October Devotions Begin, Opportunity Open For All

By Syl Marrone
Spiritually speaking, October is synonymous with devotions to Our Blessed Virgin Mother; and echoes of the recitation of the rosary fill the air.
Devotions to Our Blessed Lady were constituted for our own benefit, but how many of us are struck with the light of seeking prayerful conference with the Prayer of God?
October devotions were built on a strong foundation. Pope Leo XIII in his encyclical letter entitled "Supremi Apostolatus," issued on September 1, 1883, decreed that from the first day of October until November 2, the entire Catholic world shall, in all chapels, churches, and the like, dedicated to our Blessed Mother, perform services especially for Our Lady.
The treasury of the Church is very generous in its bestowal of indulgences upon the faithful attending October devotions. A single attendance at these services merit for an individual an indulgence of seven years, plus a seven-times-forty-days reprieve from Purgatory.

We students at Providence College are fortunate to be able to adjust ourselves to such a Catholic environment. Also, we are able to further or begin devotions to the Mother of God during October by attending convenient nightly services at the Grotto of Our Lady. The devotions commence at 7:45 p.m., and the services consist of recitation of the Rosary, Litany of the Blessed Virgin, prayers to Saint Joseph and Saint Thomas followed by Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

Renovations Made At P.C.

Various innovations in the college facilities bear witness to the rather extensive program of renovation undertaken by the administration during the past summer. Involved in these alterations, the major portion of which effects only resident students, were five campus buildings.
In a move designed to enlarge the existing provisions for resident students, the role of Donnelly Hall has been modified from that of faculty quarters to student residence hall. An additional room on the second floor of St. Joseph Hall was also open to student occupancy.
Formerly the dwelling of one of the college caretakers, the Gatehouse has also taken on a new function. The stone edifice, located near the southeast corner of the campus, now serves as a small dormitory.
A large storeroom adjacent to the cafeteria has undergone a transformation to a fully equipped dining room. The new dining hall is used by all resident students assigned to Alumni Hall for either of the two noon meals, thus reducing the strain on cafeteria facilities at those times.

Harkins Hall has also been the scene of changes as last year's site of the lay faculty lounge on the first floor is now utilized as a classroom. The office of the Dean of Discipline can likewise be found in a new location at the front of the second floor corridor.

Vin Made New Publicity Agent

Vincent Cuddy, who has held the post of Athletic Co-ordinator since 1955, assumed the added role of Sports Publicity for the college with the opening of school last week. The appointment was made by the administrative office early in September.

Serving Providence in the athletic capacity is an old-hat venture for Mr. Cuddy. In addition to the co-ordinator role, he was at the helm of the Friars basketball fortunes from 1949-1955.

Mr. Cuddy's recent promotion actually is the culmination of a lifetime of interest in the athletic world.
While attending Naugatuck, Conn., High School he earned nine letters in basketball, baseball, and football. As an All-Stater in three major sports Mr. Cuddy was the most heralded and recruited in Nutmeg Schoolboy circles.
However, he elected to stay at home and display his athletic prowess at the University of Connecticut where he attained a phenomenal record. There he has never been seriously threatened.
Mr. Cuddy played end, guard, and outfield respectively in the three major sports and earned nine letters, a feat that only five other UConn. athletes have (Continued on Page 8)

Changes Announced In P.C. Administration

The Very Reverend Robert J. Slavin, O.P., President, has announced the following administration changes:
The Very Reverend Vincent C. Dore, O.P., Academic Vice-President, has been appointed to the newly created post of Dean of the Faculty. Father Dore had been the Dean of the College for the last twelve years. He is a native of New Haven, Connecticut, and was in the first graduating class of Providence College in 1923. He was ordained a priest at Washington, D. C. in 1928, and received his M.A. from Catholic University in 1929, and his S.T.L. in 1930. He was then appointed to the Sociology Department at Providence College and has remained here ever since.
He was named Dean in 1945, and appointed Academic Vice-President in 1950. He received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from Providence College in 1945, and of Doctor of Education from Suffolk University in 1952. He has served numerous city, state, and federal commissions. He is also a member of the American Association of Deans as well as other educational associations.

The Reverend Joseph L. Lennon, O.P., succeeds Father Dore as Dean of the College. Father Lennon is a native of Providence, and graduated from Providence College in 1940. He later received his M.A. and Ph.D. in Education at Notre Dame University. He was ordained in 1947, and has been a member of the Providence College faculty since 1949, in the Department of Education.
He is a member of many educational associations, a contributor (Continued on Page 7)

COWL Starts Twentieth Year As Newspaper For Undergraduates

With this issue, the Cowl enters into its twentieth year of publication. The first issue was published November 16, 1935. Except for two years during the war, the COWL has been published regularly here at P.C. In the first issue, the paper was dedicated to, and put under the patronage of, Saint Albert the Great, an illustrious member of the Dominican order.
The COWL exists, "Primarily to serve the student body, not simply as a news organ, but more fundamentally as a means to foster and intensify an enthusiastic Providence College spirit and loyalty. Our columns will ever graciously receive the words of the Administration, and we will ever sponsor the plans and principles it sets forth." Thus, through the years the paper has played an important part in the affairs of the college. It has served as a liaison between the Administration and the students; it has publicized the various organizations and events of the campus. Furthermore, it has served as an outlet for journalistically minded students. It is perhaps the greatest organ of publicity the college possesses.

