Thirty-four PC Seniors Named to Who's Who

Thirty-four seniors have been named to the 1967-68 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges held at Providence College by the Who's Who Office with the approval of the President, O.P., has been named the College for the academic year of the senior class; Edward F. Brum, president of the Student Congress; Edward F. Doherty, president of the Dillon Club; Edward P. Gallygoff, president of the Cardinal Club; Frank G. Esposito, member of the executive board of the Delta Epsilon Sigma chapter.

Several Providence College students were among the estimated 100,000 demonstrators at last week's rally in Washington, D.C.

Fr. Lennon To Travel

General Edwin Chess, Chief of Chaplains, U.S. Air Force, has invited Reverend Joseph L. Lennon, O.P., Dean of Providence College, to deliver a series of lectures to the Air Force Personnel stationed in Germany. Father Lennon will deliver the lectures, which are a part of the Family Life Program, at Sembach Air Base from November 5-9. Then Father will lecture from November 12-16 at Zuerich Air Base, and he will end his tour of air bases by visiting the Han Air Base from November 19-23.

Before returning from his lecturing tour Father Lennon hopes to spend some time with Providence College students who are studying abroad this year at the University of Fribourg in Switzerland and the University of Paris in France.

Several Providence College students were among the estimated 100,000 demonstrators at last week's rally in Washington, D.C.

The group included seniors George Pack, Peter Barret and Gene Gaudette; juniors, Patrick Daly and Michael Keane; and freshman Martin Jones.

The students were aboard one of the seven buses sent from Providence by the National Mobilization Committee. The majority of students on the buses were from Brown University and Rhode Island School of Design. The buses departed from Kennedy Plaza in Providence at 5:30 a.m. Saturday, October 21. The buses were given a police escort out of the city to protect those on board from an antagonistic crowd of hecklers.

Michael Keane, a member of the Providence College Students for Peace and the Rhode Island Committee for Peace, committed civil disobedience at the Pentagon and was among those arrested Sunday morning. Others among those arrested included Tull Einerberg of the music group the Fags, David Dellinger, chairman of the National Mobilization Committee, and controversial former editor of the Boston University News, Raymond Munro. (See Keane's personal version of his arrest on page 3.)

Earlier Saturday evening a barricade in front of the Pentagon was removed and thousands of demonstrators rushed to a series of steps leading to the main entrance. They were met by clubs, bootheels and rifle butts. It was at this point that most of the reported injuries to demonstrators occurred. Stephen Davis, Boston University sophomore, gave the following account of the scene in front of the Pentagon in the October 25 issue of the B.U. News:

"Several hundred of us were sitting-in. The MPs and Marshals had formed a skirmish line and were steadily inching forward. When they reached a line of people, a soldier would yell as if he had been kicked, and then a section of soldiers would begin beating the people directly in front of them with clubs, boots, fists, and gun butts."

The troops were indiscriminate in their beatings. Witnesses attest to the clubbing of a doctor who was in the process of giving medical aid to a badly bleeding girl. (See related story on page 7.)

Father Bouyer Speaks On Ecumenism and the Bible

As an active participant in local ecumenism, the Department of Religious Studies has been sponsoring lectures and conferences involving pertinent theological ideas. In conjunction with the Ecumenical Commission of the Diocese of Providence, the department last Friday night introduced Fr. Louis Bouyer, the Visiting Professor of Roman Catholic Studies at Brown, to lecture on the topic, the Bible and ecumenism. Representatives of many of the Christian churches in the Providence area filled Harkins Auditorium for the event.

Fr. Bouyer discussed the meaning of the Bible to Protestants and Catholics. He stressed the Scriptures as the basis of faith and indicated its importance as a "dialogue with God," a Protestant idea. "Ecumenism, the priest said in his French accent, "is to be got by a fullness of what we have on both sides." Fr. Bouyer concluded that personal prayer and meditation are most important if ecumenism is ever to be achieved. He suggested, finally, that everyone read a few lines from the Bible daily. A high point in the lecture came at the end of the question period when Fr. Bouyer was asked how one could maintain his Catholic identity in an ecumenical world.

Fr. Bouyer is one of the world's most distinguished scholars in ecumenical and Biblical studies. He began his theological career as a Lutheran pastor in France. Entering the Catholic Church, he joined the Congregation of the Oratory, Cardinal Newman's religious community; and he was ordained to the priesthood. In the years since he has been eminent in theological and religious studies. Among books published in English, which indicate the range of his studies, are: The Spirit and Forms of Protestantism; The Fourth Gospel; Newman: His Life and Spiritualitv; Seat of Wisdom; The Meaning of Sacred Scripture; Word, Church, and Literature.
Mid-November Date Set for Opening of New Coffee House

A target date for mid-November has been set for the opening of the yet to be named coffeehouse on Customhouse Street. Modelled after a regional coffeehouse in the揖duct union, the coffeehouse will be primarily open to college students. A fee of one dollar per punch will be required, and the first 3,000 patrons will be charged. Each member may be accompanied by his guest.

The integrating of students from the areas colleges will yield a greater student body on and around the campus. The entertainment will be of a varied nature. Running from Jazz to Folk to Classical music, the groups will be both professional and amateur.

Students from each of the areas colleges will participate in all phases of the administrative structure. A graduate student will be responsible for the daily maintenance of the coffeehouse. The entertainment will be comprised of one student from each college and will represent the community will oversee the project. A management committee of program planners and resource people will secure entertaining acts.

The downtown YMCA will be responsible for the initial financing of the project. However, it is hoped that this project will be self-supporting on a non-profit basis. The YMCA will act in a supervisory fashion, but the Governing Board will have virtual autonomy.

Richard Livernois represents P.C. on and around the campus. Among the many changes at Providence College this fall was the conception of creating a new campus security force, the Colbert Detective Agency, Inc., replacing the former Pinkerton force. Mr. Cummings, Director of Security, reported that this change stemmed from a desire to improve security and efficiency of parking regulations beneficial to the welfare of the college and at certain local functions requiring the service of a security force.

Invariably, the Colbert agency was praised as a competent and efficient organization.

The Colbert Detective Agency has been in the security business since 1892 and caters to the security needs of the Providence area. Training of the agency's employees is the responsibility of the organization's assistant director, a former police detective.

Mr. Cummings conceives of the security force's function as the enforcement of parking regulations beneficial to the welfare of the college and the surrounding area. Accordingly, the Colberts take a positive approach to their work, stressing courtesy to faculty and students alike. It is the conviction of Mr. Cummings that courtesy and a competent manner will yield greater student cooperation, particularly in the observance of parking regulations and acceptance of the chains and gates after certain hours, which have, in fact, caused vandalisms on the campus.

In addition to their marshaling of campus traffic, the Colberts are required to request information and perform tasks found on the campus grounds at unusually late hours. While this is a necessary precaution to safeguard property and students, it is done in the most courteous manner possible. Similarly, this motif of courtesy, combined with aension of parking regulations, is observed in all the campus duties of the Colberts.

The University will continue to safeguard property and students, and the coffeehouse will be primarily open to college students. A fee of one dollar per punch will be charged. Each member may be accompanied by his guest. The integrating of students from the areas colleges will yield a greater student body on and around the campus. The entertainment will be of a varied nature. Running from Jazz to Folk to Classical music, the groups will be both professional and amateur. Students from each of the areas colleges will participate in all phases of the administrative structure. A graduate student will be responsible for the daily maintenance of the coffeehouse. The entertainment will be comprised of one student from each college and will represent the community will oversee the project. A management committee of program planners and resource people will secure entertaining acts.

