the neighbor were on the best of terms at the present moment. Ignoring the deep snow in the front walk he strode confidently to the door and greeted the neighbor cheerily. He should have

O.S.P. DONATIONS

Five dollar donations were presented by the Blackstone Valley Club and the Junior Veridames to the Student Congress for the benefit of the Overseas Service Program. The Student Congress also acknowledged the services of the Veridames Choral for its splendid cooperation at the O.S.P. concert held in Harkins Hall on Dec. 6. To date $276.00 has been collected for the O.S.P. More, much more, is direly needed.

Students Urged To Sell More Tickets

The Christmas holidays offer an opportunity to sell the tickets for the drawing to be held in February to gain funds for the grotto and the gymnasium which is planned. Father McKenna requests that the students also be alert to secure prizes for this drawing. Seven hundred prizes are needed each of which must have a retail value of at least ten dollars. Each prize donated will be acknowledged in the official program, the donor being listed in the column opposite the prize. The advertisements in the program will be unpaid ads, the space of each advertisement being allotted according to the value of the prize donated.

Placards describing the tickets and the Penny Sale are now available. If anyone has an opportunity to have one of these placards displayed in a store he is asked to do so since it will be a means of helping to sell the tickets and of advertising the Penny Sale.

Lawyer Guild Hears Richard O'Sullivan Tonight At College

Richard O'Sullivan, K.C., prominent British lawyer and a member since 1939 of the General Council of the (English) Bar, of which he is chairman of the external relations committee, will be the speaker at a meeting of the Lawyers' Guild of the Thomistic Institute of Providence College tonight at 8:15 o'clock.

Mr. O'Sullivan will speak at an open meeting of the Guild in the amphitheatre of the Albertus Magnus Science Hall on the college campus, before representatives of the Guild, members of the Alumni Association, faculty and guests. Mr. O'Sullivan has written numerous books and has been co-author of several other texts on English law. He has also contributed to the publications of many English learned societies.

It is the request of the Administration that each of the college organizations have representation at the Thomistic Institute Lecture tonight. The Rev. Edward H. Schmidt, O.P., faculty adviser to the Student Congress, pointed out, "While this lecture should have a general cultural appeal, it is worthy of the special attention of pre-legal and social science students."

Prominent Alumni Expected To Attend Kent County Frolic

Close to one hundred Kent County alumni, many of them prominent civic and professional leaders in Southern Rhode Island, are expected to be among those participating at the Kent County Club's informal Holiday Frolic December 27. Final plans for the fete, to be held at the Valley Club, on Ledgmont, New London Avenue, Warwick, were made last Wednesday at a business session held by the club at the Show Boat in Coventry.

The appointment of George McKenna, '50, of West Warwick, as chairman of the ticket committee was announced by Raymond Levesque, '50, co-chairman of the social committee who had charge of all dance business during the meeting. McKenna disclosed today that many of the alumni have already been contacted. Serving on his committee are: Victor Ellison, '52, club treasurer; Robert E. Maynard, '50; and William F. Varr, Jr., '52, publicity committee member.

Prior to consideration of dance business, the members voted to contribute, as a group, to the O. S. P. fund, the amount of the donation to be determined after dance profits have been realized.

The Rev. Joseph M. Sherer, O.P., moderator, addressed the club briefly, encouraging them to continue their policy of meeting in various sections of Kent County. He said that this was the best way of keeping in touch with the various members.

The Holiday Frolic, to which students, alumni, and friends of P. C. are invited, will be the first opportunity (Continued on Page 6)

Co-Captains Walter Lozowski and Art Weinstock will also have a few words to say on just how they plan to lead the Friar forces to victory over Rhode Island State.

Blessed Jane Topic For Tertiary Talk

The Third Order of Providence College held its monthly meeting Sunday, Dec. 11, at Aquinas Hall chapel. After the Rosary was sung, the Rev. John C. Rubba, O.P., gave a talk on Blessed Jane, the mother of St. Dominic. Father Rubba stressed the importance of detachment from worldly things by showing how material riches did not hinder Blessed Jane. Rich or poor, he said, sanctity is possible.

