Director's Note . . .

The story that you are about to experience tonight has been a novel, a play, and a film. The play is much closer in feeling, and in character treatment to the novel than the film. Furthermore, from the director's point of view, the play is not symbolic. Actors cannot play symbols. Nor is the play merely a contest of good vs. evil. Actors cannot play concepts. Our production is the story of a group of people - people just like you and me in many ways - people who feel good and bad, have strengths and weaknesses, can joke and be angry, can give to one another and feel their own pain and aloneness. These particular people come together for a brief period of time, share an uncommon experience, and are changed. Please come along with us.

"There is something the matter with him
Because he thinks
    There must be something the matter with us
For trying to help him see
That there must be something the matter with him
To think that there is something the matter with us
For trying to help him see that
    We are helping him
To see that
    We are not persecuting him
    By helping him
    To see that
    He is refusing to see
    That there is something the matter with him
For not seeing there is something the matter with him"

R.D. Laing