New Additions To Faculty Announced By Father Slavin

Fifteen additions to the Providence College faculty have been announced by the Very Reverend Robert J. Slavin, O.P., President.
The Rev. Cornelius P. Forster, O.P., returns to the History Department after a year of special studies at Fordham University, and six months of research work at Oxford University and the University of Paris.
The Rev. Thomas L. Fallon, O.P., returns to the Theology Department after completing advanced studies in Theology at Immaculate Conception College, Washington, D.C.

Added to the Philosophy Department are the Rev. John P. Gerhard, O.P., a Providence native. He is a graduate of P.C., and holds an S.T.L., S.T.L.R. He has been in the faculty of Mount Mercy College, Pittsburg, Pa. Also, the Rev. John M. Egan, O.P., S.T.L., who is a (Continued on Page 7)

Dominicans who are newcomers to the P.C. faculty include the addition to the English Department; the Rev. Robert L. Walker, O.P., who took his Ph.D. at the University of Michigan and taught at Boston College before entering the Dominican Order; and the Rev. Robert A. Morris, O.P., gradu-

Father Clark . . .

On June 24, 1957, Commencement Day, Providence College experienced a great loss. This loss came with the sudden death of the Reverend William R. Clark, O.P., Ph.D., Head of the Sociology Department. Father Clark was nationally known for his lectures on Marriage and the Family Life. His local prominence culminated with his interesting and helpful Marriage Forums. Father also served on the faculty in the capacity of Director of the School of Adult Education. Although Father Clark devoted most of his time to the many duties assigned him, he still found time to pursue his interests in sailing and photography.

The death of Father Clark is a great personal loss for all who knew him, as well as a great academic loss for the College. However, for one who lived a life as Father did, one thing is certain . . . it was a life devoted to God and the principles of Christianity.

Father's patience and understanding were qualities which made it relatively simple to discuss even our greatest problems with him. It was refreshing to know one who was so willing to devote his entire lifetime to helping others enjoy a richer and fuller life on earth, and to strive towards the perfect life with God.

Future Determinant . . .

In our present day and age, the true value and significance of discipline has been lost to a great extent. People seem to erroneously identify discipline as a form of imposed and unjust submission, a militant suppression of freedom. They do not apprehend the real worth and import of true discipline, the proper cultivation of the mind and the accurate formation of manners. These are necessary in any society that is ordained for the betterment — spiritual as well as material — of all its members.

External discipline — specifically, parental guidance — must precede self-discipline, which is achieved only after the instructive, corrective, and punitive measures of family, Church, and state have been encountered and fulfilled. The lack of this is grossly manifested in our time in the form of juvenile delinquency. This sad and disheartening condition could only have been effected by means of misinformed, misled, and neglectful parents. Childhood restraint is mandatory in order to develop prolific maturity.

We here, at Providence College, have all the means at our disposal to solve this dilemma. But, they are not employed by the lethargic. In order to achieve them, the student must condition himself by rigidly applying the best allocation of his hours of activity, both intellectual and recreational. Too great a stress on either would be as disastrous as too little, or none at all. A well-rounded and liberally-educated individual is more informed and possesses greater possibilities than the extremists.

Let us avail ourselves of the environment afforded us here at Providence College and consequently become the leaders and examples for the younger generation and those to follow.

We can, we will, we must.

Musical Cacophony . . .

According to the Thomistic-Aristotelean definition, art is a certain productive state of mind under the guidance of true reason. Further, art serves beauty, and beauty ministers to delight, which ultimately concerns the good of man. As these principles are applicable to art generally, so should they be applicable to the art of music. In reference to the music to which we are subjected upon entrance into the cafeteria, we can find no definition, of music or art, which might charitably be applied.

The scholar might contend that the current vogue of sustained rhythm and harmonic homogeneity is as musical as the lays of the skops or any other semi-barbarians, but the fact remains that such music is culturally below the standard proper to a civilized society. One record heard ad nauseam erupting from the mechanical viscera of the cafeteria juke-box consists of approximately three and a half minutes of raucous chant (which doesn't contain half the sense of The Hunting of the Snark), accompanied by a syncopated repetition of a diminished seventh chord, relieved only by the insertion of the tonic chord in the last beat of every eighth measure. The Biblical admonition, "Use not vain repetitions as the heathens do," might well be heeded by the magnates of the music industry.

Commentators on this editorial will immediately cry: It's a free country, if I want to listen to rock and roll, I can. Besides the kids need some way to release their energies. "Freedom" should not mean that one is under an obligation to follow his own inclinations just because the older generation has always had the upper hand and generally disparages rock and roll. (It is interesting to note that fads among adolescents always involve something which adults don't particularly like. Youth cherishes what their elders have discarded as unwanted, as if in deliberate defiance of authority, parental or otherwise.)

If adolescents are possessed of such an abundance of energy that they can find release only in cacophony, why do they accomplish so little? Why must teachers of Freshman English courses teach anew the parts of speech (fifth grade material), the elements of composition (sixth grade)? Must energy, perhaps, be reserved for the dance floor? There are certain students here who do not appreciate being made a captive audience of the tripe enjoyed by the immature in attendance here, not for an education, but for a degree. We would appreciate an atmosphere of rationality, even if it must be forced.

The South

Within the past month, the question of integration has become a major topic of discussion on radio and television, and the newspapers have given it front page publicity. The problem has, for the most part, centered around Little Rock, Arkansas, where Governor Orval Faubus called out the state militia to prevent Negro students from entering the local high school. Riots, court orders and finally the moving in of federal troops by the President have followed in sequence and the situation has become very serious.