Of great importance is the need of many more members for the Third Order. Father Rubba sends an earnest (Continued on Page 5)

PRESIDENT'S CHRISTMAS MESSAGE

To Our Student Body:

Poverty, humility and suffering—who wants to hear about these things at this joyous time of the year? Are there not happier things to talk about at this holiday season when all the world is celebrating? But what is the world celebrating if not the fact that One Who made the riches of the earth became poor, One before Whose kingly throne legions of angels are prostrate, humbled Himself, suffered and died, that One became a Man of Sorrows, suffering hardships and rebukes from the cradle to the Cross and why? Out of love for us. To appease the anger of His Father at the sin of Our father Adam. To restore us to friendship with God. People of today pride themselves on being able to face facts. As reasonable men, there must be an answer to the question—why all this celebration of Christmas? We are celebrating the return of the human race to the friendship of God, made possible by the birth of Christ. It is up to each individual whether or not this birth will secure for him happiness or misery. We were redeemed without our consent but we will not be saved without our being moved by Divine Grace. Thus, it is that poverty, humility and suffering become marks of a true Christian and true follower of Christ. Money, power and ambition are essential to success in the eyes of the world. In the eyes of Christ, they can become hindrances to our salvation. Pride is a source of sin that keeps us from God and that is why we need to be humble, for Christ Himself has told us that “unless you become as little children you cannot enter into the Kingdom of God.” In order to escape suffering, some seek unbridled pursuit of comfort and amusement. You know the words of Christ: “If any man will be my disciple, let him take up his cross and follow Me.”

My message to you at this time is very simple. Be generous with Christ, enjoy the good things of life as He wants you to enjoy them but be prepared to suffer the hardships, the disappointments and heartaches that come into every life. The only thing in the world that really matters is your answer to the question: Is there room in the inn of my heart for Christ? If not, then we are celebrating when we should be grieving. Our joy is not sincere but only put on. It is only when we put on Christ and love Him with our whole hearts and our whole strength and with all our heart that we have reason to celebrate Christmas. May the Saviour and Redeemer of the human race bring to you and your loved ones at home the joy, and happiness of a true Christmas.

ROBERT J. SLAVIN, O.P.

— Campus Quips —

By D. Shea and B. Simpson

The most blatant of all contemporary contradictions is found in the cry of those who would not outlaw the Communist Party in the United States.

Rising above the clamor of the consumer for lower living costs; above the clamor of the worker for higher wages, we hear the cry of our liberal proponents of freedom of assembly and speech. They are pleading not for themselves, not for people who have been deprived unlawfully of these freedoms, but for those who have already relinquished these privileges to a foreign dictatorship. The Communist Party in the United States is nothing more than a subversive Soviet Agency. It is not composed of American Citizens, it is composed of ex-American Citizens. What calls itself the American Communist Party, and is more accurately described in the Constitution of the Third International as a “section” of the International, is an illegal organization, pledged to illegal methods, to secrecy, and at the right moment to engage in armed rebellion.

This, then, is what our liberals seek; indulgence and toleration for a seductive organization, avowedly pledged to violent overthrow of our government. The principal argument of these people is that by outlawing the Communist Party in the United States, we will drive them underground. And yet, according to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the larger part of the Communist Party is now underground. If this be true (and the F. B. I. should know) then the pattern which the Communists followed in all of those countries now behind the Iron Curtain is taking place again.

It is in the form of a pincers, one section above ground, one below ground. That pincers certainly will not be strengthened if we cut off one arm of it. Furthermore, we would cut off the most seductive and enfolding arm since, if attacked with the curse of outlawing, the Communists would lose their appeal to the most part of our population. By outlawing the Communist Party, we would also assure the uncertain segment of our population, that Communism and Communists are evil and should be avoided.

