PC's Politicians Win: Carter's Win Helped
By Frank Fortin

While Jimmy Carter took the presidential race from Gerald Ford, PC's election hopefuls all had good nights.

Two students, David Cruise, of Cumberland and Mark J. Hayward, of East Providence, RI, won their battles for town positions.

Cruise, who won the primary election, easily won last night, taking the highest vote total out of 11 candidates for the post of town council in the city (4 a.m.). Cruise was definitely elected, with 7,791 votes.

His closest competitor was fellow Democrat Francis H. Stetkiewicz, who garnered 7,663 votes.

Five other candidates, none of them at all closely related to people, were also elected. Three other candidates in that election are also being heard, but await absentee ballot returns to verify those results.

Senior Mark J. Hayward easily won his battle against James Driscoll, 2063-1311, in the non-partisan battle for City Council. East Providence, Ward One. Hayward, who majors in history at PC, was also elected.

Two other PC people who were expected to win last night, confirmed the experts when votes were tallied last night.

Zigmund J. Friedemann, a 21-year-old student at PC, was the easy winner in his battle for state representative in Warwick.

Running for his second straight term last night, 9105, the Democrat defeated his Republican opponent, 251, in the recent election. Friedemann won his first term in 1974 by an equally large多数, and was a shoo-in last night.

A member of the Class of '75, was an easy winner for the post of Town Council in the city of North Providence. Colon, who was the top vote-getter in the city's Democratic primary, won the position of a vigorous door-to-door campaign, again was the highest vote-getter yesterday.

On last night, Colon will be a councilman for District Two in that city, having been elected with Democrat Joseph A. Refino. Colon tallied 2151 votes, Refino 2097, while their closest challenger, Arthur DeScioli, had 1954 votes. DiSilvio is a Republican.

Not only Providence, a heavily Italian city, is also one of the most county. At present, a situation in an already strong Democratic state. The Democratic incumbent unopposed for his post of state representative. A Democrat who is active in city political dealings, won a race against Republican 1844 votes in the South Providence-Ellwood district.

Jimmy Carter won Rhode Island rather handsomely last night, 56 per cent to 44 per cent over Jerry Ford, but it wasn't until 3 a.m. that United Press In- formed that the Georgian a national winner. curls at three, the three major television networks concurred. Carter made his acceptance speech at Plains, Georgia, around 30 this morning, calling for a unified country, and had much praise for Mr. Ford.

Carter's victory was assured when Mississippi, a problem for Mr. Ford, elected Democrat over seven electoral votes to the Georgian. But the race was close enough to that his agency was willing to declare a winner until 50 minutes after that state's voting precincts had reported.

New York's voting machines have been impounded by a court order in time appeared to be a crucial state. By 9:30 p.m. that day it appeared they would not be necessary.

While Carter was making his victory speech, a crowd-at campaign headquarters. Mr. Ford was reported to be happy, thinking he had a chance of victory.

He went to bed, the report said, at 2:15 a.m.

Anthropological Employment:

Look Past Academia
By Gayle Friedman

"It has been estimated that after 1982, at least two-thirds of all Ph.D.'s in anthropology will be forced to find employment outside the traditional academic environment...It is time to rethink the position of an anthropologist in the contemporary world," claims Anthropology Newsletter.

Graduating anthropology majors now have many doors open to them. Formerly, teaching on the university level had been the likely fate for the anthropology student. At present, Ph.D.'s were formerly the ruling class of anthropology majors. As an example, an R.N. degree can lead to a successful career in a variety of fields. As an example, an R.N. degree can lead to a successful career in a variety of fields.

Currently, it appears that opportunities are available for holders of master's degrees.

Sister Leslie Straub, O.P., of the anthropology department in the "exercises of imagination" in the attainment of positions upon graduation. Also, it is generally recom- mended that the interested an- thropologist student pursues a master's degree.

Archaeological jobs, primarily government ones, might be in the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Park and Forest Services, and the Bureau of Land Management, for example.

Assistant agencies, such as UNESCO and the Ford Foun- dation, and missionaries are collaborating with agencies, for instance, the Indian Health Service, the Department of Health, and various cultural affairs of- fices are in additional possibilities. Anthropologists can be located in research centers, museums, Smithsonian Institute, the Library of Congress, an anthropological center in Mexico, in museums, in in- dependently, research in medical and health and nursing, social work, and nutrition. This list includes, in corporates many newly-created positions, plus old, more standard positions.

Frosch Reps

Set Goals
By Carol Persi

The new freshman class president, Richard Kizirian, is making money is our biggest goal. The money will be raised over the latter part of the weekend. Senior Com- misioned, and many others. We think we'll be able to raise money because I think that this is the biggest fundraising we've done in the college. We've been making money for the last two years, and in the past, we've been able to invest the money. We've been able to invest it in student activities, and we've been able to invest it in community service projects. We've been able to invest it in community service projects.

John Piro, vice-president, also commented, "We think it's a good idea to have a strong social group, having served on many of the top executive boards in the school at all times.

See JEWS, Page 9

See ANTHRO, Page 9

See REPS, Page 9

See ANTHRO, Page 9

See REPS, Page 9

See ANTHRO, Page 9
Mast Tale Unfurls

By Ann Corrado

Have you ever really looked at the flagpole erected in front of Harkins Hall? If you have, you might notice that it is actually the mast of a ship. The flagpole is the 60-foot mast from the racing yacht "Resolute," which was the America's Cup defender in 1920 against Sir Thomas Lipton's Class of 1976. The resolution was awarded in memory of the late Exceptional Children, all of '78.

The mast was donated by R.F. Hallaweffer and shipped from the famous Herreshoff boat yards in Bristol, R.I. It was erected in memory of John and Joseph Walsh, who were Providence College students killed in an automobile and electric car crash in April of 1974. They died after returning from a Yale Providence baseball game held in New Haven.

The boys' father worked for the Herreshoff boat yards and built racing yachts.

The mast of the "Resolute" replaces a previous wooden flagpole, which blew down during the September hurricane in 1938. It is believed that the wooden flagpole was also a mast from another of the America's Cup defenders and donated by the same company.

Sonata Recital

Lisa Lancaster, a cellist, and Cynthia Rain, a pianist, will appear at Providence College November 11 in a sonata recital. The program will include Beethoven's First Sonata for Cello and Piano in F, Brahms First Sonata for Cello and Piano in E Minor, and the Prokofieff Sonata No. 2 in D Minor.