Since I do not believe that anyone can rightfully judge, at this time, whether or not the actions of the Governor or the President were correct, I would like to give my views on the situation which exists at the present time.

Attitude of Whole South

It is clear that not only the people of Little Rock, but those throughout the whole South are unwilling to accept integration under the present circumstances. They realize, for the most part, that integration is inevitable, but, on the other hand, they refuse to have it forced on them.

The Little Rock incident has had a damaging effect on the whole question. The intervention of federal troops has caused a great deal of resentment which could result in the destruction of what has already been accomplished in those states which have begun to integrate their schools.

Requires Careful Handling

Laws and Supreme Court decisions are not going to change the southerner's attitude quickly on a problem that has plagued them for many decades, and certainly force will never accomplish anything except make matters worse. Just what can be done to alleviate the existing problem is not clear. However, in the future it will have to be handled with care, and any action that is taken will require a great deal of study and deliberation. We all know that "Rome was not built in one day" and the same may be applied to the South and integration.

"Persecution is the first law of society because it is always easier to suppress criticism than to meet it." (Primer of Intellectual Freedom)

The "Ivy League" was in the news not long ago. This time one of its major universities tried to oust a Catholic Chaplain for what it termed his, "irresponsible attacks upon the intellectual integrity of faculty members."

The University was Princeton and the Catholic chaplain is the Reverend Hugh Halton, O.P. This is not the first time the institution and the Chaplain have been in disagreement on fundamental rights. In the spring of 1956, Father Halton strongly criticized the university's liberal attitude toward the (Continued on Page 8)

Tell Me Your — Troubles —

By Ophelia Pulse

Hello there!
Well, I promised last year that I'd be back, and here I am. Remember me—I'm the one who just loves to help people with their problems (ever since Aunt Agonia learned that Uncle Zebadiah's sick friend had been dead for seventeen years). It wasn't easy to give good sensible advice, but I finally arrived at a sound solution and helped Aunt Agonia avoid a broken heart, I found an unemployed actor to play Uncle Zeb's sick friend, and that fulfilled my life's desire to make everyone happy. Aunt Agonia felt so sorry for the sick friend (he was a good actor) that she nursed him back to health (he was a very good actor) and eventually married him (in fact, he was a master of tragedy). And Uncle Zeb's so happy now, he's head of the National Fund for Unemployed Actors.

So you see, I really can help you. If you've got a problem—any problem—won't you please confide in me? Write to me in care of the COWL. Please, my column starts next week, and I need letters. You wouldn't want me to cheat, would you? By the way, I specialize in problems confronting college students. Remember, "When in doubt, write it out!" Waiting for your mail.

Ophelia Pulse Gushingly,

P.S. Since this is a man's college, I thought a picture of me would be appropriate. (I'm single, you know.) Any lines, wrinkles, etc., are due to a suffering and all-embracing heart. O.P.

Inquiring Reporter

The wearing of the beanie has, in the last few years, been a matter of much debate. Since it is a new tradition at P.C. we thought it might be of some interest to find out what the class of '61 thought about the matter. So, we asked the opinion of "what we consider a typical group."

Bert Marshall:

"I am all for it. It should be part of every freshman class. It denotes the freshman class, and if we are in difficulty, the upper-classmen, knowing this, will give a helping hand." James Sevigny:

"Not intrinsically wrong. Gives flavor to the campus." James McPhail:

"Indifferent. If you have to wear it, you do. If you don't, you don't." Grayson Murphy:

"I wouldn't be against it, if there were no women on campus. But there are women, and it's embarrassing." Bill Albano:

"There is no harassment, and that makes it better."

Carolan Club's Frosh Orientation Successful, Says Jim Westwater

The Carolan Club's initial activity of the year was assisting the Student Congress in the orientation of freshmen, according to James Westwater, club president. Club members were on campus to welcome the incoming class of '61 and to help advise them if they could. These members aided in the planning of the freshman dance and picnic, and provided a free evening's entertainment for the dorm students by showing the film "Carousel."

Responsible to this year's members of the Carolan Club, an organization which functions for the benefit of Providence College resident students, will be the club officers: James Westwater, (senior), President; Charles Duggan, (senior), Vice President; Jerry Dittrich, (junior), Secretary; James Ryan, (sophomore), Treasurer; and two representatives from each class. This group will be moderated by Father Martin J. Jordan, O.P., the new Dean of Men at the college.

"Carousel" was only a first in a series of top-notch movies which the Carolan Club plans to show this year on its newly acquired cinemascope screen. Illustrative of the high caliber of entertainment programmed for 1957 are the titles of the following movies that will be shown by the organization in Albertus Magnus auditorium: "Anastasia," "The Robe," "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers," "The Halls of Montezuma," and "The Man in the Grey Flannel Suit."

In addition to the social services it provides, the club encourages participation in religious activity. Officers of the club were instrumental in the formation of this year's Altar Service organization. This Altar Society draws its members from the Carolan Club.

At the present time the Carolan Club is completing arrangements for the "Autumn Festival" dance, which is scheduled to take place on Saturday, October 19.

"Who's this girl Carolan . . . The one they named the club after?"

What Is NFCCS?

The question has often been asked, "Just what is the NFCCS?"

The letters NFCCS stand for the National Federation of Catholic College Students, an organization which encompasses the more than 200,000 students of 200 Catholic Colleges throughout the United States. It is a representative body, the voice of national Catholic college thought. It is also a service organization, having under its jurisdiction a group of commissions, students organized to specialize in one phase of life to which the Catholic Faith pertains. The organization's primary purpose of furthering Catholic action and the lay Apostolate among our students provides the motivation for the workshops which are presented by these commissions and the material which they send out to various campus clubs. The topics treated by these groups range from Liturgy to International Relations.

