

Freshmen Defeat Sophs In Annual Tug Of War

The freshman beanie left the scene last Thursday, when some fifty sophomores pitted their strength and skill against the frenzied determination of an equal number of freshmen and lost. That, in brief, is the story of the freshman-sophomore tug-of-war held October 17, on Henricksen Field.

The contest was conducted in the following manner. Two teams, equal in number, were yielded, one from each class. They stationed themselves along a fifty yard length of rope on opposite sides of a small white handkerchief which marked the center. The freshmen could win by pulling that handkerchief past an appointed green flag, about ten yards from the initial center point. The sophomores could win only by holding the freshmen fast for five minutes.

As Vin Farrioli raised his hand, both teams picked up the rope. Farrioli dropped his hand, there was a resounding "thump" from a brass drum, and the fight was on. For over thirty seconds the handkerchief swayed only slightly from its original position. But the freshmen, to whom defeat would have meant another week of beanie wear, finally gained the upper hand. In the last fifteen seconds of the contest the freshmen pulled the sophs steadily toward the green flag, and with one final surge, moved passed the marker to victory and emancipation.

P.C. Sailing Club Fourth In Brown Regatta Contest

The Sailing Club of Providence College in a protest-filled regatta finished fourth at Brown this past Saturday in competition with seven other colleges. Skippers Gene and Ben Healy and their crews Dave Pepin and Tom Quinn were in competition for second place up until the final race. A combination of rough waters and brisk breezes proved to be a little too much for the Friar sailors in the final race and they had to settle for a fourth, one point behind R.I.S.D.

The host team Brown gained an overwhelming lead in the morning series of races and were never in danger of losing their lead. The Brown skippers were almost invincible as they won one race after another. The P.C. skippers were a constant third. Two disqualifications during the morning series dimmed the Friar chances and cost them a second place.

The races were sailed in two divisions. Sailing in division A were Gene Healy and his mate Dave Pepin. Gene gained 57 points and was the second leading skipper of the day. The P.C. entry placed second in Division A.

Ben Healy, with Tom Quinn, was eliminated from the last race of the morning series on a very questionable call by the race committee. Both Ben and the Brown skipper filed protests but to no avail. In another race the boat hit a mark and was forced to withdraw from the race.

The racing started about 10 in the morning and it was near five before the last race was completed. The outgoing tide and soft breezes made matters difficult for some skippers in the morning, but by afternoon the wind had picked up considerably. The last 2 races provided the most action. One boat tipped over at the first mark sending two unfortunate sailors for a swim. In the last race of the day, the Friar entry was half full of water at the first mark and it was questionable if it would be able to complete the race. Some fast bailing and good sailing not only helped the Friars to finish but earned them a third place finish.

The races were very close and the 16 races were enveloped by 16 protests. The Friar skippers were involved in 8 of the protests and won on 6 counts. The race committee was adequate, but apparently it will not continue to be so.

Final Turnout of 84% Seen in '58 Election

Pre-Med Group To Sponsor Trip

Rhode Island Alpha, Providence College Chapter of Alpha Epsilon Delta, National Pre-Medical Society is sponsoring a trip to a pre-medical convention at Albany Medical College on October 24, 1957. The high points of this convention will include a tour of the medical center facilities, a joint seminar with medical students, and an informal discussion with the medical school faculty.

Barrister Registration

Milo St. Angelo, '58, President of the Providence College Barristers, announced that thirty-two students have registered for debate. The entire membership is divided into two groups to facilitate personal instruction of the candidates.

Last year's program of fifty-two debates will be doubled this year, said Father John Skalko, O.P., moderator, so that a wealth of experience is in store for the entire squad.

The initial encounter takes place at Memorial Union on R.I.U. Campus on Thursday, October 31. The P.C. affirmative team consists of Thomas O'Herron, '61, and Frank Shaw, '59, with William White, '59, and Thomas Blessington, '59, upholding the negative. The Barristers have scheduled a double-header return engagement in Alumni Hall for 7:45 p.m. on Tuesday, November 5.

