

Ready For Action

Dominican Third Order to Hold Profession, Investiture Sunday

Approximately forty-five men and women will take part in a combined profession and reception to be held by the college chapter of the Third Order of St. Dominic, Sunday, at 2:30 in Aquinas Hall chapel. The Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., president, will preach the sermon.

Among those who have completed a year's novitiate and will be professed are Kenneth C. Murphy, Jr., Amapo Nocera, and Michael Simoli, all of the adults' section of the campus lay religious group. They will be received as Tertiaries by the Rev. John C. Rubba, O.P., spiritual director of the local chapter.

Fifteen more men and twenty-five women, also of the adults' section, will be received as novices. They have all completed at least one semester's postulancy.

According to the Rev. Joseph J. Jurasko, O.P., who, with the Rev. William A. Hinnebusch, O.P., has been assisting Father Rubba in conducting the weekly Third Order meetings, "The members of the Third Order from the college (i.e., students section) who wish to be professed Sunday are obliged to consult the director."

Fathers Jurasko and Hinnebusch will invest with the scapular of the Order the men and the women, respectively.

Sunday will mark the second profession-reception held by the Tertiaries this school year.

Nag Named Charlie Featured At Picnic

Charlie-horses and fun were the order of the day as members of the Monogram Club and members of the Cowl, Veritas, and Alembic staffs held their annual combined outing Monday at Dover, Mass.

The festival was originally scheduled for Goddard Park, but a last minute directive by Governor Pastore closing state parks forced the boys to make the journey to Dover, where the outing was held on the site of the new Dominican Novitiate.

Most of the athletes confined their time to pitching horse-shoes, while the less athletically inclined members

Bookstore Manager Gets Scholarship

Dan Sullivan, popular bookstore entrepreneur, is the recipient of the only New England scholarship for college bookstore managers at the University of Bridgeport awarded by the National Association of College Stores, it was announced yesterday.

The Norsid Mfg. Company of Yonkers, N. Y., each year sponsors the summer session scholarship of a bookstore manager who has been recommended as an outstanding, aggressive, and thorough person, who would be interested in an opportunity of advancing in knowledge on the operation of a college bookstore through the studies and lectures offered by the N.A.C.S.

Sullivan was chosen as the logical candidate for the scholarship by a representative of the Norsid Company which will underwrite tuition, room, and board at the Bridgeport summer session.

Composed of over 500 members, the N.A.C.S. holds two schools each year, one at Northwestern in Chicago, and the other in Connecticut. The course is designed to better fit the store managers to serve students and to further the success of the college bookstores. The faculty features men who have made a success of retail merchandising both within and outside college stores.

of the caravan engaged in a wild softball game, at which no score was kept (not even a college man could count that high). Mickey McPeake was outstanding on the mound for one of the teams. He had his opponents tired from running the bases so much.

Before, during, and after the game the boys' appetites were surfeited with cooling beverages and hot dogs burned in the inimitable style of Ed Strack, ace Cowl lensman. The picnic was also attended by the publications' moderators, the athletic moderator, and Vin Cuddy, basketball coach.

Placement Director Releases Job Data On 1949 Graduates

In order that graduating seniors may know a little more about job opportunities in their particular concentration, Mr. Maurice J. Timlin, placement director, has released the following information on how last year's grads, who signed with the placement office, fared.

Concentration	Ttl	Active	(Jobs) active
Social Science	30	1	29
Education	13	4	9
Classics	2	0	2
Accounting	22	9	13
Management	29	4	25
Biology	9	1	8
Chemistry	9	1	8
Physics	1	0	1

Mr. Timlin, explaining the chart, said: "The box is representative of one-third of the '49 graduating class. It must also be assumed that one-third were able to arrange their own futures without the aid of the college bureau and probably another third or less went on to graduate school."

"I, however, would urge all seniors to sign up at the office, because it is the job of the placement office not only to cooperate with the Dean of Studies and department heads in guidance work, but also to coach seniors on interview etiquette, to arrange interviews with prospective employers, to make available information about work opportunities, both locally and nationally, and to reply to reference requests asked by job hunting seniors," Mr. Timlin also stated.

COWL Staff Seniors Awarded Sweaters

"For carrying out their duties on the paper faithfully and well," nine outgoing seniors of the COWL staff were awarded white cardigan sweaters, with the new COWL insignia, by the Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., at a meeting held in Room 300 recently.

Setting a new precedent the sweater awards will be made each year to members of the staff who meet the following requirements set by the Editorial Board and the COWL moderator, the Rev. Paul M. James, O.P., and approved by Father Slavin.

