The "Forty-Niners" dance is Friday night. Vocalist Tommy McMan and his nine piece "Spotlight" band will inaugurate the 1948-49 season in the "commented village of Harkinsville" at nine o'clock amid a gay west coast background. Tickets for this all student affair are on sale in the rotunda, and can be had from any of the senior committee. The price is 25 cents.

Novel decorations, coupled with an air of informality, will provide the ideal setting for this occasion. The decoration committee is working overtime to provide a bevy of roving, two-legged samples in addition to a tripod cooking stove complete with cooking coals. The decorations for this evening will be simply abjured. But they promise something "really" different in the way of a centerpiece.

The student lounge will also be an interesting, informal atmosphere of fresheners, cider and doughnuts, and will be located in the informal lounge room. And of course the Ffrid Foto picture salon will occupy a prominent post.

"Buttons and Bows for my lady" and "spotted shirts and slack for the gents" are the dress code for this dance. The committee has listed an array of choice garments in the rotundas for those who are in doubt as to what constitutes informal wear.

"Skip" Thibert of Fitchburg is chairman. The committee members are: Warren Malley, Tom Regan, George Hindle, Tom Newman, Joe Shanley, Ed Sullivan, Mark Burns, Frank Diluglio, Tom Malloy, Earl Parker, Edward Corbett, John Powell and John Carr.

Orators Voice Views On Educational Aid

The first organized inter-class debate will take place this evening at seven o'clock in Room 300 of Harkins Hall. These meetings will be held in preparation for the full schedule of debates with other colleges during the remainder of the year.

"Practice makes perfect" is put into play in this club with every debater participating in at least one inter-class session. The adage "practice makes perfect" is put into play in this club with every debater participating in at least one of these inter-class sessions.

"Skip" Thibert of Fitchburg is chairman. The committee members are: Warren Malley, Tom Regan, George Hindle, Tom Newman, Joe Shanley, Ed Sullivan, Mark Burns, Frank Diluglio, Tom Malloy, Earl Parker, Edward Corbett, John Powell and John Carr.

Students Attend Third Order Meeting

Over sixty students attended a meeting of the Third Order of St. Francis, which was held last Thursday in the lounge of Aquinas Hall.

The Rev. John C. Rubba, O.P., moderator of the Tertiaries, conducted a discussion on the organization and the purpose of the Third Order. After the business meeting was concluded, the Tertiaries and aspirants practiced the chanting of the office in the Aquinas Chapel.

The Rev. John C. Rubba, O.P., moderator of the Tertiaries, conducted a discussion on the organization and the purpose of the Third Order. After the business meeting was concluded, the Tertiaries and aspirants practiced the chanting of the office in the Aquinas Chapel.

Frosh Nominations End Saturday Noon

Frosh nominations for the "New Cowl" will end Saturday noon. Nominations can be given either to Fr. Gallagher, freshman moderator, or left with the clerk at the information booth, Harkins Hall. Nomination results will be announced at the Freshman assembly on November 23. It is hoped that every one will do all in his power to dispose of these books and to sell even more." A fifty percent interest in any book sold by the student selling the largest number of tickets. Each book will contain ten tickets to be sold at 90 cents each, three tickets for one dollar. The student returns only eleven dollars on each book, thus making at least one dollar on each book of tickets he sells.

For the convenience of members of the community, the drawing will be scheduled for the College Flying Club, Thursday, November 18th, at seven thirty in Room 390 of Harkins Hall.

The fact that the program is to be held during the day as well as the evening, rather than during the school day will mean, according to Fitchburg St. Vincent Oddo, increased attendance and a more interesting representation of the four College Classes.

A reading of the club's by-laws will be among the first orders of business, says the Rev. Walter A. Murtaugh, O.P., moderator. Financials, a flight schedule, and subjects of instruction will also be discussed and acted upon. Finances, a flight schedule, and subjects of instruction will also be discussed and acted upon.

If the person winning the house is not present at the time of the drawing, one thousand dollars will be given towards the furniture or the purchase of the lot. A door prize, possibly amounting to $100, or a cash award, will also be given.