The downtown YMCA will be responsible for the initial financing of the project. However, it is hoped that this project will be self-supporting on a non-profit basis. The YMCA will act in a supervisory fashion, but the Governing Board will have virtual autonomy.

Among the many changes at Providence College this fall was the conception of creating a new campus security force, the Colbert Detective Agency, Inc., replacing the former Pinkerton force. Mr. Cummings, Director of Security, reported that this change stemmed from a desire to improve security and efficiency of parking regulations beneficial to the welfare of the college and at certain local functions requiring the service of a security force.

Invariably, the Colbert agency was praised as a competent and efficient organization.

The Colbert Detective Agency has been in the security business since 1892 and caters to the security needs of the Providence area. Training of the agency's employees is the responsibility of the organization's assistant director, a former police detective.

Mr. Cummings conceives of the security force's function as the enforcement of parking regulations beneficial to the welfare of the college and the surrounding area. Accordingly, the Colberts take a positive approach to their work, stressing courtesy to faculty and students alike. It is the conviction of Mr. Cummings that courtesy and a competent manner will yield greater student cooperation, particularly in the observance of parking regulations and acceptance of the chains and gates after certain hours, which have, in fact, caused vandalisms on the campus.

In addition to their marshaling of campus traffic, the Colberts are required to request information and perform tasks found on the campus grounds at unusually late hours. While this is a necessary precaution to safeguard property and students, it is done in the most courteous manner possible. Similarly, this motif of courtesy, combined with aension of parking regulations, is observed in all the campus duties of the Colberts.

The University will continue to safeguard property and students, and the coffeehouse will be primarily open to college students. A fee of one dollar per punch will be charged. Each member may be accompanied by his guest. The integrating of students from the areas colleges will yield a greater student body on and around the campus. The entertainment will be of a varied nature. Running from Jazz to Folk to Classical music, the groups will be both professional and amateur. Students from each of the areas colleges will participate in all phases of the administrative structure. A graduate student will be responsible for the daily maintenance of the coffeehouse. The entertainment will be comprised of one student from each college and will represent the community will oversee the project. A management committee of program planners and resource people will secure entertaining acts.

The downtown YMCA will be responsible for the initial financing of the project. However, it is hoped that this project will be self-supporting on a non-profit basis. The YMCA will act in a supervisory fashion, but the Governing Board will have virtual autonomy.

Brian Mahoney, Paul Cox and Richard Livermore represent P.C. on the founding committee. The success of the coffeehouse depends on student participation. A college meeting house with varied entertainment will achieve the purpose of the planners—to enhance the college experience through exposure to people and entertainment.

June Grad

CAREER IN BANKING

BANK EXAMINER AIDES

SALARY $6,500

plus • LIBERAL FRINGE BENEFITS WHILE YOU TRAIN

PROMOTION OPPORTUNITIES TO OVER $24,000

NO EXPERIENCE NEEDED

Begin your career July 1, 1968. Write immediately for application which must be filed by Nov. 3, 1967.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT YOUR PLACEMENT OFFICE BELOW OR FILL IN COUPON BELOW AND MAIL TO

NEW YORK STATE BANKING DEPARTMENT
PERSONNEL OFFICE, 100 CHURCH STREET, NEW YORK, N. Y., 10007

PLEASE PRINT

Name...

Address...

fight it.

Get Eaton's Corrizable Bond Typewriter Paper.

Mistakes don't show. A mis-key completely disappears from the special surface. An ordinary pencil eraser lets you erase without a trace. So why use ordinary paper? Eaton's Corrizable is available in light, medium, heavy weights and Onion Skin. In 100-sheet packets and 500- sheet ream boxes. At Stationery Departments.
I won't go into business when I graduate because:

- a. I'd lose my individuality.
- b. It's graduate school for me.
- c. My mother wants me to be a doctor.

Can't argue with c), but before you check a) or b)—pencils up! There have been some changes. Drastic changes in the business scene. Changes in the vox populi attitude regarding business—especially on campus... just haven't kept pace.

Take the belabored point that business turns you into a jellyfish. The men who run business... just haven't kept pace. It's graduate school for me.

For thinking creatively and individually. For saying "No." Rewards and accolades. For the manner in which the government troops handled the situation on the whole. Mr. Keane described this group of marauders as "incredibly brutal and sadistic." As the evening wore on, isolated incidents of brutality were reported on the part of both sides, but the majority of the marchers had returned to sitting on the Pentagon grounds. It was during this period that the U.S. marshals again showed themselves "particularly flaccid..."

Having given up their blankets to those injured in the scuffles, most of the demonstrators spent a chilly night on the Pentagon lawn. Only a few of the small fires which they were able to light. Their discomfort was heightened by the arrival of the members of the 82nd Airborne unit from Fort Bragg, North Carolina, some of whom went to the extreme of "emptying out their canteens on the ground," thus creating puddles where the protestors were seated.

By 5:00 a.m. Sunday the original crowd had dwindled to about 1,000 people. Later on, as more people came to reinforce this group, the military troops began carting away the demonstrators. Keane himself, charged with pressing the police line and resisting arrest, was among the first to be hauled away.

One further incident, involving three members of the Military Police, stands out in Keane's mind as perhaps the most significant event of the entire demonstration. The Military Policemen, rather than beat the protestors who had stormed the main door of the Pentagon, threw down their clubs and helmets; two of them were later arrested because of their action.

In Keane's opinion the demonstration achieved two main purposes. It served to publicize the pacifists' cause, and it contributed to the internal strength of the peace movement as well. When asked if he would hesitate to join other protests, in view of a court order forbidding him to participate in any further disorders, Keane stated that "I will commit civil disobedience again if necessary."

New Faculty Member
Mr. Christopher Hewitt

Another new face of the faculty on the Providence College scene this year is that of Mr. Christopher Hewitt, instructor in the Sociology department.

Mr. Hewitt is a native of Cheddle (near Liverpool, England). Having attended public schools in England, Mr. Hewitt completed his undergraduate studies at the London School of Economics in 1963. Perhaps his greatest claim to fame is his acquaintance while attending this institution with a part-time rock 'n' roll singer named Mick Jagger.

Moved by personal motives to continue his study in the United States, Mr. Hewitt accepted one of three fellowships offered him at that time at Brown University. There he completed his graduate degree in 1965 and is presently working towards his Doctorate in Sociology.

When not teaching at P.C. or studying at Brown, Mr. Hewitt is at Regis College, a Catholic women's school in Weston, Mass, where he also is a member of the Sociology faculty. In commenting on his initial reaction to Providence College, from his admittedly scanty interaction with the student body, Mr. Hewitt observes the great strength of student involvements ranging from intense desire to learn to apathetic laziness.

Mr. Hewitt's immediate plans include the completion of his doctoral dissertation. "The British Power Structure," which he will complete by the end of this academic years. He also is scheduled teaching at the college level.

P.C. Student Arrested
In Washington D.C.

By FREDERICK DAY

Michael Keane does not claim to be a hero. He did not consider himself a martyr of any sort. By the same token, however, he does not care to be labeled a "sissy."

Keane, a P.C. junior, was among the hundreds of Rhode Island students participating in the anti-Vietnam war demonstration held October 23-24 in Washington. He emphasizes the fact that he did not go down to Washington looking for trouble. "The chief purpose of the demonstration was peaceful protest against the war." Before the demonstration had ended, however, Keane was asked to spend more than ten hours in the District of Columbia correctional center at Occoquan, Virginia.

After arriving in Washington early on the morning of Saturday, October 21, Keane marched to the Lincoln Memorial with the Students for a Democratic Society. A lengthy speaker program was held at the Memorial, followed by the mile and a half march to the Pentagon building.