The student body and the general public are always welcome to attend the Barrister's Debates. The topic for all inter-collegiate debates this year is certainly very vital as well as very debatable: Resolved that membership in a labor organization as a condition of employment should be illegal.

Alembic Contest

The Alembic is conducting a literary contest to honor a Dominican saint and Polish patriot, St. Hyacinth, whose seventh centenary is being celebrated this year. "Poland vs. Communism" is the theme. Manuscripts of essays, poems, plays, or prose narratives should be submitted to Alembic editor Gerry Poulant.

Further details will be posted.

IN MEMORIAM

The faculty and students extend deepest sympathy to John McConnell, '61, on the death of his mother; and to Lawrence Farley, '58, on the death of his father.

Last Thursday, eighty-four percent of the senior class turned out to elect its officers for the coming year. Two hundred and eighty-two members of the Class of 1958 out of a possible three hundred and thirty-two voted in Jim Hagan again as president of his class. Jim has outbested presidential competition for the past three years, and was vice president in his freshman year. Jim, a political science major from Pawtucket, defeated Charlie Dugan, a business major from Wethersfield, Conn., and Bill Doorley, a political science major from North Providence in a bitter contest.

In the other three offices, also comprised of candidates from the political science and business departments, Pete O'Hara, a business major from Greenfield, Mass., was re-elected vice president, overcoming Frank Pate, of Providence, who is concentrating in political science.

D. J. Dooley, a newcomer to the ranks from Slaten Island, defeated Tony Ferraro, from Providence, for the secretarial duties. Both gentlemen are political science majors.

Dave Roche, a business major from New London, Conn., was the only sure winner before election time. Being unopposed, he swept away all the votes for his role of treasurer.

In a newly created post organized with the help of the

Jim Hagan

Alumni Association and the college administration, Jim Westwater, a letters major from New York, won easily in a landslide victory for class representative. Jim won over Jack Sullivan, a business major from Providence; Tony Tatulli, an education major from North Providence, and Jack Welsh, a political science major from Brooklyn. Jim's prime duty is to keep his class organized as a communicative unit after graduation by acting as a liaison between the class and other alumni.

Carolan Club Holds 'Festival'

Miss Addie Bodanski, an Annhurst College student, reigned as queen over 89 couples at the Carolan Club's Autumn Festival last Saturday night, October 19. Miss Bodanski, escorted by Jim Ryan, '60, was selected by Tony Abbott's Band.

The couples attending the Festival were greeted by pumpkin tragedy and comedy masks, by Father Slavin, and other priests of the college who attended as guests of the Carolan Club. The couples danced to the enjoyable music of Tony Abbott, and enjoyed the refreshments of apple cider and doughnuts.

The officers of the Carolan Club wish to thank all the people who contributed to the success of the Autumn Festival. This includes all who attended and especially the men who assisted in pre-dance arrangements.

National Catholic Youth Week Observance Here

The week of October 29-November 3, is National Catholic Youth Week. It is a wonderful opportunity to unite with our fellow Catholic college students all over the country. We, as college students, have an important role to play in determining the future. Our world is beset with spiritual impoverishment and intellectual rebellion, and unless we take the initiative there is no hope for improvement in the future.

During this week National Catholic Youth Communion Sunday will be observed. By observing this Sunday, we can thereby join our fellow Catholic youth throughout the Nation in the reception of Holy Communion on the Feast of Christ the King, in honor of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, of the Patroness of Catholic young people.

THE COWL — Editorials —

Seeds Of Disaster

One of the problems most discussed by the American intelligentsia is the hostility of the public as a whole to the "Egghed." It is a recognized fact, that as soon as one displays "book-learning" or a philosophical bent, he is immediately suspect.

The reasons behind this hostility are being evidenced most graphically at present by the publication and acceptance of Ayn Rand's latest novel, Atlas Shrugged. If one asks, "Who represents the intelligentsia in the public mind?" one finds that the answer is the so-called avant garde, a class which appears to be spectacularly intelligent or brainy. It is to this group that Miss Rand aims her peculiar brand of fiction.

