

GROTTO FUND CAMPAIGN STARTS NEXT WEEK

SENIORS STAGE INFORMAL DANCE FRIDAY IN HARKIN'S

The "Forty-Niners" dance is this Friday night. Vocalist Tommy McMann and his nine piece "Spotlight" band will inaugurate the evening's festivities in the transplanted mining village of "Harkinsville" at nine o'clock amid a gay westcoast background. Tickets for this all student affair are on sale in the rotunda, and can be had from any member of the senior committee. The price is two-dollars.

Novel decorations, coupled with an air of informality, will provide the immediate background for this occasion. The decoration committee is working on a hitching post for the rotunda in addition to a tripod cooking stove complete with cooking coals. The dance floor, the committee says, will be simply adorned. But they promise something "really" different in the way of a centerpiece.

The student lounge will also be an integral part of the proceedings. Refreshments, cider and doughnuts, will be served from an impromptu bar-room. And of course, the Friar Foto picture salon will occupy a prominent spot.

"Buttons and Bows for my lady" and "spotted shirts and slacks for the gents" are the suggested dress for the dance. The committee has listed an appropriate line-up of wearing apparel in the rotunda for those who are in doubt as to what constitutes informal wear.

Orators Voice Views On Educational Aid

The first organized inter-class debate will take place this evening at seven o'clock in Room 300 of Harkins Hall. These inter-class debates are held principally to acquaint the new debaters with the system of debate and to prepare the veteran debaters for the full schedule of meetings with other colleges during the remainder of the year.

The adage "practice makes perfect" is put into play in this club with every debater participating in at least one of these inter-class sessions.

All students, their friends, and anyone else interested are invited to attend. The topic for this evening will be "Federal Aid to Education."

The affirmative team is comprised of William McPherson and Cliff Crowley coached by Francis Boyle, secretary of the club. The negative side of the question will be upheld by Thomas Malloy and Joseph Parenti directed by John Mutter, president of the Club.

SENIOR PICTURES

Proofs of Senior pictures that were taken a week ago may be picked up in the Veritas Office in Donnelly Hall.

On display are the various sizes of pictures, folders and finishes that may be ordered from the Luckett Studios.

Yearbook Editor Appoints Staff

John Feeley of Uxbridge, Mass., editor-in-chief of the yearbook, has announced the appointments to the Veritas staff.

Valentine Cruz and Edward Sullivan of Providence, and Joseph Shanley of New Haven, Conn., have been named Associate Editors.

William Curran of Millis, Mass., is the Business Manager. The advertising staff numbers six members: Norman Coutu, Central Falls, Kevin Griffin, Holyoke, Mass., Frank DiIuglio, Woodbridge, Conn., Arthur Rogers and Edward McGarvey, both of Hartford, Conn., and John Lynch, Taunton, Mass.

60 Students Attend Third Order Meeting

Over sixty students attended a meeting of the Third Order of St. Dominic held last Thursday in the lounge of Aquinas Hall.

The Rev. John C. Rubba, O.P., moderator of the Tertiaries, conducted a discussion on the organization and the purpose of the Third Order.

The members approved the suggestion of making a pilgrimage to a shrine in Canada.

After the business meeting was concluded, the Tertiaries and aspirants practiced the chanting of the office in the Aquinas Chapel.

Father Rubba thanked the students and advised them to interest others in the Third Order.

Evening Meeting For Flying Club

For the convenience of members, an evening meeting has been scheduled for the College Flying Club, Thursday, November 18 at seven-thirty in room 300 of Harkins Hall.

The fact that the group is to assemble in the evening rather than during the school day will mean, according to Flight leader, Doctor Vincent Oddo, increased attendance and a better representation of the four College Classes.

A reading of the club's by-laws will be among the first orders of business, says the Rev. Walter A. Murtaugh, O. P., club moderator. Finances, a flight schedule, and subjects of instruction will also be discussed and acted upon.

New Cowl Moderator

Rev. Edward P. Doyle, O. P.

