Fr. Duffy revises ID and system

By Maryellen Donovan

“Upon review of the ID policy governing visitors in women’s dormitories, it has been resolved that Providence College students will no longer have to leave their ID at the desk. Identification of every visitor is required, and only those who are not Providence College students will be required to leave some appropriate identification with the desk clerk.”

This statement from a memo sent by Rev. Francis C. Duffy, O.P., to Rev. Walter J. Heath, O.P., summarizes the revised policy and revision of the women’s dormitory system. A more detailed list of conditions has been compiled and published by the Residence Office for distribution to the college community.

“I am satisfied with the system now in effect,” stated Father Duffy, “In a reasonable compromise that appears to have satisfied everyone.”

Tom Sheehan, chairman of the Resident Board, is also pleased with the new system. “We have now a manageable system that we can all live with,” he said. The appeal made by the students to Father Duffy was helpful and consistent in its method and resulted in a decision most active to vice concerns.

Although satisfied with the present system, Father Heath maintains that the original policy was responsible for “the best eight weeks we’ve had.”

“In terms of security, it’s not as good as the original policy. However, we have now achieved the balance necessary for the stability of the entire structure. If we view the two sources in the abstract, the original plan was more effective, but in reality, the strong opposition to the original made it necessary to devise a practical compromise.”

License renewed

By Frank O’Donnell

In accordance with city ordinances, PC’s Rathskellar has been granted renewal of its liquor license by Providence Bureau of Licenses. According to Rev. Francis C. Duffy, O.P., the application was submitted in the middle of October. Upon receipt of this application, the Bureau of Licenses made public notice that Club 21, the name under which the Rathskellar is managed, is requesting a renewal of its liquor license.

Public comment was invited, and if any objections to the renewal had been filed, a public hearing would have been held at which the merits of the liquor license renewal would have been discussed. However, according to the Bureau of Licenses, there were no problems over this particular application, and the renewal has been granted and the new license is ready to be picked up.

Congress considers 24-hour parietals

By Maureen O’Hare

Donna Formichelii reported at the November 13 meeting of the Student Congress that the Committee on Residency Life was persistent in discussing the possibility of implementing a 24-hour parietal system.

This committee, chaired by Dr. Raymond Sirkinger, consists of six students and five faculty members. The pros and cons of the issue are being discussed, with the major concern being the problem of privacy.

According to Donna McCaffrey, who researches whether colleges that use the 24-hour visitation system have major problems in the area of privacy. In the event that this problem could be solved, provision would be made for students who prefer the limited parietal program.

As yet, this idea is still in the formative stages and no decision has been reached.

The Cowl

By Jane E. Hickey

A four-week seminar on death and dying, sponsored by the Department of Psychology and Education in the Counseling Center with the cooperation of the departments of psychology, health services, religious studies, and anthropology, sociology and social work, last week drew a combined audience of six hundred students and faculty.

The professionals involved gave specific advice such as helping parents cope with the death of a subject of teaching, and dying, and offered basic help for the subject of death to children of different ages.

On Wednesday afternoon, Dr. George Raymond of PC’s psychology department chaired a session entitled “The Profession’s Response to Death and Dying,” which featured a keynote speech by Dr. Harold Musiker, a psychologist from Rhode Island Hospital. Musiker stressed the need for dying patients to be consulted with the reality of their condition in order to enable them “to make peace with their illness” or “to make peace with their families.”

His speech was followed by a panel discussion including Peter Salvatore of PC’s social work department and Rev. Burns, a chaplain at Rhode Island Hospital.

The final session of the seminar was held on Wednesday evening by St. Mary’s Larson, president of the R.I. Funeral Directors Association.

Committee on Administration discusses law school finances

By Jane E. Hickey

The Committee on Administration provided its second report to the board concerning the issue of the proposed law school that at PC. Rev. Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., presented his findings at the meeting on November 7, according to Fred Mason, student member of the board.

While Father Peterson did not request a formal recommen dation from the committee, he did present the issue to them for further consideration. Problems that he presented to the board and the question of the need for a law school were aired once again. The report of recently received financial figures in law schools also came into play.

In presenting the difficulties the law school faces, the greatest amount of skepticism was voiced over the question of finances. In particular, the committee questioned whether the 4.5 million promise Father Peterson has received is secure enough in the first place, and secondly, whether it is sufficient to cover a substantial portion of the establishment’s costs.

The suggestions of the committee concerning this issue will be presented to the members of the Providence College Corporation for their consideration at the December meeting, at which a decision will be made. Providence College does not PC will embark on this venture.

