

DRAFT TALK TODAY
LTC Gideon B. Hevenor will conduct a discussion concerning the draft lottery and its implications for students in the Guild Room of Alumni Hall at 2 p.m.

Outspoken Civil Rights activist Dick Gregory will be on campus January 7.

Dick Gregory Scheduled For Alumni Hall Appearance

By THOMAS COAKLEY
Black comedian and author Dick Gregory is a man with a message. Gregory will bring his message of freedom and equality for the whole human race to Alumni Hall on Wednesday, January 7 at 8 p.m.

His unique straight-forward, even shocking delivery of this seemingly time worn message makes it come alive as never before.

An unbroken silence permeates the audience as Gregory relates the story of a five year old girl whose head was creased by a brick, while she and four other children were trying to integrate a Southern school.

"I'm nonviolent," he attests, "but I can't guarantee that her father will be."

Concerning racism in the number one racist country in the world, America, Gregory tells his audience, "We're not in a battle between black and white; the real battle is between right and wrong."

Not all of Gregory's message is this serious, however, in fact the first forty-five minutes of most lectures is an entertaining collage of quips on race and satirical remarks on political figures.

"LBJ says Reagan is 'nigger' spelled backwards. Imagine that we've got a backward 'nigger' runnin' California."

This is an indication of Dick Gregory as "the Jackie Robinson of the fall comics," a reflection of the wit that helped him confront the "Man" in the streets of St. Louis.

Born there, Gregory had to fight discrimination and poverty as one of five children in a fatherless family.

He took part in his first demonstration while in high school, "keeping people cool" as they marched against overcrowding and segregation in St. Louis' schools.

Not until he reached Southern Illinois University, however, did he realize what it really meant to be black in a white world.

At S.I.U. he developed his knack for confronting a bigoted act with a brazen yet shrewdly humorous gesture.

When a white history professor

(Continued on Page 5)

Brennan Gets Support From Senate Decision

The Faculty Senate voted Friday to support Edward C. Brennan's appeal for his denial of tenure.

Meeting in closed session, the members of the Senate voted 20-2-1 to support Brennan after hearing a recommendation to support him by the Senate's Committee on Appeals. The vote was conducted by secret ballot.

The Senate's resolution will now go to both president Rev. William P. Haas, O.P., and to the Committee on Rank and Tenure. In a preliminary vote in October, the Committee on Rank and Tenure advised that Brennan not be granted tenure, reportedly on the grounds that he is not pursuing studies for a doctoral degree and because Dr. Theodore Bosack, Psychology Department head, had refused to recommend Brennan for tenure.

It is possible that the Committee on Rank and Tenure will vote again on Brennan, but the final decision will be up to Fr. Haas.

Brennan said he was "very pleased" with the Senate's action, but admitted that he did not know what effect it would have on the final decision.

The Senate's resolution noted the high teaching competence and performance of Brennan, his contributions to PC, Fr. Haas' assurance that he could seek other employment, and an improper procedure of the Committee on Rank and Tenure as reasons for sustaining Brennan's appeal.

Dorm Rector Bill Slated for Admin.

Another major bill was passed unanimously by the Student Congress Monday night demanding the removal of all dormitory rectors by next semester.

The bill, to be presented to the administration tomorrow, was introduced by Congress president, Ralph Paglieri. Also included in the bill was the proposal that the Director of Residence "should no longer be able to decide policy," but should serve in a purely functional administrative position "to see that the College property is not abused." The bill is an effort to give more power to the dorm government system still in its infant stages.

The dorm rectors were not the only ones affected by the bill, as it further called for student voice in the choice of dormitory chaplains. Although his function in the dorm would be in a "counseling capacity," he must be approved by the students of the dorm. If no person were approved, then there would be no chaplain.

The bill was challenged almost immediately with an amendment proposed by sophomore representative Richard Marra. It was concerned with the wording of the introduction, and Marra asked for a "non negotiable" clause to be included. There was much heated debate on the amendment, which dealt mainly with a question of semantics.

Senior Congressman and class

(Continued on Page 4)

EDWARD C. BRENNAN

Sen. Scott Calls for Unity; Also Sees Role of Dissent

Senator Hugh Scott, the Senate minority leader, directed much of his attention to the recent Moratorium activity in his speech before a Providence College audience numbering approximately 200.

Scott stated that this is no time for Americans to be divided and that "it is better not to pit Americans against Americans."

Despite a one hour delay, which was partially responsible for the poor attendance, Senator Scott was able to present an interesting lecture before an audience consisting of members of the Rhode Island Republican organization, students and faculty, and the general public. The lecture, presented in Harkins Hall on Tuesday evening, December 9, covers a wide range of subjects from tax reform to the American military presence in Asia.

The Republic senator from Pennsylvania began with a consideration of the tax reform bill, which he termed a "give-away," and then moved on to other areas. He mentioned the possibility of passing a new crime bill, part of which should deal with a restatement on the definition of dangerous drugs and the penalties involved in their use.

In his remarks on dissent, Senator Scott reminded the audience that American was founded on many freedoms, and that the right to dissent openly and peacefully is perhaps the greatest of these freedoms. The Senator reiterated the need for understanding in the United States and said that the desire for peace, which we all share, "must be a catalyst for peace at home."

Inevitably, his remarks turned to Vietnam, the Paris conferences, and the prospects for peace. The Senator explained that while little or no progress had been made at the bargaining table, some results had been produced at private meetings and in quiet efforts to bring about a negotiated settlement. Senator Scott then went on to say that we should be hearing

(Continued on Page 5)

SENATOR HUGH SCOTT

Coed Hours Talks Begun

The Committee which will study the possibility of instituting coed evening hours dealt basically with procedural matters at its first session.

Meeting last Wednesday, the Committee, which is composed of representatives of the Committee on Administration, the Corporation, the Student Congress, and the Counseling Center, discussed such matters as the handling of press releases and the agenda for future meetings.

Concerning press releases, it was decided that Fr. Francis Duffy, O.P., V.P. for Student Relations, and Cowl editor William Buckley, would prepare a press release to be submitted to the entire committee at the following meeting and the Committee would then approve it, thereby assuming responsibility for it.

It was also agreed that no individual member of the committee would make further statements to the press.

In order to prepare an agenda, the Committee also decided to have the individual members of the Committee prepare a list of questions or specific points

(Continued on Page 5)

Brennan Deserves Tenure

With the Faculty Senate's overwhelming vote of support for Mr. Brennan, the spotlight has been cast solely upon Fr. Haas. Fr. Haas is now in a position where he must make a decision regarding tenured status for Mr. Brennan.

It is not an easy position to occupy. By granting tenure for Mr. Brennan, Fr. Haas would be repudiating the recommendation of the Committee on Rank and Tenure. By denying tenure, Fr. Haas is also rejecting the valued opinion of the Faculty Senate.

Indeed, new times have come upon the College. In the past, any decision by the president of the College could have been prefaced with the phrase, "according to the recommendation of the Committee on Rank and Tenure," the supposed authority on issues of tenure. Such a statement would invariably take any singular responsibility for the decision off of the president's shoulders. But now it cannot be denied that the Faculty Senate, which has thoroughly investigated the issue, might also be an authority on the matter. Thus, Fr. Haas must now choose between the opinions of two "authorities," and, in doing so, must necessarily assume sole responsibility for the decision.

In upholding the appeal of Mr. Brennan, the Faculty Senate introduced several arguments which the Committee on Rank and Tenure apparently overlooked or may have considered insignificant. The Senate statement on Mr. Brennan, while noting the individual's previous requests for permission to quit his position at PC, maintained that Mr. Brennan's contributions to the school (most notably in the area of student counseling) are sufficient testimony to his commitment to PC. Secondly, the Faculty Senate observed that Mr. Brennan, regardless of the fact that he is not pursuing doctoral studies, is a very effective and capable teacher.

It is our hope that Fr. Haas will see fit to reward the many merits which Mr. Brennan brings to his post as an assistant professor in psychology. Teachers of Mr. Brennan's caliber can only add to the reputation and strength of PC.

At the same time, we welcome the emergence of the Faculty Senate as an appellate body in such cases. This is the first time that the Senate had ever been appealed to in such matters. In all likelihood, the move probably took the Rank and Tenure Committee by surprise. Hopefully, the Senate will serve in the future as a means of keeping the Tenure Committee and other similar bodies on their guard.

Students Must Become Involved

Much valuable work is being done by the student organizations of community involvement: Big Brothers, Bethany House, Tyler School Project, and Chad Brown Project. All of these organizations seek to tap the many resources of Providence College and direct them to real social needs within the Providence community. The work that has already been done has been notable, and both the students and the community have benefited.

But, it is also a real fact that of a student body of 2600 students, there are less than 150 PC students involved in these social projects. In an age where students are becoming really involved with the problems of our cities, the participation of the average PC student is found sorely lacking.

All of PC's urban projects are in need of student manpower — and all are seeking students with a variety of talents to meet the organizations' varying needs. Tutors, athletic directors, musicians, all types of talent could be effectively utilized.

THE COWL encourages the students of PC to involve themselves meaningfully in the problems of the city and this can be done effectively through the above mentioned organizations. Any students interested in helping out should contact:

Dave Meegan — Big Brothers (865-3161).

Brian Kirkpatrick — Tyler School Project (865-3302).