The goal of the drive is $47,500. Last year, in a similar campaign with only one prize, a five-room Cape Cod house, forty-one thousand dollars was raised. At that time, however, the alumni were solicited and their contributions were a part of the determination of this year's goal. This year each student is asked to sell to his relatives, friends, and acquaintances. The campaign now begins with the nomination of scholarship candidates. Father McKenna concluded by saying:

"It is hoped that every one will sell these books for the benefit of the College and to make this the most successful campaign that the College has ever had."
SUGGESTION: The letter marking studying the difference between occupation among certain segments of the student body. It seems that when you are an eighteen-year-old, you are to minus or plus the confusion depicted in the fairness of the grading but, rather, how one goes about computing his final mark. Just how many minutes must factors make up a whole and vice-versa. And that, at least, is what the test seems rather strained.

Now the suggestion is that someone explains the workings of this system at the time of registration and all other general meetings. The system was tried true better in other colleges. But, evidently, it is being tried here and isn't impressing a lot of people.

Movies or De Gustibus Non Est Disputandum. "A Song is Born" with jazzy Kay should never have been delivered. And the "doctor" (prod- uct) has a personality that is not fitting to the scenes of this film. The music is the show is good, but so are records. Kay per­ forms her best when she is not forced to cut with any tongue-twisting double-talk. And, as is the case in most music.

Changing roles is getting to be quite a vogue in Hollywood these days. Establishes who gained a bad habit the reputation of being serious or humorous vehicles resent being "typed," so they go off on a limb and try to prove their versatility. But more often than not the public doesn't like the change. Principally because they can't wear their new clothes well. It is the old story of "not letting well enough alone."

This Friday, "Forty-nine" dinner in Harkins Hall. Everyone is invited. Novel decorations, informal atmos­ phere, and a smooth dance band will make the evening a success. And it is for a good cause, the senior yearbook.

Will be missed. The Cowl staff joins me in extending sincere thanks to Father Clark for all he has done to further the Providence College tradition. Termination of training, for instance, you knew just where you stood. Now, it appears that you can get either a B or an eighty in bygone days, for instance, you knew just where you stood. Now, it appears that you can get either a B or an eighty in bygone days, for instance, you knew just where you stood. Now, it appears that you can get either a B or an eighty in bygone days, for instance, you knew just where you stood. Now, it appears that you can get either a B or an eighty in bygone days.

In the events of change of course or change of institution, Termination of training, the VA must be notified immediately.

In a letter to the men's group of the Providence College Club in Rhode Island, Mr. McAllon asks for old or used clothing which the dis­ placements made by him. Specifically, he mentions clothing, and Roman collars. Working among fellow DI's the priests will be more re-
Carpenters Needed

Last week one evening just as the sun was setting, a truck load of lumber was dumped on Hendricken Field. It would have been a busy evening on that track, but the sun was just rising, and there was no one around to get the lumber off. The truck was finished building a new track, and the sun was just rising, and the track was now ready to be put to use.

Harry Coates, the track and cross country coach, was bemoaning the lack of interest and spirit that he has been trying to build into the Providence College track squad. He has had to put up with lackadaisical and insincere students, but he is still trying to build the best track in the country.

Under the Hoop

The Providence College track, just a homemade one, has been adequate, and to that coach and his runners, it was the finest board track in the country.

This week the Providence College track will be constructed, regardless of the student help, because they have spent the process immensely.

FAIRFIELD FRESHMEN WIN COUNTRY RUN

A typical practice session includes practice in netting layup shots with both left and right hands, foul shooting, working the ball up the court, passing, set shooting and swimming between two varsity players. This practice is going to be very important, because the Providence College track squad will be competitive in the upcoming season.

Fairfield freshmen will vouch for the fact that coach Larry Drew has left no phase of the game go untouched as he has drilled his charges.

The Friar track and cross country coach, Harry Coates, bemoaned the lack of interest and spirit that he has been trying to build into the Providence College track squad. He has had to put up with lackadaisical and insincere students, but he is still trying to build the best track in the country.
The priests at Providence College have done a marvelous job in contributing to the relief program of their fellow priests overseas in this regard. Never before have so many of the P. C. students who are always known for their spirit of cooperation, especially in a time of need. We're sure that if you look around at home you'll find some worthwhile article of clothing which is merely for your spirit of cooperation. "Especially in a time of need." We're sure that you'll find some worthwhile article of clothing which is merely for your spirit of cooperation. "Especially in a time of need."

"It's Great Entertainment"

Chesterfield Supper Club

Perry Como, Chesterfield's radio, recording, and motion picture star, teams up with lovely Jo Stafford and their new partner, pretty Peggy Lee, to make the Chesterfield Supper Club's outstanding nighttime show!

