Late Providence Rally Falls Short of Mark

The P. C. College Bowl team lost to Columbia University Sunday by a score of 205 to 380. The contest was broadcast in color on live nationwide T.V. (P.C.'s defeat is being blamed by underground savants on the fact that Jim Harkin had his wisdom tooth removed last Monday.)

The game was close-fought until about two minutes before the final buzzer when Jeff Rosen led Columbia on a 100 point blitz.

For their efforts the College was presented the second prize of a $500 scholarship grant by General Electric, sponsor of the College Bowl.

Coach Edward Brennan was well satisfied with the performance of the team. He said he felt it was "a hard, good, game. Columbia was just faster to the ball."

Very Reverend William Paul Haas, President of the College, was very proud of the excellent overall impression the team made for the College. He felt "we could have taken it." Most important, though, Father Haas thought, was the "fine personal style" of each of the team members as representatives of the College.

Returning to the campus, the team was greeted by about 200 enthusiastic students. On hand also was the Reverend Frederick C. Hickey, G.P., Vice President for Community Affairs. Representing Father Haas, Father Hickey presented the team members with pen and pencil sets in recognition of their efforts.

Father Hickey on Monday was asked about the possibilities of P.C.'s appearing on the College Bowl again. He said that it is not likely to be in the near future. "We are anxious to return to the Bowl whenever G.E. might again request it. We hope that it will be soon."

Ed. note: See Mr. Brennan's "Letter to the Editor."

HARRY GOLDEN, second speaker in the Providence Forum, will be in Alumni Hall on November 15.

HARRY GOLDEN, second speaker in the Providence Forum, will be in Alumni Hall on November 15. Mr. Golden is a native New Englander and singer-guitarist whose repertoire ranges through the whole of American folk music—bottle-neck blues, Wylye Guthrie, jazz, Southern mountain, rhythm and blues and cowboy.

Since his graduation from Harvard in 1964, Tom has performed in many clubs and concerts along the East coast from Boston to Miami and has also made appearances in Europe and Canada.

Included on the program will be Robert Corwin, a senior from Classical High School, and Ben Silver, a freshman at Brown University. Both have appeared at Club 47, a leading Boston coffee house.

A duo composed of Bill Gleason and John Gravlin will also perform, along with John Brown. All three have appeared at Club 47 and in St. Paul, Minneapolis.

Linda Simoneau, a veteran performer of the Tetra-Tetra, a successful Providence, and Robbins Morgan, from Wheaton College, will conclude the program.

John Champeau and Ed Dumphy, co-chairmen of the festival, a part of the Ring Dance week, have announced that dress will be casual. No seats will be provided on the gym floor; but guests may bring blankets. The show starts at 8 p.m.

Ticket salesmen predict a sell-out. Tickets can be purchased this week from Tuesday through Thursday in Alumni and Raymond Halls, and the same next week, at $1.50 per person.

As well as being distributed at all the major colleges in the area, tickets are on sale at the Donnelly Stores, Richard's Clothes Shop, Providence Country Club and the Company — all in downtown Providence. They can also be purchased at the door.

Juniors should purchase their tickets for the festival today and tomorrow in Alumni Hall, along with their tickets for the Saturday afternoon hayride and the closed dance following the festival at Roger Williams Casino.

Ring Dance bids can be purchased today in Alumni Hall.

HARRY GOLDEN, second speaker in the Providence Forum, will be in Alumni Hall on November 15.
Editorially Speaking

Solutions ?

Students have on various occasions voiced their opinions on some of the rules, many of which took effect here at the College. This year is no exception. As usual, these students, although quick to criticize, offer nothing in the way of a solution.

The Student Congress is always one of their points of criticism. They feel that the Congress is not a representative voice of the students but a mere "rubber stamp." To initiate the "reform" movement by students is the job of Student Congress, according to these "reformers." To these students I say: "Thank goodness!" It is better to wait for the spring and urge them to run for office.