Tom Brunnock — Bethany House (865-3430).

Fr. Concordia — Chad Brown Project or Roy Clark — Urban Council (421-1244).

Student Support Needed

When a U. S. Senator, especially one who is a leading Republican, comes to speak on a college campus, it can be expected that a large number of people, notably students, will show up. At the Hugh Scott lecture last week, however, this was not the case, for only about 200 people were present.

Sen. Scott is not to be excused for arriving one hour and 20 minutes late, but PC students are not to be excused for failing to attend this lecture. It may be true that some were tired of waiting and, thus, left before the Senator arrived, but it is also true that only about 20 students tickets were sold before the lecture.

The same phenomenon has hit the newly created film series. Both the lecture series and the film series, which has presented excellent motion pictures this semester, provide excellent opportunities for students to partake in cultural activities and it would be very worthwhile for students to support them.

It should be remembered that these presentations cannot last without student support. On January 7, at the Dick Gregory lecture, this support can be shown, but it must continue throughout the second semester if such beneficial activities are to last.

MLK

Merry Christmas

MEMO—

FROM THE EDITOR

Providence College Club Football has recently completed its third season. Its success is evidenced by the fact that Providence College finished the season ranked twentieth in the nation, according to the National Association of Club Football, which has some sixty members coast to coast. Also, Tom Bresnahan and Leo Sullivan were named second team All-American and All-American honorable mention, respectively.

Therefore, it is evident that the football team has proven itself on the field. However, club football is something which demands more than just students filling positions on a roster. Club football is the students. The organization which controls the functioning of the team and the decision making of the club is completely student run.

Although club football is student governed, it is, more importantly, dependent on student financial support. The amount of which few students seem aware, is that the school Administration gives no financial assistance whatever to the football club.

Most students, except the seniors, were not here when club football was started at PC. Only the seniors can remember all the hard work that was required to make football at this school a reality. It has taken a great deal of work to continue to keep football on our campus, as it will in the future, if football is to remain at Providence College.

It has become increasingly difficult for club officials to meet the club's financial responsibilities. For this reason, the football club is currently running a raffle to pay off bills incurred during the past season and to make preparations for spring practice.

As stated previously, club football is the students. It is played by students and operated by students. Equally evident is the fact that unless the students support the raffle and similar endeavors run by the football club, football at Providence College will become non-existent.

The choice is between football and no football, and it is up to the students to make this choice.

THOMAS P. BRUNNOCK

THE COWL

Providence, R. I.

MEMBER

Editor-in-Chief ..... WILLIAM M. BUCKLEY
Executive Editor ..... FREDERICK DAY
Managing Editors ..... THOMAS P. BRUNNOCK
ROY PETER CLARK

Associate Editor ..... MICHAEL TRAINOR

Sports Editor ..... EDWARD P. SKIBER

Feature Editors ..... ROBERT S. McINTYRE, RAYMOND A. CREEGAN

Copy Editors ..... JIM SULLIVAN, JIM SHAFFER

Business Manager ..... JOHN STELLMACH

Assistant Sports Editor ..... JAMES CRAWFORD

Photography Editor ..... FRANK TOHER

Circulation Manager ..... TIMOTHY F. THOMPSON

Cartoonists ..... MICHAEL KENNEDY, ROBERT DeCOLLUBUS

Moderator ..... REV. BENJAMIN U. FAY, O.F.S.

NEWS STAFF: Dan Foley, Mike Donahue, Tom Coakley, Severo Kinaid, Jack Ross, Steve Harrison, Tom Lyons, Steve Fischer, Gene Lipka, Jerry Downing, Gary Klernan, Dave Quinn, Mike Moreno.

SPORTS STAFF: Bob Brown, Joe Delaney, Pete Gobis, Brian Hussey, John O'Reilly, Chris Schultz, Steve Solomon.

Published each full week of school during the academic year by Providence College, River Avenue and Eaton Street, Providence, R. I. 02918.

Second class postage paid at Providence, R. I.

Subscription rate is $3.50 per year.

Garrahy Speaks

By BERNARD F. McKAY

Some weeks ago in this column I discussed a conversation which I had with Hubert Humphrey. In the last few weeks I have met twice with Rhode Island Lieutenant Governor J. Joseph Garrahy. A top Democrat in Rhode Island, he was State Democratic Chairman in 1967 and '68, and was, in fact, the first State Chairman in the nation to back Robert Kennedy for the Presidency in 1968. From all of these things comes an awareness of party politics deserving of considerable scrutiny.

"Well, I think the conditions of the party really are like any statement was an obvious political pitch to the Catholics of this country. What we need is real and outstanding leadership."

I asked him about Spiro Agnew's recent adventures into the never-never land of ripping apart anyone who disagrees with him. "Agnew? I think there is no doubt whatever that his speeches are being written in the White House, or at least being fully approved there. . . . I think that this represents a very serious situation. What if Agnew became President? The situation would be most serious, especially when you consider that he readily states that his ber 15, and also violent protest (which I'm glad to say has been markedly absent in recent demonstrations), and things such as carrying Viet Cong flags, these all tend to hurt the cause of peace. We all want the war over, but to give protests certain extremist tinges really damages the effort. I really wonder about the ultimate motives behind suggesting violence, real extremism, heckling, and so forth. The motives do not logically seem to be to bring peace, for these extremist tinges drive away people who could have been part of a broader support for the peace effort."

I then asked the Lieutenant

"What if Agnew becomes President? The situation would be most serious, especially if you consider that he readily states that his intent is to polarize the American people."

other party which loses its major office . . . it falls into some disarray. As a result of this it requires strong leadership to put it back together again . . . I think the rejection of the Haynsworth nomination shows that they (the Democratic Congressional Leadership) now are providing strong leadership themselves.

President Nixon's recent speech on Vietnam disturbed a great many people. One thing he mentioned was about hundreds of thousands of Catholics who have been in danger in the past or would be in the future from North Vietnam. This intent is to polarize the American people."

There has been some criticism of Governor Frank Licht's position on the Vietnam war, to the effect that the Governor was merely jumping on the bandwagon at the last minute for the October 15 protests. "The Governor has always felt this way," Mr. Garrahy said. "There was no question that Frank Licht was a dove. In 1968, for example, he wired the Democratic Convention, in support of the peace plank for the party platform.

"As for heckling such as at the State House rally on Octo-

Governor his opinion of today's youth activism: "Well, I was Chairman of the Democratic Party here in Rhode Island, and we tried for years to get youth active in political affairs. I think this activity is a good thing. . . . It's great!"

Overall, Mr. Garrahy seemed to fall within what I would consider the "category" of progressive liberals. His immediate support of Robert Kennedy in 1968 reveals something of his political philosophy. His question of the ultimate motives for violence in demonstrations, considering how seriously it hurts the peace movement, is worthy of serious consideration.

Free the Panthers?

By ROBERT PHELAN

On November 22 a large street demonstration was held in New Haven, organized by the Black Panther party, and supported by young women, both white and black. The object of the demonstration was to voice support for a movement to release several black panther women who allegedly took part in a kangaroo trial of a party member and were subsequently involved in they are black, Panthers, and women. The Panther Party demands:

1) that the pregnant women be released on their own recognizance, and that reasonable bail be set for all the Panthers who are in jail.

2) an end to the torture of the women, an adequate diet, exercise, and clothing, and an end to the isolation and sleepless nights.

"It is indeed unfortunate that our friends in the radical left have chosen . . . to continue their politics of polarization."

the torture-execution of the man. Three of the women involved are pregnant and due to give birth this month. The Black Panther Party maintains that these women are being harassed, tortured and kept in a condition calculated to induce ill health, and also that the women are being persecuted because

3) their right to prenatal and maternal care by doctors of their choice, their right to give birth without armed guards.

4) immediate freedom for the Connecticut Panthers, and all political prisoners.

The Party further maintains that their crime was that: "they have begun to construct concrete programs which help women — free health programs, free day care programs" and so on. No mention was made of the murder charge.

One further problem that has arisen is that if the women are convicted, they will be declared unfit parents and their children will be put up for adoption. The Panther Party rejects the state's definition of "fit" and demands that the women be allowed to raise their children.

If the facts in this case are arranged in the proper perspective, it would appear that the Black Panther Party and its radical allies have once again indulged themselves in myopia and moral perversion.

If one starts from the facts

Jack Reed: Temporarily

Silent Night?

Well, it's that time of year again. Everyone's rushing around decking the halls, trimming the trees and donning their gay apparel (oh, come now). In this cynical age, however, fewer and fewer people remember what Christmas is all about. For those who have forgotten and for those who remember, but didn't know this part of the story, here's the previously undisclosed conversation that almost called the whole thing off.

The scene is the side of the road just outside of Bethlehem. Mary and Joseph have been looking for a place to stay, but no luck. Now it's beginning to snow and that's the last straw for Mary:

"Oh, great! Snow on top of everything else! Some provider you've turned out to be, Joseph. You didn't call ahead for reservations; you got me this stupid donkey instead of a halfway decent horse; I send you for some ice cream and pickles and you come back with a Big Mac and when I asked you if you checked the weather forecast you said it was going to be clear and mild. Well, I've had it! I'm telling God! Hey God—yoo-hoo!"

"YES MARY, MY DAUGHTER?"

"Don't give me that my daughter bit. I've had it! I quit!"