1. The recipients will be outgoing members of the staff and who are seniors.
2. The recipients will have served for two years on the COWL staff.
3. In regard to rule 2, the Board of Awards may make an exception if circumstances arise which would require an exception.
4. The recipients shall have a scholastic average of at least "C" in their work.
5. The recipients shall be of good character; that is, they have not been cited by the Dean of Discipline or the Dean of Men for major infractions of College regulations.
6. The recipients must have carried out the duties of their respective offices on the paper faithfully and well.

Delegates Named For Coming Year

The Student Congress maintains a "very definite part in the running of Providence College," the Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., told the Congress at its annual meeting held yesterday in Room 300, Harkins Hall.

College Quarterly to Feature "Safe Side"

The May issue of the Alembic, which is the fourth and final issue of the current school year, has been sent to the printers and will be ready for distribution to the student body not later than next Monday, the 22nd. Although the late spring usually finds a young man's fancy lightly turning to thoughts of final exams, the fancies of the Alembic's contributors have, fortunately, turned to their parchments, inkpots and quills.

George Eagle, '50, once again claims the Alembic feature spot with an excellent short story which is considered by the staff to be his best piece of work thus far, "The Safe Side". Lloyd was a good Catholic. Above all else, he could never force himself to go against his conscience. But there was another side to his story, the safe side.

The poetry of Robert Lowell is the subject of a critical essay by Wales B. Henry, '50, entitled, "Two Angels Fought with Bill Hooks for His Soul." Taking Lowell on his own terms, Mr. Henry proceeds to analyze and criticize his poems in a straightforward and unbiased, and not always favorable, manner.

Richard R. (Mike) Hartung, '51, returns to the pages of the Alembic with an assortment of impressions and a short story, "The Big Ugly Man." As usual, the background is the sea and the characters are the men of the sea; but the author's sharp, clear, realistic style never allows this to become monotonous.

Father Slavin especially cited Edmund Micarelli, past-president, for his leadership of the student governing board during the past year, and urged Bernard Healey, president-elect, to "even greater efforts."

Addressing the assembled delegates Father Slavin said: "My batting average might not have been so high without the Student Congress." He also cited them for having generated a love of the College because of their interest in the Congress, and urged that the Congress delegates "become more articulate outside the College."

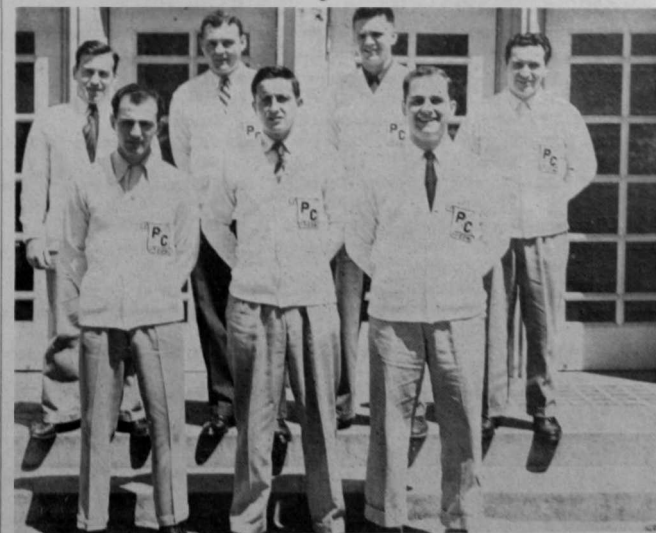

In the first business of the new body, Guy Geffroy, '52, was elected Junior Delegate to the National Federation of Catholic College Students, succeeding Robert Flaherty, '51, who automatically becomes Senior Delegate, as provided in the campus NFCCS Committee's Bill of Participation approved this year by the Congress Legislative Committee.

Gerald Alexander, '51, was voted student representative on the seven member P. C. Advisory Athletic Council, succeeding James F. Sullivan, '50, who was elected to the post following establishment of the Council by the College in January.

The retiring Congress gave a final vote of approval to a Constitutional amendment which will have the Freshman officers represent their class on the Congress during the second semester. The Constitution previously provided for a special mid-year election of Freshman representatives. The 1949-50 Congress also approved for the first time constitutional amendments which would provide that at least one representative from the Senior, Junior, and Sophomore classes must be a day student. Two more votes, to be taken in the fall by the new Congress, are required for incorporation into the Constitution.

The second half of the meeting was presided over for the first time by Bernard A. Healey, '51, after receiving the traditional gavel from retiring (Continued on Page 6)

VERITAS NOTICE

The 1950 Veritas will be distributed to the student body in the Lounge of Harkins Hall on or about May 23, it was announced today by the yearbook editors.

It was also announced that each man must call for his own book personally and be checked off on the masterlist at the distribution point.

The editors also stated that because of the excessive costs of publication there will be no supplement to the 1950 Veritas.

