

School Enrollment Numbers Over 1800 Sets New Record

The school year of 1948-49 has brought about the highest enrollment in the history of Providence College. Up to the time of publication, 1875 students have registered for day courses, while an estimated 650 will attend Extension classes which begin next Monday.

This total of almost nineteen hundred is distributed among: 658 freshmen, 504 sophomores, 419 juniors, 294 seniors, and 13 special students.

The background and age level of the incoming class of 1952 shows a definite trend toward pre-war days at the college, since the percentage of veterans enrolling in college has declined throughout the nation as well as at Providence College.

At present there are 962 veterans attending the school, 93 of whom are studying under Public Law 16. The percentage rates of veterans in the four years are as follows: seniors, 85 per cent, juniors, 60 per cent, sophomores, 50 per cent, and freshmen, 35 per cent.

The new million-dollar science building, Albertus Magnus Hall, however has tended to alleviate some of the critical crowded conditions which have taxed the existing facilities of the college for the past three years.

JUNIOR STUDENTS MEET MODERATOR

"Nominations are now in order" for Junior class officers, said the Rev. Edward P. Doyle, O.P., class moderator, at the first of regular weekly assemblies held last Tuesday morning in Harkin's Hall auditorium. The Rev. Vincent C. Dore, O.P., Dean, in his address, explained the meaning of the new marking system, in which the letters A, B, C, D, and F replace the former numerical grading. The Rev. Charles H. McKenna, O.P., Chaplain made a plea for increased attendance at College religious functions.

With the election of Junior Class officers tentatively scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 19, Father Doyle made it clear that any Junior may be nominated for office whose scholastic standing is 75 or better. A junior, in fact, is allowed to nominate himself. Nominations may be given to William Ealahan, John Connolly, Arthur Weinstock or William White, incumbent officers. In his remarks, Father Dore defined the marking system thus: three F (failure) marks will mean dismissal from the college; D will mean the student is on the border line or slightly higher; C denotes average reception of knowledge and average industry;

Requiescant In Pace

The faculty and students of Providence College extend sympathy to:

Joseph V. Shanley, Senior Arts, on the death of his mother, (Sept. 17).

Joseph C. Barry, Junior Science, on the death of his father, (Sept. 24).

Anthony Jarzombek, Sophomore Arts, on the death of his mother, (Sept. 7).

The family of William H. Howe, Superintendent of Aquinas Hall, (Sept. 25).

1948 VERITAS

Due to the late arrival of the 1948 Veritas some students got away from the College without receiving their copies. Those who are still thus deprived may enrich themselves by calling at the Veritas Office, Donnelly Hall, any afternoon and by proper identification acquire the best yearbook P. C., or any college, has ever published.

668 Freshmen Start Collegiate Career With Busy Week

With the exception of approximately thirty potential freshmen who were summoned into the Army before they could make good their registration here at Providence College, six hundred and sixty high school graduates reported at the auditorium to begin Freshmen Week on Tuesday, September 14. This class is the largest incoming group in the history of the College.

The group was welcomed at nine o'clock by the Reverend Daniel F. Reilly, O.P., Dean of Freshmen, and was subsequently addressed by the Reverend Vincent C. Dore, O.P., Dean of Studies, the Reverend Daniel M. Gallihier, O.P., Registrar, the Reverend William J. Dillon, O.P., Dean of Discipline, and the Reverend Charles H. McKenna, O.P., Chaplain.

The rest of Tuesday's program followed closely that of the other classes: schedules were distributed, students were cleared at the Bursar's office and, after an address by the Reverend John T. McGregor, O.P., the class drew their supplies from the bookstore and then was dismissed.

On Wednesday the class members were examined physically by a staff of 16 doctors who had been assembled in the Business Administration Building in accord with the arrangements

College Publications Call For Candidates

The College's two literary publications, the Cowl, school newspaper, and the Alembic magazine, are looking for talent. If your literary talent remains to be discovered, let the editors of the publications do the exploring.

The editor of the Alembic, Robert Doherty, 49, has material enough for the Fall issue, tentatively scheduled for release on November 1. Now is the time, however, for potential writers to contribute for future issues of which there will be one more this semester and two the next. Short stories, essays, book reviews, poems, articles, cartoons are what the Alembic wants.