"WHAT SEEMS TO BE THE PROBLEM?"

"What's the problem, he asks? I'm standing up to my knees in snow and he wants to know what the problem is."

"NOW MARY, YOU KNEW IT WASN'T GOING TO BE EASY. DIDN'T THE DOVE EXPLAIN IT THE DAY HE FLEW IN YOUR KITCHEN WINDOW?"

"He didn't explain anything! All he said was "How would you like to be the mother of God?" I've always had a soft spot for orphans, so I said okay, but I didn't count on this."

"NOW MARY, THINK OF THE OTHER PEOPLE INVOLVED."

"Like who?"

"WELL, OVER THE HILL ARE A CHORUS OF CHERUBIM AND SERAPHIM WHO HAVE BEEN REHEARSING THE GLORIA FOR SIX WEEKS. THEY'RE GOING TO BE TICKED OFF IF THE SHOW GETS CANCELLED. AND THEN THERE'S GABRIEL—HAVE YOU SEEN HIS HANDS?"

"No, what's the matter with his hands?"

"HE'S BEEN SHOWING A STAR AROUND FOR SIX WEEKS — THAT'S WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH HIS HANDS. AND THOSE THREE KINGS THAT HAVE BEEN FOLLOWING IT AREN'T GOING TO FEEL TOO DUMB IF ALL THEY FIND UNDERNEATH IS A STABLE WITH A FEW MANGY SHEEP."

"Glad you brought that up. You fix it so we gotta come over to Bethlehem and what happens — there's no rooms 'cause its Christmas! Sorry Mr. DeMille. No way!"

"IS THAT YOUR FINAL ANSWER, MARY?"

"That's it—and besides, I hate kids."

"HAVE YOU SEEN MY LIGHTNING BOLT TRICK, MARY?"

"Your — lightning — bolt—? Well, ha, ha, ha—can't you take a little joke. You didn't think I was serious did you? We'll just amble right on over to that little stable—No hard feelings?"

"OF COURSE NOT . . . OKAY, YOU ANGELS, ON THE COUNT OF THREE . . . AND A-ONE-A AND-A TWO-A AND . . ."

"Excuse me God. Just one last thing. Take a woman's opinion on the matter. Forget your name and call him Jesus."

"WELL, ALL RIGHT. BUT, WHEN WE HAVE THE SECOND COMING I'M GOING TO NAME HIM SPIRO!"

"Have you seen my lightning bolt trick, Mary?"

that a man was tortured and murdered, that the evidence points to a certain group of people, that when the case comes to trial the defendants will be charged with first degree murder, and that no bail is granted in such cases, then it would seem ridiculous to demand an exception in this case — especially when one considers the viciousness with which the crime was carried out.

As far as what constitutes a fit parent and environment, I would venture to suggest that a home where hate and violence are advocated and murder and torture condoned is not a fit environment for a child to be raised in.

The most amazing thing about the whole affair is that these self-styled fighters for social justice have attempted the impossible task of whitewashing a gruesome murder, and totally ignored a serious and widespread social problem. It is in all probability true that the conditions under which the Panther Party claim these women are being held actually exist. These women are not however, the only ones forced to live in such conditions, for the same is true throughout the entire Connecticut prison system, a fact which has been widely discussed. Instead of addressing itself to the pressing need for prison reform, the radical left has once again chosen to pursue its own short-sighted ends. What could have resulted in constructive reform has been ignored. It is indeed unfortunate that our friends in the radical left have chosen to so act, and thereby continue their politics of polarization.

Letter To The Editor

To the Editor:

In response to "A Bewildered Alumnus," it seems to me that a person who graduates from a "Catholic and Dominican College" should take on the courage and responsibilities that are espoused by such an institution. People who consider themselves devoted, or at least interested, in the happenings at or around Providence College should not lack the courage and responsibility it instills in our character. A good "moral" Catholic (as "bewildered" would probably consider himself) should by no means be an anonymous. He should be a straight forward person, not afraid to express himself when he thinks he is right.

I am embarrassed to think that a person who holds his "Dominican tradition" with such fervor, doesn't really know what he is holding. I am also embarrassed to see a person, in whose footsteps I am supposed to follow, lacking conviction to stand behind what he says. Does he consider what he says so unimportant?

It is not my intention, however, to take issue with what our "Bewildered Alumnus" says. I regret that more alumni do not contribute letters expressing their opinions. Those who believe what they say and are willing to stand behind it, are welcomed openly. The students have been signing their letters.

In conclusion I think that if a letter writer feels his opinions are so unimportant as to not warrant his signature, then the Cowl should also consider them as unimportant and should not print them.

Robert E. Williamson III
A Bewildered Student

(Editor's Note: It is the policy of The Cowl to print only letters that are signed. If a writer, who has signed the letter, wishes his name withheld, however, it is done.)

Ron Szejner, Greg Carr, and Paul Decelles prepare for upcoming debate. COWLphoto by Frank Toher

Black Studies Program Needed

"Up until the present decade, American history books were often guilty of propagating the traditional stereotyped image of the American Blacks. As a result, the Blacks have been deprived of their history — they have been stripped of their past."

Speaking at the December 3 meeting of the Black studies program committee, Paul O'Malley, a member of the History department, pointed to the inadequacies of traditional instruction in history to demonstrate the need for a Black history study course.

The purpose of the Black studies program is to instruct students in the history of the American Negro and, hopefully, to compensate for any misguided generalizations impressed upon the students through prior education.

Mr. O'Malley warned that "we must integrate our history books in order to erase the stereotype which the American Negro has." At the same time, he added, we cannot overlook other American minority groups either. "The colored, however, must be the immediate concern, because of their great suffering throughout all of American history."

Mr. O'Malley wholeheartedly favors the integration method of study — where both black and white students can learn of their respective societies, and both groups can be proud of one another. In keeping with this process of education, he feels that a Black studies program should include white teachers as well as black, because "due to a lack of black teachers, some of those hired will be inadequate for the job."

"In a program of this kind," stated Mr. O'Malley, "hiring black teachers, to the exclusion of all others, may cause the teachers to be viewed as a separate black intellectuals' box." This type of program, he feels, would be an injustice to the blacks themselves.

Some dance and some just listen to the music at the PC-RIC mixer. COWLphoto by Frank Toher

PC-RIC Co-Sponsor Fund-Raising Mixer

Last Friday evening's mixer at Alumni Hall, co-sponsored by the student governments of PC and Rhode Island College, netted a total profit of $130.

The mixer was sponsored by the two schools in the hopes of repaying a debt of approximately $500, incurred as a result of damages inflicted at RIC during the September, 1968, "panty raids."

The PC Student Congress will give half of the $130 to the RIC Student Senate. The remaining $65 will be deposited in the Congress treasury.

Following the panty raids of last year, the Rhode Island College administration billed the RIC student organization for the cost of the damage repairs. At that time, the PC Congress agreed to co-sponsor a mixer to help pay off the bill.

Student Congress social chairman Tim Smith estimated that the mixer attendance was in the neighborhood of 300. The turnout, he stated, was less than what had been anticipated. Smith noted, however, that the mixer was competing with another mixer held simultaneously at the RIC student center and sponsored by a RIC sorority house.

Smith stated that "the lack of cooperation received from RIC, both in terms of the competing mixer and student assistance at our own mixer, was quite disheartening. Only three students from RIC ever showed up to help out with the affair, and even they had left by 10 p.m."

Haskins Pharmacy
895 SMITH STREET
PROVIDENCE, R. I.
Res. Pharmacists on Duty
621-3668
OPEN SUNDAYS

SUN !!      GIRLS !!      BOOZE !!

BERMUDA
MARCH 28 — APRIL 4

$175
CALL OR SEE

Dan Samela      Rick Kane
Rm 321 Raymond      or      Rm 124 Stephen Hall
Tel 865-3495      Tel 865-3539

Debaters Finish Even At Pittsburgh Tourney

Two members of PC's debate club traveled to Pittsburgh recently to compete in the University of Pittsburgh debating tournament.

The tournament, held on December 5 and 6, featured many of the top collegiate debating teams in the nation.

Senior Ron Szejner, president of the debate club, and Paul Decelles '72, secretary-treasurer of the club, finished the tournament with a competition record of 3-3. They competed against representatives from the University of Alabama, the eventual winner of the tournament; The University of Dayton, Wheeling College, Phiel College of Pennsylvania, Clarion State College, and Ohio Wesleyan College.

The debate club, numbering eight members, will compete in a minimum of ten debates this year. They have already participated in four debates this semester: Brown University, Rhode Island College, and La Salle College in Philadelphia, as well as the Pittsburgh debate.

In addition to Szejner and Decelles, members of the debate club include senior Gregory Carr, vice president; sophomores Fred Cichon and Ray Sheehan, and freshmen John Corbett, Gene Cousie, and Fred Coughlin.

The team sends at least two members to each debate, and usually four members to debates held in the New England area. Members participate in the debates on a rotating system; thus, each team member has the opportunity to debate in competition at least a couple of times per year.

The topic selected for collegiate debates this year is: Resolved—the federal government should annually grant a specific percentage of the income tax revenue to the states. This topic has been chosen by a national selection committee and is standard for all college debates throughout the year.

Congress...

(Continued from Page 1) president, William Connoly, argued that the wording utilized by Marra would prohibit "responsible discussion" between the administration and the students. The end result was the rewording of the amendment to read: "not subject to compromise."

