Commentator Brinkley Will Speak at College

David Brinkley, NBC news commentator, will speak here in Alumni Hall on Sunday.

The lecture, sponsored by the Student Congress, is scheduled for 8:45 a.m. on May 31. Everyone, including students, is encouraged to attend.

Brinkley is deluged with requests for advice by youngsters aspiring to careers as news broadcasters. He tries to answer most of these requests individually, but recently summed up his advice as follows: "In writing news for broadcasting, it's important to remember that what you are saying is not to be printed but words to be spoken, and there is a great difference. Important requirements are clarity, simplicity, and brevity. It's harder to do it that way, but the results are worth the effort."

"You should tell the news so people will listen to what you are saying, not how you're saying it; so they won't be aware of sentence structure and use of language. They listen, not to hear you talk, but to find out what the news is. If you simply talk instead of orating or reciting, it's possible for people to listen to the news rather than you." Brinkley further advised that it is important to get a solid educational grounding in general news subjects such as political and social science, rather than specializing in the creative arts, journalism or public speaking.

Brinkley was born in Wil- mington, Delaware, on February 22, 1923. He got his start in news, after graduating from high school and a stretch in the Army, on his hometown paper, the Daily News.

In a letter to parents Father William T. McCue, Sr., of Providence College, is to act as the official representative of the student body. He has been asked by Fr. Haas, Dr. Thomas, Fr. Lennon, Mr. Newton and Fr. St. George. The following is the text of the letter:

"The most important purpose of the Student Congress of Providence College is to act as the official representative of the student body. It is in this capacity that the Student Congress is now petitioning the Administration.

"The following points have been areas of student discontent for a number of years on this campus, and it is the feeling of the student body that definite changes are needed. By submitting these recommendations it is not our intent to imply that the Administration is not presently attempting to correct some of these problems, nor is there any personal animosity directed at any person associated with the problems. In fact, we would like to commend the Administration for its openness and progressive attitude.

"Inasmuch as the objective of this institution is to produce intelligent, productive, and responsible citizens of a democratic society, it is our firm conviction that these revisions will better achieve this goal.

"As the official representatives of the student body, we recommend:

1. The system of compulsory retreats be replaced by voluntary religious retreats and more meaningful religious experiences.

2. The Book Store facilities be extended to include more periodicals and a wider range of background works. This could be accomplished by the creation of a library-service center in the Book Store manager in selecting these books.

3. Well groomed beards and mustaches of the members of the Student Congress are to be accepted.

"The Student-Faculty Committee will be given a greater voice in the Student-Faculty Committee's policy statement of the Student Congress which was approved in the last Student Congress elections. In such a broad proposal as this it was hoped by the bill's sponsors that it would have greater effect and its questions could be dealt with more efficiently than presenting piecemeal proposals to the Administration.

The resolution will be sent as a letter to Fr. Haas, Dr. Thomas, Fr. Lennon, Mr. Newton and Fr. St. George. The following is the text of the letter:

To Cowl Detractors!!

The most attacked institutions on campus appear to be the Church and the student body—and both ironically for their lethargy. It is obvious that the student body is lethargic—just ask anyone who has attended a campus function that requires student support. And if you want to hear Cowl detractors, just listen for the complaints—no, or a better yet, when it does not come out.

But in defense of an oppressed Cowl staff I offer this comment by a person with some experience in campus publications. He stated that a school like Providence which does not have a student newspaper that is a journalism course offered, would not be expected to have a good paper, let alone a weekly paper. He was astounded to learn that PC's weekly regularly ran to twelve pages and its editorial staff was composed of only two English majors, a language major, an economics major, and a chemistry major.

I bring up the question of majors only because it seems that the people who care enough to give their time to present the Providence student newspaper, the Cowl, are alums with a paper of fair quality (it usually ranks first or second class with a near perfect score for the sports section) are not concentrated where one would expect—English, History. Humanities. People who have writing talent and creativity are usually the leading detractors and least donors of talent. Instead of leading the stimulus on campus, they are leading the lethargy.

This whole campus needs, excise the bitchy, the phony, the perfunctory. The best place to start is at the foundation...with the student body and with its voice the Cowl. Right now the student body is not the best nor is it the worst, but neither is the Cowl. Both have just enough people who care to try to make their respective groups good, but now it is time for the rest of the goddamn people to share the load.

Organized Farce!!

Judging from Administration planning, PC's public relations program will be held as usual this year. After every such fiasco the cry arises for re-evaluation of the entire program. In the fall of last year with the formation of a special blue-ribbon committee to study the issue in depth there was reason to be hopeful that this time the committee would be different. The committee has met, apparently reached a decision favorable to discontinuing the system. and yet both expert opinion and student objections are ignored. We still have a compulsory retreat!

