Fr. Myett To Depart
For Missions In Peru

"As fast as lighting strikes, Father Myett came to us and opened his light and understanding over the College campus. As fast as lighting fades, he is being transferred to the missions of Peru. But unlike lightning, his light shall continue to shine in our minds and memories," said one student.

In his short tenure, the Rev. Robert D. Myett, O.P., chaplain of the college, has counseled, and given his time unselfishly to the students. The students have had a young chaplain with whom they could express their thoughts and found someone with whom they could talk over their problems.

Father Myett expressed the fact that he has "enjoyed" his stay P.C. and that it has been very "meaningful" even though it was for only eleven months. He said he was "very grateful for all the cooperation and interest" he encountered at the College. He "will miss the students—their comaraderie, bounce and enthusiasm."

Although he has expressed a willingness to go to the missions, "the timing was most opportune," he said. According to him, the short notice of his leaving is indicative of a greater need in Peru than at P.C. for a chaplain. As to the type of work or the tenure of his mission, Father has no idea.

From here, Father Myett will travel to Maryland Center, a language school, in Cochabamba, Bolivia, for four months and then to Chimbote, Peru. Aside from his chaplain duties Father leaves vacancies aschaplain of the Knights of Columbus Council on campus, and on the Council on Religious Affairs.

Father Myett has asked for the prayers of the students, and in return he will offer the services of his assignment for the college that it may grow and continue to produce the whole man, its objective.

In recognition of his work as a chaplain the college will hold a Mass of Thanksgiving on Sunday, October 30. The Mass will be celebrated by Rev. James G. Clyde, 20, Hamilton, Mass. (history major; German minor) who will return to the College as an alternate. Clyde is from the Bethany College team of seniors. Shapiro has been elected team captain.

As an entertainer Mr. Ramsay is a stimulating and interesting speaker. In his address, he said he had been asked to speak in the College for the last two teams to retire undefeated, but that the last two teams to retire undefeated were, like Suffolk, standby teams.

Suffolk was founded as a law school in 1906. The College of Liberal Arts was established in 1934. The University also has a College of Journalism and a College of Business Administration.

Dr. S. Ramsey speaks at P.C.

Samuel H. Ramsey, a political journalist who has written and spoken extensively on various national and international affairs, has visited the Providence College campus. On October 18, Mr. Ramsey used the speaker's podium in Harwick's Hall at 7:30, where was bom and raised and where he attended P.C. for two semesters. Mr. Ramsey, a mixed group of about thirty people, failed to see the value of humor in Mr. Ramsey's speech as he rolled on and on about politics and the consequences of a lack of moral values.

Mr. Ramsey began his lecture by stating that he was "convinced that many modern business men are far too serious." He added the importance of a good sense of humor. "Your jokes, your comments, your efforts, are a most important part of the total picture of human nature that changes our culture. From there, we can see that a man is a largement of story-telling—sounding like he took notes from the Brothers' Here.

As an entertainer Mr. Ramsey proved very capable. He has the correct delivery and a Cordial style of speaking that is appealing to all. He also has a most pleasant appearance. His words are always polished and well chosen. As an orator he has a pleasing voice, which is strong and clear.

Dr. Ramsey's lecture was not only entertaining but also informative. He used many interesting examples to illustrate his points. Mr. Ramsey's lecture is a good example of how a political situation can be handled in a humorous way. He showed us that politics can be entertaining and that it is possible to use humor to convey a message to the audience.

Conclusion

Mr. Ramsey's lecture was a success. He has a good understanding of the political situation and a good ability to present it in a humorous way. His lecture was well received by all who attended and was a good example of how a political situation can be handled in a humorous way.

Questions Anyone?

Every so often the editorialist (all his accumulated journalistic "training" notwithstanding) is assaulted by the intense desire to wax philosophical. Couple this with a touching note of nostalgia, and you are faced with a tongue-in-cheek, are the result of the truly unfortunate fact is that the vast majority of cases this is very true. The faculty and students have become quite immune to the mad shoutings of editorials, letters to the editor, and goings-on of PC life: but there is one particular growing organization on campus which has the potential of being shared. The Christian cannot exist in a vacuum — academic or other-wise. If the result of every man here at Providence College is not sharing this environment if he failed to communicate it if only by question- ing it, then he is failing his teachers and himself.