Fr. Doyle Appointed To Succeed Fr. Clark

The Rev. Edward P. Doyle, O.P., will succeed the Rev. William R. Clark, O.P., as moderator of the Cowl commencing with this issue, it was announced Monday from the office of the president.

Father Clark, who took over the reigns of the Cowl in September 1947, will now devote his "free time talents" to other extra-curricular activities. At present he is moderator of the Senior class, the Veritas, and program planner for the class assemblies.

Father Doyle will also continue as moderator of the Junior class.

Press Association Meets at Aquinas

The Rhode Island Intercollegiate Press Association will hold its first meeting of the Fall term in the lounge of Aquinas Hall next Saturday afternoon starting at two o'clock.

Arthur Rogers, Advertising Manager of the Cowl, is president of the organization which was formed in the Fall of '47 at the instigation of Mr. Frank Greene, P.C. alumnus, and present member of the R. I. C. E. faculty.

Its purpose is the mutual exchange of ideas and views on Collegiate publications and also to encourage and stimulate newspaper interest in the high schools of R. I.

Plans for the coming Press Association exhibit along with the formation of a temporary committee for the revue of college yearbooks will highlight the gathering.

At the conclusion of the meeting a buffet supper will be served under the direction of Mr. Murphy.

Other officers of the R. I. I. P. A. are Vice President Betty Pryce of R. I. C. E., Secretary Joseph O'Brien of the Y. M. C. A. Junior College, Treasurer Frank Pritchard of Rhode Island State College.

Over Two Hundred At Autumn Festival

Approximately one hundred couples danced to the music of George Johnson and his band last Saturday night in the lounge of Aquinas Hall. The event was the Autumn Festival, sponsored by the Carolan Club of the College. In the Penquin Room of the Hall, a fourpiece combination band (Continued on page 4)

Chaplain Plans Gigantic Penny Sale to Raise Funds for Elimination of Debt on Grotto

The Rev. Charles H. McKenna, Chaplain of the college, announced today that the drive to clear the indebtedness on the Grotto of Our Lady of the Rosary, the College War Memorial, will commence next week. The grand prize again this year will be a five-room Cape Cod house, valued at nine thousand dollars. A 1949 Ford will be awarded as the second prize and the third award will be a $1,135 Stromberg-Carlson combination phonograph Radio and Television set.

Judge McCabe Talks On Child Problem

How the state guards and guides the children under its jurisdiction was outlined by Judge Francis J. McCabe, Presiding Judge of the R. I. Juvenile Court, in an address before the Junior and Senior class assemblies yesterday.

Judge McCabe, an alumnus of the college, stressed the fact that the Juvenile Court is not a criminal court but a court of equity. In a court of equity, a defendant is ordered to do something or ordered to refrain from doing something. In a criminal court, punishment is exacted, but no child appearing before the Juvenile Court will suffer the stigma of a criminal record.

Out of 22,000,000 children from seven to eighteen years, said Judge McCabe, approximately 200,000 or one per cent are delinquents. The Juvenile Court has jurisdiction over dependent and neglected children, adopted children under sixteen, and illegitimate children.

Pointing out the role that men of the College can play in preventing juvenile delinquency, Judge McCabe said that as individuals and as members of organizations, College men can counsel and instruct by their good example the children with whom they come into contact.

New Havenites Plan For New Year's Hop

The second annual New Year's Eve dance conducted by the New Haven club will be held this year at the Seven Gables Town Hall, according to word received from the club president Frank Di Iuglio.

Present plans include a buffet supper served at eleven o'clock with dancing preceding and following the meal. The usual noisemakers and paper streamers will be distributed upon entering.

The alumni of Providence College residing in the New Haven area are being contacted by mail and by a special committee made up from the undergraduate club. Last year many alumni attended the dance and contributed to making the dance a huge social success.

Bids are being sold to the undergraduates of the club at this time and it is hoped by the officers that the response will be one hundred percent. Those interested in attending the dance can purchase a bid from any of the club officers or members.