"Exercise in Futility"

The objections to the present compulsory religious exercises (it can hardly be called a "retreat" in any sense of the word) have one major objection: it does nothing. The only result of the retreat, armed with communion wafer and confession statistics, insist it does. But after the arguments, developed in the upper echelons of the administration filter down to the student level, the judgment by most of the college body is that the system is imperfect and a rise in futility—the retreat itself, and what is more tragic, any attempt to discontinue it.

"Organized Farce"

Any student who has ever attended one of these "mass meetings" in Alumni gymnasium will be aware of the futility of all such exercises. Anyone interested in the true retreat spirit of tranquility, contemplation, and sharing was sorely disappointed. Anyone interested in a three-day layover fun period find it equally lacking. The one interested students from elsewhere. The interests of the interested student is religiously embittered by the nonsense of it all. For it is only—short, if illogical, step to accuse the Church and the institution's police action in favor of "religion."

"Political Incongruity"

Ignoring the seemingly unimportant notion that the exercises are no more harmful than retreats, an appeal might be made on a purely political level. In the eyes of the protest leaders the policy's best to alter its image as a Catholic school to a school with Catholic heritage; the distinction is subtle but real. The Chaplain's Office from all appearances now functions in a capacity not too differently from those on secular campuses. This separation is made by the fact that the policy is enforced by the Theology is emphasized as an academic discipline to quell any federal fears that we are "preach-teaching religion" in the schools. But we as a society are not to deny that all these things are "evil:" it may all prove to be ultimately necessary and even valuable. But to a Federal court that may find a school's compulsory theology unmeriting Federal aid, compulsory retreats are hardly more acceptable than the sit-in at the Supreme Court.

In all, if the blue-ribbon committee to study retreats is to have any function other than to repeat the annual protest and rest, and if the integrity and opinions of its members are to be respected, then the executive committee must be composed of people not to deny that all these things are "evil:" it may all prove to be ultimately necessary and even valuable. But to a Federal court that may find a school's compulsory theology unmeriting Federal aid, compulsory retreats are hardly more acceptable than the sit-in at the Supreme Court.

All in all, the Lennon Poll was a step in the right direction. The students have been granted—none. We are being "committeed" to death. Every honest attempt at participation is stifled by being directed not to deny that all these things are "evil:" it may all prove to be ultimately necessary and even valuable. But to a Federal court that may find a school's compulsory theology unmeriting Federal aid, compulsory retreats are hardly more acceptable than the sit-in at the Supreme Court.

Can anyone state that in actuality we have been granted any real participation? It seems that students have been granted several avenues which they can use to vent their frustrations without upsetting the Administrative apple cart.

The articles in the local press also asserted that the real loser was the College. But, when a student begins to investigate certain areas on this campus, it is amazing how quickly he encounters locked doors. If the Administration handles this situation. We have heard that these young men have already been involved in a sympathetic discussion with the administration.

THE COWL, FEBRUARY 9, 1967

Mr. Edward C. Brennan, instructor in psychology, here interviewed recently by Richard Pearson of the Cowl.

Mr. Brennan: It is difficult to estimate the number of students who have utilized the services of the Counseling Center. I think that first of all we have to realize that the services of the Counseling Center are not unavocational, but more or less on a hierarchical scale. Many students will come in briefly and discuss academic problems, personal problems which they feel they have solved themselves but merely wish to validate their solution. I would estimate that between two hundred and three hundred students have sought some kind of assistance or confirmation from the personnel in the Counseling Center during the first semester.

Cowl: What are its services?

Mr. Brennan: Concerning the services of the Counseling Center, I would say that the center is primarily oriented in the direction of psychotherapy or psychological counseling. The Counseling Center concerns itself primarily with assistance to the student on matters of a personal nature such as social and emotional problems, interpersonal problems, adjustment difficulties, etc. Therefore the prime service to be rendered to the student is some kind of psychological or psychiatric aid. This may take the form of multiple interviews and sessions over a protracted period of time or the problems may be resolved within a few sessions.

Cowl: As head of the counseling services, what do you think is the major problem confronting the college student today, both generally and here at P.C. and what do you advise?

Mr. Brennan: To try and establish a major problem confronting the college student is simply an opportunity to open yourself to simplicity/generalities. I would, however, to answer your question say that the major problem for college students and therefore Providence College students is what is termed in the psychological jargon a Identity Crisis. Put in other words the Identity Crisis is the anxiety caused by asking myself the question "Who am I?" A question which we never totally answerable. The question or so called Identity Crisis precipitates in many of our students a great deal of anxiety manifest in such areas as future vocational choice, marital choice, a meaningful existence with overtones of potential suicide, a revolt against authority which assists one in answering the question, or, in this case perhaps as perceived by the student as ascribing identity to his person and insularity of the question many times precipitates feelings of inadequacy in heterosexual relations and therefore concomitant to this problem there may be symptomatic behavior in the form of homosexuality and masochism.

