Sixty-five per cent of the class of '71 went to the polls to elect officers. Chairman of the council in which all freshmen want to introduce a fresh freedom with 107. Raymond Sickinger, secretary, Raymond Sickinger; treasurer, Charles Borkorski; vice-president, Leo Maza; Joseph Lombardi, with 118, and Charles Borkorski received 127 votes, and a publicity committee, Dr. David Janicki  and Fran- ceo Farber blamed a "lack of pub- licity in Raymond Hall circle. It was over and the need is now for unity. Janicki said there is a need for cooperation among freshmen. He proposed bringing the students. He proposed bringing groups in from Connecticut and possibly New York to attract more college women to future mixers. Janicki and Doran are now giving thought to the spring weekend. Urging the need for cooperation among freshmen, Janicki added that the social chairmen wish to organize social functions which will please the whole Class of 1971.

THOMAS FARBER

The Dow Chemical Company has recently been the object of anti-war demonstrators on college campuses because the use of napalm by American forces in Vietnam is immoral. The demonstrators believe that a substantial number of Vietnamese civilians are being maimed and killed by the use of napalm by American forces. Several articles that have been written in the past year, however, dispute this fact.

Dr. Howard A. Rusk, M.D., Keenan Smith, 39. In an interview the vice-president-elect said there was a general need for unity in the class. Maza and Borkoski received 127 votes, and a publicity committee, Dr. David Janicki and Franco Farber blamed a "lack of publicity in Raymond Hall circle. It was over and the need is now for unity. Janicki said there is a need for cooperation among freshmen. He proposed bringing the students. He proposed bringing groups in from Connecticut and possibly New York to attract more college women to future mixers. Janicki and Doran are now giving thought to the spring weekend. Urging the need for cooperation among freshmen, Janicki added that the social chairmen wish to organize social functions which will please the whole Class of 1971.

Alcohol on Campus Scrutinized; Laws Appear to be Unrealistic

Editor's Note: The following feature resulted from the "Cowl"'s curiosity about the justifiability of a change in liquor regulations at Providence College.

By GREGORY FOLEY

In Ovid's Metamorphoses participants at a Bacchalian invoked the god of wine by the following: "Wherever you may go, the crowd is there, the shrieks of girls, the shouts of boys, lus- tumor roaring and the cry of flutes." By substitu- tion of electric guitars for flutes, this would be a fairly accurate description of a local college off-campus mixer or fraternity party.

Unlike those attending that mythic rite, college students find themselves restricted by law. They are placed within an ambivalent situation. This law prohibits the use of alcoholic beverages to them while the academic community and a large segment of society deftly turn their heads, giving implicit approval to them.

Prohibitionists have always raised their voices in American society. From the days of Carrie Nation to the Prohibition period in the twenties, laws against imbibing have been made with mixed feelings, and often unfortunate and disastrous results. The Prohibition created a disregard and self-justification situation from which this country has never outgrown.

Extreme prohibitory laws have virtually vanished from the American scene, but some rem- ants still remain. Section 3 of the General Laws of Rhode Island states that "the sale of alcoholic beverages will help them to attain the virtue of temperance in the use of alcoholic beverages." This enforcement of the virtue of temperance is regulated in the state of Rhode Island, but outside this area there are 15 states that allow some sort of use of alcoholic beverages by minors.

Some of these laws allow use of beer or dis- filled spirits by those above 18, while other states restrict them to beer and wine. Oklahoma has the most confusing and ridiculous of these laws. This law restricts male drinking to those above 21, while females may purchase beer (with a 21% alcohol content) for off-premise consump- tion but must be 21 to quaff this extremely po- tent drink on premise. These different approach- es arebelieved to be most effective and healthy according to psychologists and sociologists than those used by the majority of states.

In the views of many New England government leaders, the laws will not conceivably be altered in the near future. In a letter to Student Congress President Edward Dunphy, Rhode Is- land Governor John Chafee takes the position that the campus would not add to the academic atmosphere of the college, and that be- tween the ages of 18 and 21, young people should be allowed to experiment with their careers. Mr. Chafee concluded, "I do not see how alcoholic beverages will help them to attain that objective."

(Continued on Page 7)
In Man's Search for Meaning, Dr. Viktor Frankl states that the striving to find a meaning is a universal, self-creative, and self-transcendent drive in man. "Man strives to find himself, to fulfill himself, to become what he is capable of becoming." He opposes reducing man to a simple mechanism or to a thing that can be handled with a formula.

Dr. Frankl believed that the real meaning in life is the answer to the question: "Why am I here?" This search for a higher cause is the basis of meaningful existence. The real problem of existential psychology is the meaning of human existence. The meaning of life is a distinct phenomenon.

Dr. Frankl thought that the ultimate meaning of life is not something that is discovered by oneself. It is the meaning one finds through the help of others. The meaning of life is a co-creative act, a process of sharing and transferring the meaning of a situation to others. Each person must find his or her own "meaning in life". The true meaning of life is the answer to the question: "Why am I here?"

Dr. Frankl believed that the search for the meaning of human existence is a real and basic problem of human life. The meaning of human existence is the fundamental problem of human life. The search for the meaning of human existence is a real and basic problem of human life. The meaning of human existence is the fundamental problem of human life.
PC Joins Three Schools To Form New Institute

The American colleges have, this third year students in Fribourg, Switzerland — namely, Oergett University, La Salle College, Providence College, and Rosary College — have discussed the possibility of uniting to form a University Institute. This Institute would coordinate the possibility of uniting the Fribourg which, since its establishment, would render service to the University. It is subject to the approval of the University Senate.

The establishment of the Institute would not imply the present distinction between undergraduate American students and accredited University students. Among the advantages of such a institute is that of American student the establishment of institution courses and the engagement of professors which made the members of the directorium. The directorium would sub-ordinate the academic control as outlined in the University statutes.

The American Institute would not imply the present distinction between undergraduate American students and accredited University students. Among the advantages of such a institute is that of American student the establishment of institution courses and the engagement of professors which made the members of the directorium. The directorium would sub-ordinate the academic control as outlined in the University statutes.

The establishment of the Institute would not imply the present distinction between undergraduate American students and accredited University students. Among the advantages of such a institute is that of American student the establishment of institution courses and the engagement of professors which made the members of the directorium. The directorium would sub-ordinate the academic control as outlined in the University statutes.