To illustrate Miss Rand's philosophy in her own words: "... the greatest guarantee of a better world is a rational morality. . . . It is wrong to help a man who has no virtues, to help him on the ground of his suffering as such, to accept his faults, his needs, as a claim. . . . Not only Christianity, but all religions are forms of mysticism. They depart from reason and introduce faith. I reject any form of faith totally and absolutely. . . . The modern structure was created by intellectuals and it must be changed by intellectuals. The masses will follow." Thus Miss Rand's Nietzschean principles — the same principles which led Germany to disaster — are presented to the public as representative of the views of the intelligentsia as a whole, and few, if any, objections will be raised.

Of those people who comprise the intelligentsia, Miss Rand and her disciples are admittedly the minority, but they will be heard, and, no doubt, make a few converts. On the other hand, the public is not going to feel any closer to a group which follows such philosophy, and the hostility mentioned above will be intensified.

There is a very real and urgent need of leaders in the field of the arts who will propose the principles of Thomistic philosophy. If the principles proposed by Miss Rand and others of her ilk remain unrefuted, the results may once again be disastrous.

Abusive Liberalism

Recently Father Hugh Halton, Catholic chaplain at Princeton University, attacked what he termed "abusive liberalism" at the university. It seems evident that this philosophy stems from intellectuals who are sinking in the quicksand of their own pride. What is not so evident, however, is the essence of this philosophy that has crept into so many of our nation's universities and made them a breeding ground for moral mediocrity. Perhaps one of our so-called intellectuals best-defined the philosophy as "the concept of man as a heroic being, with his own happiness as the moral purpose of his life, with productive achievements as his noblest activity, and reason as his only absolute."

America has always been fortunate in having her Bishop Sheens, Billy Grahams, and Victor Riesel to defend universal principles. Yet modern liberalism is a philosophy that scoffs at the "narrow-mindedness" of blind adherence to principle. It is a philosophy that in its extreme lauds the "broadmindedness" of abortion, euthanasia, birth control, and other modern evils. It is a philosophy that prompts its followers, intellectuals and pseudo-intellectuals alike, to attack universal principles on the grounds that "there are at least a thousand different shades of red" or "a person's viewpoint varies according to his environment." Thus we have intellectualism, pragmatism, and materialism combined into one philosophy of anarchy.

This modern "liberalism" both abuses and prostitutes the true concept of the word. As a philosophy it fails to distinguish between principles and issues. The sphere of morality involves principles that are universal, immovable, and above the reproach of human reason. It is on issues that men compromise and exercise the freedom of thought that "liberalism" holds as a basic tenet. It is indeed ironic that this freedom of thought should be denied to Father Halton by those who claim to value it so dearly.

WRITING

"If a writer is so cautious that he never writes anything that cannot be criticized, he will never write anything that can be read. If you want to help other people you have got to make up your own mind to write things that some men will condemn."

Letters To The Editor

To the Class of '58:

Having been elected your senior class agent, I would like to thank all those who voted for me. As promised prior to elections last week, I will do the best I possibly can in keeping our class united and active in the future.

Thank you,

Jim Westwater,
Class Agent

To the Class of '59:

The officers of the junior class wish to sincerely thank the members of the class for electing us to our respective positions. Also, we wish to thank the student congress for the orderly way in which they ran the election.

We wish to make it clear to the class that we intend to make this year an overwhelming success but we cannot stress too much the need of wholehearted cooperation on the part of each and every student.

It is our intention to clear up the major problems of the coming year immediately in order that the year will progress as smoothly as possible. From time to time we plan to hold general meetings, open to every member of the class, to inform you as to the progress which we hope to make, and also to receive the many sober suggestions which you undoubtedly will have. However, for the most part, our notices will be posted on our bulletin board located on the second floor of Harkins Hall.

Do not hesitate to ask any questions or offer constructive criticisms for they will be very helpful to us.

Respectfully submitted,

Ed Keegan, President
Ed Lind, Vice-President
George Foley, Secretary
Dan Amendola, Treasurer

To the Class of '60:

The Dominieatic Party would like to thank you for your support in the past elections. We pledge ourselves to the attainment of a year as good as, if not better than, the past year.