You know what do I advise. I do not see the Counseling Center or my role within the Counseling Center as an advisory position relative to the student body. The role of the counselor or psychologist within the Counseling Center is to engage in a kind of helping relationship with the student in order to develop some kind of insight into his own personality. My own personal orientation within this goal is a student centered or what has been called a client centered approach. The responsibility rests entirely with the student. The advisory capacity is somewhat apprehended here by the therapist. To spell out this a little more clearly, my reason for staying away from the role of advisor is simply a matter of my own personal philosophy. I believe that as an advisor I would be foisting value judgments upon the student..." (Continued on Page 10)
Playboy Philosophy

By William F. Buckley, Jr.

Permission to Reprint CAMPUS STREET MAGAZINE PLUS (February Issue)

I bring the news, which I had from Mr. Hugh Hefner's own lips, that the last issue of Play­boy Magazine sold four million copies, more than two million dol­lars' worth of advertisements, a phenomenal achievement: in­deed, it is just possible that Mr. Hefner is making more money from Playboy magazine enter­prises than any other publisher in the country, at least from a single magazine.

Mr. Hefner's Playboy is most widely known for the raciness of its prose and the total ex­posure of the female form. It is more than that, Mr. Hefner insists — and many agree, in­cluding professors and minis­ters and sociologists. It is a movement of sorts, and its Bible is an apparently endless series published monthly by Mr. Hef­ner entitled The Playboy Phi­losophy, the key insight of which is that "a man's morality, like his religion, is a personal affair best left to his own con­science." The phrase sounds harmless enough, and the tend­ency is to cluck cluck one's agreement to it.

The trouble with Hefner's law that society is composed of nothing more than a great num­ber of individuals, and if each man's morality is defined merely to suit himself, then every­one will endure the conse­quences of the individual's autono­mously defined ethics. Mr. Hefner's philosophy notwith­standing, there is such a thing as the public morality, and that morality has throughout civi­lized history been primarily sustained by religion.

The so-called sexual revolu­tion, of which Playboy is the slickest harbinger, asks in ef­fect that sanctions be removed against what is used to be known as "illicit sexual behavior." The Playboy group correctly skewers the conflicting and vague laws that lie in the dusty statute books of the individual states; and a case could be made, let us say, for removing criminal sanctions against ho­mosexuality between consenting adults. But the modernists want to go further, and, in effect, remove the moral sanctions against such behavior: and that is something else again.

All that is good is not em­bodied in the law; and all that is evil is not prescribed by the law. A well-disciplined society needs few laws; but it needs strong mores. And the kind of solipsism that is encouraged by the sexual revolution goes further by far than to en­courage a loosening of the laws. It encourages the loosening of public attitudes.

Philosophy

Now Mr. Hefner shrinks from the consequences of his own position, though he is quick to insist that he does not; that a general moral breakdown would not necessarily follow upon the acceptance of the Playboy Phi­losophy.

I am struck by a recent book advertised in the New York Review of Books, called "The Erotic Minorities." It is a plea, written by a Swedish doctor and introduced by the same kind of argumentation used by Mr. Hefner, for total sexual permissiveness. It is, in the publisher's words, "A Bill of Rights for erotic liberation of the 'sexually different.'" Note the stolen base—"sexually dif­ferent" is put in quotation marks to suggest that what we now think of as "sexually dif­ferent" is really rather arbi­trary, a hangover from old and useles Puritanical codes that presume to suggest there are right and wrong ways of mak­ing sex. The book lists some of the sexually different cate­gories, and suggests that pro­scriptions be made, if necessary at government expense, to pro­vide them the means for their gratification. My favorite cate­gory is "... the necrophiles, who require a corpse as the object of their passion."

If my eyes do not deceive me, and alas they do not seem to, it is the insight of Dr. Ul­ster that laws against necro­philia should be repealed, and that necrophiles should be per­mitted, indeed encouraged, to sate their appetites as best they can. Indeed, says the doctor, we need "mobile brothels" to provide for the sexually differ­ent.

Professor Benjamin DeMott of Amherst has said that the Playboy Philosophy is "the whole man reduced to his pri­vate parts." I do believe that he misses the larger point of the Philosophy, which is not so much a call to total lubricity as it is a renewal of the old personal utilitarianism of John Stuart Mill and his apostles, carried to anarchical lengths. It is a theory of ethics, by the way, to which such modern "conservatives" as Ayn Rand seem fully to subscribe. Its principal deficiency, I mean other than in the eyes of the God to whom increasingly in­frequent references are made, is its neglect of the social reali­ty.