The establishment of the Institute would not imply the present distinction between undergraduate American students and accredited University students. Among the advantages of such a institute is that of American student the establishment of institution courses and the engagement of professors which made the members of the directorium. The directorium would sub-ordinate the academic control as outlined in the University statutes.

President's Christmas Message

For one full month our eyes and ears have been bombarded with a series of sights and sounds in what appropriately be called The Festival of Exploitation. There isn't a human response from faith to virtue that is not used to create a fairy land of glitter and good cheer. Thus we endure once again the holy season of "let's pretend" — let's pretend that something, anything, be it the sweetness of children, the goodness of mankind, the inevitable happy ending, the American dream or the religious "ex- periencing" that religion so long disdained as "selfishness" disguise itself as love, when families can buy the signs of affection and avoid the reality, when business can sanctify profits, when religion can solemnize its failure and when soldiers can catch their breath. The saddest thing about Xmas '67 is that it will attempt to destroy the innocence that it blatantly exploits.

In the face of a tragedy that is as old as history, who believe in the past, and who believe in the future, we must see through this. As Christians we must bear witness to the presence of God's Incarnate Love in history by loving this pathetically confused world as Christ loved it.

WILLIAM PAUL HAAS, O.P.
President

Students Abroad Visited by Dean

By RICH PEARSON

The Rev. Joseph L. Lennon, dean of studies, in a personal interview related the findings of his trip to Fribourg, France, and Rome, where he visited Providence College students spending their junior year abroad.

Spending Nov. 27 and 28 in Fribourg, Fr. Lennon was met in Zurich by Mr. Laurent Gouze, residence director of the Providence College junior-year-abroad program and member of our modern language department, and also by the Rev. Frederick Hinnelush, O.P., a member of P.C.'s history department, who is studying at the University of Fribourg.

Driving the 80 miles to Fribourg, Fr. Lennon was met by Father Philip of Georgetown University, Mr. Michael Busiek, of LaSalle College, and Sister Kiverne, O.P., of Rosary College in River Forest, Illinois. They are also studying at this institution.

Driving the 80 miles to Fribourg, Fr. Lennon was met by Father Philip of Georgetown University, Mr. Michael Busiek, of LaSalle College, and Sister Kiverne, O.P., of Rosary College in River Forest, Illinois. They are also studying at this institution.

For one full month our eyes and ears have been bombarded with a series of sights and sounds in what appropriately be called The Festival of Exploitation. There isn't a human response from faith to virtue that is not used to create a fairy land of glitter and good cheer. Thus we endure once again the holy season of "let's pretend" — let's pretend that something, anything, be it the sweetness of children, the goodness of mankind, the inevitable happy ending, the American dream or the religious "ex- periencing" that religion so long disdained as "selfishness" disguise itself as love, when families can buy the signs of affection and avoid the reality, when business can sanctify profits, when religion can solemnize its failure and when soldiers can catch their breath. The saddest thing about Xmas '67 is that it will attempt to destroy the innocence that it blatantly exploits.

In the face of a tragedy that is as old as history, who believe in the past, and who believe in the future, we must see through this. As Christians we must bear witness to the presence of God's Incarnate Love in history by loving this pathetically confused world as Christ loved it.

WILLIAM PAUL HAAS, O.P.
President

On the whole, the students find their classes satisfactory and rate their courses and professors highly. They are having an "interesting" year at P.C. The students feel, though, that the big advantage is the American style of foreign climate and seem to be thriving academically and socially. The only complaint is that the town itself is "quite dead."

For one full month our eyes and ears have been bombarded with a series of sights and sounds in what appropriately be called The Festival of Exploitation. There isn't a human response from faith to virtue that is not used to create a fairy land of glitter and good cheer. Thus we endure once again the holy season of "let's pretend" — let's pretend that something, anything, be it the sweetness of children, the goodness of mankind, the inevitable happy ending, the American dream or the religious "ex- }

For one full month our eyes and ears have been bombarded with a series of sights and sounds in what appropriately be called The Festival of Exploitation. There isn't a human response from faith to virtue that is not used to create a fairy land of glitter and good cheer. Thus we endure once again the holy season of "let's pretend" — let's pretend that something, anything, be it the sweetness of children, the goodness of mankind, the inevitable happy ending, the American dream or the religious "ex-
Merry Registration

Ho! Ho!

Do you feel badly about missing the Genesian Players' performance of "The Zoo Story"? Don't cry. Go to pre-registration. The dramatic experience you will undergo, although not as entertaining as the one provided by the Genesian Players, will titillate your emotions, mostly with anguish. Let us exaggerate... I mean elaborate upon a few situations which occurred and some that didn't but could have.

It all started with a bad omen. It was Monday's snow that turned to slush that covered the stairs that filled the crowd that rushed to Harkins for pre-registration. The grime started. Picture this, hundreds of cold and wet students, some of whom are all wet even when they're dry, rushing en masse into auditorium set up for a stage performance. What does one do when he finds himself on stage? He acts. Some students do what Fr. Bond and his Juniors did. They Bay vs. Los Angeles Rams game by playfully pushing and shoving everyone with "youthful" zest. Some student officers roamed about giving Shakespeare-like soliloquys about "something must be done." Other students just hustled in corners and wept. At the height of the action a drama critic from East Providence happened by and immediately began writing a good review of the situation which ensued in the auditorium. Pushing, crowding, and putting fear into the hearts of three bewildered secretaries, the junior finally gained a semblance of order after half-an-hour. While their troops retreated. After several minutes, the Assistant Dean appeared, announcing that pre-registration would continue at 10 o'clock. The earlier session was orderly compared to the frenzied mob scene that ensued in the auditorium. Pushing, crowding, and putting fear into the hearts of three bewildered secretaries, the juniors finally gained a semblance of order after half-an-hour. While their behavior was not in the best of taste, it was understandable due to the fact that many had cut classes prior to pre-registry and would probably have to cut more.

The fault does not lie with the administration for this fiasco. The use of computers and other IBM systems for such affairs is only a recent innovation. Perhaps, after Wednesday someone in the Dean's Office realized that a better administration could be instituted whereby a period of registration, or a method of in absentia registration for this "Tour de Force" is a bit difficult to say. We want to give everyone their due. Was it the Deans and Mr. Mc... something that weren't prepared? Was it the administration which didn't provide enough cuts for the people registering? Was it the students who didn't follow directions? We know who it was... don't we?

