INSPECTOR GENERAL'S OFFICE.

CIRCULAR }
No. 4. }

HEADQUARTERS, U. S. COLORED TROOPS,
Port Hudson, La., October 20, 1864.

The following explanations and instructions for the routine of daily duties in camp and garrison, are published for the guidance of officers of colored troops and will be strictly followed by infantry regiments of this command.

The following are the calls as at present prescribed at these Headquarters. The hours may be changed according to the season or other circumstances in the discretion of commanding officers:

1. Drummer's Call.

At this call all officers and men, excepting the sick and excused, will rise; the men will turn out in their company streets ready to fall in, and the field must c will assemble on the color line.

2. Reveill . Roll Call.

Before this call is ended the men will fall in, in two ranks, according to "Tactics," so that the wings face from each other, the right of companies of the right wing, and left of those of the left wing at the head of the streets. This rule is general. The men will take the position of "parade rest" as they fall in. The 1st sergeant will take the same position facing the company, and, the music having ceased, will come to "attention," command "Attention, Company," and proceed to call the roll. All the company officers for duty will be present at the head of the street. The roll-call being concluded, the 1st sergeant will face the officer in command, salute and report the result, after which he will take his place on the right. When the officer of the day appears at the head of the street, the 1st sergeant steps out, faces the officer, salutes and again reports the result of the roll-call, after which he will command "Break ranks, March." These rules are general for all roll-calls without arms.

Immediately after reveill  each company under the direction of its 1st sergeant, will do whatever policing is necessary in its own company street, from the officers tents to the color line. Sounding the police call will bring out the regimental police (old guard of the previous day) as prescribed in Circular No. 2, page 8.

Ten minutes after reveill  an officer will visit the men's quarters to see that they are properly policed, blankets folded, &c. Whenever an officer enters the men's quarters, the first who perceives him will call "Attention," at which all will rise and salute.

3. Surgeon's Call.

At this call the 1st sergeant will form the sick in the company street, having previously entered their names in the sick book, and march them to the hospital or other rendezvous appointed by the surgeon. He will carefully note the kind of duty from which they are excused, and see that the sick in quarters during the day conform to the directions of the surgeon as to remaining in quarters, &c.

4. Breakfast Call.

The men will march in one rank with plates and cups to the kitchen where the distribution of food will be superintended by the non-commissioned officer in charge of the kitchen, who will allow no one to remain, loaf or lounge in its vicinity. At breakfast and dinner call the kitchens will be visited by a company officer, and the food and cooking arrangements inspected.

5. Guard Mounting, 1st Call.

The details assemble in the company street for inspection by the 1st sergeant.

6. Guard Mounting, 2d Call.

The details are marched out by the 1st sergeants as prescribed in the Circular before mentioned, page 5, paragraph 2. The 1st sergeant will, before 8 o'clock A. M., carry the morning report book to the adjutant's office, duly signed by the commanding officer of the company.

7. Drill Call. Roll Call.

The men fall in with arms and equipments at the "shoulder." The sergeant will command "Company, Support Arms," and proceed to call the roll as prescribed in the Circular before mentioned, page 1, paragraph 1. The roll call being concluded, he will report the result, after which he will cause the company to "count twos," and turn it over as prescribed in the same paragraph.

8. Recall from Drill.

At this call, if it be a battalion drill, the colonel will dismiss it as indicated in Circular 3, page 11, paragraph 13; if a company drill, the company will be turned over to the 1st sergeant to be marched in and dismissed, the officers sheathing swords and falling out.

9. 1st Sergeant's Call.

At this call the 1st sergeants will repair to the adjutant's office, where they will receive all orders, details and the morning report books. They will copy the orders on a sheet of paper, and after showing them to the company commander they will copy them into the company order books. The details for the next day will be posted by the 1st sergeant on his tent for the information of the company immediately on his return from the adjutant's office.

10. Drummer's Call.

The field music assembles on the color line.

11. Dinner Call.

The field music sounds or beats "Roast beef," the officer inspects and men get their meals as prescribed in No. 4.

12. Drill Call—Roll Call.

As prescribed in No. 7.

13. Recall from Drill.

As prescribed in No. 8.

14. Drummer's Call.

The men turn out in full uniform, properly armed and equipped in their company streets, and the field music and band, if any, assemble on the right of the color line. Officers see that all tent curtains are let down, and clothing, blankets &c., taken in. The officer of the day, just before parade, will inspect the camp and see that it is properly policed.

15. Assembly of Companies for Roll Call and Inspection.

The 1st sergeant commands "Fall in," the men take their proper places in ranks, the roll is called, the guard detail for the next day announced, and the company turned over as in No. 7, after which the commander opens ranks, and assisted by the officers or the 1st sergeant, if necessary, makes a thorough inspection of arms, equipments, ammunition, and general appearance, after which he will close ranks, face the company towards the color line, and command "Support Arms."