The recital will be held in '78 at 8 p.m. Admission is $1.50 for non-students. It is being sponsored by the Board of Governors, the music department, and the Student Affairs Office of Providence College.

Ring Fling Plans Set

The annual Junior Ring Weekend is scheduled for the weekend of November 11, and representatives are excited about the possibilities for the event.

The hoopla starts Thursday, November 11, with a junior class party at Harvey's Copper Galley night club. The music will be provided by No Exit, and will be a form 1 to 1 p.m. Only juniors will be allowed into the party, and IDs are required.

Friday, the annual Ring Weekend Mixer, sponsored by the sophomore class for the junior class, will be held. Two bands, Arrow and Beg, borrow, and steal, will perform. Freshmen and upperclassmen may go, and the entire Union will be used. It will begin at 8 p.m. and end at 1 a.m.

A hockey game between PC and Merrimack College will start things off Saturday. Bid holders will be admitted free, and other students will be admitted for a $1.50 charge.

The big event, the formal dance will be at the Chateau de Ville in Warwick (Rt. 2) from 6 p.m. to 1 a.m. Reporting and pictures may be taken of couples最佳 night for an additional charge.

Beg, Borrow and Steal will again play at the after party, to be held in the Union from 1-3 a.m. There will be a $1.50 cover charge.

Sunday, a Ring Weekend party at Aquinas Chapel will be followed by a brunch in Raymond Cafeteria. A German buffet will wrap things up in front of Slavin. A German band, and German beer will be featured. If the weather is inclement, it will be held in Alumni Cafeteria.

Dance For Charity

If dancing is your thing, then sign up for Providence College's Annual Dance Marathon. This will be a three-day event beginning at 6 p.m. on Friday, February 26, and straight through until Sunday, February 28 at 6 p.m.

The event will last 48 hours and will be held in the Service Building on the Lower Campus. There will be a maximum of 50 couples, so don't hesitate to sign up.

Sign up sheets will be available in the Student Congress office until December 1. This will enable the participants of the marathon to get pledges from relatives and other reliable sources over the Christmas vacation. In order to qualify, a couple must bring in pledges of a minimum of $5 per hour. Two prizes will be awarded:

1. $100 check for that couple bringing in the most money from their pledges.
2. A $100 check for that couple who lasts the longest time (in case of a tie, the money will be equally divided and winners will be chosen randomly).

Though this seems to be a long way off, it is necessary to begin planning and working on this event to assure a success. All proceeds will benefit the Council for Exceptional Children at Providence College, and the Class of '79. More information concerning the marathon will be available in the near future.

Room Grips Investigated

The lifestyles committee of Student Congress wants to find out whether dormitory damage fees levied by Providence College have been unjustly charged. The committee requests that students go to the room in which they lived last year with damage, to see whether repairs were made. If not, send a copy of the bill to the Student Congress Office in care of Patricia Davis, committee chairman.

The bill should have the names of students living in the room last year, the room number, and the work that was done and what was not. The lifestyles committee will then investigate the matter.

Poet Harvey To Read

A poetry reading this Tuesday will feature Providence College's own Frank Hanley of the English Department, at 8 p.m. in Aquinas Lounge.

Lake Linn Perel, co-ordinator of the poetry series, said, "We will entertain all with an exciting selection of dramatic readings."

Admission is free, all are welcome, and wine and cheese will be served.
The Campus Council sits down to its business last Wednesday, Jack Donohue, Center, is this year's coordinator.

Campus Council Cranks Up

The Campus Council, dormant or little-noticed in recent years, is attempting to restore some input into College decisions by seeking a noticed voice, and forceful leadership.

The Council is made up of the leaders from nearly all student organizations on campus. After a two-semester hiatus, Greg Varian of WDOM last year re-initiated active work. A constitution was drawn, and about nine meetings were held to organize the club.

Joseph O'Neill, Student Council coordinator last year, handed over the leadership to John Donahue of the Friars Club this month.

At the first meeting of the new council last Wednesday, Donahue expressed the hope that the Council could get things accomplished. Although he recognized that it had lost its input, he hoped that the group could be some sort of forum for discussion.

The Council is also divided into committees, financial and social. The Financial Committee will meet only twice a year and have not met yet this year.

At the meeting last Wednesday, there was a lengthy discussion concerning new regulations on the Wooden Naval. Father J. T. Smart, Ph.D., assistant director of the Union, said that the rules were drawn up by an advisory board comprised of students and administrators.

Although no decision was made by the Council, it was agreed that some sort of substitution rule would be acceptable. Under this rule, people waiting in line to enter would be allowed in the Naval when space was available. This rule is currently used at the Rathskeller.

A meeting will be held in the future to discuss the problem of Annie Street rowdiness. Donohue said, Meetings are normally held weekly.

WPJB Donates Library

WPJB, the campus radio station, has been receiving over 4000 classical music albums that were donated by WPJB-FM, a Providence station. The donation was arranged by Link Pratts, who has been in the works for many months.

According to Betsy Stachura, classical music director at WPJB, the donation will greatly improve the classical music programming at the station. "Our classical library is now complete. Before this we had some of the more well-known works, but many of them were in bad condition. These new albums cover all phases of classical music and they are in excellent condition."

"These albums comprised WPJB's record library when they were a classical station. In fact, their change in format from classical to rock is what gave us the opportunity to obtain the albums.

Stachura went on to say that WPJB will now be a much stronger force in classical music in Rhode Island. "We're the only station with classical music every day. Monday through Friday from 7:15-9:30 p.m. and weekends from 9:30-11:15 p.m. we broadcast classical music."

"It's not the most popular form of music on this campus, many people enjoy listening and there's nowhere else in Rhode Island where they can hear it."

WDOM also has many other exciting events happening in the near future. Among them are plans to tape live performances from Salt, a Newport nightclub, and broadcast them at later dates. Salt usually features folk or jazz music and has hired performers such as Aztec Two-Steps and Livingston Taylor.

Also with the hockey season fast approaching, the "Voice of Friar Hockey," Tom Foley, will once again be giving live play-by-play coverage of home and away hockey games.

Insurance Policy Available

By Carol Persi

Providence College, since September, has been offering its students an insurance policy. The policy was initiated through the cooperation of the Lumber Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Boston and Student Property Protection, Inc., a New York based insurance firm established in 1974.