NFCCS is geographically divided into near-autonomous regions. Providence College is a member of the New England Region, which was the only region to receive an "excellent" evaluation at the past National Congress which was held in New York City.

There will be a workshop on our campus Saturday, October 12, in the guild room of Alumni Hall. The topic will be Interracial Justice. All students are invited to attend. This workshop will start promptly at two o'clock.

ROTC Appointments; Harrington, Colonel

David Harrington, a Political Science major from Milford, Mass., is the new Cadet Colonel of the Providence College R.O.T.C. unit. Cadet Harrington, a member of the rifle team and former member of the drill team, received the honor on the basis of his past performance, both at the college and at the R.O.T.C. Summer Camp in Fort Devens. While at Fort Devens this past summer, Harrington was chosen "Outstanding Cadet of the Week" and was among the top five in his Company. During his sophomore year, Harrington received the Providence College Alumni Award for outstanding military proficiency. Last year he was a member of the team that won the Hearst Trophy for marksmanship.

Junior Candidates For Class Offices

The following members of the Junior Class voiced their intentions to vie for offices in the government of their class yesterday at the assembly held for this purpose: For the office of President, Patrick Brown, Providence; Edward Keegan, Upper Darby, Pa.; and L. Edward LeBeau, Central Falls. Vice President, Edward Lind, Marmaroneck, N. Y.; and James Sheehan, Woonsocket. Treasurer, Daniel Amendola, Danbury, Conn.; Charles O'Brien, Pawtucket; David Kingsley, Pawtucket; and Kevin McMahon, Grandview Nyack, N. Y. Secretary, George Foley, Pawtucket, Conn.; and John Notte, North Providence.

Elections will be held next Tuesday, October 15. The voting hours and location will be posted on the Student Congress bulletin board, within the next few days.

The Battalion Commanders under Harrington are: John Houle, an Economics major from Pawtucket, R. I., Commander of the First Battalion; Donald Grenier, a Business major, also from Pawtucket, Commander of the Second Battalion; David Roche, a Business major, from New London, Conn. The three Battalion Commanders turned in outstanding records while at Fort Devens this past summer, and both Roche and Grenier are former members of the Drill Team.

The newest addition to the college R.O.T.C. Regiment is the Pershing Rifle Company under the command of Cadet Captain William Russo of Newport, R. I. Cadet Russo was the leader of last year's State Champion Drill Team and a member of the team for the past three years.

This year's Regiment numbers 750 men. Of this number 251 are Freshmen, having chosen Military Science as an elective under the new system.

Sure are lots of fads and fancy stuff to smoke these days. Look 'em over — then settle down with Camel, a real cigarette. The exclusive Camel blend of costly tobaccos has never been equalled for rich flavor and easygoing mildness. Today, more people smoke Camels than any other cigarette.

Providence College As I See It

THE POSSIBILITIES OF INTER-LEAGUE PLAY

Next week the major league bosses will be doing a lot of conferring. Since it's likely that Chicago will be the only two-team city in either league by next April, it's imperative that the magnates reconsider seriously a proposal first made by Hank Greenberg.

The Cleveland executive once suggested inter-league play as a game simultaneous with all such games counting in the regular standings. He had intended it as a novel flourish. Now it becomes a virtual necessity. Otherwise the new Western League (National League) has Philadelphia as its lone Eastern outlet. The American League will have no representation west of Kansas City.

Fan interest would soar if Stan Musial, Willie Mays, Hank Aaron, Duke Snider and Co. were to display their skills in regular games at Yankee Stadium, Boston, Detroit and the like. Conversely, it would be a shot in the arm if Los Angeles, San Francisco, Cincinnati and the like were to see Ted Williams, Mickey Mantle, Herb Score, Al Kaline and the American League stars.

It is a radical move but it should not be dismissed lightly. The entire baseball structure could be strengthened by its adoption.

Travel Difficulties

It appears that definite difficulties will arise from the travel to the coast. (1) It could well be that the career of big leaguers, already shortened by unrestricted nightball, will be further abridged by the move to the coast. (2) The closest National League team to the coast, the Cardinals, can expect to spend $35,000 extra on transportation. (3) A night game in the coast will finish so late that morning newspapers in the East will barely make their last edition with the results. A night game on the coast would end at 2 a.m. by eastern clocks, while a day game in the East would start at 11 a.m. by Pacific time. . . . How Times Have Changed—Five years ago the sixteen major league teams were divided into seven states and the District of Columbia. Next season the clubs will be proportioned among ten states and Washington, D. C.

Trying Days For Baseball

With the depletion of the minor leagues, and oafs like Walter O'Malley placing dollar sign emphasis on everything, baseball is entering a crucial period. The great American pastime is losing some of its splendor. How can O'Malley claim to be indignant, if his ball club made more money (according to Congressional reports) than any other team during the past five years? Men of this character make it difficult to consider baseball as a sport.

Discussing the number four game. It's easy for one to second guess the other fellow, particularly when a mistake has been made. Here, this is not our intention.

In Sunday's ball game it appears that Casey Stengel attempted to doubly defly the percentages when he permitted righthander Bob Grimm to face the left-handed swinger, Eddie Mathews. (1) The important man was Johnny Logan stationed on second base. If Stengel had walked Mathews a logic possibility would have been set up and Grimm would have been opposing a right handed batter in Hank Aaron. (2) And since third baseman Mathews had reached base safely only once in nine previous tries, he was overdue to hit.

