Student Reps. on S.C. Asked by S-F Board

The Student-Faculty Board unanimously passed last week a motion calling for the addition of three student representatives to the Committee on Studies. The recommendation was submitted by Roy Clark '70 and will be presented to the administration. It calls for the addition of student representatives as voting members of the Committee.

Clark stated that this proposal would permit the student a significant participation in the policy making process, especially in the important area of academic affairs. Also, by providing for the expression of student opinion during the deliberations of the Committee on Studies, it would assist the administrative and faculty members of the Committee in fulfilling its aim "to encourage development in the curriculum and creativity in the teaching and learning process."

Thieves broke into the Bookstore on Monday morning and stole an estimated $1500 worth of jewelry and clothing. According to Dan Sullivan, manager of the Bookstore, close to fifty watches, seventy-five pieces of jewelry with the Providence College seal on it, several alarm clocks, a display of St. Christopher medals, several magnetic crucifixes, and a few dozen pins were stolen. He said that the display of watches alone totaled over $1000.

Besides these items, an unknown amount of records, several sweat shirts and some radios were also taken. Sullivan said that the robbery took place sometime between 12:40 and 2:30 a.m. Entry was gained by breaking the glass of the door at the Bookstore entrance. It appeared that the robbers at first tried to remove the pins in the hinges of the door, but this attempt failed.

Little Brothers from O'Rourke Children's Center admire by Fred DiTalllo, P.C. Junior and a Big Brother.

The Providence College Youth Guidance Organization, better known on campus as the Big Brothers, started its new year known on campus as the Big and Little Brothers. This has been for all Catholic little brothers and big brothers. This has been from the same mold as Your Little Brother teams with the Little Brother as the partner, for all Catholic little brothers.

Each year, the club sponsors a number of activities, including for the first semester, the Annual Communion Breakfast for all Catholic little brothers and big brothers. This has been tentatively scheduled for November 3. At various times during the year, there are also "theatre parties" at local cinemas. The strictly big brother-little brother teams with the treasury absorbing cost for the little brother and the big brother paying his own way.

During a recent outing, the club was allowed the use of the swimming pool at the Father Berry CTO in Pawtucket. This provides a good chance to take the little brothers away from the center and at the same time gives them something to do.

The club has also completed a project in a large project which could effect the future of a lot of the little brothers at the center and those who are interested in the club's activities both regards to educational opportunities in the form of college scholarships or funds for trade schools.

Plans for the ring weekend for the class of 1970 are nearing completion. Brian Murphy, chairman of the ring committee, announced that the plans should be finalized by Friday.

The weekend will be held on November 8, 9, and 10. This date was chosen because of the Armistice Day holiday on November 11.

Friday night, November 8, there will be a dinner-dance at White's on the Narrow in Fall River from 8 p.m. until 11 a.m. All proceeds from this event from 12 to 5:30 at the Windjammer in the Rocky Point Palladium. The first half of this affair will consist of dancing to the music of Van Gogh's. During the second half the Big and Little Brothers from the same mold as Your Father's Moustache entertainers, will perform.

Saturday, evening, the class will attend the ring concert at the Rhode Island Auditorium. This concert replaced the Jay and the American and Stevie Wonder concert which was formerly scheduled for Alumni Hall. It was felt that the appeal of Hendrix and the competition between the two concerts, which would conceivably have resulted in a substantial loss to the class, were sufficient reasons to warrant the change.

The closing Mass for the weekend on Sunday morning will be followed by a buffet. The committee is now considering the possibility of having a band entertain them or a buffet after the buffet. The entire cost of the weekend will be $25.00 and as of now, no split tickets will be sold. Any junior who wishes to receive his ring at the Ring Dance Friday night must have completed his payments by October 31. All ring payments may be made at the bookstore during regular hours.

SUBSCRIBER'S ADDRESS

THE PROVIDENCE COLLEGE

PROVIDENCE, RHODE ISLAND

VOL. XXXI, NO. 3

PROVIDENCE COLLEGE, PROVIDENCE, R. I. OCTOBER 9, 1968

TEN PAGES

Watches, Pins, Records Taken from Bookstore

This watch display is one of two emptied by thieves in Bookstore break.

They then tried to force the door and were unsuccessful. Sullivan also said that one of the intruders was badly cut by the glass because there was a great deal of blood found in the area of the cash register and on the floor. He said that the cash register was not tampered with and that it would not have opened without the electricity being turned on.