We would like to solicit the cooperation and help of any and all students who are interested in the development of a better year for the sophomore class. In planning for the coming year, the officers need your ideas. Therefore, class meetings will be posted well in advance, eliminating the possibility of any ideas not being brought up for discussion.

Won't you please give us your cooperation in making this sophomore year the best in Providence College history? Thank you.

Tom Grady, President
Jack McNamee,
Vice-President
George Gunther,
Secretary
Gene McCarthy,
Treasurer

The Middle East . . .

While most of the world's attention has been focused on Sputnik during the last few weeks, the Middle East, which has been a hot spot in international affairs before, is once again threatening to take the spotlight.

United States policy in this area has been, for the most part, centered on the desire of keeping these countries together. However, our fundamental policies toward Israel and Russia make this next to impossible. First of all we had the Arab countries suspicious of our actions in the Suez and Israel conflicts. Secondly, some of the nations in this area are at a loss to explain our attitude toward Russia. Our propaganda tells them of the evils of Communism and, yet, we are seen sitting around conference tables with them discussing such things as disarmament to no avail.

Russian Trade More Favorable

Furthermore, the Russians are seemingly more willing to help these countries than we are. Syria, for example, a prime target of the Russian encirclement plan has increased its trade with the Soviets tremendously in the last few months. In so doing she has reduced her trade with the United States simply because Russia is willing to give her better prices for her materials. The situation in Lebanon, Saudi Arabia and other Middle East countries is much the same with these countries tempted to switch partners in the extremely involved and dangerous game of international chess at the first opportunity.

Nasser Is Real Instigator

Our one NATO ally, Turkey is presently in grave danger since both the U.S.S.R. and Syria border her territory. Khrushchev recently implied that the United States was encouraging Turkey to begin hostilities with her Syrian neighbors. This statement, like most made by Khrushchev, was absurd, since it has been the policy of the United States to keep Turkey out of any armed conflict. If anyone is responsible for the conditions in the Turkish-Syrian situation it is Egypt's Nasser. It was he who sent troops to aid the Syrians in the event of hostilities. This was really ridiculous since it is Turkey that is lacking in military might—not Syria.

Whatever the outcome of this crisis, there will be many questions asked. One of these may be "How did we lose the Middle East to Russia?" If this happens then I would like to ask, "What will be Russia's next target?"

Basketballers Face 25 Foes In '57-'58

VARSITY BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

The Providence College basketball team will play a rugged twenty-five game schedule against some of the outstanding New England and Eastern teams this year according to the 1957-'58 schedule released today by the Reverend Aloysius B. Begley, O.P., Director of Athletics. Among the Eastern teams are: Holy Cross, St. Bonaventure, Fordham, St. John's, St. Francis of Pennsylvania, St. Francis of Brooklyn, and Siena.

For the first time in Friar history the team will participate in a Christmas Tournament. An invitation has been accepted to participate in the Fourth Annual Marine Corps Schools Christmas Collegiate Invitational Tournament, at Quantico, Virginia.

Providence College will also be defending the state title against its traditional intra-state rivals, Brown University and the University of Rhode Island. Also included in the schedule are contests against such New England teams as Boston University, Brandeis University, Boston College, Springfield College, Fairfield University, American International College, St. Anselm's College and Assumption College.

ALEMBIC To Be November Issue

Contributions to the Alembic, P.C. quarterly magazine, are being sought by Father Molloy, O.P., moderator. The first issue of the school year will appear in mid-November.

"All PC students—not merely English majors—may submit material to the Alembic, and are encouraged to do so," stated Father Molloy.

"PC could have just as fine a magazine as the Cross and BC have, if all the students would make the sacrifices to support it," said Gerry Poullet, editor of the Alembic. "Let's hope they come through this year."

Essays on current topics, short narratives and poems, either serious or humorous, will be welcomed by the editors.

