Blackfriars concludes its season with Beth Henley's Pulitzer Prize-winning play originally produced off-Broadway in 1980 and later adapted into a hit movie in 1987. The Blackfriars will take a fresh and imaginative look at this humorous story of three sisters reunited through a bizarre shooting incident! This sentimental and sometimes hilarious comedy, set in the Mississippi kitchen of the Magrath family, is a story that is sure to charm and move all audiences.

Welcome to the Blackfriars 24th Season!

The Providence College Theatre Department once again renews its commitment to produce entertaining and educational theatre that is uncompromising in excellence. Season after season, near-capacity audiences have seen this commitment realized. Last year's 1992-93 season was no exception!

The season began with the exciting and exhilarating production of THE WIZARD OF OZ masterfully directed by PC Professor Mary G. Farrell. Audiences of all ages went on a stunning journey of magic and suspense as this musical classic was retold with an innovative Blackfriars twist!

The second production was the delightfully funny ARMS AND THE MAN. Under the superb direction of PC Professor Rev. Matthew Powell O.P., audiences were given the opportunity to reacquaint themselves with this hilarious Shaw classic. The season concluded with the evocative and moving EDITH STEIN, powerfully directed by PC Professor John Garrity. This intriguing and heartbreaking production treated audiences to the unsurpassed theatrical distinction that they have come to expect at Blackfriars.

As you can see, last season was an enormous success both for the Blackfriars Theatre and it's audience. This year's production season promises to be just as exciting! This upcoming season you'll be able to explore Euripides' tale of war, discover the moving and disturbing talent of Eliza Anderson, and journey Beth Henley's familial south. Order your tickets to the 1993-94 season today!