This policy is being publicized by the student government of this campus. Even though they are publicizing the policy, they will handle no money, checks and money orders should be made out and sent directly to the Student Property Protections Inc.

For ten dollars, any full-time student living on or off campus can provide with one-thousand dollars of coverage effective anywhere in the world for 12 months. There is a one-hundred dollar deductible provision on each policy for each claim, not each item.

Some of the covered risks are fire, theft, smoke and water damage, explosion, burglary and damage due to collision. This policy does not insure losses and nor damages to personal property already damaged, articles left unattended in an automobile, unless occasioned by mysterious disappearance, loss or damage by gradual depreciation sustained due to any process or while being actually worked upon and resulting thereof, and breakage of articles of brittle nature unless caused by theft or attempted theft.

If an article is lost or damaged, the company has the option to repair or replace it or to pay cash for it, not exceeding its insured value.

If the policy is cancelled at any time, the ten-dollar premium shall be retained by the company.

Some of the articles covered are: stereo, amplifiers, jewelry and furs or any article trimmed with fur.

Students who did not get an application for this policy either during the summer or since September, but are interested in purchasing the policy can get an application either at the Student Congress Office of the Information Desk in Slavin Center.

The coverage takes effect immediately upon receipt of the application with the payment. The coverage continues for a full year.

Big news.

That's 24 ounces of Schlitz in a single pop-top can. Now available locally.

Ocean State Dist., Inc.
Providence, R I
Dorm Equality Not Present

"With the dormitories there will never be an equality, there will be a trade-off."—A member of the Office of Residence

The text of Title IX of the Education Amendments of HEW reads:

1) Transfers of students from one school of higher education to another where the educational opportunities and services available are comparable in quality and cost to the student.

2) Comparable in quality and cost to the student.

Providence College should not settle for a trade-off in this area, especially receiving the same services. The first two plays of the season will be "The Pledge" and "A View from the Bridge," both of which will be produced by director Margaret Mandel. The first production will take place in early December.

THE PCOWL

General Assignment Staff: David Amaral, Dea Antonelli, Marcie Carriker, Judith Cartagena, Jeanne Chretien, Kathy Conniff, Ann Corrado, Kathy Coyle, Sally Corson, Nancy Cutrona, John Scanlon (On Leave), and Jim O’Donnell.

Sports Editor: Mike Callahan, Ned Cumminskey, Mike David, Mark Higgins, Paul Langhammer, John Mullaney, Debbie Novello, and Jim O’Donnell.

Copy Staff: Laura Smith, Cecilia Giron, Peggy Broder, Carolyn Corrielli, and Molly Hennessey.

Layout Staff: Steve Basson, Bill Ahlers, Marie Martinez, Mary Olivia, Philip Rapoport, Caroline Nolan, Laura Smith, Rosemary Murray, and Jay Viccaro.

Photography Staff: Isabelle Taft, Joe Zito, Corey Shaker and Rick Teven.

By Mary Dodge and Joan Healey.

"People have the idea that the only good girls are those who put people on stage without clowns," says Mr. Duggan, "and that's not true." --Joan Hynes

The admission fee for these two plays is $15.00. Student rush tickets are available for $6.50. Student rush tickets should be purchased from the box office during the week of the production.

What to Do In Winter

By Jane Hickey.

What do you do on Saturday and Sunday afternoons now that it’s gotten cold? You could resign yourself to the inevitable fact that you’ll be stuck indoors a lot. Take advantage of some of the free or low-cost activities that are available for you to enjoy.

First and foremost, there’s Newport. Get on 66 South and follow the signs to the most famous beachfront town. The coast is only a few miles away, and the scenery is breathtaking. Newport is a must-see destination for anyone who enjoys the beauty of the ocean.

You could also visit the Newport National Historic Sites, which includes the Rosecliff Mansion and the Claiborne Pell House. These sites are open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and admission is free.

Another option is to visit the Newport Aquarium, which is located on Aquidneck Island. The aquarium is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and admission is $10 per person.

If you’re feeling adventurous, you could take a trip to Block Island. This island is only a short ferry ride away, and it offers beautiful beaches, hiking trails, and water sports. The ferry departs from the Newport Pier every two hours, and the fare is $12 per person.

Another option is to visit the Newport Art Museum, which is located on Childs Street. This museum offers changing exhibits of local and national artists,以及 a variety of special events throughout the year.

If you’re looking for something more relaxing, you could try a spa day at the Newport Spa and Fitness Center. This center offers a variety of services, including massages, facials, and yoga classes.

Finally, you could visit the Newport Public Library, which is located on 300 Fort Street. This library offers a wide variety of books, as well as free Wi-Fi and internet access.

Whatever you choose to do, make sure to have a good time and enjoy all that the Newport area has to offer.
College Security System a Farce?

Dear Editor,

This is to inform my fellow students that the security system at PC wastes their valuable time and efforts hunting out illegally parked cars. Our valiant boys in blue, run by the most infamous R.W. Kret, have been on a rampage, towing any car without a faculty permit, squeezing the sum of $25 out of every victim it seizes upon.

Unfortunately and deceitfully the poor student body is led to believe that the total sum of the fine goes to the towing company. Realistically and secretly the East Side Service Co., which is one of the towing companies that services PC, charges generic only $15 per car they tow. Where does the unaccounted $10 go to, Mr. Kret?

The security department also sees fit to charge $25 if caught parking illegally, even though no charge is given to the low truck to necessary. Where does security

Rules Making
Lifestyles Stifling

Dear Editor,

During the past week, the resident administration has implemented what appears to be a new policy designed to reduce campus social activities. Two changes in particular have caused unease among resident students.

The first was a decision by the College to place a 10:00pm curfew where students are known to engage in recreational activities. This is an unfair restriction on the students' right to participate in healthy, outdoor exercises. The second policy change occurred at the Wooden Naval. By manipulating the Naval's legal seating capacity and shortening its operating hours, the administration has effec-tively destroyed what had been an enjoyable and often festive atmosphere at the Wooden Naval.

This appears to be part of the administration's self-righteous battle against what it considers to be an alcohol problem on cam-pus. Limitations such as these are a threat to the balance between social and academic activities on campus.

No satisfactory reasons have been given for these actions. Perhaps the administration is trying to turn PC into a suitcase college, students study during the week and head elsewhere on the weekend.

