

THE PROSE POEM: AN INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL

Volume 1 | 1992

Light Singing Before The Earth Gian Lombardo

© Providence College

The author(s) permits users to copy, distribute, display, and perform this work under the following conditions: (1) the original author(s) must be given proper attribution; (2) this work may not be used for commercial purposes; (3) the users may not alter, transform, or build upon this work; (4) users must make the license terms of this work clearly known for any reuse or distribution of this work. Upon request, as holder of this work's copyright, the author(s) may waive any or all of these conditions.

The Prose Poem: An International Journal is produced by The Berkeley Electronic Press (bepress)
for the Providence College Digital Commons.
<http://digitalcommons.providence.edu/prosepoems/>

Gian Lombardo

LIGHT SINGING BEFORE THE EARTH

Any moment the sky may darken and there may be great noise, any moment like this moment, any moment when the narrow slit of sky above becomes black and grey, any moment like this moment when the two rivers cut into the gorge rise up to the sky in a great rush, shouting as they move upwards in bits and pieces—Wouldn't that be something to write home about? Wouldn't that be a revolution to remember?—all at once among the light clearing its throat in clips and flashes, and then any moment in the uproar, in the wet, out of the dark all at once the sky open again, the light singing before the earth, through the rivers rising up, through the mist ascending from the sheer stone walls to a cloud no longer above the vertical horizon.