The drawing for these items will be held at the Winter Carnival which will take place towards the end of February and will be at either the Rhode Island Auditorium or the Cranston Street Armory. Unlike previous events, this festival will take the form of a tremendous Penny Sale. Over five hundred valuable prizes will be given away, among them are electric refrigerators, television sets, electric washing machines, ladies and men's wrist watches, automatic toasters, and Canadian blankets.

If the person winning the house is present at the time of the drawing one thousand dollars will be given towards the furniture or the purchase of the lot. A door prize, possibly another automobile or a cash award, will also be given.

The goal of the drive is $50,000. Last year, in a similar campaign with only one prize, a five-room Cape Cod house, forty one thousand dollars was raised. At that time, however, the alumni were solicited and their contributions were most helpful in reaching that goal. This year each student will be given two books of tickets at the beginning of the campaign. Father McKenna concluded by saying:

"It is hoped that every one will do all in his power to dispose of these books and to sell even more." A fifty dollar award will be given to the student selling the largest number of tickets. Each book will contain thirty six tickets to be sold at 35 cents each, three tickets for one dollar. The student returns only eleven dollars on each book, thus making at least one dollar on each book of tickets he sells."

Frosh Nominations End Saturday Noon

Freshmen have only three more days in which to turn in nominations for the coming election of class officers, the Rev. Edward H. Gallagher, O.P., freshman moderator, said this week. Nominations will close at noon Saturday, November 20, and only those names submitted before that date will be accepted.

"A keen interest in the coming elections is being displayed by the members of the Freshman Class", Fr. Gallagher added.

Nominations can be given either to Fr. Gallagher, freshman moderator, or left with the clerk at the information booth, Harkins Hall. Nomination results will be announced at the Freshman assembly on November 23.

Election of a president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer will take place at the assembly on December 7, in the auditorium.

PAGING SAINT PATRICK

Among the legends concerning Ireland's Patron Saint, perhaps none is more familiar than the story of Patrick and the snakes. According to tradition, while he was reposing on a bleak mountain-top in Connaught praying for the spread of the Faith among the people, a multitude of odious demons assaulted him.

Patrick begged God to spare him these distractions, and moved by inspiration he rang the little bell which he carried as a symbol of his preaching. The sound of the bell dispersed the evil spirits and henceforth, according to the legend, 'for seven years no evil thing was to be found in Ireland'.

Purge On Our Campus

There is need of a great purge on our campus today such as that which Patrick effected in Ireland. We refer to the abusive extreme which student lillery has reached both within and outside the classroom. It is not the good natured banter which usually typifies collegiate humor. A sense of humor is a saving virtue, but it is usually spontaneous and is always limited by circumstances and propriety. We see nothing wholesome in the venomous barrage of spitting and hissing which delineates the attitude of a portion of the student body. The 'Voice of the Serpent' hardly deserves to become a hallowed Providence College tradition.

Regardless of the motives which may prompt this negative attitude of "always belittling", it certainly reflects an unflattering intellectual and emotional immaturity among so called "college men". As human beings we have been endowed with powers of speech in order to assert our opinions in an intelligent manner. If we wish to criticize constructively we can at least practice a policy of objective, self-expression.

Poor Sportsmanship

As red-blooded Americans we deplore poor sportsmanship in athletic competition, and yet in our relations with each other and with our professors we demonstrate a deplorable lack of character at times. There is not too much difference between a Hiss and a Heil when it comes to identifying ourselves as rebellious rabble. This viper has rested in our collegiate bosom for too long; it will seriously pollute our spirit unless it is exterminated.

It is up to the student body collectively and individually to work a reform in this matter. To correct a bad habit the reformation must come from within; we must cultivate an attitude of mutual respect towards our teachers and each other. There are undoubtedly those who will see in this indictment only a source for further ridicule and sarcasm. However, our appeal is directed to the mature majority who have always sustained the vital, healthy spirit of the college.

When Saint Patrick rang his bell the serpents left Ireland for seven years. With undergraduate support we can exterminate our local variety of vermin for "seven times longer than either you or I can say". And if you want to see just who needs deflating about the campus take a look around you the next time the forked tongues start flickering.

Condolence

The faculty and student body extend deepest sympathy to the Rev. James W. Backett, O. P., on the recent death of his father.