It was late Saturday afternoon that the first actual violence flared up at the Pentagon. According to Keane, some extremely militant demonstrators stormed the Pentagon, and eventually about thirty succeeded in entering the building itself. These so-called "revolutionaries" were "locked inside, beaten, and sprayed with tear gas" by the United States marines. Though he had praise for the manner in which the government troops handled the situation on the whole, Mr. Keane described this group of marauders as "incredibly brutal and sadistic."

As the evening wore on, isolated incidents of brutality were reported on the part of both sides, but the majority of the marchers had returned to sitting on the Pentagon grounds. It was during this period that
Viewed in Context

Last Saturday night in Alumni Hall The Young Rascals rocked and rolled for eighty minutes without a break. A crowd of over four thousand people, half of whom paid three dollars each to become acquainted with "Mustang Sally" and find out that Los Angeles could be anywhere.

The following night U.S. Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas appeared in the same hall and attracted an approximately equal number of people, one quarter of which were PC students. Fortas didn't peddle any hard hitting political ideas to deliver some illuminating observations about the "crisis generation" of college students, civil rights, and constitutional equality. His knowledgeable insights into current problems cost one dollar.

We wonder about the sense of priority and academic sincerity of college students who often pay three dollars for rock and spend one dollar for reason. During the past two years, the Providence Forum series of distinguished lecturers has presented such speakers of international fame as Edward Kennedy and General Maxwell Taylor. It has offered a variety of personalities from Harry Golden to Art Buchwald and yet the series always suffers from the lack of financial and moral support from the students. Perhaps we should have Mick Jagger as our next speaker.

A Job Well Done

The Government Service "open house" and career day was held for the benefit of our Seniors on the twenty-fourth of October, marked another milestone in the list of achievements of the very active Mr. Raymond Thibeault. This program, organized under the guidance of Mr. Thibeault, brought representatives of various agencies together on the Providence College campus to promote careers in Government and related vocations to the students. It has been met with an overwhelming interest and enthusiasm on the part of our students, and we are extremely proud of the success of this program.

The renovated bookstore should be judged only insofar as it is an improvement on last year's facility in response to student demands. It should not be judged on the basis of its adequacy in terms of the future since it will, in all likelihood, shift to larger quarters in the proposed student union.

We commend those who supported and effected the changes in our Bookstore.

Rock or Reason?

The Bookstore may still not be as adequate as some students would like — especially with regard to the number of titles available. But improvements made since the last term should be recognized and commended. A mezzanine, built during the summer, has greatly increased the store's floor space. Several new display racks have been purchased. More than 100 new titles have been added to last year's books, and the political science and history departments significantly strengthened.

Efficient fluorescent lighting has been installed. The Bookstore now offers popular records and other items not previously available on campus.

The renovated bookstore should be judged only insofar as it is an improvement on last year's facility in response to student demands. It should not be judged on the basis of its adequacy in terms of the future since it will, in all likelihood, shift to larger quarters in the proposed student union.

We commend those who supported and effected the changes in our Bookstore.

The significance of this specific demonstration lies not so much in the outlook of which it is an exponent, but in something much deeper and more basic, namely the fact that in America we have the freedom to publicly exhibit our views. Let us not get so caught up in our convictions that we overlook the fact that as Paul Christopher said, "We still have the best thing going."

Gerald P. Feeley

THE COWL. NOV 2, 1967

THE COWL

THE COWL

Pro-Administration Rally Held in Wakefield, Mass.

A crowd of approximately 25,000 people demonstrated in support of the troops in Vietnam last Sunday in Wakefield, Mass. The demonstration, which lasted for more than two hours, was organized by Paul Christopher, a 19-year-old Wakefield High School senior.

Christopher had brainstormed and promoted the rally in less than two weeks, while the organizers of the recent Washington demonstration had six months to pull together a crowd that was not much larger.

The demonstration after becoming "burned up" over an anti-Vietnam protest in Boston a little more than two weeks ago. "I wanted this rally to be so big and so loud that it would be heard in every corner of every jungle in Vietnam," he said.

Wakefield police reported no arrests, despite the fact the crowd was made up of such disparate elements as police, firemen, "teenie boppers," soldiers and leather-jacketed motorcyclists.

Among the participants were representatives of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion, the Marine Corps League and the Jewish War Veterans.

Ward Christopher, Wakefield resident, led the crowd in an emotional salute to the flag. He asked the participants to turn around and stretch out their arms toward the flag, flying from a staff on the mall behind them.

Gov. Volpe, who appeared on the bandstand well after the rally was underway, said: "We are here today because we are Americans, because we love our country, because other Americans who love their country are fighting in Vietnam. We want to see peace, but peace with honor."

Gov. Volpe said that, while he recognized the right of dissent and of free speech, some dissenters "are forgetting their duty and responsibility to their country. Patriotism may be old fashioned today to some, but it should never be out of fashion." He added: "God bless America. God bless our servicemen in Vietnam." Volpe said to the cheers of the crowd.

"GIMME THAT GOOD GOOD LOVIN'"

MEMO

FROM THE EDITOR

The war in Vietnam has been the focus of attention in America for some months now. With each succeeding week the controversy has become more and more heated. To most spectators it would appear that the vast majority of Americans are opposed to the war. This however, is not necessarily true.

The news media, unintentionally perhaps, but nevertheless unavoidably, have projected a distorted view of the sentiments of the American people toward United States policy in Vietnam. To this trend, the COWL has been no exception. More than once, in fact, the COWL has been referred to as the Providence Pacifist Pamphlet. The reason for this, simply stated, is that the concern of the news media is news, and the newsmakers have been those individuals and organizations opposed to the conflict in Southeast Asia.

One of the few large scale demonstrations in support of American involvement was that organized in Wakefield, Massachusetts, last Sunday, by Paul Christopher, a 19-year-old high school student. This individual shines out among many Americans who tacitly favor the United States role in Vietnam.

The significance of this specific demonstration lies not so much in the outlook of which it is an exponent, but in something much deeper and more basic, namely the fact that in America we have the freedom to publicly exhibit our views. Let us not get so caught up in our convictions that we overlook the fact that as Paul Christopher said, "We still have the best thing going."

Gerald P. Feeley
Dear Editor,

The "PCSP" is not, let it be clear, the local chapter of what would best be called the Bleeding Hearts. Moreover, to make the allegation that a meeting of this organization was a display of "emotional hot air" and "near hysteria, the horror of the war" without being present at this meeting is of such a situation either or having judged the nature of the PCSP with a provincial viewpoint.

In fact, this is not what happened. I need only refer all who were there to the speech of Dr. Delaanda, who concerned himself only with political realities and condemned emotionality.

And, in fact, this organization is not a haven for "doves," and nervous nelines, or bleeding hearts. Some of us indeed consider ourselves realists.

All who belong to this organization are aware of the war and are not aesthetic in any sort of way, but do not hold that a solution is anything as simple as the immediate "end to the war." I am to the organization, a real conglomeration of students and faculty from this campus who believe that there are political or even economic reasons for the war and that they might be political or economical or moral or a combination of these, that it is necessary demanded by a realistic appraisal of the situation. In this manner, this organization is not the Pan现阶段 Student Peace Organization, but, nor of the too simple rationalism of "the communist threat," nor of the "imperialistic" progression of America's "western frontier." It is not even our campus, of the United States, but that of the U.S. in Vietnam North and South, and thus of the United States government.

That is to say nothing of the widespread failure of the U.S. military effort in Vietnam, as indicated by the too simple rationalization of the"Communist threat", nor of the "imperialistic" progression of America's "western frontier." It is not even our campus, of the United States, but that of the U.S. in Vietnam North and South, and thus of the United States government...