Literary Column

By WILLIAM PLUMMER

BAROQUE

"In the morning a little Mass. At noon a little party. At night the pleasant fruits of flirtation." Eighteenth century Venice, where carnival never ended and no one tired of carnival, gave itself entirely to fantasy. Acres of gilded floors were covered by acres of gilded furniture, the walls of palaces were painted so cleverly they dissolved into air. "Crystal, porcelain, tinsel, and sham vistas ruled the style for living, day and night." Voltaire described revelers in St. Mark's Square: "Like automatons moved by giant hands, glazed with fatigue these figures are porcelain bright. Strike a Venetian and you shatter Columbine or Arlequine."

Michelangelo, watching the great fire in the Alban Hills, was inspired by the billowing smoke to invent a new style, the grand baroque. Each generation has its own conception of art. Baroque and its successor, Rococo are now fashionable, now unfashionable. Purists insist it is decadent; functionalists consider it monstrous. But when the purists have gone to dusty death and the works of the functionalists are torn down to make room for parking lots, the palaces and churches of Southern Europe remain to enchant new generations.

James Reynolds, who gave us Andrea Palladio and the Winged Deity in 1948, has written a worthy companion to it. He has a prodigious knowledge of his subject, having visited all the places he describes, while his bibliography shows a careful selection of books for background reading, preparatory to writing this book. The High Renaissance inaugurated a period of unprecedented splendor which continued through the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. The Catholics countries, fired by the fervor of the Counter-Reformation, built churches and monasteries of fantastic size and richness and the kings of Europe, having taken all power into their own hands, built palaces worthy of their most sacred majesties. Versailles, which, as our author expresses it "hypnotized Europe like a Basilica," was the model for the royalities of Europe and their vainglorious courtiers. The delicate rococo, which succeeded baroque, was as much a matter of economy as of fashion. In Venice and in France, it was a last upsurge before complete destruction.

James Reynolds' books are published by The Creative Age Press of New York.

"THE COCKOO SINGS IN EVERY TREE"

The schedule of final examinations in this issue of the COWL reminds those of us who need reminding that the school year is nearly ended. "The time of mercy is past, the day of justice has arrived."

Many of us are in a bad way. We have played ducks and drakes with our talents, passing our days in student versions of riotous living, dancing and singing like merry grasshoppers scornful of the busy ants. The world was too much with us, late and soon. We have been amaying but June is busting out all over. Nor have we made friends to ourselves of the mammon of iniquity. In a word, we are out on a limb.

Now we feel the fog in our throats and wind in our hair. Eagles feed on our livers. Nemesis is just around the corner. "The devil is dying, the devil a saint would be."

Where did the year go? The nightingale leans uptill and King Pandion he is dead. Summer is icumen in and they are singing songs of love, but not for me. Now we know what boots it with uncessant care. Oh where have you been, Billy boy?

It tolls for thee, friend. You are between the stirrup and the ground. All may yet be well. Remember the wise and foolish virgins. Get some oil in your lamp and burn it like thrice blessed Hermes. Among the dead my days are spent and the sooner the better. Gather ye rosebuds while ye may.

It can be done, it will be done. Into the breach. England expects every man to do his duty, Everyman in his charity. Let us not to the marriage of true minds admit impediments. One final effort, friends. New chances in the new Jerusalem. Death before dishonor. The end is in sight. Don't be frightened by the shouts of the Persians. Take and read!

These next weeks will be Purgatory for the weaker brethren. They will be burnt clean of impurities, until they gleam like refined gold; burnished statues in the clear light of Attica. The road is narrow and rough but it leads over the hills to a pleasant summer with a clear conscience and good prospects for the student who makes the grade.

SYMPATHY

Deepest sympathy is extended to Daniel H. Hannon, '50, on the death of his mother.

Cowl Mailbox

Dear Editor:

Through the medium of the official student publication I would like to express my gratitude to those men who not only voted for me but also to those who voted in the election for Student Congress officers as a whole. It is apparent that the students of Providence College care little or nothing for their Student Congress (less than 15% of the College voted), and this general insouciance is a major problem confronting the newly elected Congress. The officers that were placed in office are a competent group of students who, I am sure, will exercise their additional duties in a manner best suited to the interests of the College and the student body.

(Signed)

Job Opportunities Good In Many Fields, Says Bureau

Employment opportunities for prospective pharmacists, chemists, and business-school graduates are fairly good, while there is likely to be stiff competition in the field of newspaper reporting, according to a study by the U. S. Department of Labor's Statistics.

Reasons for the bright outlooks are generally expansion in the field, deaths and retirements, while the stiff competition in the journalistic field is occasioned by the fact that there were nearly three times as many journalism graduates in 1949 as in any of the last few years before the war, and the number is expected to go even higher in 1950.