Thus for the first time ever the Congress has taken a hard line, discussable but "non-compromisable" stand in the presentation of a bill to the administration. Reactions to the bill were enthusiastic among its supporters in the Congress. Kevin Stokes, president of Stephen Hall's Dorm Council, described the "non-compromise" verbal innovation as a possible "new trend" in future Student Congress actions and proposals.

NEW YORK TO LONDON
Summer Vacation Trips

ROUND TRIP $169.
SMALL DEPOSIT AND PAYMENTS
SEND FOR FREE DETAILS

STUDENT GLOBE ROAMERS
Box 6575 Hollywood Florida 33021

A Film Treasure

By MICHAEL RYBARSKI

Those film purists who feel that if a film is to be good it must be foreign, should be required to see John Huston's The Treasure of the Sierra Madre. The film has gained most of its fame recently, because of the Bogart revival, but the film is more than just a medium for the Bogart magic. Much more.

Thematically, the film is very simple. At least, it seems so at first. But just as a finely written poem can be the constant source of new and different interpretations—so too, this film seems almost kaleidoscopic in the different facets which it reveals upon examination. The basic theme is the corrupting influence which the search for gold has on three prospectors. The prospectors, played by Bogart, Tim Holt, and Walter Huston (the director's father) are the proverbial "down-and-outers," who in their search for El Dorado are forced into situations which breed conflict, and reveal much about their characters and human nature as a whole.

Early in the film Bogart meets Holt and the two men form a relationship based on their similar standing in the community. Their bond is the bond of the drifter, the man who can never really fit into society, the man who can never really win anything. Bogart and Holt overhear an old prospector relating tales of former strikes and decide to throw in their lot with him, and search for gold. Prophetically, the old man tells them of the dangers and changes which the lust for gold can effect on a man. Bogart, as Fred C. Dobbs, states his feeling that gold doesn't have to be a curse.

The men form a partnership and head into the mountains in search for gold. And surprisingly early in the film, they find it. As they mine their gold the audience is shown the gradual and terrible change which this gold effects upon them. Dobbs, ironically, is the first to be effected. He becomes paranoically suspicious of his partners. Both Holt and Huston succumb. When a fourth prospector stumbles upon their find, they decide there is only one logical thing for them to do—they must kill him. Already the gold has wrought an awful transformation. The actualization of the murder is interrupted, however, by an attack by Mexican bandits.

But the gold is not an irresistible force. When they search the dead body of the prospector (he has been killed by the bandits) Holt finds a letter from his wife. In a beautiful passage she describes how the gold doesn't matter to her; she has found something much more important in her love. This letter proves to be a catalyst. Holt and Huston are redeemed. They regain their perspective. The gold remains important, but they now recognize other values are more important. This is not the case for Fred C. Dobbs however. His reaction to the letter reveals that he has become completely calloused, for him there is still only one value—gold.

Dobbs' degeneration continues on their way down the mountain with their finds, until he becomes convinced that his two partners are out to rob him. Everything is perfectly simple for him now. It's either his partners or himself. He tries to kill Holt. Even when Holt defeats this attempt and proves that he is not out to "get" him, Dobbs just can't accept this. He has lost his reason; he has become an animal. When Dobbs gets another chance he does shoot Holt. His partner is only wounded, however, and escapes to an Indian camp where Huston has been delayed. But as far as Dobbs is concerned, the act he committed was murder. His degeneration is complete. He is no longer human.

As Dobbs proceeds down the hill, and just when things look like he is in the clear, a new theme begins to appear. Dobbs is overtaken by bandits who rob and kill him. The bandits don't recognize the gold dust; they mistake it for sand and throw it away. The new recovered Holt and Huston pursue Dobbs, and eventually find the bandits and the dead Dobbs. The gold however, has been left in piles on the ground. As they race frantically to recover it, the wind of Fate rises and returns the gold to the mountain.

Although Bogart's performance is fantastic (his facial expressions, his eyes, his every actions express his gradual degeneration), the performances of Tim Holt and Walter Huston were also remarkable. When these performances were combined with the talent and creativity of the director, the only possible result was a classic film—The Treasure of Sierra Madre.

The freshmen on the second floor of McDermott Hall put up their Christmas tree last week. Using an ultra-violet lamp and tea bags and other accessories coated with fluorescent paint, the boys have erected something unique for the holiday season.

Genesians Regroup; Spring Production Set

The recently concluded six-performance run of the Genesians Players' production of "The Fantasticks" was the first presentation by the College drama group since May, 1968.

The group has already scheduled its second production of the academic year, "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf," for February or early March.

The Genesians had disbanded last year due to problems with the internal structure of the organization. Thus, when the Rev. Leo B. Pelkington, O.P., came to Providence College fresh from graduate studies in drama and the fine arts at Catholic University, he found very few remnants of the once highly successful drama group.

Upon taking over as director of the Genesians, Fr. Pelkington set about locating former members of the group as well as enlisting the talents of new students. Some 35 students were enrolled in the rejuvenated Genesians, 17 of whom were freshmen.

Before the Players could begin work on their scheduled production, it was necessary to renovate entirely the group's workshop in the basement of Stephen Hall. The first few months of the school year were spent in painting the walls, constructing platforms, and installing a completely new lighting system. In addition, approximately $2,000 was spent on installing electricity and electric fixtures.

Fr. Pelkington stated that the long range goal of the drama group was the eventual establishment of a regular drama department among the school's programs of study. "A campus drama department is a virtual necessity," Fr. Pelkington claimed, "if the College is ever to go coed."

Following the spring production of "Virginia Woolfe" the Genesians hope to present one more play during the final quarter of the school year. Fr. Pelkington emphasized that all interested students are welcome to tryout for roles in future productions.

Director Needed Before Urban Council Can Function

"The Urban Council of Providence College is dedicated to providing the impetus for a more active and intimate student involvement in the problems facing the Providence community."

Roy Clark, chairman of the Council's steering committee and organizer of the Council, feels that this is the prime function to be served by the Urban Council.

Clark claims, however, that the main problem facing the Council thus far lies not in student interest, but rather in governmental direction. Accordingly, the Council is presently seeking a faculty director to coordinate its affairs.

Once such a director is found, it is believed that it will be easier to organize the elements within the College to give the Council a meaningful structure. The establishment of stability and permanence is fundamental to the success of the Urban Council.

The functions of the Council vary; they encompass almost all of the urban social ills presently plaguing the city. The volunteering students may find themselves involved in a tutorial program at the Chad Brown Housing Project in Providence or in a school in South Providence, the establishment of day care centers within the city, or in projects related to the Big Brothers program.

The governing board of the Council is composed of students, faculty members, administrative officials, alumni, and community members. The final plans and goals of the Council will be announced after a director is named for the organization. Clark stated that from the student viewpoint, "my real hope is to get a significant amount of students involved in community projects and to create a social consciousness within all aspects of the College community."

Gregory . . .

(Continued from Page 1) sor printed the word "negro" on the black board, Gregory marched up to the front of the room during class and changed the small "n" to a capital.

Determined to make it as a comic, he entered show business after college and though floundering for several years, he eventually became one of the most sought after performers on the night club circuit.

Seven years ago, however, Dick Gregory, comedian became Dick Gregory entertainer, changing almost as quickly in real life as he does on stage.

Hired in November of 1962 to speak at a voter registration rally in Jackson, Mississippi, Gregory tells the story of a seventy-eight year old Negro, who "was fighting the system went to jail, lost his wife for me."

"That really broke me," says Gregory and since then he has been in the forefront of the nation's Civil Rights Movement, contributing over one million dollars to the cause of freedom in the last seven years.

His monetary contributions have been small, however, in comparison to his personal contribution of time and effort.

Author of two best selling books, "Nigger," an autobiography, and "Sermons," a collection of meditations, Gregory has also entered the political arena as a write-in candidate for Mayor of Chicago and President of the United States, and has lectured at countless colleges and universities.

In his student audiences he sees a hope for the future freedom of all.

"You kids . . . your groovy!" Gregory tells his young audiences.

"You kids are the hope of this country. It's all yours."

Coed Hours . . .

(Continued from Page 1) which they felt should be discussed and from this an agenda would be compiled.

During the meeting, Fr. Haas read his statement to the Corporation which informed that body that the question of evening coed hours was going to be discussed. He also announced that the Corporation would decide this matter.

Besides Frs. Haas and Duffy, and Buckley, the other members of the Committee include two representatives of the Corporation, Fr. James R. McAvey, O.P., and Dr. J. Joseph Hanley, two from the Student Congress, Ralph Paglieri and Richard Zarelli, and five from the Committee on Administration, Frs. John F. Cunningham, O.P., Joseph L. Lennon, O.P., and Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., Dr. Paul van K. Thomson and Edward C. Brennan.

Also serving on the Committee will be Peter Gallant and John Colby of the Counseling Center.

Scott . . .

(Continued from Page 1) about more troop withdrawals, and that in his view "by the end of 1970, very nearly all of the combat land forces will be out of Vietnam."

The Senator outlined two methods by which the war can be ended. The first, which he called the "fast track" is the process of negotiation and agreement; the second, "the slow track," is the one which we are currently pursuing and which involves the program of Vietnamization of the war. Tied to the eventual American withdrawal from Vietnam is our return of the island of Okinawa to Japan.

