The Blackfriars Theatre

Dear Friend of the Blackfriars Theatre,

We are very pleased to announce the 1994-1995 theatre season here at Providence College. Our choices for this season have something for everyone in mind. We have a new adaptation of a classical novel, a new work by one of England's premier playwrights, and a family musical first recorded on film and later brought to the stage.

Our first production is Meet Me in St. Louis, which will be run for 3 weekends in November. The musical is based on "The Kensington Stories" and the MGM motion picture Meet Me in St. Louis. It includes music by Hugh Martin and Ralph Blane. Our production coincides with the holiday season and will delight both young and older audiences alike.

Our second production is Lettice and Lovage by Peter Shaffer. The play, originally written for Maggie Smith is a tour de force for 2 actresses.

Our final production of the season is a new dramatic adaptation of Louisa May Alcott's Little Women. The production is being developed, directed, and adapted by Mary Farrell, chair of the Providence College Theatre Arts Department.

As in the past, we are pleased to offer season tickets at a very reduced price. Subscriptions to the Blackfriars will be $18.00 for a 3 show season. Individual ticket prices will remain at $7.00 general admission. This proves to be a very popular season with Blackfriars audiences. Become a season subscriber and stay ahead of ticket hassels at the box office. Season ticket holders are assured the first choice of the best seats, and are offered the security of those same seats from year to year. We fill our season ticket orders first!

So please take advantage of this opportunity and subscribe to our 1994-1995 season. The deadline for first choice seats is Monday, October 24, 1994.