Your manuscripts should be typewritten, double spaced. Use one side of the sheet only. Deposit the finished articles in the Cowl mailbox located in the rotunda on the second floor of Harkin's near the bulletin board.

Editor Doherty suggests that if you have an idea for a story or article but are in doubt as to how to go about writing it, drop in at the Alembic office, which is now located off the rotunda. Regular office hours will soon be established for the Alembic board of review which judges submitted material and offers written or

College Adds New Members To Staff; Fr. Georges Returns

Faculty changes for the new scholastic year of 1948-49 were officially released by the Administration Office for publication this week. A staff of seventy Priests, augmented by a score of Lay professors, provides a wide range of instruction in both the academic and technical departments. Increased enrollment here at the College and in the Extension School has necessitated a proportionate expansion of the teaching staff in order to maintain the traditionally high scholastic standards of this institution.

Several priests are resuming their professional duties here after extensive graduate work in their respective fields and other Clerical assignments. Among them are the Rev. I. A. Georges, O.P., previously assigned to the Christian Brothers College, Memphis, Tenn., who joins the philosophy department together with the Rev. Joseph J. Jurasko, O.P., who was a member of St. Joseph's Priory, Somerset, Ohio. The Rev. John T. Dittoe, O.P., from St. Mary of the Springs, Columbus, Ohio, and the Rev. Joseph I. McGuinness, O.P., of the Dominican House of Studies, Washington, D. C., will teach Theology here. Rev. Michael P. James, O.P., who has concluded studies at Catholic University will assume duties in the economics department; Rev. Francis R. Prout, O.P., returns to teach Latin after completing graduate studies in Latin at the University of Pennsylvania; Rev. John D. Brackett, O.P., Professor of German, is back from Freiburg, Switzerland; and the Rev. Edward H. Galligher, O.P., recently awarded a Ph.D. in Mathematics from the University of Cincinnati, will join the Mathematics Department.

Leaving the campus for various posts throughout the country were the Rev. John F. Ryan, O.P., who joined the Holy Name Society Staff at its National Headquarters in New York, and Dr. Daniel J. O'Neill, Ph.D., President of St. Joseph's College, Portland, Maine. The Rev. Thomas H. Kaufman, O.P., is now stationed at St. Mary of the Springs College, Columbus, Ohio. The Rev. Bruno C. Zvirblis, O.P., has undertaken philosophical studies at Catholic University.

Cowl Awarded 1st Class Paper Rating

The Providence College Cowl has been awarded a first class rating in the Thirty-Ninth All-American critical service conducted by the Associated Collegiate Press for college newspapers.

The publications from colleges and universities all over the country are separated into groups according to the enrollment of the school and the number of times the paper is published during the week.

The rating of the paper was determined by comparison with other papers in the same group rather than by judging it with a perfect paper. No arbitrary yardstick was used but the judgment was made as to where the paper would stand in its own group by virtue of its accomplishments.

The Cowl made the first class group by a wide margin over the minimum requirements and was not far short of gaining All-American Honors, the top rating.

SENIORS NOMINATE OFFICERS AT FIRST CLASS ASSEMBLY

The seniors, imbued with the Fall election fever, nominated candidates for the class offices at their first general assembly in the Harkins Hall auditorium yesterday afternoon. The Rev. William R. Clark, O.P., class moderator, presided.

Father Clark, in outlining the procedure to be used in the balloting, urged the seniors to vote wisely but not often. The men elected, he said, will be the directors of all class activities.

A preliminary ballot, listing all the candidates, will be distributed to the seniors today. The three men receiving the majority of votes for each office will be listed on the final ballot scheduled for distribution Friday.

Printed rules concerning the regulations governing the election and also the time and the place of the voting will be found on the ballot.

Fr. Rubba To Vest Tertiaries Sunday

The Rev. John Rubba, O.P., director of the college chapter of the Third Order of St. Dominic, will vest approximately 25 students with the scapular of that order at services in Aquinas Hall Chapel next Sunday evening at seven o'clock. Following the services, the tertiaries and potential members will join the rest of the student body at Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament at the Grotto.