Employment opportunities are expected to be good for people with graduate training in chemistry both in the near future and in the long run. However, new graduates with only a bachelor's degree are likely to face stiff competition for jobs for the next few years at least.

There has been a shortage since the war of chemists for basic and background research, developmental and applied research, and teaching. This is due to the increased demand brought about by the backlog of research projects postponed during the war, the increased enrollments in colleges and universities, and the shifting of much basic research to this country from Europe. In industrial laboratories, where chemists represent nearly 40% of the total number of scientists and research engineers employed, opportunities have been good for those with advanced degrees or specialized experience.

The largest single career field open to college graduates is in the management and operation of business firms. Several factors affect the long range employment outlook for students in this field: the growth of business administration employment, heavy replacement needs expected over the coming years, and increasing use of business administration graduates to fill these jobs.

It is likely that total business employment will continue to grow over the long run, causing a moderate increase in the number of executive jobs. There also will be a continuation of the trend toward greater specialization and increased complexity in business. This has led to the wider use of such specialized workers as accountants, personnel workers, market research analysts, and sales executives. However, a large part of this development has already taken place and it is not likely that it will have as much effect in creating openings for managerial workers as in the past. The main source of new job opportunities for graduates of business schools will be in the replacement of executives now employed as they die or retire from business. New graduates will not, of course, obtain top jobs, but the dropping out of those holding responsible jobs results in promotions within the organizations and vacancies in beginning jobs.

The outlook for the entire pharmaceutical profession is dominated by the prospects in retail drug stores where 90 per cent of all those in the profession are employed. A moderate upward trend because of shorter hours and increase in drug sales is expected. Increased opportunities in hospital pharmacies, manufacture and wholesaling of drugs is expected to add to the job opportunities.

Best prospects for journalism graduates are in country weeklies, trade papers, and house organs. Fields related to newspaper work will continue to take on some new journalism graduates and also absorb a number of experienced reporters each year, thus increasing replacement needs on newspapers.

Alumnus To Head Insurance Institute

Providence College students are invited to attend an Insurance Institute to be held at Kingston, R. I., from July 5 to August 8. The Insurance Institute is under the direction of the Division of General College Extension of Rhode Island State College, which is headed by John R. Hackett, a P. C. alumnus.

The purpose of the institute is to give an opportunity for full-time intensive study in the various phases of insurance, including fire, marine, casualty, and suretyship.

Persons engaged in the insurance business as agents, or company personnel, as well as those planning to become insurance workers, are eligible, it was announced by Mr. Hackett.

Students will live in the college dormitories, but commuting to classes will be permitted. Registration, limited to 35 applicants, must be approved by the admission committee.

The intensive course will consist of 150 hours of instruction. Instructors will be available for consultation each evening from 8 to 9 o'clock.

The program is sponsored by the insurance education advisory committee in cooperation with the Rhode Island Department of Insurance and the Rhode Island Association of Insurance Agents.

The advisory committee is made up of the State insurance commissioner and a group of leading insurance executives in the Rhode Island area.

Instructors will be George E. Lonergan, Warner C. Danforth, and Ralph A. Ashton, all staff members of the Employers' Group Insurance Companies of Boston.

Mr. Lonergan is an instructor of insurance at Northeastern University, at the Insurance Library Association of Boston, and the Massachusetts Department of Education.

Mr. Danforth is superintendent of the Education Department of the Employers' Group, and associate professor and head of the Department of Insurance at Boston University.

Mr. Ashton, besides being an instructor of the Employers' Group, is an attorney, member of the New Hampshire and Massachusetts bars, instructor in insurance law at Boston University and the Insurance Library Association of Boston. He has been an instructor of law in the American Institute of Banking.

The Institute has been approved by the Veterans' Administration for eligible veterans of World War II. Interested persons should write to the Division of General College Extension, 25 Park Street, Providence, or phone UNION 1-5500.

Two COWL Photographers Win Ten Awards At Salon

Two Cowl photographers, Walt Little and Ed Strack, cornered ten of thirteen awards in the second annual Camera Club salon held last Thursday night in the lounge of Harkins Hall. Strack took seven prizes while Little garnered three, among them the grand award.

Strack took three firsts, three seconds, and one third. Little, besides the grand award, won one second and one third. Other winners were John Connolly, one first and one third; and Bill Slattery, a third.

The grand award, a three dimension shot of the lighthouse on Castle Hill, plus the other winning photos and the honorable mentions are on display in the Lounge of Harkins Hall.

The prizes, which were ribbons, were presented to the winners last night at a dinner at Johnson's Hummocks Grille.