Another group of student reformers is concerned over the fact that Providence College is still a "dry" campus. They cite the fact that other well known Catholic Colleges have given their students greater responsibility in this area—namely, Notre Dame, Manhattan, Fordham, and Georgetown. These students are quick to forget some of the unfortunate incidents in the past, resulting from drinking in excess. Perhaps a sign that the College is making headway in this area was the announcement that the seniors will be allowed to hold a cocktail party. Unfortunately, they feel that the College is not moving fast enough.

Dress and appearance is always another favorite topic for discussion. These students feel that beards, long hair, etc., are not to be frowned upon. "Why aren't they allowed?" is the question they constantly ask. The well-groomed and neatly attired student is a minor goal that the College strives to achieve. These signs are more often than not the mark of a gentleman—the PC problem is no exception.

The College is slowly but surely making headway in a great many areas. The process is, however, slow. The Student-Faculty Board has been a step in the right direction and gives the student body a greater voice in the administering of the College. Patience is all that is required.

Coach Brennan had said earlier was true: four of our best were indeed equal to four of their best!

We were fortunate enough to mingle with the Columbia crowd as they left the studio; and it is by no means an understatement to say that they were impressed! Many of them chatted about that "exclusive men's college in New England" which had given their team such a fright in the closing minutes of the game. The majority, including one Columbia dowager bedecked in jewels and furs, had nothing but praise for "two such well-matched teams."

Now whether or not the Columbia people were really impressed is ultimately of minor significance. What the team did was to prove to us that we can stand with the very best and give a due account of ourselves. To say that we are academically on par with the Ivy Leaguers is not really true; but to say that we are good and that we can prove our quality at any given time before the very best has now been proven. Columbia was very impressed by our performance as were we as well; and when the Columbia fans left the studio chanting "New York is ours," we couldn't help but feel that they took a bit of Providence along with them.

To Coach Brennan and the entire college Bowl team—a well-deserved thanks.

Still Champs . . .

Last Sunday afternoon Columbia University dealt the death-blow to P.C.'s budding television career. But if the sentiment of the Columbia fans themselves is any indication, Providence College won a great deal more than it lost.

It is useless to rationalize defeat; and it is too unfair to our opponents to use the handicap of the "basketball Leaguers is not really true; but to say that we are good and that we can prove our quality at any given time before the very best has now been proven. Columbia was very impressed by our performance as were we as well; and when the Columbia fans left the studio chanting "New York is ours," we couldn't help but feel that they took a bit of Providence along with them.

The stage was set for this "battle of brains"—between a Goliath and a David—and it took only thirty minutes to prove once and for all that what Providence College finds itself often under the handicap of the "basketball Leaguers is not really true; but to say that we are good and that we can prove our quality at any given time before the very best has now been proven. Columbia was very impressed by our performance as were we as well; and when the Columbia fans left the studio chanting "New York is ours," we couldn't help but feel that they took a bit of Providence along with them.

The stage was set for this "battle of brains"—between a Goliath and a David—and it took only thirty minutes to prove once and for all that what Political Responsibility . . .

Monday afternoon an official representative of a local university daily newspaper attempted to solicit signatures from members of the Cowl editorial board. The nameless student wasFM, YOUE WOULD MEAN EXPLAINING ONCE AGAIN YOUR POLICY ON CLASS TARDINESS?

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Liquor has been the subject of many discussions at Providence College. The administration has, in fact, entrusted the students with the use and control of liquor off-campus socially. Much of the administration's trust was based on the idea that the students had a sense of pride in themselves and in their college, and that they would act accordingly. However, there seems to be a minority who do not have any pride.

On many occasions, their conduct represents that of a derelict rather than that of a college student. This group of misfits may have been at P.C. for quite some time, but, in the last several years, they have become very annoying and troublesome. It is time to do something about them. Either we police ourselves or we can expect the administration to take a tougher stand. This plan to do it.

Directly related to this problem of raudiness is that of seeing liquor to minors. In Rhode Island, no one can buy or consume liquor if they are under twenty-one years; however, there has been wholesale violation of this law by the majority of campus organizations. We think this may be the root of the problem. How can a club ask its members to respect the property of an individual when it has little or no respect for the law?