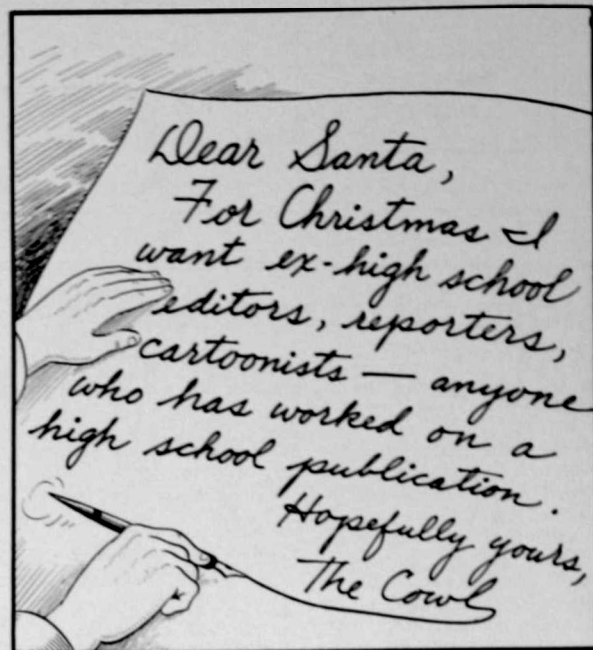

And some ask if this is denial of liberty or preservation of liberty. Our government denies lepers and other people afflicted with some type of contagious, physical disease the right of social intercourse. These people are sick, not because they wanted to be sick, but because that is their lot. If they can be socially isolated, then why can't the government isolate a person who has a contagious intellectual disease, the growth of which he has willfully incurred and dutifully nurtured.

The critics of stringent legislation against Communists are constantly shouting that outlawing cannot be accomplished, that it is unconstitutional. However, it can be accomplished. As to the unconstitutionality of such legislation, we ask by what right the Communists seek Constitutional protection? The effectiveness of government is based upon the realization and performance of rights and duties by both government and the governed. Do Communists recognize their duties to our country and to our society? No, they don't; nor does any criminal. Do we hear our lucid liberals shouting for the repeal of our criminal laws regarding counterfeiting or forgery or murder? Obviously not. Why, then, should we allow the Communists to run rampant.

If we are to be just to the citizenry of our nation, then we should protect not a seditious, anarchical minority, but that larger segment of our population which is actually indigenous to our society. Exploit the exploiter indeed! Exploit the Communists.

“The fool and his gold soon part.” The fool and his freedom will part just as quickly.

N.B.—We will be perfectly willing to publish and answer any letter written on this or any other controversial document.

LETTER TO SANTA CLAUS

Dear Santa Claus,

We on the COWL want something special for a Christmas present this year. We're writing to you with the hope that somewhere deep down in your bag of presents you can find that something special for us. What we're looking for under our tree this Christmas is grade A material for the staff of the COWL.

Santa, you needn't bother about getting us sensational news stories, witty features or untried jokes. We'll try to find them on and about the campus ourselves. We won't expect hints from you on correct punctuation or a few volumes on the art of fine writing (though they might come in handy, at that).

No, Santa, what the COWL needs, frankly, is experienced men for its staff. If you could leave us some former editors of high school newspapers, former newswriters, former columnists and former cartoonists, why, you'd be doing us a real service. You'd help to make this a really, worthwhile Christmas for the COWL and its staff.

If you could gratify our wish, Santa, you'd be helping to bring about a better paper for the College. If our present staff were expanded by the addition of experienced writers, there would naturally result a wider coverage of school affairs, a better balance in the news, a more critical selection of stories, and a general improvement in the paper.

There you have it, Santa, that's what we want for Christmas for the COWL. We realize that this letter is only one among millions that you will receive before Dec. 25. We know, of course, that you must cover the entire world in an attempt to satisfy the desires of millions. But if it is at all possible, Santa, send us some experienced writers, please.

In hopeful anticipation,

COWL EDITORS.

THE NEW YEAR

We, of the COWL, take this opportunity to extend to the students and faculty of Providence College our season's greetings.

During the Christmas season the doors of the patriarchal basilicas will open wide, signifying the start of a New Year, a Holy Year. Faced by a world of stormy violence between the forces of good and evil, our Holy Father has maintained and expressed the optimism that the New Year would “bring peace to mankind.”

That is why we, of the COWL, presume to wish each and all, pessimist or optimist, a Merry Christmas and a prosperous, Holy New Year.

Party, Meeting Held By Blackstone Club

The Blackstone Valley Club held a special party-meeting last Friday evening at the Irish-American Hall in Pawtucket.

A prayer, led by John Egan, '50, president of the club, opened the meeting. President Egan then called upon Tom Holleran, '50, chairman of the Harvest Hop held in November by the club. Tom, in his report, stated that the dance was very successful and thanked all who helped him in making the dance a success. Treasurer John Grimes, '52, then gave his report in which he urged that members who have not paid their dues should contact him. Dues must be paid if active membership in the club is to be maintained.

