Granato’s Opening Address

After meeting with Fr. Peterson on several occasions in the past year, I am struck by the fact that a unity of ideas exists between the Congress and the President of the College. It seems that an atmosphere of cooperation is no longer a student “pipe dream,” but a reality.

At our first meeting, Father and I agreed upon immediate action in several very important areas. For one, a committee to discuss the revision of the Counseling Center. This Committee will hopefully explore new programs which would make the Counseling Center more than a placement and clinical counseling office. We agreed that the counseling center has many possibilities other than the latter which could be very beneficial to the student body.

Details on this Committee will be forthcoming. In the near future, a recommendation will be forthcoming in this area.

Father Peterson also discussed his plans for a reorganization of the direction and future goals of the College. This again would involve student participation in the actual mapping out of these projections. Discussion also has centered around the problems confronting Raymond Hall cafeteria. The acquisition of recreational facilities for the student, the institution of various new security changes on Campus, the possibility of a student security operation in Slavin Center, and last but not least, the possibilities of a Faculty evaluation in the area of Rank and Tenure.

On Thursday of last week, an informal gathering of the Student Congress, Board of Governors and the Cowl Staff was held at the President’s house. Father Peterson opened the meeting with an announcement of the new policy changes enacted over the summer. His first remarks centered around the new parietal hours and the approval; by the Corporation, of a proposal to seat a student representative on the Corporation. For the first time, a student of Providence College will be allowed to sit with full membership privileges on this body. Provisions were also made to seat a junior member or apprentice member on the Corporation. The apprentices would have the power of voice but would not be able to vote. Details of the method of election and succession will be forthcoming in future editions of the Cowl.

I might add, however, that I feel this step is of great importance in the area of Student representation, and I wish to thank Fr. Peterson and all those involved in the work to attain this position.

Discussion with Fr. Peterson on these matters along with the announcements he’s made have given me cause to look to the coming year with great optimism. As long as this spirit of working together exists I am sure that great strides will be made in all areas of concern.

Fr. Peterm in stresses “Planning”

As many students have probably already noticed, the number of registered residents has considerably increased this year. In fact, the 1330 dormitory students occupy all but 10 of the available 1345 spaces. There is an increase of 270 in comparison to last year.

In anticipation of the increased enrollment, the administration left the housing situation in the hands of the Director of Residence’s Office. Giving them the option of exercising a cut-off point. According to Col. Andrew DelCorso, Assistant Director of Residence, everyone who requested a room, including transfer students, was accommodated, and applications were still being accepted as late as August 23. Temporary housing was needed for 15 of the residents, but as of last Friday only 2 remained in such, and they are expected to be permanently housed by the end of this week.

One of the problems of having so many on campus is the lack of flexibility, especially with male residents. Incomparable roommates may find it harder procuring better living conditions.

Repairs were undertaken on a large scale in Joseph Hall. Roughly over $90,000 was spent (Nic. A. returns if you will recall) putting in new floors, refurbishing bathrooms, and painting the walls. Other dormitories have also undergone changes.

The summer vacation has gone, and in September nine students will be on their way to a new year’s experience. Welcome back to Providence College.

As you know well, college is a place to learn and grow. You have the opportunity with which you have been endowed to choose your own course of action and control your own concern in your learning process. But learning and growing will not be confined to the classroom and the library alone. Learning and growing are a part of a total process. There are many opportunities for students to make college life more than a book and classroom experience. Through participation in the Student Congress, the Board of Governors, and the Dormitory Councils, students will have the opportunity to participate in the administration and faculty in forming policies which govern the student body. This year, the organization and success of the Student Congress, and the Board of Governors, will be very important personal achievements that have been realized.

The Congress will meet weekly, on campus, usually at the Alumni cafeteria. A very important personal achievement has been laying fall since last March. Speaking of Raymond Tirone who is presently the student representative on the committee on Residence Life, Larry Tirone is a member of the class of 74. He has served the student body in many ways. For two years Tirone has been a class representative. Previously, he was a chairman of the student bill of rights committee as well as a student administrator.