During the question and answer period which followed the lecture, Senator Scott was asked to comment on the recent vote on Judge Clement Haynsworth's nomination to the Supreme Court. He said that his reason for voting against the nomination was Judge Haynsworth's "inattention to proprieties," and other factors.

The P.C. Karate Club will present an exhibition at half time of the Brown-PC basketball game, Alumni Hall, Thursday, December 18.

First Semester Examination Schedule

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 14

8:00 a.m. to 10:00 a.m.

History 101—Mr. Metallo—Harkins Auditorium
History 101—Mr. Morris—Alumni Hall
History 101—Mr. Robt. Deasy—Antoninus 001
History 101—Mr. Rich. Deasy—Harkins 216
History 101—Mr. Walsh—Alumni Hall
Educ. 401—Mr. Flaherty—Alumni Hall
History 101—Mrs. Epstein—Harkins Auditorium
Pol. Sci. 401—Mr. Romans—Harkins 217
Bus. 315—Mr. Walsh—Albertus 100
Educ. 201—Fr. Werner—Harkins Auditorium
Russian 201—Mr. Flanagan—Harkins 219
Soc. 307—Mr. Moorehead—Harkins 220
Pol. Sci. 301—Mr. Alsfeld—Harkins 215
Econ. 309—Mr. Simeone—Harkins 300

10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Phil. 201—Mr. Kelly—Alumni Hall
Phil. 201—Fr. Danilowicz—Alumni Hall
Phil. 201—Fr. Kenny—Harkins Auditorium
Phil. 201—Fr. McAvey—Harkins Auditorium
Phil. 201—Fr. Morry—Alumni Hall
Phil. 201—Fr. Concordia—Albertus 100
Educ. 412—Mr. Flaherty—Harkins 323
Hist. 402—Mr. Grace—Harkins Auditorium
Bus. 301—Mr. Bagley—Alumni Hall
Germ. 403—Mr. Rosenwald—Harkins 215
Soc. 201—Mr. Scott—Antoninus 001

2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Hist. 316—Mr. Di Nunzio—Alumni Hall
Hist. 325—Mr. Mullen—Harkins Auditorium
Hist. 103—Mr. Conley—Alumni Hall
Math. 107—Mr. Derderian—Alumni Hall
Math. 107—Mr. King—Harkins Auditorium
Math. 131—Fr. Gallagher—Antoninus 001
Math. 223—Mr. Kennedy—Alumni Hall
Soc. 312—Mrs. Chinnery—Albertus 100

THURSDAY, JANUARY 15

8:00 a.m. to 10:00 a.m.

Bus. 401—Mr. Cote—Harkins Auditorium
French 101—Mr. Desautels—Antoninus 001
Rel. Stud. 201—Fr. Hall—Alumni Hall
Rel. Stud. 201—Fr. Driscoll—Albertus 100
Rel. Stud. 201—Fr. Davis—Alumni Hall
Rel. Stud. 201—Fr. Prest—Joseph 001
Rel. Stud. 201—Fr. Fallon—Alumni Hall
Rel. Stud. 301—Fr. Foley—Harkins Auditorium
Rel. Stud. 305—Fr. Newman—Joseph 002
Rel. Stud. 305—Fr. Dimock—Harkins Auditorium

10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Bus. 209—Mr. Whittier—Alumni Hall
Eng. 101—Mr. Moon—Harkins 215
Eng. 101—Fr. Tancredi—Antoninus 001
Eng. 101—Mr. Roche—Library 101
Eng. 101—Mr. Bohan—Library 118
Eng. 101—Mr. Weldon—Library 109
Eng. 101—Mr. Caruso—Harkins 217
Eng. 101—Miss Marziarz—Harkins 216
Eng. 101—Mrs. Cane—Aquinas 018
Eng. 101—Mr. Mulholland—Alumni Hall
Eng. 101—Miss Jacqueline—Harkins Auditorium
Eng. 101—Mr. Wagner—Harkins 311
Rel. Stud. 405—Fr. Mahler—Alumni Hall
Rel. Stud. 401—Fr. Collins—Harkins Auditorium
Rel. Stud. 307—Fr. Sullivan—Harkins Auditorium
Rel. Stud. 307—Fr. Dettling—Albertus 100

2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Bus. 311—Mr. Prisco—Alumni Hall
French 103—Mr. Beauchemin—Harkins Auditorium
French 103—Mr. Lavallee—Library 109
German 101—Mrs. Kaiser—Albertus 100
German 101—Fr. Schnell—Harkins Auditorium
Mil. Sci. 101—Mjr. Drenzek—Alumni 007
Spanish 101—Mr. Cavaco—Harkins Auditorium
Spanish 101—Mr. Holmes—Harkins 217
Spanish 203—Mr. Incera—Harkins 215
Spanish 103—Mr. Viviani—Harkins 214
Spanish 103—Fr. Taylor—Library 118
Spanish 103—Fr. Rubba—Harkins 216
Spanish 201—Mr. Viviani—Harkins Auditorium
Rel. Stud. 409—Fr. Coskren—Alumni Hall
Rel. Stud. 414—Fr. Seaver—Alumni Hall

FRIDAY, JANUARY 16

8:00 a.m. to 10:00 a.m.

Econ. 420—Mr. Palumbo—Antoninus 001
Econ. 201—Fr. Shanley—Harkins Auditorium
French 403—Mr. Holmes—Harkins 215
Phil. 101—Mr. Jackson—Alumni Hall
Phil. 101—Fr. Duprey—Harkins Auditorium
Phil. 101—Fr. Heath—Alumni Hall
Phil. 101—Fr. Haladus—Albertus 100
Phil. 101—Fr. Robillard—Joseph 001
Phil. 101—Mr. Devine—Harkins Auditorium

Phil. 305—Fr. Fay—Alumni Hall
Pol. Sci. 201—Mr. Laime—Joseph 002

10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Biol. 409—Mr. Stokes—Albertus 100
Bus. 313—Mr. Argentieri—Harkins 215
Bus. 403—Mr. Fitzgerald—Alumni Hall
Educ. 401—Mr. Sullivan—Harkins 311
Econ. 303 (H)—Mr. Noel—Harkins 220
Eng. 101—Mr. Toomey—Harkins 219
Eng. 205—Mr. Weldon—Harkins Auditorium
Eng. 407—Mr. Thomson—Harkins Auditorium
French 103—Fr. McDermott—Harkins Auditorium
Hist. 101—Mr. Smith—Alumni Hall
Ital. 201—Mr. Scott—Harkins 214
Latin 212—Fr. Proats—Harkins 214
Math. 131—Fr. McKenney—Harkins Auditorium
Math. 450—Mr. Krzys—Harkins 216
Rel. Stud. 403—Fr. Walsh—Alumni Hall
Sci. 101—Mr. Robertshaw—Alumni Hall
Soc. 311—Mr. Flanagan—Harkins 217
Soc. 101 (Honors)—Mr. MacKay—Harkins 309
Span. 310—Mr. Incera—Harkins 221

2:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Biol. 401—Fr. Bernardin—Albertus 018
Biol. 411—Mr. Trinchero—Albertus 020
Bus. 201—Fr. Masterson—Antoninus 001
Bus. 301—Mr. Cote—Alumni Hall
Bus. 101—Mr. Bagley—Alumni Hall
Bus. 101—Mr. Filippelli—Alumni Hall
French 103—Fr. St. George—Harkins 215
Eng. 211—Fr. Relly—Harkins Auditorium
Eng. 415—Mr. Hennedy—Harkins Auditorium
Econ. 403—Fr. Quirk—Alumni Hall
Germ. 103—Mr. Primeau—Albertus 100
Hist. 307—Mr. O'Malley—Harkins 210
Hist. 423—Mr. Sweet—Harkins Auditorium
Soc. 403—Mr. Moorehead—Alumni Hall
Econ. 202—Mr. Mulligan—Aquinas 001

SATURDAY, JANUARY 17

8:00 a.m. to 10:00 a.m.

Art 301—Fr. Hunt—Library 109
French 201—Mr. Galek—Harkins 311
French 203—Mr. Fortier—Harkins Auditorium
French 203—Mr. Coyle—Harkins Auditorium
Eng. 221—Mr. Toomey—Harkins Auditorium
Eng. 455—Mr. Carmody—Albertus 100
Hist. 431—Mr. Metallo—Joseph 007
Music 301—Fr. Cannon—Joseph 001
Military Science 201—Mjr. Foley—Harkins Auditorium
Military Science 301—Mjr. Floody—Harkins Auditorium
Military Science 401—Mjr. Akam—Harkins Auditorium
Science 101—Mr. Donahue—Albertus 100

MONDAY, JANUARY 19

8:00 a.m. to 10:00 a.m.