Respectfully,
Charles Sakany, 78
Daniel Fitzgerald, 77
McDermott Dorm Council

At the End of a Day, Why Not Pray?

By Father Terry Keegan

What do you do at the end of the day? Why not pray? After a long day of classes, chatter, meetings, meals, sports, study, what does a PC student do? Some go to the Wooden Naval, others to Mural or the Silver Truck. Some call all up to P & J's, turn on the stereo and open the fridge; others go out in search of excitement. This past month another option was available, at least for one night in the week. For each of the four Tuesdays of October a candlelight Mass was celebrated in Aquinas Chapel. On the first Tuesday, at the end of the day, having done all one could, satisfied with successes or discouraged by failures but not tired to do any more, about 50 students gathered in Aquinas Chapel, lit only with candles. It was a quiet time with the Lord, Father Keegan setting the tone with his homily. Each of the following Tuesdays the numbers gradually increased — did they come back? Why did they bring their friends? Because it was a good place to be. In the still of the night, in the quiet candlelit darkness of Aquinas Chapel they ended their day with an act of worship, giving thanks to God in the company of their friends.

Aquinas Chapel is a place many students come to know and love during their years at PC. Sunday evening it is usually packed wall to wall — a community brought together to express and experience its common faith. At other times it is mostly empty. At this time how "70, it is almost unique to see a few students down in the chapel, kneeling, sitting, reading, praying, in silent, private communion with themselves and their God.

We can't have candlelight Masses every night, but the Chapel is open until midnight. We'll be having more candlelight Masses in the future, but in the meantime the Chapel is there. It's a quiet, warm, comfortable place to be, a place to go at the end of the day.

The students seem to pride their musical response just from the way other people present themselves. Here's another case in point: If you saw a girl all dressed to kill on a Saturday night — you know, the bonnet, the hoop, the whole bit — where do you think she'd be going? If you said a Frank Sinatra concert, you'd be right. If you said a Frank Sinatra concert, you'd better take a course in Social Tradition of the '70s.

The odds are that the hot babe is probably going to a wacky, wild and often digesting (just a personal comment) place called a disco. Here at Providence College, the students seem to pride themselves on their musical taste. The Cowl talked to a few undergraduates recently, and asked them about their preferences, etc. Here are some of the answers.

Cheryl Green '78: "Soft, mellow rock like Seals and Crofts or Simon and Garfunkel. Anything's better than Ledge "which they play at PC mixer." Denise Rock '77: "Anything and everything: Sarah Vaughn, Nat King Cole, The Spinners, Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young, to name a few.

Mike McElroy '79: "Fast, moving rock, but I enjoy slow rock at times.

Audrey Fantoz '79: "Jazz and classical Rock, if performed with a classical touch (e.g., Keith Emerson)."

Kathy Supple '78: "Anything that's not too acidy or too mellow: Seals and Crofts, America, Beach Boys; Sergio Franchi as long as he sings in English."

Darice Tiberi '79: "Beatles, Creedence Clearwater, Simon and Garfunkel."

Faith Witty '78: "Music with a sense of rhythm. Tavares is a good example."

Adele Tiberi '79: "Too acidy. Creedence Clearwater, Simon and Garfunkel, America, Beach Boys; Sergio Franchi as long as he sings in English."

Frank Tosi '78: "Music with a sense of rhythm. Tavares is a good example."

Sincerely,
J. Holly Green, '79

PC Music
Yen Diverse

By Steve Mauano

Anyone who has ever asked the question, "Do you like music?" and expected a specific answer has to have just a few inches along the line. The term "music" encompasses so many different things today that it is practically impossible to convey a sense of taste by just proclaiming, "Uh, yeah, I really dig music, man."

Of course, anyone who responds to the question with that particular phrase leaves quite a bit to be desired in the first place. Notwithstanding, musical taste is something which often reflects the individuality and identity of a person.

Certain stereotypes are generalized into a category because of their predictable answers to questions of musical preference.

For example, would you expect to hear the local Mozart devotee; the serious, Pianist-type Joplin major or the long-haired, free-spirited psych major? This is not to say that all bio or psych majors are stereotyped into these categories, nor are they as intolerable.

That's not to say that all bio or psych majors are stereotyped into these categories, nor are they as intolerable. Of course, anyone who has ever asked the question, "Do you like music?" and expected a specific answer has to have just a few inches along the line. The term "music" encompasses so many different things today that it is practically impossible to convey a sense of taste by just proclaiming, "Uh, yeah, I really dig music, man."

Of course, anyone who responds to the question with that particular phrase leaves quite a bit to be desired in the first place. Notwithstanding, musical taste is something which often reflects the individuality and identity of a person.

Certain stereotypes are generalized into a category because of their predictable answers to questions of musical preference.

For example, would you expect to hear the local Mozart devotee; the serious, Pianist-type Joplin major or the long-haired, free-spirited psych major? This is not to say that all bio or psych majors are stereotyped into these categories, nor are they as intolerable.

That's not to say that all bio or psych majors are stereotyped into these categories, nor are they as intolerable.

The serious, Pianist-type Joplin major or the long-haired, free-spirited psych major? This is not to say that all bio or psych majors are stereotyped into these categories, nor are they as intolerable.

That's not to say that all bio or psych majors are stereotyped into these categories, nor are they as intolerable.

The serious, Pianist-type Joplin major or the long-haired, free-spirited psych major? This is not to say that all bio or psych majors are stereotyped into these categories, nor are they as intolerable.
Halloween Party Spooks Union

It's Halloween time again, giving the opportunity to PC students to disgrace themselves with such ridiculous costumes as those here. The winners of the group costume award were a group from Joseph Hall dressed as Ku Klux Klansmen and Sanford's Bees, not to be confused with the bees pictured here. John Nolan and Mike Holt won the award for best twosome, dressed as rocks.

THE BIG APPLE

See New York City and the sights Saturday, Nov. 6, 1976

Visit

★ Museums ★ Plays ★ Famous Restaurants

Tickets $10.00 includes round-trip transportation plus refreshments on the bus.
Also, a list of places to go and a map to help you find your way around.