During a business discussion following the treasurer's report, it was agreed to hold a dance in January following the end of the mid-year exams. The committeemen chosen for the dance are: Chairman, Tom McDonald, '50, Patrick McGreevey, '50, Edward French, '51, and William McMahon, '52.

A motion was made and passed unanimously to donate $5.00 to the O.S.P. A second O.S.P. donation is planned from the proceeds of the coming January dance.

A card tournament followed the meeting with Robert Hines, '52, conducting the affair. The tournament team of Ratty & McMahon, after eliminating Rogers & Miga in the semi-final round, fell victims to the winning combination of Pollet & Galin. Money prizes were awarded the winners and runners up.

The club extends a special vote of thanks and appreciation to Frank McCabe, '50, who hired the hall and had charge of the refreshments.

"Half the legislature are crooked", ran a glaring headline.

A retraction in full was demanded of the editor.

Next afternoon the headline read: "Half the legislature are not crooks!"

UNBEATEN FRIARS MEET STATE TOMORROW

♦ ♦ ♦ SPORTS PANORAMA ♦ ♦ ♦

By Dave Connors, Jr.

THIRTEEN...

When the Providence College Friars basketball forces roll on to the Auditorium playing surface tomorrow night they will be in quest of their first victory over Rhode Island State since the 60-54 win in the 1941-42 campaign. Since that time twelve games have gone by the boards and each time it has been the Rams of R. I. State who have walked off the floor with all the marbles, as the saying goes.

If you are looking for good or bad omens, Rhode Island State will be seeking its thirteenth straight victory over P. C. There are many who shudder at the thought of thirteen. This could be a good omen for P. C. and a bad one for State. However, I doubt if that makes much difference to the players.

No matter how you try to figure this game, in the final analysis it will be the players on the floor who will decide the final outcome. State, despite its two defeats, still has a very formidable crew. P. C. despite its three victories has not displayed the brand of basketball that it is capable of playing. If both teams are 'on' tomorrow night, this game could turn out to be one of the best in the long series.

If there is any inspirational edge at all, I would be inclined to give it to P. C. The Friars are the underdogs, they are hungry for a victory, and more important than all they are undefeated. For the first time in years the P. C. players can lineup at the start and know that they boast the best record as far as victories and defeats are concerned. State will be trying to put a blemish on the Friar record. Usually it is the other way around.

State boasts two outstanding men on its first quintet. Leon Golembiewski and Bruce Blunt, the Co-Capt. are outstanding basketball players. Blount is the scoring threat of the Rams while Golembiewski is invaluable under the backboards where most games are won and lost. P. C. does not depend upon any one man to carry the load. The best P. C. bet off the boards is Frank Pelligrino who for his size does a magnificent job. Both Golembiewski and Blount are bigger and heavier than Pelligrino. If the P. C. Junior can successfully combat his bigger adversaries in the rebound department, the Friars could go all the way. Co-Capt. Art Weinstock is another Friar that will be in the scramble under the boards against bigger opponents. His job under the defensive boards is an unsung one but what happens under there might mean the ball game.

Up front Sam Nissel and Ray Garcia the scoring threats will have to be sharp. They can put the ball through the hoop when given the chance. If these two men find the hoop with regularity the load will be lightened.

Last but not least, keep your eyes on P. C.'s quarterback, Co-Capt. Walt Lozoski. Always a great performer, Lozoski always has a tremendous performance in reserve for the Auditorium games. One year he was leading the Friar quintet to a victory until he was forced out of the game in the last two minutes. Another year he tied the score at halftime with a tremendous shot from behind the center line. That

P.C. Freshman Team Nips Marianapolis

By John Salesses

Bob Prendergast's field goal in the closing seconds of the game provided the Freshmen team with the margin of victory, 54-53, over Marianapolis at the Mount Pleasant gym last Wednesday night.

A capacity crowd watched the Frosh quintet come back strongly in the closing minutes of the highly exciting game. With three minutes remaining in the contest and the score 50-44 in favor of Marianapolis, Powers, Prendergast, Kirby and Sao Bento became instrumental in whittling the score to 51-50. An exchange of foul shots high-lighted by two from Powers tied the score at 52-52 with 45 seconds to go. Then came Prendergast's winning field goal followed by a successful charity toss by Marianapolis.

After the lead exchanged hands several times in the first half, Marianapolis led by Dyer and Cordone raced into a seven point lead at half-time by scoring eight points in the last minute and a half. The score at half-time was Marianapolis 32, Providence 25.