The Providence College Chapter of the Dominican Tertiaries, inaugurated at the close of last semester is undergoing a rebirth under the direction of Father Rubba.

At a meeting held last Sunday evening in Harkins Hall, the Rev. Norbert Wendell, O.P., National Director of the Dominican Tertiaries, addressed 40 interested students on the reason for the forming of the Third Order and its aims and purposes. Stressing that "it is not another sodality, but a way of life," Father Wendell emphasized the fact that the tertiary living in the world can spread the Catholic way of living most effectively by example.

It is planned to have monthly services of the Third Order during which the office will be chanted by the tertiaries and aspiring students and Benediction will be celebrated.

Father Rubba points out the fact that the set of rules is not difficult to live by but are merely the rules

ALMA MATER

Once again the Campus teems with life as many hundreds of students return to their Alma Mater to resume a variety of academic and technical pursuits. And 'Loving Mother' that she is, our college promises a full measure of learning and culture in exchange for the diligence and devotion of her Sons.

As youngsters we watched the swift passage of the summer vacation with horror, and with reluctant schoolboy hearts . . . 'crept like a snail' back to our lessons. The college man, however, returns to the campus full of enthusiasm and eager anticipation of many more happy and fruitful hours spent in a cherished and hallowed environment. His earnest efforts to equip himself mentally and morally for a purposeful career indicate the wholesome attitude of today's collegian in contrast to the racoon coat and hip flask devotee of a generation ago. He vests himself with the armor of Knowledge and drinks from the flagon of Truth . . . Veritas!

The motto of our Alma Mater nobly represents the intellectual and moral standards which are our heritage here at Providence College. We seek the Truth and we need the Truth in the tumultuous world of today and tomorrow. Good friends and good times are an integral part of collegiate life. Good marks and good records are a criterion of our intellectual progress. Socially and economically they prepare us for a successful professional career. The true purpose of our education and the only real formula for eternal, as well as temporal security, however, is to cultivate our souls as well as our minds.

Your Alma Mater welcomes you back to her bosom! She wants you to profit from your studies and your extra-curricular activities. And most important of all she prays that you will make adequate provision in your schedule for the daily practice of your Religion.

— Late Bulletins —

Seumas MacManus, noted Irish historian, novelist and story teller, will speak at all class assemblies Tuesday, October 5.

Commencement exercises for the Class of '49 will start a week earlier than previous years by beginning May 29 and ending May 31. June 4 will be Alumni Day.

The Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., will preach the sermon at the solemn closing of Our Lady of the Rosary Novena Sunday night at eight in the Grotto.

Ten Minute Break

By J. V. S.

This being the first issue of the school year, I suppose it would be considered proper to welcome the Freshmen. Hello Freshmen. To you others who are returning, hello again.

The college is growing up and the faculty hopes that the students are also. That remains to be seen. You know that old story "you play ball with me and I'll play ball with you"; well, that sage bit of advice really gets tossed around here. Sooner or later someone gets tired of playing ball. It's usually the professor. He doesn't want to pass (you) anymore.

They have another saying around here. It goes something like this: "A Providence college student is a gentleman at all times". However, it requires a superabundant store of the virtues to keep yourself composed. For example, last year Billy the Kid was considered extra fast when it came to copping half filled coffee cups from the cafeteria tables. But during the summer he developed a side arm curve which just sneaks up behind you and whisks your beverage away. But Billy is not the only one now for there are two others who are fast learning how to snag half eaten sandwiches. Maybe these guys are working on a commission basis. I'll have to see the cafeteria coordinators (Pete, Romeo, and Jim).

A welcome sight to strained vacation eyes was the absence of the island in the rear of Harkins Hall. Now sleepy-eyed dorm student and accelerator-happy commuters will be able to duel in the early a. m. Before it was too one sided. The advantage was clearly with the driver because he couldn't see the pedestrian. Now the Rock residents can dash out in front and step back and cause all sorts of you know what.

Charlie Devron and Jack Mowry, the two campus cops and retired city bluecoats, will celebrate their first anniversary on the job next week. Neither one, luckily for the College, has had to make an arrest. However, they are the best informers the Dean of Discipline has. You just try parking that bike, car or scooter of yours where you shouldn't.