The theft was discovered by Victor Petroni, 1st-year Cyro, who also was cut. He immediately contacted his own captain, the Providence Police Dept., and then Mr. Cummings, who checked with the police record bureau, the police department was notified of the theft at 5 a.m. William J. Me- deiros, Sullivan's assistant, was contacted shortly thereafter.

The bookstore remained closed until 11 a.m. because a fingerprint man was dusting the surface for prints. Cummings said that he obtained "some possible prints."

This was the first time in the twenty-one years that Sullivan (Continued on Page 8)

Jimi Hendrix Concert Ring Weekend Feature

TV Covers Meeting Of Big and Little Brothers
Two Seniors Vie for R.I. House Seats

Larry Reynolds

The security and surveillance of the Chase Memorial Library, according to Mr. William E. Cummings, director of the Providence College Library, is under the jurisdiction of the Dimeo Company Construction. The library, Mr. Cummings related that he had suggested and received excellent cooperation regarding safety precautions from the PC security force, but with men employed by the company handling the area.

Mr. Cummings stated he is preparing to circulate an enclosed revised checkpoint list for the security and surveillance system. It is in system in the Yale Building, containing in only a about a dozen other libraries throughout the nation.

The installation, designed to eliminate loss of library books due to theft or failure to check out a book, is ninety per cent foolproof and can, at least on paper, prevent illegal activity for at least the next two. The PC identification cards, if properly regulated, are stressed, he is for the benefit of the students. Mr. Cummings also said that he has provided a viewpoint list for watchmen to follow when they are in which certain critical areas on campus are checked four times night.

Mr. Bryon, college business manager, observed that after its opening, the library's main entrance will be the only proper mean of entering and leaving. Other exits will be locked from the outside, but can be opened from the inside in case of fire.

A comment via telephone, the main entrance is otherwise prohibited. An alarm alerting library security personnel (who will be retired gentlemen distinct from the campus security force) will sound in the event the regulation is violated.

The reason for this measure is to prevent theft of library materials, Mr. Cummings said. According to Mr. Byron, will be under the control of the director to manage the alumni and student, and prefects, just as now in existing case.

Electronic System

Father Hogan, director of the library, described the almost certain installation of an ultramodern electronic book checkout systeam is in Its system in the Yale Building, containing in only a about a dozen other libraries throughout the nation.

The installation, designed to eliminate loss of library books due to theft or failure to check out a book, is ninety per cent foolproof and can, at least on paper, prevent illegal activity for at least the next two. The PC identification cards, if properly regulated, are stressed, he is for the benefit of the students. Mr. Cummings also said that he has provided a viewpoint list for watchmen to follow when they are in which certain critical areas on campus are checked four times night.

Mr. Bryon, college business manager, observed that after its opening, the library's main entrance will be the only proper mean of entering and leaving. Other exits will be locked from the outside, but can be opened from the inside in case of fire.

A comment via telephone, the main entrance is otherwise prohibited. An alarm alerting library security personnel (who will be retired gentlemen distinct from the campus security force) will sound in the event the regulation is violated.

The reason for this measure is to prevent theft of library materials, Mr. Cummings said. According to Mr. Byron, will be under the control of the director to manage the alumni and student, and prefects, just as now in existing case.

Electronic System

Father Hogan, director of the library, described the almost certain installation of an ultramodern electronic book checkout systeam is in Its system in the Yale Building, containing in only a about a dozen other libraries throughout the nation.

The installation, designed to eliminate loss of library books due to theft or failure to check out a book, is ninety per cent foolproof and can, at least on paper, prevent illegal activity for at least the next two. The PC identification cards, if properly regulated, are stressed, he is for the benefit of the students. Mr. Cummings also said that he has provided a viewpoint list for watchmen to follow when they are in which certain critical areas on campus are checked four times night.

Mr. Bryon, college business manager, observed that after its opening, the library's main entrance will be the only proper mean of entering and leaving. Other exits will be locked from the outside, but can be opened from the inside in case of fire.

A comment via telephone, the main entrance is otherwise prohibited. An alarm alerting library security personnel (who will be retired gentlemen distinct from the campus security force) will sound in the event the regulation is violated.

The reason for this measure is to prevent theft of library materials, Mr. Cummings said. According to Mr. Byron, will be under the control of the director to manage the alumni and student, and prefects, just as now in existing case.

Electronic System

Father Hogan, director of the library, described the almost certain installation of an ultramodern electronic book checkout systeam is in Its system in the Yale Building, containing in only a about a dozen other libraries throughout the nation.