Faculty Elects Senators
Among the excitement of post­ season basketball play and the insanity of final exams, one seemingly minor event the faculty senate elections slipped passed campus attention virtually un­ noticed last semester. A slate of candidates led by the then in­ cumbent senate president, Dr. Miner, was resoundingly routed by a slate of liberal independents led by such notables as John F. Hennedy of the English depart­ ment and Mario DiNunzio of the History department. All of the fourteen at large seats were captured by the independant candidates. Others on the newly elected slate included: Brian M. Barbour, English; Richard Grace, English; James F. Duffy, English; Neil T. Romans, Political Sci.; Arthur Jackson, Philosophy; Richard A. Lambe, Psychology; Francis P. McKay, Chemistry; Stephen J. Mecca, Physics; Norman R. Noel, Economics; James J. Tattersall, Math.; Thomas L. Fallon, O.P. Relig. Studies; and Laurence Gouge.

Presently a petition is being drawn up to convene a meeting. The most likely date of the first meeting will be October 3.

Heavy Thunderstorms
Inflict Water Damage

by J. Nowakowski

An explosive afternoon thunderstorm caused extensive flooding Thursday in and around the Providence area. The storm was triggered off when the leading edge of a cold front collided with the hot humid air that had kept most of New England in the worst heat wave of the summer. According to the Providence Journal, the storm had caused some of the worst flooding in Providence and Pawtucket since the hurricane of 1954, dumping 2.09 inches of rain in two hours. The storm also caused a power failure when lightning struck power lines and an electric company substation in North Providence. Nearly 3,000 people, including Providence College, were without power for more than an hour. The extent of the damage inflicted on Providence College was negligible. Slight flooding occurred in Hawkins Hall and Slavin Center, but according to Mr. Cardillo, the head of the maintenance department, the storm was really nothing to worry about. It’s just that the storm backed up under the tugid run-off that the storm produced. The flooding really meant was a few extra hours of mopping up.

Effective as of September 7, 1973, Henry Golembeski has resigned as President of the Board of Governors. Consequently, as Vice-President of Programming, I have decided to take office as President, effective September 9. With the experience of my position ahead of me, I feel I can give the leadership and direction that is needed. The B.S.G. has strong potential for interpreting the needs of the campus and expressing them in a balanced program which will be appealing but balanced. I plan to implement the needed changes that are necessary to realize this goal.

In future issues of The Cowl I will state B.O.G. policies and goals.

CHAPLAINS WELCOME
Freshman Class

The Cowl has generously offered me the opportunity to welcome back the classes of ’74, ’75 and ’76 and to introduce for the first time the class of ’77. On behalf of myself and the other chaplains, Fr. Di Noia and Fr. Quigley, I do so. It is good to have you all here.

Copies of the religious activities schedule have been placed in your mail boxes and on various bulletin boards around the campus. In addition to what is listed there, the Charismatic Prayer Group meets on Thursday evenings at 7:30 p.m. in Aquinas Chapel.

We do need people to help us with the liturgy: singers, musicians, readers. If you can help, please come to a short meeting on Thursday, Sept. 13 at 7 p.m. in the Slavin Center. Room 217.

Fr. Di Noia, Fr. Quigley and myself are available in our offices or rooms for counseling, advice, listening. So, if we can be of any help, don’t hesitate to call or stop by. Have a good year!

WOMEN’S LIASON COMMITTEE ENSHANCED
To a request made by President Thomas R. Peterson O.P. last January, the Women’s Liaison Committee has been established in order to provide communication between the Office of the President and the women on campus. The members of the committee elected by the student body are: Ms. Helen Bert, Mrs. Sally Cusheh, Ms. Jane Lee, Ms. Donna McCaffrey, and Sr. Leslie Strab. The two students who were selected and have agreed to serve on the committee are:

- Student Congress
- NSA Member

This year, the PC Student Congress will be a member of the National Student Association, a national organization for student government heads. Through the NSA, PC students have been offered a life insurance program which can continue through age 33. While the SC has not handled the program like the CNA accident and health plan, we do feel, that all students should have some type of insurance coverage while they are in school.