There's only one solution. Turn the entire registration process over to the Verides; at least we'll be served tea while being crushed in line.

Something must and can be done about these needless inconveniences. Let us exaggerate... I mean elaborate upon a few situations which occurred and some that didn't but could have been.

SERIOUSLY, THOUGH

This past Tuesday Juniors assembled in Harkins Hall auditorium met with an extremely amazing situation in these days of student teach-ins, sit-ins and protests. At 9:30 a.m. Father Bond and his secretarial entourage walked out on awaiting members of the class. Of course there was no other reason than that there were too many present. (Approx. 250) Slightly angered, juniors stormed the ramparts of the Dean's Office and charged into the Dean's Office Manager's office, put some anger into their relatively simple parts was unusual. Dramatic devices, as periodic delays, expressions of concern, and angry words were injected into their relatively rustic simplicity.

The view currently in vogue, that any form of dissent need not be questioned, the mode of dissent demanding scrutiny, the disruption of the pursuit of knowledge, the endangering of the American tradition of free speech and assembly. Certainly this is a high price to pay.

Equally disturbing is the incongruity that is so apparent. In general, the dissent is directed against immorality and injustice, yet the means themselves are immoral and unjust.

Disruptive student activism can serve no good end and should be dealt with severely.

Gerald P. Feeley

On Stage

Mr. Bernard Meehan has found what seems to be a remedy for the pains of cultural hunger Providence College has been suffering. As director of the Genesian Players, he is deserving of our gratitude and respect.

The applause of students following the Players' presentation of three one-act plays last weekend was indicative of their gratefulness for the return of dramatic activity to the campus. A dramatic society should receive as much support and encouragement on a liberal arts campus as other groups. The COWL recognizes this, hopes the Friars will also, and wishes the Genesian Players a very successful future.

The directors manipulated the cast with ease. There was a line for everyone and some lucky devils even had two or three lines at once. In one instance a student was in a line near the secretaries for over an hour. Finally, he was able to hand his I.B.M. card, on which he had written marriage 302, to a secretary. Instead of initializing it she shed a tear, said yes, kissed him, and dragged him off to the nearest Justice of the Peace. The marriage was later annulled, however, since it was discovered that the groom did not have the pre-requisite of 301. Another poor soul had some anguished words for one of the Deans. He is now attending 8:30 a.m. Theology Classes at St. Pius and will receive his Diploma in a plain brown wrapper at separate graduation exercises at Cranston East.

Oh... we mustn't forget to mention the sets. They were "mama-rvehous" in their rustic simplicity. The two old tables, the rusted chairs, and the giant wooden egg crate used for time slots all enhanced the general atmosphere of improvisation and imagination which these trained eye would have not detected any signs of automated efficiency.

Just who deserves the chief credit for this "Tour de Force" is a bit difficult to say. We want to give everyone their due. Was it the Deans and Mr. Mc... something that weren't prepared? Was it the administration which didn't provide enough cuts for the people registering? Was it the students who didn't follow directions? We know who it was... don't we?

There's only one solution. Turn the entire registration process over to the Verides; at least we'll be served tea while being crushed in line.

THE COWL. DECEMBER 14, 1967

The directors manipulated the cast with ease. There was a line for everyone and some lucky devils even had two or three lines at once. In one instance a student was in a line near the secretaries for over an hour. Finally, he was able to hand his I.B.M. card, on which he had written marriage 302, to a secretary. Instead of initializing it she shed a tear, said yes, kissed him, and dragged him off to the nearest Justice of the Peace. The marriage was later annulled, however, since it was discovered that the groom did not have the pre-requisite of 301. Another poor soul had some anguished words for one of the Deans. He is now attending 8:30 a.m. Theology Classes at St. Pius and will receive his Diploma in a plain brown wrapper at separate graduation exercises at Cranston East.

Oh... we mustn't forget to mention the sets. They were "mama-rvehous" in their rustic simplicity. The two old tables, the rusted chairs, and the giant wooden egg crate used for time slots all enhanced the general atmosphere of improvisation and imagination which these trained eye would have not detected any signs of automated efficiency.

Just who deserves the chief credit for this "Tour de Force" is a bit difficult to say. We want to give everyone their due. Was it the Deans and Mr. Mc... something that weren't prepared? Was it the administration which didn't provide enough cuts for the people registering? Was it the students who didn't follow directions? We know who it was... don't we?

There's only one solution. Turn the entire registration process over to the Verides; at least we'll be served tea while being crushed in line.

SERIOUSLY, THOUGH

This past Tuesday Juniors assembled in Harkins Hall auditorium met with an extremely amazing situation in these days of student teach-ins, sit-ins and protests. At 9:30 a.m. Father Bond and his secretarial entourage walked out on awaiting members of the class. Of course there was no other reason than that there were too many present. (Approx. 250) Slightly angered, juniors stormed the ramparts of the Dean's Office and charged into the Dean's Office Manager's office, put some anger into their relatively simple parts was unusual. Dramatic devices, as periodic delays, expressions of concern, and angry words were injected into their relatively rustic simplicity.

The view currently in vogue, that any form of dissent need not be questioned, the mode of dissent demanding scrutiny, the disruption of the pursuit of knowledge, the endangering of the American tradition of free speech and assembly. Certainly this is a high price to pay.

Equally disturbing is the incongruity that is so apparent. In general, the dissent is directed against immorality and injustice, yet the means themselves are immoral and unjust.

Disruptive student activism can serve no good end and should be dealt with severely.

Gerald P. Feeley

MEMO—FROM THE EDITOR

Protests and demonstrations are growing more martial among American college students. While the sanctity a dissent need not be questioned, the mode of dissent demand scrutinizing attention.

Ordinary and unintrusive dissent is a privilege and offers an obligation. We have been forced to realize that this is the only type of dissent evidenced on our campus. The problem of attention however, is the unruly, obstructive dissent across the country that has become too common.

The potential price of such buffoonery and extraneous can only be seen as the defeat of the purpose of sincere and rational dissent, the disruption of the pursuit of knowledge, and the endangering of the American tradition of free speech and assembly. Certainly this is a high price to pay.

Equally disturbing is the incongruity that is so apparent. In general, the dissent is directed against immorality and injustice, yet the means themselves are immoral and unjust.