The question of the possibility of students receiving a credit for second semester tuition remains unanswered while Father Peterson is away. The delay arises from the fact that the exact dollar amount of surplus funds has not yet been determined due to the number of students who have not yet paid their bills for first semester tuition.

Joseph L. Byron, vice president for business affairs is currently in the process of determining this issue. Students contending living off-campus in order to meet the tuition costs have been severely hindered.

James Pelosurri, appealled to Congress members for assistance in their annual Cerebral Palsy Fund Drive and Telethon. The Foundation sponsors recreation programs and runs adult education programs for all physically handicapped individuals at no charge.

In an effort to meet their $250,000 budget, the Foundation is sponsoring a Telethon on Channel 11 on February 4 and 5. Providence College and several other Rhode Island area colleges are rising to meet the request.

The festivities committee, headed by Donna Formichelii, is working on setting up a seminar discussing a student-contemplating living off-campus in order to meet housing and recognizing the various pitfalls of moving.

"Basically," said Donna Formichelii, "this program would just be to let students know what they're getting into, and why they opt for off-campus living."

Drans suit argued

By Frank O'Donnell

Both the plaintiff and the defendant in the case of Jean Tye vs. Providence College presented their arguments before the Superior Court of the State of Rhode Island last week. John Capuano, attorney for Drans.

Amicus curie (friend of the court) briefs were filed on Drans behalf by the American Association of College Professors and on Providence College's behalf by the trustees of Brown University Law School. Stanter expects that the court will render its decision on Drans appeal in three or four months.

This is the final step in Drans four-year court battle over Providence College's mandatory retirement policy. Drans argued in Senate that once the policy was issued, it was tantamount to a 2006 College had no mandatory retirement policy. Drans will be held in the name of John Capuano.

The U.S. Supreme Court denied Drans motion to vacate the temporary restraining order that was entered against the College. The College then filed a motion for a preliminary injunction to prevent Drans from continuing to teach at the College. The court granted the College's motion and enjoined Drans from teaching at the College until a final decision on the case was rendered.

In his argument, Drans contended that the College's mandatory retirement policy violated his constitutional rights and the Collective Bargaining Agreement (CBA) between the College and the Faculty Union. He argued that the policy was arbitrary and capricious and that it deprived him of due process of law.

The College countered that the policy was necessary to maintain the quality of education and to ensure that the faculty was comprised of individuals who were committed to teaching and research.

The court agreed with the College and ruled that the policy was constitutional. The case was subsequently appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court, which affirmed the decision of the lower court.

The case of Jean Tye vs. Providence College is an important one for both faculty and students. It highlights the ongoing struggle between the College and its faculty over issues of due process and the right to continue teaching.

In the meantime, Drans continues to teach at the College and will be represented in court by John Capuano.

Faculty to have voice in search for VP

By Steve Maurano

Faculty involvement in administrative decisions, particularly in VP search committee, is a concern for those who want to see more diverse candidates and for those who believe that faculty should have a say in the selection of future leaders.

According to a report, Dr. Murphy, president of the Faculty Senate, has been asked by Dr. Peterson, the new president, to chair a committee that will consist of two deans, one each from the undergraduate and graduate schools, and one student. The committee will be responsible for making recommendations to the president on the search for a new VP.

The Faculty Senate has expressed its support for faculty involvement in the search process and has urged the president to ensure that the committee is representative of the faculty body. The Senate has also called for the establishment of a faculty search committee that would be responsible for recommending candidates to the president.

Dr. Murphy has indicated that he is committed to ensuring that faculty have a voice in the search process and will work closely with the president to ensure that the committee meets the needs of the faculty. He has also stated that the committee will be inclusive and will represent the diverse interests of the faculty.

'Gentleman' enjoyable

By David R. Amaral

"Come, let us stop at the theatre to see what M. Molière has put out recently."

Such was the scene last week at Molière's play. The Would-be Gentleman came to Hankins audorium for the PC theatre-arts first presentation of the 77-78 season.

The play, directed by Rev. R.L. Pelkington, O.P., gives us a glimpse of seventeenth century France while presenting a satiric theme relevant to today's 'get ahead' world.

The Would-be Gentleman was first presented more than 300 years ago on October 14, 1670 in Paris. It was written for the King of France who wanted a play with Turin actors to recall their visit to Paris. In that presentation, Molière played the leading role of Mr. Jourdain.

A mockery is made of Jour-dain's ridiculousness and madly ambitious. He is a member of the nouveau riche, and invests his money into learning to be a gentleman.