Ten Minute Break

By J. V. S.

Suggestion: The letter marking system is causing no end of consternation among certain segments of the student body. It seems that when you got an eighty in bygone days, for instance, you knew just where you stood. Now, it appears that you can get either a B or a C in addition to a minus or plus factor. The confusion doesn't seem to rest in the fairness of the grading but, rather, how one goes about computing his final mark. Just how many minus and plus factors make up a whole and vice-versa. And, further, in objective tests the system seems rather strained.

Now the suggestion is that someone explain the workings of this system at the various class assemblies, or at other general meetings. The system was tried and found true in other colleges. But, evidently, it is being tried here and isn't impressing a lot of people as being very true.

Movies or De Gustibus Non Est Disputandum. "A Song is Born" with Danny Kay should never have been "delivered". And the "doctor" (producer) who did should be barred from practicing. The music in the show is good, but so are records. Kay performs capably enough, but doesn't give out with any tongue-twisting double-talk. And, as is the case in most musicals, there just isn't any story.

Changing roles is getting to be quite a vogue in Hollywood these days. Established stars who gained fame via serious or humorous vehicles resent being "typed," so they go off on a limb and try to prove their versatility. But more often than not the public doesn't like the change. Principally because they can't wear their new clothes well. It is the old story of "not letting well enough alone."

This Friday. "Forty-niners" dance in Harkins Hall. Everyone is invited. Novel decorations, informal atmosphere, and a smooth dance band will make the evening an unforgettable one. And it is for a good cause, the senior yearbook.

Will be missed. The Cowl staff joins me in extending sincere thanks to Father Clark for all he has done to further the interest of the school paper. Father Clark was more than a moderator, he was "one of the boys." We do hope, however, that he won't be too busy with his thousand and one chores to find time to lend a little of his spirit to our endeavors. Certainly, "Mr. Friar Foto" can't walk out on us completely.

General Chatter. Juniors wondering where to hold the Junior Prom. Doesn't seem to be a dance hall big enough in R. I. — Student tickets for Hamlet ought to be coming around the Dean of Discipline's office pretty soon — Frank Moniz and his motorcycle enthusiasts are still looking for more bikes and members — Father Clark is also looking for volunteers — Like to make 500 bucks, just write an acceptable short story for the publishers of TOMORROW magazine — Now that Lincoln Downs has closed for the season, just what will certain guys do. These winter afternoons can be awful long — The debating society has scheduled an inter-class debate for tonight. Members would like to see some students present. Last week nine people attended—the moderator and eight debaters.

Addenda. Princess Elizabeth had a baby Sunday afternoon. That evening four radio comedians cracked jokes about it. And in school Monday I heard a half dozen more. We Americans can certainly classify ourselves as prolific producers of the funny stuff. Yes, one of the jokes going around has to do with Lend-Lease aid to Britain.

... Veterans' Corner ...

By Anthony Jarzombek

The latest communique from the VA Information Division gives us a flock of facts and figures. Most of it should be old stuff to veterans in full-time training, but judging from the steady stream of inquiries that flows into the office of the VA representative in Room 103, some are prone to forget. That, therefore, is the reason for the following statistics.

Subsistence Allowances: You all know the subsistence allowance rates, so we'll skip over that. There is one item of importance, though: most should receive initial checks during the month of November. If you don't receive your check by December 1, contact your VA Regional Office, or the contact representative located in Harkins Hall. However, most veterans will receive their checks on schedule. Lack of complete information, non-receipt of records by the VA Regional Office in this area from the VA Regional Office where your file originally was located, and other factors may mean a delay in getting your name in the subsistence allowance payroll.

Working Part-Time: If you have no dependents, you can earn up to $135 a month without having your subsistence allowance reduced. Any income you earn over that amount will be subtracted, according to law, from the $75 subsistence. If you have one dependent, you may earn up to $165 a month without having your subsistence allowance reduced; if you have more than one dependent, you may earn up to $170 a month. In computing your monthly income, you need not include your wife's income or that occasional check from home.