16. Adjutant's Call.

Companies march out.

17. Drummer's Call.

The men turn out in their streets ready to fall in, and the field music assembles on the color line.

18. Tattoo.

As prescribed for Reveillé, No. 2.

19. Taps.

At taps one officer will pass down the company street to see that lights are extinguished, and that conversation and other noise cease. Lights may be permitted in officers quarters, 1st sergeants quarters, and hospital, but no noise of any description after taps.

20. Sunday Morning Inspection, 1st Call.

Men turn out in their streets in full uniform, with arms and equipments and packed knapsacks.

21. Sunday Morning Inspection, 2d Call.

The companies are formed and turned over as prescribed, after which the commander opens ranks, commands "Officers and sergeants to the front of your company, March," and inspects the company according to the form laid down in Regulations. He then directs the 1st sergeant to dismiss the company, which being done and the men having put away their muskets, he will proceed to inspect quarters. The men will keep their equipments on until after this inspection, and will take their places one or two paces in front of their tents, facing the centre of the street, but leaving the entrance to each tent unmasked. Tents will be opened, arms in the racks, clothing and blankets neatly folded. At the approach of the company commander, the 1st sergeant will command "Attention," when all will salute briskly, casting the eyes towards the inspector. The inspector having acknowledged the salute, the hands are dropped, and no further salute offered. The kitchens, utensils, &c., will be particularly inspected. These rules are general for all inspections when the men occupy tents.

21. Church Call.

The companies are formed in appropriate uniform according to season and weather, with side arms only, and marched to the place appointed for the services. All officers and men, except those who, owing to difference of belief, conscientiously object to the form of worship should be compelled to a regular attendance.

 MANUAL OF SABRE.

The manner of saluting with the sword or sabre is very various in the volunteer service. The salute should be executed as prescribed in Casey, vol. I, p. 224, the hand remaining in quarte, i. e. the edge of the blade to the left, in both motions. In saluting on the march, cast the eyes to the reviewing officer or person saluted.

Field officers of infantry should draw and return sabre as prescribed in cavalry tactics. Line officers in like manner, except that the scabbard will remain hooked up. When officers are dismounted the motions are as follows:

1st Motion. Unhook the sabre with the left hand and bring the hilt to the front; run the right wrist through the sword knot; seize the gripe, draw the blade six inches out of the scabbard, pressing the scabbard against the thigh with the left hand, which seizes it at the upper ring.

2d Motion. Draw the sabre quickly, raising the arm to its full extent, at an angle of about 45 degrees, the sabre in a straight line with the arm, make a slight pause, carry the blade to the right shoulder, the back of it against the hollow of the shoulder, the wrist resting against the hip, the little finger on the outside of the gripe.

When mounted, the sabre being unhooked, the motions are similar, except that the head is turned slightly to the left at the first motion, the right hand carried to the hilt above the reins, the sabre disengaged six inches and head turned to the front. On completing the 2d motion the wrist will rest on the top of the thigh.

To Return Sabre, Dismounted.

1st Motion—Carry the sabre vertically to the front, the thumb opposite to and six inches from the neck, the blade vertical, the edge to the left, the thumb extended on the right side of the gripe, the little finger by the side of the others.

2d Motion—Carry the wrist opposite to and six inches from the left shoulder, revolve the point of the blade to the rear until it is nearly under the right hand, which at the same time is raised, the left hand also at the same time takes hold of the upper part of the scabbard, turn the eyes slightly to the left, return the blade, free the wrist from the sabre knot, drop the right hand at the side, turning with the left the hilt toward the body, and so round to the rear, hook up the sabre and drop the left hand. When mounted the motions are similar, except that the left hand holding the reins, the head is turned slightly to the left at the 2d motion, and eyes fixed on the mouth of the scabbard, and the sabre remains unhooked.

MISCELLANEOUS.

1. For guard mounting, inspection, parade, review and occasions of ceremony, except funerals, men will fall in with bayonets fixed; on all other occasions with bayonets in the scabbard.

2. It is not necessary that a sentinel should bring his piece to the shoulder and execute the "about-face" at the end of his post, but he will turn naturally by his proper front, i. e. facing outward as he turns.

3. It is a common error on wheeling by companies to the right, for the right guides to stand fast until the order "Front." They should fall back at the command "Halt." Casey, S. B. 82.

4. In addition to the general guides, two small active soldiers should be detailed for markers. Each of these is provided with a small camp color with a short staff which will fit in the muzzle of his piece. Their position in column will be behind the right and left of the leading subdivision 3 or 4 files from the flank, in the line of file-closers: and in line in like position behind the color company, the left marker being on the right of the corporals of the color guard. When the battalion passes from line to column the markers will pass to the designated flank at the first command. In those movements in which a third marker is necessary, a sergeant taken from the nearest subdivision will be employed. When the battalion is faced by a flank, the markers will not leave their position, unless it is preparatory to a ployment into column.