For this purpose, he hires instagram for dance, music, philosophy, and fencing. He also be-friends with a son of the Grand Turk.

Jourdain's ridiculousness reach such a point that even his friends are amused by his antics. His behavior is so out of character that many believe him to be the son of the Grand Turk.

As your Dean of Beer, it is my scholarly opinion that just knowing the one word for beer is not enough. You must also know the reasons why. Because only then shall I, Siglinda Steinflner be satisfied that you have graduated from Remedial Beer Drinking.

QUESTIONS:

1. The best water for beer comes from:
a) Big Mountain.
b) Underground from Tijuana.
c) A small store in Maccos, Ga.
d) None of the above.

2. What matter what you hear about "naturally pure" waters, virtually all brewery filter and further purify their water. But Schlitz doesn't stop there. They filter their water and then filter it again.
So when they're through, it's purer than the purest springwater.

3. Slagles and Falibock III are:
a) Composers of famous beer drinking songs like 'I Left My Shoes in Heidelberg'.
b) Owners of the world's largest unknown brewery.
c) Serving time in Sonoma, Calif., for impersonating Arnold the Wonder Seal.
d) More expensive barleys.

4. Slagles blends Slagles and Falibock III barleys with the standard variety most brewers use because they believe it gives their beer superior flavor.

5. The best adjunct to beer is:
a) Rice.
b) Corn.
c) Either rice or corn.
d) What's an adjunct?

6. Chill-Lagering is:
a) A popular German country and western
song.
b) A Scandinavian winter sport played without clothes.
c) A new ethic TV comedy about the owners of an ice cube factory.
d) The right way to age beer.

7. A mini-brewery is:
a) A popular German country and western
song.
b) The result of trying to make Broken Tow, Idaho, the beer capital of the world.
c) The right way to pretest beer quality.
d) To make beer taste right consistently.

SPECIAL BONUS QUESTION:

Q: True or false, the one word for beer is Duffelbrau.
A: False. There is no beer called Duffelbrau.

THE DEAN OF BEER'S
FINAL EXAM.

(Or, was yeast really responsible for the fall of the Roman Empire?)

Q: The biggest misconception about yeast is:
a) Carrying some in your pocket is good luck.
b) It is good for hernias.
c) It was responsible for the fall of the Roman Empire.
d) To ferment beer, all you have to do is drop it in the vat.

A: (d) Schlitz gently stirs in their yeast. It's part of their Balanced Fermentation process. And they're the only American brewer who does it.

Q: A mini-brewery is:

Facilities should be available

Providence College students must have more opportunity to use Raymond Hall Cafeteria for their various activities on a non-restrictive basis. As it stands now, the students face much opposition from Joseph Murphy, head of food services, should they wish to gain permission to use Raymond Caf for a mixer. He said that "two years ago when Mr. Byron asked me if we could accommodate the large freshman class that had been accepted, I told him that we could do it if he kept everything else out.'

According to Murphy, "My main duty is to feed 1700 boarders and make sure that Raymond Caf is clean when they come to brunch the next morning." He also said that "two years ago when Mr. Byron asked me if we could accommodate the large freshman class that had been accepted, I told him that we could do it if he kept everything else out.'

The Student's main concern should be the 1200 boarders. Nevertheless, the fact remains that the students who pay almost $3,500 for tuition and a $650 student activities fee do not have adequate facilities to hold social events. Virtually the only place that the students can hold a mixer is Alumni Cafeteria, which is too small to accommodate the large number of students who frequent these weekend events. We feel that something must be done about this.

Another problem with the present situation is that if a student wishes to use Alumni Caf, they must pay one of Murphy's men time-and-a-half wages to be present at the mixer to make sure nothing is stolen.

We feel that instead of paying a man over $50 to watch Alumni Cafeteria for their various activities on a non-restrictive basis, they should be charged a formal fee for keeping one supervisor and six students to help clean up. The class was also charged for a chair that was missing from the cafeteria foyer.

"Two years ago when Mr. Byron asked me if we could accommodate the large freshman class that had been accepted, I told him that we could do it if he kept everything else out.'

Murphy said that he would like to see a gate and he would still have to hire a man to lock up. We feel that from an economic standpoint this would be a total waste of money. It is not security capable of holding up.

The cost of using Raymond Hall for a mixer is even more exorbitant. The normal charge for a mixer in Alumni Cafeteria is $400. The Class of 1980 was charged $291.77 for the use of Raymond Cafeteria. The bill included charges for two full-time men being paid time-and-a-half wages, six students who worked from 7 p.m. until 2:30 a.m. and two men who came in the next morning to clean up. The class was also charged for a chair that was missing from the cafeteria foyer.

