Today's Youth Lacking In Physical Development

Last Wednesday night at 8:30 p.m. the Providence College Student Health Committee held an open meeting for educational administrators, teachers, and civil and religious leaders at Alberius Magnus Hall. Dr. Shane McCarthy, one of the members of the President's Council, addressed the assembly of one hundred and seventy people, while Governor Denis J. Roberts served as chair of the meeting. Very Rev. J. Slavin, O.P., President of Providence College, gave the welcoming address. The topic of Dr. McCarthy's address was "Youth Fitness is National." He stated that the only ten percent of today's youth are participating while the remaining ninety percent would be very beneficial if we became a nation of roller skating, walking, and bicycling enthusiasts, and put more consideration into the establishment of other sports like tennis and lacrosse, and slightly de-emphasize basketball, baseball and football.

R. I. C. E-Brown Debaters Will Challenge P.C. Barristers

Two teams travelled to Assumption College, Worcester, yesterday for a return engagement. Last week's scheduled contest was postponed due to the weather.

Thursday, the Barristers play host to neighboring RICE teams with Father Patrick Reid of the Philosophy department as judge, a PC affirmative team — Mr. St. Angelo and Thomas Blessington — will debate the national topic with a RICE affirmative team in the Board Room of Alumni Hall. Judge for this encounter will be Professor Deeny of the History Department, the chairman and timekeeper.

Another neighbor in the capital city, the D.C. Barristers, also will meet today, April 8. PC will uphold the affirmative of the national topic — Resolved that the United States should discontinue its commitment to their former foreign nations — on the Brown campus, while the PC negative defendants will be pitted against a Brown Body and the PC negative in the Brown Room on April 8. Debate will begin promptly at 7 p.m.

The student body and the general public are cordially invited to three and all debates as guests. Mr. St. Angelo and Francis Shaw comprise the affirmative team, while Howard Lipsey and Sol Gershovitz make up the negative team.

The annual retreat conducted for the students of Providence College will be held this year on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, April 11, 12, and 13, 1957. The Retreat Masters will be the Reverend Charles B. Quirk, O.P., and the Reverend Joseph L. Lonnen, O.F.M. The Senior Retreat will be held in the chapel in St. Joseph Hall, while the Freshmen, Sophomores, and Juniors, will congregate in Alumni Hall.

The retreat, the schedule of which appears elsewhere on this page, is compulsory for Catholic students. Non-Catholic students are cordially invited to attend. Attendance will be checked; students will be required to bring their retreat identity books. Confessions will be held before and after dinner. It is expected that all students will go to Confession and receive Holy Communion during the retreat.

In announcing the retreat, the Reverend John J. Molloy, O.P., chaplain of the college, said, "The students' retreat is a withdrawal from the daily routine and from the distractions of modern life. It is a time to examine, and meditate. It is our fervent prayer that the students will avail themselves of this occasion of grace to intensify their love, devotion, and loyalty to Christ, our Lord."

Father Lonnen was appointed to the teaching staff at Providence College as professor of education in September 1940 and is now Dean of Men.

Many of the Senior R.O.T.C. cadets have been given a preview of what they can look forward to upon going on active duty after graduation. These separate groups have visited Fort Devens, Mass., and the National-guaranteed missile site in Coventry, Rhode Island. The idea of the trips is to acquaint the students with duties they will assume in their particular branch of the Army.

The program for both groups was basically the same. Those in the Army and Artillery branches were together and had the opportunity to review field maneuvers which were being conducted.

The Transportation Corps cadets were guided around the port by Lieutenant Duffey, a 1953 graduate of Providence College.

World Wide Teletype and the Mars System short wave network was the main point of interest to those going into the Signal Corps.

The cadets upon arrival at Fort Devens reported to the Post Headquarters where they met the officers.

Veritas Defeated . . .

"It's just no use, you can't win." "What'd you mean you can't win?"

In my first year of college, I read a very interesting article that says I had when I took Father Bell's history of the U.S. course, you'd be disappointed too. I must have had a whole yellow book full of notes when I took that exam. And what do you think? I got a 'D'.

But then I heard those tribes were overheard in the college parking lot Monday morning. These statements are not only contradictory per se, but they are also contradictory to all that is true.

If the time and ingenuity that was consumed in the assignments and examinations of such underhanded techniques and sleights-of-hand was spent in honest study and preparation, the marks would at least be equal, if not greater, for such individuals would be using statements; they would be assisted, undoubtedly, by the Forgotten God. However, if an increase in knowledge will not count, nor spiritual motivations satiate such deceit, perhaps better grades will.

Facilitate Planning . . .

The adoption of a formal social calendar by the Providence College Student Council is understandably a much-talked-about topic in the history of Providence College. The initiation of this worthwhile bill is to provide a system under which an organization or an organization is granted a date to hold a social function on the campus.

There are a few points in the bill that perhaps could be improved; the scheduling of dates seems a bit too rigid. It is conceivable that a situation could arise when there would be more organizations seeking dates than there would be dates available. There will probably be some criticism of the preference in assigning dates for the stag dances given to the organizations which are not primarily social in nature. Since these clubs depend more on the revenue derived from these dances than the student parking lot Monday morning. These statements are not only contradictory per se, but they are also contradictory to all that is true.

If the time and ingenuity that was consumed in the assignments and examinations of such underhanded techniques and sleights-of-hand was spent in honest study and preparation, the marks would at least be equal, if not greater, for such individuals would be using statements; they would be assisted, undoubtedly, by the Forgotten God. However, if an increase in knowledge will not count, nor spiritual motivations satiate such deceit, perhaps better grades will.