The time to prevent any fatal accident is now! We can accomplish this only if we have the support and cooperation of all the students.
I cannot conclude this column without saying a few words about Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades. The reason I cannot is that this column is sponsored by the makers of Personna Stainless Steel Blades, and they are inclined to get peckish if I omit to mention their product.

Not, mind you, that it is a chore for me to plug Personna. Or, for that matter, to plug any product with which I am not sufficiently familiar to be able to stretch the truth about it. But I like Personna, and I am paid to plug them, so I cannot help myself. And if, as some people who blame my attitude on my salary, they find they dislike the product, I ask them to blame the product, not me.

On the other hand, I am not likely to go out of my way to plug anything. There is a difference between plugging a product and trying to sell it.

But still, I cannot pass up the opportunity to plug Personna, because I have used them for years and have found them to be the best blades I have ever used. They are sharp, they last a long time, and they are easy to use. They are also reasonably priced, which is important to me because I have to make a living.

As I said, I cannot conclude this column without mentioning Personna. So here it is: I recommend them wholeheartedly, and I hope you will try them and find them as good as I do.

Ted Lawler: "Dialogue is a process of discovering together, of giving and receiving, of educating one another. It is not just talking, but more importantly a searching for truth and meaning in the lives of others. Dialogue is a way of life, a way of being in the world."
On the Aisle

By L. BRUCE PORTER

Ignominious is the only proper evaluation of the implication regarding an affair at the Veterans Memorial Auditorium last Saturday evening. It was the opening of the tenth anniversary season for the Island Civic Chorale and Orchestra. A concert performance of Verdi's Aida was given. It was truly inspired and superior in interpretation. This was a type of the sustained high artistry that has come to be expected of this group. But this concert was also indicative of an attitude prevalent on the part of the music audience here. It seems that there is a type of intellectual snobbery that packs the concert hall for performances by visiting, renowned, professional groups, but leaves the house half empty for the performance of local artists. New at first it might seem unreasonable to demand that the Rhode Island Philharmonic receive as much patronage as the illustrious Boston Symphony, but a truly devoted music audience will foster and patronize the arts as well as indulge its pampered sensitivities. The size of the audience at last Saturday's performance makes one question whether the effort was worth it. Possibly the Island Civic Chorale is too good for us.

Down with the (pseudo-) intellectuals and (pseudo-) sophisticated who ratle programs, cough, whisper, hum, and chant with a consistency between movements and even during the performances. It is a situation that has come to be expected of this group. But this situation must be dispensed with. A concert audience should have social obligations after social obligations or concert performances or routine run-throughs are the bill of fare at the concerts of these visiting groups.

It was a great pleasure to hear once again the voices of Giovanni Consiglioli and Rina Telli; their performances here last year in Cavalleria Rusticana were warmly appreciated. The fourth act was certainly the highpoint of the evening. The duet "Pu' fli rivetto" showed Rina Telli and Giovanni Consiglioli at their finest. Joseph Salvador, as both Ramfis and Pharaoh, was very impressive.

Certainly this was deserving of a greater audience: with Lear we should lament this "base ingratitude."

PR Unit Aids Children's Center

On Monday, October 31, Company K-12 held a Halloween party for the freshmen in the Rhode Island Civic Chorale. A number of games were set up in the gymnasium of the center and supervised by the members and pledges of the Company. Prizes were also given out for the most original and for the funniest costume.

From 6:30 to 8:30 the games were for the younger children. However, the center does have facilities for young people up to age 16 and a dance was held for them after the younger children had been sent to their cotages.

In recent years the center has been the scene of a mass exodus each Halloween night. This year the children's attention and interest was successfully held and there was no such exodus.

Company K-12 is primarily a military society with special emphasis placed on self-discipline and teamwork. To continue to foster these traits K-12 held its first field training this year in which freshmen took part.

Saturday the members and pledges traveled to Providence, the city where the freshmen received their first taste of individual tactical training and were acquainted with the role of the individual soldier on patrol.

In the afternoon the pledges were sent on simulated reconnaissance and combat patrols.