John cannot behave exactly as he desires, because he will inevitably affect James, not to say Jane, if those desires are not contained by reference to the great prescriptions of hu­man conduct which are the most valuable part of the na­tion's patrimony.
Last year, thousands of lawyers, bankers, accountants, engineers, doctors and businessmen went back to college.

And not just for the football games.

We'd like to clear up what appears to be a misunderstanding. It is somewhat popular on campus to decry a business career on the grounds that you stop learning once you start working for Cléché Nuts & Bolts.

That idea is groundless.

We can't speak for Cléché, but we can for ourselves—Western Electric, the manufacturing and supply unit of the Bell System. 6 out of 10 college graduates who have joined us over the past 10 years, for example, have continued their higher education.

How're these for openers:

W.E.'s Tuition Refund Plan lets employees pursue degrees while working for us. Over 6 thousand have attended schools in 41 states under this plan. We refund more than $1 million in tuition costs to employees a year.

To name another program: advanced engineering study, under the direction of Lehigh University, is conducted at our Engineering Research Center in Princeton, N. J. Selected employees are sent there from all over the country for a year's concentrated study leading to a master's degree.

You get the idea. We're for more learning in our business. After all, Western Electric doesn't make buggy whips. We make advanced communications equipment. And the Bell telephone network will need even more sophisticated devices by the time your fifth reunion rolls around. The state of the art, never static, is where the action is.

At Western Electric, what's happening is the excitement and satisfaction of continued doing and learning. If this happens to appeal to you, no matter what degree you're aiming for, check us out. And grab a piece of the action.

K. of C.

Fyriel Council has announced its slate of activities for the second semester.

The Fyriel Council will have a closed retreat for members only at Our Lady of Peace Retreat House, Narragansett, on March 3, 4 and 5.

At present the K. of C. is sponsoring the Intramural Athletic Program, the Carolin Club Bowling League, and has also assumed responsibility for Mass lectures.

The campus council is also sponsoring a charity basketball game for the Rhode Island State K. of C. Charity Fund.

During the month of February Fyriel Council is opening up its membership to anyone wishing to join. The freshmen in particular are invited to join us at this time. Applications may be obtained from any member or from Donald Deasy in Room 302 of McDevitt Hall. The degrees will be conferred March 10, April 9 and 11. No applications will be accepted after March 1.

Brinkley... Pell Interns

Two Providence College juniors participated last week in Senator Claiborne Pell's Political Science Internship Program in Washington, D.C.

They were Richard A. Lefebvre of 139 Summer Street, Woonsocket, and James C. Berrier of 101 Williams Street, Street, Cumberland. Lefebvre is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse R. Lefebvre and Berrier is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clement C. Berrier.

The two are the first of six Providence College students taking part in the program this semester. They took part in the various functions of the Senator's office, observed the activities of Congress, and attended Senate hearings and floor sittings at executive agencies.

To be selected at a student at Providence College must be either a junior or senior political science major. They must also be a legal resident of Rhode Island and have a cumulative average of 3.0 (B) at the time of selection.

The internship program originated in 1962 with Brown University, the University of Rhode Island, and Providence College participating. It has been expanded to include most of the other colleges in the state.

Frosh Announce Coming Activities

Frosh social chairman Tom. Benoit and Ralph Paglieri have announced the first social activities to be sponsored by the class of 1970.

The freshmen will be a off-campus mixer on February 17. This will be open to all classes and will be held at Maria's in Cranston. Mr. Benoit stated that this affair will intended to be a victory dance before the Boston College basketball game. Entertainment for the dance, which will run from 8 p.m. to 12 p.m., will be pro-
Fr. Duffy, Dr. Galkowski Given Two New College Positions

An administrative assistant and a coordinator of research have been appointed at Providence College by the Very Rev. William Paul Haas, O.P., president.

The Rev. Francis C. Duffy, O.P., was named administrative assistant. He will act as liaison between the offices of president and academic vice president and other segments of the college community.

Dr. Theodore T. Galkowski of Providence was named research coordinator. He will supervise and review all applications for federal and foundation research funding.

Father Duffy, a Providence native, attended La Salle Academy and Providence College. He joined the faculty in 1963 in the political science department and has been assistant Dean of Men. He is a member of the ROTC 2-Year Program

The Military Science Department has announced that members of the class of 1969 (sophomores) will be eligible to participate in the ROTC program at the college in their junior and senior years.

The two-year program, leading to a commission as a second lieutenant in the United States Army, was initiated two years ago. Basically the same as the four-year program, the student must attend a six-week summer camp in June of this year in lieu of the basic course given normally in the freshman and sophomore years.

Upon successful completion of basic camp, the student will be accepted into the advanced course when he returns in September.