In the portrait class John Connolly took first prize; Ed Strack, second; and Bill Slattery, third. Little, Connolly were winners, in the respective order, in the scenic division. The architecture class was swept by Ed Strack, who also took first and second in the action class. Little took the other award in the action class.

Judges for the affair were the Rev. Anthony A. Jurgelaitis, O.P., of the college faculty, Earl Parker, president of the Camera Club in 1949, and Anthony Orabone, president of the club in 1948.

The salon, for the third straight year an outstanding success, was well received by all who attended.

Flying Friars Offer Summer Training

The Flying Friars are extending the opportunity for six more students to earn their wings during the summer months at a cost less than one-third the original rate, according to an announcement released by the College flying club.

The club will take on the new members because of vacancies arising from departing seniors.

According to Fred Forster, commanding officer of the CAP affiliate, "each new fledgling will actually be soloing an aircraft and will be able to obtain his student pilot's license before the fall semester begins."

For full particulars students interested in earning their wings this summer are asked by Forster to see the Rev. Walter A. Murtaugh, O.P., moderator of the Flying Friars.

- Friar Folio -

by BOB FLANAGAN

With the closing of the school year in the near future, and today being the last issue of the paper, it seems appropriate to sum up the spring sport season of Providence College athletic teams. In won and loss percentages both baseball and track have not had successful seasons, but the most consoling fact attainable is the prospect of a fine athletic program next season in spring sports.

It is not the story of "wait till next year" then watch our dust, it is the story that P. C. is continually building for the future years in their athletic policy. As every sport fan can readily see, great teams are not built in a day or a season or a year. It takes time and labor to accomplish the grueling task of fielding sport teams of championship calibre. We should keep this truth in mind when we comment on the sport situations anywhere.

Track is expanding by leaps and bounds since its inauguration at the college three years ago. From a handful of beginners to a present talented aggregation of athletes, track, under the tutelage of Harry Coates, has astoundingly progressed. Since the war years baseball has never regained its prewar status in intercollegiate competition. Many factors have contributed to this situation. Slowly but surely, though, baseball is making its bid, and it will not be too long before teams from P. C. will again rule the intercollegiate circles in the East. Basketball, of course, has the most pleasant outlook. A tremendous building program is underway, and under the efficient coaching of Vin Cuddy basketball of the future years is destined to be of top calibre.

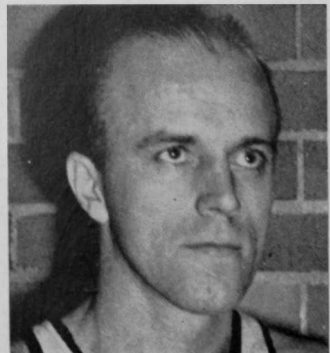

Speculation about the proposed gymnasium is no longer a possibility in the distant future, but almost an actuality on the campus. Officials believe that the need for a gym is pertinent and construction is more than likely to begin very soon. With the building of a gym the outlook for sports will become brighter and just the idea of its actual construction will be a moral boon to P. C. athletics.

NO. 1 ATHLETE . . .

Our nomination for the top athlete of the spring campaign is P. C.'s half-miler, Bill Sherry. Bill has done an outstanding job for the Coatesmen in three years of track at the college. He climaxed his three-year career with a sensational victory in the half-mile last Saturday in the Eastern Collegiate Meet at Springfield College. In near record-breaking time he beat the best that the East could afford including the talented Josh Tobey of Brown. Bill is now a junior and has one more year of track competition before him. He has been the most consistent point-getter on the squad, and will be the nucleus of next season's team.

BIG THREE . . .

When June 6 rolls around, three outstanding athletes will graduate from Providence College. The captains of P. C.'s three varsity sports will terminate their collegiate athletic careers this season. Basketball co-captain Walt Lozowski, popular two-sport letterman and president of the Monogram Club, will hang up his sneakers and cleats with an outstanding record of athletic achievement in his four year stay at Providence College. Fans will always remember his coolness of play on the basketball court and his peppery play in the infield of Hal Martin's baseball nine.

Art Weinstock, basketball co-captain and leader of the baseball team this season, has another enviable record in P. C. sports in his collegiate career. Besides holding down one of the guard posts for the past three seasons on the basketball team, Whitey has established himself as one of the best hitters to come out of P.C. for some time. Right now Hal Martin has the big blond in right field. Because of his sore arm he is useless as a catcher, but his big bat is desperately needed in the Friar lineup.