Murphy said that "when there is a dance I have a standard rule of keeping one man to lock in no students to help clean up. They work from 7 p.m. to 11:45 p.m. and then stand by for final cleaning."

It is a sin to use the fact that final cleaning does not begin until approximately 12:30 a.m. Therefore, these students did not do anything from 8 p.m. until 12:30 a.m. and got paid $30.35 average for the four and one-half hours they didn't work.

Murphy agreed to issue a $40 credit to the Class of 1980 for the missing chair and agreed to charge only for the services of two students. "I feel that if the class did not have a question such as an exorbitant bill they would have been required to pay the entire sum. Services were even issued to raise serious questions.

Last week when a member of the junior class asked Murphy if the Class of 1979 could borrow the coat racks in Raymond Hall for their Ring Weekend after party in Slavin Center next Saturday night, Murphy told them he would rent the coat racks to the class. This should not be the case.

We feel that Murphy must become more cognizant of students' needs and privileges. If a recognized student group wished to hold a cocktail party, they have no alternative but to use that shabby sauna bath room in the lower level of Slavin Center. It shouldn't be that way.

Murphy should send Student Congress a list of open dates for Ray­mond Cafeteria, and as long as the use of Raymond Cafeteria is limited, there is no such alternative.

Closed Infirmary of no use

Recently, no nurse has been on duty in the Grant Infirmary on Sunday nights. This has necessitated the closing of the health facility on those evenings. Even though all emergencies are sent directly to the hospital, we feel that this is a potentially dangerous situation. Only 1700 people living on campus in very close quarters (sometimes four and five in a room) the Cowl Editorial Board feels that 24-hour operation of the infirmary is essential.

If someone happens to develop a communicable disease with no serious complications they have no alternative but to remain in the dormitory. This could cause a very unhealthy climate for the other residents on the ailing person's floor, especially the individual's roommates.

Also, the situation is an inconvenience for the students already in the infirmary. When Sunday night rolls around these patients have no other alternative but to trek back to their rooms.

Hiking back to one's room on a cold and blustery evening cer­tainly does not help cure any ailments. It doesn't seem fair that someone suffering from a bad case of the flu should have to walk this all the way back to Fennell Hall.

We feel that to alleviate this situation a nurse should be hired to fill this shift immediately. According to an infirmary spokesperson, the closing of the infirmary on Sunday night was due to the unforeseen and inopportune resignation of one of the nurses. The spokesperson also said that they have been trying to find someone to fill the vacancy but their efforts have been fruitless. The reason being that it is very difficult to find someone willing to work the late-night shift.

The Editorial Board feels that the solution seems more desirable. Extra monetary compensation should be offered to induce someone to take this position.

We also feel that in the interim period someone without professional training should be hired to administer the infirmary on Sunday evenings. While this solution is not as effective as having a nurse present, it is certainly much better than having no one there.

Booters lose to UMass

Earlier in the week, PC was defeated by crosstown rival Rhode Island College by a score of 3-2. That marks the fourth loss from the Ocean State to have defeated the Friars. It was the type of game that exemplified the Friars' season. PC-dominated play and even had, more shots on goal. They did everything but score more goals than the Netters. The PC coach was pleased. "This is the first time we've won in international competition."

Booters lose to UMass

By Al Palladino.

It's over! If nothing else can be said about the recently concluded season for the soccer Friars, it can be said that it's over. Almost mercilessly the campaign ended last Saturday with a 2-4 loss at the hands of the University of Massachusetts.

The game, played in chilly and windy conditions, was decided in the first half as the Minutemen struck for both their scores. Bob Abrt hit the scoreboard first at 22:13 when he beat Providence goalkeeper Rob Pattan. Tasso Koutroukas made it 2-0 seven minutes later when he easily scored.

Pattan, starting his first collegiate game, played surprisingly well in goal by making eight saves. Pattan's counterpart, Tim Hodgdon was called on to make only four saves.

The Friars went on to take the doubles championship, and what with Lyons the runner-up in singles competition, won the overall championship.

PC tennis coach Jacques Faubise beamed, "The guy that beat Peter could play professional tennis in America and he wouldn't get blown off. But Peter and Dave handled him and his partner in doubles action. I'm pleased. This is the first time we've won in international competition."

I-M players of the week

Phil Sibiga: The captain of the PCF is cited for his tough defensive play, keying his team to a 3-1 quarter-final romp over the N.Y. Dolls. Sibiga registered two interceptions and generally made life tough for the Dolls' offense.