Taking up where they left off in the first half, Marianapolis went ahead by ten points to lead 37-27. Led by Bell, Kirby, Powers, Reidy and Prendergast the score was tied at 37-37. The Marianapolis quintet then went on to lead 50-44 before the Martin-men overhauled them for their first decision in two games played.

Powers, Reidy, Bell, Prendergast and Kirby were the outstanding performers for Providence. Beaver Powers was the high scorer for the Freshmen with 13.

The next game for Hal Martin's crew will be with the Rhode Island State freshmen at the R. I. Auditorium tomorrow night. This should be one of the better games of the year.

The ticket sale for the Providence College-Rhode Island State game tomorrow night at the Auditorium will close for P.C. students at three o'clock in the athletic office. All tickets will be returned to the Auditorium at that time. Tickets will be on sale at the Auditorium right up until game time.

R.I. Ram Here Again Sees P.C. Defeated

By Rambling Ram

One of the strangest things in the Rhode Island sports scene is how the students at Providence College allow themselves to be convinced each year that their Friar quintet actually has a good chance of beating the Rhode State Rams. Believe it or not, they are at it again this year at the Dominican institution. Once more the prevalent cry is that this is the year P.C. will down State. The funniest thing of all is that the Friar supporters are holding up their unbeaten record as evidence of the fact that Providence is stronger than State.

Let us analyze this great undefeated record. P.C. has actually met and barely defeated three of the weakest college teams in New England. Anyone who can get elated over defeating Assumption by 9 points, Fairfield by 1 point, and A.I.C. by 3 points is certainly very easily pleased. To top it off, Providence looked far from good in squeezing out victories in these games, and if a club can't look good against that kind of opposition I hesitate to imagine how they will look against the first legitimate college team they face.

Also being held up as evidence that State is in for a licking is the fact that they have already dropped two games this year. However, it must be considered that they lost to two of the strongest teams in this section of the country. The Boston College squad that downed Rhode Island last week is reputed to be one of the strongest in New England, and thus far they have lived up to all expectations. Losing to St. John's in the Garden last Saturday can hardly be considered a black mark against any team. St. John's is supposedly the class of the New York area this season, and therefore perhaps on a par with any team in the nation.

Let's not forget that State knocked off strong St. Joseph's of Philadelphia earlier in the season. St. Joseph's is in a class far above that of P.C. What this comparison of records amounts to is the fact that State has been playing in the major leagues while P.C. has been struggling along in a low class minor league.

In the question of height, State will not hold as great an advantage as it has in the past. However, they still have 6'3" Golembiewski and 6'3" Bruce Blount. Golembiewski is a far better

RAMS FAVORED IN AUDITORIUM P.C. OUT TO PROTECT RECORD

By Francis Kane

Tomorrow evening in the Rhode Island Auditorium at 8:30 the basketball men of Providence College will face-off against their greatest rival, Rhode Island State College. This game, which will be preceded by a preliminary contest between the freshmen squads of the respective schools, is annually the most important single occasion on the P. C. athletic calendar. On the outcome of the contest hinges a large measure of the success or failure of each individual season for the Friars.

This game, which is the 30th meeting between the two rivals, promises to be a thriller as so many others have been down through the years. Actually from the standpoint of the won and loss column, State is far ahead with 23 victories to six for Providence. But as so often is the case in traditional rivalry, the record is no absolute indication of the ferocious battles waged in many of the individual games. The game will also mark the opening of competition for the 1949-1950 Rhode Island State Championship.

Undoubtedly at game time, the forces of Rhode Island State will be rated a slight favorite despite their 1-2 record. This will come as a result of the slightly superior competition encountered by them to date. But do not underestimate the calibre of the team that the Friars have beaten as they have provided a very satisfactory brand of opposition. In fact the fine play of these teams has been a great help to Coach Vin Cuddy in his preparation for this game.

Coach Cuddy is expected to rely on the following for duty as shock troops: Co-Capt. Walt Lozoski and Art Weinstock, Ray Garcia, Sam Nissel and Frank Pelligrino. However, he will undoubtedly have to draw heavily on his seemingly adeboard man than anyone P.C. has had since Cy Killian became ineligible. Aided by Blount, he should effectively control the boards for State. These two men will be ably assisted by such players as Shannon, Hole, Mitchell, and Stewart. All of these boys are fine ball handlers and have proven their superiority to P.C. men in the past. Such Providence players as Pelligrino, Nissel, Schlamm, Korbusieski, Garcia, and Lozoski are admittedly fairly good, but fairly good is not good enough when playing a team of State's caliber.