Track captain Gerry McGurkin completes the list of Providence College sport leaders. Gerry has done a remarkable job since track began at the College three seasons ago. With no actual experience in running, whatsoever, the red-headed sprinter has displayed that aggressive spirit of competition and hard-working attitude that makes champions. When Harry Coates, in his debut in Harkins Hall two years ago, made the call for men who were willing to work and fight to build a track team at Providence College, he was directing his remarks toward athletes like Gerry McGurkin. And it is Gerry who is one of the stalwarts who is making track a success at the College.

Till next September, we'll be P.C'ing you!

Frosh Win One and Drop Two Last Week

A victory over the Rhode Island State Frosh and two losses to the Brown Cubs marked last week's Freshman baseball schedule. The Drowmen now have a two-win-two-lose record for the season.

On Friday, with Bill Mullen chucking, the P. C. Yearlings notched a 7-4 victory over the R. I. Frosh. The big right hander was in rare form allowing no hits in six innings.

The Brown Frosh handed the Friars a 7-4 defeat at Brown last Wednesday. Beaver Powers chucked for the Friars and was charged with the lose.

At Hendricken Field on Saturday, the Bruins made it two in a row over the Freshmen, handing them a decisive 8-1 defeat. The Cubs touched Army for six runs in the first four frames. Ed Sullivan, who relieved in the fifth, pitched creditable ball allowing only four hits and two runs.

B. C., R. I. S. Topple P.C. Over Weekend

Once again, lack of control by the pitchers and loose fielding on the part of teammates cost the Friars a couple of ball games last week. An error which paved the way for seven unearned runs in the sixth enabled the Boston College Eagles to defeat the P. C.'ers, 9-4, at Newton on Sunday afternoon. Previously, Coach Martin's charges had tossed away an 9-8 decision in ten innings to Rhody Rams on Friday.

In the contest at Newton the Friars managed to hang on to a 2-1 lead until the last of the sixth when the Eagles aided by an error by pitcher Bill Fagan pushed across seven unearned runs to gain the win. Until this time Fagan had the Eagles eating out of his hand. However, his own error unsettled him and the roof really fell in on him, and the Eagles had seven markers and the ball game before Jim Sullivan, erstwhile catcher came in to put out the fire. Dick Duignan, Black and White left fielder, tagged one of the longest hits of the season when he sent a 420-foot belt into deep left center in the top of the ninth. The ball sailed far over the left fielder's head for a triple, but Duignan was out trying to stretch it to an inside the park homer.

Friday's game was decided on a squeeze bunt with the bases loaded and one out in the top of the tenth. Steve Sulavik who had come in relief of Jim Schlimm in the ninth was victim of the uprising. Schlimm pitched adequately in the first eight innings, but eight errors by his mates offset his work. Don MacDonald with two doubles and Dick Duignan with two singles were the top stickers for the Friars.

DORMURALITES

By Joe Laughlin

With seven teams battling for four playoff spots, the Dorm Softball League goes into its last week of regulation play. By the end of this week, four teams will come out of the battle with playoff spots.

The playoffs, to start later this week, will pit the first and fourth teams and the second and third teams in best out of three series. The winners will clash in a best out of three series for the title.

Friars Face RI Rams Today In Quest of Second Victory

Frank Higgins To Hurl For P. C.
On Hendricken Field At 3:00

By DICK BOULET

The Providence College Friars, thwarted in seven consecutive attempts to gain their second win of the season, will play host to the high-flying Rams from Rhode Island State at Hendricken Field this afternoon. Game time is 3:00 p. m., lefty Bill Higgins, who pitched the P. C.'ers to their lone triumph thus far, is slated to handle the mound chores for the Martinmen. State is expected to counter with either Bruce Blount or Hal Melkonian. Saturday the Friars play their final home game before exams, when they take on Springfield. Jim Schlimm will open on the mound for P. C.

Despite the poor record thus far, the Friars have displayed a lot of hustle and chatter on the field, and also the ability to come up with a big inning in the scoring department. The problem has been keeping the opposition from coming up with a big scoring splurge. Coach Martin's charges are expected to do better on their home diamond, where they have showed a decidedly strong offense, with the exception of one game. In the previous meeting with State this season, the Friars lost a heart-breaker, 9-8, in ten innings. They are anxious to avenge this loss and feel that they have a better than even chance of doing so, and, at the same time, of breaking out of their losing streak.

Coach Hal Martin is planning to use the same lineup which he has started the most recent games. Don MacDonald, leading sticker, will start at first. Sophomores Howie McGuiness and Steve Sulavik will hold down the shortstop and third base posts, respectively. Dick Maloney, who reached four times as leadoff man against B. C., will be the second sacker. Hank Downey will replace Jim Sullivan as catcher, with Sullivan being held in reserve for pitching duty if needed. Dick Duignan, who has had ten hits in his last five games, Sam Nissel and Whitey Weinstock, will patrol the outfield for the Martinmen.