Dependency Change While in Training: Should you acquire a dependent or additional dependents while in college, notify the VA immediately, submitting adequate proof of the dependency. Proof may be submitted in the form of certified copies of public records of birth, baptism, marriage, divorce, or irrefutable proof of dependency of a parent. Get the proof to the VA as soon as possible, since the VA increases subsistence allowances as of the date proof of the dependency is received, and not to the date the dependent was actually acquired or the VA notified.

Period of Entitlement to GI Training: You are entitled to education for the period you spent in the service between Sept. 16, 1940 and July 25, 1947, plus one year, up to a maximum of four years. If your period of entitlement runs out half-way or more through a semester, the government will carry you through to the end of that semester.

Trading Entitlement Time: If institutional charges exceed $500 a school year, you may pay the additional charge yourself, or authorized the VA to pay the amount exceeding $500. If you choose the latter, your entitlement will be reduced one day for every $2.10 over the $500 maximum.

In the events of change of course or institution, Termination of training, or change of address, the VA must be notified immediately.

Does the P. C. student body want to help a priest in Germany? Have you any old clothes at home which he might find useful? Hundreds of the displaced persons in Germany are Catholic priests in dire need of clothing. An appeal for assistance for them has come from Albert J. McAloon of Newport, class of 1938, at Providence College, a former coordinator with the R. I. Juvenile Court, who is now directing a D.P. office in Munich.

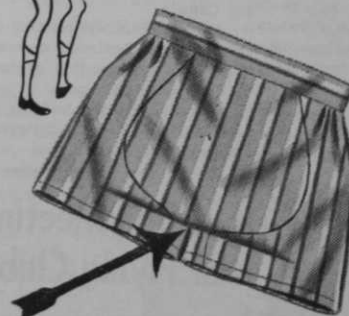

In a letter to the men's group of the Layman's First Friday Club of Rhode Island, Mr. McAloon asks for old or used clothing which the displaced priests might wear. Specifically, he mentions black clothes and Roman collars. Working among fellow DPs the priests will be more easily recognized by their black clothing and collars. However, any and all clean old clothing will be helpful and serve to keep them warm, since most of CARPENTERS NEEDED . . .

Last week one evening just as the sun was setting, a truck load of lumber was dumped on Hendricken Field. It would have been much more appropriate if it had been early morning and the sun just rising, because that truck load of innocent looking boards was the dawn of a new era in P. C. sports.

Not too many years ago, a little college down in New Jersey, little as athletic prominence went, also had a truck load of lumber dropped on their campus. They had a coach down there who used to wear a battered old felt hat and thought he knew something about track but did not have the means of showing the world. However, he and a few of his track athletes, and a handful of students rolled up their sleeves and went to work on that pile of lumber. Soon it was shaped into a running track. It was not considered the best running track in the world, in fact it was just a home made job. But it was adequate and to that coach and his runners, it was the finest board track in the country.

It wasn't many months after the completion of that track that the name of Seton Hall, the little school in New Jersey, began to be heard from in the track world. People began to ask, where is Seton Hall? How do they get the runners?, and who is that coach down there? That was only the beginning, the name of Seton Hall rose higher and higher in the track world and along with it a guy named Harry Coates. They both became synonymous with track throughout the U. S. Seton Hall was rated one of the track powerhouses of the country, their coach rated one, two, three with anybody. Seton Hall is still one of the foremost track names in the country. Harry Coates is no longer one, two, three in the country, he's the best in the U. S.

This week the Providence College track, just a home made one, is under construction. In a few years, and not as long as you might think, runners will go forth from that track to blaze the name of the Providence College Friars on the track world at large. Harry Coates was telling me the other day, "You know, I guess Connie Mack and I are a lot alike. He has had the best in baseball once before, before he is through he is going to have the best again. I've had the best in track before and before I am through, I am going to have champions again." I won't argue that point with Harry. He has proved too many people wrong too many times in the past.