In an attempt to further the activity and interest in the school's intramural program, the athletic office is organizing an Intramural Athletic Council. It will be the work of this council to regulate and supervise the intramural sports program at school. The council shall consist of college-accepted student organizations. The intention and purpose of the council is to help combat the difficulties the intramural program has faced in the past.

Memo to Joe Guglielmo

Your favorite pitching adversary at Holy Cross, Bob Defino, seems to be just at home on the football field as he does on the mound. Defino, who split a pair of mound duels with you last Spring, was an important factor in Cross' 32-6 win over Dayton University last Saturday. The Husky junior scored twice.

In his second year as mentor of St. Catherine's Siena's senior softball team, Father John S. Dillon, O.P., has finished with a championship club. Boasting a 19-0 record, the New York team swept to the C.Y.O. Title.

Providence College dominated the amateur baseball scene last summer in Connecticut as six P. C. students performed for St. Paul's Angels, who became the unofficial Nutmeg state champs. Starring for the West Haven nine were Friar varsity members Eddie Lewis and Joe Guglielmo, along with Eddie Appicella, Warren Howe, Pat Pestucci, and Tommy Heaveren.

Cross Country

Out of the fourteen members of the P.C. cross country team, seven are sophomores. There are three seniors and four juniors on the force.

There are seven lettered operatives on Harry Coates' cross country team this Fall. This year's Frosh cross country team is made up of twelve performers.

Harvard Meets P.C. Friday, Black Knights Down Coatesmen

Editors Appoint Dale Faulkner To Sports Post

The multi-responsibilities of his position as Carolan Club President have forced Jim Westwater, senior Letters major, to give up the duty of COWL Sports Editor. He has been succeeded by Dale Faulkner, sophomore, Political Science major, commencing with this issue.

Westwater, who will remain a featured columnist for the COWL, first assumed the Sports Editor's chores in January of 1956, after a year and a half as a Staff Writer. In addition to his Carolan Club and COWL responsibilities, the New York senior is a member of the Friar's Club.

Moving up to the Editor's ranks, Faulkner has been active on the COWL since entering the college last Fall. He served as both Co-Editor-in-Chief and Sports Editor of the Hopkins Grammar, New Haven, Conn. RAZOR while in secondary school and was a scholastic correspondent for the New Haven papers at the same time.

Harvard's vaunted cross-country force, called by some the Cambridge school's most successful athletic squad in recent years, invades P. C.'s campus-encircled course Friday to do battle with the tracksters of veteran coach Harry Coates. The meet will begin at 3:30 p.m.

The Cantab contingent is seemingly loaded with outstanding performers and strong practice showings show that they should provide keen opposition for the Coatesmen, who were vanquished Saturday by the runners of the West Point team. Leading the visiting Harvard's will be Capt. Dave Norris, one of the Crimson's top three or four runners for two years.

In addition to Norris, the visitors boast Dyke Benjamin, French Anderson and Bill Thompson. Anderson is a converted quarter-miler with the track team.

HE'LL LEAD FRIARS—Bill Hanlon, Providence College cross country captain is expected to be the Black and White's big gun in the meet here Friday with Harvard.

Rounding out the Cantab starting force will be Pete Reider, Mac Brown, Bill Schleppe, Al Gordon, Ed Martin, Wes Hildreth, Joe Julian and Lincoln Hollister. Schleppe was the recent victor in the general cross-country Handicaps staged at the Cambridge school two weeks ago.

On Saturday, October 3, the Friars traveled to the Military Academy for their first cross-country meet of the season. The future generals dropped the Black and White 18-45.

The hills seemed to tell the story. The Friars, although well-conditioned did not seem to be able to take the steep hills of the West Point course and were only able to capture three of the first fifteen places. Captain Bill Hanlon ran first for the Friars and placed third in the meet. Bob Ruggeri, a star trackster last year, placed ninth and Bill Horridge, just back from the Army, placed thirteenth.

The Frosh team, after only a week's practice, competed in a triangular meet with Cobleskill State University and the Army Plebes. The Junior Friars put up a good showing, but were no match for the well conditioned Army fledglings, who had been training since the middle of the summer, and were able only to place third.

Mr. Harry Coates, Friar coach, was quoted as saying: "This is the best team we have ever had at the school, and if we can't win with this one we never will." Coach Coates, after last week's defeat, would not hazard a guess as to the outcome of the Harvard Meet.

The match with the Harvard Crimson will begin and end at home plate on the baseball field. The course has been made up this way in order to make it easier for the spectators.

Georgetown Body Backs Return Of Grid Sport

By Dale Faulkner

Football, long absent from the campuses of a number of Catholic colleges, may be revived at one of the institutions that was forced by financial reasons to abandon it six years ago. At least that's the apparent hope of the Georgetown Club of Washington. Should the Washington, D. C. school decide to undertake the gridiron sport once more the move may set up a chain reaction of revivals with Santa Clara, San Francisco, and Fordham following suit.

Although still in the embryonic stages, the Georgetown move has behind it a number of well-formulated facts and seems to have the support of an influential Alumni group.

Three major classifications of the game were offered to those polled: (1) Big Time. (2) Ivy League. (3) Small Time. With last year's highly successful round robin debut, it isn't surprising that the Ivy type won the grads favor hands down.

In all, though, the first stages have been already laid and the strong interest in returning to the gridiron is readily seen, even though the takers of the poll may have hurt their campaign by limiting it to what is really not a large body of Georgetown's entire Alumni.