Bus. 103—Mr. Filippelli—Harkins 316
Bus. 417—Mr. Walsh—Harkins 326
Educ. 303—Mr. McLaughlin—Harkins Auditorium
Eng. 101—Mr. Resnikoff—Harkins 220
Eng. 205—Mr. Roche—Harkins 222
Eng. 101—Fr. Walker—Aquinas 001
Eng. 204—Mr. Morin—Harkins 311
French 101—Mr. Lavallee—Aquinas 002
French 401—Mr. DeGeorge—Harkins 309
Hist. 101—Mr. Miner—Harkins Auditorium
Hist. 303—Mr. Robt. Deasy—Harkins 219
Chem. 201—Mr. Hanley—Albertus 100
Chem. 203—Mr. Healy—Albertus 018
Chem. 403—Mr. Boyco—Albertus 020
Ital. 403—Mr. Leopizzi—Library 102
Math. 323—Mr. DeMayo—Harkins 216
Phil. 101—Fr. Hall—Antoninus 001
Phil. 103 (Honors)—Mr. Jackson—Harkins 215
Phys. 105—Fr. Murtaugh—Harkins 312
Phys. 107—Fr. Murtaugh—Harkins 314
Phys. 112—Mr. Martineau—Harkins 314
Psyc. 409—Mr. Bosack—Antoninus 302
Pol. Sci. 407—Mr. Friedemann—Harkins Auditorium
Rel. Stud. 324—Mr. Cranny—Harkins 221
Rel. Stud. 101 (Honors)—Fr. Philibert—Harkins 214
Span. 103—Mr. Incera—Harkins 217

10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Arts Honors 101—Mr. Fortin—Albertus 100
Bus. 209—Mr. Auclair—Harkins Auditorium
Econ. 407—Mr. O'Brien—Harkins Auditorium
Educ. 303—Mr. Flaherty—Harkins 219
Eng. 205—Mr. Wagner—Harkins Auditorium
Eng. 309—Dr. Deleppo—Harkins 220
Germ. 102—Mrs. Kaiser—Library 102
Hist. 101—Mr. McGovern—Harkins 311
Hist. 417—Mr. Miner—Harkins 217
Phil. 303—Fr. Robillard—Harkins 214
Phys. 311—Mr. Robertshaw—Albertus 012
Russ. 203—Mr. Flanagan—Library 103
Soc. 304—Mr. Flanagan—Harkins 215
Soc. 401—Fr. James—Alumni Hall
Sci. 101—Mr. Saltzman—Library 107
Rel. Stud. 307—Fr. Rover—Harkins Auditorium
Span. 303—Fr. Jurgelaitis—Harkins 219

2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Bus. 410—Mr. Filippelli—Harkins Auditorium
Econ. 407—Mr. Mulligan—Harkins 309
Com. Sci. 203—Mr. Bartolomeo—Harkins 215
Eng. 101—Mr. Egan—Harkins 222
Eng. 205—Mr. Mulholland—Harkins Auditorium
Eng. 405—Mr. Pearson—Harkins 300
French 211—Mr. Galek—Harkins 221
German 201—Mr. Rosenwald—Harkins 220
Hist. 101—Mr. O'Malley—Harkins Auditorium
Ital. 103—Mr. Scott—Harkins 219
Pol. Sci. 303—Mr. Laime—Harkins Auditorium
Spanish 203—Fr. Jurgelaitis—Harkins 216
Soc. 405—Mr. Salvatore—Harkins 217

TUESDAY, JANUARY 20

8:00 a.m. to 10:00 a.m.

Arts Honors 201—Mr. Miner—Harkins 222
Bus. 305—Mr. Breen—Harkins Auditorium
Bus. 307—Mr. Argentieri—Harkins 326
Bus. 318—Mr. Auclair—Harkins 316
Chem. 103—Mr. Galkowski—Albertus 100
Chem. 397—Mr. Boyko—Albertus 020
Com. Sci. 103—Mr. Boyd—Harkins 300
Econ. 305—Mr. Lynch—Harkins 221
Eng. 101—Mr. Murphy—Harkins 216
Eng. 101—Mr. McCrorie—Harkins 215
Eng. 205—Mr. Resnikoff—Harkins 214
Eng. 205—Mr. Harbour—Harkins 219
Eng. 207—Mr. Hennedy—Harkins Auditorium
French 213—Mr. Beauchemin—Harkins 306
Ital. 101—Mr. Leopizzi—Harkins 307
Math. 107—Mr. Schultz—Harkins 217
Math 111—Mr. King—Stephen 002
Math 215—Mr. Tattersall—Harkins 220
Math 304—Mr. Kennedy—Library 105
Math. 409—Mr. De Mayo—Stephen 003
Phil. 313—Fr. John Cunningham—Harkins Auditorium

Phys. 103—Fr. Halton—Albertus 018
Phys. 210—Mr. Mecca—Harkins 303
Phys. 401—Mr. Yu—Harkins 304
Psyc. 424—Mr. Misovich—Antoninus 002
Port. 101—Mr. Caraco—Library 103
Pol. Sci. 201—Mr. Lepper—Harkins Auditorium
French 103—Mr. Galek—Harkins 305
Russian 221—Mr. Flanagan—Library 102

10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Biology 103—Mr. Fish—Albertus 100
Biology 203—Mr. Fish—Albertus 100
Bus. 303—Mr. Argentieri—Harkins Auditorium
Bus. 305—Mr. Auclair—Antoninus 001
Educ. 414—Mr. McLaughlin—Harkins 318
Educ. 415—Mr. Fortier—Harkins 316
Educ. 416—Fr. Werner—Harkins 319
Educ. 418—Mr. Richard Deasy—Harkins 326
Econ. 201—Mr. Lynch—Harkins Auditorium
Eng. 101—Mr. Barbour—Harkins 222
Eng. 205—Mr. Caruso—Harkins 214
Eng. 207—Mr. Fortin—Harkins 215
Eng. 221—Mr. Deleppo—Harkins Auditorium
Math. 315—Mr. Tattersall—Harkins 216
Math. 417—Mr. King—Stephen 002
Phil. 201—Mr. Jackson—Library 109
Phil. 317—Fr. McAvey—Harkins 219
Phys. 307—Fr. Murtaugh—Albertus 020
Psyc. 303—Mr. Lambé—Harkins 220
Psyc. 305—Mr. Anderson—Antoninus 002
Russian 101—Mr. Flanagan—Library 102

2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Arts Honors 103—Mr. Grace—Harkins 219
Educ. 421—Fr. Quinn—Harkins 325
Econ. 435—Mr. Simeone—Library 112
Eng. 205—Mr. Bohan—Harkins Auditorium
Eng. 311—Mr. Murphy—Harkins 214
Eng. 461—Mr. Walker—Harkins 220
French 103—Mr. DeGeorge—Harkins 216
Math. 107—Fr. Bernard—Harkins 215
Math. 211—Mr. Tattersall—Stephen 002

Math. 131—Mr. Derderian—Harkins 217
Phys. 205—Fr. Murtaugh—Library 105
Pol. Sci. 305—Mr. Romans—Library 102
Pol. Sci. 309—Mr. Lepper—Library 103
Rel. Stud. 307—Fr. J. Peterson—Harkins Auditorium
Science 101—Fr. Bernardin—Harkins Auditorium
Soc. 201—Mr. Hanson—Harkins Auditorium

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 21

8:00 a.m. to 10:00 a.m.

Biol. 308—Mr. Zarcaro—Albertus 018
Chem. 111—Fr. Hackett—Albertus 020
Chem. 313—Mr. Barta—Harkins 222
Com. Sci. 103—Mr. Bartolomeo—Harkins 318
Econ. 439—Mr. O'Brien—Harkins 300
Educ. 303—Fr. Nealy—Harkins 326
Educ. 411—Mr. Carmody—Harkins 323
Eng. 101—Mr. Pearson—Harkins 214
Eng. 205—Mr. Murphy—Harkins Auditorium
Eng. 211—Mr. McCrorie—Library 101
Hist. 101 (Hist. Majors)—Fr. Hinnebusch—Harkins Auditorium
Hist. 321—Mr. Richard Deasy—Harkins Auditorium
Latin 101—Fr. Prout—Harkins 305
Math. 107—Mr. Krzys—Library 109
Math. 132—Mr. DeMayo—Harkins 215
Math. 315—Mr. Schultz—Harkins 216
Phil. 307—Mr. Devine—Harkins 217
Phil. 331—Mr. Kelly—Antoninus 001
Phil. 411—Fr. Cunningham—Harkins 219
Phys. 303—Fr. Halton—Harkins 221
Pol. Sci. 441—Fr. Mahoney—Harkins 220
Psyc. 201—Mr. Colby—Albertus 100
Psyc. 309—Mr. Brennan—Harkins 311
Soc. 301—Mr. Flanagan—Harkins Auditorium

10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Biol. 405—Mr. Leary—Albertus 018
Bus. 305—Mr. Prisco—Harkins Auditorium
Bus. 403—Mr. Meehan—Harkins Auditorium

(Continued on Page 7)

Join us in New York

Penney's New York corporate headquarters has career openings in one of the most interesting operations in major retail merchandising. Buying. It's an exciting career. You become involved in an ever changing industry; crammed with color, ideas, people, places and challenges. You work with a seasoned buyer; locating and developing product sources, selecting merchandise, planning, creating, presenting your ideas to management and before you expect, you're management, too. With major responsibility (like millions of dollars worth of merchandise) and no place to go but up. And plenty room up there. We're growing, expanding, setting the pace in retail merchandising. The spirit of change is everywhere. We need you! Join us and help us keep up the pace.

J. C. Penney Co., Inc.

College Relations 41
1301 Avenue of the Americas
New York, New York 10019

Campus Interviews January 13

An Equal Opportunity Employer

Robb, Ursone Pace Trackmen in Meet

The Friar trackmen rejected any plans for a winter hibernation period this year and, instead, came through with some highly creditable performances in a practice meet at the Coast Guard Academy last Wednesday.