But a questioning Christianity is present and active on campus! Listen to corridor discussions, dormitory arguments, midnight chats — and in all these you will unalterably find the seed of this communication in the questioning of students. But again, discussions will go un-directed, questions un-answered, and doubts un-resolved unless they are voiced by the student. The concern with interest in the matters that disturb them to this council.

The Council itself is no panacea; it is a strong enough word, was reached when students had to suspend for less notable reasons. The great academic oak (genus: complex bureaucrat us), perhaps a little touch of campus green a somber brown, and students faces a fiery traffic-ticket red, the temptation may be there. But there is one thing that is a result of this communication in the question-ing of students. But again, discussions will go un-directed, questions un-answered, and doubts un-resolved unless they are voiced by the student. The concern with interest in the matters that disturb them to this council.

WHAT WAS IT SHE LOST AT THE MOVIES—AT LAST THE AWFUL TRUTH!

A bothered controversy—a raw and searing indictment. The New York Times called it "a savagely written book"; National Review said it was "the real, the richly real thing. Miss Kael writes unobtrusively, with a female vitality." The San Francisco Examiner called it "fascinating and corrosive... Miss Kael's uncanny power to provoke and stimulate." The Atlantic Monthly, The New Yorker, The New Republic. But it is not for her criticism alone that she is noted; for she has been equally active in various aspects of the cinematic art. In Berkeley, California, she managed the first twin art-film house in the United States; and she has made her own experimental films. Her lecture entitled, "The Creative Business," was a critical exploration of just how creative the movies really are. The majority of her remarks centered on the Hollywood film industry, and though they were cutting and often brutal, they were equally well reasoned. Miss Kael defined the Hollywood concept of "creativity" as "the ability to make money and become a celebrity—knowing how to exploit the tastes of the masses." It was not merely the "creative" aspect of the film media that she criticized; for she attributed the present poor state of the industry to the low standards of the audience. The attitudes of the audience have been shaped considerably by television techniques, and thus a new dimension has been added to the average audience's vulgarity in taste—audiences do not have much more than a TV span of attention. This has resulted in the demand for films that will shock or titillate rather than entertain and involve an audience. These "fun movies" are intended to exhaust the audience, thus we have a so-called art form that has become little more than an opiate. She was equally merciless in her denunciation of the art movies that exploit technique and ambiguity of plot to the point of boring meaningless.

I lost it at the Movies is the result of a Guggenheim grant and it embodies Miss Kael's critical experiences over the last ten years. Her critical insights delve into the theory of the cinematographic art as well as appraisals of individual movies and the output of prominent directors. Her charming yet objective style makes the book more of an experience than a mere study of the cinema. From her obvious enthusiasm and vivacity, I surmised that whatever Miss Kael lost at the movies was not greatly missed. Before her lecture I had fought it.

Company K-12's Pledge Period is now in full swing with a total of sixty-seven members. The pledges looked sharp when they marched in the Columbus Day Parade, both with the Company and the Drill Team. It is a compliment to their hard work and spirit that they could perform so well with such a short time to prepare themselves.

In the near future, the Company is looking forward to the beginning of Phase II of the Pledge Period. It is in this phase that the pledges will be combat or reconnaissance patrols. The culmination of the day's training and small-unit sized. The pledges will be introduced to the basics of combat—both individual and small-unit-sized. The culmination of the day's training will be combat or reconnaissance patrols.

A mixer will be held with a local girl's school at a time to be announced. This mixer will allow the members of the Company to meet prospective dates for the Seventh Annual Cord Dance, which will be held at The Brist Mill on December 2. Ralph Shaar's Orchestra will again play at the Cord Dance this year.

Cadet Major John F. Carney, Drill Team Commander, reports that the Drill Team is improving steadily in preparation for the Pledge Drill Meet to be held in Boston in November. Last year the team won second place and they expect to do even better this year.