$5.00 Deposit required with reservations

Reservations available at the BOG Office
Deadline Thursday, Nov. 4
Wednesday, November 3, 1976

Wonder's Latest: A Qualified Gem

By Frank Fortin

It's nearly sacrilege to say anything like "some of what Stevie Wonder does isn't great." But before I start running around about something else, let me say this: Stevie Wonder's new album, Songs In the Key of Life, is one of the best albums of the 1970s--its music is uniformly spellbinding and soothing at the same time, articulate and simple at once. Stevie Wonder's music, today is the best in the business.

But when considering an album, one has to look at the lyrics, too. After all, a good song-writer will spend five times the time writing them that he does thinking about them.

Here, Wonder is less than great. A review of this album in Boston After Dark went so far as to condemn the lyrics for simplicity of vision.

We must give the man a chance. And, at the same time, Wonder must give us a chance. The first song on the album is entitled "Love's in Need of Love Today," a song which, among other things, has its guile, to flag a little.Love is very peaceable. The song, a little "I Wish," is a very singing song, and a great AM song (God knows AM needs something). It's nostalgia for childhood -- simple and straight. Just don't bother.

There are other themes. The other really big one is race relations and race situations. But aren't we supposed to worry about that way anymore? Tell him! There's a great song called "Village Ghetto Land." It runs something like this:

Now some folks say that we should be glad for what we have
Tell me would you be happy in Village Ghetto land
At a minute! Naivete? Guesst again! Maybe not, you say. Well, that's a song which is hard to imagine going through the page on which it is written. It would have to be right through your record and shortcut and expensive stereo system in your comfortable 72-degree room.

Wonder doesn't let us forget about ghettoes. Its not a new subject during this political year of good faith and honest men. Hell, people live on it.

What's really strange is that it follows one of those love songs, "Have a Talk With God," which is your basic Sunday morning gospel. And its preceded by "Love's in Need of Love Today," which I talked about earlier. Two sap songs followed by a sap song through the gut. Good old Stevie Wonder.

But sometimes he goes overboard. "Black Man," an eight-minute lecture on race which is four minutes too long. It could have gotten its point across without the extra minutes. Good old Stevie Wonder.

But, I keep coming back to the music. The album is now playing on my expensive stereo system in my comfortable room, and I just love it. This is the tenth time I've heard the album, and I still go nuts. There's a variety which is possible only when you take two years to put out an album. Wonder did.

There's your basic funk songs, like "I Wish" and "Ordinary Pain," Part II. Then there are classically-influenced songs, like "Pastime Paradise.

This beauty uses strings in the background in steady eighth-note rhythm, with a dissonant harmony which makes one quite happy and -- do you listen!

And then there's "Saturn," which is very hard to describe since it uses tricks from everything. The Baroque era onward.

So, one might ask, was the wait worth it? Were the 11 months of false alarms announcing a good product? Should one have really been excited about the album? Definitely, yes. It is the 11- or 12-dollar price tag worth setting one back in spending.

Absolutely.

This is a classic of our time. And, no matter what Boston After Dark or any other reviewer might sniff, Stevie Wonder is a gem. Let's appreciate him on his own.

Wonder praise. Anything would be better than today's sickness. The vigor -- or better yet, listen to some music, not a sermon. And 1776, you can visit the Stephen Hopkins House at Benefit and Hopkins Streets, Saturdays only, 1-4 p.m.

Art buffs might appreciate an afternoon at the Providence Art Club, 11 Thomas Street, which has its galleries in two colonial buildings. It's open daily a.m. -- p.m., Sundays 2-5 p.m.

There are things to see and do and appreciate all over Rhode Island, so if you feel you're trapped on campus, get out and find them.

Since everything you need for a comfortable and enjoyable available to you on or nearby campus, don't make the mistake of coming to school in Rhode Island without ever seeing anything but our quirk-covered campus lawns. It's amazing how much one out-of-the-ordinary excursion can brighten up a gloomy, chilly, "almost winter" afternoon.
Rashomon: Not a Good Omen for the Cell

By Rosemary Lynch and George D. Lennon

Hopefully, Rashomon, the play presented by the Prior’s Cell last week is not an indication of what can be expected for the remainder of the year.

Most complaints against the play stem from its selection. Basically, Rashomon by Fay and Michael Kanin, is not a play that would stimulate the interest of the average college student.

Supposedly, it is an emotional drama, a philosophical experience of the reflection upon man’s inherent evilness, his tendencies towards self-aggrandizement. In the end we are supposed to be convinced that through all of man’s evilness, his inherent goodness survives. This theme is simplistically drawn out. The plot centers around the death of a samurai warrior, each person involved in the murder gives a different account of events. Three people try to sort out the truth.

The priest (Peter Cameron) is the vehicle for expression of the dichotomy between good and bad. Initially, in presenting the futility of his mission to teach man justice, Cameron adequately portrays the situation. However, his effectiveness in presenting the evil is good in man fades with the final scenes. Cameron came off weakly in his realization that he was wrong in packing things in because man, no matter what his faults, is still capable of being saved.

As the play opens, the priest is preparing to leave the city of Kyoto. Standing under the Rashomon gate, he voices his realization that he was wrong in teaching the truth. The murder turned out to be an accidental death. At this point all the characters were expected to be a fraud.

Ferry, as the bandit gave a good performance, switching from wicked plunderer to cowardly lion. Dias as the wife portrayed the element of her role. Unfortunately, her part was inhibited by the poor technical quality of the tape-recorded message (which was not the case).

The other performances were as follows: Nick Walker was predictably competent in the role of the woodcutter. He gave a good performance, switching from wicked plunderer to cowardly lion. Dias as the wife portrayed the element of her role. Unfortunately, her part was inhibited by the poor technical quality of the tape-recorded message (which was not the case).

There were some normal allergic reaction to the vaccination shot.

1. Tenderness of the arm where the shot was given.
2. Slight fever.
3. Chills.
4. Headache or muscle aches.

These reactions are nothing to worry about BUT if the fever persists please contact your local physician.

Read the copy of the consent form that you are required to sign prior to vaccination.

PROVIDENCE COLLEGE SWINE FLU CLINIC

The purpose of this advertisement is to disseminate important and pertinent information about the upcoming Swine Flu Vaccination Clinic to be held Wednesday, November 10, between 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the '64 Hall of the Slavin Center.

There are a few restrictions to the program:

- People who have a known allergy to eggs cannot receive inoculation.
- People with a fever should delay getting vaccinated until the fever is gone.
- People who are OVER 60 and the CHRONICALLY ILL in the age bracket of 18 to 59 must receive the high risk vaccination at local clinics in the state.