Club Discussion

The accounting major, long ignored by the College's Business Club in its choice of speakers, will play a more prominent role in determining subjects of discussion for the club this year. The purpose of the Business Club is to aid P.C. students who wish to enter the field of business or accounting. The club attempts to do this by presenting a program of speakers, who in the past have been almost entirely concerned with business. This year speakers concerned with accounting have also been invited.

Due perhaps to the broadening outlook of the club, membership in the Business Club is higher than ever before with more than 60 members. For $3.00 dues members may hear the many speakers invited by the club and enjoy free refreshments at club meetings.

The first speaker this year was Mr. Guy Hearn of the Burchroughs Company, who spoke on "Careers in Sales." The meeting was held as usual at the Oates Tavern.

Officers of the club for 1966-67 are: Robert Field, president; Ronald Shea, vice president; William Grover, secretary; Michael Carter, recording secretary; and John Hynes, corresponding secretary. Ronald Powers is chairman of the speakers' committee. Mr. Breen, head of the Business Department, is the club's advisor.
Yearly Communion Breakfast
Sponsored by Big Brothers

The Providence College Big Brothers and their little brothers from the Dr. Patrick L. O'Rourke Children's Center on Mount Pleasant Avenue attended the annual big brother-little brother Communion breakfast at Alumni Hall last Sunday.

The breakfast was preceded by a "folk" Mass celebrated by Rev. Francis C. Duffy, O.P., at 9 a.m. in Aquinas Chapel. The "folk" Mass was prepared by Rev. William D. Folesy, O.P. Wally Williams was guitarist.

The menu for the breakfast consisted of ham and eggs, toast, blueberry muffins, and fruit cocktail.

After the breakfast, the group walked to Albertus Magnus where they were shown films and color slides of last year's big brother-little brother picnic at Lincoln Woods. Slides of last year's little brother retreat and of various big brother-little brother summer camping trips were also shown.

The Communion breakfast was planned by the executive board of the Big Brothers Organization. The Rev. Paul M. James, O.P., chairman of the P.C. sociology department, is moderator of the club. The little brothers' breakfasts were paid for with funds collected on last year's Tag Day; the big brothers paid for their own meals.

The Big Brothers currently sponsor football and basketball leagues for the little brothers. They also hold weekly boxing, wrestling, and art classes. Swimming instructions should be started in the near future. Even at this early time of the year over 110 little brothers have been assigned big brothers from Providence College.

Alemibic Editors Extend Format

The Alemibic, quarterly literary magazine of Providence College, is extending its format to include photography, art, and literary critical essays.

Announcements of the change were made by L. Bruce Porter, '67, editor-in-chief. Previous editions of the magazine, he said, emphasized prose and poetry.

This year's first issue will be published on November 21. The second issue is scheduled for release in January.

Any student may submit work to the editorial staff for critical appraisal. Ordinarily editors will accept work as it is written. Occasionally they offer suggestions for improvement before the magazine's deadlines.

Authors of published material receive cash prizes.

Contributors should contact Robert Hutson, prose editor, or Dennis Weintraub, '67, poetry editor, or leave their copy in the Alemibic's office in the basement of Aquinas Hall.

Editor's Note: The author of this column, Mr. Georgios Pan Piperopoulos, is a member of the Providence College faculty in the Department of Sociology and a Fulbright exchange scholar.

He has served since 1965 as the U.S. correspondent for the Dresif Press Organization in Greece, and has been an editor of the "Atlantic Greek Daily" in New York.

He wrote a series of guest editorials concerning the difference between American and European students for the "Collegian."

It will be my wardrobe: sophisticated, expensive, unique, different. (Try harder).

My car then. Body work, the make, the chrome, the letters on my back window. You know, something with finesse, something that will go big (Try harder).

My house; the best architect, rather sorry on the price; beautiful interior; novel exterior, the works. (Try harder).

My friends; they will do it, based on the "beat," the bohemian type; down with the World, up with the ideas (seen any lately?), really unique in everything. Individuals. (Try harder).

My spirit; that's it, I've got you! My intellectual endeavors, my successes in the world of the ideas, Books, lectures, ART, CULTURE. That's how I'll be different: a REAL Individual. (That's enough Sisyphus of my century; that's enough. Don't forget, life is short.)