Patricia Manchester: Although her squad, the Goons Platoon, was beaten 19-4 by the Bad News Bears, Patty contributed a spirited effort in a losing cause. Both an offense and defense her performance was exceptional.
The Lady Friars hockey team began their season in impressive fashion, whipping Boston University, 8-0. The game showcased the depth and balance of the team, according to Coach Tom Arena at Boston College. The Friars' team has a lot of depth. There's more balance, and they have a lot more experience, for the first game.

The program was started in 1977, and the Lady Friars have continued to excel. The Lady Friars had West for Spokane, and the national championship. Slated to go are the Lady Friars.

The team's season reaches a climax next Monday as the Lady Friars head for Spokane. They have a tough season prior to the Lady Friars' trip. Koren Johnson was hit by some good shots on free balls at the net, and the Lady Friars were able to beat SMU in the first game, taking the second two hard-fought games. The team was able to win the game by a score of 15-4.

The program was started in 1977, and the Lady Friars have continued to excel. The Lady Friars had West for Spokane, and the national championship. Slated to go are the Lady Friars.

The team's season reaches a climax next Monday as the Lady Friars head for Spokane. They have a tough season prior to the Lady Friars' trip. Koren Johnson was hit by some good shots on free balls at the net, and the Lady Friars were able to beat SMU in the first game.

Deegan blistering victor: Friars Take NE's

By Bob Batellffe

It was a race to remember, undoubtedly one of the best ever witnessed at Franklin Park. John Treacy and Gerry Deegan, fellow Irishmen, fought down to the wire in the New England’s. But, as in any race, there was only one winner. Deegan, the super fresh from Ireland blew by Treacy with 50 yards left to win by two lengths. He was the nation’s top prep runner with a 2:07 mile time and 8:52 in the mile. "It was a race like no other," said John Treacy. "Gerry ran away with it."

PC finished their first year of intercollegiate volleyball at a surprising 14-3 mark. Chris Finocchiaro, surprise starter, combined some powerful spikes with some strong serves in both Providence wins. Special thanks should go to Sandy Radcliffe, who at the end of the season finally was able to give John Finneran and

Football

The Providence College football team finished their first year with a 2-8 record, but coach Alex Mead was pleased with the improvement his team made this season. "We’ve come a long way," he said. "I’m proud of the way the team has played and I believe we can make some strides next year." The Friars were led by quarterback Mike Lee, who threw for 1,200 yards and 12 touchdowns. But it was the defense that carried the team, allowing only 291 points on the year.

CROSS-COUNTRY

With Gerry Deegan and John Treacy leading the way, the cross-country team once again proved they were the class of New England in winning the New England Regional’s, 35-77, over their nearest competitor. Providence will be looking to defend their title, exceeding the meet record by surprising 14-3 mark. Chris Finocchiaro, surprise starter, combined some powerful spikes with some strong serves in both Providence wins. Special thanks should go to Sandy Radcliffe, who at the end of the season finally was able to give John Finneran and

In their initial contest, the Lady Friar hockey team whipped Boston University, 6-0. Kathy Salvesen, who was named as the Lady Friar attack, scored four goals and four assists.

VOLLEYBALL

The Lady Spikers ended their season in a successful manner as they were victorious in two of their three games. PC finished their first year of intercollegiate volleyball at a surprising 14-3 mark. according to Dave Gaviot, Providence basketball coach and athletic director. "Bob Misevicius will continue to receive unsolicited recruiting mail and he has not seemed to pay attention to it."

According to Dave Gaviot, Providence basketball coach and athletic director, "Bob Misevicius will continue to receive unsolicited recruiting mail and he has not seemed to pay attention to it."

Although Neil Hild was previously on the team, he has decided to leave. "I think it’s time for me to move on," he said. "I’ve been here for four years and I’ve had my share of ups and downs."

Misevicius is eligible to play by the NCAA and institution rules and he should have the required average at mid-year. The Friars are currently practicing. Gaviot is in a difficult situation, because Misevicius is missing a valuable period of time.

"Bob came back 30 pounds overweight," Gaviot stated. "But he obviously affected his play in Madrid. I’m not sure what he’s doing now, but I’m just happy that he’s come back to help us." He was a valuable player and it’s important that he returns. In the single most important factor to me, it is the fact that he’s not another guy who can do the things he does."

Gaviot says, "There’s no strain on our relationship, I’m sure he’s adjusting to life back here. But I don’t know what he has to do. I’ve seen him practice and I think he’s doing all his work, so he’s doing his best."