...and a Proposis

To the Editor,

I am inspired to write this letter by the growing intensity of the debate on this campus and the surrounding community concerning the war in Vietnam. What I am about to propose will most probably be hailed as a shamefully inadequate response to a staggeringly complex problem, but I feel that it seems to be in vogue, and since nothing is more staggeringly complex than the current discussion about the war, I find it necessary to seek a middle way.

I am prompted to write this letter because I assume that the peace movement is active in our campus, and I would like to hear about the organization and see what the way to support your candidate to the election of 1968.

I foresee two objections which will rise to this proposal. One is that I cannot hope to match the "peace" movement in a sea of people discussing the Vietnam war. However, for the "peace" movement to come to a conclusion, it must be a meaningful political action. Write to your Congressmen concerning the two different kinds of government, namely democracy and communism, and let us not confuse the "peace" movement with the "opposition" to the war. I am talking about persons who want peace.

Those of you who have come into a close personal contact with this problem, I am sure have learned a lot about the recent history. In my opinion, the war has been going on for 20 years, and we will be happy to support you with any kind of information concerning the war. I am not talking about the "opposition" to the war. I am talking about persons who want peace.

A Warning...

Fellow students:

It is with great regret, and I emphasize, with great regret that I find myself compelled to write these few lines. I regret for the simple reason that I have never thought it necessary to write about the following subject. However, as a result of several "groups" I participated in on our campus, whose purpose is to present to you the so-called "truth" about the latest policies pursued by the United States government in the fight against communism, especially in Vietnam, I believe it is my duty to bring out several facts concerning this matter.

That the U.S. prisoners held now remain in Cuba. Six years ago my parents and I were forced to leave our home in Cuba in search of freedom, which for us was a dream come true. Today, we found only 90 miles away from our country. Under the circumstances, we had the "opportunity" of living under two different kinds of government, namely democracy and communism, and we know that freedom and slavery. I say "opportunity," because it is in this manner that one could possibly afford to know how much freedom means, and what it is to lose it altogether. What could I possibly tell you about the war in Vietnam, as I believe much has been said about it. But still, as I have said before, one could never know what it really is like until you experience it. Fortunately, I still believe it is your duty to warn you about all constitutional issues concerning this "social cancer."

You have, as well as in a moral and intellectual manner, been exhorted not to be hanged in our world. According to a few of the relatives I still have in Cuba, they would rather

AIR WAY CLEANSING
558 ADMIRAL STREET
380 ATEWLLS AVE.
215 ACADEMY AVE.

BIOLOGY 69

A Protest...

To the Editor:

This letter is a mild protest against the method used by Nick Reed in his "Letters to the Editor" of October 18, 1968. Father Reid, I am told, has been accused of "peace-mindedness" by persons discussing the Vietnam war. One position involves surrender to aggression, and this is supposed to be endearless, while the other involves resistance in defense and limited war. What I must protest against is the reductio ad absurdum of the voices on this question to two. This sort of reductionism permits Father Reid to put all those who disagree with him in the "peace" movement, and the fact that he has made it clear that he cannot hope to match the "peace" movement in a sea of people discussing the Vietnam war, is a justification for the monstrous actions of the Communists.

I am prompted to write this letter because I assume that the peace movement is active in our campus, and I would like to hear about the organization and see what the way to support your candidate to the election of 1968.

I foresee two objections which will rise to this proposal. One is that I cannot hope to match the "peace" movement in a sea of people discussing the Vietnam war. However, for the "peace" movement to come to a conclusion, it must be a meaningful political action. Write to your Congressmen concerning the two different kinds of government, namely democracy and communism, and let us not confuse the "peace" movement with the "opposition" to the war. I am talking about persons who want peace.

Those of you who have come into a close personal contact with this problem, I am sure have learned a lot about the recent history. In my opinion, the war has been going on for 20 years, and we will be happy to support you with any kind of information concerning the war. I am not talking about the "opposition" to the war. I am talking about persons who want peace.

A Warning...

Fellow students:

It is with great regret, and I emphasize, with great regret that I find myself compelled to write these few lines. I regret for the simple reason that I have never thought it necessary to write about the following subject. However, as a result of several "groups" I participated in on our campus, whose purpose is to present to you the so-called "truth" about the latest policies pursued by the United States government in the fight against communism, especially in Vietnam, I believe it is my duty to bring out several facts concerning this matter.

That the U.S. prisoners held now remain in Cuba. Six years ago my parents and I were forced to leave our home in Cuba in search of freedom, which for us was a dream come true. Today, we found only 90 miles away from our country. Under the circumstances, we had the "opportunity" of living under two different kinds of government, namely democracy and communism, and we know that freedom and slavery. I say "opportunity," because it is in this manner that one could possibly afford to know how much freedom means, and what it is to lose it altogether. What could I possibly tell you about the war in Vietnam, as I believe much has been said about it. But still, as I have said before, one could never know what it really is like until you experience it. Fortunately, I still believe it is your duty to warn you about all constitutional issues concerning this "social cancer."

You have, as well as in a moral and intellectual manner, been exhorted not to be hanged in our world. According to a few of the relatives I still have in Cuba, they would rather
The first of a series of discussions initiated by the Chaplain's Office, was held on Thursday evening before a near capacity crowd in the Library Room. The discussion was entitled, "The Love of a Hippie," and the guest speakers were: Rev. Christopher Johnson, O.P., from the Sociology Department and Dr. John Redmond, from the Psychology Department.

Mr. Johnson was the first to speak. He lectured on the social climate that laid the foundation of the "Hippie" movement of the modern world, with communications they are and with strong governments providing them services formally provided by individuals, man finds that he can no longer be an individual. Therefore, he must conform to our present day norm of behavior. The "Hippie" is not going to be individualistic by not following these norms. They live by the "here and now" and are not concerned with the past and the future.

Mr. Redmond expanded on the message of the "Hippie" which he said was an indictment against our present society.

Representatives For Senior Gift

On Oct 23, 1967, Thomas Healy, William Hanley and Peter Gallogly met with the Providence College Student Senate. Rev. Capt. Paul Haas, President of the College, to discuss plans for the class gift for the Class of 1969. The purpose of the meeting was to find out what the school would anticipate in terms of a gift. The committee tentatively suggested plans for the gift.

Mr. Haas cited the practicality of the donation and said that in the past it has worked very well. He would appreciate any suggestions that the committee had in mind. Instead of going into detail of the various plans he suggested that the representatives should see Mr. William Kenney who would outline the plan.

Mr. Healy and Mr. Hanley plan to see Mr. Kenney within the next week and will report to the committee the findings of the meeting.

PCSP Meets the Marines

The Providence College chapter of the Marines, the Marine Recruit Table, was visited by the Reverend Royal J. Gardner, the national director of the Providence College Students for Peace, on Friday night, October 16, for forty minutes.

The Reverend Joseph L. Lennon, O.P., national president of the honor society, Mr. Dennis Wentruba, president of the Providence College Chapter and the Reverend Royal J. Gardner, O.P., vice-president of the chapter, were present at the induction ceremonies.

In addressing the new members, the Reverend Lennon expressed the hope that there would be no exceptions to the honor society's position as most prestigious group on Smith Hill except the basketball team. In his remarks, Fr. Lennon expressed the hope that there would be no exceptions to the honor society's position as most prestigious on campus.

At the meeting the elections of Michael Doody, '68, and Dennis Lord, '68, as president and vice-president of the chapter, respectively, were announced.

PCSP has planned the establishment of its peace information booth for that particular day long before it was known that the Marines would also operate a table.

The interchange between the members of the opposed organizations was described by both sides as very cordial. Only a minor incident involving the destruction of some peace literature by an irate student marked the peaceful coexistence.