The NSA sent out information this summer, with the approval of the SC, to most of the student body, but if you did not get their brochure and are interested, please contact anyone in the SC office. They will give you the phone number and address of the NSA, who will help you. If any students are interested in the NSA, please contact Fr. Di Noia, Fr. Duffy’s office, as the SC does not handle the program.

The first project on the Women’s Liaison Committee’s agenda is a get-acquainted gathering for all campus women. This will be held on Wednesday, September 19, in Aquinas Lounge between 3:00 and 5:00 p.m. This meeting will hopefully let students know that the women faculty and administrative members are interested in the problems of students, realizing that they share a number of mutual issues. The afternoon will serve as a sounding board for students, who will be able to make use of their computer and research facilities, as well as attend any and all of the above meetings, as well as the student lobby.

PCYGC Seeks New Members

It is possible for one to know where he is at present and still be lost. If the person wasn’t sure of where he was going then, yes, he would be lost. Lost in a sense, not knowing his abilities or his limitations. He may not know how to help himself, to help others. There are many opportunities around for forming such relationships.

One such opportunity, right here on campus, is the Big Brothers and Sisters Organization, formally known as the Providence College Youth Guidance Club. The aim of the Big Brothers-Sisters is to provide friendship, and through this guidance, build better relationships for the children of the O’Rourke Children Center. These children are in desperate need of help. Their situations are almost always sad and usually chaotic. The greatest danger they face is that of living in a state institution from day to day. They are in danger of not caring even for themselves. Many already are close to this.

How can I do to help myself, to help others? What will do in the future? What type of career will I enter?

Many already are close to this. Without a doubt, the amount of resources available for Peterson’s office’s use to help needy students has received serious challenges from Nation’s fiscal situation. Indications are that education will remain low on the present Administration’s priority list for allocation of federal money.

Fr. Peterson’s optimism stems from his trust that many PC students will not necessarily be affected by aid reductions, if his office can analyze each student’s education case early in the year. With an accurate analysis can come sharp planning for the student’s rescue from a possible premature termination of matriculation at PC. In the future near a more detailed account of the financial aid situation will appear in this newspaper.

The Committee’s statement of purpose is as follows: “In this transitional phase of the co-educational development of the college, we are a temporary committee whose function is to keep the readers of the many dimensions of the role of the student body. The committee has been elected by the Women Faculty, and Women administrators, to request made to Rev. Thomas R. Cooney for a liaison committee to the president. Our concerted efforts will be directed ultimately to the well-being of the entire college community.

MEMO FROM THE EDITOR

"Welcome Home"

Just a week ago, Providence College awoke from its annual summer siesta. With sun-tanned spirits and renewed energies, we return now to our offices, our dorms, our classrooms, our home.

This is a time for rest, for reflection, for growth. We have prepared ourselves with the strength necessary for chores of the year. Long before summer deep in the heart of our community, we pledged that this year's Cowl will fulfill its responsibility as the bearer of information and analysis about our community. A vehicle, which perhaps alone, can reach, affect and direct every facet of Providence College. The Cowl this year will realize its responsibilities. We have the internal structure with which to reach this goal. We need, however, manpower. The task is a hard one. It will require patience and hard work before we can accomplish our job successfully. Every individual at Providence College will be called upon to participate. We trust that our call to action will be answered.

To many, the term "Home" does not, and could never, be used for Providence College. Before its fullest potentials are actualized as an institution of higher learning, though, and, more, as a community, Providence College has to become the Home of all affiliated with it.

Anticipating our goal in full confidence, we offer to all: "Welcome Home."

Sincerely,

Denis Kelly

Farewell

The Editorial Board and staff of The Cowl join with all of Providence College in wishing those participating in this year's Junior-Year-Abroad program a warm Bon Voyage. We all hope that your year in Europe will be educational, but more, enjoyable and full of new influence and adventures. Let us look forward to frequent correspondence with you until your return, and more, sharing in your growth upon your return.