Company K is currently co-sponsoring a Drill Meet with the University of Rhode Island's Kingston Guard Army Drill Team. The meet is scheduled to be held early in February at the Cranston Street Armory. The same Armory may see another Drill Meet with Company K as host in April or May, as the team looks at other possibilities for its annual Drill Meet.

Alzada Knippers of Lawrenceburg, Tennessee, a graduate of the University of Tennessee, and a former Peace Corps Volunteer, first pursued graduate studies in International Relations and returned a second semester as a teaching assistant in Spanish on the world-circling campus.

The fall semester voyage of discovery, aboard the s.s. RYNDAM, for which Holland-America Line acts as General Passenger Agents, is carrying 450 other students to ports around the world as you read this.

Still another 450 will leave from Los Angeles in February for the spring 1967 semester set to begin its activities for the fall. William C. Dunn, Association President, plans to begin activities this month with a Pledge-Alumni touch football game. In the future, the Alumni plan several social activities, including a mixer, to keep the retired members in close contact with each other.

President Approves Moves For Student Union Building

The Rev. William Paul Haas, O.P., President of the College, has approved a Student Congress resolution proposing the election of a student union building.

At the last meeting of the Congress, Mr. Joseph Bruno, S.C., representative, was appointed chairman of a committee to investigate and suggest ideas concerning what should be included in the new building. The student union complex is being planned as an addition to Alumni Hall.

At the same meeting, Mr. Robert Donnelly announced that the second annual Sports Week will be held between November 28 and December 3. A full schedule of events is being planned for that week, ending with the first hockey and basketball games of the season on December 2 and 3, respectively. Other resolutions passed at the meeting were two proposed by Mr. Michael Doody. It was suggested that a letter be sent to Mr. Joseph Murphy, head of the P.C. cafeteria, calling the attention to the fact that the Alumni Hall cafeteria has been closing earlier than the designated time. Besides this, it was requested that the Raymond Hall snack bar area be available as a lounge.

In addition to this letter, one was sent to the Rev. Ernest Hogan, O.P., Librarian, asking that the library hours be extended on weekends and holidays.

The Dillon Club president, Mr. Kenneth Silva, announced that nominations for the club's freshman representatives will be open between October 31 and November 7. The nominations are closed to the freshman members of the Dillon Club.

The Student Congress meets every other Monday in Room A2 of Aquinas Hall. The next meeting is October 31 at 6 p.m.

Dr. Ramsay...

(Continued from Page 1) ture. Mr. Ramsay quoted an historian he never identified him as saying the secret of our American greatness is that optimists came from the Old Land. His final words were: "Of all the blessings we have got, a sense of humor beats the lot!"

Mrs. Joseph Aschettino, secretary, is the main purpose of the Leonine Society of Providence College.

Founded on February 12, 1884, as the Sociology Club, by Rev. William Clark, O.P., the name of the organization was changed in 1955 to the Leonine Society, in honor of Pope Leo XIII. The club, under the guidance of its present moderator, Rev. John M. Fitzgerald, O.P., President of the College, has approved a Student Congress resolution proposing the election of a student union building.

The club's tutorial program will begin this week and continue until May. It is under the direction of Robert Baker, '67, and Richard Boucher, '68, chairman.

The Dillon Club officers are also planning a campus "clean-up campaign" and a demolition derby. Proceeds of the demolition derby will be used for a Christmas party for underprivileged children in the Providence area.

Participants visited a local grammar school one day each week for about one hour. There they tutor fourth, fifth and sixth grade students who are deficient in reading and/or arithmetic. They are oriented fully before they begin.

College Dillon Club To Schedule Dance

Dillon Club officials have announced plans for a Thanksgiving dance and hockey teams to represent the club in the Carolan Club league.

The Dillon Club will hold its annual Thanksgiving Dance on Saturday, November 12, at the Club 400. The dance is scheduled for 8 to 12 p.m. and will cost $2 per couple. A maximum of 150 tickets will be sold to members of the club only. Chairmen are Jeff Roy, '68, Frank Ferranti, '69, and Tom Fogarty, '68. Applications for the club's two hockey teams to compete in the Carolan Club league are still being considered by Joseph Pilla, chairman.