Leonine Society

The Leonine Club of the sociology department will have a short meeting at 12:30 p.m. in Room 111, Harkins Hall, on Thursday, October 24. The meeting is for the purpose of preparing a slate of officers and accepting new members. If you are interested, come in and hear the program for the year. Father J. M. Fitzgerald, O.P., is the moderator of the society.

Veritas Pictures

All seniors are urgently advised to make an appointment with the photographer this week. After Friday, it will be necessary for the seniors to go to the studio to be photographed.

As I See It

CRITICISM

Hank Greenberg was fired as General Manager of the Cleveland Indians last week. The majority of sports writers received this news without surprise, but with satisfaction. Probably no other current sports figure receives the degree and intensity of detrimental publicity as Greenberg does. Since October of 1954, the scribbles have adversely criticized the former home-run king unmercifully.

It is very easy to knock the other man for his mistakes. Sometimes defamation is the only form of remedy, but very rarely. Experience of this is not always the best teacher, as I very well know. (Said the pot to the kettle, "Get away, blackface." Cervantes—"Don Quixote").

College should do more than teach only the subject matter. By graduation time the virtue of Christian charity should be instilled in all. An understanding of our fellow man, a realization and appreciation of his ideas should be achieved after the four years. This applies not only to writing, but also to all the actions of our lives.

In school there are always the individuals who can never be pleased. "Of all the cents which are canted in this canting world — though the cant of hypocrites may be the worst — the cant of criticism is the most tormenting." Laurence Stein — "Tristan Shandy."

Army had been defeated in the final minutes by Notre Dame, 23-21. Mechanically, resolutely and a bit tiredly, West Point's head coach, Earl (Red) Blaik made this comment: "If you don't have the depth," he sighed "you don't have the depth."

This was a point that seemed more than amply proved by Michigan State on the same afternoon as it overpowered Michigan, M.S.U. and Michigan fielded fine first teams. They were quick, big and strong. In the early part of the game, the Spartans and the Wolverines appeared to have about the same qualities, plus nearly similar versions of the multiple offense.

The difference in the teams became apparent when the substitutes arrived. In the case of Michigan State the difference between the first and second — and even the third — units was scarcely visible, particularly as Michigan began to wilt under such an overwhelming power in (both) numbers and ability.

A COACH'S REMARKS UPON THE GAMES OUTCOME

Red Blaik was poring over scouting reports that tended to show that the invading Pittsburgh Panthers were in many respects superior to the Fighting Irish. In an interview with reporters before game time, Blaik worriedly said, "the substitute rule is hurting the weaker clubs and helping the strong ones."

"There's no sure way to completely equalize big and little teams, of course, but I feel a player should be able to enter the lineup twice in a period. As it stands now, the large school with squad depth is platooning the average school into defeat anyway, throwing three complete units into action, one after another."

Scoring 16 points in the final period, Army defeated Pittsburgh 29-13. It was a stirring, surprising finish to what had started out as a grind-it-out struggle with Pitt dominating the first half. At the same time, in East Lansing, Michigan, an injured, ailing, and underrated Purdue pulled a stunning football upset. Purdue, a 21 point underdog, knocked off Michigan State, the top-rated collegiate team in the country, by a convincing 20-13 score.

Intramurals

There will be a meeting of the Intramural Athletic Council this evening at 7 p.m. It will be held in room 201 at Alumni Hall. All Chartered Clubs of Providence College are invited to send representatives to this meeting. The election of officers for the newly created Athletic Council will take place.

Here's this week's Intramural Touch Football League slate:

Wednesday, October 23rd:

2:30—Waterbury Club vs. Bristol County Club.

3:30—Boston Club vs. Ship and Scales Club.

Thursday, October 24th:

1:30—Providence Club "A" vs. Guzman Hall.

3:30—New Haven Club vs. Metropolitan Club.

3:30—Hartford Club vs. Woonsocket Club.

1:00—Vets Club vs. Providence "B"; Bristol County vs. Ship and Scales Club.

Ski Club Meeting

A meeting of the Ski Club will be held next Tuesday, October 29, at 7:30 p.m. in Room 300, Harkins Hall, to elect officers for the coming year.