5. Officers will draw their swords before giving any word of command to troops under arms.

6. No salute is offered by company commanders when the inspector successively approaches their companies in column. The company being at a "place rest," the commander will recover his sword, face to the left and command "Attention Company." "Inspection, Arms," return his sword, and accompany the inspector, conforming to No. 5 on giving subsequent orders.

7. When the sergeants close on the centre previous to stacking arms, they will form in two ranks for that purpose. At the command "Take Arms," they will take arms and resume their places. Where there are only two sergeants present, instead of closing on the centre they will rest their pieces on the nearest stack and resume their places.

8. The position of the knapsack at the feet of the men, is as follows:—the number up and the roll of blankets next the feet. At the command "Open knapsacks," the men will rest the knee upon the roll, unbuckle and open the knapsack. They will take the same position to repack, after which they will stand at rest until called to attention. Rev. Army Reg., par. 317.

9. The position of "In place rest" is one of relaxation and ease; that of "Parade rest" of attention and immobility. Officers have been observed to completely confound this distinction by giving the latter as an order of relaxation from steadiness and silence. Men should be kept for very short periods at parade rest, but during that time absolute immobility should be required.

10. Men will not fall in at any time or for any purpose in shirt-sleeves. The unlined blouse can be worn without inconvenience in the hottest weather.

11. A few words may be of use concerning the file-closers whose duties in most volunteer regiments are seldom understood or enforced, the position being apparently considered a rather independent and ornamental one, but disconnected with any particular duties or responsibility. This is a great error. Among disciplined troops the duties of the file-closer are of the very first importance. They are:—first, as the name indicates, to see that the files are closed up to the proper distance and to correct all faults which they may observe on the march. If step or distance is lost, it is the file-closers business to cause it to be at once regained. In like manner the dress, the touch of elbows, the changes of arms, personal carriage of the men, silence in ranks, and in fact the whole behavior of the soldier under arms is to be the subject of constant attention of the file-closers, who should be held responsible for all faults which, through their neglect, have to be corrected by the captain. In action, the importance of their duties and powers can hardly be overestimated, as they extend, if necessary, to the infliction of instant death to check the effect of an example of cowardice or panic.

12. All means should be taken to enforce respect for non-commissioned officers, and to encourage a feeling of pride in the position. To this end the warrants furnished by the Adjutant General's Department should be regularly issued, and a neglect of this matter will hereafter be deemed cause for censure.

Circular No. 2, before mentioned, has been examined and approved by Major General Casey, President of the Examining Board at Washington, who speaks of it as "a manual which could be used with benefit in our whole service." One suggestion is made concerning an inconsistency between Tactics and Regulations, which will be promulgated and adopted as soon as the correction is made by authority. The following alterations will be made: On p. 7, par. 13, l. 7, after "shoulder," insert "except in a sentry-box." On p. 10, l. 4, after "475," insert "1001."

The letters (Q,) (A. G.) and (O,) indicate that the books or blanks are to be obtained from the Quartermaster's, Adjutant General's or Ordnance Department. Requisitions, inventories and inspection reports are obtained from the Department to which the articles pertain. Other blanks are to be ruled out, and books not furnished must be purchased with the company fund or made from stationery furnished. Inability to procure blanks is no excuse for neglect or delay. The proper form must in such case be ruled out with pen and ink.

Where companies are with their regiment, the requisite books, blanks, &c., are obtained on requisition by the regimental commander. A six months supply of those furnished by the Adjutant General's Department include the following company books and blanks: 10 Company Morning Report Books, 60 Monthly Returns; 60 Company Muster Rolls; 180 Company Muster and Pay Rolls; 20 Returns of men joined; 30 Quarterly Company Returns of deceased soldiers; 40 Descriptive lists. Ordnance blanks are furnished direct to company commanders from the Ordnance Office. Quartermasters blanks should be obtained on consolidated requisition by the regimental quartermaster.

It is too much the custom for regimental commanders to consider the property returns required from captains as matters for which they only are responsible, and many do not even know whether delinquencies exist. All returns required from company commanders should before the appointed day be sent to the adjutant's office, where they are examined, returned for correction if necessary, and afterwards forwarded in one package. The commander should at all times know the exact condition of all books, papers and records kept by his officers. Company and regimental commanders of the colored troops who do not possess the "Company Clerk" herein cited, will be furnished with the same on application to these Headquarters, at the rate of one copy for a company, and two for regimental headquarters, until the present supply is exhausted.

BY COMMAND OF BRIG. GEN. GEO. L. ANDREWS,
Commanding U. S. Colored Troops, Dept. of the Gulf:

S. M. QUINCY,
Colonel and Act'g Ass't Inspector General.