Cooperation

A unified student voice is a necessary condition for the implementation of student goals. It is in this spirit that the Cowl will be directed. The Student Congress and the Student Administration, which are the only forum for student self-expression, will be closely related to the progress that has been made in policy areas of the college. The key word is progress.

This year the Cowl will work closely with the administration, the student congress, and the faculty senate not only to promote student interests hut also to make the reader as they are. The Cowl should and will be the active voice of the college community. Each of the three body's have been joined in an alliance to facilitate good journalistic investigation. I feel that a far greater degree of credibility will be established with this type of organization. The Cowl's goal is to become not only a student voice but a college newspaper.

The first area of concern is the student congress. This edition is the result of a cooperative effort between Cowl reporters and student government people. I hope that many questions are answered.

The second area of concern deals with the administration. Editors of the Cowl have already met with the President. He has expressed his willingness to be of service to the college community in any way he can. He has reassured both the Office of the President and the Office of the Editor that his office and his mind will be open and ready to cooperate. It is with good faith that this statement was made; I only hope that in this instance becomes a reality.

The faculty senate is our third area of concern. In the past, the senate has been less helpful as a community sponsor. Hopefully this year an honest attempt will be made to respond to the students' right to know. Every student on this campus realizes the faculty members' role as one-government people. I hope that many questions are answered.

The following is a statement released to the Cowl by the Providence College Board of Governors which will present "Jacques Brel is Alive and Well and Living in Paris" performed by the Alive Company.

"We wish to publicly thank and commend Father Peterson for his actions concerning student representation on the Committee on Administration and the Corporation, security revisions, and the changes in the parital structure.

These are progressive strides for Providence College, allowing greater student representation and participation in policy making and expanding the individual student's freedom. It is our sincere hope that the good will now exist between the Administration and the Student Congress will continue."

Respectfully,

Executive Board
Student Congress

Locked In

As an unfortunate consequence of the new perimeter security fence in front of Alumni Hall, leaving campus is as difficult as entering. People leaving campus after locking-up time and intending to go toward Admiral Street must walk to the Power Plant pedestrian gate which may or may not be open. If closed the detergent for those who cannot or do not want to jump the fence and are in the626 Kensington Avenue. If this situation is unintentioned as The Cowl presumes some accommodation seems in order. A longer closing time or a "subway ext- only" would be a situation in front of Alumni Hall and simply leaving the Power Plant pedestrian gate open at all times would not reduce campus security significantly.

Let's Bring Back

Several years ago there was a publication on campus known as the Student Directory containing both home and local addresses and telephone numbers of all day school undergraduates. The Cowl feels that it would be a good idea to revive this directory. With increasing enrollment and wider geographical representation coupled with the demise of regional clubs it has become increasingly less likely for people who come from the same area to meet one another.

Mr. Murphy, Alumni cafeteria operated at a deficit also last year. The only unknown factor is how much money will be lost.

Other difficulties are hindering the smooth operation of the food services department. Mr. Murphy stated that the best way to do this is through a food committee. A committee of elected students supported by the Carolan Club, had been in operation until last May, but it is now defunct. Mr. Murphy commented that he would have to cut his normal stock of food by the wholesaler is holding back on big orders for fear prices will rise in the future. Mr. Murphy must buy by the month and in some cases by the week.

In addition to this problem, there is the problem of employee wages. This year, according to Mr. Murphy, every employee in the food services department received a raise and additional fringe benefits. Also every student employed by the food services department is receiving $1.80 per hour instead of the minimum $1.60.

It was learned that students could get undesirable items off the menu simply by discussing them with officials of the food services department. Mr. Murphy stated that the best way to do this is through a food committee. A food committee of elected students sponsored by the Carolan Club, had been in operation until last May, but it is now defunct. Mr. Murphy commented that he would have to change any unwanted item on the menu after discussion with a food committee and after another item in the same price range as that of the undesirable item is agreed upon.

It was noted that a food committee would not only benefit students, but also benefit officials of the food services department in that there would be less waste and subsequently less money lost.