Location of these clinics in the Providence Area are:

Tuesday; November 2, 1 to 4 p.m. Carroll Towers - 243 Smith St.
Wednesday; November 3, 9 to 12 a.m. Esek Hopkins School - Charles St.
Thursday, November 4, 9 to 12 a.m. Mt. Pleasant Fire Station

Two minor figures, the deputy (Robert Matson) and the mother (Eileen Rausch) were well portrayed. Matson came off easily as the pompous ass, while Rausch was enjoyable as the pretentious mother.

Nick Walker was predictably good as the husband. Though his lines were limited, his non-verbal expressions were fantastic. His ability as a gymnast was well displayed in the duel scenes.

The scenery was top quality. The delicate spacing of leaves in the forest lent an oriental aura to the stage.

One interesting element in the play was the biblical reference in the first act. After such interpretation of the death was presented, a rooster crowed.

The connection between this religious inference and the theme of the play was left to the audience's imagination. Unfortunately, however, the connection became buried underneath the almost endless stream of explanations.
Survey Aims
To Improve
(Continued from Page 2)

The general consensus was that any number of people using the library on weekends should justify the case for extending library hours.

The Resident Board reported that representatives of the Dorm Councils. There was a 78 per cent voter turnout.

The mathematics committee is in the process of renovating the mathematics classrooms. Questionnaires are being issued to find out their feelings about this. They hope to start a survey to arrive at an effective survey.

O'Donnell of the lifestyles committee gave a report concerning the confused women. Lounges situation for weekends couples are permitted two hours after the usual partical hours. However, Peter said that at that point, he finds that it should be open all night.

Residence Director, said that with a good reason, permission will be denied if one dorm is holding a party Obtaining permission through Father Breslin, the residence director, or McAfee is the only procedure to follow. He also explained there is a problem of noise from the main and female dorms. The statistics is not yet completely verified, but he estimates that female dorms have more facilities and activities in which the students are study accommodations.

In closing, the survey is that the males want it that the dorms will have facilities equal in quality to the girls.

Roth, Cross, Leadership
(Continued from Page 1)

"I want to be a leader!" he said. He explained that he was interested in being a representative because I'd rather be doing something that makes sure they're done correctly. I'll do it as long as I carry out the president's orders.

Already Piro is involved with the following: I served as a member of the Governors, the golf team, and the tennis team.

Four years of serving on the staff council at Northwest Catholic High School show he's gained advantages to Debbie Samolik as secretary. I wanted very much to work on the administration. I've got some good experience and I want to put it to good use. So, I'd like to help get the class social life off the ground, but I'm sure we can do it.

Mark Brady feels the representatives should be the best position for involvement. "The students should be involved in the dorm structure because it showed class involvement in dorms," he said. The biggest concern in the freshman was the problems of students that get involved with politics at college, but he is seriously looking into it for the future.

Chris Cardone summed up his feelings as follows: I think we should be concerned with the best four years a boy can have at PC, but we should stress freshman year because it is important that we all get involved. I only wish the election turnout was better.

"As I see it now," said new rep Linda Riley, "I'm not interested in politics outside of school, but I think I'd get very involved with school activities. I had an excellent group of campus managers that helped me get elected, but my biggest problem was getting elected. What we need are plenty of people to help us do our jobs." Riley was very involved with activities in her high school and she seems to be taking from experience.

Michael Walsh felt that the voter turnout wasn't very good because he thought more people should have voted. "If I were on your side of the issue, I'm sure students are wanting to know about what's going on. The student government needs more representation and the freshmen should think about it now." Walsh wanted to be directly involved with my classmates and the election. This was Jeffrey Var's reason for running for representative. "I think the per cent turnout was very good. I think a majority of women have been here at PC. It shows that our class wants to get involved.

Applicants Many, Jobs Scarce
(Continued from Page 1)

Residence Office. Some junior R.A.'s leave after one year on the job. Although they are a very small percentage, are not asked to return.

R.A.'s receive room and board free as compensation for their work. Female R.A.'s are allowed, although not required, to work as alternate desk personnel. As alternatives, R.A.'s are limited to five hours weekly on the desk. McAfee sees a linkage between R.A.'s and a desire to be an R.A. Since both jobs are concerned with dorm security.

R.A.'s are not allowed to hold or sell food in off-campus job, without the permission of the director of residence. McAfee is stressed that an R.A. job is full-time work and that the R.A.'s actually have other jobs. Although all R.A.'s required to complete the fundamentals of work-study students.

Anthro Jobs 'Specialized'
(Continued from Page 1)

anthropology can lead to a multitude of career possibilities. Boas, the father of U.S. anthropology, was originally immersed in the scientific realm. He incorporated anthropology into his background.

Today, the field of anthropology is "far more specialized, and maintaining its linear approach. There is a two-fold purpose in the anthropology realm at PC: 1) to enrich the liberal arts education; 2) to be a basic course in the curricula of courses in anthropology; and 2) to provide more courses in the field of anthropology, incorporate second-language skills and more requirements.

There are symposiums ad

CIGARETTES $3.50 PER CARTON

Buy direct from a wholesaler

* No extra charge for King's, 100's or filters
* Accepts require a minimum order of 3 cartons - These will be fulfilled from existing brands or combination of brands

When ordering be as specific as you can. Include the brand, size and type of cigarette. We will send to the following:

C.O.D.'s) and send to:

SOUTHERN TOBACCO
3101 Avenue Street
Coral Gables, Florida 33134

Earth Shoe
311 Westminster Mall
Intcwn-Providence (401) 351 8900

Bring this ad and receive a birthday present with a purchase of a regularly priced pair of:

EARTH BRAND SHOES And
Australian Outback Sweaters

Wednesday, November 3, 1976

And

Get the function without the funk.

NEXT, Steve Miller and Justin Gray, juniors at PC, played guitars and gave their unique blend of blues and folk to an appreciative audience. Although Miller had just recuperated from a cold (making his voice a little hoarse), his original song entitled "Providence" was the high point of that set.

Brentwood, a five-piece acoustic band made up of people from PC and New Hampshire. It was the end of a perfect night. The band that night, though had only three of their members. Bob Haertel on lead acoustic, Ken Provencher on rhythm guitar, and Mike Meilovsky on electric bass.