All NBC Stations.

Waldorf Smoking Cigarettes

Always Buy
Ad Chesterfield

Make Yours the Milder Cigarette

More College Students Smoke Chesterfield Than Any Other Cigarette...

By Latest National Survey

Alemic Contributions

The dead line for submission of Alemic manuscripts has been extended to this Friday. Contributors are urged to contact Editor or Robert Doherty or members of the Literary Board.

Sports Panorama

(Continued from Page 3)

Wineapple or Kriger? 7 7

Last week I stated in this column that Eddie Wineapple was the greatest basketball player in the history of Providence College. For the few days following that little piece, I received an avalanche of protests. The protests were unanimous in the belief that Johnny Kriger was the star of stars in Providence College basketball. That may be so.

When both of the above mentioned played basketball at P. C., I was beginning to lose my first belief. I never saw either play. My assumption that Wineapple was the peer of Friar Tom was confirmed by the following question. "What is the key to the Wineapple game?"

Wineapple was placed on the All-American first team, thus receiving nationwide publicity. Kriger made the All-American two years running, but it was a second team berth. Ask any sports minded fan the make-up of the All-American backcourt and a polite excuse me is the answer.

The only discussion that I had with anyone about Wineapple and Kriger was that the former is the greater. My assumption that Wineapple was the peer of Friar Tom was confirmed by the following question: "What is the key to the Wineapple game?"

All-Americans backcourt last year and nine times out of ten the answer will be prompt and correct. Then ask the same person to name the second string backcourt and a polite excuse me is the answer.

Whether the one or the other was the greater is probably a matter of conjecture, but this is on a happy note by stating that Eddie Wineapple and Johnny Kriger were the greatest basketball players in P. C. history.

Sports Panorama

(Continued from Page 3)

performance by a few. After the trouble the College Authorities under went to obtain the services of a well known coach like Harry Coates, it was evident that the Providence team had a team with ability.

In intramurals, the following athletes are a few of the best of the winter season:

Frosh Basketball

(Continued from page 3)

McCaughy ex-St. Raphaels star, and Owen Higginery, East Coast star from LaSalle are others who have looked pretty good in the practice sessions.

While the Frosh squad did not look to be as good as the Varsity at the time of the season, they were not as fast as the Varsity at the time of the season. They have been most of the time, and will be until the next time we play them.

The Varsity Basketball team, now under the leadership of Captain Charlie Bresnan, has been most of the time. They have been put through a rigorous schedule of cross country running and calisthenics in preparation for the actual play on the court and it seems to have benefited them considerably.

The spirit of cooperation is still a matter of conjecture, but this is on a happy note by stating that Eddie Wineapple and Johnny Kriger were the greatest basketball players in P. C. history.

Paul's Tuxedo

The best place in town to buy Men's Suits

115 Mathewson Street

Providence, R. I.

Waldorf for Formal Dances

To Hire

New Tuxedos

"FAILS"

Waldorf Clothing Co.

Men's Formal Wear—Exclusively

212 Union Street, cor. Weybosset

the present

Now that the present

of protests. The pro testors were unanimous in the be since Wineapple was the peer of Friar Tom was confirmed by the following question: "What is the key to the Wineapple game?"

Whether the one or the other was the greater is probably a matter of conjecture, but this is on a happy note by stating that Eddie Wineapple and Johnny Kriger were the greatest basketball players in P. C. history.

Sports Panorama

(Continued from Page 3)

WINEAPPLE OR KRIGER? 7 7

Last week I stated in this column that Eddie Wineapple was the greatest basketball player in the history of Providence College. For the few days following that little piece, I received an avalanche of protests. The protests were unanimous in the belief that Johnny Kriger was the star of stars in Providence College basketball.

When both of the above mentioned played basketball at P. C., I was beginning to lose my first belief. I never saw either play. My assumption that Wineapple was the peer of Friar Tom was confirmed by the following question: "What is the key to the Wineapple game?"

Wineapple was placed on the All-American first team, thus receiving nationwide publicity. Kriger made the All-American two years running, but it was a second team berth. Ask any sports minded fan the make-up of the All-Americans backcourt last year and nine times out of ten the answer will be prompt and correct. Then ask the same person to name the second string backcourt and a polite excuse me is the answer.