However, before he can put first class runners into competition that track must be constructed, and constructed fast. The cold weather will be setting in soon now. It will have to be up before then. The fastest way to get it up is to have a lot of hands and hammers. The hammers are available, a lot of hands make up the track squad, but that isn't enough. More are needed. If the students of Providence College feel that they in some small way would like to help a fellow, who is trying, and determined, to give them the best in track, please report to Hendricken Field anytime, anyday, and report to Harry Coates. The track will be constructed, regardless of the student help, however, you can speed the process immensely.

Under the Hoop

This is the first in a series of articles introducing the members of the 1948-49 Providence College basketball squad.

Charlie Bresnahan, a veteran of World War II and a native of Providence, Rhode Island, is the captain of the Providence College Friars. Bresnahan is the only senior on the squad and is one of the mainstays on this third edition of Larry Drew's.

'Little' Charlie, as he is called by his teammates, plays one of the forwards positions for the Friar quintet and he can pop the ball through the nets with regularity from any spot on the court. Standing only 5' 8" tall his great shootability makes up for his lack of height.

Bresnahan came to Providence College from LaSalle Academy in Providence where he was outstanding on the basketball court. This will be his third year of Varsity play. Last season he scored 164 points for the Friars, and this despite being out of the lineup for three games at one stage of the season. The little sharpshooter threw 66 field goals through the hoops and clicked for 32 points from the charity stripe.

Bresnahan is one of the most popular choices for a Providence College captaincy in the history of the College. Last week he was elected President of the Monogram Club which is composed of all athletes earning letters at the College.

With the opening game against Assumption only a few weeks away, the Friars are drilling daily and Bresnahan has looked especially good in practice sessions. Charlie has two ambitions in basketball this season. He wants to lead his mates to a victory over Holy Cross next month and then defeat State later in the season. He has never played on a team that has tasted the fruits of victory over State. He thinks though that that situation will be taken care of this year.

Drewmen Continue Preparations For Basketball Opener

By Jack Shea

With the season's opener against Assumption College less than a month away, the Friar quintet is working hard to be in top shape for the coming campaign. Spectators at the practice sessions in Harkins Hall will vouch for the fact that coach Larry Drew has left no phase of the game go untouched as he has drilled his charges.

A typical practice session includes practice in netting layup shots with both left and right hands, foul shooting, working the ball up the court, passing, set shooting, and scrimmage between two varsity groups or a varsity-fresh contest. At the end of such a workout Drew's hoopsters are ready to call it a day.

It is already very evident that the squad is going to be strengthened immeasurably by several men moving up from last season's freshman team. Garcia, Nissel, Blaine, and Pelligrino have looked especially good to date. Garcia has been a dynamo on the court so far. Although not especially tall, he has proven himself very efficient at snatching rebounds off the backboard. Nissel looks every bit as reliable as he did last year when pacing the frosh squad through its successful campaign. Perhaps the most improved looking boy moving up to the varsity is Blaine. He has been ex-

Fairfield Freshmen Win X Country Run

VIN CLARK

A week ago Saturday the Providence College Freshman Cross Country Team journeyed to Fairfield, Conn., to take on the Fairfield University Frosh and lost 18-37. Fairfield University, a new Jesuit school, proved too strong for the Friar Frosh who placed only one man among the first five finishers. "Jim" Golden placed fourth to keep the Fairfielders from pulling the cross country hat trick viz, taking the first five places.

The Friar track and cross country coach, Harry Coates, bemoaned the lack of interest and spirit that he has been trying to instill in the students. With only three major sports now being played at the College, it seems as though he should have more track candidates than he needs, but this is not the case. Coates has had the same trouble most coaches have had, and that is getting capable performers. Added to this, the coach has had to put up with lackadaisical and insincere

DEFEAT FLYERS AND CLUB 212; DALMATIANS CONTINUE DRIVE

BY DICK BOULET

Last week's action, though light, went a long way towards clearing up the divisional championship fights. Feature game of the week was that between New Haven and the Flyers, in which the boys from New Haven registered a surprisingly convincing upset victory, 25-8. This win along with their decisive triumph over Club 212, virtually assured the New Haveners of the Division I title. In the only other game played, the Dalmatians overwhelmed the Fordham Rams, 38-0. Having already gained at least a tie for the Division II crown, the Dalmatians can clinch the championship by defeating the Hartford Club this week. New Haven has a game with the Harps remaining. Results in the games played were as follows:

