Trinity Rep. Conservatory
presents
In Case of Accident at the Blackfriars Theatre

The Providence College Performing Arts Series will present In Case of Accident, an original script by Francis Elitzig. Performing will be The Perishable Theatre ensemble which was begun by a group of Trinity Rep. Conservatory students in the summer of 1983.

In Case of Accident is the story of a man who is killed when his car slips beneath the wheels of a tractor trailer rig. An off-duty Providence policeman who happens upon the accident is given the task of notifying the next of kin. An so begins the odyssey that draws him deeper and deeper into the victim's life and death. Accident or suicide? Officer Harrison Williams' need to know becomes an obsession; his investigation soon exceeds the routine, as he begins to take over the dead man's life, adopting his dog, moving into his apartment, and handling his affairs. The lives of the two men begin to mirror each other; and, in dealing with the aftermath of the victim's life, he eventually comes to terms with his own. The play employs cinematic techniques to create portraits in montage of both men.