Tragic that ordeal to unique-ness. The struggle to reach that something, to be THE Individual, the different, the "freaked out" from the mass.

And what are the ways, friend? They are all as old as man himself. (Don't forget, there have been handsome and beautiful; many have been rich and famous; quite a crowd, crowded in the pantheon of the world of ideas.

To try to be "different" often- times in the subconscious attempt to be attractive), that's what it means to be an Individual!

What an irony. Using every means made available by Society, to excel and thus be different, unique, individualistic.

But if that's the case (and reality apparently so indicates), what's the use of being different? Don't the means man usually employs in his struggle for individualism, exclude by definition based on their very nature, his hope for the achievement of a world-wide human state: Individualism?

It's hard, boring, pathetic for a man to sit down and think in the simple terms of "know thyself," esoterically, through the eyes of others.

If so many methods, so many and varying modes to the glory of being an "individual" none fatal and ineffective, then maybe one should sit down and try—for as long as a lifetime—to come in grips with his own existence.

And when one knows himself, one necessarily knows that it's only "He" that be HIM, and nobody else can be "Him." Man might be able then, to live with peace and ease in his society, in America, China, Greece, Russia, because he will know that he is in peace with his own Self; he will have come in grips with his own existence.

We had enough of that struggle for being different; an Individual, through societal, outward manifestations.

Providence Cadets Will March Friday

A group of three hundred ROTC cadets from Providence College will march in the annual Providence Veterans' Day Parade Friday.

Cadet Colonel John LaRocca '67 and Cadet Lieutenant Colonel Kenenth Gonzales '67 will lead a unit consisting of Companies A, B, and C of the First Battalion, the ROTC band, and a color guard in the parade which will begin at 9:30 a.m.

The march will pass through the downtown of Providence and by the reviewing stand in front of City Hall.

The First Battalion is comprised of both junior and senior ROTC candidates.

Sign in a second floor window of the McDermott dormitory: Flat for Rent.

Keyed-up students unwind at Sheraton and...

Save money
Save with weekend discounts!
Get your free ID card from the Sheraton rep on campus.
It entitles you to room discounts at nearly all Sheraton Hotels and Motor Inns.
Goout Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays, summer vacation, weekends all year round.

Sheraton Hotels & Motor Inns
Golden: "Only in America"

His love letter to an old friend, "Carl Sandburg," a commentary on the great American poet, sold over 40 thousand copies in the first three weeks after publication in 1961. In 1960, an adaptation of Harry Golden's life, Only in America, was produced as a play on Broadway, and Harry, an avid theatre-goer since his early days on the lower East Side of New York, at last was able to see himself behind the footlights.

His love letter to an old friend, "Carl Sandburg," a commentary on the great American poet, sold over 40 thousand copies in the first three weeks after publication in 1961. In 1960, an adaptation of Harry Golden's life, Only in America, was produced as a play on Broadway, and Harry, an avid theatre-goer since his early days on the lower East Side of New York, at last was able to see himself behind the footlights.

His love letter to an old friend, "Carl Sandburg," a commentary on the great American poet, sold over 40 thousand copies in the first three weeks after publication in 1961. In 1960, an adaptation of Harry Golden's life, Only in America, was produced as a play on Broadway, and Harry, an avid theatre-goer since his early days on the lower East Side of New York, at last was able to see himself behind the footlights.

His love letter to an old friend, "Carl Sandburg," a commentary on the great American poet, sold over 40 thousand copies in the first three weeks after publication in 1961. In 1960, an adaptation of Harry Golden's life, Only in America, was produced as a play on Broadway, and Harry, an avid theatre-goer since his early days on the lower East Side of New York, at last was able to see himself behind the footlights.

Golden: "Only in America"

This rotund, bespectacled man, who is scarcely more than five and one-half feet tall and has a laugh "that breaks like a sudden rising gust," is the author of several best-selling books. Two of these, Only in America and For 2¢ Plain, became best-sellers at the same time.