Intramurals

Mr. Peter Louthies, Director of Intramural Athletics, has set this week as the deadline for intra-mural touch football entries. The grid loop is set to begin play next week.

For those frequenters of the indoor facilities in Alumni Hall, here are the hours allotted for general student use:

Classes—12 noon to 5 p.m.; 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Fridays—12 noon to 5 p.m.; 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Saturdays, Sundays—1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Class Of '61 Welcomed To P.C.

On Tuesday morning, September 17, the 40th year of Providence College history officially opened with the registration of 526 freshmen.

During the opening session, the class was greeted by the Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., President of the College, and the Dean of Freshmen, Rev. Edward B. Hallon, O.P. The morning program closed with each freshman personally meeting Father Slavin.

In the afternoon, the class was introduced to Rev. Joseph L. Lennon, O.P., Dean of Studies; Rev. Anthony A. Jurgelaitis, O.P., Dean of Discipline; and Rev. Thomas H. McBrien, O.P., College Chaplain. They explained to the freshmen their various administrative and guidance functions. The freshmen then met their class moderator, Rev. Richard A. Fleck, O.P. Father Fleck let it be known to the class that he is always available to help them in any way. The session came to an end with the singing of the college songs by a group of upperclassmen, under the direction of Rev. Raymond B. St. George, O.P.

Wednesday was devoted entirely to physical examinations, R. O. T. C. orientation, picture taking, and the distribution of schedules.

The Thursday sessions opened with the freshmen meeting athletic department officials and coaches. The program was then turned over to the President of the Student Congress, Joseph Dolan. Joe welcomed the class in behalf of the student body. He then divided the class into many groups, each headed by two upperclassmen, who explained to their groups the various extracurricular activities of the college.

Later on in the day, the freshmen met with their faculty advisors and the heads of the departments.

The various regional clubs were then afforded rooms in Harkins Hall in order to meet the freshmen from their localities, and explain to them the functions of the clubs. The clubs reported that they had recruited the majority of the class.

On Friday night, the Student Congress sponsored a Freshman Dance. The dance was well attended with girls being present from Newton College, Salve Regina, and other local colleges and nursing schools. The affair proved to be the social highlight of Freshman Week.

Saturday the congress held a picnic for the class at Goddard Park. Like the dance, this was also well attended and marked by great spirit on the part of the class.

Student Congress officials were very pleased with the results of Freshman Week. Their feelings were expressed in the words of Dan Gorman, the chairman of Freshman Week activities, who stated, "This is one of the better classes to reach Providence College. Fine spirit and enthusiasm." Dan also wished to thank everyone concerned with Freshman Week for their generous aid.

Rival Reversal:

A pair of ex-hockey rivals will be members of the same organization this year once P.C.'s hockey machines get rolling. Paul Gauthier, last year's frosh goalie, was once the net minder for Hamden High in the New Haven District League. An opposing goalie in that circuit was Jocko Sullivan, who performed at West Haven High. Sullivan is now a freshman here.

Novices tread a steady path to the Door of Consultation.

"Do you know where I can find a part-time job?"

P.C. Runnerup In State Sail

The Sailing Club of Providence College sailed to a second place finish in the Rhode Island Championship races at Brown. The Friars, making their first appearance of the season, relied upon the newer members of the club in an effort to surprise the heavily favored Brown crews. The strategy almost paid off as sophomore Ben Healy and his brother Gene, a freshman, were in contention through the final race. The final results showed the Brown crews with a slim six point edge over the Friars, followed by the University of Rhode Island and Rhode Island School of Design.

The races were sailed on the Seekonk River in very light wind. A combination of the light airs and an outgoing tide made sailing Brown's Beverly Dinks a very tricky affair. The races were sailed over a triangular course stretching from the Red Bridge to a point above the Brown Boat Club. The races began at noon and it was near five before the series were completed.

Intercollegiate racing has been more or less semiactive here for the past five years. This year, with the interest shown so far among the underclassmen, it is hoped the Friars will firmly establish themselves in intercollegiate sailing. After Saturday's performance against Brown, interest has reached a new high and plans are now in progress to secure the use of a few sailing dinkies. A few Alumni have also expressed interest in the efforts of the Sailing Club.

Opeys To Top Performers, Bronze Statues Presented

The Pyramid Players instituted their own "Oscar" program at the conclusion of the 1956-1957 scholastic year. Nine bronze statues were awarded for top-notch performances and production-feats during the past season.

The awards are called "Opeys" after the idea of William Anthony, '50, one of the players, who was elected secretary of the group for this current year. The name has a double significance. O.P. is the abbreviation for Order of Preachers, the teaching order here at the college. And OPEY stands for the Outstanding Performance for Every Year.

The awards were presented at the annual dinner of the Pyramid Players held at Oates Tavern.

"The Student Prince," best show.

Author Boucher, '59, for his part in "The Came Mutiny Court Martial," best actor.

Joan Dykas, for her role in "Scotch 'N' Wry," best actress.

John E. Walsh, '58, player in "Stalag 17," best supporting actor.

Richard P. Rice, '56, "Scotch 'N' Wry," best set designer.

James Flannery, '57, who produced "Angelic Doctor," best producer.

Richard L. McCarthy, '57, "The Came Mutiny Court Martial," best director.

To the Rev. Brendan Larnen, O.P., a special award for his work as moderator of the Pyramid Players. Father Larnen has left the P.C. campus to assume the post of associate editor of "The Holy Name Journal."