New members will be welcomed. Plans will be discussed for both day and weekend ski trips to be held in the future.

Hoop Leader Likes Speed, Spirit, Depth

By Ed Lombardi

While chatting with Captain Eddie Donohue, the other day, we got around to a little hot stove basketball. Easy Ed, when prevailed upon to discuss the upcoming season, made the following comments.

"Providence will have a good running club this season. There are two reasons for this statement. Number one, we have one of the fastest teams in the past few years; plus the fact that while they have speed to burn, they know what they are doing. The team as a whole can shoot better. The good turnout at practice has produced two effects: added spirit and more depth."

Asked to comment on the schedule Eddie went on to say that it wasn't going to be an easy one, but he has high expectations. It is hard to single out all the good teams and their strengths, but Ed and I chose the following: Brown — "tops" around here, Joe Tebo, selected by many as All-East, and Gerry Alaimo are back, watch Dave (Continued on Page 5)

Tracksters Seek Initial Win Against Boston University

Frustrated in their first three outings, Providence College's wireless cross country squad takes to the road today for an afternoon with the harriers of Boston University.

The Terriers beaten by Harvard who also beat the P.C. runners, will field a good, but rather unseasoned team against the wireless Coatesmen.

If previous scores can give any indication of the future, the Friars seem to have a slight edge as the Scarlet and White were beaten by Harvard in a perfect meet of 18-30 while the Crimson beat the Friars by a score of 18-45.

Friday afternoon the U.R.I. Rams met the fu-ridden Friars on Hendrick Field in the last home meet of the year. Our traditional state rivals had no mercy in downing the crippled P.C. contingent 15-43.

The Blue & White, were led by French, Cushman, Wilson, H. Hamey and McIntosh. These finished in first, second, third, fourth and fifth respectively. Ed French, a big gun for the Rams won the meet with a time of 25:09.7.

The Friars, crippled without their first two men, were only able to place Bob Williams in (Continued on Page 5)

Eddie Donovan's proteges were 17-7 last year; Fordham—the Rams are definitely a great squad, they have a strong returning nucleus paced by Jim Cunningham (24.6 PPG) and Bill McCadney who was

"Black Saturday" took it's toll on the COWL's football "experts" last weekend as it did to football prognosticators and oddsmakers throughout the country. Although his unbeaten string went by the boards, Phil Jackman retained his first place status with an 8 for 10 showing. Ed Lombardi moved into the second slot with a duplicate standing of 8 for 10. The senior's year mark now stands at 16 for 20. Rounding out the five pickers are Jim Westwater and Dale Faulkner deadlocked for third and Gerry Murphy last.

A few other players of note are Larry Weise of St. Bonaventure, Brandeis' Rudy Fenderon who put on a good show for the Judges last year at Alumni Hall, and finally George Gierch a junior from Boston College who shows great promise.

score of 21-35. In their first win of the year (season), the little Friars took the first four places. Bob Bomberger posted the winning time of 17:23.8 over the three-mile course. Just behind Bob were Charlie Roety, Pat Stewart and Tom Magill in a three way tie for second.

Sticklers!

NO SORRIER WARRIOR exists than the one without Luckies. What's he missing? A smoke that's as light as they come! End to end, a Lucky is made of superbly light tobacco—golden rich, wonderfully good-tasting tobacco that's toasted to taste even better. That's a lot to miss out on—no wonder our chief has grief! Up North, you'd call him a Blue Sioux; back East, a Bleak Creek. But out in the land of the pueblo, he's just a mighty Mopey Hopi. (Smoke signal to you: Light up a Lucky. You'll agree a light smoke's the right smoke for you!)

STUDENTS! MAKE $25

Do you like to shirk work? Here's some easy money—start Sticking! We'll pay $25 for every Stickler we print—and for hundreds more that never get used. Sticklers are simple riddles with two-word rhyming answers. Both words must have the same number of syllables. (Don't do drawings.) Send your Sticklers with your name, address, college and class to Happy-Joe-Lucky, Box 67A, Mount Vernon, N. Y.