The new day-hop lounge in Harkins Hall already has that lived in look. P. C. Students can just about lounge anyplace. Oh those after dinner dozes are delightful. However, a coke, cookie machine and clock would be welcome additions.

It will be interesting to note the Carolan Club's progress in making the Freshmen residents "snap to". Put husky Gene Fargeorge (now the papa of two girls age 5 weeks and fifteen months) in the center stairway and I'll guarantee you that no two Freshmen will pass.

Ex Cowl men the Messrs. Louis FitzGerald (Advertising) and R. Knickerbocker Jr. (English) are new additions to the faculty. Other ex-publications men already on the teaching staff are the Messrs. John Breen (Business) and Joseph Brennan (English). Mr. Harold Sandler, recently crowned tennis champ (single-double) of Fall River back again teaching German along with Frosh English.

The territorial clubs are starting to get organized again. The bulletin boards are beginning to sag with an overload of notices. Club secretaries can have meeting notices published in this column by dropping a line in the Cowl mailbox.

What Say?

At the present reading, students who have no classes whatsoever in Harkins Hall are required to make a special, and very often, futile, trip to that building at least once daily to check up on the official bulletin board. Suggestion has been made that an official board be put up in both the Science and Business buildings, for the convenience of the student, and as a means of bettering the bulletin board system.

THE PRESIDENT'S GREETING

It is with a keen sense of responsibility that we greet our student body at the opening of our academic year. This responsibility has its roots in the largest enrollment Providence College has had in its thirty years of promoting the Arts and Sciences. Our Freshman Class numbers close to seven hundred students. Our entire student body approaches the mark of nineteen hundred young men. When the Extension School students are added to this number, our enrollment will be in the neighborhood of twenty six hundred. Your parents and your community look to us to fulfill in you the best that Catholic education under the aegis of the Dominican Fathers has to offer. We have prepared for this large body of students by expanding our classroom facilities and enlarging our staff by twenty-four professors. The Catholic Church has been the Mother of Civilization and has left her mark on all knowledge. Because of her interest in the Natural Sciences and her recognition of their place in the life of a student, the Dominican Faculty at Providence College has opened Albertus Magnus Science Hall at the cost of well over one million dollars.

We are thankful to Almighty God for the blessings He has bestowed upon our College and remind you, our students, that even as the Goodness of God is the Cause of all things, so do we dedicate you at the beginning of this scholastic year to His watchful Providence. All your labors as well as ours must have as their purpose to glorify the Goodness of God.

The true function of education is to change people, to make them different than they were before. Whatever convictions any of us may have concerning the changes that education should effect are dictated by what we conceive to be the meaning and purpose of life. We know that there is a philosophy of life which is peculiarly and characteristically Catholic. It is based upon our religious faith and our fundamental attitude towards that faith. The things that would satisfy other people who have a different conviction simply would not do for the Catholic. There are those whose philosophy of life is completely secular; they propose to know nothing about an immortal soul, and refuse to entertain the concept of original sin. Providence College asserts that there is a kind of education whose aim, content and method is different from an education that is not Catholic. Our College seeks to cooperate with Divine Grace in transforming a child of the flesh into a child of the spirit. Our late Holy Father Pope Pius XI has told us that the true Christian product of education is "the supernatural man who judges and acts constantly and consistently in accordance with right reason, illumined by the supernatural life of the example and teaching of Christ."

It should go without saying that an education that aims at such outcomes cannot be acquired in a school that tries to be neutral in all that pertains to religion. The very assertion of religious neutrality implies that religion is a thing apart and does not enter into our daily lives. A College is Catholic when everything about it, its curriculum, its discipline, its atmosphere, speaks of Jesus Christ, when the Catholic philosophy of life dominates the teaching of every subject, when theology is the heart and soul of it and not just another branch of study.

In his treatise on temperance, St. Thomas Aquinas describes the virtues of studiousness and the vice of curiosity. Studiousness inclines a man to be serious and steadfast in the application of his mind to things worth learning. In contrast, the ways with which many men devote themselves solely to acquiring information seems to express curiosity. Added to the virtue of studiousness, our students also must express the virtue of docility which regulates a man's will with respect to learning from a teacher. It is by docility that we recognize the teacher as a master in his field and respect his authority.