Free Student Book Co-op Successful

by Mary McKee

Apathy at P.C.? Possibly. But what would you say if I told you about a small group of people who, for no personal gain, devoted their time to a student service. The Student Book Co-op was their project to buy used books for a course. You have to scan the lists scattered around campus until you find what you want. Then you have to track down the owner of the books and complete the transaction. It's been my idea for some time that a book co-op could organize this process and make things a lot easier for both buyer and seller. Finally, with the financial backing of the Student Congress, the idea became a reality.

While you were enjoying those last six weeks of summer Barbara Jackson and myself were sticking address labels, stuffing envelopes and sorting by zip code the 2,000 letters that were sent to all upperclassmen. This semester we had planned to just test the coop. The response we received truly amazed us. Last Thursday we set up a table in Slavin Center. The volume of sales was TREMENDOUS.

What appears to me to be the most significant aspect of the co-op was the cynical attitude of some students. I suppose that after you've competed to get into college you're more than willing to do anything to cut your expenses. The only unknown factor is how much money will be lost.

Other difficulties are hindering the smooth operation of the food services department. Mr. Murphy stated that the best way to do this is through a food committee. A food committee of elected students supported by the Carolan Club, had been in operation until last May, but it is now defunct. Mr. Murphy commented that he would have to change any unwanted item on the menu after discussion with a food committee and after another item in the same price range as that of the undesirable item is agreed upon.

A Freshman Viewpoint

Summer Orientation

by David Plamondon

The basic concept of a Freshman orientation, especially a summer orientation program, is to provide an atmosphere where conversation and interaction of feelings and ideas reduce the anxiety and fear of the totally new college environment. Since orientation occurs at the beginning of the summer rather than during the first few days of school saved many freshmen a good deal of worry as well as making the first few days of school a little saner.

A sensitivity on the part of those in charge on the program (especially the students) and the involvement of the freshmen themselves, not the actual planned activities, are what made the program successful during summer. In the end it was the trip to Brad's, the conversation in the Pit, and especially the talks with upperclassmen that did more for the student than any other discussions with the Chaplain or Father Heath.

It is quite likely that one could be driven to either help or hurt the scope of a program. A student tour is only a campus tour and there is nothing that will make one particularly interested, but by keeping down the same token a tour remains a source of confusion and conflict for the freshmen.

Activities that seemed quite busy bordered on the student some insight giving on a higher rate. It seemed that what finally emerged from two days of orientation was a functional working knowledge of life at Providence College, and something that goes a little deeper in general feeling of what P.C. is all about.

Elections Schedules

The first meeting of the class of 77 will convene on Wednesday, September 19th at 8:00 p.m. in Slavin Center. At that time Kurt Forrester, chairman of the freshman class will lead the discussion of upcoming class elections.

Elections play an important role in the college community. They are a means of determining class goals and direction, the president, vice president, and student body president, in addition to the three class councils. The position of social chairman is one devoted exclusively to class activities.

During the week of Sept. 17th and the first of the month, students will be nominating for office those individuals they judge to be best suited for the task of class leadership. Each candidate must submit a nomination card with a minimum of fifty and maximum of sixty signatures to show classmates' support of his candidacy.

The official campaign period is restricted to days September 23rd and 24th. During that time each person can run five signs, but any flyers or mass produced materials are not allowed. Student-produced news staffs are available to discuss their campaign and other information.

The lowspot of an enjoyable two weeks is the responsible approach that one looks forward to the assembly and class in general, and the results are alloted three minutes each. Election date is scheduled for Wednesday, September 26th from 9:30 to 11:00 a.m. in the lower level of the Slavin Center. During this time each class can be a personal growth experience but all students need to be present at a vital campus community. No matter what your own talents may be in heading or being led. Support your class.

We invited a few friends for dinner and they helped clean up the Genesee River.

With the aid of a few thousand pounds of microorganisms, we're helping to solve the water pollution problem in Rochester. Maybe the solution can help others.

What we did was to combine two processes in a way that gives us one of the most efficient water-purifying systems private industry has ever developed.