The installation, designed to eliminate loss of library books due to theft or failure to check out a book, is nineteen per cent foolproof and can, at least on paper, prevent illegal activity for at least the next two. The PC identification cards, if properly regulated, are stressed, he is for the benefit of the students. Mr. Cummings also said that he has provided a viewpoint list for watchmen to follow when they are in which certain critical areas on campus are checked four times night.

Mr. Bryon, college business manager, observed that after its opening, the library's main entrance will be the only proper mean of entering and leaving. Other exits will be locked from the outside, but can be opened from the inside in case of fire.

A comment via telephone, the main entrance is otherwise prohibited. An alarm alerting library security personnel (who will be retired gentlemen distinct from the campus security force) will sound in the event the regulation is violated.

The reason for this measure is to prevent theft of library materials, Mr. Cummings said. According to Mr. Byron, will be under the control of the director to manage the alumni and student, and prefects, just as now in existing case.

Electronic System

Father Hogan, director of the library, described the almost certain installation of an ultramodern electronic book checkout sys
43 Student: Choose Pass-Fail Courses

Fourteen Juniors and twenty-nine Seniors signed up for courses on a pass-fail basis this semester, it was announced this week by Father Thomas Peterson, the Dean of the College.

In its first semester of a one-year trial period, the pass-fail option was chosen by students from a variety of concentrations, and involved a whole gamut of courses ranging from science to the humanities.

As a course on a pass-fail basis, the student was required to be a Junior or Senior with a four semester grade point average of 2.0 or better. Only one course per semester can be taken on this basis. The course must also be among the pass-fail electives allowed the student as part of the general College requirements or those of a specific department.

This Program, according to Father Peterson, is designed to allow the student to explore other academic areas, broadening his educational experience in other subjects of interest to him. Here the student can take a course for pure enjoyment or genuine educational interest, without having the pressures and importance associated with a strict marking system. The present restrictions of the program, however, prevent irresponsible students from taking advantage of the pass-fail arrangement to get by with as little work as possible in an acquired course of their concentration.

Of course, the present requirements are subject to revision to suit the trial period of one year. Dean Peterson says he has definite hopes of extending its scope to include a larger portion of our academic community. It will probably remain open only to Juniors and Seniors, as this is when the students have their free elective courses. But he feels the required cumulative grade points average should be lowered in order to allow achieving students of all levels opportunities for initiative and educational experimentation.

As far as extending the pass-fail system into areas of concentration, this has not been entirely ruled out. But this and other aspects of the entire undergraduate program under a pass-fail system, Father Peterson feels, would be too idealistic and impractical. There is definite necessity for competition in the development of the student. Practical need for some uniform and established method of evaluating student performance, for recommendations to graduate schools, and for an entrance process. For this reason, the pass-fail program is likely to remain complimentary to our present academic system.

Father Peterson is enthusiastic over the initial response to the program, taking into consideration that it is an inaugural effort. He feels confident that it will grow, and will be the logical extension of the academic program of Providence College.

THE VERY REVEREND VINCEN'T C. DORE, O.P.

This year marks the fortieth anniversary of Fr. Vincent C. Dore, O.P., S.T.M., as a Dominican. When Fr. Dore came to Providence College as a member of the Class of 1928, the campus had one building, the front part of Harkins Hall, the top floor of which served as a dormitory. At that time there were 75 students and nine full-time professors. Fr. Dore proved himself quite an athlete in the early years of P. C. by earning varsity letters both in basketball and baseball.

In 1928, Fr. Dore was ordained in Washington, D.C. He returned to P. C. in 1931 as a professor of Sociology, a post which he held until 1955 when he became the head of the department. Around 1928 P. C. expanded its campus to where Aquinas Hall is now located. This property between Harkins and Aquinas Halls used to be the old Bradley Estate. The Bradleys specifically designated the property to be used for a home for nervously disturbed students and it was only after much trouble that P. C. was finally able to acquire this land. Aquinas Hall was built on this property in 1938.

Where Joseph Hall, Stephen Hall and the maintenance building now are located was the property and buildings of the Shephard Company which the College purchased a few years later.

The Presidency

Fr. Dore, a member of the Providence Athletic Director from 1939-1941, as athletics Treasurer from 1941-1945, and Athletics Treasurer and President from 1950-1961. It was during his time as head of the athletic department for Guarnier Hall and a science laboratory that new programs formulate and new programs of health research, arts honors, and modern language laboratory were inaugurated. In 1961, Fr. Dore became President of Providence College.

During his administration, the above mentioned buildings were constructed. Fr. Dore has been President since the heating plant was triples to provide not only for the heating needs of the present but also of the future. All of the utilities, telephone, and heating were put underground. This was done at great expense, but has many times over repaid itself in decreased energy consumption.