The vices of excess and defect are subservience and indocility. Subservience makes one agree to a demonstration when he does not actually understand it. Docility demands that judgment be suspended and the student with patience and perseverance continue to submit his mind to instruction. In its horror of subservience, the modern mind tends to the opposite vice of brash indocility. We pray to the patron of learning, St. Thomas Aquinas, that he will beseech Almighty God to bestow upon our student body the virtues of studiousness and docility.

It is our constant prayer that under the protection of Almighty God and His Blessed Mother you will persevere in your studies at Providence College. If your labors are earnest and serious and your prayers constant and regular, you will have a successful year at Providence College. May God bless all of you.

The Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P.

SPORTS PROGRAM GETS UNDERWAY SOON

SPORTS PANORAMA

by Dave Connors, Jr.

With the Boston Braves having already clinched the National League pennant and the American League entering the last few days of the greatest race in its history baseball seems to be the main topic of all sports enthusiasts at the present time. However the sports program here at P. C. will soon be getting underway and it promises to be the biggest and best at the Friar institution in a number of years.

Head track coach Harry Coates is the first to get underway already putting some of his trackmen through their paces. Coates starting his first full year at P. C. looks forward to having a fairly good track team. Of course track teams are not built in a day nor a year but Coates facing the greatest challenge in his track career, which has been long and famous, feels that this year will see P. C. starting the long climb to the top of the field.

Next week Larry Drew will call out candidates for his Friar basketball club. It seems a long way off but the opening contest on the P. C. schedule is only a matter of two months away. Just as collegiate football teams the nation over have cut the practise of opening their schedule against weak and over-powered teams so have most of the collegiate basketball teams followed the same pattern that of opening against strong teams right from the start and no one can say that Providence College has not followed suit. For the third game on the Friar schedule will see one of the nations best basketball team, Holy Cross, invading Providence. And isn't that a nice little bundle of worry for Larry Drew for the next two months. No wonder coaches grow grey at such an early age.

P. C. GREAT

George 'Birdie' Tebbets who graduated from Providence College in 1934 has been receiving rave notices all through the summer as one of the key men in the great struggle the Boston Red Sox are making for the American League pennant.

Sold to the Red Sox a little over a year ago by the Detroit Tigers and thought to be all washed up the Nashua, N. H. boy has been enjoying the greatest season of his career. The latest figures show 'Birdie' was batting .280 and with a high number of runs batted in considering that he has batted in the eighth slot all year.

However more important has been his handling of perhaps the poorest

VARSITY BASKETBALL

The Varsity basketball squad will hold its initial workout next Monday afternoon in Harkins Hall. Although it seems a little early for basketball what with baseball and football just beginning, Providence College will open its basketball schedule in just two months so Larry Drew is anxious to get underway.

pitching staff any contender has ever had. The Red Sox do not boast one pitcher that absolutely could be called a stopper. Yet they have managed to stay right at the top ever since their spectacular mid-season dash from eleven and a half games out.

FOOTBALL CONTEST

In an attempt to improve our sports pages each year we have tried to think of something new and inviting for the student body. Beginning this week and continuing on through the fall the Cowl will print a list of the ten leading collegiate games each week and the Boston Yanks game of the particular week. All the students have to do is tear the entry from the paper fill out the blank and deposit it in the Cowl Box by the bulletin boards. All entries must be in the box by Friday evening at 6 o'clock each week.

The winner will be judged on the number of games picked correctly but each entrant will be required to put the score of the games in also because in case of a tie the ultimate winner will be decided by the closest score.

The contest is open only to the students, faculty and employees of the college. The winner each week will receive two tickets to a professional football game in Boston.

Any students interested in trying out for the Cowl sports staff are requested to report to the Cowl office Friday afternoon at 1:30. Because of the number of returning sports reporters from last year this will be the only call for new candidates.

HAROLD SANDLER P.C. INSTRUCTOR TENNIS TITLIST

Harold Sandler, instructor in German and English at Providence College, regained his pre-war tennis form this past summer and stroked his way to the Fall River singles and doubles tennis championships. Winning the City title in Fall River was nothing new to Harold, as he consistently won the singles championship from 1938 - 1941.