A Marine captain described his feeling about the peace table: "We both want the same objective — peace. We simply differ in our approach. The tables attracted approximately equal number of visitors. However, the discussion was generally more voluble at the peace table.

FRESHMAN CROSS COUNTRY

The Providence College chapter of Delta Epsilon Sigma, the national scholastic honor society of Catholic colleges, held induction ceremonies Monday night, October 16, for forty recently named members.

The ceremony was conducted on the Providence campus by the Reverend Joseph L. Lennon, O.P., national president of the honor society, Mr. Dennis Wentruba, president of the Providence College Chapter and the Reverend Royal J. Gardner, O.P., vice-president of the chapter, in reaction to the visiting Marine recruiting table.

PEACE INFORMATION

The Providence College chapter of the Marines, the Marine Recruit Table, was visited by the Reverend Royal J. Gardner, the national director of the Providence College Students for Peace, on Friday night, October 16, for forty minutes.

The Reverend Joseph L. Lennon, O.P., national president of the honor society, Mr. Dennis Wentruba, president of the Providence College Chapter and the Reverend Royal J. Gardner, O.P., vice-president of the chapter, were present at the induction ceremonies.

In addressing the new members, the Reverend Lennon expressed the hope that there would be no exceptions to the honor society's position as most prestigious group on Smith Hill except the basketball team. In his remarks, Fr. Lennon expressed the hope that there would be no exceptions to the honor society's position as most prestigious on campus.

At the meeting the elections of Michael Doody, '68, and Dennis Lord, '68, as president and vice-president of the chapter, respectively, were announced.

PCSP has planned the establishment of its peace information booth for that particular day long before it was known that the Marines would also operate a table.

The interchange between the members of the opposed organizations was described by both sides as very cordial. Only a minor incident involving the destruction of some peace literature by an irate student marked the peaceful coexistence.

A Marine captain described his feeling about the peace table: "We both want the same objective — peace. We simply differ in our approach. The tables attracted approximately equal number of visitors. However, the discussion was generally more voluble at the peace table.

The Providence College chapter of Delta Epsilon Sigma, the national scholastic honor society of Catholic colleges, held induction ceremonies Monday night, October 16, for forty recently named members.

The ceremony was conducted on the Providence campus by the Reverend Joseph L. Lennon, O.P., national president of the honor society, Mr. Dennis Wentruba, president of the Providence College Chapter and the Reverend Royal J. Gardner, O.P., vice-president of the chapter, in reaction to the visiting Marine recruiting table.

PEACE INFORMATION

The Providence College chapter of the Marines, the Marine Recruit Table, was visited by the Reverend Royal J. Gardner, the national director of the Providence College Students for Peace, on Friday night, October 16, for forty minutes.

The Reverend Joseph L. Lennon, O.P., national president of the honor society, Mr. Dennis Wentruba, president of the Providence College Chapter and the Reverend Royal J. Gardner, O.P., vice-president of the chapter, were present at the induction ceremonies.

In addressing the new members, the Reverend Lennon expressed the hope that there would be no exceptions to the honor society's position as most prestigious group on Smith Hill except the basketball team. In his remarks, Fr. Lennon expressed the hope that there would be no exceptions to the honor society's position as most prestigious on campus.

At the meeting the elections of Michael Doody, '68, and Dennis Lord, '68, as president and vice-president of the chapter, respectively, were announced.

PCSP has planned the establishment of its peace information booth for that particular day long before it was known that the Marines would also operate a table.

The interchange between the members of the opposed organizations was described by both sides as very cordial. Only a minor incident involving the destruction of some peace literature by an irate student marked the peaceful coexistence.

A Marine captain described his feeling about the peace table: "We both want the same objective — peace. We simply differ in our approach. The tables attracted approximately equal number of visitors. However, the discussion was generally more voluble at the peace table.

The Providence College chapter of Delta Epsilon Sigma, the national scholastic honor society of Catholic colleges, held induction ceremonies Monday night, October 16, for forty recently named members.

The ceremony was conducted on the Providence campus by the Reverend Joseph L. Lennon, O.P., national president of the honor society, Mr. Dennis Wentruba, president of the Providence College Chapter and the Reverend Royal J. Gardner, O.P., vice-president of the chapter, in reaction to the visiting Marine recruiting table.

PEACE INFORMATION

The Providence College chapter of the Marines, the Marine Recruit Table, was visited by the Reverend Royal J. Gardner, the national director of the Providence College Students for Peace, on Friday night, October 16, for forty minutes.

The Reverend Joseph L. Lennon, O.P., national president of the honor society, Mr. Dennis Wentruba, president of the Providence College Chapter and the Reverend Royal J. Gardner, O.P., vice-president of the chapter, were present at the induction ceremonies.

In addressing the new members, the Reverend Lennon expressed the hope that there would be no exceptions to the honor society's position as most prestigious on campus.

At the meeting the elections of Michael Doody, '68, and Dennis Lord, '68, as president and vice-president of the chapter, respectively, were announced.

PCSP has planned the establishment of its peace information booth for that particular day long before it was known that the Marines would also operate a table.

The interchange between the members of the opposed organizations was described by both sides as very cordial. Only a minor incident involving the destruction of some peace literature by an irate student marked the peaceful coexistence.

A Marine captain described his feeling about the peace table: "We both want the same objective — peace. We simply differ in our approach. The tables attracted approximately equal number of visitors. However, the discussion was generally more voluble at the peace table.

The Providence College chapter of Delta Epsilon Sigma, the national scholastic honor society of Catholic colleges, held induction ceremonies Monday night, October 16, for forty recently named members.

The ceremony was conducted on the Providence campus by the Reverend Joseph L. Lennon, O.P., national president of the honor society, Mr. Dennis Wentruba, president of the Providence College Chapter and the Reverend Royal J. Gardner, O.P., vice-president of the chapter, in reaction to the visiting Marine recruiting table.

PEACE INFORMATION

The Providence College chapter of the Marines, the Marine Recruit Table, was visited by the Reverend Royal J. Gardner, the national director of the Providence College Students for Peace, on Friday night, October 16, for forty minutes.

The Reverend Joseph L. Lennon, O.P., national president of the honor society, Mr. Dennis Wentruba, president of the Providence College Chapter and the Reverend Royal J. Gardner, O.P., vice-president of the chapter, were present at the induction ceremonies.

In addressing the new members, the Reverend Lennon expressed the hope that there would be no exceptions to the honor society's position as most prestigious on campus.

At the meeting the elections of Michael Doody, '68, and Dennis Lord, '68, as president and vice-president of the chapter, respectively, were announced.
In case you haven't heard, Gnomon Copy means the following:

Here We Are!

In case you haven't heard, Gnomon Copy means the ic-ic-2c people. We make the highest quality Xerox copies for the lowest prices anywhere-just 5c for the first copy of one page for the 2-10 additional copies of that page and only 2c for each copy above 0 of that page. But that's not all. We have free collating and free packaging of your order. There's no extra charge for legal size paper and we also have several other types available at a slight extra charge. But most important, Gnomon Copy means service. We offer quick and efficient service for your small order, moderate size orders and we'll even do the largest order within twenty-four hours. Give us a try. We're sure you'll be pleased. In fact, we guarantee it.

Open til 9 PM weekdays for your convenience.

---

PROVIDENCE COLLEGE BLAZERS Available

285 Weybosset Street, Providence, R.I. 02903

WALDORF TUXEDO COMPANY

285 Weybosset Street, Providence, R.I. 02903

102 Waterman Street, Providence, R.I. 02903

CONGRESS WANTS CLUBS SIGNED UP: Smoker to be Held November 3rd

The Legislative Committee of the Student Congress has announced that registration for clubs will be open from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 1 to Nov. 15.