In 1965, Fr. Dore became Chancellor of the College. In his current position, Fr. Dore, a member of thirty five clubs and organizations, is a person at present, he is still active in about fifteen of these. He is a member on the board of the Rhode Island constitution of directors of the Rhode Island Council of volunteer Service Implementing Committee of the Monroe League Executive Committee, member of the United Nations Commission and the Municipal Department for 1968, and many other organizations.

Honors

For his dedicated service to humanity, Fr. Dore has received nine honorary doctorate degrees. He is currently a member of the Providence College, the University of Rhode Island, Bryant College and the University of Rhode Island. He has also received many awards for his humanitarianism, most notably a national award called "Civilian Service Award," which he receives at the annual meeting of the United States Senate. Des Camacho has presented with the Roger Williams Award for Distinguished Service by the Greater Providence Chamber of Commerce.

3...
Wallace and LeMay: A Frightful Team

Politically, 1968 can only be categorized as a year of frustration and dismay. Robert Kennedy was struck down in Los Angeles, and with him, the hopes of the anti-war movement. The youthful hopes generated by Eugene McCarthy's crusade against a cruel and unjust war were extinguished by the convention directed by the old party bosses and on the bloody streets of Chicago.

And now, new—new and perhaps more insane tragedy has come upon us—a presidential candidate preaching a 19th century gospel of hate and violence and his running mate irresponsibly calling for the use of nuclear weapons, if necessary, to achieve his goals.

George Wallace and retired General Curtis E. LeMay exemplify two of our most shameful failures, namely, racial injustice and violent barbarism.

What makes this tragedy even greater is Wallace's record in labor legislation. As governor of Alabama he killed all proposals for a minimum wage, unemployment insurance, and the right to organize.

If one examines the supporters of George Wallace one can see the tradition of the Southern political through appeal to racial prejudice. Wallace's success seems to be due largely to the fears generated by the threat of black job competition and racial unrest and, by doing so, as a year of tragedy and the support of untold numbers of blue collar workers in such Northern cities as Flint, Michi­gan; Chicago; and Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania—in all these cities he has drawn large and enthusiastic crowds of supporters.

What makes this tragedy even greater is Wallace's record in labor legislation. As governor of Alabama he killed all proposals for a minimum wage, unemployment insurance, and the right to organize.

Third Try For Faculty Evaluation

Next week the Faculty Evaluation Committee will meet for the first time this year to try to pick up the pieces of a project that has met with consistent failure and non-existent support.

An evaluation of sorts was conducted two years ago, but it pleased just about no one. It looked like a ploy by the Southern politician through appeal to racial prejudice. Wallace's success seems to be due largely to the fears generated by the threat of black job competition and racial unrest and, by doing so, as a year of tragedy and the support of untold numbers of blue collar workers in such Northern cities as Flint, Michi­gan; Chicago; and Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania—in all these cities he has drawn large and enthusiastic crowds of supporters.

What makes this tragedy even greater is Wallace's record in labor legislation. As governor of Alabama he killed all proposals for a minimum wage, unemployment insurance, and the right to organize.

A Proposal: Student-Faculty Smokers

Hopefully, not all of the brave words and bright hopes which were voiced at the academic convocation two short weeks ago will be allowed to die upon all of us.

As we resume all of our activities, it would seem, again, will be publication of the results.

The argument against publication runs something like this: what if a man, whose entire life depends upon his teaching, whether it be in terms of salary or vacation, should look badly in terms of the faculty—or is it "course"?—evaluation. . . how would publication of the results affect the man's life? It could have an affect in a number of ways. It could encourage him to re-evaluate his technique, making him a better teacher; it could point out to his department chairman what his shortcomings are and the two could work together for improvement; or it could discourage students from enrolling in his classes.

By way of consideration for the egos of those men who might fare badly at the hands of the evaluation, Father Hass has suggested that a list of those who earned very good ratings in an evaluation might be published. This would answer neatly those who resist the evaluation on the basis that students' grades are not published, why should a professor's rating be published? The College does issue the Dean's List of those students who have been collectively judged to be superior students. Perhaps we could have a "Students' List" of those professors who have been judged superior by their students.

There is a very basic flaw in this statement of Father Hass that I am sure even he is ready to point out:—it encourages either complacency or flight, while running very much against his sentiments as expressed at the academic convocation when he was encouraged all of us to work toward change for the improvement of the College.

