

Providence College

DigitalCommons@Providence

---

The Misinformers

Student Publications

---

2005

Volume 1, Number 1 - 2005

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.providence.edu/misinformer>

---

"Volume 1, Number 1 - 2005" (2005). The Misinformers. 1.
<https://digitalcommons.providence.edu/misinformer/1>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Student Publications at DigitalCommons@Providence. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Misinformers by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@Providence. For more information, please contact dps@providence.edu.

THE MISINFORMER

Est. 2005

"Dificile est satiram non scribere." Juvenal

Issue I

SWIFT NEWS

⇒ An indiscriminate car was waved through the security gate yesterday at 3:05 pm. Sources say the event is routine as long as you only plan to be a few minutes and put your flashers on.

⇒ Science major Brendan Hourkis has been "ripped off" at the bookstore yet again. Friends say that Hourkis "was totally pissed about the cost of his chemistry textbook" and referred to the prices as "bullshit" before paying with his mother's credit card. Additionally, word has been spreading that the book this semester will not be the same text for the upcoming term, and a projected "shit-storm bitchfest" will ensue during finals week.

⇒ The college has been lax in naming new buildings as of late, sources say. An anonymous member of the Board of Trustees stated "we would have been better off with the Visine® Center for Performing Arts and Aunt Jemima Syrup® Hall. At least they would have provided some endorsement money. Fuck."

SENIOR PONDERES FUTURE, NCAA BRACKET

BY LAWRENCE BALDWIN

CUNNINGHAM HALL—It has been a stressful week for Tom Bedrosian '05, who has reportedly been experiencing anxiety over his plans for the future, in addition to trying to fill out his NCAA Tournament bracket. "It's like, graduation is coming up in just a couple months, and then BOOM- reality sinks in. Almost like what I think will happen to Wisconsin-Milwaukee in the Sweet 16," said Bedrosian, poring over grad school information books in Slavin while ESPN College Gameday played on the overhead television. "I can't really decide if I want to go into government or education, and it's been really keeping me up at night. Also, I can't tell if I'm going with Villanova or Florida in that Round Two game." Bedrosian had planned on going to a seminar on how best to prepare for interviews next Thursday, but says he'll probably miss it, as "there's a good chance that Louisville will be facing off against Washington, and there's no way I want to miss that. Especially since I have Louisville taking that region." He then proceeded to close his book and concentrate on Digger Phelps' analysis of Michigan State. "It's not like I'm going to get anywhere with this stuff. Just like the Spartans."

HALTER TOP, SKIRT WORN IN TRIP THROUGH BLIZZARD TO BRAD'S

BY CARLOS BALDWIN

Jenny Jennyson remained ever-resilient in her quest to go out on Friday night. Clothed in only a halter top, miniskirt, and high heels, the sophomore, somewhat inebriated, walked/staggered her way to Brad's at 11:00 pm, stayed until 1:00 am and then made her way back to campus. It was on her way back that Jennyson slipped on ice and broke the heel of her left shoe. "It was really sad that that happened, but I didn't even find out about it until Saturday afternoon, and by then I was too busy getting ready for the evening so I just threw the pair away." Perhaps it is a testament to her strength as a human being that Jennyson has withstood sub-zero temperatures and inclement winds, but Jennyson shrugs off the flattery with "whatever, I had to go out."

RAY PEDDLER SEEKS GUEST PASSES

BY ALOYSIUS MALLOY BALDWIN

A young man who wishes to remain anonymous has reportedly been asking people for free "swipes" into Cafeteria Chez Raymond. Whether it is the succulent cuisine, the glamorous ambiance or his desire for social contact, no one can really be certain. Distinguished and well-mannered, though horrendously unclean and frightening, he accosts people with a simple mantra: "Hey, can you spot me some eats?" After initial confusion and consequent rejection, he continues to persevere. He has recently been asked by Margaret Ferryweather, Associate Executive President of Social Relations on Campus to cease and desist his unruly behavior. She is allegedly responding to students calling this freak a "freak." He has no longer been spotted at the Cafeteria. When asked about the allegations he merely stated: "When a man needs pie, a man needs pie." And, in response to his being asked to remove his person from the area, he quoted Raging Bull, "You never got me down Ray, you never got me down."

HEADLINES: WILL FERRELL QUOTED, DAVE MATTHEWS BAND LIKED, TWO COLLARS POPPED

MINI-HOROSCOPES
BY HANS BALDWIN
CERTIFIED ASTROLOGER

♈ Pisces: Universally, you are but one of an infinitude. This may make you feel inferior, but eleven beers, three hours, and two parties from now you will believe you are the universe.