Kevin P. Newman, chairman of the Legislation Committee, has said that any club not duly registered and constituted by that date will be declared null and void.

The only valid clubs on campus are the Providence All-Stars Club, New Bedford Wester Massachusetts, Education Association, Sports Car Club, Blackstone Valley Club, Math Club, Providence College Club, Fall River Club, Albertus Magnus Club, American Institute of Physics, Computer Club, Providence Club, Alpha Epsilon Delta, Wrestling Club, Johnnynville, DES, and Carolin Club.

All other clubs, including many sectional clubs, the Band, the Glee Club, and WDOM, have not been properly registered. The proper registration process is as follows:

All clubs desiring to use the facilities of the faculty must register and obtain permission to use the proper registration service.

To be eligible for appropriations to the Congress, a club must be properly registered.

It has been announced by Daniel J. Ryan, Secretary of the Student Congress, that Rev. William P. Haas, O.P., President of the College, will sponsor two smokers to be held at the President's home, Dominic Hall.

These smokers, open to the student body, will take place Friday, Nov. 3, and Thursday, Nov. 30, at 8 p.m. All students interested in attending are asked to sign up at the Student Congress Office, Alumni Lounge.

The smokers are limited to a total of 25 students. Registration must be made one day prior to the events.

Computers

A course in computer programming will be offered without cost to students and members of the faculty.

Sponsored by the Computer Club, the program will be taught by noted computer experts: Groove Pack, experienced programmers. During the three-week period of Nov. 7, classes will be every Tuesday and Thursday for the duration of the first semester, from 7 to 8 p.m.

CORRECTION!

Due to an error in the figures released by the Office of the Vice-President for Academic Affairs Re: Teacher Evaluation, it was announced in The Cowl that 0.1% of the faculty was rated as "Superior." It is now 1%, not 0.1%. The Office of the Student-Faculty Evaluation. The correct percentage of Superior teachers is 1%.

Keep Your Time Free

Leave Your Typing to Me

MARCIA CUTLER 461-7544

---

Former Student Joseph Dionne Repeats to Capitol Protest

When questioned about the Model Dorm, Father felt that "it had died a natural death, because the main point, concerning curfews was being realized and also because of a lack of interest." After a considerable study, television was allowed in student's rooms next year. This was not done sooner, according to Fr. Cunningham, for fear that the novelty of the medium might prove to be a distraction.

The Dean of Men felt that changes will proceed slowly but steadily in the near future and is satisfied with the progress so far.

(Ed. note: Joseph Dionne is a former member of the Providence College Class of 1969. He is now a student at St. John's University in New York. A resident of Somerset, Massachusetts, Mr. Dionne has been trying to maintain his interest and loyalty to Providence College, but has given up the battle of the COWL of the following account of one aspect of last week's events.)

By JOSEPH DIONNE

On Monday morning I promptly went to the school cafeteria for a quick cup of coffee before classes. I noticed many of my friends there, had returned from the Washington Peace March. There was one in particular that I was anxious to see. I had been kept from going to Washington by a painful case of gastroenteritis which had been bothering me for weeks. My girlfriend went without me and I had not yet heard from her. I had finally arrived at school as early as I can. But for some reason no one wanted to answer the phone. It might be because they felt I had caught up on them and the march. I was just at the point of deciding to explain to them when a call came. I wasn't going to let her go until I arrived.

No explanation was ever less necessary. I couldn't believe my eyes. My girlfriend was there, and I could not recognize her. Her face was almost completely hidden by bandages. I tried to be brave; I tried to look at her as I went to meet her, but I couldn't. She began to cry; she said she was with those who hurt more as they were hit. I thought of the pain of her life, "How did it happen, HOW?"

She explained confusedly, not really sure herself. She had been with a Saturday night with a large group, singing and eating until less than a year ago on the Pentagon steps. Carole was in the front lines. Most of the others had been arrested because the permits for the rally gave them until Sunday night to leave.

"We wanted to show them how sincere and steadfast our life [sic] are until Sunday we hoped to make that more clear."

Suddenly about 10 o'clock the MPs and marshalls moved forward demanding everyone to leave. "Move, Move, MOVE!" Carole can hardly see without her contact lenses, but she was there, still struggling. She was last.

"Then they just hit me, and hit me until I fell and they hit me again. I just dragged me to a police wagon. I can't even remember why I have to hit me. I could not have hurt them if I wanted to. They have been bothering me ever since it became obvious to me that besides being physically hurt, they were hurting me in some other way.

Edward Jacobs, in the Village Voice this week, makes the following statement: 'They (fellow peace workers in jail) mentioned something I had observed too. The girls were beaten so much more savagely!'"
Senior Class Has Meeting

On Wednesday, October 18, Mr. Raymond Thibeault, from the Placement Office, spoke at a high school class meeting. He discussed the fact that very few seniors are prepared to meet with the challenges of today's business world. For example, he noted that in last year's class about one student in fifteen was offered a job in industry.

To help the seniors a series of conferences was set up. At these conferences, businessmen and speakers speak about the business world and what it is like. So far three conferences have been held with a total attendance of about six percent of the senior class. It is hoped that the attendance will improve markedly in the future, or they will be the last ones to benefit.

For the Placement Office to be of any help the seniors must be registered with the office. At present about sixty percent of the Class of '68 is registered.

S.C. Tutor Program

The Student Congress is conducting its tutorial program for local high school students again this year. Coordinated by the Providence chapter of the American Red Cross, this program has been much appreciated by the community in the past. This year, students will find the program more useful than ever.

In order to assure a continuity of good record in this area, the Congress is now asking for volunteer tutors who will agree to help a needy student one day a week on the P.C. campus.

All those interested should contact Al Pecka or Jim Borges or sign up any time in the Student Congress Office in Alumini Hall.

Fr. Bouyer . . .

(Continued from Page 1)

and Sacrament in Protestantism and Catholicism; and Christian Humanism. For several summers, Fr. Bouyer has been visiting professor of Liturgy at Notre Dame.

After the lecture, a very brief eumcenaal Bible Service was held in which a part of St. Paul's Epistle and the prayer for the thirteenth Sunday after Pentecost were recited. The prayer reads: "Almighty and everlasting God, increase our faith, our hope, and our charity, and that we may be able to obtain what you have promised, and love your commandments."

registered with the Placement Office and the figure is still rising. In the first year last year only 54% of the graduating class registered during their senior year.

A new stock of applications for Principio and the Service for International Students at the Office of the Dean is now available in the Placement Office. Also additional copies of PC Handbook on Graduate Studies have been printed and are available in the Placement Office.

Students wishing to obtain certificates in Federal Credit Union, Nov. 8; Acta; and Touchou, Ross, Bailey & Smart.

The Family Life Education Program is part of the educational programs conducted by Air Force schools in various fields—are classified as technical advisers to the U. S. Air Force and work under a government passport.

Fr. Lennon stated, "The lecture will be a religious, philosophical approach, definitely with religious orientation since I will be speaking chiefly to believers, and will contain everything on family life education starting with pre-marital preparation then proceeding to various aspects of family conduct and marriage."

Fr. Lennon explained that he is bent upon to make the tour because it occurs in the middle of the fall term, fall being the chief reason I am making the tour is because of the opportunities. I know that the worthwhile work I will be engaged in, to visit our students and to do some of the work for Foreign Studies and I hope to have Thanksgiving with them, of course, but I am sure that there are more than enough people from Mr. Gousie on how the students are doing and the reactions to their classes, living conditions, and impressions that they have of their professors." Fr. Lennon also expressed the hope of obtaining an audience with President Forstel, provided His Holiness will be well enough to receive visitors.