One process is called "activated sludge," developed by man to accelerate nature's microorganism adsorption. What this means is that for the majority of wastes man can produce, there is an organism waiting somewhere that will happily assimilate it. And thrive on it.

The breakthrough came when Kodak scientists found a way to combine the activated sludge process with a trickling filter process and optimized the combination.

We tested our system in a pilot plant for five years. (At Kodak, we were working on environmental improvement long before it made headlines.) And the pilot project worked so well, we built a ten-million-dollar plant that can purify 36 million gallons of water a day.

Governor Rockefeller called this "the biggest voluntary project undertaken by private industry in support of New York State's pure-water program."

Why did we do it? Partly because we're in business to make a profit—and clean water is vital to our business. But in furthering our own needs, we have helped further society's. And our business depends on society.

We hope our efforts to cope with water pollution will inspire others to do the same. And, we'd be happy to share our water-purifying information with them. We all need clean water. So we all have to work together.

More than a business.
Dear P.C.,

Remember last fall. A team with an 11-2 record. A team that out­ drew both hockey and basketball in attendance. A team without one player or an athletic scholarship of any amount. Just a group of hard working, devoted people. Yes, if you haven’t guessed, I’m talking about the Providence College Soccer Team.

Last year, the soccer team, under the fine direction of coach Bill Doyle, compiled a record of 11 wins and 2 losses. A young team, it competed against teams much older and more established and was, due to a lot of hardwork and desire. This year, once again a strong team is sure to develop. Led by tri-captains Tim Gilbroce, "X" Manisitz, and Ken Haverty, the team is sure to hold all the strength, talent, and desire it held last year.

One thing it greatly needs is the support the college can give. When there is a friendly, home crowd cheering the team on, the ego and desire of that team is boosted greatly. Last year, that boost was given to the team, and it would be great to see it again. As a Freshman last year, I came as in a very nervous person. What was even more exciting was the greatest help was being a member of the soccer team. The guys on the team were the greatest help I could have found. When I started my Freshman year, I came in with a field of 120 students. I didn’t know in many freshman do, I changed my major. One the problem was that Providence College did not have the field of study I desired. So I am off to another college, and of P.C., I all I have are memories. Not of the "food" I lived on for a year, nor of the cracks in the wall, floors and ceilings of Joe Dorm, not of the good times in the Bat, and of the hangovers the next day. My memories are of the soccer team.
as the great times I enjoyed while being a member of the team. It’s something I will always be pride of. And as a college, you the students, should also be proud of this team. Although I won’t be attending P.C. this coming year, I’ll be down to see some of the soccer games, and I hope to see the same crowds I saw last year.
I do hope there will be more members from the faculty and administration out to see the games. Those that saw the last year have no regrets. I’m, sure. It would be nice to see some of the "big whigs" of the Athletic department out there cheering on the soccer team. After they saw the team, the desire, skill, and coaching they have, then maybe, if luck is with the soccer team if it

Future events are now in the planning stages, and will be an ounced as soon as more in formation is available. There will one again be a girls Varsity baseball team, a volleyball pro gram and several series of intercollegiate classes for the joyment of the young women of P.C. these programs for example will have underway in the next few weeks. Special events will be announced via flyers through the mail boxes and the bulletin board at the center. Mrs. Bert is also enthusiastic about supporting the student cheerleaders. When I started my Freshman year, Mr. Teddy Donnelly at the ticket center, to answer any questions students may have.

Swimming at the Boy’s Club on Rath Avenue, Providence will resume Tuesday, September 18 Transportation will once again be provided by the Center to the pool. The girls will meet at 2:45 p.m. at Mrs. Bert’s office and be returned at approximately 5:00 p.m. Any interested girls may contact Mrs. Bert for more in formation.

Sincerely,
Mike Madden

Veteran Friar Gridders Eager for Season Opener

by Cindy Kranich

The Friar Club football team prepares for the upcoming season.

