New Services Offered
By Counseling Center

The Counseling Center has announced that, in cooperation with the State of Rhode Island Department of Education Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, many services shall be available to any student who is a legal resident of Rhode Island and who has a physical or emotional condition which may in some way affect his adjustment to school and/or work.

Services that the division of Vocational Rehabilitation can provide are:
1. Medical Diagnosis (general medical exam, specialist exam, etc.). A complete medical vision of the student is offered to determine the nature and extent of the disability.
2. Medical treatment (surgery, psychotherapy, hospitalization, etc.) for any treatment which may possibly reduce or eliminate the disability is offered to each client.
3. Artificial limbs, hearing aids, special eyes and other prosthetic appliances can be purchased where indicated.
4. A thorough and continuing guidance and along with psychological testing to assist the client in making a vocational choice.
5. Training to obtain the vocational choice (tuition for college, trade school, business school, on-the-job).
6. While in training he can pay a board and room and books and supplies, other training materials.
7. Maintenance and transportation during treatment or training.
8. Tools, equipment, licenses, or initial stocks and supplies to start a client in a small business.
9. Help in placement in a job commensurate with the individual's physical and mental capabilities.
10. Follow-up to ensure that the client and employer are satisfied with the placement. Each client is followed for at least thirty days after he starts a job.

The following are examples of the types of conditions which would make a person eligible.

Jerome G. Gurlund Will Speak at P.C.

Rabbi Jerome G. Gurlund of Temple Sinai in Cranston will speak at the college on March 15 at 1:30 p.m. Albertus 100. His subject will be "A Jewish View of Christian Messianic Prophecy." The rabbi will represent The Jewish Chautauqua Society, an organization which endeavors to create a better understanding of Judaism and Jewish life. He will be sponsored on the campus by the Religious Department.

Rabbi Gurlund received his B.A. Degree from Brooklyn College in 1926. He did graduate work at Johns Hopkins and the University of Cincinnati. Rabbi Gurlund was ordained at the Hebrew Union College—Jewish Institute of Religion in 1958, receiving his M.H.L. Degree.

The former associate rabbi at Temple Beth El in Providence has served as chaplain at Quonset Point and the University of Rhode Island. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Big Brothers of Rhode Island and a member of the board of Chaplains of the Family Court of Rhode Island.

Psychology Program Established at P.C.

After many years of consideration, Providence College has finally established a Psychology Department, which will initiate its full scale program next September. The need for a department was recognized long ago when other departments and students urged its formation. But the problem had always been the cost of the necessary equipment.

Last year, the administration took the initiative to create a Psychology Department, and since that action, more important progress has been made in the field of psychology. Fr. Lennon there are three main problems in founding any department once the money is obtained—faculty, curriculum, and students. In order to solve these problems the Committee of Studies made an initial step by appointing Mr. Lacey Corbett chairman of the department. Since the appointment, the committee has worked together to find solutions for the new department.

A five member faculty for next year has already been named. In addition to the professors, there are three new members, Dr. Lacey Corbett and Mr. Edward Brennan, the department will include Mr. Richard Lambe, Dr. Theodore Bozack, and Mr. Al Burgundy.

At the Student Congress meeting, the charge of ineligibility was upheld unanimously on a voice vote. However, in the meeting Paul Giannelli, Pro- vidence president, who had been one of the candidates was on "disciplinary probation" was not discovered at the time of the election. As the College concerns elections state that a candidate must have a 2.0 index and a personal record approved by the office of Student Affairs. This has been traditionally understood to mean a candidate cannot be on DP at the time of elections, and it seems obvious why such a rule would be upheld.

Because of a combination of an alleged legal technicality and a secretarial mistake, the candidate is permitted to hold office. I know that if this fact could be altered in the future, it would not occur again.
Candidate

The importance of this cannot be minimized by leaning upon the "crutch" of a legal technicality concerning semantics. The candidate in question knew from the start his true status, if the election committee chose to make any response to our demands. Our own sense of good will, responsibility, integrity... or the inherent "spirit of the law" has never been seriously called into question.