Students participate in the last two years of the program and will receive a monthly retainer of $40.00, as well as uniform, books and equipment. This plus pay for summer camp attendance amounts to approximately $3,100.00 over the two-year period.

Interested sophomores should make application at the ROTC office before March 15.

THE COWL, FEBRUARY 9, 1967
Letters to the Editor

January 17, 1967

Dear Editor,

For the past twenty years the Rhode Island Section of the American Chemical Society has been privileged to accept the invitation of the Department of Chemistry of Providence College to hold one of its monthly meetings at the College.

Throughout these years the meetings at Providence College have been looked forward to, no doubt because of the cordial hospitality extended by members of the campus community to our Section. I would dare venture that there would have been little objection from our members to holding all our meetings at the College.

This drastic change in attitude stems from incidents of Monday evening, January 16, 1967. I shall relate the details of these incidents so that the situation may be clear to all.

After a pleasant dinner and a brief, but excellent, talk by a member of the Theology Department of the College, the meeting was adjourned to Albertus Magnus Hall for presentation of our technical speaker. Upon our 8:00 P.M. arrival at the Albertus Magnus auditorium, we learned that the Carolan Club was presenting a movie. After some discussion it was clear that our reservation was in order and anti-dated that of the Carolan Club. Further, it was clear that the auditorium would be the only site on the campus adequate for our large numbers and which had available the required projection equipment.

In mind, I asked that the film be stopped, that the students leave and that they return at 9:15 P.M., when I expected that our meeting would be finished. After some delay occasioned by the rush to clear the room, the room was cleared in an orderly and quiet fashion. Our meeting then commenced at 9:00 P.M. At 9:00 P.M., return the thoroughly pleasant audience. The lower level opened and closed on numerous occasions much to the dismay of our speaker. This activity at the doors was climax at the lower front door when a student entered the room, looked incredulously at the speaker and the audience, looked disgustedly at his watch, and finally, exited and slammed the door in the speaker’s face. After the attempt to keep the upper doors closed, the students began rapping and then pounding on the doors to gain entrance. The meeting was adjourned at 9:20 P.M.

At 9:21:00 P.M., enter the thoroughly pleasant audience. As our members tried to leave, they were jostled out of the way. Those fortunate enough to get into the room were greeted in the corridor by students7 remarks which I found objectionable and insulting. After seeing and hearing this kind of behavior, two aims among our members were escorted to a door. As they left the room, we further exposed to the vehemence of Providence College students.

When a part of the room had been cleared, the speaker and I began to leave the room. This precipitated a demand to “get the show on the road.” This demand was expressed by yells, cheers, whistles, stamping of the feet and pounding of the chairs. While making our way up the aisle, the speaker’s fingers were smashed in the back, no doubt from a demand for the unfortunate timing of our visit. Our exit from the room was given the loudest applause I have ever heard.

As Chairman of our organization it is my responsibility to provide facilities that are conducive to stimulating intellectual and scientific discussion. It is obvious from the discourteous, insulting, and reprehensible behavior of these students that such discussions are no longer apropos at Providence College. It is with deep regret that I must recommend that the Executive Committees of the Rhode Island Section of the American Chemical Society reject further invitations to utilize the facilities of Providence College.

Sincerely yours,

Mark N. Rerick, Chairman

February 3, 1967

Dear Editor,

This letter is written in reference to Dr. Mark N. Rerick’s letter concerning the events at a Carolan Club movie held on January 16, 1967. I feel that Dr. Rerick’s letter is an over-simplification in that it is an indictment of the entire student body. It is not until the third page of his letter that Dr. Rerick mentions that there were only two hundred students attending the movie, and quite probably only a few of these acted in bad taste.

While in no way attempting to condone or accept improper conduct, I feel it is quite unjust to admonish 2,600 students for the actions of a small minority. Considering that the Carolan Club was presenting a mix-up in scheduling in the Office of Student Affairs, I think the Club was unjustly subjected to improper conduct. I regret that such tenacious attitudes, stamping of the feet and pounding of the chairs. At Star advancement is based on accomplishment and ability regardless of age.

Youth is an asset rather than a hindrance in the retail business.

The President of our Brigham’s Division is 34. In charge of our Turn-Style Division is a 31 year old General Manager. A 31 year old Star Market District Manager is responsible for 40 million dollars in supermarket sales. Obviously, seniority is not a prerequisite for advancement at Star.

We are able to advance our bright young men rapidly for a very simple reason: GROWTH. In 1957 Star was located in 2 states with one type of business—supermarkets. Today, Star is in 8 states with 4 retail businesses. We are part of the Jewel Companies which is in fourteen retail establishments.

College Presents Arts Concert

The Bach Chamber Orchestra in session.