Disruptive student activism can serve no good end and should be dealt with severely.

Gerald P. Feeley

THE COWL

MEMBER

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

EDITORIAL BOARD

Editor-in-Chief: ROBERT E. ROY
Executive Editors: JOSEPH P. BRUM
Managing Editors: JAMES P. VIGNEAU

Sports Editor: BRIAN M. MAGEE
Feature Editors: RICHARD PEARSON
Managing Editor: RICHARD VAN ANDREWS
Managing Editor: HAROLD L. ANDERSON
Managing Editor: VANCEY FAH
Managing Editor: FRANCIS L. FANGERT
Managing Editor: THOMAS R. HARRIS

Moderators: ROBERT J. MAELE
Sports Editor: ROBERT M. MEAD
News Editor: BRIAN M. MAGEE
Feature Editor: RICHARD PEARSON
Staff Carismatic: JOHN F. CARLSON
Copy Editor: CHARLES V. RENBERG
Art's Sports Editor: VANCEY FAH
Photograph Editor: ROBERT M. MEAD
Business Manager: JOHN W. O'Donnell
Circulation Manager: JOHN W. O'Donnell
Office Manager: JOHN W. O'Donnell

FROM THE EDITOR

"It's that time of year, full of joy and cheer."

"That's all, folks."
Invasion

Editor:

This afternoon, December 11, the student rooms on the third floor of Meagher Hall were inspected by the Assistant Director of Residence for the second time this semester and for the second time Mr. Del Corso used his pass-key to gain admittance to rooms of students who were at class or away for other reasons. In so doing, Mr. Del Corso again showed complete lack of common courtesy and justice. If Mr. Del Corso would reflect for a moment on his criticism of this dorm made after the last inspection, he would remember that his main point was that too many of the student rooms were unlocked and he recommended that in the future, students lock their doors. Clearly, though, it makes no difference whether a student likes his door or not, since Mr. Del Corso himself refuses to respect the students' right to personal privacy.

How does Mr. Del Corso expect others to respect the privacy and property of others if he does not? In themselves, room-inspections may be necessary and even, at times, good, but the scheduling of such inspections at times when most students have classes leads one to speculate that perhaps they are scheduled in the hope that the students will not be present when the inspection takes place. How does Mr. Del Corso expect any cooperation or respect when he takes student displeasure with his policy of entering locked rooms as a joke? This is no laughing matter, Mr. Del Corso; you are no longer in the military and you cannot expect the students of Providence College to behave as if they were or to accept inspections in the same way in which military men accept them. You are now dealing with people who resent infringements on their rights, and you are going to have trouble getting any cooperation unless you change your methods accordingly.

Respectfully,
Joseph Haas '69

On The Ad

Editor:

It amazes me how the PCSP has taken three (3) different quotes out of context, has connected them into one sentence using their own copulas and uses this sentence to express their point of view.

This "strategic bombing in a friendly and allied country" kills "significant numbers of civilians . . . every day in South Vietnam" (New York Times, Sept. 5, 1965), "inviolate civilians for every VC" quote could very well in its original context be speaking of the number of people killed by the Viet Cong. The "inviolate civilians for every VC" quote could have originally been the ratio of Viet Cong to civilians in South Vietnam in March of 1966 IF the quote was real in its original context be speaking of our restraint of bombing in South Vietnam. The "significant numbers of innocent civilians . . . every day in South Vietnam" quote could very well in its original context be speaking of the number of refugees or the number of people killed by the Viet Cong.

The "inviolate civilians for every VC" quote could very well in its original context be speaking of our restraint of bombing in South Vietnam. The "significant numbers of innocent civilians . . . every day in South Vietnam" quote could very well in its original context be speaking of the number of refugees or the number of people killed by the Viet Cong.

On the other hand, I quoted "strategic bombing in a friendly and allied country" quote, in the first place. I looked up the Mar 13, 1966 copy of Newsweek in Vol. 67, part 1, 1966, and found nothing. I found no mention of Special Forces officers or their cherished words.

This whole advertisement is detestable. It twists quotes to suit a different meaning and for all I know the napalm victims could be victims of a New York Times fire. Napalm may be gruesome but the PCSP's argument is shoddy. I challenge the Providence College Students For Peace to bring forward the articles from which the quotes were taken in order to see what the quotes meant in the first place.

Mark Whalley '71

Qualification

Dear Editor:

Having attended some very enjoyable and successful productions of the Pyramid Players in the 1950's, and having been Moderator of the same group from 1957 to 1963, I was surprised to read the December 7 issue of The Cowl that dramatics has been dormant at the school since the 1950's." I was amazed and chagrined that the authority quoted for this statement was none other than myself. My amazement was due, I suppose, to the fact that I never made that statement.

Sincerely,
Robert A. Morris, O.P.
Vice President for Institutional Development

In Memoriam

GEORGE "SCOTTY" COMBIE, chef for the Dominicans, died this past week. He had served the Fathers faithfully for twenty years.
Explains His Position

(Ed. Notes The following is a re-publishing of a position on drugs as it was presented in recent articles in The Providence Journal.) By MICHAEL KEANE

It seems to me, and this explains the current discussion between the panel discussion on "Drugs on the College Campus," that it is about time people in the "straight" world, added in general, and criminologists and psychologists in particular became aware of several aspects of the drug phenomenon they seem to be consciously ignoring.

The seminar attended last week was to find out whether people in the "business" (of understanding college students) really understood the reason for my ultimate participation was that the speaker and I imagine, most of the audience, if euphemistically did not understand.

I was dismayed at some of the factual inaccuracies of Dr. Johnson, the Director of Public Health at Brown University: he is grossly unaware of specifics of purchasing drugs, and the availability of same (to say that a drug such as STP is readily available anywhere, let alone in Providence is naive at best). And his rationale for not using drugs is certainly among the stupidest I have ever heard: because penalties are so severe one should avoid doing things which make him liable to such penalties. If Dr. Johnson were a southern black man several years ago he surely would not have participated in the civil rights work which involved breaking segregationist laws, assuming that the aforementioned theory permeates all his thinking.