Nor must it be.

Briefly, the reason for this questioning centers around the controversy which has arisen over the validity of the Student Congress Presidential elections, involving the eligibility of one of the candidates.

The difficulty lies in the fact that the chosen candidate, aware of the fact that he was ineligible according to the spirit of the law as it has been enforced, yet allowed to run, not through a cavalier oversight, chose to declare himself a candidate for office.

Such a disqualifying factor was not discovered until after the election, and the matter was turned over to the Student Congress for adjudication.

It is here that the question of responsibility and integrity of the students, as "represented" by the actions of their Student Congress, becomes one. For only ONE of the elected representatives saw fit to voice strong opposition to the validity of the election, although there was a suspicion of it.

It seems in view of this that the Congress acted from expediency rather than principle, and had a fear rather than a test of the law. From the facts it seems that the Congress has failed itself, the student body, and the college.

Honor Code

It became fairly evident this year as election signs were tacked up around the college that PC was once again enwrapped in the moving "slander hysteria." But apart from suffering from a bit more student discontent than usual, this year's campaigns promised to be without the usual political contests here on Smith Hill.

"Slander and Bigotry"

Unfortunately, to the chagrin of political parties, there is utter consternation of a number of students, this election apparently did introduce a novelty in PC electioneering tactics—an ugly thing called racial bigotry and slander. Last week, a number of students filtered their way through campus urging other students not to vote for particular candidates on purely racial grounds. This same group is working genuinely rejected all minority. The gentlemen in questions. But, because of the general defense shown to an established rule, they deemed it necessary to retain the rule for at least the remainder of this semester. One way of hope was offered by Father Morris at a recent Student-Administration Committee meeting. He stated, "I would say that the probability that it will be changed for next year's handbook is very good." We urge the students to refrain from any further defiance of this rule. It can only prejudice future opinions.

The action taken by the administration was very pleasing. However, what is more important is the manner in which the answers were given. By channelling their replies through the Student-Faculty Committees, they may have restored some faith in these channels.

12 Point Progress Report

Rev. Robert Morris the new Vice President, who supervises the relationship between the student body and administration in nonacademic matters announced the administration's reasons to some of the Student Congress's "12 point resolution."

The administration's feelings were made before a meeting of the Student-Administration Committee. The following were Fr. Morris's statements:

1.) Retard shall be retained this year yet suspended for the '67-'68 academic year.

2.) "President's Day" will be on March 17, 1967, as a consequence this day will be a holiday.

3.) There will be no change in the college's present ban on beards. However, Fr. Morris stated, "I would say that the probability that it will be changed for next year's handbook is very good."

The remaining four changes were announced by the Student-Faculty Committee:

4.) The cut system will be dealt with by a survey sent to the faculty, to give their opinions before the Student Faculty Committee completes its consideration.

5.) The problem of the Theology courses is being reviewed by a special Theology Committee and the administration.

6.) With regards to the Book Store, a designated faculty member in each department will be given the responsibility of recommending books to the Book Store.

7.) Students will be able to become professors and course section in all courses that appear in one or two sections.

Dear Mr. McClure:

I should like to commend you and your staff for the effectiveness of your study of the Books of the Bible. I consider the results of your study to be both sound and, indeed, well done. I think you are always expected more of this kind of journalism in the college newspaper.

The Cowl: Student government at Providence College took a do-it-yourself attitude last night. The decision of the Student Congress relative to the recent elections can only be viewed as a retreat from responsibility. This is all the more regrettable since the Congress has distinguished itself this year by several very mature actions. (I shall pass over in silence the irresponsibility of the student who made such action by the Congress necessary.)

The fact that the leader of the student body might not have been clearer. A candidate who de facto did not exist (is there an option about this?) was elected to office. Whatever the reasons for incompetence, the fact remains that he was ineligible according to the clear spirit of the law and should have been disqualified. For the Student Congress to retreat behind the legalism to the clear spirit of the law, who made such action by the P.C. student, when he dies. Father McCormack was weak—indeed, well done. I have always been a professional pedagogue.