On Monday, February 13, the Rhode Island Civic Chorale and Orchestra will present the Bach Festival Chamber Orchestra and Singers at 8:30 p.m. in Hartins Hall auditorium.

The Chamber Orchestra, which is comprised of professional musicians from Rhode Island and surrounding areas, was founded last year by the Civic Chorale and its Director, Dr. Louis Pichieri, in order to bring new and exciting repertoire to audiences. The Chamber Singers, drawn from the parent organization, complement the new ensemble.

Dr. Pichieri has been conductor of the Rhode Island Civic Chorale and Orchestra for the past nine seasons. He earned his Ph.D. from Syracuse University and is the author of a book on the beginnings of American music. He now serves as Director of Music for the Providence public schools.

The purpose of bringing the Bach Festival to Providence College is to test student reaction to entertainment of a cultural nature. If reaction is favorable then a fine arts series, similar to the Providence Forum Singers' Series, may be begun.

The Bach Festival is under the partial sponsorship of the Governor's Council on the Arts and of the National Endowment to the Arts.

Admission to Providence College students will be free. There will be a $2 charge to adults and $1 to other students.

PR's Sight Plans

A Regimental Drill Meet, a Tactical Inspection and Winter Ski Assembly head the list of Company K-12's second semester activities.

The Regimental Ski Assembly is to be held at the Oak and Spruce Ski Lodge, So. Lee, Massachusetts, on February 10th to the 12th. All companies in the Twelfth Regiment will be represented. Those attending from Company K-12 will be Capt. Paul A. Pelletier, Commander; Pvt. Geoffrey Metcalf, Executive Officer; and Pvt. Geoffrey Metcalf.

February 21 a mixer is to be held from 8-12 p.m. with Roger Williams Nursing School. Following the mixer, on February 22 the entire Company will head for the Wanskuck Gun Club where instruction and firing of the M-1 Rifle and a practice for the forthcoming Tactical Inspection will be conducted.

The Tactical Inspection is to be held at Arcadia State Reservation. The Twelfth Regimental Staff will conduct the actual inspection of troops. A tactical inspection requires perfection in field operations and a company's ability as a land fighting force.

On March 23 to the 26th the P/R National Convention will be held in Washington, D.C. Numerous legislative and social activities are in store culminating in a pilgrimage by all conventioners to the bier of Gen. John J. Pershing, founder and patron of the National Society of Pershing Rifles. Twenty members will represent the Company at the Convention.

The company sponsor for the year 1967-1968 is Miss Sharon Mintz. Chosen unanimously over all other candidates, Miss Mintz is undoubtedly going to be a significant asset to Company K in performing her role as company sponsor. She will be given the rank of Honorary Captain.

A request has been received by Lt. Colonel Evangelos, a former assistant Professor of Military Science at Providence College, Lt. Col. Evangelos, now stationed in Vietnam, has asked Company K to supply the torn villagers of South Vietnam with clothes, toys, blankets, etc. A campus wide drive will be announced in the near future.

Completing the 66-67 P/R will be the Company Elections on May 3 and the Annual Bowling tournament on May 13 followed by the Annual Pershing Rifles banquet. The Final Review and change of command will be held on May 14 at which time the newly elected officers of Company K will be commissioned.

Study Abroad

Sophomores interested in studying abroad next year must contact Mr. Laurent Gousie, director of Junior Year Abroad, before March 1, the final deadline.

Openings for study in Rome and Fribourg still remain. Mr. Gousie's office is in the language department of Meagher Hall.

JUNE GRADS

It's that time of your life—
Time to plan your future!

The State of Connecticut wants you to train for a professional career in Social Work. Federal legislation has produced exciting changes in program and we want your help.

Connecticut offers rich social, educational, and professional opportunities—A CAREER instead of a job. You will work in your choice of locations, earn an excellent salary, receive valuable fringe benefits and best of all, have the satisfaction of contributing abilities—abilities you may not even recognize you possess — to people less fortunate than you.

Representatives will be at Campus on Wednesday, February 15 at Room 216, Hawksins Hall, for a group discussion at 2:30 and to conduct the qualifying examination at 6:30. Your placement office can give you additional information.

If you're not sure Social Work is your goal stop over anyway. You may be surprised. You certainly won't be disappointed.

Cut Systems...

The system was adopted because of the failure of the old system to provide adequate control of cuts as well as student dissatisfaction of the "cut system." The new regulation is being used in many other colleges around the country, Fr. Lennon stated.

In the new regulations there is no provision for double absences on days preceding or succeeding holidays. When asked whether there will be double absences, Fr. Lennon said that there will not be and that a memo has been sent to the faculty explaining this and other points of the regulations.

According to Fr. Lennon, it would be unfair for attendance to effect one's grade in any way except if the student has taken more than six absences. However, a student is still held to the obligation to come to class on the day of an announced monthly or quarterly examination.