Only in America, a book of essays taken mostly from the back issues of his newspaper, sold over 300,000 copies in hard cover and over two million in the paperback edition. This represents the largest sale of a book of essays in the English language.

Among the other books that Mr. Golden has written are Enjoy, Enjoy! (1960), and You're Entitled (1962), which included previously unpublished material covering his travels around the world and an appraisal of the Eichmann trial in Israel, which he covered for Life.

In the summer of 1963, he published a book entitled Forgotten Pioneer, a study of the pack-peddlers of America and their contribution to our civilization. He also wrote Mr. Kennedy and the Nazis (1964), which is the background story of the civil rights movement; So What Else Is New?, and a thought provoking account of the sensational Leo Frank trial of 1913, entitled A Little Girl Is Dead (1965).

Secretary of The Week

MISS ANN GROSSO
Secretary for Mr. Murphy

Sports Car Rally

The Providence College Sports Car Club will conduct an autumn rally on Sunday, November 20.

The rally, an average speed (time, speed, distance) contest, will begin with registration and inspection in the Alumni Hall parking lot at 11:30 a.m. The first car will be off at 12:30 p.m.

According to club officials, the rally, strictly for the unequipped car, is a "good rally to learn on, but technical enough for you veterans."

Entry fee is $2 per car. Duplicate trophies for the top three places will be awarded. A fourth award for D.L.B.F. (Dead Last But Finished) will be presented. Other awards will be given.

Rallymaster is Kenneth Gonzalez. Entries by mail should be addressed to him at Box 689, Friar Station, Providence, R. I. 02918. Phone entries may be made: 274-9464.

More education?

Come on, IBM, you're putting me on!

Yes, we are. We're putting you on the track of an exciting new kind of career for men and women with IBM's Data Processing Division.

A career in Computer Applications.

Just what is Computer Applications?

It's a mix of your engineering, scientific or math education with your ability to solve business problems and advise business management. A mix that can give you opportunities for growth, advancement and financial reward.

Best of all, IBM will train you for your new career. (That's where the "more education" comes in.) At full pay, of course.

When you've completed the extensive training program, you'll use your newly mixed talents to advise our customers on the most effective and efficient ways to apply IBM's information processing equipment to their business problems. So, come on. To an exciting, rewarding future.

Whatever your immediate commitments, whatever your area of study, sign up now for an on-campus interview with IBM, November 15

If, for some reason, you aren't able to arrange an interview, drop us a line. Write to: Manager of College Recruiting, IBM Corporation, 590 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10022. IBM is an Equal Opportunity Employer.
Fried's Fearless Forecasts

(Continued from Page 8)

Varisty Track

(Continued from Page 8)

Fried's Fearless Forecasts

(Continued from Page 8)

Intramurals . . .

(Continued from Page 8)

The sports department has announced the changes with regard to the purchase of student tickets. Formerly, all tickets were priced at $1 for the cheering section and $1.50 for all other tickets. This year, all tickets will be sold at $1.50 and the limit is one per student; while regular tickets will be sold at a per student limit with one costing $1.50 and the additional $2. The $1.50 price will be available only to students, which represents a $1 price difference and a $2 ticket cost.

Basketball

(Continued from Page 8)

intricate workings has been the big task so far for Coach Mul­ laney, as he explained in an inter­view that the freshman team of last year has transformed into the Westinghouse All-America team as the opening unit is produced.

The team looks ahead to the IC4A race in New York next month. The Irish are on top, but many more teams will be on top too.

THE COWL, NOVEMBER 9, 1966

Ticket Boost and Sales Times Announced by Athletic Dept.

The students' desire to support the team. Tickets will go on sale for season opener, December 3 against Assumption College, on Friday, November 18th. These tickets will be available only and, after this date, the remaining tickets will be sold as regular admission on the following Monday (21st) and Tuesday (22nd). The next ticket sale will be on Monday, November 28th, for the cheering section enthustiasms. Admission tickets for the game with Brown University on December 7th.

The times for the sale of tick­ets is also new this year because of the no-break schedule of classes. Members of the Stu­dent Congress will be selling tickets between the hours of 11:30 and 12:30 and also later in the afternoon at 3:00 to 4:00. These hours will be the same on all days that tickets are avail.

intra-murals . . .