But Dr. Johnson was surely not the most flagrantly "non-understanding" member of the panel. Dr. DeMoor seemed to consider himself quite "on top of" the drug phenomenon, as the result of his work in establishing a student panel on drugs at Holyoke, it may be fairly certainly said, the drug "sub-culture" is in its nascent stages, and the student body is assuredly not among the best informed on the topic. But it is interesting that the actual purpose for which this allegedly enlightened student group was founded was, not information, as was stated, but rather condemnation: the people the panel invited to represent the "pro" side of the drug question was asked to "make us hate ourselves." This would seem the typical open-mindedness of such groups.

Mr. Mookini of the Mathematic Department comes to Providence College from the University of Hawaii, where he was chairman of the Mathematics Department. He possesses outstanding credentials which tell us to his competence in the Math 120 course (calculu-

us) and Math 418 (mathematics of science).

From his high school study under the Brothers of Mary, he advanced to the University of Hawaii for his undergraduate education. He received a masters degree from the University of Chicago and then transferred to the West Coast where he earned his Ph.D. at U.C.L.A. His major throughout his academic pursuits was mathematics, and he wrote his doctoral thesis on the control problem.

Mr. Mookini, although here at P.C. for only one year, has a sincere interest in the College and some positive opinions about it. He agrees, first of all, with Father Haas' recent statement on the expansion program for Providence College. He supports whole-heartedly the idea that P.C. should remain a small, Catholic college under the direction of the Dominican Fathers. He believes this type of institution is extremely beneficial for the students in that a graduate oriented school tends to take away somewhat from the undergraduate studies. As an undergraduate institution, P.C. can focus its attention on the undergraduate program.

His second reference to P.C. is about the quality of the students. After seven years of full-time teaching at high schools, technological schools, universities, and graduate schools, he believes the students here at Providence are, on the average, as good as any he has seen. He admits that the facilities need modernizing and feels this will be accomplished through the ten-year expansion program. Yet he does not think that the lack of these facilities in the Math Department are presently damaging the students.

Mr. Mookini also has opinions about the quality of courses and professors at P.C.

He says he was very pleasant surprised by the number of math courses offered on the per level and the quality of people teaching these courses. There are few professors who have a Ph.D.'s, but all have an excellent knowledge of the subject matter and a strong desire to teach it effectively, which is the utmost importance. I hope the statement which summarizes Mr. Mookini's attitude toward Providence Coll is, "A guy who wants to be the best, here can!"

Mr. Mookini is involved several school projects. He is currently enrolled in a cou course in applied math auditing numerical analysis and is gaining work on a book in the subject. At the end of the school year, he will return UCLA for the summer seminars and then go to the University of Hawaii.

New Math Prof Thinks Highly Of College and Student Body

For Providence College. He supports whole-heartedly the idea that P.C. should remain a small, Catholic college under the direction of the Dominican Fathers. He believes this type of institution is extremely beneficial for the students in that a graduate oriented school tends to take away somewhat from the undergraduate studies. As an undergraduate institution, P.C. can focus its attention on the undergraduate program.

His second reference to P.C. is about the quality of the students. After seven years of full-time teaching at high schools, technological schools, universities, and g r a d u a t e s c h o o l s , he believes the students here at Providence are, on the average, as good as any he has seen. He admits that the facilities need modernizing and feels this will be accomplished through the ten-year expansion program. Yet he does not think that the lack of these facilities in the Math Department are presently damaging the students.

Mr. Mookini also has opinions about the quality of courses and professors at P.C.

He says he was very pleasant surprised by the number of math courses offered on the per level and the quality of people teaching these courses. There are few professors who have a Ph.D.'s, but all have an excellent knowledge of the subject matter and a strong desire to teach it effectively, which is the utmost importance. I hope the statement which summarizes Mr. Mookini's attitude toward Providence Coll is, "A guy who wants to be the best, here can!"

Mr. Mookini is involved several school projects. He is currently enrolled in a cou course in applied math auditing numerical analysis and is gaining work on a book in the subject. At the end of the school year, he will return UCLA for the summer seminars and then go to the University of Hawaii.

College seniors:

Cut yourself in on a career in New England

Drop in anytime, and talk to a Company representative about opporunities in your specific areas of interest. With over 25 major facilities and Raytheon can cut you in on a rewarding future in New England.

Technical School Graduates with training in electronic, or mechanical technology, or drafting, are also urged to respond.

An Equal Opportunity Employer
 Brilliant Debut
By ROLE MARCHESANO

"Wait and see. You just wait and see," somewhat anxiously does Flora in the first of three plays at the Genesian Players. We waited, and we were both pleased and surprised us.