Only rarely, it seems to me, does anyone enter a college for which he has no favorable feelings. If I really did not like Providence College I could have gone somewhere else. But it is not unlikely that one will find fault with something he generally likes. So why leave after a year or two here? It makes far more sense to stay and fight to improve the situation, whatever may be wrong.

Father Hass alluded several times during the course of the television program to the "style" of Providence College. However, that style is defined, it has changed a number of times during the past four years, even since Father Hass has been President of the College. Four years ago beards and sideburns were not tolerated; today they are tolerated, and, indeed, have been integrated into the "style" of the College.

Student power, such as it is, also becomes part of the P. C. style—or, more accurately, is becoming a more integral part of the style. The point is obvious: styles change, and the P. C. style is no exception. Probably if students just sat back and waited calmly, change would happen anyway. And if those who don't like Providence College went elsewhere, change would still happen.

But the progress of Providence College toward becoming the place where one would be proud to be associated with can only be accelerated by student activism and intelligent dissent. So, unless you really don't give a damn about P. C., don't take Father Hass' favorite line too seriously.

BRIAN MAHONEY
LaPalomba Heads Forum; Lane, Lipset Will Follow

"The Providence College Forum," sponsored by the Student Congress, will open the first lecture series entitled "Politics of Protest" during the first semester of the current academic year. Dr. John Joseph LaPalomba of Yale University will speak on Thursday, November 21; "The Generation Gap: The Generation of New Ideas" in the Hall lounge, at 8 p.m. The program is sponsored by "the Student Congress."

The lectures are open to the general public and all students and faculty members, as well as those from other area colleges, will be admitted. Admission is free. A $1.00 admission fee for the general public, $1.50 for students and faculty members, will be charged at the door for each individual lecture. Seating permits are available for $2.00.

Guest speakers for the second semester program of the Forum are Fr. Haas, Students; Mr. Joe Fede, a representative of the Faculty Congress; and Dr. Leo Patrick McGowan, Professor of Political Science, University of Rhode Island. The program is scheduled for Thursday, November 21.

Fr. Haas, Mr. Fede, and Dr. McGowan are all former leaders of the movement against the war in Vietnam and Civil Rights. Other topics included, should the college direct its students to a particular moral discernment, parallel the educational establishment, a discussion of boards, boardchairs and long hair.

"The Administration here is tolerant, although they take it that the views expressed in EXTRA! are in no way ad- directed by members of the Administration. Father Murphy, Vice President for Student Affairs, in a statement extend to the student body, stated that the College need not be torn down but rather that "What it really needs is a bit of the new Left with whom I have discussed the ideals of the New Left with the students participating in the movement referred to as the practical re- alization of our environment."

It remains to be seen if either EXTRA! can accomplish the changes which so many students need, without being stunted by the censorship which hinders many student publications.

The Thomas More Club to Hold Debate On Law Rulings

The Thomas More Club will sponsor a debate between Mr. Patrick McGowan, Jr., Director of the Providence College, Providence, and Mr. Edward Gallogly on Wednesday, October 16, in Aquinas Hall, seventh floor.

Mr. McGowan is a former police detective and is presently Legal Advisor to the Rhode Island State Police. Mr. Gallogly is a former Lieu-tenant Governor of the State of Rhode Island and is currently the Associate Commissioner for the Rhode Island Department of Commerce.

The topic for the debate will be "The New Left Ideas." The debate will be held at 7 p.m. in the auditorium of Aquinas Hall.

The debate is open to the public. Coffee and sandwiches will be served in the lounge afterwards.
Glee Club Readies For Active Concert Season

THE PROVIDENCE COLLEGE GLEE CLUB

The Providence College Glee Club will open its tour season with a concert in New York. The tour will visit Molloy College of Long Island and the concert will be held on November 18.

Early next month, November 3, the Club will give a performance to the patients of Howard Hospital. Bill Fennelly, president of the Glee Club, also announced that Newton College of the Sacred Heart will be the next to the "singing friars" on December 8. This concert will be in accompaniment with a full orchestra.

Under the direction of Fathers Raymond St. George and Leo Cannen, the repertoire has been greatly expanded. It will include a vast variety of music from sacred to light compositions. Many show tunes such as Step to the Rear, Thoroughly Modern Millie, and The Impossible Dream from Man of LaMancha are some of the new additions. Other offerings are You Are Beautiful, Old Man Noah and Frostiana, which is a series of poems by the late Bob Fosse put to music by Randy Newman.

Plans are being made now for a special Christmas Concert unlike those in past years. It will be particularly concerned with the traditional carols and songs with which children are familiar. "In fact," Fr. St. George commented, "We hope that the faculty members and their families will attend since the tone of the concert will be enjoyable to the entire family."