I am afraid that it will be the same old story of recent years. Fans who go out to the Auditorium, Thursday evening, expecting a Friar triumph are in for a rude surprise. I predict that State will not only win but that they will win with such ease that it will be enough to convince even the most ardent P.C. fan that this Friar quintet is still a far cry from the powerful Providence teams of the past.

Pete Louthis Pleased With Ring Sessions

Once again, the locker room of Harkins Hall is a beehive of activity, as Coach Pete Louthis is conducting daily workouts with his intramural boxing hopefuls. Most of the fellows, though inexperienced, have displayed an eagerness to learn the fundamentals of intercollegiate boxing as taught them by their very capable coach.

About 25 fellows have signed up for the program thus far, including Oscar Peters, P. C.'s only winner in last year's bouts with Dartmouth, Bill McCaughey, and Frank Kilbride, both of whom fought last year. The majority of the fellows who have signed up thus far are freshmen. Coach Pete Louthis would like to have more candidates, especially upperclassmen. Although this year's turnout is more encouraging than last year's, Louthis needs more fellows if he is to carry through the elaborate plans which he has for intramural boxing shows.

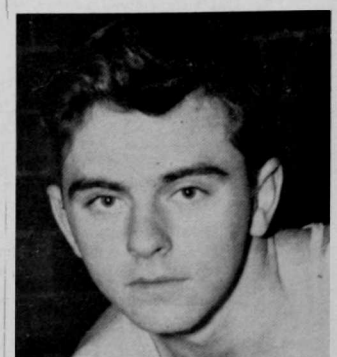

He has again stated that experience is not necessary, for the fighters will be matched according to weight and experience. It is essential that the fellows report for the practice sessions immediately, in order that they get in shape for their bouts.

ART WEINSTOCK

quate reserve strength to be able to maintain the wicked pace that is usually set by State teams. Performance in the past three games has given indication that Cuddy will be able to draw on these reserves at will as they appear more than adequate. This depth, plus a fine spirit and will to win, which has been much in evidence in the teams performance to date, should provide enough to execute a sensational upset. Certainly the veterans of the squad will be giving their all to gain this victory.

In Rhody's camp, a State of uneasy

Many Thrills During R. I. State-P. C. Series

By DICK BOULET

Tomorrow night at the R. I. Auditorium, an underdog Providence College quintet will take on the Rams of Rhode Island State in the 30th renewal of the interstate rivalry. In attempting to preserve their undefeated slate, the Friars will be trying to do what their predecessors have been able to do but once in the last twenty games of the series. Indeed, the Black and White representing P. C. have been able to defeat the fast-breaking Rams only once in the last thirteen years. The last time the Friars entered the game with an unmarred record, they emerged victorious. Maybe history will repeat itself, for Coach Vin Cuddy has his boys primed for this contest, their first against State since he has taken over the reins.

The rivalry between the two institutions began back in 1921, shortly after Providence College was founded. The first contest ever played in the series found the Rams the victors by a lopsided 87-25 score. The following season, 1922, saw the Staters humble the Friars again, this time by sixteen points, 35-19.

After these two defeats, there were no games played between the two colleges for twelve years. The series was resumed in the 1934-35 season. Providence College coached by Al McIellan, scored an upset win over a good State team by the overwhelming score of 53-28. Captain Bill Kutneski, Joe Carew, and Ben Smith paced the Friars to this startling victory over the Rams who were led by the sensational Jack Martin. In the spring of 1935 the P. C.'ers proved that this win was not a fluke by defeating the Staters 47-43 on their home court at Kingston.

The following season, that of 1935-36, found the boys from Smith Hill once again taking the measure of the Rams in both contests. In the first game, P. C., unleashing a whirlwind second half offense, snapped a six-game R. I. win streak, 53-47. The Friars' Leo Davin took high-scoring honors in this contest with 19 points. Other Black and White mainstays in this triumph were Ed Babinski and Ben Smith. The P. C.'ers followed this up with a 65-42 win at Kingston in one of the roughest and most hectic tilts ever played between the two fives. In pacing the Friars to this victory, Leo Davin scored 23 points and put on one of the most brilliant all-around court displays ever given by a player wearing the Black and White of Providence College.