In closing, Fr. Lennon announced, "Fr. Eric Bond, O.P., will assume the responsibilities of the Office of the Dean and carry on the work of that office but I hope to be back shortly after Thanksgiving."
Letters

Continued from Page 5)

am happy to see that at least one member of the faculty, the Rev. Patrick Reid, O. F. S., has taken the time to analyze the PC Students for Peace and add his own opinions. Patterns of ideas are present in an extremely logical and coherent form as befits a profession. This makes them leading to an insidious form of one-sidedness, which is very easy over this opinion, and concludes his letter with a detailed list of the more popular government policies.

In Fr. Reid

To the Editor:

I am happy to see that at least one member of the faculty, the Rev. Patrick Reid, O. F. S., has taken the time to analyze the PC Students for Peace and add his own opinions. Patterns of ideas are present in an extremely logical and coherent form as befits a profession. This makes them leading to an insidious form of one-sidedness, which is very easy over this opinion, and concludes his letter with a detailed list of the more popular government policies.

In Fr. Reid

To the Editor:

I am happy to see that at least one member of the faculty, the Rev. Patrick Reid, O. F. S., has taken the time to analyze the PC Students for Peace and add his own opinions. Patterns of ideas are present in an extremely logical and coherent form as befits a profession. This makes them leading to an insidious form of one-sidedness, which is very easy over this opinion, and concludes his letter with a detailed list of the more popular government policies.

In Fr. Reid

To the Editor:

I am happy to see that at least one member of the faculty, the Rev. Patrick Reid, O. F. S., has taken the time to analyze the PC Students for Peace and add his own opinions. Patterns of ideas are present in an extremely logical and coherent form as befits a profession. This makes them leading to an insidious form of one-sidedness, which is very easy over this opinion, and concludes his letter with a detailed list of the more popular government policies.

In Fr. Reid

To the Editor:

I am happy to see that at least one member of the faculty, the Rev. Patrick Reid, O. F. S., has taken the time to analyze the PC Students for Peace and add his own opinions. Patterns of ideas are present in an extremely logical and coherent form as befits a profession. This makes them leading to an insidious form of one-sidedness, which is very easy over this opinion, and concludes his letter with a detailed list of the more popular government policies.

In Fr. Reid

To the Editor:

I am happy to see that at least one member of the faculty, the Rev. Patrick Reid, O. F. S., has taken the time to analyze the PC Students for Peace and add his own opinions. Patterns of ideas are present in an extremely logical and coherent form as befits a profession. This makes them leading to an insidious form of one-sidedness, which is very easy over this opinion, and concludes his letter with a detailed list of the more popular government policies.

In Fr. Reid

To the Editor:

I am happy to see that at least one member of the faculty, the Rev. Patrick Reid, O. F. S., has taken the time to analyze the PC Students for Peace and add his own opinions. Patterns of ideas are present in an extremely logical and coherent form as befits a profession. This makes them leading to an insidious form of one-sidedness, which is very easy over this opinion, and concludes his letter with a detailed list of the more popular government policies.

In Fr. Reid

To the Editor:

I am happy to see that at least one member of the faculty, the Rev. Patrick Reid, O. F. S., has taken the time to analyze the PC Students for Peace and add his own opinions. Patterns of ideas are present in an extremely logical and coherent form as befits a profession. This makes them leading to an insidious form of one-sidedness, which is very easy over this opinion, and concludes his letter with a detailed list of the more popular government policies.

In Fr. Reid

To the Editor:

I am happy to see that at least one member of the faculty, the Rev. Patrick Reid, O. F. S., has taken the time to analyze the PC Students for Peace and add his own opinions. Patterns of ideas are present in an extremely logical and coherent form as befits a profession. This makes them leading to an insidious form of one-sidedness, which is very easy over this opinion, and concludes his letter with a detailed list of the more popular government policies.

In Fr. Reid

To the Editor:

I am happy to see that at least one member of the faculty, the Rev. Patrick Reid, O. F. S., has taken the time to analyze the PC Students for Peace and add his own opinions. Patterns of ideas are present in an extremely logical and coherent form as befits a profession. This makes them leading to an insidious form of one-sidedness, which is very easy over this opinion, and concludes his letter with a detailed list of the more popular government policies.

In Fr. Reid

To the Editor:

I am happy to see that at least one member of the faculty, the Rev. Patrick Reid, O. F. S., has taken the time to analyze the PC Students for Peace and add his own opinions. Patterns of ideas are present in an extremely logical and coherent form as befits a profession. This makes them leading to an insidious form of one-sidedness, which is very easy over this opinion, and concludes his letter with a detailed list of the more popular government policies.

In Fr. Reid

To the Editor:

I am happy to see that at least one member of the faculty, the Rev. Patrick Reid, O. F. S., has taken the time to analyze the PC Students for Peace and add his own opinions. Patterns of ideas are present in an extremely logical and coherent form as befits a profession. This makes them leading to an insidious form of one-sidedness, which is very easy over this opinion, and concludes his letter with a detailed list of the more popular government policies.

In Fr. Reid

To the Editor:

I am happy to see that at least one member of the faculty, the Rev. Patrick Reid, O. F. S., has taken the time to analyze the PC Students for Peace and add his own opinions. Patterns of ideas are present in an extremely logical and coherent form as befits a profession. This makes them leading to an insidious form of one-sidedness, which is very easy over this opinion, and concludes his letter with a detailed list of the more popular government policies.
The Players arrive on the Seton Hall Campus and...

Listen carefully to the “Psyche” talk of Coach Lynch who...

Leads them out on the field of battle to be confronted by the...

Spirit and the...

Pirates of Seton Hall and fall victim to...

Injuries which all adds up to...

A sporting salute to the conquering Pirates.
Elms Tie Bombers at 25 All; Newport Club Scores Upset

The “game of the year” and the “upset of the year” high-lighted league play. Top-ranked New Haven and the classy Beantown Bombers squared up to a 25-25 standoff, but the Bombers probably blew all the marbles the next day by losing to underdog Newport, 14-12.

The Elms-Bomber see-saw affair was, and should turn out to be, the best played game of the year. It pitted the precision passing of Jack Loehmann against the elusive rollouts of Bomber quarterback Pat Monti. Monti doesn’t exactly throw the picture forward pass. In fact he will throw a football anyway he can—overhand, underhand, two-handed or even behind his back if necessary. But the main thing is that Monti usually hits his marks.

Beantown opened the scoring when Monti connected with Art McDonald for six points. Refus-a-dude immediately scored another touchdown. Loehmann hit Joe Parilli a pass to make it 12-6, New Haven. Then it was Beantown’s turn to regain momentum. Ron Pasucci got behind for the secondary for a score, and on the following set of downs, the Bombers let loose their famed rattle-dash passing attack with Ted Fredy receiving for the touchdown.

With Beantown in front, 25-18, Loehmann directed a successful last minute drive. On fourth down at the 20, Larry Olsen ran for six points. Refus-a-dude followed Olsen’s plunge into the end zone. The extra point catch proved to be the clincher.

Possibly suffering from a let down, but in no way from a shortage of players, the Bombers were upset by loosely Newport the following day. Austin Shoehan missed Bomber by throwing two touchdown passes to end Jim Wever and Bob John, for extra point catch proved to be the difference.

On the other side of Hendrickson that day, New Haven racked up its 14th victory by subduing Western Mass. A-27-18. Quarterback Jack Dolan was the first team performer for this game. He was regarded as one of the best linemen on the squad. It is generally admitted that Paul could have played ball on a number of college teams.

His efforts for the Providence College defensive line has earned him the respect of his opponents in 11 out of the 16 quarters of action thus far this season, while allowing only an average of 10 points per ball game. Going into the Seton Hall game the Friar defense had

BOB BUTLER picks up substantial gain in PCLAA game.