Dalmatians 38 - Fordham Rams 0

In registering this overwhelming victory, the Dalmatians displayed a very well-balanced attack, scoring at will over the hapless Rams. Girouard led the scorers as he garnered thirteen points, on two TD's and a PTA. Three other players scored touchdowns, Maisano registering two, and McWey and Connelly one each. Sparkplug of the Dalmatians' passing attack was Hoey, who tossed to Maisano and Girouard for six-pointers. In addition to registering his other touchdown via an interception, Girouard passed to Maisano for a score. The latter also joined in the hurling, as he tossed a TD pass to McWey. Two of the Rams, Blanchard and Loughlin, were injured as they collided head on in a vain attempt to tag the elusive Maisano. Both had to retire from the game. This victory assured the Dalmatians of at least a tie for the championship of their division. It also meant that the best the Rams can do is tie for the title.

NEW HAVEN 25 - FLYERS 8

New Haven moved within one game of the Division II title, as they surprised the Flyers, 25-8. In scoring this upset, the New Haveners effectively stopped the Flyers' vaunted passing duo of Doonan and Dolan, as the latter garnered the only TD for the Flyers. Five players shared in the scoring for the squad from New Haven. Dempsey, Conte, Pelligrino, and Higgins, all registered six-pointers, while D'Ambrosio scored the PTA. One of the bright spots in their attack was the consistently accurate passing by D'Ambrosia. The Flyers other two points were garnered on a safety. In winning, the New Haveners virtually assured themselves of the Division I title, as they have only a game with the Harps remaining on their schedule. The Flyers are

Frosh Basketeers Feel Coaches Axe

Coaches Larry Drew and Hal Martin have finally cut the Freshmen basketball squad down to workable proportions. There are about twenty men still fighting to be retained. The squad will probably be cut again before the season gets underway, with fifteen men being kept for the 1948-49 campaign.

Ray Korbusieski, a former Leavenworth, Conn. high school standout, has looked very good in the practice sessions to date, and at this writing seems to be the most advanced of all the Frosh candidates.

St. Mary's High of St. Mary's Pennsylvania, has sent two players to Providence College. Jim Schlon and Tom Bauer, who should prove to be basketball players if they follow in the footsteps of that other St. Mary's alumnus, Sam Nissel.

The priests at Providence College have done a marvelous job in contributing to the relief program of their fellow priests overseas in this regard. How about a little support from the P. C. students who are always known for their spirit of cooperation, especially in a time of need? We're sure that if you look around at home you'll find some worthwhile article of clothing which is merely taking up closet space. Sweaters, shirts, underwear, socks, shoes are greatly in demand, as well as such apparently (to us) unimportant items, such as shoe laces, thread, needles, towels, soap, handkerchiefs, etc.

Didn't Our Lord tell us that what we do unto the least of His brethren we do unto Him? How about His "chosen" brethren, our beloved priests who now need our help? Benefactors of God's poor, especially His priests, always fare well. Have no doubts. You'll be remembered in the daily Masses and prayers of these priests.

Clothing may be left at the chaplain's office where it will be collected daily and shipped overseas.

kept the floor crowded most of the evening.

The Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O. P., President of the College, made a brief appearance.

The spirit of Autumn enlivened the highly-decorated Penguin Room. The outside of Aquinas Hall was also uniquely decorated according to the season.

Those who were responsible for the success of the dance were: Jack Connolly, president of the Carolan Club; Wales Henry, chairman of the dance committee which included Joe Goss, Dave Haylon, Al Carriero, Jim Coughlin and Jerry Welsh.

Varsity Basketball

hitting a hook shot that is almost impossible to cover, and has been sinking his shots with almost deadly accuracy.