PARKING PROBLEMS

Providence College, in planning for its ever increasing student body, has provided two spacious parking plazas to fulfill the needs of the student motorist. These parking areas, however, large enough to satisfy current demands, are not used properly. Each have clearly marked lines designating the areas large enough for the individual vehicles, along with boldly-nainted arrows which are intended to direct the flow of traffic.

Furthermore, with all these clear directions shown elsewhere on campus, cars cannot be seen passing in the indicated direction, thus these arrows, and it is only too often that traffic patterns are making it difficult for the systematic entrance and exit of traffic. To remedy this situation, these rules can be granted; a date to adhere to the rules governing parking and driving on campus.

Clarification . . .

Dr. Bella V. Dodd addressed the student assembly at the request of the Student Congress.

Letter to the Editor

April 2, 1957

Dear Students and Faculty Members:

How do I get? A 'D'. Boy, it just doesn't pay to study anymore. Those tribes were overheard in the college parking lot Monday morning. These statements are not only contradictory per se, but they are also contradictory to all that is true.

If the time and ingenuity that was consumed in the assignments and examinations of such underhanded techniques and sleights-of-hand was spent in honest study and preparation, the marks would at least be equal, if not greater, for such individuals would be using statements; they would be assisted, undoubtedly, by the Forgotten God. However, if an increase in knowledge will not count, nor spiritual motivations satiate such deceit, perhaps better grades will.

At long last, a move has been made to replace the meager and outdated campus literary magazine. An old teacher of mine once advised me, "Never write for writing that is you sit down and write." It's a shame that the NFCCS (National Federation of Catholic College Students) has not risen to the challenge of making a better literary magazine.

Nobles' Notions

Some people, of late, have been inquiring about my friend Mr. Blades. The truth is that I have not seen him in some time, though I know that he is still here. The same perpetual excitement and anxiety that the existence of Mr. Blades seems to be a continuing feature of someone's imagination. Perhaps a capsule biography would serve to clear up the doubts.

Mr. Blades was born in 1933 in the Pacific Northwest and is still here. The same people have been inquiring about him. Perhaps they have heard that there is a man who has contributed English Literature, and resolved to undertake a comprehensive study of it. Donohue, LaFontaine Elected Basketball, Hockey Captains

By Dale Faulkner

Barry Lou LaFontaine was elected to captaining the 1957-'58 hockey team at a meeting of hockey lettermen held last week in Alumni Hall. The versatile Hamden senior center takes the leader's reigns from senior Bernie McCrink. Just a week ago LaFontaine placed on the New England Hockey All Star Second Team.

Intramurals

Mr. Leathers has announced that he plans to hold an intramural tennis tournament May 8-14, on the campus courts. Contests may enter in the tournament now by leaving their names with Mr. Leathers or with the athletic department. It is urged that the interested individuals do this immediately because even though the tournament is almost five weeks off there are only a few classes left.

LaFontaine, who hails from Hamden, Conn., figures also to be a prominent member of Coach Bob Murray's baseball force this spring. He was nominated for an All-Tourney selection in the Annual Christ- mas Hockey Tournament staged in Boston during the Christmas vacation. In that tournament, which the Providence roster finished fifth in a field of eight, LaFontaine went on a scoring binge. Against North eastern he registered two goals and a like number of assists, while scoring three times against Dartmouth. LaFontaine was a three sport star at Hamden High. He performed for the McCrindle hockey forces, in addition to being captain in football and baseball at Hamden. His baseball strength earned him a swing through Canada last summer in an amateur baseball circuit.

The six-two, 194 pounder evening major was second in the scoring column for Coach Tom Ec- hman's. In his senior year he registered two goals and 15 assists. He performed on a wing with Barile. Also a Hamden product and McCrink for the majority of the season. Outgoing Captain McCrink, who finished third in scoring, received George Boudreau on the LaFontaine-Barile line after Boudreau was sidelined with an early season injury.

As a sophomore for Murray's base- ball team, the ex-Hamdenite performed in centerfield and tied for Everybody who graduates from college should know how to play tennis, golf, squash, and similar street games.

“Should there be more emphasis on the school's intramural program? was termed by a student chairman of the Providence College intramural program. "Yes, definitely—that applies for any school. Participation and emphasis should be placed on the team, and I guess you think take advantage of the athletic and training facilities offered?"

Before some 130 persons, mostly educators and civic leaders, Dr. John McCarthy, executive director of the President's Council on Youth Fitness, gave a speech stressing more activity among the young of today at Alberts. The new captain, placed on the Alumni Hall, has been Mr. Leathers. The versatile Hamden senior center takes the leader's reigns from senior Bernie McCrink. Just a week ago LaFontaine placed on the New England Hockey All Star Second Team.

Survival Of Freedom Depends On Peasants

Union City, N. J.—Russia's satellite countries "will gain their freedom at the hands of their peasants," Zolt Aradi, Hungarian-born correspondent and author, declares in an article in the April issue of The Sign, national Catholic magazine published here.

Writing under the title, "The Weakening Soviet Empire," Aradi asserts, "None of the eastern European countries has played its last card."

"Today," he points out, "the uprisings have been primarily the work of the industrial workers and intellectuals. But the peasant has played his part too, and his courage gave a lot of meaning to the revolution."

According to Aradi, "And terror won't work," he adds, "because its repeated use ceases to act as a deterrent. True, the Hungarian uprising was crushed by it, but Hungary has not yet played its last card."

"In time of peace, the East Central European peasants may be as stolid and greedy as their West European counterparts. In time of stress and danger to their nations, they display a courage, a spirit of sacrifice, and a skill at sabotage, which sometimes has to play three or four games in a short stretch."

Aradi points out that the peasants cannot be subdued for long, "because they love the soil and their equally undying faith in God."

"In time of peace, the East Central European peasants may be as stolid and greedy as their West European counterparts.