Brentwood is a tight band, which plays mostly folk music on the order of Jackson Browne and Artie Two-Step, though it does have in its repertoire a Gentriefied Dead tune. Also in their list is about a half-dozen originals written by Haertel and Provencher.

When the night was over, the crowd wasn't ready to tear the campus apart. Instead, left with that satisfied feeling that comes from spending an enjoyable evening without much care. And, for those with tight wallets and pocketbooks, the admission cost is minimal 50 cents.

The Basement Alternative Coffee House is Fennell Hall: It's an art studio when not an entertainment spot.

The Basement Alternative Coffee House, which had its first night of entertainment October 19, may well be one of the few places on campus where isn't a badge of merit to be rowdy in order to have a good time.

The Alternative Coffee House has the atmosphere which the Rock'n'Starch never purported to have, and the Wooden Nymph once had. It is a small place, about the size of the Navel, but it is actually an art design studio which is converted to an entertainment setting on a more irregular basis.

The first night had three features. Three participants in the Friar's Cell recent play, Rashedman, performed three songs of their work. The small (about 30 by 30 feet in dimensions) inhibited Bob Perry and Nicholas Walker, the stage was small, but the intimate nature of the setting lent a special air to the scenes.

The women feel that their job is important, especially during the early weeks of the school year, when they have difficulty finding the buildings where classes are taking place. The women are also called upon to work at events such as football games, when large crowds and traffic problems are anticipated.

The women enjoy their work, saying that it is a job of people, but do admit to becoming bored once all the students have arrived.

They have a unique way of dating, saying that they don't date at the same time trying to keep their social life going. The weather. "We look for cars that have just pulled in and still have warm engines," said one of the women, "but that only works for a while, so we have to dress properly to compensate for the cold."

The women suggested that hot chocolate or coffee given to them occasionally would be beneficial in fighting the cold. One thing they all agreed upon was that during the cold months, they would much rather work indoors.

FOR WHOM IT'S MEANT
The Commencement speakers have been found. December 16 is the tentative date for the Senior Christmas Party and Service Building.

The drawing for the Class of ’78 Scholarship Cash raffle is November 12. Four thousand-dollar prizes will be awarded.

This Friday the Class of ’80 has a Ganya’s Nite with Head Coach Mr. Maurer in Alumni Cafe from 8:00 to 11:00 P.M. Bring your partner and you will also be shown. Admission is one dollar.

By Kathy Oliveira

Tennis Tandem Triumphs

Chris McNeill

When the tennis coach at Conard High School in West Hartford, Connecticut, first put on the court John Christopher McNeill and Neal O’Hurley together as doubles partners, he probably did not realize what he had begun. But the followers of the Providence College tennis team can now see the results of that one match that took place four years ago. It’s for that reason this week’s player’s profile focuses on the story of one doubles tennis team here at Providence College.

Both PC sophomores did not start playing the game of tennis until they were freshmen in high school. At that time, however, they were in differentuplicate regions of the country. Chris born in Connecticut and Neal in Florida. McNeill began swinging the racket everyday after school during his freshman year with his father giving him lessons in the way. He improved steadily throughout the year and decided to go out for his high school team the following season. O’Hurley, on the other hand, first decided to give tennis a try after he moved to Florida from Florida. He took lessons that summer and made the tennis team in his first year. O’Hurley, who was number one for half of his high school career, attributed it to just the situation, said the player. "We had all the sayings like Vince Lombardi." O’Hurley was playing on the number-one singles position on Providence, Chris McNeill at Providence, Chris McNeill and Neal O’Hurley together as doubles partners, he probably did not realize what he had begun.

The result was that Neal enrolled at Providence College for a second straight season for a second straight season. O’Hurley participated in a doubles tournament and gained a great deal of experience in the long tennis season (January to May).

After two full years in Providence, Chris McNeill and Neal O’Hurley bagged their bags and moved back to West Hartford, the city that they had left originally. The result was that Neal enrolled at Conard High School, where he would combine with McNeill for two very successful seasons of tennis.

Both students credited much of their success to their high school tennis coach at Conard. Robert Cermak, a man they described as being like Vince Lombardi. Neal O’Hurley. In the only match that will take place here on the PC campus this year, the Coast Guard Academy defeated both the MIT and PC tennis teams in a three-way dropping match last Saturday. The final scores of the three teams were as follows: U.S. Coast Guard Academy, 216; MIT, 214; and Providence College, 207.
Wednesday, November 3, 1976

QB Lee Leads Gridders to 20-10 Thrashing

By Mike Callahan

The Providence College football team spoiled Western New England, 20-10, Sunday at Mack Stadium. Lil, as fans readily read Mike Lee 20-Western-10.

All quarterback Lee did was complete seven of 13 passes for the .4 touchdowns and scored the last one himself on a yard TD in the second quarter after the Black and White had recovered a fumble. Western tallied in the third and fourth quarters, and concluded the scoring by tackling Dana Whitehead in the end zone for a safety.

“Against Western New England we played well enough to win but did not play up to full capacity,” observed Head Coach Chet Hanewich.

“It was due to a letdown after we played Assumption. The second half of that game we played as well as we have played all season,” he commented.

“Some players and coaches perhaps looked beyond the Anders game to the Lowell game. In the Western game the defense was strong in the second half, but the passing of Mike Lee carried us through,” he contended.

Because of strong winds and schedule conflicts with Matlack Regional College, that contest was cancelled. Therefore, PC’s clash with the University of Lowell will be the season finale.

---

Golfers End Fall With Big Finish

By John Mullaney

"Its the only time I have ever gone up to play golf when the stars were still out," noted Head Coach Pete Tallamand Sunday evening.

In the predicable Kerry Reilly and several other members of the PC men found themselves on Mack Golf Course as the weather forecast had predicted.

As prepared to tee-off in the New England Championships at the New England Country Club in Cape Cod. In the Tournament itself, the Providence College team found themselves on 24th place. That finish, however, was obvious enough for the result of a rather dramatic turnabout by the Friars in the second day of competition at their final match of the fall season.

Playing in near freezing weather and combating a stiff wind off the Atlantic Coast, PC ended the first day of action with a total of 315, good enough for 24th place. The second day was completely different, though. This time, playing under much better weather conditions, the Friars recorded one of the best scores of the round-a 318. That was 43 strokes better than the previous round and good enough to move them up in the standings eleven full places to position number 13.