As of now, two second semester concerts are scheduled. One is with St. Peter's Women's College of Jersey City, New Jersey, on February 23, which is being sponsored by the Veridaines, and the other with Molloy College is planned for Parc's Weekend. In addition, the PCGC will participate in the Rhode Island Collegiate Glee Club Festival in Rochester, N.Y., with St. John Fisher College as the host.

Fr. St. George emphasized, "that anyone who likes to sing is welcome to join the Club, and many positions are still open." He stressed, "the Glee Club is one of the oldest clubs on campus. I'm very proud of it. Throughout the years the Club has traveled all over the northeastern part of the country visiting many schools such as College of Mt. St. Vincent on the Hudson, Anahrust College and St. Joseph's College. On these tours, the Club is the representative of Providence College. It's unfortunate that more students don't try out."

The Club travels to various cities and schools, and it has many dances and social events with women colleges. The Club is fraternal in its spirit and shows what P.C. has to offer, outside of athletics, to the eastern part of the country. On tour, the Glee Club spreads the name of the college in a way that no other school organization can.
Dr. Rene E. Fortin, Director of the Liberal Arts Honors Program and campus representative for the Woodrow Wilson and Danforth Foundations, has announced that fifteen seniors have been recommended by faculty members as potential PC candidates in the Woodrow Wilson and Danforth National competitions. The students recommended are: Raymond Bouvier, Philosophy; Robert Santopadre, Philosophy; James Howard, Psychology; Robert Benediet, NIH; Edward Engler, NIH; John Flood, NIH; Stephen O'Neill, NIH; Carmen Mele, English; Austin Sarat, Political Science; Lindsay Walters, English; Brian Nolan, Mathematics; Thomas Bourke, English; Thomas McKenna, English; David Wroe, Mathematics, and Charles Cannon, Humanities.

The final selection of the candidates will be made from among these students on the basis of private interviews with members of the Selection Committee, which were held on September 29 and October 1. This year the Selection Committee was composed of Dr. Mark Berick, Mr. Edward Brennan, Dr. Edward Healy, the Rev. Thomas Cunningham, O.P., and Mr. Richard Grace, in addition to Dr. Fortin.

Providenc College may recommend a maximum of four candidates for the Danforth Fellowship; this figure is derived from a specified percentage of the total student enrollment. The Woodrow Wilson Fellowship Foundation, however, places no legal limit on the number of students which an institution may recommend. Both the Woodrow Wilson and Danforth Foundations are primarily interested in a candidate's promise as a college teacher. Criteria for selection emphasizes all around excellence, both in fields of academic and social interest. This is particularly true in regard to the Danforth Fellowship, which seeks an indication of extraordinary social awareness and concern in a candidate as well as superior academic performance. Final selection

After deliberation by the Selection Committee, the records and credentials of the final candidates chosen for the two fellowships will be forwarded to the Foundation offices. A selected number of these final candidates will then be invited for interviews by the Foundation committees. Final decisions on who will be selected for the Foundation interviews, will be reached by January.

The Woodrow Wilson Foundation serves primarily as an identification program. It is concerned in designating students who have shown themselves deserving of financial awards. The individual graduate schools will then use the honor as a consideration in allocating additional financial grants. A Danforth Fellowship receives a full four year grant, covering tuition, fees, and a living stipend.

Thus far, only one P.C. graduate, James F. Slevin, Class of 1967, has been named a Danforth Fellowship winner. Slevin attended graduate school at the University of Virginia, and is currently teaching at Lincoln College in Pennsylvania under the Woodrow Wilson Internship Program.

Winners
P.C. graduates who have been awarded Woodrow Wilson Fellowships include Peter Conn '64, Terence Doody '63, Maurice Cagnon '69, Ralph Cover '63, and Charles Goetz '67. Conn is currently earning his doctorate at Yale University and teaching at the University of Pennsylvania. Doody is working on his doctoral studies in English at Yale, while Cover is pursuing doctoral studies at Brandeis. Cagnon and Goetz are presently teaching at Atlanta University and Virginia Polytechnic Institute, respectively.

Social Season Inaugurated

By Pershings

Company K-12, Pershing Rifles, began its social season this past weekend with a Saturday picnic at Jamestown. After spending the day enjoying grilled steaks and hamburgers, the members of Company K danced until the early morning hours and listened to music provided by their own Robert Wolfereser. On Sunday, the weekend came to an end as the members of this company traveled to Fenway Park to watch the Red Sox play the Yankees. Some Boston fans were disappointed but everyone enjoyed a day well spent.