The new address of the Rev. John P. Gerhard, O.P., former senior class moderator, has been released:

Kevin Gardiner, a sophomore philosophy major who was second prize in last year's Shakespeare Speech Contest, and play the leading male roles.

DEAR REB:

Composer wants to know the score on '67 compacts

DEAR REB:

I'm a well-known composer, and I need a new car. The trouble is, I'm just too Bizet to pick one out. And what's more, many of the new cars I see are Offenbach in the garage for repairs. But I do have a good friend who is pleased with his new '67 Dodge Dart. He was given an excellent deal and Berlioz any money on it. My Bach is to the wall. Can you help me?

LUDWIG

DEAR LUDWIG:

My advice is that you let yourself Ravel in the enjoyment of driving the sporty, all-new Dart for '67. You'll find its List price is a lot lower than you'd expect. And even though it's longer outside and bigger inside this year, Dart's still an easy car to handle.

Sincerely, Reb

Here's the swinging, man-sized compact for '67 that's got three B's of its own: Bald, Brassy and Beautiful. Dart has been completely restyled for these compact price. Drop in at your nearest Dodge Dealer's and try it out for yourself.

Italian Society Elections

Rameo Moretti was elected president of the Italian Society of the College last week. Other new officers include Salvatore Capelli, vice-president; John Bonaventura, secretary; Paul Lollicata, treasurer; and Thomas Cookley, public relations.

Second officers are headed by Thomas Colicci, second president; Francis D'Alessandro, second vice-president; Domenic Geraci, second secretary; Paul Iennarella, second treasurer; and John Bevilacqua, second public relations.

Third officers include Joseph Spagna, Ronald Ciarlo, Robert Haile, Robert Pitassi and Michael Chille, respectively.

Dr. Salvatore Scotti, founder and moderator of the society, presided over a meeting following the elections. A motion was passed to give full support to the activities of the Italian Festival at the college and in the community.

The Italian Society has as its two-fold purpose the analysis and understanding of Italian culture. It strives to bring its membership to a comprehensive familiarization with the moving literature and figurative arts which have so sensitively mirrored Italy in the past and in the present, as stated in its constitution.

It also attempts to bring further insights about the political movements which shaped and sustained Italy, the music and the language of the peninsular nation.

Those who utilize the services of the Counseling Center. I feel that a value judgment as such is extrinsic or perhaps even inimical to successful psychotherapy.

Postscript: I would say that the approach taken within the Counseling Center is generally an approach that is directed towards the student finding a more meaningful dimension in his life. This meaning must be ascertained by the student. We have an axioms by which we can solve the problems of the individuals quest for meaning. So that from the positive viewpoint what we are really talking about is that through psychological counseling the individual is helped to acquire a greater understanding of himself as an individual and to become increasingly self-directive. We hope that as a result of the psychotherapeutic sessions the individual will be provided with a more effective utilization of his resources and potentialities of his personality.

Maybe you Liberal Arts majors never realized there's a place for you with IBM.

Obviously, there is. Why else would we run this ad?

"A place for me with IBM?" you may be asking. "As what?"

Among other possibilities, as a Sales Representative with IBM's Office Products Division. And a pretty interesting place it is, too.

It's a place for an inquiring mind. For someone who's intrigued by constantly changing problems and circumstances. Who has the maturity of judgment to be a leader—and the ability and personality to help business solve its communications problems.

It's also the place for someone who wants a substantial income while working toward a future in management.

Maybe you never thought about a career with IBM before. Maybe no one ever told you about its possibilities. Let us.

Intramural Competition Tightens

Four Team B-Ball Race Develops

With the passing of semester exams the intramural Basketball League has resumed and an exciting race is building up among the neighboring boroughs of New Bedford and Fall River. New Haven Elms is featured.

The competitions from New Bedford appear to be the surprise team of the league. The team led by the coaching skills of Bob DeBruyn upset New Haven Elms 41-31. Dick Harrington and Mike Thomas, leading the team with 16 and 8 points respectively, wrapped the last period and coasted to a 6-1 victory. Murphy picked up four assists.

Previously unbeaten Tri-State Club was upset by the P.C. sextet. The only way there will be club to replace the ailing Gary McKenna netted 11, and Bill Mullin had 10 points. One of their all-star members, Steve Lieder and Walt Violand added 13 and 12, respectively.

The following period and tied the score 2-2. After playing the second period the score remained unchanged, ending 2-2. Albertus Magnus "B" displays their scoring ability around offensive rebounding. The Friars are led by football standouts for the other Hawk goals. Captain Leonard (1), and Brothers (1), performers. At halftime, the game was tied 20-20 and the overtime period is with renewed interest.