While a student at P. C., graduating with the class of '36, Harold was outstanding in Eastern Collegiate tennis circles. He was a member of the sensational 1936 P. C. tennis team, perhaps the best in the school's history, which compiled a record of 9 wins as opposed to 1 defeat. During two seasons of varsity collegiate tennis competition, Harold lost but one match.

COACHES MAKING PREPARATION TRAINER NEW ADDITION TO STAFF

By JACK SHEA

Undoubtedly one of the major questions in the minds of the incoming freshmen is that concerned with the athletic situation at P. C. Although no Friar eleven will take to the gridiron this fall, the outlook for winter and spring sports is somewhat brighter. All important in any discussion of sports at the College is the Athletic Staff.

Heading the staff is the Athletic Director, Rev. Aloysius B. Begley. Under him are Mr. Lawrence Drew, head coach of basketball and freshman baseball mentor, Mr. Harold L. Martin, head coach of baseball, Mr. Harold Coates, coach of track, and Pete Louthis, trainer.

Under Father Begley, sports have had a rebirth at Providence College. Since all varsity athletics were curtailed here during the war, Father Begley faced the task of completely reorganizing the athletic program.

Father Begley played a large role in getting track adopted as a major sport here at Providence, and he is striving to organize a varsity hockey team at the college.

Larry Drew returned from the service to finish his education at P. C. midway through the 1945-46 basketball season. Immediately he took up where he left off and became the mainstay of the Friar quintet. Larry was one of Providence's outstanding court stars in pre-war days. As a guard on the outstanding 1941-42 squad, which was the second highest scoring team in the nation, he gained a reputation for being one of the best backboard men ever to wear the black and white of Providence College. The season following his graduation in 1946, Larry was given the coaching position here.

The sport in which Providence College has gained its greatest fame in the past, is baseball. From the infancy of the school in the twenties right through to the outbreak of the war, Providence College was always looked upon as one of the baseball powers of the East. As coach of baseball, Hal Martin inherited the task of bringing P. C. back to the forefront in collegiate baseball circles.

Martin is not without experience in the field of baseball. He captained the Providence College nine in 1939, and was reputed as an outstanding catcher. Later he played professional ball in the Eastern and New England Leagues, and while in the Army he was a very successful player-coach for one of the leading service teams. Last season under Coach Martin, the Friars compiled a record of 8 wins and 5 losses against some of the better collegiate teams in this sector.

Last spring marked the birth of track at Providence College, and the Friars were fortunate in obtaining for a coach a man who brought with him a nationally famous reputation as a builder of track champions. Harry Coates coached at Seton Hall College and Prep for the past decade, and previously to that was track coach at Villanova. His teams at Seton Hall, both collegiate and prep school, ranked with the best in the country. He was especially successful in developing crack relay teams.

Rounding out the athletic staff is the trainer, Pete Louthis. Pete is quite an outstanding figure himself in the sports world. A graduate of P. C., he was at one time the New England Amateur heavyweight boxing champion. At present he is an active professional heavyweight, and has met some of the leading contenders in that division.

Intramural Football Begins Next Week

Intramural touch football which proved to be so popular the past few years will start again next week Larry Drew announced today. Entries for all teams must be handed in at the Athletic Office in Harkins Hall no later than Friday of this week.

The Freshmen will play Tuesday and Thursday afternoon at 12:30 and the upperclassmen will play on the remaining days beginning at one thirty.

Frosh Basketball Starts In Two Weeks

By Bob Flanagan

Freshmen basketball candidates make it a date to meet your coach, Mr. Larry Drew, this afternoon at 12:00 at the athletic locker room in Harkins Hall. Admission free, so don't be afraid to give it a try. Since the formation of a college basketball team is a tedious task, the athletic department plans to "get going" as soon as possible. A squad of workable size must be chosen and fashioned into shape for the opening game in late November.

It is not just a team that is wanted to represent the Providence College freshmen, but a good team and a winning team. A team that is willing to work, to learn, and above all to fight.