The first of the plays was Harold Pinter's "A Slight Trick of the Mind," a play for both the actors and the audience. Its theme centers around the theme of communication and frustration. Edward, played by Kenneth Frame, and Flora, played by Linda Fugile, are the prim English couple through influence because he is iridescent her impotent husband close-knit net. She skirts the frustrated wife luring and his non-action the non-world of villain around him, and through Tiele matchseller, played by Hen- di apable of action. Edward are the prim English couple played by Kenneth Frame, and tion and frustration. Edward, Harold Pinter's "A Slight Trick of the Mind," a play for both the actors and the audience. Its theme centers around the theme of communication and frustration. Edward, played by Kenneth Frame, and Flora, played by Linda Fugile, are the prim English couple through influence because he is iridescent her impotent husband close-knit net. She skirts the frustrated wife luring and his non-action the non-world of villain around him, and through Tiele matchseller, played by Hen- di apable of action. Edward are the prim English couple played by Kenneth Frame, and tion and frustration. Edward, Harold Pinter's "A Slight Trick of the Mind," a play for both the actors and the audience. Its theme centers around the theme of communication and frustration. Edward, played by Kenneth Frame, and Flora, played by Linda Fugile, are the prim English couple through influence because he is iridescent her impotent husband close-knit net. She skirts the frustrated wife luring and his non-action the non-world of villain around him, and through Tiele matchseller, played by Hen- di apable of action. Edward are the prim English couple played by Kenneth Frame, and tion and frustration. Edward, Harold Pinter's "A Slight Trick of the Mind," a play for both the actors and the audience. Its theme centers around the theme of communication and frustration. Edward, played by Kenneth Frame, and Flora, played by Linda Fugile, are the prim English couple through influence because he is iridescent her impotent husband close-knit net. She skirts the frustrated wife luring and his non-action the non-world of villain around him, and through Tiele matchseller, played by Hen- di apable of action. Edward are the prim English couple played by Kenneth Frame, and tion and frustration. Edward, Harold Pinter's "A Slight Trick of the Mind," a play for both the actors and the audience. Its theme centers around the theme of communication and frustration. Edward, played by Kenneth Frame, and Flora, played by Linda Fugile, are the prim English couple through influence because he is iridescent her impotent husband close-knit net. She skirts the frustrated wife luring and his non-action the non-world of villain around him, and through Tiele matchseller, played by Hen- di apable of action. Edward are the prim English couple played by Kenneth Frame, and tion and frustration. Edward, Harold Pinter's "A Slight Trick of the Mind," a play for both the actors and the audience. Its theme centers around the theme of communication and frustration. Edward, played by Kenneth Frame, and Flora, played by Linda Fugile, are the prim English couple through influence because he is iridescent her impotent husband close-knit net. She skirts the frustrated wife luring and his non-action the non-world of villain around him, and through Tiele matchseller, played by Hen- di apable of action. Edward are the prim English couple played by Kenneth Frame, and tion and frustration. Edward, Harold Pinter's "A Slight Trick of the Mind," a play for both the actors and the audience. Its theme centers around the theme of communication and frustration. Edward, played by Kenneth Frame, and Flora, played by Linda Fugile, are the prim English couple through influence because he is iridescent her impotent husband close-knit net. She skirts the frustrated wife luring and his non-action the non-world of villain around him, and through Tiele matchseller, played by Hen- di apable of action. Edward are the prim English couple played by Kenneth Frame, and tion and frustration. Edward, Harold Pinter's "A Slight Trick of the Mind," a play for both the actors and the audience. Its theme centers around the theme of communication and frustration. Edward, played by Kenneth Frame, and Flora, played by Linda Fugile, are the prim English couple through influence because he is iridescent her impotent husband close-knit net. She skirts the frustrated wife luring and his non-action the non-world of villain around him, and through Tiele matchseller, played by Hen- di apable of action. Edward are the prim English couple played by Kenneth Frame, and tion and frustration. Edward, Harold Pinter's "A Slight Trick of the Mind," a play for both the actors and the audience. Its theme centers around the theme of communication and frustration. Edward, played by Kenneth Frame, and Flora, played by Linda Fugile, are the prim English couple through influence because he is iridescent her impotent husband close-knit net. She skirts the frustrated wife luring and his non-action the non-world of villain around him, and through Tiel...
Lerner Delivers Talk on Social Revolution

By RICHARD ZARELLI

Dr. Lerner delivered a lecture on social revolution at the University of Rhode Island. He talked about the need to understand the reality of the drug revolution and its effects on society. Dr. Lerner pointed out that possession of marijuana is punishable by up to thirty years imprisonment in Rhode Island. But by being aware of these laws, individuals can make informed decisions about their use of drugs.

Drugs

Dr. Lerner explained that the current drug revolution is a response to the need for personal change and growth. He emphasized that it is not just a matter of individual choice, but a reflection of the larger social and political context. The drug revolution is a way for people to express their desire for change and to challenge the status quo.

Napalm

Napalm, as used during the Vietnam War, is an example of how technology can be used for destructive purposes. Dr. Lerner pointed out that the use of napalm has led to significant social and political changes. He emphasized the importance of recognizing the impact of technology on society and the need for responsible use.

Dr. Lerner ended his talk by encouraging the audience to think critically about the role of technology in society and to work towards a more just and equitable future.

DO YOU WANT

A LIFETIME SAVINGS PROGRAM?

You'll soon be discovering that it's not much you earn, but how much you save, that counts in getting ahead. Life insurance is a systematic method of accumulating valuable cash reserves. I hope I'll have an opportunity to discuss such a savings program with you at your convenience.

CALL — JACK GIURAGOS
CONNECTICUT MUTUAL LIFE
GA 1-5401
Big Brothers, Honor Cadets
Spread Spirit of Christmas

The spirit of the Christmas Season is very much alive on the Providence College campus and can be readily observed in the charity drives of many of the campus organizations.

The Cadet Officers' Honor Corps has launched a campaign, under the direction of Thomas Gill, to raise money for the needy children at the Patrick F. O'Rourke Children's Center. The corps has already received donations from the Class of '68 in the amount of $20.00. Other donations were $25 from the Student Congress, $100 from the Pershing Rifles, $30 from the Blackstone Valley Club, and they have collected over $200 from the collection boxes on the campus. This money will be used to buy various gifts for the children at the Center, as suggested by Mrs. Shaw from the Center. The gifts will be distributed to the children at the annual Children's Center Christmas Party.

The Big Brothers organization has also undertaken a program for the children at the Center. James Fitzgerald is in charge of the collections. By strategically placing collection jars around the campus the club has already collected $200, and they hope by the end of this week to have reached their desired total of $100.

With the money, the Big Brothers plan on redecorating the canteen at the Center and supplying the canteen with ping-pong tables. The club is not stressing the financial aspects of its drive as much as it is stressing the "idea of giving" and the whole philosophy behind the organization.

The Dillon Club has decided to send $30 to the Santa Claus Fund. This is sponsored by the Journal and aids children all over the city.

It is hoped that the individual student will follow the examples set forth by these organizations and get into the Christmas spirit by giving. Contributions will be accepted at the COHC and the Big Brothers up through this coming Friday.

Dillon Club
Christmas Dance

The Dillon Club annual Christmas dance will be held on Friday, December 15 at the Dillon Council, Knights of Columbus Hall on Douglas Avenue.

The Dance will feature the "Reign" and will run between 8:30 and 12:30. Two cocktails are included in the cost of the dance and a buffet, $5. per couple.

Robert Brady and Andy Robinson are new freshman class representatives to the Dillon Club. Both are from East Providence. They were sworn in at the club's regular meeting, last Monday.

Placement Rier

College placement is concerned with the student's career development. Over the years it has come to represent all types of employers from a varied number of businesses and professions.

The major emphasis is placed on the student's counseling and guidance so that he may fulfill his vocation with the highest amount of personal satisfaction and realization. This service is culminated in the on-campus interview which saves the student from interruption of his academic pursuits.

Recently, small minority groups have been obstructing the conducting of campus interviews of certain organizations. This has caused disruption of not only the target interviewers but also, in some instances, of all interviewers.

The College Placement Council, Inc., representing the Regional College Placement Associations, believes that a fundamental element in the placement and recruitment function is the right of the student and the employer to engage in personal interviews without interference from those who would protest the presence of a specific employer.