Whether the one or the other was the greater is probably a matter of conjecture, but this is on a happy note by stating that Eddie Wineapple and Johnny Kriger were the greatest basketball players in P. C. history.

Sports Panorama

(Continued from Page 3)

WINEAPPLE OR KRIGER? 7 7

Last week I stated in this column that Eddie Wineapple was the greatest basketball player in the history of Providence College. For the few days following that little piece, I received an avalanche of protests. The protests were unanimous in the belief that Johnny Kriger was the star of stars in Providence College basketball. That may be so.

When both of the above mentioned played basketball at P. C., I was beginning to lose my first belief. I never saw either play. My assumption that Wineapple was the peer of Friar Tom was confirmed by the following question: "What is the key to the Wineapple game?"

Wineapple was placed on the All-American first team, thus receiving nationwide publicity. Kriger made the All-American two years running, but it was a second team berth. Ask any sports minded fan the make-up of the All-Americans backcourt last year and nine times out of ten the answer will be prompt and correct. Then ask the same person to name the second string backcourt and a polite excuse me is the answer.

Whether the one or the other was the greater is probably a matter of conjecture, but this is on a happy note by stating that Eddie Wineapple and Johnny Kriger were the greatest basketball players in P. C. history.

Sports Panorama

(Continued from Page 3)

WINEAPPLE OR KRIGER? 7 7

Last week I stated in this column that Eddie Wineapple was the greatest basketball player in the history of Providence College. For the few days following that little piece, I received an avalanche of protests. The protests were unanimous in the belief that Johnny Kriger was the star of stars in Providence College basketball.

When both of the above mentioned played basketball at P. C., I was beginning to lose my first belief. I never saw either play. My assumption that Wineapple was the peer of Friar Tom was confirmed by the following question: "What is the key to the Wineapple game?"

Wineapple was placed on the All-American first team, thus receiving nationwide publicity. Kriger made the All-American two years running, but it was a second team berth. Ask any sports minded fan the make-up of the All-Americans backcourt last year and nine times out of ten the answer will be prompt and correct. Then ask the same person to name the second string backcourt and a polite excuse me is the answer.

Whether the one or the other was the greater is probably a matter of conjecture, but this is on a happy note by stating that Eddie Wineapple and Johnny Kriger were the greatest basketball players in P. C. history.

Sports Panorama

(Continued from Page 3)

WINEAPPLE OR KRIGER? 7 7

Last week I stated in this column that Eddie Wineapple was the greatest basketball player in the history of Providence College. For the few days following that little piece, I received an avalanche of protests. The protests were unanimous in the belief that Johnny Kriger was the star of stars in Providence College basketball.

When both of the above mentioned played basketball at P. C., I was beginning to lose my first belief. I never saw either play. My assumption that Wineapple was the peer of Friar Tom was confirmed by the following question: "What is the key to the Wineapple game?"

Wineapple was placed on the All-American first team, thus receiving nationwide publicity. Kriger made the All-American two years running, but it was a second team berth. Ask any sports minded fan the make-up of the All-Americans backcourt last year and nine times out of ten the answer will be prompt and correct. Then ask the same person to name the second string backcourt and a polite excuse me is the answer.

Whether the one or the other was the greater is probably a matter of conjecture, but this is on a happy note by stating that Eddie Wineapple and Johnny Kriger were the greatest basketball players in P. C. history.

Sports Panorama

(Continued from Page 3)

WINEAPPLE OR KRIGER? 7 7

Last week I stated in this column that Eddie Wineapple was the greatest basketball player in the history of Providence College. For the few days following that little piece, I received an avalanche of protests. The protests were unanimous in the belief that Johnny Kriger was the star of stars in Providence College basketball.

When both of the above mentioned played basketball at P. C., I was beginning to lose my first belief. I never saw either play. My assumption that Wineapple was the peer of Friar Tom was confirmed by the following question: "What is the key to the Wineapple game?"

Wineapple was placed on the All-American first team, thus receiving nationwide publicity. Kriger made the All-American two years running, but it was a second team berth. Ask any sports minded fan the make-up of the All-Americans backcourt last year and nine times out of ten the answer will be prompt and correct. Then ask the same person to name the second string backcourt and a polite excuse me is the answer.

Whether the one or the other was the greater is probably a matter of conjecture, but this is on a happy note by stating that Eddie Wineapple and Johnny Kriger were the greatest basketball players in P. C. history.