Rev. Robert Alan Morris, O.P., the new moderator of the Pyramid Players, is from Jersey City. He graduated from Regis High School in New York and P.C. After his ordination he attended Yale Drama School. For five years he was affiliated with the Black Friars in New York. He collaborated with Father Rover, O.P., in writing "Hambroo Cross," a play which appeared on television starring Jane Wyman.

Nominations for the Opeys came from the players themselves. Final selection however, is made by a committee outside the group.

The new officers of the Pyramid Players are: John Welsh, president; Arthur Boucher, vice president; David Harrington, treasurer, and William Anthony, secretary.

Dr. Goodman Offers Mental Health Study

On Wednesday evening, October 9th at 7:30 p.m. the first of a series of lectures on "Mental Health Problems in Growth and Development" will be held at Albertus Magnus Auditorium. The reason for this series is to acquaint the layman with the field of mental health in order that they might come to an appreciation of the problems facing those who are actively engaged in preventing mental health, as well as an understanding of those afflicted with mental disorders.

Charles C. Goodman, M.D., will conduct the lectures which will continue until December

4th. Dr. Goodman is a native of Newport. He received his B.S. from Providence College in 1943 and his M.D. from Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, in 1948. He interned at Pawtucket Memorial Hospital, and had his residency training in psychiatry at the State Hospital, Providence. He joined the staff of Mental Hygiene Services in 1953. He has been chief Clinical Psychiatrist for the Department of Social Welfare, Mental Hygiene Services, State of Rhode Island, from 1955 to the present.

— Regional Activities —

Providence

At its first meeting of the year, on October 3, the Metropolitan Providence Club welcomed many Freshmen, as well as upper-classesmen, into its membership ranks. Rev. John D. Skalko, club moderator, and President William Doolery briefly addressed the gathering.

Items discussed at the meeting included a proposed mystery ride to be held in late October, plans for the annual Christmas Ball, and plans for club-sponsored teams in intramural league competition. Bill Doorley appointed a committee to facilitate plans for the Christmas Ball consisting of Dick Kiley, Bob Reilly, and Len Clingham. The president also appointed Norm Dupre to be the club's representative on the intra-mural athletic council.

All students living in the Providence area are invited to join the club. Dues are payable to Bill Doorley, or to the other club officers. Vice-President Fran Whalen, Secretary Joe Pari, and Treasurer Tom Grady.

Kent County

An urgent call is being made to all residents of Kent County to aid in the reorganization of their regional club. Father Danilowicz, who has been re-appointed its moderator, is anxious that the club should again rise to the forefront in extra-curricular activities. To do so, it is necessary that it should receive the active support of those students who reside in the Kent County area.

All those interested in helping to organize the club are urged to contact either Ed Lombard or Bob Nicholson (seniors). Ray Blais or Ray Boutin (Juniors), John Ruzanski and Roger Roussele are asked to represent the class of '60.

Kent County students are asked to follow the club's activities through the medium of the bulletin board located in Harkins Hall. Plans have already been formulated for the first meeting which will be held at Ralf's located on the Bald Hill Road, south of the Cranston Auto theatre. The time has not been set, but will be definitely next week. Watch for posters.

Taunton

The Taunton Club held its first meeting of the year last Thursday at the C.Y.O. The meeting consisted of an introduction of new members, and an election of club officers. Newly elected officers were: Paul Grady, '58, President; Joseph Flynn, '58, Vice-president; Donald Ricketts, '60, Treasurer; and Robert Gilbert, '59, Secretary. Plans were discussed for tentative activities in the near future.

Another meeting was called for this Thursday with an invitation extended especially to all freshmen who wish to become active participants in the club. The meeting is again to be held at the C.Y.O. Hall at 7:30 p.m.

Education Association Elects P.C. Seniors

Two Providence College Seniors, William E. Davis of East Providence and Edward Davey of Cranston have been chosen as discussion leaders at the group sessions held yesterday and today at the New Ocean House, Swampscott, Massachusetts, this year's meeting place for the New England Teacher Preparation Association.

The theme for this year's conference is entitled "How Can Teacher Preparation Institutions Meet Their Intellectual Responsibilities More Effectively?" Nineteen colleges actually participated in the conference, which was attended by another dozen colleges.

Soph's Begin Social Year

On Saturday evening, September class, under the direction of Tom Grady, sponsored its first social event of the school year.

With dancing from eight to eleven-thirty, Vin Ferraiola's musical atmosphere. Refreshments were served and coats checked under the auspices of the Friar's Club of Providence College.

President Tom Grady, Vice-President Ed Ford, Secretary George Gunther, and Treasurer Gene McCarthy wish to thank all those who made this affair possible.

Aquinas Society Resumes Activity

The Aquinas Society, under the auspices of the Philosophy Department, held its seventh meeting, the first of the academic year, on Tuesday evening at 7:00 in the lounge of Aquinas Hall. Father John P. Reid, O.P., Moderator, welcomed new and old members and discussed with them plans for future meetings. The society will continue to function as a group of informal discussions of topics of a general cultural and intellectual nature. Included in this year's list of topics are questions concerning the foundations of the political community, Church and state in the United States, the philosophy of Communism, the problem of human origins, Protestantism today, American Catholics and the intellectual history, technology, contemporary American philosophy, the impact of psychiatry, and others. All students are cordially invited to take part in these discussions. Meetings will be held weekly, on Tuesday evenings, unless otherwise noted. Discussion topics will be published one week in advance in the COWL and on the official bulletin board.