Joe Prisco, PC’s golf coach, was rather pleased with the performance of his squad in the tournament.

"The kids really came back well the second day," said Prisco. "In fact I think we had played the first day the way we played the second day, we would have won the tournament. But considering the temperatures, the high winds, the rain the previous night, and the fact that some of my golfers had to start the first day of all at 7:30 a.m., it would have been impossible to duplicate the second day’s score."

As for the future, Coach Prisco is optimistic.

"I’m looking forward to the spring when we’ll have additional help. The kids who played here in the fall I think gained some good experience, and they will certainly help out a lot in the spring."
By Al Palladino

The Providence College soccer team came into the 76 season with a vengeance. People know the team existed but several really paid that much attention to them. The doctor had decided that a winning season would be the perfect remedy. Well, PC has a winning season and people are from the competition. Thanks to wins over Boston College and Bentley, the Friars have run their record to a perfect 8-3 mark.

On Saturday, October 23, Providence faced the arch rival Eagles of BC. The contest started off very quickly and each squad exhibited sharp passing. The play stayed even until 34:32 of the first half when Allan Doyle took a picture perfect pass from Kevin Brouillard and beat BC goalie David Roache. The rest of the half was controlled by PC with Mike Magee being unchallenged in goal.

The second half began just like the first with the Friars again controlling the bulk of the action. PC showed an outstanding passing game and they were continuously on the attack. Ruff was in goal and was severely tested. Providence made it 2-0 on captain Greg Papaz's first goal of the year at 19:25. PC's score came off an indirect kick when Peter Roman chipped a pass over the Eagle's front wall and Papaz was there to tip it in. The win was the Friars' seventh by shutout this year.

"This game was one of the best we have played all year," commented co-captain O'Shea. "We passed the ball to great and controlled the tempo of the game."

On October 27, the Friars travelled to Massachusetts to face Bentley College. The game, played on more of a swamp than a soccer field, was see-saw from the very beginning. Bentley, trying to avenge last year's 4-2 loss, came out using a kick-and-run offense. They scored first but Providence quickly retaliated when Roman stole the ball and scored on an unassisted goal. Play remained sloppy, and neither team was able to mount much of an offense.

The second half found no change as each team desperately tried to gain control. Allan Doyle made it 2-1 when he took a perfect pass from Peter Drennan and easily beat Bentley's goalie. The lead was short lived, however, as Bentley forward Gary McBurney tied it up on a low hard one. The Friars finally scored the game winner at 34:00 on Mike Sullivan's first collegiate goal. The score came off a corner kick and Doyle set up Sullivan perfectly for a header.

Last Sunday, PC journeyed to Kingston, Mass., to oppose Stonehill College. The game was completely dominated by Stonehill but they showed a great inability to put the ball in the net. Stonehill scored the only goal of the game at 38:00 of the first half when Bob Mooney headed in a shot on a Mago.

- Providence had numerous opportunities to break the half but was unable to cash in on them. Mike Magee had the best chance, but his shot just floated over the cross bar.

The second half found no change as each team desperately tried to gain control. Allan Doyle made it 2-1 when he took a perfect pass from Peter Drennan and easily beat Bentley's goalie. The lead was short lived, however, as Bentley forward Gary McBurney tied it up on a low hard one. The Friars finally scored the game winner at 34:00 on Mike Sullivan's first collegiate goal. The score came off a corner kick and Doyle set up Sullivan perfectly for a header.

Last Sunday, PC journeyed to Kingston, Mass., to oppose Stonehill College. The game was completely dominated by Stonehill but they showed a great inability to put the ball in the net. Stonehill scored the only goal of the game at 38:00 of the first half when Bob Mooney headed in a shot on a Mago.

- Providence had numerous opportunities to break the half but was unable to cash in on them. Mike Magee had the best chance, but his shot just floated over the cross bar.

The second half found no change as each team desperately tried to gain control. Allan Doyle made it 2-1 when he took a perfect pass from Peter Drennan and easily beat Bentley's goalie. The lead was short lived, however, as Bentley forward Gary McBurney tied it up on a low hard one. The Friars finally scored the game winner at 34:00 on Mike Sullivan's first collegiate goal. The score came off a corner kick and Doyle set up Sullivan perfectly for a header.

Last Sunday, PC journeyed to Kingston, Mass., to oppose Stonehill College. The game was completely dominated by Stonehill but they showed a great inability to put the ball in the net. Stonehill scored the only goal of the game at 38:00 of the first half when Bob Mooney headed in a shot on a Mago.

- Providence had numerous opportunities to break the half but was unable to cash in on them. Mike Magee had the best chance, but his shot just floated over the cross bar.

The second half found no change as each team desperately tried to gain control. Allan Doyle made it 2-1 when he took a perfect pass from Peter Drennan and easily beat Bentley's goalie. The lead was short lived, however, as Bentley forward Gary McBurney tied it up on a low hard one. The Friars finally scored the game winner at 34:00 on Mike Sullivan's first collegiate goal. The score came off a corner kick and Doyle set up Sullivan perfectly for a header.

- Providence had numerous opportunities to break the half but was unable to cash in on them. Mike Magee had the best chance, but his shot just floated over the cross bar.

The second half found no change as each team desperately tried to gain control. Allan Doyle made it 2-1 when he took a perfect pass from Peter Drennan and easily beat Bentley's goalie. The lead was short lived, however, as Bentley forward Gary McBurney tied it up on a low hard one. The Friars finally scored the game winner at 34:00 on Mike Sullivan's first collegiate goal. The score came off a corner kick and Doyle set up Sullivan perfectly for a header.

- Providence had numerous opportunities to break the half but was unable to cash in on them. Mike Magee had the best chance, but his shot just floated over the cross bar.

The second half found no change as each team desperately tried to gain control. Allan Doyle made it 2-1 when he took a perfect pass from Peter Drennan and easily beat Bentley's goalie. The lead was short lived, however, as Bentley forward Gary McBurney tied it up on a low hard one. The Friars finally scored the game winner at 34:00 on Mike Sullivan's first collegiate goal. The score came off a corner kick and Doyle set up Sullivan perfectly for a header.

- Providence had numerous opportunities to break the half but was unable to cash in on them. Mike Magee had the best chance, but his shot just floated over the cross bar.