Newly-elected Captain Marty Robb and the formerly sheltered Richie Ursone somewhat overshadowed the other Friar efforts with their superior performances. Robb, running as if there was no tomorrow, stormed the two-mile circuit in a record breaking time of 8:55. This mark erased the 8:56.5 standard that had been established by Bobby Crooke in 1968. Marty placed second to Ron Stenitch of New York's C. W. Post College and was also the individual winner of the I.C.A.A.A.A. Cross Country Championship a month ago. Stenitch was timed in 8:48.3.

Rich Ursone, however, was the talk of the day as he blasted the half mile in a dazzling 1:55.8. In one of the most exciting races of the afternoon, the unseeded two-mile relay, Rich grabbed the baton for the third leg of the race in fourth position and battled his way to the first slot. The unexpectancy of such a performance from the highly talented junior from Stamford, Conn. cast a new light on the Friars hope to gain, once again, Eastern supremacy in the prestigious two-mile relay.

The always consistent Tommy Malloy raced a 1:56 in the lead-off leg of the seeded two-mile relay, but received little help from the three other members of the team. In the open two mile, Ray LaBonte placed sixth with a time of 9:05. This incredibly self-disciplined senior will undoubtedly see a sub-nine minute performance this winter.

Freshman Mark Ambrose was timed in 1:59 in the half mile and sophomore speedster, Tom Aman, chipped in with a 2:00. Aman, a runner PC has a whelm of hope for this coming track season, received the baton almost a lap behind the leaders and had little chance to relate any of his competitive ability.

The Mighty Friars did show some signs of a need for more depth, but it must be considered that their inability to train on a track previous to the meet certainly had a stifling effect on their performances. With the recent completion of the board track behind Raymond Hall, the tracksters will now be training in a fashion much more conducive for the outstanding race times they are highly capable of attaining.

Coach Amate was more than pleased with the Friar exhibition, but implied that he was hopeful certain underclassmen would begin to improve in the near future

Football Stars Receive Honors For Great Play

Congratulations are in order for three members of this year's Friar football team. Captains Leo Sullivan and Tom Bresnahan and John Chandler were honored by Club Football All-America recognition.

Bresnahan and Chandler were voted second team All-Americans, and Sullivan earned Honorable Mention, but all three were vital cogs in the Friar success story this year. Bresnahan, a two-way starter for all of his three seasons at PC, was an offensive end, but he was at his best anchoring a very fine Friar defensive backfield. Chandler, for the first half of the year, was the nation's number one punter, averaging in the vicinity of 43 yards a boot, and that coming after he missed the first two games with a wrist injury. Chandler finished second in the nation. Sullivan was a mainstay on the Friars tough defensive line. He weighed only 175 lbs., but he was a sure tackler, and a tough man to keep out of the opposition's backfield.

Rich Pumple out indefinitely
Cowlfoto by Tom Maguire

Reynolds looked great in the nets the Friars couldn't shake off the shock of Pumple's injury and UNH reeled off five straight with three coming in the third period.

Brian Reynolds came into the nets to replace Jack Sanford in the third period of the Princeton game and looked good. Then at UNH coach Lamoriello decided to give Reynolds his first varsity start and he did very well. In all Brian turned aside 51 UNH shots, 40 coming over the last two periods. The Friar defense was skated ragged in the third period and only on Reynold's ability did he keep the score down.

Thursday the Friars are home against Boston State College in a game the pucksters can win. A victory will greatly restore their confidence.

FROM
THE

SPORTSDESK

By ED SKIBER

The Friar basketball team will meet arch-rival Boston College on January 6 at Alumni Hall, and if any game ever meant a great deal to the players and students, it must be this one. The Friars have not defeated Boston College in basketball since the 1965-66 season which means that none of the seniors, as Providence College students, have ever seen the Eagles defeated and will never see that day unless our team reigns supreme in 1970.

Boston College and Providence College basketball games began to take on significant meaning when Bob Cousy took over the reins at Chestnut Hill in 1963. He was a former teammate of then-Friar coach, Joe Mullaney, but in the first three years, the former "Mr. Basketball" could not conquer the talented Mullaneymen. This includes two defeats in 1965-66, in which the Eagles were upset in the final round of the Holiday Festival, a game which saw Jimmy Walker set the old Garden on fire with a 50 point performance. The other defeat, a two point loss to the Friars at Alumni, came after the home team froze the ball for the final two minutes, and Walker sunk two free throws with four seconds left in the game for the victory.

BC nipped the Friars at last in 1967, but this one point victory was tainted slightly when Walker fouled out with three minutes to go and the Friars in the lead by a couple of points. The Eagle mastery continued into 1968, but BC was considered an Eastern power, while the Friars were just barely considered a Rhode Island equal. We got drubbed twice. Then last year, in perhaps the game of this series, the Friars dropped a heart-breaker in overtime.

So the Eagles have a four game winning streak on us, and while this coming encounter may have some of the previous atmosphere removed, with the departure of both Cousy and Mullaney, the precedent has been set, and the game is bound to be one of the hardest fought games for either side this year.

Chuck Daly is the new Eagle head mentor and he inherited quite a few returning lettermen. This appeared to imply a successful season for Daly and his charges. Not really. Terry Driscoll was responsible for most of the success Boston College enjoyed last season, and though the players that have returned are seasoned in pressure games, they aren't quite good enough for the Eagles to repeat 1969's accomplishments.

Boston College is not a big team. Their tallest starter is skinny 6'7" Frank Fitzgerald, but it's obvious he wasn't a meat and potato man when he was a kid. The Eagles will depend on 6'5" Tom Verraneau for the rebounding, but he won't have much help. BC was expecting big things from Bob Dukiet. The 6'4" guard was injured last year, after a fine soph season, but thus far he has contributed nothing to the Eagle cause. Jim O'Brien and Pete Sollene, a sub for two years, are the main point producers, but they have nowhere near the explosiveness of Larranaga, Collucci and Wilkins. Don Lewis could destroy either on defense.

It looks like a win at last for PC. Neither squad will go into the game over-confident, but at least the Friars have the home court advantage. For the seniors here, it's imperative that the Friars win. Just ask any cadet or midshipmen from Army or Navy who never saw his team whip the other in that annual service grid clash in his four years.

Sharpshooters . . .

(Continued from Page 8)
Have been given big boost by Charlotte Invitational, Dec. 29 and 30, and while this tourney isn't nearly as prestigious as the Friars' favorite Holiday Festival, the competition in the four team field is quite formidable . . . PC meets an improving Syracuse quintet in the opening round . . . If the Friars get by the Orangemen, they will meet the Holy Cross-Davidson winner . . . chances are it will be the Wildcats . . .

Friars participate in the Charlotte Invitational, Dec. 29 and 30, and while this tourney isn't nearly as prestigious as the Friars' favorite Holiday Festival, the competition in the four team field is quite formidable . . . PC meets an improving Syracuse quintet in the opening round . . . If the Friars get by the Orangemen, they will meet the Holy Cross-Davidson winner . . . chances are it will be the Wildcats . . .

Pucksters . . .

(Continued from Page 8)
fened and so did their own scoring as Jean Boisland scored on assists from Sampson and Pumple, then Marchetti let loose from the point for a 6-4 margin from Leschyshyn and Collard.

As the third period started the Friars continued to show some good play, but most often were forced to play the sloppy style of the Tigers. Rounding out the scoring for the Friars: Gaffney at 5:49, Pumple at 10:54 and Leschyshyn at 17:17. Leschyshyn has been having some great games of late for the Friars and has to be the most underrated man on the squad. He had a great freshman year and always gets the job done, and many fans do not realize how good he, and some other less known players, are.

So Saturday on to UNH and one of the most confident Friar squads I have seen here in four years were up for a big win. In the first period the Friars were just doing that and it looked as though they could ride home with a win but suddenly the course of the game changed. Pumple put the Friars out ahead at 0:58 on assists from Gaffney and Boisland and after UNH scored, Bosco let loose a blazer at 9:42 from Pumple and Leschyshyn.

The score stood 2-1 in favor of the Friars when Pumple was suddenly down in center ice holding his face. A five minute major penalty was given to UNH for drawing blood as Pumple slowly got up. He came out on his next turn and showed no ill signs.

Then came the frightening moment with less than four minutes left in the opening period on a pass coming out from the side of the Friar cage to Pumple in the neutral zone. Pumple racing to the left to get the puck was looking in the Friar end and never saw defenseman Davis slide in the same direction to block the pass out and they collided with Pumple immediately throwing his gloves and stick aside under excruciating pain. Pumple was finally restrained and ushered off in a stretcher. The news finally came in the second period that he had indeed broken his right leg, and until observation revealed a broken nose in the hospital, no one knew of that injury.

Now UNH who had seen beautiful and masterful skating by Pumple took command of the game in the middle of the second period. After Frigon scored on the power play, Eric "Luke" Dixon came back for the Friars from Leschyshyn at 5:43. Approximately at the ten minute mark UNH turned the tide and even though sophomore Brian # Examination Schedule . . .