(Continued from Page 8)

eto was the deciding play in this contest. In today's feature attraction, people can see the game of the entire season, Alberta's Mag­nus meets the first place New Ha­ven team. As a result of the two successive ties Albertus Magnus must beat New Haven or their dreams of two straight league championships will practically vanish.

The big rebounder off of both the offensive and defensive boards. The Gophers will clinch a Rose Bowl bid for the Boilermakers.

The team as a whole is a much better ball handling squad than that of last year, an asset which will enable Walker and Riordan to work against a zone and know that the ball will be gotten to him. Riordan has come back this year looking better than ever. The team has lost none of the aggressive­ness that enables him to come up with his noted defensive performances. His attitude is improved and he seems to be the team's answer to Mullaney's second baseman and not in the forward position.

The question that remains to be answered is: "How successful will Baltimore be in winning this year?" To form your own opinion, come out and meet the 1966-67 Friars when they are introduced at their annual pre-season team preview and clinic. This will be held on Sunday, November 20, at eight p.m., in Alumni Hall. Tickets are now on sale at the athletic office and the price of admission is fifty cents.

The legal victory to carry the ball will be gotten to him.

The question that remains to be answered is: "How successful will Baltimore be in winning this year?" To form your own opinion, come out and meet the 1966-67 Friars when they are introduced at their annual pre-season team preview and clinic. This will be held on Sunday, November 20, at eight p.m., in Alumni Hall. Tickets are now on sale at the athletic office and the price of admission is fifty cents.

The legal victory to carry the ball will be gotten to him.

The question that remains to be answered is: "How successful will Baltimore be in winning this year?" To form your own opinion, come out and meet the 1966-67 Friars when they are introduced at their annual pre-season team preview and clinic. This will be held on Sunday, November 20, at eight p.m., in Alumni Hall. Tickets are now on sale at the athletic office and the price of admission is fifty cents.
Harris Finishes Third; Friars Primed for IC4A's

By JOE ADAMEC

The Providence College Friars parted talent and team spirit into their fourth consecutive New England's Team Championship on Monday over the tough Franklin Park course. With Paul Harris leading the way for a third place finish, the Friars again proved that they are the best team in the northeast.

They had compiled a 10-1 record and had taken the first five places in the EICAA meet for their third championship there, but it all would have been meaningless had they not won the big one. If you want something badly enough to work for it, the way these men have worked, chances are you are going to win it. But chances do not produce champions and the performance of the Friars in winning their fourth consecutive championship was nothing short of inspiring.

Over 25 of the top teams (7 men each) were assembled on the starting line at Boston's Franklin Park for the 54th annual running of this race. The margin by which the team prevailed over runner-up Central Connecticut (67 points) was not a true indication of the battle that was fought or of the tremendous team effort that was necessary for the coveted victory. The team had to go out fast in order to be in reasonable position heading into the hills and this is just what they did. Harris and Crooke were in the top ten with Al Campbell, Pete Brown, Dan Gavin, Larry Olson, and Bob Powers well up in the large field. Wesleyan's Amby Burfoot, the individual winner, was never seriously challenged and finished fourth in 40 seconds over the lead. The battle here was a team battle, until the Friars broke it wide open at the end with a display of effort that will carry them far up in the standings of next week's IC4A meet in N. Y. C.

Co-captain Paul Harris was running fifth among the best in the Northeast and he must have known that he was running well enough to be there with less than a mile to go. There is something about being told, "you are running great, Paul," that makes you want to keep feeling and putting out your greatest effort for a man who every day has given you his best. So, when Harris heard Coach Hanlon's encouragement, he proceeded to pass the two of the highest collegiate distance men in the East and finish third, fast closing on the second place finisher, George Starkus of Boston U. Paul bested the fourth place man by three seconds and the fifth place finisher by five. Viewing the finish one could not help but think of Harris' pre-meet comment that although the team boasts of no big names that could provide a dynamic finish, it did have a group of men who knew that teamwork could make up for the loss of two sub 4:10 milers. Teamwork was so much a part of the effort that the team was able to win the race with all seven and the coach were there. A sophomore finishing in the top ten in a race of this caliber is remarkable. When the sophomores have run the way that our own Bobby Crooke has run throughout this season, it was almost expected. As it was, Harris was able to finish eighth in the race.