Taunton

The officers of the Taunton Club have announced a meeting for this Thursday evening, October 24. The meeting will commence at 7:30 p.m. and will be held at the C.Y.O. Hall. In order to allow the members sufficient time for their studies the meeting has been limited to one hour. There will be an open discussion concerning club activities in the very near future. Since there are still many plans to be settled it is most important that all members are present.

Blackstone

The first meeting of the Blackstone Valley Club was held Tuesday evening, October 15 at the LeFoyer Club in Pawtucket. Amendments were made to the Constitution, dues were set and collected, and elections were held.

The officers elected were: Jim Hagan, President; Mike Breault, Vice-President; Dick Norton, Secretary; and Graham McKnight, Treasurer.

Plans were also made for a Halloween Dance to be held October 30 at the LeFoyer Club. Charlie Bessette was named Chairman of the dance committee for this opening social event.

Fall River

The Fall River Club of Providence College held its first meeting of the current year at the Catholic Community Center on Franklin Street.

Of prime importance was the selection of officers with the following students elected to their respective positions: Major Wheelock, '58, President; John Brennan, '59, Vice-President; Edward Cox, '59, Treasurer; and Barry Nestor, '60, Secretary.

The business discussed was chiefly the location of future meetings with various opinions being expressed by members of the club. The final decision was left to the new officers who will make the necessary arrangements and then announce the new location to the members. Also mentioned was the possibility of a dinner-dance to be held in the near future and a committee was appointed to seek out the necessary information.

The attendance showed a marked increase and promises to be one of the best enrollments the club has had in many years. All Fall River students who have not yet made known their intentions to join the club are urged to contact one of the officers immediately.

Kent County

The Kent County Club held its monthly meeting on October 14th. Elections were held and the following were chosen: Ed Lombardi, President; Bill Sullivan, Vice-President; John Ruzanski, Treasurer; and Ray Blais, Secretary. Roger Rousseau and Al Langlais were named co-chairmen of the social committee. Plans were discussed for the social calendar. A luncheon was served as the meeting was closed. The next meeting will be held on the evening of November 4th. All prospective members are invited to attend.

History Series

Mr. Robert Deasy, professor of history, will continue the series, "The World Around Us," Friday, November 1. The program will be televised on WJAR-TV from 9:00 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. This is the second of a series of 8 lectures, the first of which appeared on Friday, October 18.

Mr. Deasy will be remembered for his series of 10 lectures last year on "Operation Schoolhouse," which also appeared on WJAR-TV.

Bookstore Notice

All textbooks will be returned to their publishers on Oct. 28th. A deposit will hold a book for a reasonable length of time. Purchasers must pay postage on books which are re-ordered after returns have been made.

can Bobby Cox should have bought a ticket to the game. Also in the midwest, Purdue, aided by Walt Kowalchuk's last minute fumble on their own, 30, held on to subdue the supposed Rose Bowl Bound Staters. Texas, off to a great game against Oklahoma, again rose to glorious heights in their 17-0 hammering of 9th ranked Arkansas.

Upsets of a lesser degree found Oregon State on the short-end of a 27-6 score against U.C.L.A., Colgate on two last minute scores downing Princeton, and Maryland slapping their old boss Jim Tatum and North Carolina 20-7.

Oklahoma piling up 447 yards on the ground on their way to a 47-0 shellacking of Kansas will probably gain the number one rating again, but from there on the top ten is in complete doubt. Texas A & M (7-0 over Texas Christian) should take the runner-up spot ahead of Michigan State, with Mississippi (50-0, Tulane) ranked fourth. After that Notre Dame, idle Saturday, is the only sure bet for the top ten, as even the teams who escaped defeat, had all they could do to win.

In games on tap this week, we find "the Little Brown Jug" battle, Minnesota and Michigan in the spotlight, along with a well rested Irish taking on its old nemesis Pitt, Illinois, off its great game against Minnesota, meets a fired up Michigan State at State's homecoming, while locally undefeated URI faces Brown in what could be a surprise to Rhode Island fans.