Nominations for the election of freshman representatives to the club will be opened next Monday between 9:30 and 11:30 and closed November 7 at 11:30.

THE COWL, OCTOBER 26, 1966
Buchwald was born in Brooklyn and along with his three sisters, spent the greater part of his childhood in an orphanage. At age 16, he quit high school and joined the Marines where he served as a fighter pilot. After the service, the short, puny Buchwald with the thick hornrimmed glasses and ever-present cigar, enrolled at the University of Southern California without ever having gotten high school diploma. After spending three years in college he went to Europe where he worked in the Paris office of the entertainment paper, Variety, and later the N.Y. Herald-Tribune, taking pot shots at movie people.

After a 14-year stay in France Buchwald returned to the states. He joined the staff of the Washington Post as a “political commentator” and has been there since. The columnist, whose salary is in the $150,000 to $200,000 bracket, lives in Washington with his French wife and three adopted children.

Buchwald is not a clown by any stretch of the imagination. The laugh-provoking columnist is as serious about his work as any good artist is about the pose in which he does. His is not a world-changing ideal often seen nowadays. He has a specific design, but he surely does not take himself as seriously that he can’t enjoy what he’s doing.

Ask Buchwald what he considers himself to be and he has some sort of note in what he writes. It’s not an earth-shattering message, but simply a humorous way of informing his readers about what’s happening in their world.

By employing humor, Buchwald is not intimating that his subject matter is trivial, but rather it’s not as bad as people seem to think. Of course, what irks Buchwald are situations that appear so serious and real, as he puts it, are unimportant. He then takes this unimportant circumstance and makes it ridiculous.

Buchwald’s greatest love is to stick the needle into people he likes. He does not receive any volatile reaction from the persons he lampoons, but instead the violent reaction comes from people who just don’t understand them, they take him seriously, which is the best compliment. According to the humble Mr. Buchwald, humility befits the man. Buchwald is most proud, his subjects are not insulted, but rather flattered.

Mr. Buchwald is a world-traveler. He goes all over the world carte-blanche. He has been a columnist for 18 years, mostly for the defunct Tribune. Buchwald thinks that the time he spent in France has given him a better perspective. Events he has seen written about by the blase American create quite a stir in the Buchwald mind.

Concerning the death of the Herald-Tribune, he simply feels the New York Times was too big and too good, turning it into a “big scoop of ice cream for only a nickel.” Though the number of newspapers in New York has reduced from over 20, 30 years ago, to three at the present, Mr. Buchwald feels that the papers are going to the people and the people are going to the suburbs.

Asked about the mongrel, the World - Journal - Tribune, Mr. Buchwald believes the paper is just having its growing pains and will be growing strong within six months. He has been written about by Goliath with no complaint, the Times, since the new conglomeration is a morning paper, while the Times is a p.m. daily.

Buchwald, the satirist, with his tongue firmly planted in his cheek, has never written that have not been referred to by some as “perni­cious, destructive and some serious work that is as poignant as the best of the best.” His article on the death of the D. T. B. E. T. buna was a tribute to his talent, and his story at the assassina­tion of President Kennedy was a masterpiece. Asked about these articles, the only two he has ever written that have not been humorous, he simply said a man cannot be funny about things that are tragic.
Dear Students:

The Providence College Student Congress Directory Committee would like to take this opportunity to make several announcements of importance to the student body:

1. Any student who did not receive a copy of this year's Directory can pick one up at the Congress Office during office hours.
2. Those groups of individuals interested in obtaining a copy of the Directory Appendix of the freshman resident student's room numbers can do so at the Congress Office during office hours next week.
3. We ask the student body to please make known to the Congress any mistakes they find in the Directory so these can be recorded and corrected in the future. We ask you to write down the mistake or grievance and leave it in the Congress Office.
4. Lastly, the Directory Committee is open to any suggestions by the student body for the improvement of the Directory. Please leave all suggestions and comments in the Congress Office.