Frosh Harriers Battle H.C. To New England Standstill

P.C.'s frosh harriers, portraying excellent team balance, tied Holy Cross last Monday in the 54th annual running of the New England's. The remaining competition was far behind, making it a rather lopsided race of fair, save the duel between the Friars and Crusaders.

The Frosh nemesis, Tom Mamo of Colby College, former Friar and Crusader, captured individual honors topping the field of over one hundred runners in the starting line. The amazing time for the 3.4 mile course was 15 minutes and 42 seconds. Last week, Mamo captured the EICAA title, only to see his singular efforts overshadowed by the superior balance of the Friar squad.

The race featured a very fast start, with Mamo taking an early lead. The P.C. frosh, meanwhile, as in pre-race strategy, ran as a group basing their hope for victory on a team effort. However, the Holy Cross tracksters had several runners among the leaders. Thus developed the team duel that eventually forced a tie for meet honors.

First across the tape for the Friars was Marty Robb (16:15) in fifth place. Close behind was Charlie Scannella (16:20) finishing sixth. Next came Tom Malloy (16:42), Tim Smith (16:43), and Tom Dunn (16:44) finishing thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth. Their efforts kept the Friars from their dream of a meet win at 7-0-1. The team balance gives speculation for a successful season finale in the IC4A meet next week.

New England Results

Defense Emphasized in Early Basketball Drills

Amid the fever stirred up by the College Bowl team and the all-winning efforts of the Varisty cross-country team, the 1966-67 varsity basketball team has been practicing in earnest under the direction of Coach Joe Mullaney.

Led by returning letterman Jim Walker, everyone's All-American last season; Mike Riordan, Steve Sarantopoulos, Pete McLaughlin and Bill Bartlett, the Friars have been concentrating on team conditioning and the defensive basics of Coach Mullaney's now famous combination defense. Familiarizing the sophomores with its (Continued on Page 7)

Joe Crooke, Paul Harris, Al Campbell, Larry Olson and Pete Brown.

Albertus B.', Met B' Tie In Dark; Both Clubs Risk Records Today

While the eastern football experts seek to determine this year's Lambert Trophy winner, the prognosticators of P.C. are also puzzled as to who the eventual champion of the Intermural League will be.

In yesterday's big game Albertus B and Met B remained unbeaten as the result of a 12-12 deadlock. The game became a nocturnal affair just long enough to keep most of the second half and it was a miracle that the players could see the man standing next to him in the frigid temperatures.

Albertus scored first on Pete Wrobel's first half interception and a fifty yard run. The Mets came right back with 6 points on a series of passes thrown by Pete Meade and concluded by Charley Pierre's catch in the last period. Pete Ryder threw a five yard bullet to Don Looney, putting the Mets ahead for a moment. Albertus tied Mets Knots scored the once again as Meade rolled left and lofted a pass to the right side-line, where Ken Soska stood all by himself for the score. The Mets came within five yards of the winning tally late in the game but could not break the Magus goal line defense.

Their With Wonders kept their first place hopes alive by edging the Scolly Longhorns 60-58. The game was the epitome of frustration, as neither team could mount an offensive threat. The Wonders finally broke the ice late in the game as Dan Samuels pitched a sideline toss to Rich Siskhan who immediately threw it downfield to Bob Paquette. Paquette proceeded to outrun his defender to the end zone for the game winning score.

New Jersey A, overlooked as a contender, won five over Monday by truncating the Triton State Club 24-6. Bob Frield demonstrated that he is just as adept at out-blocking as he is at predicting them. Frield's two touchdown passes to Serge Zorio highlighted the victory.

The New Haven Accorn, although the second team in the New Haven Club, whitewashed the Attleboro Club 124, for their sixth victory. Jack Mordente's T.D. strike to Fred Ben (Continued on Page 7)