In 1936 State registered its first decision over a P. C. quintet in 16 years, as it chalked up a 63-54 triumph at the Rhode Island Auditorium. But, in the return match at Kingston, the Friar five pulled one of the biggest upsets of the long series. Scoring four foul shots in the waning moments of the game, the boys from the Hill pulled out a 42-38 win, thus stopping a State victory string at 13 straight, and dropping them from the top spot in the New England court picture. Once again, Leo Davin, along with Paul Angelica, paced the Friars in their win. The Rams were led that year by Ed Tashjian and Chet Jaworski, who was to go on to be one of the all-time high scorers in State history. After this game, the Friars were regarded by most experts as the top team in New England.

State started on its win parade in the 1937-38 season, registering two convincing victories, 52-41 and 85-59. The following year the Rams again took both games, this time by scores of 57-45 and 77-60. In these contests the boys from Smith Hill played good, hustling basketball, but were unable to top the fast-breaking Rams.

In the 1939-40 campaign the Friars were subdued in both tilts by the Rhodyites, 49-30 and 75-62. The following year, with the Rams presenting one of their best quintets ever, the Black and White again succumbed in both contests, 70-42 and 98-71. The high-scoring Chet Jaworski again led the Staters in these victories.

After eight successive losses, one of the greatest quintets ever put on a basketball floor by Providence College, the 1941-42 combine, scored a hair-raising 60-54 triumph over the Rams. Larry Drew, erstwhile P. C. court mentor, and presently Director of Intramural Athletics here at the college, Ted McConnon, former head coach of basketball at St. Anselm's, Zabeck, Marone, and Ferd Sowa, captain of the 1947-48 P. C. quintet, were the stars of one of P. C.'s most satisfying court victories. This five, one of the most publicized in the history of the Dominican institution, finished the year as the second highest scoring team in the nation. This game was played before 5800 fans (at the Rhode Island Auditorium,) the largest crowd ever to see a game in the state up until that time. Coach Ed Crotty's club was beaten by the Rams, 68-54, in the second game of the season, this one being played at Kingston.

The Keaneymen again embarked on their winning ways in the 1942-43 campaign. Sparked by one of the greatest players ever to come out of Rhode Island, Ernie Calverly, the Rams outscored the P. C.'ers in both tilts that year. With Calverly registering 29 points, the Rhodyites pasted the Friars, 85-68, in a high-scoring game. State took the other contest by a 64-56 margin.

The two squads did not meet the following season, but in the 1944-45 campaign, they took up right where they left off, walloping the Black and White, 90-42. Dick Hole and the irrepressible Ernie Calverly paced the Keaneymen's attack with 28 and 27 points respectively. High man for the losers with 12 markers was LaBosiere, P. C. captain.

One of the stars of the 1941-42 season, Larry Drew, returned from the service in time for the next campaign, but even his much needed talents were not enough to enable the Smith Hillers to halt the Rhody parade. In this, P. C.'s final year under Coach Ed Crotty, the Rams, a team which was to go onto the finals of the National Invitation Tournament before bowing to Kentucky, topped the Friars in both tilts, 82-60 and 78-55. Again, the play of the incomparable Calverly featured the two games.

With a former star player, Larry Drew, taking over at the helm, the Friars dropped both contests the following season. They made a tussle of it in the first tilt, finally succumbing 72-63. But, they were no match for the Rams on their home court, and suffered a humiliating 101 to 55 defeat. The 1947-48 campaign found the Friars giving the Rams quite a scare in the game at the Auditorium, by leading 40-39 at halftime, but they were handicapped by a lack of reserve strength and finally dropped the tilt by a 73-64 score. State registered the highest total of the series, 108, as they beat the Black and White by 24 points in the second contest played at Kingston.

Last year, the Rams, under a new coach, "Red" Haire, scored their 11th and 12th successive wins over P. C. They had a difficult time in winning the first game, but prevailed 74-61. In the tilt played on their home court, giant center Ken Goodwin dropped in 35 points to pace State to an easy 99-53 win.

Intramural League Continues Fine Play

Five games were played in the intramural Basketball circuits last week. In the top game, the Schmoos defeated the Cranston Club, 36 to 29. Other scores were: Woonsocket Flyers 40, Fall River 34; La Salle I 60, Soph Science II 16; La Salle II 31, Chad Brown 12; Nuggets 32, Celtics 20.