Thank you,
Student Congress
Directory Committee
P. S. The Congress Office is located in the lower level of Aquinas Hall. Office hours are from 9:30 to 1:30 every Monday thru Friday.

Big Brothers of Rhode Island, Inc., offers opportunities for community service to Providence College students.

Throughout the summer, officials of the Big Brother Agency have been working in close conjunction with college representatives with this goal in mind, particularly through the office of Father James.

The need for volunteer men was evident when a review of statistics indicated that one hundred and sixty boys are receiving service of Big Brother assignments. However, an additional one hundred and fifty boys are still waiting for Big Brothers. Because of this condition, many fatherless boys, eight through sixteen, will wait for a year or longer for their assignment.

With this need to close this gap, Big Brother leadership is looking to the college program as a rich source for mutual benefit. The proposal calls for recruitment of upper classmen to serve as volunteer Big Brothers for fatherless boys on an one-to-one basis. A Little Brother is a boy between the age of eight and sixteen, who, because he is fatherless, is in need of friendship, affection, advice, guidance and generally, in need of male influence and companionship.

While this is a new development in the standard Big Brother Program, the same criteria for acceptance will be used. Qualities of maturity, judgment, reliability and sound moral character will be most important. After selection and assignment, Big Brother professional staff will continue supervision responsibilities by being available for group and individual conferences.

Big Brother officials are looking forward to meeting with all interested students to give a complete explanation of their program and specific examples of need. It is important for appropriate and timely development for all those interested to register through Father James' office at Donnelly Hall, Room 6, before October 31.

Sincerely,
Big Brothers of R. I.

NEWS for 1966 and 1967

Continued expansion of our military and commercial business provides openings for virtually every technical talent.

As you contemplate one of the most important decisions of your life, we suggest you consider career opportunities at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft. Like most everyone else, we offer all of the usual "fringe" benefits, including our Corporation-financed Graduate Education Program. But, far more important to you and your future, is the wide-open opportunity for professional growth with a company that enjoys an enviable record of stability in the dynamic atmosphere of aerospace technology.

And make no mistake about it . . . you'll get a solid feeling of satisfaction from your contribution to our nation's economic growth and to its national defense as well.

Your degree can be a B.S., M.S. or Ph.D. in: MECHANICAL, AERONAUTICAL, CHEMICAL, CIVIL (structures oriented), ELECTRICAL, MARINE, and METALLURGICAL ENGINEERING • ENGINEERING MECHANICS, APPLIED MATHEMATICS, CERAMICS, PHYSICS and ENGINEERING PHYSICS.

For further information concerning a career with Pratt & Whitney Aircraft, consult your college placement officer—or write Mr. William L. Stoner, Engineering Department, Pratt & Whitney Aircraft, East Hartford, Connecticut 06108.

Take a look at the above chart; then a good long look at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft—where technical careers offer exciting growth, continuing challenge, and lasting stability—where engineers and scientists are recognized as the major reason for the Company's continued success.

SPECIALISTS IN POWER . . . POWER FOR PROPULSION—POWER FOR AUXILIARY SYSTEMS. CURRENT UTILIZATIONS INCLUDE MILITARY AND COMMERCIAL AIRCRAFT, MISSILES, SPACE VEHICLES, MARINE AND INDUSTRIAL APPLICATIONS.

A Hay-Ride Mixer sponsored by the Class of '69 will be held Saturday, October 29, at Diamond Hill State Park in Cumberland.

Tom Shean, sophomore class secretary, said no tickets will be sold at the dance. Anyone may purchase tickets at either Alumni Hall Cafe or Raymond Hall Cafe. Price is one dollar.