The Master of Business Administration program at the University of Notre Dame will be the subject of interviews with interested Providence College students. These interviews will be held on Thursday, October 10th.

Dr. Salvatore Bella, Chairman of the Department of Management, will conduct group interviews in the afternoon in Purser D. This will be in advance at the Career Planning and Placement Center.

He will describe the Notre Dame MBA program, its philosophy and content and tell how students may apply for admission and for available scholarships and fellowships. The program is open to all students holding an undergraduate degree irrespective of their major field of study.
The Providence College Intramural football season got off the ground last Wednesday, October 2, with twenty-five entries, from fifteen campus organizations, vying for the fall sport's crown. Seven contests were played last week, three on Wednesday and four on Thursday. Wednesday's triple header saw a combination of fine team play and excellent officiating in each event. The Albertus Magnus "B" contingent defeated the Waterbury "B" contingent 12-7, the Newport team handed the Westmoreland "B" group a 144-0 loss, while the favored Waterbury Roadrunners downed a game New Bedford crew 13-12.

Thursday's games were marked by even closer scores with no team winning by more than a touchdown. The Blackstone Valley Fish handled the Attleboro club 6-2, Albertus Magnus "A" defeated the Providence High School "A" 13-12, and the St. Benedict's "B" contingent 10-9.

Interpretation Club

Tentative plans for a program on mysticism have been formulated by the Oral Interpretation Club.

Bookstore . . . (Continued from Page 1)

has announced that Providence College that anything like this has occurred before.

"It bothers me," the bookstore manager said, "that anything like this has happened. This is the first time in twenty years that anything like this has taken place and it comes as a shock to me. I hope it never happens again."

He also stated that he did not believe that the thieves were familiar with the bookstore, since the claim that the thieves had gone around the counter and go through the other door into the store is false.

The only further security measures that have been added as yet is a new door with unbreakable "glass" made out of plastic.

The Providence College Intramural football season got off the ground last Wednesday, October 2, with twenty-five entries, from fifteen campus organizations, vying for the fall sport's crown. Seven contests were played last week, three on Wednesday and four on Thursday. Wednesday's triple header saw a combination of fine team play and excellent officiating in each event. The Albertus Magnus "B" contingent defeated the Waterbury "B" contingent 12-7, the Newport team handed the Westmoreland "B" group a 144-0 loss, while the favored Waterbury Roadrunners downed a game New Bedford crew 13-12.

Thursday's games were marked by even closer scores with no team winning by more than a touchdown. The Blackstone Valley Fish handled the Attleboro club 6-2, Albertus Magnus "A" defeated the Providence High School "A" 13-12, and the St. Benedict's "B" contingent 10-9.

Interpretation Club

Tentative plans for a program on mysticism have been formulated by the Oral Interpretation Club.

Bookstore . . . (Continued from Page 1)

has announced that Providence College that anything like this has occurred before.

"It bothers me," the bookstore manager said, "that anything like this has happened. This is the first time in twenty years that anything like this has taken place and it comes as a shock to me. I hope it never happens again."

He also stated that he did not believe that the thieves were familiar with the bookstore, since the claim that the thieves had gone around the counter and go through the other door into the store is false.

The only further security measures that have been added as yet is a new door with unbreakable "glass" made out of plastic.
Sailing Club Resumes Schedule; Outlook Bright For Success

The Providence College Sailing Club is again active in New England Interoceanic Sailing Association competition. The club and team, which were reorganized last spring after several years silence from the campus scene, are entered in twelve regattas in the NEISA series.

This past Saturday the team was entered in the M.I.T. Under Graduate contest along the Charles River, Boston. The Friars finished fifth among the eleven crews entered, and according to Skipper and co-coach Greg Copp, this was indeed a very impressive showing.

The falling regattas will de- pend heavily on the efforts of returning varsity skippers Skipper Ben Wilcox, Greg Copp, Steve Patten and Peter Brotz. They should also be ably supported by former varsity sailors Brian Perry, Tim Connolly and Bob Bradley.

The PC crews will hit the wa- ter this Sunday at 9:30 at the Emerson boathouse, Boston. The event is the fall NEISA Associate Member Championship which the Friars are fa- vored to win.

Remaining regattas include:
Oct. 20—Hexagonals at Tufts.
Oct. 27—Match at URI.
Nov. 2—Decagonal at Yale.

Sailing Club Calendar

TUESDAY, OCT. 5
10 A.M. - 2 P.M.
ALUMNI LOUNGE

SPORTSDESK

P. C. BLAZERS

Distribution (from previous fitting) and Fitting

NEWPORT AVENUE,
PROVIDENCE, R. I.