Duignan and play-maker Lynch with 13 and 6 points respectively paced the Schmoos to their 36-29 over the Cranston Club. After trailing through most of the contest, the winners put on a belated rally to pull the game out of the fire. McAllister, the offensive star of the game with 16 points, was a constant scoring threat for the losers.

The La Salle I quintet stamped itself as the team to beat in the race for the championship, as they walloped Soph Science II, 60 to 16. They displayed a well-balanced offense and a tight defense in romping to an easy victory. Lonergan and Poirier were the top point getters with 14 and 13, respectively.

After building up a 23-11 half time lead, the Woonsocket Flyers coasted to a 40-34 decision over the Fall River five. Dwyer and Joyce paced the winners in the scoring department, registering 16 and ten, respectively. The all-around play of Cogogan of Fall River was the only thing which prevented the game from being turned into a rout.

In the business league, the Nuggets whipped the Celtics, 32-20. Cottam with nine markers and O'Dea and Murphy with eight apiece were the bright spots in the winners' well balanced attack. McKenna was high man for the losers with seven.

An inept Chad Brown quintet was swamped by the La Salle II squad, 31-12. Cottam paced the winners to this effortless victory, controlling both backboards and leading the scorers with 14 points.

In the ping-pong tournament being conducted in the students lounge, there were several matches played last week. Razza defeated Caillen 21-13 and 21-18. The closest match found Carnavale edging O'Rourke in three sets, 22-20, 14-21, and 21-19. Duchaine won in a match against Gagnon, 21-17 and 21-18. Riccio walloped Williams 2-6 and 22-11. The second round play will be conducted this week.

into action by the very capable Bruce Blount, and Leon Golembiewski. This latter boy has been a thorn in P. C.'s side during the past four meetings. They also realize that graduation has taken such high class operatives as Ken Goodwin and Sal Scalfani from the squad and these boys cannot be easily replaced. However, some very dependable replacements for these players are on hand and it is hoped that they will come up to expectations on this occasion.

All in all, things seems to come out fairly even on paper. The actual victory will probably be determined by consequences that arise on the floor during the game. In this respect, the Friars have demonstrated against Fairfield that they do not crumble under pressure. This factor may be the margin of victory.

During the past week, Providence College notched victories number two and three for this season. Victory number two was gained at the expense of a fighting Fairfield University team 60-59, on last Wednesday evening. The Friars looked good in winning this one and exhibited an improved brand of ball throughout. Some extraordinary shooting from the outside kept the Red Stags in constant contention.

On Saturday last, the third victory was won from A. I. C. at Springfield, 54-51. This game was marked by some very poor officiating which brought denunciations from the competing schools. As a result, the game was of a rough nature with many fouls being called. However the superiority of the Providence man power was evident throughout the contest and victory came easily.

listened intently to his description of the multitude of prizes which could be had simply by a thirty-five cent donation to the Providence College Building Fund. He was even more surprised when the grocer put his hand into his pocket as if to take out some money. But he was shocked when the grocer drew from his pocket a piece of paper and said: "Now how would you like to win a new cowboy suit? All you have to do is buy a carton of delicious Crunchy-wunchies and finish this statement: I like Crunchy-wunchies." The salesman sneaked out the door while the grocer was extolling the virtues of Crunchy-wunchies.

He was about to concede defeat when he spied the store of his father's best friend. Now, he thought, would be the time. He stepped briskly into the store and immediately ran through his most forceful routine. When he had finished the oration the proprietor said: "You're a little too late. I bought two books of tickets from someone else a month ago."

With that, the salesman bowed his head in defeat, and kicked himself home. As he opened the door, his mother called him. "Leonard, I'm so glad to see you. My friends have been calling me all afternoon about those penny sale tickets from the college. How many can you get me?"

Dear Sirs:

I learned in Psychology (Philosophy 206) that you may know a thing by its operations. After the game with Assumption, which I saw and enjoyed very much, I found two empty beer cans in the gutter in front of my house. What would my neighbors think of the students if they had found them. They would probably think P. C. students are ———. I don't care if any student drinks beer, but I think the school suffers when a few act like slob. There were only two cans so the students were probably not "stewed" and knew what they were doing.