Trackmen Seek NE Honors At Bowdoin Fri. and Sat.

Bill Sherry Wins Half-Mile In Eastern Collegiates

By JOHN SALESESSES

Members from the Providence College freshmen and varsity will take part in the New England Inter-Collegiate Championships at Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Maine, to be held this Friday and Saturday afternoons. Trials will be held on Friday and the finals on Saturday. Coach Harry Coates has entered Bill Sherry in the 88, John Shanley (pole vault), Tony Fratanuono (discuss), Jim Penler (220), Jerry Alexander (javelin) and the freshmen medley relay team of Jim Gannon (220), Joe Tetrault (220), Bob Tiernan (440) and Pop Johnson (880).

Last Saturday, the P. C. track entries scored a total of 13½ points in the Eastern Inter-Collegiates at Springfield. Bill Sherry and the fresh-220, Bob Tiernan, 440, and Pop Johnson, 880, won their event and set a new mark in doing so. Their time of 3:36.5 erased the record of 3:39.5 set last year by the freshmen team from Worcester Polytech. Springfield placed second and the University of Connecticut third to the "flying Friars".

Jerry Alexander's second in the javelin and John Shanley's tie for fourth in the pole vault added to Providence's total.

This year's graduation will see the departure of five seniors from the track squad. Gerry McGurkin leads the list. The popular and well-liked red-head will be sorely missed. The most improved man on the squad and the second captain in the short history of track at Providence College, Gerry ran cross-country, the 300, 440, 660 indoors, and in outdoors, the 440 and 220. It was in the 440 that he showed his best. At the Penn relays this year, the boy from East Hartford, Conn., ran the fastest 440 for Providence. Running the third leg for the mile relay, he was clocked in the excellent time of 49.5 seconds. This is the record for any P. C. man. Quite a performance, considering too that McGurkin had to learn track in the short time of two years.

Tony Fratanuono is also leaving. A native of Providence and alumnus Classical High School. His loss will be felt in the field events. Smiling John Shanley, former all-state pole men medley relay team led the way. After being boxed and jostled around by his opponents at the start, Sherry came from behind with a terrific kick in the last 220 yards as he did against Holy Cross and Brown to win the 880 yard run in the exceptionally good time of 1:57.6.

HARTFORD CLUB

The Hartford Club of Providence College held its last official meeting of the 40-50 year in Aquinas lounge, May 9. President ex-officio James Coughlin conducted the meeting and initiated the election of officers. Ernest Reale, '51, was elected to the office of president. Reale, a pre-med, is a member of the Glee Club, Albertus Magnus Club, Carolan Club, and is former secretary of the Hartford Club. In an interview with the Cowl reporter, President Reale said: "I would like to thank all those present here tonight for the vote of confidence they have given me. I would also like to express a word of congratulations to the outgoing officers of the club for the fine work they have done this past year and for the splendid example they have afforded the new officers. This year has been a banner year for the Hartford Club, but I feel certain that next year will be even better."

Other officers elected to the club were: vice-president, William Kerin; secretary, George Sullivan; treasurer, Leo Dungan; and agt.-at-arms, Gil Bouvier.

CRANSTON CLUB

Loring R. Forcier, Junior Business Administration Student, was elected President of the Cranston Club for the 1950-51 season, at an election held by the club last Tuesday. He received the chairman's gavel from outgoing President John Fagan, a member of the graduating class.

Frank Cotoia, a Sophomore Social Science student, was elected Vice-President, and Paul Stein, Junior Pre-Med, became secretary. Robert McElhiney, Sophomore Social Science, is the club's new treasurer.

The club held its first annual Communion Breakfast Sunday, May 14, at the Driftwood Restaurant in Pawtuxet. Originally the breakfast was planned to include the fathers of the members, but since it was Mother's Day the mothers were also included.

The special intention of the Mass was the repose of the soul of Henry Forcier, father of the new president, and the general intention was for the mothers.

The club moderator, Rev. Herman D. Schneider, O.P., said the Mass and gave the sermon. The speaker at the breakfast was Rev. Adrian T. English, O.P., professor of history, whose subject was "The Unity of the Family".

At the breakfast the chairman, Ed Dillon, introduced both the incoming and outgoing officers.

CAROLAN CLUB

Ray Whitley, a junior from Bradford, Mass., was elected president of the Carolan Club for the year 1950-51 at a meeting held in Aquinas Hall last week.

Other officers elected include: Vice-president, Paul Plunkett, '51, from New Haven, Conn.; secretary, Jack Conroy, '52, from Babylon, New York; treasurer, Richard Lederer, '53, from Pittsfield, Mass.