For men who want to be where the action is. Very very very mean-

COTTIN.

English Leather

From the complete array of ENGLISH LEATHER men's toiletries.

A PRODUCT OF MEM CO., INC.
NORTHVALE, N. J. 07071

English Leather

FRIARS ROMP...

(Continued from Page 10)

The coaches have worked hard with the squad and a few bad breaks have just turned a few close games the other way. In light of all this I will go out on a limb and predict a victory over Manhattan this weekend. A healthy Dick Martin, a squad anxious to show that it can do better than it has and the Friars may just prove too much for the boys from Riverdale, New York. Going just one step further I'll call the final score...24-12, Friars.

The Providence College Fighting Friars are having their troubles in the early going this fall. Just one year ago the club opened with three straight wins and now the squad is still looking for its first. Pre-season rankings had PC in the thirteenth spot in the nation, two weeks later we are no longer in the top twenty.

The three losses suffered by the 1967 squad and the two suffered thus far by the 1968 squad have never been by a lopsided score. If you remember the three game road trip ('67) we lost by no more than nine points at the worst. Thus far in '68 the defense has yielded twelve and eighteen points twice. The average points total yielded by the "D" figures out in the neighborhood of thirteen points per game. If you follow football then you know that you can't be that far out of it.

The biggest problem has been our offense. Last sea- son the average figure per game was twenty-six points. This however included a 41-14 drubbing of New Haven and a 38-0 whitewash of Hartford. In the two contests this fall the offense has only managed a TOTAL of thirteen points. Many times the Fighting Friars have been hurt by fumbles whereas we have not. This was a factor in last season's losses and again this year. In last Saturday's showing the friar receivers had this thing about holding on to the ball. The weather, unfor- tunately, was a big factor. St. Michael's is used to the 40 degree temperature while we have been working out in the degree weather. It doesn't offer an excuse, just a fact.

This year we are lacking George McMahon, the brus- sing fullback who could be counted on for third and one and a field goal. In '67 we had a 22-yard field goal that was com- hampered by a sore rib cage and, last week, a virus. This, compounded with a few just up and leaving for various reasons after the first contest, has hurt the off-ensive line and backfield.

The coaches have worked hard with the squad and a few bad breaks have just turned a few close games the other way. In light of all this I will go out on a limb and predict a victory over Manhattan this weekend. A healthy Dick Martin, a squad anxious to show that it can do better than it has and the Friars may just prove too much for the boys from Riverdale, New York. Going just one step further I'll call the final score...24-12, Friars.

The Providence College Sailing Club is again active in New England Interoceanic Sailing Association competition. The club and team, which were reorganized last spring after several years silence from the campus scene, are entered in twelve regattas in the NEISA series.

This past Saturday the team was entered in the M.I.T. Under Graduate contest along the Charles River, Boston. The Friars finished fifth among the eleven crews entered, and according to Skipper and co-coach Greg Copp, this was indeed a very impressive showing.

The falling regattas will depend heavily on the efforts of returning varsity skippers Skipper Ben Wilcox, Greg Copp, Steve Patten and Peter Brotz. They should also be ably supported by former varsity sailors Brian Perry, Tim Connolly and Bob Bradley.

The PC crews will hit the water this Sunday at 9:30 at the Emerson boathouse, Boston. The event is the fall NEISA Associate Member Championship which the Friars are favored to win.

Remaining regattas include:
Oct. 20—Hexagonals at Tufts.
Oct. 27—Match at URI.
Nov. 2—Decagonal at Yale.

Sailing Club Calendar
Gridsters Tackle Jaspers; Injury Bug Plagues Squad

The Providence College football club, after sustaining an 18-7 setback at the hands of St. Michael's College before 1,500 Homecoming Day fans in Providence, prepared to go against the Jaspers of Manhattan College, Saturday in New York.

The Providence College football club confronted the Jaspers of Manhattan College, Saturday in New York.

In an amazing display of defensive skills for so early in the season, Coach Bill Doyle's year­ ing soccer team won its second
(Continued on Page 9)

This Week In Sports

FOOTBALL
Oct. 12—Manhattan College (Away).

SAILING CLUB
Oct. 13—NFAA Associate Member Championship at Emerson.

The Providence College football club, after sustaining an 18-7 setback at the hands of St. Michael's College before 1,500 Homecoming Day fans in Providence, prepared to go against the Jaspers of Manhattan College, Saturday in New York.

The Providence College football club confronted the Jaspers of Manhattan College, Saturday in New York.