The future of Club Football on the PC campus was in great jeopardy not many months ago. Positive action by the members of the team, the Athletic Department, maintenance at the college and Student Congress has given Friar Football another chance. The team was in dire need of financial assistance to cover the costs of starting quarterback for the upcoming season. As a club football team they were not eligible for any assistance from the college's funds. Faced with a problem of this size, the team asked for help from private donors. A bail of $500 will take care of program books and contributions from private donors will take care of the remaining balance. The team themselves will sacrifice, as has been the past, to remain together as a playing unit. An advantage for the group, one of the team is "most graciously happy" for, is the fact that after playing for so many years on an "away" field, they are finally coming "home" to Hendricken Field, on the PC campus.

Every September before the regular season, a team begins to regroup and rally losses from graduation. Those not returning this year to the squad are Steve Carstenni, Dave Lambert, Frank McMorrow, and Jay Santos. When a team loses so many fine players, they must regroup. Add to that the disappointing loss last season to the University of Hartford that kept the Friar offense out of the playoffs. There is a great deal of optimism for this season however with a number of key starters returning for another season. A battle for the position of starting quarterback between a much improved Aury "Joe" Licata and three-year starting veteran Brian Carey will highlight the season. John Tavalone, Sal Gulino and Sal Gaiello are three other lettermen returning to boost the Friar offense. Key players for the defense include John "Butkus" Brady, Ted Fitzgerald, Paul Brown and Paul Carrol, to name a few. Richy Kless, John Tavalone and John Brady are the three captains for the 73-74 season.

The coaching staff of this team is one that deserves a great deal of recognition. Though there is the evident lack of equipment and money, Friar teams have placed nationally in rankings for Club football teams. These men, Head Coach Hen Hanewich and his staff, are remarkably inspirational. The outstanding enthusiasm that cannot be beat. Rounding out the coaching staff are Cliff Sherman, Oscar Chelbiato and Kevin Harding. Mr. Bagley and Father Driscoll, also, donate hours of time and energy to the cause. Andy Baines, long time trainer for the football team, among other duties, had to resign this year to devote his full attention to the new skating facility. Club president Gene Harding is responsible for all paper work and programs throughout the season. Admission to all home games will be free to all PC students, a result of the referendum. The games will be played on Hendricken Field adjacent to the baseball diamond. Every year attendance at games has been understandably low due to transportation problems. It is hoped that this year's games on campus will attract more of a showing of student support and ignite a winning spirit in the team.

The Friar Club football team prepares for the upcoming season.

Athletic Committee Report

September 9, 1973

In years past there has been a high level of confusion upon entering each school year as to programs being offered at Providence College. This article is concerned with setting straight the activities offered in the intramural program and the progress being made on our Athletic Council.

In regards to intramurals, this years program shall concentrate on involvement and team competition. For the first semester, the following schedule has been formulated.

Football

Sept. 17 (Nov. 1)

Basketball

Nov. 2 thru March 29

Hockey

Nov. 5 thru March 29

Also there shall be a program offered in swimming, table tennis and volleyball, under the direction of Mrs. Helen Bert, Women's Athletic Director.

In reference to the Student Congress Athletic Council we have started proceedings in relation to its formation and overall function. Its members shall include an Athletic Committee Chairman elected by the student body, who will sit on the Council with full membership privileges; a board appointed by the committee chairman and a representative from each recognized athletic team and club on campus. This Council will have a Student Board whose duties will be to direct the Council's activities and represent all its members before the Student Congress and Athletic Department. The purpose of this Council will be:

a. To act as official representative of all recognized athletic activities regardless of statue.

b. To act as a communicative body between the Athletic Department, Providence College Athletic Council, and the Providence College Community, providing information as to the needs and wants of the various athletic activities.

c. To inform the students of the various outlets and recreational facilities provided by the college for the students use.

These are just a few areas we have concentrated on at this time, however there will be a follow up article in the next Cowl explaining other programs which will be instituted within the fall semester.

Among this season's opponents are NCA.A member, Bridgewater State, a varsity team and some of the top five ranked club football teams. This is a first for the Friars and should prove to be an exciting beginning for a new era of Friar Football.

NEXT WEEK: Friar Football and exclusive interviews.