Class representatives are: Juniors—Richard Funke, Frank Scholan, and Arthur Cotter. Sophomores—Arthur Gloster, Robert Lynch, James Nieman, and Jack Triggs. Freshmen—Alexander Montgomery, Michael Sparacino, and James Sughrue.

Charles Hayden, retiring president, in turning over the leadership of the dormitory group, cited the retiring officers and class representatives for "helpful cooperation throughout the past year."

GLEE CLUB

At a banquet honoring the Providence College Glee Club, held recently at Oates Tavern, Providence, Robert Reardon, '51, was elected to the office of Providence. Reardon, a Letters major, is a member of the Greater Boston Club, Carolan Club, and is former Secretary of the Glee Club. He also served on the Freshman Dance

Open Book Tests Seen No Better Than Closed

Des Moines, Ia.—(I.P.)—Open book tests given recently in the Drake University biology department have revealed that the median grade was practically identical to that of closed book tests given before. The departmental test, taken by 350 freshman students, has caused much controversy here.

The students were allowed to use their text books, laboratory manuals, and note books while taking the tests. The median was 48.7 per cent, or 2.2 per cent below the closed book tests taken by freshman biology students during the 1949 semester.

contributors, and it is hoped that he will continue to exercise his literary talent during the year to come.

Charles F. Wooley, '50, and William H. Plummer, '51, offer several essays which range in subject matter from a student's roaming thoughts during a physics class to a description of an eighteenth century grand opera. Mr. Wooley's "Centennial Communion" is especially worthy of his readers' contemplation. Paul F. Fletcher, '51, is the author of three poems which appear in this issue: "Clarke's Green, Clarke's Summit," "Nantucket Light," and "Afternoon of a Cashier."

The Senior and Junior Delegates represent the college on the NFCCS New England Regional Council and direct Federation activity on campus. The campus NFCCS Committee operates as a permanent Congress committee and its chairman, the Senior Delegate, has a passive membership in the Congress. Flaherty succeeds Edward R. Coogan, '50, as Senior Delegate.

The Athletic Council was established to advise the athletic department and college authorities on schedules, intercollegiate activities and intramural sports, physical education and health, and may be called upon for important decisions during construction of the proposed gymnasium. Chairman of the council is the Rev. A. B. Begley, O.P., athletic director. Besides the student representative there are one faculty and three alumni representatives.

Sullivan, retiring student representative, gave a report of the council's initial meeting at the February Congress meeting.

Besides the nine seniors mentioned in the picture on page 1, Father Slavin and Father James were also sweater recipients and thereby became honorary staff members.

"CHANGE OF COURSE"

PL 346 veterans who intend changing their course or objective effective September 1950 will have to sign a "change of course" form for the Veterans Administration. Complete approval by the Dean of Studies is a necessary requisite to be a contemplated change of course, hence no veteran will be cleared for a change of course unless he has the Dean's permission. These forms may be filled out in the Office of the Registrar.

vaulter from LaSalle Academy, will be missed for he competed in the 220 low hurdles, broad jump and the pole vault. Another LaSalle grad, Bill Morris, one of the first to join P. C.'s track team as a distance runner, will leave this June. The popular Jack Shea, senior track manager from Manchester, Conn., is also a member of this year's graduating class.

This is the first year in which, school letters will be awarded to track men. A total of sixteen points scored in indoor and outdoor track are required for a member of either the varsity or freshmen track teams to gain the letter in the course of a year. The following men from the varsity won letters this year: Cassidy, McGurkin, Keenan, McMullen, Aldrich Sherry, Penler, Kallman, Lusier, Shanley and Walsh. Shea, Casparian, and Rawlinson received manager's letters. Freshmen letter-men include Johnson, Triault, Gannon, Di-Folco and B. Tiernan.

Other events on the schedule include a dual meet for the Freshmen with the freshmen of R. I. State at Kingston this afternoon and a varsity dual meet with Worcester Polytech at Worcester next Wednesday.

VERIDAMES LECTURE

Lotti Helen Lenn, author, lecturer, and professor at the New England Conservatory of Fine Arts, will be guest speaker Monday evening at the annual meeting of the Veridames, in Aquinas Hall lounge. Topic of Miss Lenn's illustrated lecture is "Rome—in the Footsteps of the Pilgrims."

Students are invited to attend, according to Mrs. Riley, of the college affiliated group. Miss Lotti acquired the background for her account of places, legends, and details usually missed by the casual visitor, while living in Rome for six years. She is the co-author of a recent work on Pius XI.

WOONSOCKET CLUB

The Woonsocket Club will hold its final meeting of the year Thursday, May 18, at the Knights of Columbus Hall, North Main Street, Woonsocket. It was announced today by retiring President Paul Joyce.

Election of officers and plans for the coming year are on the agenda.