The right on the part of these students to disagree is not denied by the Council but it believes that there is also a parallel obligation of respect for the rights of others to be maintained.

Frank Sousa has become the first member of the Class of 1968 to receive a concrete job offer.

Frank has received offers from Atlantic Richfield, and a paid second interview from American Optical, Traveller's Insurance, Northwestern Life, Hoffman and La Roche and Raytheon.

Frank says he has put a lot of hard work into securing his future life, and now it is beginning to pay off.

Frank started his job search in his junior year.

"The cooperation and information which I received in the Placement Office has proved to be invaluable. Without this help, the situation wouldn't be as it is," he said.

KEEP YOUR TIME FREE
LEAVE YOUR TYPING TO ME

MARCIA CUTLER 461-7544
Sympo... (Continued from Page 1)

Mr. John Henney of the English Dept. compared Shakespeare's Julius Caesar to the war in Vietnam. He made the point that Brutus, one of the players of Caesar, wanted to libuish the "spirit" of the ruler, just as the United States is trying to do to those people to resist the American people. He did make the distinction in the language concerning the war by saying that he rejects such terms as hawk and dove. He said that few people are sufciently competent to employ such terms accurately.

Mr. Ralph Deleppa made the comment that new light can be shed on any situation by looking at it from a de-personalized stance. He said a person's view of the Viet conflict depends upon his philosophy of history and his philosophy of history depends ultimately upon his philosophy of man.

While doubting the likelihood of a military victory, he said, "I think we will win the war if we have learned a great deal about ourselves in such a way that we can relate ourselves to the rest of the world mean-fully."

The audience, very tense throughout most of the symposium, laughed heartily at Mr.
Deleppa's ironic observations about group superiority complexes: "You as a Roman Cath-ic and an American, you've got two great possibilities for salvation!"

He finished by stating that we as a nation have a need to learn to communicate with Communists because "we know dammed well that in the next century, if the world is going to survive, it is going to be under some kind of synthesis."

Mr. Charles Bargamian of the Audio-Visual Center, recounted some statistics about napalm and other war materials that have come under much criticism in the Viet war. He demonstrated the large amounts of napalm being used in comparisons with what was used in World War II and the Korean War. He said Dow Chemical Company, the only manufacturer of napalm for the U. S.
military, produces 50 million pounds of napalm a year for use in Vietnam. This is a vast amount of destructive power, when it is considered that a single 165 pound can of napalm dropped from an aircraft can totally incinerate an area of 2,500 square yards, according to a quotation from the New Republic of September 2, 1967.

Mr. Joseph Doherty, Director of Library, spoke on "Vietnam and Free Speech." He cited quotations from a list that "sounds like an international Who's Who" to support dissenters of the war. He said that a young man who is willing to fight for his country, but not in Vietnam, due to ethical objections to U. S. policy, has ... they're right.

And wrong.

Plea for Pakistan

Rev. Terence Quinn, O.P., invites any of this year's graduating class to contact him if they would be interested in giving a year or two service to his Pakistan mission.

Father Quinn is interested in both single men and married couples to work as lay missionaries in wheat farming in an agricultural co-operative, city social service, teaching elementary mechanics, or other enterprises of this nature.

Before Christmas he may be contacted at his home, 4613
30th Avenue, Long Island City,
New York, and after Christmas at his mission at the Catholic Church, Khanewal District Mus-tan, West Pakistan. For further information, contact Mr. Richard M. Deasy, 10 McDermott Hall.
Shouted the capacity crowd at MSG in voicing their support which saw them almost hopelessly overmatched. The Mulcas contingent at games in Buffalo, New York City, Philadelphia, and the Assumption JV, still the same. Silence. Nothing but frustrating rallies have been held so far, one was widely published and another an informal show-of-support rally. Is there a student cheering section for all home games? The Providence College freshman hockey team continued its winning ways by posting victories over the Merrimack freshmen, 5-4, and the Yale junior varsity, 7-2. The frosh have an impressive 4-1 record. The Merrimack game appeared to be a defensive battle as neither team scored in the opening period. But the high-scoring Friar offense drilled home four goals in the second frame. Dick Pumple, on a pass from Tom Sheehan, scored the initial goal. Sheehan assisted by Mike Gaffney tallied the second score. The third goal was registered on a hard slapshot by defense man Ray Warburton, and while PC was short-handed late in the period Sheehan scored his second goal to put the Friars ahead, 4-0.

Pumple poked in another goal at the 15:48 mark of the second period. Standout goalie Paul Roy, helped by the strong defense of Barnoff, Warburton, and Marchetti, gained his second shutout of the season. The Providence College freshman hockey team continued its winning ways by posting victories over the Merrimack freshmen, 5-4, and the Yale junior varsity, 7-2. The frosh have an impressive 4-1 record. The Merrimack game appeared to be a defensive battle as neither team scored in the opening period. But the high-scoring Friar offense drilled home four goals in the second frame. Dick Pumple, on a pass from Tom Sheehan, scored the initial goal. Sheehan assisted by Mike Gaffney tallied the second score. The third goal was registered on a hard slapshot by defense man Ray Warburton, and while PC was short-handed late in the period Sheehan scored his second goal to put the Friars ahead, 4-0. Pumple poked in another goal at the 15:48 mark of the second period. Standout goalie Paul Roy, helped by the strong defense of Barnoff, Warburton, and Marchetti, gained his second shutout of the season. The Providence College freshman hockey team continued its winning ways by posting victories over the Merrimack freshmen, 5-4, and the Yale junior varsity, 7-2. The frosh have an impressive 4-1 record. The Merrimack game appeared to be a defensive battle as neither team scored in the opening period. But the high-scoring Friar offense drilled home four goals in the second frame. Dick Pumple, on a pass from Tom Sheehan, scored the initial goal. Sheehan assisted by Mike Gaffney tallied the second score. The third goal was registered on a hard slapshot by defense man Ray Warburton, and while PC was short-handed late in the period Sheehan scored his second goal to put the Friars ahead, 4-0. Pumple poked in another goal at the 15:48 mark of the second period. Standout goalie Paul Roy, helped by the strong defense of Barnoff, Warburton, and Marchetti, gained his second shutout of the season.