Veritas Pictures

The Veritas has announced that senior photos will be taken during the weeks of October 14th and October 21st. A two dollar deposit will be required of all seniors at this time. This fee is applicable to the total cost of personal photos.

Seniors are requested to return their proofs to the photographer as soon as possible. It is not necessary to order personal photographs at that time, but may be done at the convenience of the senior. However, proofs should be returned as soon as possible, and the year book pose selected.

A schedule sheet has been posted, and seniors are requested to note the time at photographed. They should then keep that appointment. Photos will be taken in the parlor of Harkins Hall.

Photographer for the 1958 Veritas is the Photo-Reflex Studios, located on the second floor of the Shepard Stores in Providence.

Also, senior activity sheets have been placed on the second floor of Harkins Hall. Seniors are requested to fill out these sheets and place them in the box provided. Deadline for these sheets is October 18, 1957.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Juniors:

Being a candidate for the office of vice-president of our class, I would like to say that I am fully aware of the duties and obligations connected with the position, and will carry them out to the best of my ability.

With the Junior Prom taking the social spotlight, and the choice of a class ring being made, this year will be an extremely important one in our college career. For this reason, it will be necessary that the entire class cooperate in any function which the Juniors sponsor.

I would like to make my bid to represent the Class of '59 in any social event or bartering to be handled between the administration and the Junior Class.

If elected to the office of vice-president, I will strive to carry out the duties of the position you will have entrusted to me.

Sincerely,
Jim Sheahan, '59
(Candidate for Vice President)

To the Students:

The officers of the Carolan Club wish to express their sincere thanks to all those students who sacrificed their time by returning to Providence early, and making "Freshman Week" the success that it was. The warm greeting given to the freshmen by these men, in our opinion, helped immeasurably in furthering the good name of Providence College to the parents.

We also wish to thank the Student Congress, without whose help and cooperation, this week would never have succeeded.

The spirit exemplified by these workers is characteristic of the general attitude of Providence College students.

Sincerely,
J.W.T.R.
The Officers of the Carolan Club

To The Class of 1959:

The office of President of the Junior Class, a position with a tremendous responsibility, is one that consumes not only time and energy, but also demands many sacrifices from the person elected to that office.

Upon deciding to run for the office of President of the Junior class, I have taken all these things into consideration and am willing to make these sacrifices that the office demands. As a fellow member of the Junior class, I have devoted much of my time to class activities and functions. With a background such as the one I have acquired in these activities, I sincerely believe I am qualified for this position.

I wish to pledge to the members of the Junior class that I will do my utmost to promote the well being of the Junior class.

I also wish to urge those of you who will read this will go and vote for me, but regardless of who your candidate is, I cannot urge you too strongly to go and vote to make this election a class success.

Sincerely yours,
Edward LeBeau

 ever attained. In 1942 and 1943 he led UConn. to Yankee Division Crowns in football and basketball, and was named all New England in both sports. It was in 1943 that Mr. Cuddy had one of his greatest thrills. Playing against U.R.I. and Ernie Calverly, P.C. frosh hoop coach, one of the country's highest scorers, he led the Huskies to an 82-53 conquest of the N.C.A.A. champs, while holding Calverly, a usual 20 pt.-plus man, to a skimpy 12 markers.

When he was appointed mentor in 1949, Mr. Cuddy had no trouble transferring his success. In six years he has hung up an enviable 75 won-64 lost record. Some of the high spots in his coaching career were the attainment of the New England N.A.I.A. crown in 1951 and a trip to the National Catholic Tournament at Albany in the same year.

P.C. Holy Name Sophomores Vying To Meet Sunday For Class Offices

The first meeting of the Providence College Holy Name Society will be held on Sunday, October 13th, at 10 a.m. in Harkins Hall Auditorium. Mass will be offered, and the sermon will be delivered by the Reverend Thomas H. McBrien, O.P., Chaplain of the College. New members are welcome, and will be inducted into the Society following the celebration of Mass.

The Holy Name Society was reactivated during the annual retreat last year, and held a very successful meeting in May. Monthly meetings will be held during the current year on the second Sunday of every month.

At the assembly held yesterday for members of the Sophomore Class, it was determined that an even eight men expressed their desire to participate in the government of their class. They are as follows: For the office of President, Thomas Grady, Edgewood; and John McPoland, Newport. Vice President, Peter Bortolan, Williamamantic, Conn.; and John McNamee, Greenwich, Conn. Treasurer, John Gorman, Cranston; and Gene McCarthy, East Providence; and Thomas Lee, Watertown, Mass.

Elections will be held next Monday, October 14, at a time and place to be designated in the next day or two.

Campaign Fails

Since that episode, there has been, in the words of Father Halton, "a fierce campaign to have me revoked." This campaign culminated in the recent statement by Princeton President, Dr. Robert F. Goheen. However, it appears that the university has failed in its attempt to have Father Halton removed, since the Bishop of Trenton has refused to replace him.

Although this latest action taken by the "Ivy League" institution most assuringly indicates that Father Halton is not wanted, it fails to show how he actually erred in his remarks. Moreover, it reflects the apparent unwillingness of the university officials to accept criticism.

Officials Violate Principle
In light of the facts made public against Father Halton, it would seem that the Princeton officials flagrantly violated the fundamental principle of "freedom of speech" by attempting to expel him from the campus because of his criticism of the faculty. Therefore, in all fairness to the reputation of the university, it would be wise if the officials would carefully reconsider their action. By doing this they would remove any light of suspicion in the minds of those who doubt their reasons.