(Continued from Page 6)
Chemistry 121—Mr. Rerick—Joseph 002
Chem. 211—Mr. Rerick—Joseph 002
Econ. 303—Mr. Noel—Harkins 001
Eng. 205—Mr. Pearson—Harkins 311
Eng. 407—Mr. McCrorie—Harkins 217
Ger. 203—Fr. Schmidt—Harkins 221
His. 101—Fr. Hinnebusch—Albertus 100
Ital. 401—Mr. Scotti—Harkins 220
Math. 101—Fr. McKenney—Harkins 214
Math. 131—Mr. Bernard—Harkins 300
Math. 423—Mr. Schultz—Harkins 215

Phil. 311—Fr. Morry—Library 101
Phil. 325—Fr. T. Peterson—Harkins Auditorium
Phys. 110—Mr. Gilbert—Harkins 216
Phys. 304—Mr. Gora—Harkins 219
Rel. Stud. 301—Mr. Thomson—Harkins Auditorium.
Sci. 101—Mr. Jones—Joseph 001
2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.
Art. 301—Mr. Leopizzi—Library 109
Biology 201—Mr. Fish—Albertus 100
Chem. 399—Mr. Belliveau—Albertus 018
Computer Sci. 303—Mr. Krzyz—Harkins Auditorium

Econ. 201—Mr. Noel—Harkins Auditorium
Educ. 201—Mr. Sullivan—Harkins 226
Eng. 101—Mrs. Seigle—Harkins 219
Eng. 205—Miss Jacqueline—Harkins Auditorium
Eng. 405—Mr. Barbour—Harkins Auditorium
Eng. 413—Mr. Hanley—Harkins Auditorium
French 201—Mr. Coyle—Harkins 215
German 401—Mr. Rosenwald—Harkins 216
Russian 103—Mr. Flanagan—Harkins 217
Soc. 201 (Soc. Majors)—Mr. Scott—Harkins 311

Friar Offensive Explodes As Hoopsters Press On

By JOE DELANEY

"The rebounding in the first half was good, but I still don't feel that we played the press tonight as well as we can." These were the thoughts of Coach Dave Gavitt as his Friars proved to the Terriers of St. Francis that you can't score without the ball. The result was a 107-72 victory for the Friars fourth straight win.

Providence, which went over the century mark for the third time this season to match the exploits of the '62-'63 N.I.T. champions, will next meet the Bruins of Brown University in a televised game on Thursday night.

Although Coach Gavitt thought his team played great in the second half, the verdict was decided in the first stanza.

With the torrid shooting of guard John Conforti, center Earl Roberts, and forward Jim Sullivan continually denting Providence's combination defense, the Brooklynites were within two points of the Friars, 23-21, with eight minutes to go in the half and making things quite sticky for the home forces.

At this juncture, the Friars went into their full court press. With the press visibly bothering the visitors and causing them to make numerous turnovers, Providence went on a 17-2 spurt mainly on the deadly shooting of Jim Larranaga, Vic Collucci, and Ray Johnson to open up a 15 point advantage with six minutes left.

The Friars gradually built up their lead and went off at the half ahead by twenty points, 56-36, despite the fact that St. Francis shot a blistering 66 percent from the field.

Sullivan, Conforti, and Lou Dottrina kept the Terrier deficit even in the second half until the 11 minute mark of the half when Dottrina, who pushed his weight around the board area all night, picked up a useless technical foul.

It was at this point that Gary Wilkins personally put the New Yorkers away for good. Hitting the boards hard and dribbling a la Jimmy Walker, Wilkins poured 12 points through the hoop within two minutes to put the Friars up by 30 points with more than seven minutes left, 84-54.

Gavitt mercifully put the reserves in at this point and they proceeded to keep the blitz on. With Junie Ferro getting six buckets on long one-hand bombs and Mike Hagen and Dennis Walsh hitting up close, the Friars continually led the determined Terriers by 34-35 points.

Dottrina managed to keep things exciting for the fans as he almost engaged in two different fights with Hagen and

A bird watcher? No, it's another amazing Wilkins pass.

—COWLphoto by Frank Toher forward Mike McGuinn as the Friars won laughing.

Hardcourt Facts and Figures

Coach Gavitt was especially pleased with the rebounding of Wilkins, the shooting of Collucci and the fine overall performance by Larranaga . . . Ray Johnson, who had a good night foul-wise and on the boards, took over the team bound lead with a 10.8 average, as compared to a 9.8 average for Larranaga . . . The starting five averaged 79 points for the third time this year . . . Larranaga is the scoring leader with 20.0 average as compared to 19.8 averages for Collucci and Wilkins . . . Friars outrebounded the Terriers 53-24 . . .

Brown comes in Thursday night and is greatly improved over last year . . . Won two of first five . . . Last season they won three in 24 ball games . . . (Continued on Page 7)

Hoop Seasons For Students Begin Action

Intramural and dorm league play is under way and the entrees of Bob Brown figure prominently in both circuits.

New Jersey A, Brownie's intramural power, is off to a good start in its first games as well as the defending champs, the mighty Mets from the Metropolitan Club. Both teams have marvelous talent, the Mets being led by All-League guard, Brian Dobbins, Denny 'Bear' Gorman, Jack Donohue and Skip Lenszycki. The powerful Jerseyites are headed by Brown, Dave Milinowicz, Emile Molinare and Jay Conway. Expected to compete for the crown are the Waterbury Rat Pack, a 48-39 victor over Upstate New York in its opening game.

In the dorm league, Brownie the Dynasty Builder has assembled great personnel under one unit, the Diddlers. Brownie recruited big Charley Crawford, a freshman sitting out the frosh hoop season, Milinowicz, Conway and John Donohue. The Diddlers are 2-9, but they had a tough one Monday, beating Jack Scanlon's Treks, 57-53.

The Freeps, runners-up last year, are 2-0 and will challenge for the title once again. They defeated the Mystic Nights of the Sea, a Bill Mullin production, 57-48. Brian Dobbins' late game scoring offset a fine shooting night by the 6'7½" Mullin. The Mystics are 2-1 and could still figure in the race.

Jimmy Larranaga drives underneath Terrier baseline for two more points in Saturday's victory.

—COWLphoto by Bill Sullivan

Icemen Split Two Tilts; Pumple Injury Tough Blow

By JOHN O'REILLY

The PC pucksters split two games the past week, a 9-5 conquest over Princeton, and a 7-3 loss to New Hampshire on the road, but the biggest loss of them all was not reflected in any of the scores.

The Providence College hockey picture for the remainder of the season now has been changed due to key injuries. In earlier season action Coach Lamoriello lost his star defenseman Brian Smiley who is now recovering from a shoulder operation—this injury hurt the overall power and capability of the Friar defense.

The disheartening blow of the season came this Saturday as the Friar sextet traveled to Durham, New Hampshire, to take on the Wildcats of UNH. Rich Pumple, star center and All-American candidate for the Friars suffered a broken leg toward the end of the first period, and will be lost indefinitely.

Thursday, the Friars home contest with the Princeton Tigers was shifted to Adelard Arena in Woonsocket. The Friars handled the lackluster Tigers from Princeton, New Jersey, by a 9-5 margin but took the better part of two periods to do so. Out of five contests the Friars have scored in the opening minutes but immediately follow with a defensive lapse and, boom, the opposing squad ties the game.

This happened at the Mount; Pumple scored at the 0:18 second mark from Sampson but Princeton came back at the 2:06 mark. The first period eventually ended up in a three tie and the Friars skated into their locker room wondering why the Tigers even scored. The other two goals in the period were by the ever hustling Mike Leonard at 5:20 from Chris Ciceri who was playing his first varsity game after injuring his leg in pre-season play. Dixon tallied his second mark of the season on a beautiful feed by Jerry Leschyshyn and Glenn Collard at 19:40.

In the game Coach Lamoriello unveiled a new line of Bosco-Dixon and Leschyshyn and what a trio. The Friars came storming out of their locker room in the second period and at the 1:37 mark Tony Bosco scored his second goal of the season from Leschyshyn and Dixon. Ciceri, who was flying over the ice reinjured his knee and it looked as though he would be out of action for a while, but he came back well at UNH after sitting out the third period against the Tigers. Princeton tied the score 4-4 a minute later.

But the Friar defense stifled (Continued on Page 7)

Tony Bosco pushes the puck home vs. Princeton

—COWLphoto by Tom McGuire

Brown and Hussey

Courtside

LSU - USC: No stopping Pistol Pete this year despite USC's impressive start. Pete wants a Madison Square Garden invite in March. LSU.

Providence - Brown: The Friars roll over their crosstown rivals. Providence.

Villanova - Penn: The Quakers start in their quest for the "Big Five" crown. Penn.

Holiday Festival: Good field headed by Purdue, Cincinnati, and Boston College. Rick Mount leads the way for the Boilermakers. Purdue.

Quaker City: Philly teams dominate this event. Villanova wins in its own backyard. Villanova.

Kentucky Classic: Kentucky wins its own tournament for the umpteenth time. Kentucky.

Charlotte Invitational: PC stuns the Davidson Wildcats while Holy Cross and Syracuse battle it out for third place. Friars.

Top Ten

- 1 UCLA.
- 2 Kentucky.
- 3 Davidson.
- 4 New Mexico St.
- 5 South Carolina.
- 6 Columbia.
- 7 Dayton.
- 8 USC.
- 9 Purdue.
10. (tie) North Carolina, Notre Dame, Ohio State.