Despite the impressiveness of the graduates from last season's Freshman team they have not been able to overshadow some of the holdovers from the varsity. Captain Charlie Bresnahan is still perhaps the fastest and most aggressive man on the court. Charlie has done a commendable job of substituting these fore, mentioned qualities for his lack of height. Art Weinstock has also stood out in the practice scrimmages. He has benefited a lot from two years experience on the varsity, and has shown himself to be one of the smartest player on the floor. Men who have had the assignment of guarding Art will admit that he takes full advantage of the slightest mistake of an opponent. Walt Lozowski has also shown that he has lost none of the basketball savvy that has made him one of the best playmakers in New England for the past two years.

However, the real distinction between this year's quintet and the ones preceding it lies in reserve strength. For the past two years capable reserves have almost been non-existent on P. C. basketball squads. This year the situation should be remedied.

Coach Drew plans to carry a varsity team of fifteen men. Among the reserve strength will be such men as Joe Dowd, a capable floor man and defensive standout, Tom Orr, giant 6'4" veteran, Ed Coogan, one of the fastest men on the squad, and such outstanding performers as Mooney, Powers, Billy Higgins, and Larry DePalma.

still in the running, but have only a slim chance of winning the crown. NEW HAVEN 42 - CLUB 212 0

Continuing their march toward the divisional title, New Haven scored an overwhelming victory over the Club 212, 42-0. They registered seven touchdowns, as they set a season's scoring record. Five players shared in the scoring, with D'Ambrosia and Dempsey showing the way with two apiece. Beatrice, Picone, and Heavren, each registered a six-pointer. Once again, D'Ambrosio's passing was a highspot in the well-rounded New Haven attack. Indeed, it is difficult to single out any one player as the individual standout, for everyone on the New Haven team played an important part in the victory which all but clinched the Division I title for them.

Frosh Basketball

McCaughy ex-St. Raphael's star, and Owen Haggerty, Earl Cottam up from LaSalle are others who have looked pretty good in the practice sessions.

While the Frosh squad at this date does not look to be as good as the yearlings of a year ago, it must be remembered that most of their playing has been against the Varsity quintet. It is only natural that they would not look as good against the big boys as they will against Freshmen quintets from other schools. They have quite a record to shoot at if they hope to equal the one hung up by the Frosh a year ago. However, it is not beyond the scope of the present group and before the Frosh season is many weeks old, they may prove that they are the equal of if not better than last year's Freshmen group.

One thing that has impressed on-lookers is the splendid condition that the present group of aspirants have shown. They have been put through a vigorous schedule of cross country running and calisthenics in addition to their actual play on the court and it seems to have benefited them considerably.

performances by a few. After the trouble the College Authorities underwent to obtain the services of a well-known coach like Harry Coates, he should be given sincere cooperation by everyone.

The mile relay team that will run in the Knights of Columbus Meet in Boston on January 22, will be chosen soon from the track men, who are now running cross country. The present squad is made up of such runners as Powell, Di Iuglio, Kavanaugh, Shanley, Sherry, Sullivan, McGurkin, Shy and Dempsey. In Boston they will run against the best, and it is hoped that the Providence College Hares will make a fine showing.

WINEAPPLE OR KRIGER ???

Last week, I stated in this column that Eddie Wineapple was the greatest basketball player in the history of Providence College. For the few days following that little piece, I received an avalanche of protests. The protestors were unanimous in their belief that Johnny Kriger was the star of stars in Providence College basketball. That may be so.

When both of the above mentioned played basketball at P. C., I was beginning to loose my first teeth. I never saw either play. My assumption that Wineapple was the peer of Friar Basketeers was based mainly on research. Wineapple was everything that makes a great basketball player, so was Kriger, but and this is where publicity enters the picture, the former received more press raves.

Wineapple was placed on the All-American first team, thus receiving nation wide publicity. Kriger made the All-American two years running, but it was a second team berth. Ask any sports minded fan the make-up of the

All-American backfield last year and nine times out of ten the answer will be prompt and correct. Then ask the same person to name the second string backfield and a polite excuse me is the answer.

Whether the one or the other was the greater is probably a matter of conjecture, let's end it on a happy note by stating that Eddie Wineapple and Johnny Kriger were the greatest basketball players in P. C. history.