♈ Aquarius: The trip to the mall will prove to be exciting when advertised sales will include the same crap as last week.

♈ Capricorn: Your concern over rising gas prices will vanish once you realize that your ex filled your tank with urine already.

♈ Virgo: Eddie will come by looking for the money you owe him for picking 'Bama.

♈ Leo: No one saw you fall outside of the library Thursday, but the squirrels responsible laughed until they spit nuts. Then they laughed some more.

♈ Cancer: Despite your heated arguments to the contrary, a jury will decide that you had no legal claim to a piece of Mark Paul Gosselaar's left ear.

♈ Gemini: Your invention of a time machine will elicit mixed responses after you use it to alter the outcome of the Revolutionary War.

♈ Sagittarius: Though concerned about your recent transformation into a vampire, all of your friends will agree that it affords you a more exciting nightlife.

♈ Scorpio: In an odd twist of fate, your steamy, one-month affair will suddenly sour when you discover it's your long lost father.

♈ Taurus: The weather has been unpredictable, gloomy, and frigid lately. No wait, that's your girlfriend.

♈ Libra: Orion's Belt says go to Louie's and try to start a cult in under an hour. Hey, it's Orion's Belt!

♈ Aries: Your excitement over your purchase of a new MP3 player will dissolve after you discover that, through a bizarre manufacturing glitch, it will only play the music of the German experimental electronic group Kraftwerk.

THE SECOND PAGE

BUFFALO CHICKEN WRAP FALLS APART, FEW INJURED

BY IRENE BALDWIN

SLAVIN CENTER – A tragic accident occurred last Tuesday evening when a buffalo chicken wrap collided with a tabletop, spilling its cargo of buffalo sauce and shredded lettuce to the floor. The incident caused a minimal delay in walking traffic between the condiment table and the trashcans. "I saw the whole thing happen," one witness said. "There was nothing we could do about it. By the time we realized what was going on, the sandwich was halfway to the floor." When asked if this was the worst accident he's ever seen, the witness said "no, that time a philosophy professor dropped his cup of soup on his lap looked pretty painful." According to a Slavin DOT (Department of Trays) employee, accidents occur at this table frequently. DOT members are called in to clean up coffee spills several times a week. "It is always sad to see a perfectly good sandwich ruined this way," the DOT worker said with a blank expression. "It doesn't make it any easier though." The owner of the sandwich, an unidentified junior, experienced minimal staining of her shoes. Her friends brought her to the ladies room for a routine hygienic inspection. Her condition is stable but "bummed out." Shortly after the accident occurred, a fellow student heard her talking about how she's "really low on Slavin bucks" before cursing at her ruined dinner.

SPEAKEASY DISCOVERED AT MOORE HALL IV

BY ALOYSIUS MALLOY BALDWIN

With recent complaints about students not being able to drink at McPhail's during the week, the Providence College chapter of Gamma Sigma Epsilon Kappa Kappa Kappa took it to the streets. And, by streets, we mean, Moore Hall IV. Rumors of alleged bootlegging and empty kegs found near the Priory have been clear signs that point to speakeasy shenanigans. "It was always unfair that we couldn't drink at McPhail's during the week," claimed Elrond Hubber, "But we can't disclose who is leading our booze revolution." Katie Katie Jr. '05 adds: "Sometimes when you get out of class, a hard test or a boring lecture you need a stiff scotch and soda. Students have needs and this campus needs to recognize them." While the campus has been providing copious amounts of Tequila and Zima, the students are just not satiated. The speakeasy scoundrels are still under further investigation.

CELL PHONE ANSWERED IN LIBRARY

BY CARLOS BALDWIN

While researching the internet for term papers to steal on The Protestant Reformation, sophomore Andrew Cubbins' cellular telephone rang. Taking a moment to stop chatting with his roommate on AIM, Cubbins answered the telephone with a loud 'whatsup?' and continued the five minute, four second conversation swiveling in his chair and receiving dirty looks from other students around him. The matter become so extreme that a student, who chose to remain anonymous, loudly sighed for fifteen seconds at Cubbins in an attempt to shame him. The action did not have any effect and Cubbins ended the conversation, returned to casually searching for a work to plagiarize and configured his Fantasy Baseball team.

THE LESSER BALDWINS™