The VanGoghs will provide the musical entertainment for the evening, from 8 to 12 p.m. The hay ride wagons will leave every 20 minutes from the dance. Dress is casual.
Fried’s Fearless Forecasts

Last week’s record: 9-2
On the year: 68-17-1. 80%

It was a tough struggle fans, but Old Fearless finally made it happen. A score of ten in the major colleges but old Baldwin-Wallace let me down. My editor would not let me include the fourteen selections that we did not have room to print. . . . and I got every one of them right. This week I am making my first bowl prediction—in the College Bowl I see an upset: Suffolk University vs. PC 218. But away from show biz and back to the gridiron: the 1966 I.R.C. 49-0. Back to the Irish so far making a mockery of the so called “traditional classics.” Coach Parascandola has yet to find his first string for an entire game. Navy is sure to sink. Football fans anxiously await the dream game, N. D. vs. Mich. St. on Nov. 15th.

MISSOURI 10, NEBRASKA 7—Nebraska is undefeated, untied, but they’ve had many narrow escapes. Missouri’s defense ranks among the best in the land. The outcome of this tilt will be bowl bound. I like Missouri in an upset.

TENNESSEE 21, ARMY 5—The Cadets have fattened up their record on a steady diet of weak teams—but the Vols are big-time—Army will learn a lesson.

MICHIGAN STATE 47, NORTHWESTERN 7—State wants that No. 1 ranking. They’ll be looking to roll it up over the hapless Wildcats. Notre Dame beat N. W. 35-7 earlier this season.

TAMPA 21, PROCTER 17—The Spartans QB Jimmy Raye is the most improved player in the land.

UCLA 35, AIR FORCE 16—No team is going to stop the unbeaten Bruins. The Rams—they do it better than any other team in the nation, with both Gary Beban and Paul Johnson leading the charge. UCLA has a country. It is interesting to note, however, that UCLA has given up at least two TD’s every game.

VERMONT 21, UMASS 10—The Continentals are undefeated and UMass has yet to lose in the Yankee Conference.

USC 21, MIAMI 17—The undefeated Trojans will have their hands full containing Hurricane QB Bill Miller, but they will also have to rise to the occasion. Miami, although big underdogs, will give USC a scare.

BRONXTOWN, YALE 3—The “Big Green” has been upset twice this year, but they’ll grab the Bulldogs by the tail; if Harvard makes a mistake Dartmouth can back into a bowl.

ALABAMA 17, MISS. ST. 7—Both clubs are defense minded, but only one has the tools. We assume you have to score to win ballgames. Coach Bryant has Tide QB Ken Stabler filling in at the quarterback slot.

ARKANSAS 21, TEXAS A & M 7—This has to be the most balanced southwest conference in a long time. The Razorbacks are in the hands of Ail-American Ray Perkins.

Penn St. 10.  Harvard 41, Penn 0; Ohio St. 16, Minnesota 3; California 16, Illinois 10; Baylor 21, TCU 7; Clemson 27, Wake Forest 7; Arkansas, who has lost only to Baylor, needs a victory to keep that No. 1 ranking. They’ll be looking to roll it up over the hapless Wildcats. Notre Dame beat N.W. 35-7 earlier this season.

Joe’s). These forms must be filled out at the Student Congress office or from Mr. Louthis. . . . and lost them all. Poor you say? Irrelevant, I reply. The club has only been organized for less than a month but away from show biz and back to the gridiron with . . . and lost them all. Poor you say? Irrelevant, I reply. The club has only been organized for less than a month, and “of Providence College.” They created one. But there is more: they also brought uniform and their own spikes. Suddenly, all the students at PC have a new representative in the world of sports. Every appearance hence they make marks a victory over student apathy.

This is where “of Providence College” becomes important. The pressure was on, in a sense, for these guys to make a good showing. Their performances have not only been good, they have been close to inspiring. In every appearance they have shown the society that some of these teams with their superior experience and finesse. And then watch our men get out there and with some of the best in the land, hustle, spirit, and imagination into these clubs to a standpoint and almost win. . . . it’s quite an experience.

The administration owes the students a fall sport. As an intercollegiate team, we need not play a top flight schedule (nor could you probably), but we should work for it. Therefore, they should be backed by the administration to the extent that they could become an intercollegiate team and they should be entitled to the full support of the student body. Last week I said that you, the students, would have to do all the work for club football if you wanted it. The soccer club has already done the work for you here. . . . now they need your support.