Sinon, Egan—COWL Players of the Week

Paul Simon—COWL Player of the Week

For Mike’s fine showing and determination, which is characteristic of the entire team, he was named Player of the Week.
In my last outing I was a tremendous 17 out of 20 for an 850 percentage. Overall my record to date has been good and one tie for a fantastic average of 828 per cent. This week the Friars will not fail me. Here are my predictions:

UCLA vs. Oregon St.: UCLA should have a week to prepare and they’ll be ready with Beban firing and super-soh Jones running. UCLA.

Southern California vs. California: Even with O. Jones of the Trojans have too many horses for the Golden Bears. Southern California.

Tennessee vs. Tampa: A complete miss match; the Vols with Warren back at the controls should score at will. Tennessee.

Purdue vs. Illinois: No contest. Purdue will win in a breeze with Keyes running and Phillips passing. Purdue.

Notre Dame vs. Navy: The Irish are winning again this week they have a bunch of bats but I don’t even make the Irish work up a sweat. Notre Dame.

Indiana vs. Wisconsin: Indiana smells roses. Wisconsin won’t kill the fragrance. They’ll have to work to beat the Hoosiers. Indiana.

Wyoming vs. San Jose St.: Wyoming just keeps right on rolling along. San Jose St. won’t get in the way of their express.

Texas vs. Southern Methodist: Texas all the way with the running of Gilbert and the passing of the Texas.

Providence College Hockey Team:

As Providence College Hockey squad enters its third week of practice, the Friars are turning to their Defensemen and Auditorium, is sporting a grin of confidence for the upcoming season, and that optimism is due to the combined efforts of hard work and dedication with the players, head coach Mike Toppazini and the outstanding amount of energy being put out by the members of the squad this season.

The main objectives for the 1967-68 season is that they concentrate on playing their positions properly and try to form a nucleus for a strong scoring team, and concentrate on playing their positions properly and try to form a nucleus for a strong scoring team, that seems to be materializing in the nucleus for a strong scoring team. Jim Umile and Henry concentrating on playing their positions properly and try to form a nucleus for a strong scoring team. Jim Umile and Henry concentrating on playing their positions properly and try to form a nucleus for a strong scoring team. Jim Umile and Henry concentrating on playing their positions properly and try to form a nucleus for a strong scoring team. Jim Umile and Henry.

As a nucleus for a strong scoring team, it should be a landslide win for the Boilermakers. Purdue.

Notre Dame vs. Navy: The Irish are winning again this week they have a bunch of bats but I don’t even make the Irish work up a sweat. Notre Dame.

Indiana vs. Wisconsin: Indiana smells roses. Wisconsin won’t kill the fragrance. They’ll have to work to beat the Hoosiers. Indiana.

Purdue vs. Illinois: No contest. Purdue will win in a breeze with Keyes running and Phillips passing. Purdue.

Notre Dame vs. Navy: The Irish are winning again this week they have a bunch of bats but I don’t even make the Irish work up a sweat. Notre Dame.

Indiana vs. Wisconsin: Indiana smells roses. Wisconsin won’t kill the fragrance. They’ll have to work to beat the Hoosiers. Indiana.

Wyoming vs. San Jose St.: Wyoming just keeps right on rolling along. San Jose St. won’t get in the way of their express.

Texas vs. Southern Methodist: Texas all the way with the running of Gilbert and the passing of the Texas.

Providence College Hockey Team:

As Providence College Hockey squad enters its third week of practice, the Friars are turning to their Defensemen and Auditorium, is sporting a grin of confidence for the upcoming season, and that optimism is due to the combined efforts of hard work and dedication with the players, head coach Mike Toppazini and the outstanding amount of energy being put out by the members of the squad this season.

The main objectives for the 1967-68 season is that they concentrate on playing their positions properly and try to form a nucleus for a strong scoring team, and concentrate on playing their positions properly and try to form a nucleus for a strong scoring team, that seems to be materializing in the nucleus for a strong scoring team. Jim Umile and Henry concentrating on playing their positions properly and try to form a nucleus for a strong scoring team. Jim Umile and Henry concentrating on playing their positions properly and try to form a nucleus for a strong scoring team. Jim Umile and Henry concentrating on playing their positions properly and try to form a nucleus for a strong scoring team. Jim Umile and Henry.

Air of Optimism Shown by Friar Hockey Team

As Providence College Hockey team enters its third week of practice, the Friars are turning to their Defensemen and Auditorium, is sporting a grin of confidence for the upcoming season, and that optimism is due to the combined efforts of hard work and dedication with the players, head coach Mike Toppazini and the outstanding amount of energy being put out by the members of the squad this season.

The main objectives for the 1967-68 season is that they concentrate on playing their positions properly and try to form a nucleus for a strong scoring team, and concentrate on playing their positions properly and try to form a nucleus for a strong scoring team, that seems to be materializing in the nucleus for a strong scoring team. Jim Umile and Henry concentrating on playing their positions properly and try to form a nucleus for a strong scoring team. Jim Umile and Henry concentrating on playing their positions properly and try to form a nucleus for a strong scoring team. Jim Umile and Henry concentrating on playing their positions properly and try to form a nucleus for a strong scoring team. Jim Umile and Henry.

Pirates Score Upset Over Unbeaten Friars, 26-15

The hard hitting Pirates of Seton Hall University handed the Providence College Club Football team its first loss of the 1967 season last Sunday at South Orange, New Jersey, as they scored two fourth quarter touchdowns. The final score was 26-15.

Early in the first half the Pirates picked off one of Dick Martin’s three fumbles and marched 28 yards in seven plays for the first score of the game. The drive was capped by Al Cain as he took a handoff from Quarterback Dennis O’Keefe and went 21 yards for a touchdown. Art Brady, a defensive back for Seton Hall, picked off a Paul McGuire pass which was intended for Tom Bresnahan and took it 15 yards for the second Seton Hall score. As with their first six points, Friar co-captain Paul Simon blocked the point after attempt. For the remainder of the game all neither squad could mount a sustained drive, as the Friars were not able to penetrate enemy territory.

For a time early in the second half it appeared as though the Friars would break the game wide open. On their first set of offensive plays Dick Martin, George McMahon and Wally Weeks combined their talents with the passing of Quarterback Paul McGuire and marched 65 yards in 12 plays for their first six points of the game. Wally Weeks eluded the drive with a plunge from the one yard line. Three plays later the Friars intercepted a Dennis O’Keefe pass and again Paul McGuire connected with Dick Martin for two more points.

PC Linksters Finish in Second Place

Tie With BC Eagles for ECAC Crown

The Providence College golf team equalled their previous top performance in the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference Golf Tournament with a second place finish behind Penn State. The Friars finished in a tie for second with Boston College. Both teams totalled 322 strokes for the tournament which was held on the 21st of October at Bethpage State Park, Long Island, New York. The champion Nittany Lions outdistanced the rest of the field by an impressive 307 strokes.

Individual honors in the tournament went to Sherman Kiene of Temple University and Frank Lazonofsky of C.W. Post College, both of whom fired rounds of 72. Kiene and Lazonofsky were declared co-champions in this phase of the competition.

Kicking the Football

Seton Hall apparently had the Friars well scouted as they managed to cut off the end sweep which had been so successful for the PC ground game thus far. Paul Simon was out most of the fourth quarter with a leg cramp and his absence from the line illustrated how valuable he is. After the ball game Dick Martin told observers that he has never been hit that hard in his entire life. Mike Egan defensive center, was once again most of the plays in the second half of the game and this fine defensive showing earned him Player of the Week honors.