The Providence College freshman hockey team continued its winning ways by posting victories over the Merrimack freshmen, 5-4, and the Yale junior varsity, 7-2. The frosh have an impressive 4-1 record. The Merrimack game appeared to be a defensive battle as neither team scored in the opening period. But the high-scoring Friar offense drilled home four goals in the second frame. Dick Pumple, on a pass from Tom Sheehan, scored the initial goal. Sheehan assisted by Mike Gaffney tallied the second score. The third goal was registered on a hard slapshot by defense man Ray Warburton, and while PC was short-handed late in the period Sheehan scored his second goal to put the Friars ahead, 4-0. Pumple poked in another goal at the 15:48 mark of the second period. Standout goalie Paul Roy, helped by the strong defense of Barnoff, Warburton, and Marchetti, gained his second shutout of the season.
McNair, Hayes Lead PC Over Hounds, Terriers

The Providence College basketball team made its record 2-1 with victories last week over Assumption College and St. Francis of New York. In these games the Friars displayed a fine team effort and showed promise for the future.

The Friars traveled to Worcester to pick up their first win of the season as they defeated the Greyhounds of Assumption, 80-66. The game was close most of the way as the Hounds didn't miss a shot until there were seven minutes gone in the first half. Stu Kerzner kept the Friars close, hitting mostly from three feet out as the Assumption out of their zone. When they went men-to-man, Skip Hayes took over and scored on a variety of drives and short jump shots. Assumption stayed tight with PC, however, thanks to the shooting of Jerry Zifcak and Dave Umile, captain of this year's St. Francis, Pa., Pennsylvania, Francis, of New York. In both the Friars close, hitting mostly... (Continued on Page 11)

GERRY McNAIR leaps high to snare one of his 20 rebounds against the Terriers of St. Francis. (COWLPHOTO by FRANK TOUSSAINT)

Gerry McNair - Cowl Player Of The Week

One of the many problems that confronted Joe Mullaney this year was finding a solid second man. He had two really crucial moments for the Friars. He and Craig Callen started slowly in his first game, but that little experience taught him that his needs to be a standout performances in the Assumption and St. Francis games. Mc

Defense Needs Bolstering as Friars Lose Fourth Straight

Providence College hockey experienced its worst week of play in the young season when the sextet dropped games to the Merrimack Braves, the Red Raiders of Colgate and the RPI Engineers, thus extending its losing streak to four games.

The Friars, who until the Merrimack tilt had an overall record of 4-2, skated very well against a strong Merrimack squad for 59 of the 60 minutes of the contest. It was in these last 10 minutes of the third period in which the Braves capitalized on PC lapses and scored four times to walk away with a 7-2 win.

The Braves pulled ahead early in the first period on a slapshot by defenseman Bob Terry as goalie Jack Sanford was screened on the play. They added another goal a few minutes later on a tip in by Les Niemi from Kevin Broderick, which made it 2-0 at the end of the first period.

Each team scored once in the second period, the Friars goal being tallied by Jerry Zifcak assisted by Jerry Menard. With the score being 2-1 in the final period, the PC sextet put constant pressure on the Merrimack goalie, Langone, and finally netted a goal which pulled the Friars right back into the game. Brian Smiley tallied the score when he came up from his defensive position and looped up the loose puck in front of the cage and slid it under the pads of the goalie.

It was at this point where the Friars weak defense committed too many mental mistakes, and Merrimack took advantage of the situation and put the game out of reach.

On Friday night, at Stu Kerzner Hall in Ithaca, the Friars suffered an 81-61 defeat at the hands of the Colgate sextet. John Dandy led the Red Raiders eight goal attack with a hat trick.

Again in this contest, the Friars were right in the game until the final period when the Red Raiders tallied five times to establish the winning margin of 61. The lone Friar goal came in the second period when Tim Thibetted took a Jim Umile pass and fired the puck past the Colgate goalie, Haney.

On the second game of their three game trip to the New York, the Friars met RPI at the Engineers' fieldhouse and were soundly defeated by the score of 94-60. Two goal scorers, Richard Smethall and Harry Lavey, led the attack for RPI on goals Frank Trudeau and John Sanft.

The Engineers netted four goals, three in the first period and one in the second, before the Friars could register a score by Jerry Menard. This tally ended on two on one break with Mike Leonard feeding Menard with the puck. Jim Umile couldn't get his act of the year's squad, scored twice, with the assist going to sophomore Skip Hayes both times.

(COFPHOTO by FRANK TOUSSAINT)

Defensive player John Dandy led the Friars' scoring charges against the Red Raiders of Colgate. He had a goal and two assists in the 6-3 victory.

THIS MONTH IN SPORTS

VARSITY BASKETBALL
Saturday, December 16 University of Rhode Island at Alumni Hall.
Wednesday, December 20 but day, December 21 Boston Garden Tourney (Boston College, LaSalle, North Carolina and St. John's Preparatory School).
Wednesday, December 27 Thursday, December 28 Saturday, December 30 Quaker City Tournament (Arizona, Wisconsin, Duquesne, St. Francis, Pa., Pennsylvania, Providence, Temple, Villanova, at the Philadelphia Spectrum).
Saturday, January 6 Seton Hall University at Seton Hall.
Friday, January 12 Brown University at Brown.

VARSITY HOCKEY
Wednesday, December 31 Carling's Club at Rhode Island Auditorium.
Friday, December 29 Saturday, December 30 Brown Christmas Tournament at Brown.
Wednesday, January 3 Northeastern University at Northeastern.
Saturday, January 6 United States Military Academy at West Point.
Thursday, January 11 University of New Hampshire at New Hampshire.
Friday, January 12 University of Princeton at Mt. Saint Charles. (COLUMPHOTO by BOB HELM)

JEAN BOISLAND shoots one goal.

McNair begun to hit his stride last week and played extremely well with the team. His scoring/assisting trend seems to indicate that he is capable of surprising quite a few of the experts—and his name is sure to be developing over the past few years.

One of the many problems that confronted Joe Mullaney this year was finding a solid second man. He had two really crucial moments for the Friars. He and Craig Callen started slowly in his first game, but that little experience taught him that his needs to be a standout performances in the Assumption and St. Francis games. McNair started slowly in his first game, but that little experience taught him that his needs to be a standout performances in the Assumption and St. Francis games. McNair started slowly in his first game, but that little experience taught him that his needs to be a standout performances in the Assumption and St. Francis games. McNair started slowly in his first ga...