The administration owes the students a fall sport. They have given off-the-record support to soccer as a possible fall sport. These students have shown that there are at least enough people interested to start a team and work for it. Football Club Gains Campus, Alumni Aid

In a rare burst of enthusiasm, with the smell of burning leaves in their nostrils, the vision of pon pon girls in their backs, and the roar of the crowd in their ears, the PC football team has locked up the challenge of club football and has mobilized its forces for action. Equally encouraging is the gusto with which the alumni seem willing to support the student effort.

Since the news of club football broke on the campus, a drive to enlist workers for the cause has begun. In two days, Sunday and Monday of this week, John Champeau and Ed Dunphy have been able to gather a list of 343 volunteers to work for the club by gathering funds. Their original goal was 250. The drive will continue this week and more support is being sought from the commuter students.

Possibly the most important occurrence was a meeting on Monday night with several local businessmen. These were business men who know how to organize and run operations of the scale being planned. Their advice and influence would be invaluable, we are told, and we have it. If this is a sampling of PC alumni spirit, then club football cannot lose.

A five day plan is in the making. Five Friars and five Bruins. A five month period. It all depends on the funds. Their original goal was 10 percent of this. The Friars have never really been the front runners. The Bruins are a rough team with the club's inexperience, especially on the offense, showing in spots. The offense has yet to amount a solid attack but this should come with experience.

The site of the action would have cost them the final three miles of the race. Nine and one half hundred, the only hill on the 4.6 mile course, would have cost them the final point. The site of the action was centered in the middle of the winter.

Despite the fact that many of the regulars could not make it for Sunday's game with the Italicas, a semi-pro team, the Friars Soccer Club put on a good show, although losing 2-0. The Friars did, in fact, force about 75 percent of the play into the Italicas of the field with a much improved passing attack. The defense allowed only about five good shots on goal in the first half, two of which got by for scores.

The Italicas were mostly young players with a good local reputation and who were weaned on soccer. Their superior foot control enabled them to put the very real scoring threat by the Friars while making the best of their few shots.

The club football game last Friday, the Brown Junior Varsity also shut out the Friars 0-0. This is the same team which walked over an experienced Providence College team by five points, 27-22. The Bruins are a rough team with the club's inexperience, especially on the offense, showing in spots. The offense has yet to amount a solid attack but this should come with experience.

One of the club's advantages was impressed with the play of the Providence College club football team and the fact that they have been only together three weeks. He said that with a few months of experience the team "should go far."

Harris and Powers Key to Victory; Team Set for RIC; Lose Close Game to Brown JV

The action was fast and furious this past week at Hendrickson Field as an inevitable showdown battle is looming between champion Albertus Magnus B and the number one challenger, the New Haven Elms.

Yesterday the New Haven Elms upset the mighty BeanTown Bombers, 15-13, in a game that featured many great plays and a few hot tempers. The teams battled to a 12-12 half-time deadlock with Tom Mullen of the Bombers and Brian Har­kins of the Elms each catching two touchdown passes. Otto Gionetii intercepted an errant Beantown aerial in the second half and this proved to be the decisive play. Quarterback Jack Loehman then threw 10 yards to move Mr. Harkins and the Elms were out in front for keeps. The remainder of the game was a bitter defensive struggle with the Elms forcing the Bombers into frequent mistakes.

The Magnus Marauders, styled by an aggressive Chicago Club defense for the entire first half, got their precision machine operating in the second half and came surging results. Norm­men 38-6. Leading the attack was the versatile Pete Ryder. As a defensive safety, Ryder inter­cepted two passes, running one back for a touchdown. By City Bombers at the quarter, threw a 30-yard scoring pass to Doug Lees who walked past the con­ fused Chicagoans on a 25 yard scamper to pay dirt. The Magnu­mus defensive line was again a dominating factor in the con­test.

In another significant game played this week the Souly Longhorns knocked the New­Haven Azorns from the ranks of the unbeaten, 24-0. In a mild upset the Blackstone Valley Club whipped the-they unbeaten Chi­cago Elms, 24-7.