THE COWL, MARCH 8, 1967
The Providence College hockey squad closed out its season with a 13-2 loss to the Boston College sextet at Rhode Island Athletic Club Wednesday evening.

The Friars fell prey to Boston College's nine goal eruption in the final stanza. The ECAC-bound Eagles seemed unable to score in the first half of the period, but Jim Prevette finally opened the scoring with 8.52 remaining of the period, sliding the puck past a diving Trudeau. From this point on, the Eagles were able to highly outscore the fading Friars.

The BC team controlled the game and scored three times against the Friar sextet. Paul Hurley, who started the season slowly, was the big gun for the Chestnuts as he scored five goals in the second session and Jim Jim Murray scored first for the BC net caromed off the net.

In the final game of the regular season the Maple Leafs, facing an elimination from the playoffs, upset the first place Acers, 5-3, and thereby wound up in second place in a tight league race. Four other teams, the Reds, Black Hawks, Red Wings, and Bruins, each qualified for the playoffs by finishing in a tie for third place.

The Providence College hockey team ended its 1966-67 season with a win in the opening box-score of the top rated Boston College team (17-2) at the Providence Forum. The Friars showed fine hustle and defense, but the BC team routed their main assets throughout the game, recording their tenth victory of the year.

The Friars were engaged in a 0-0 struggle before Dick Caron scored his first goal of the season, sending the game into overtime.

When the 1967 NIT kicks off this Thursday night at New York’s famed Madison Square Garden, it will field what many believe to be the most colorful field the Gotham tournament has ever produced. All-Americans Jim Walker, Bob Lloyd (Rutgers) and Mel Daniels (New Mexico) head a long list of talent. The list also includes Erladene Webb (Tulsa), John Jones (Villanova), Vaughn Harper (Syracuse), and the possibility of Bob Verga (Duke) or Larry Hackett and Bob Lenz (North Carolina), depending on the ACC representative.

No less than six clubs are ranked nationally: Providence, St. Peter’s, New Mexico, Utah State, and Syracuse. Southern Illinois, the Cinderella team in the tourney, is ranked No. 1 in the small college polls. One of their victories was a 6-5 decision at St. Peter’s. Indeed, Utah State turned down an NCA bid to play in New York.

If at No. 1. Providence (20-6) is favored over Memphis State (17-9), as is Tulsa (17-9) over Marquette (15-6). The Friars have the guns to take either team down, but the latter finish, and would likely be favored over Marshall, the Big Eight rep. (possibly Nebraska) or Villanova in the semi-finals.

Bracket No. 2 is up for grabs. So. Illinois (20-2) is favored over St. Peter’s (18-4), New Mexico (18-7) is a slim choice over Syracuse (20-0) and Utah State (20-5) is a last-gasp choice of the committee men (19-4). The ACC runner-up will be favored over St. Peter’s, So. Illinois survivor—but only a slim choice over New Mexico or Utah State seems most likely to reach the finals.

Indoor Trackmen Close Season With IC4A Run

Providence College’s Indoor Track Team finished its most successful season in school history in the IC4A championships in New York last weekend. This meet, the culminating event in the year at the Square Garden, saw brilliant performances by a graduating class of seniors and a jump on-up-and-coming sophomore.

Co-captain Joe Adamec closed out his best indoor season (less he runs in the Nationals) for his collegiate career with a Providence record in the 400 yard run. Joe clipped 6.06 seconds off the old mark of 1:44.4 seconds with a 1:38.2 in his heat. Denny Fazekas also eclipsed the old mark with a slightly faster 1:38.0. Included in this group will have his name on two records at graduation, having already been anchorman on the record mile relay team.

Anyone who has read the after-morning newspaper knows that the Friars were out to see Jim Walker score 32 points and play his typically superlative game. They saw the brilliance of Jim Walker. Due to team up with Steve Hernan-