Last year, as many of you Frosh may have learned, P. C. proudly possessed one of the topnotch freshman clubs in New England. Beaten only three times in twenty contests, the 1947-48 yearlings claimed victories over every leading freshmen team in the New England area, except the powerful Bruins of Brown University. Some of the Dremen victims included the Frosh of Springfield, Rhode Island State, Boston College; the varsity teams of Bryant and R.I.C.E.; La Salle Academy; and many more outstanding foes.

PROFESSOR RETURNS

Rev. Irving S. Georges, O.P.

Popular Professor Returns From South Without "Drawl"

Thoroughly enjoying his "home-coming," even though nostalgic for that "soft Southern drawl," Father Irving A. Georges, O. P., has returned to the campus after one year at Christian Brothers' College in Memphis, Tenn., where he taught Philosophy and Sociology.

It is indeed a home-coming for Fr. Georges. He had been at Providence College since 1923 when he left in 1947 to help the Brothers in Memphis. During his nineteen years he had become a familiar and beloved figure on P. C.'s campus, having been active not only in the teaching field but in extra-curricular affairs as well. Some of the alumni like to recall episodes, one rather outstanding, at the Junior Prom of years ago when Fr. Georges was moderator of the Junior class.

Back at his desk, lecturing in Philosophy, he admits he misses the affability and hospitality of Memphis, but admits too that he was unable to acquire the Southern accent.

668 Freshmen Start Collegiate Career

of William A. Horan, M. D., chairman, and Frederick J. Burns, M. D., and Edwin B. O'Reilly, M.D., Directors of the College Health Department. Immediately after this physical exam, the students filed into the Mobile Unit of the Rhode Island Tuberculosis League in order to have chest X-rays taken. Class pictures were taken concluding the day's program.

Thursday and Friday the freshmen found their program high-lighted with exams of a more academic nature. As a class they took the psychological, English placement, general achievement and language placement examinations, in that order.

According to the Reverend Daniel F. Reilly, O.P., Dean of Freshmen, the new class, totaling six hundred and sixty, is divided as follows: Two hundred and thirty two have enrolled in the school of Arts; two hundred and fifty nine have enrolled in the school of Science with concentrations in biology, physics or chemistry while the remaining one hundred and sixty-nine have enrolled in the school of Business Administration.

"I smoked CHESTERFIELDS off stage while making my new picture, THE LOVES OF CARMEN. There's no finer smoke. I know..."

It's MY cigarette."

oral criticism. Those interested are urged to watch the bulletin board for announcements concerning future meetings.

The Cowl, although some people hesitate to call it a literary publication, is also issuing a call for candidates. There is all kinds of work for all kinds of people on the Cowl. Reporters, businessmen, typists and messengers are urgently needed.

If you are interested in working for the Cowl, watch the bulletin board for the time of the next meeting. Underclassmen will be accorded special attention.

of everyday conduct that are followed by the Catholic gentleman.

Potential members undergo a period of three months of acquainting themselves with the order. At that time, if they so desire and are accepted by the order, they may enter as novices for one year. During that time, while carrying on their regular worldly pursuits, they are supposed to read the office or to say the Rosary daily. At the end of their novitiate, if they desire, they are then accepted into the order.

Junior Students Meet Moderator

a B mark will show that the student's work is highly satisfactory; An A, a mark of superiority, will not be given lightly but will not be unjustly withheld. Father Dore also said plus and minus shadings will not be given for semester marks.

Masses are being held at 7:30 a. m. and 8:00 a. m. both in the chapel at Aquinas Hall and in the Oratory on the first floor of Harkin's Hall, said Father McKenna, as he urged a stronger religious spirit among the students. Defending the building of the Grotto, as a war memorial instead of a new gymnasium or faculty hall, Father McKenna declared that the prayers of these at the Grotto would immensely aid the war dead as well as themselves. On the other hand, a new gymnasium or other building as a war memorial would be for the exclusive use of the living. Father McKenna added that Masses would be held in the Grotto at 8:00 a. m. during the month of October every day but Sunday. He concluded by urging the student body to sign up for visits to the Blessed Sacrament on First Fridays from 8:00 a. m. to 1:00 p. m.
