

THE PROSE POEM: AN INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL

Volume 4 | 1995

Light
David Ignatow

© Providence College

The author(s) permits users to copy, distribute, display, and perform this work under the following conditions: (1) the original author(s) must be given proper attribution; (2) this work may not be used for commercial purposes; (3) the users may not alter, transform, or build upon this work; (4) users must make the license terms of this work clearly known for any reuse or distribution of this work. Upon request, as holder of this work's copyright, the author(s) may waive any or all of these conditions.

The Prose Poem: An International Journal is produced by The Berkeley Electronic Press (bepress) for the Providence College Digital Commons.
<http://digitalcommons.providence.edu/prosepoems/>

David Ignatow

LIGHT

I am an electric bulb and shine when turned on but dull and useless in the daylight. Either condition is my natural one. I do not choose and would not choose if I were asked. Is it not a fact that both originate from the same source and that one could not exist without the other and that the prime condition for the existence of either state is my presence? I embrace both yet am whole. In fact, my wholeness is dependent upon both states existing.

* * *