The only way there will be a new club to replace the ailing Gary McKenna netted 11, and Bill Mullin had 10 points. One of their all-star members, Steve Lieder and Walt Violand added 13 and 12, respectively.

Four Team B-Ball Race Develops

In closing out the first half of the game, the Black Hawks tightened up on defense by outlasting the Maple Leafs 5 to 2. Despite having two goals, including the winner which he popped in with less than a minute to go in the game. Larry Derito, Jim Greene and Peter Norvell accounted for the other Hawk goals. Capt. Dave Conite was the stand out for the Leafs, with two goals, while Art McDonald and Jack Ottis added the other markers.

The Maple Leafs got back on the winning side at the outset of the second half by outlast­ing the Bruins 4 to 3. Art McEnaney was the game for the Leafs, with two goals, while Dave Conite and Joe Piast picked up the other two points. Down three goals, the Bruins started an intense rally and pulled it out, but time ran out. Leading their comeback was Senior Captain Leonard, and Jim Murray with one.

In other second half action the Boston College Leafs by knocking off the Conn­necticut Bulldogs. The Bulldogs provided the winning punch for the Hawks with three goals. The winning goal was scored by the work of Jim Greene, Larry De­riots and Jim Murray in the second period. Stonehill and Mariotti are coming to Providence and the Friars will have to be on their toes.

The next major collection will be the Friars' next game when they might in the dorms and throughout the week in the men's locker room. The only way there will be club to replace the ailing Gary McKenna netted 11, and Bill Mullin had 10 points. One of their all-star members, Steve Lieder and Walt Violand added 13 and 12, respectively.

A number of questions have erupted in the minds of students these past few weeks. Like where did all the students go? Who are the new officials, how to abolish the cheering section for those few weeks? Will we ever have a cheering section again?

The absence of St. Joe's tickets explained should have been a number of questions about the ticket situation in general. Strangely enough they were bought by students, 1600 of them that is. The tickets were on sale for about an hour and fifteen minutes and when you consider that a seller can sell six to eight tickets a minute, it is not unreasonable that all 1600 were sold. That should help the improved the student. They are not even seeing an adequate number of tickets.

The next question is: Are 1600 tickets enough, or at least equitable? The common complaint is that out of 3300 seats, why do students get just 1600 and the alumni get so many. A few facts that few people realize might settle that complaint. There are only 2225 seats available on the floor with the balcony reserved for season ticket holders (some of whom did PC a favor by purchasing these seats when we were just starting out), clerical, faculty, and alumni. Out of this 2225 must come certain essentials: 63 for the scorers' table and players benches, 120 for the lay by the BC and MA players, 20 for visiting players, 54 for the band, 30 for the secre­taries (every other game), 240 for alumni, and 500 for visiting schools (average 200). If you look at this, you will find that approximately 1600 for students.

This is the situation. There are physical limitations on the seating facilities that make it impossible to allocate more tickets for the students. And if you think that the alumni are getting an unreasonable share, do not go eight stacks of letters in Father Begley's office requesting tickets for an upcoming game, and only three of them could be filled. Will that satisfy what we think, the students still get a fair choice.

The question of the cheering section is not so read­ily and painlessly answered. There are no cheering sec­tion for the Bonnies and Fairfield games because the selling dates overlapped and the athletic department felt that to sell tickets for both games would have been fruitless, if not a waste. For P.C. the decision rests ultimately with the Student Congress Reps, who together worked out the original idea for a cheering section. Both of them want to give the students an enjoyable evening and a chance to support their team. The future for the cheering section does not look especially bright. The general feeling in the athletic of­fice is that unless someone gets out of hand.
riordan named player of week

most eastern coaches seem to think that the friars are composed of jim walker and four freshmen. in fact, of the future p.c. opponents did not scout the friars this week, they are less likely to find their games awakening. known mainly as a defensive player, co-captain mike riordan is perhaps the first to see that all he can be a truly outstanding offensive threat. as he has shown, the Friars are going to be in for a rude awakening. known mainly as a defensive player, co-captain mike riordan is perhaps the first to see that all he can be a truly outstanding offensive threat. as he has shown, the Friars are going to be in for a rude awakening.

Club Football Receives 'Conditional Approval'

Club football took a step closer to realization on the providence college campus last Tuesday when the program was given a conditional approval by Father haas, speaking on behalf of the administrative committee studying the problem. This approval had been hinted at for several weeks and was the result of the recommendation of the subcommittee composed of Fathers begley, forrester, final approval are: (1) a daily storage area for equipment in addition to shower facilities must be located; (2) several thousand dollars must be raised by the students before the program is given the go-ahead. the latter is for the protection of the students since club football is a money-maker as well as a spirit builder.

The main premise of all plans and objectives is Mr. haas, a running-back from the Providence college junior college.
