Freshmen Defeat Sophs In Annual Tug Of War

The freshman beanie left the load. Two Brown skippers and forty sophs pitted their strength and skill against the current. The drive was on; the score was a conflict. The majority of the freshman-sophomore tug-of-war held October 17, on Hendrick Field, was won by the frosh.

The contest was conducted in the following manner. Two teams, equal in number, were selected, one from each class. The skippers stationed themselves along the rope, straddling it. They then lined up, side by side, with a brass bow on the rope.

The races were sailed in two divisions. The first division was race and they had to settle for third. Two disqualifications during the morning series eliminated the Friar entry. Brown held a third place finish.

The races were sailed in two divisions. Sailing in division A were Gene Healy and his mate Dave Pepin. In division B, Tom Quinn, with Ben Healy. The morning series decided the Friar chances and cost them a third place finish.

Seeds Of Disaster

One of the problems most discussed by the American intelligentsia is the hostility of the public as a whole to the "Egghead." It is a recognized fact, that as soon as one does any "book-learning" or a philosophical bent, he is immediately suspect.

The reasons behind this hostility are being evidenced most graphically at present by the publication and acceptance of Rand. In a recent interview, one asks, "Who represents the intelligentsia in the public mind?," and the answer is the so-called avant-garde, a class that represents some of the most infrastructural or blind adherence to principle. It is a philosophy that in the closest to a group which follows such philosophy, and the hostility mentioned above will be intensified.

There is a very real and urgent need of leaders in the field of the arts who will propose the principles of Thomistic philosophy. If the principles proposed by Miss Rand and others of her ilk remain unrejected, the results may once again be disastrous.

Abusive Liberalism

Recently Father Hugh Halton, Catholic chaplain at Princeton University, attacked what he termed "abusive liberalism." It is a recognized fact, that as soon as one does any "book-learning" or a philosophical bent, he is immediately suspect.

The modern structure was created by intellectuals and it must be changed by intellectuals. The masses will follow.

Thus Miss Rand's Nietzschean principles—the same principles that are responsible for the Universal principles. Yet modern liberalism is a philosophy of anarchy.

Abusive Liberalism

While most of the world's attention has been focused on Sputnik during the last few weeks, the Middle East, which has been a hot spot in international affairs before, is once again threatening to take the spotlight.

United States policy in this area has been, for the most part, centered on the desire to keep these countries to stay in the hands of their nations. However, our fundamental policies toward Israel and Russia make this next to impossible. First of all, we had the Arab countries suspicions of our actions in the Suez and Israel conflicts. Secondly, since some of these nations in this area are at a loss to explain our attitude toward Russia. Our propaganda tells them of the evils of Communism and, yet, we seem sitting around conference tables with them discussing such things as disarmament to no avail.

Russian Trade More Favorable

Furthermore, the Russians are seemingly more willing to help these countries than we are. Syria, for example, a prime target of the Russian encirclement plan has increased its trade with the Soviets tremendously in the last few months. In so doing she has reduced her trade with the United States simply because Russia is willing to give her better prices for her materials. The situation in Lebanon, Saudi Arabia and other Middle East countries is much the same with these countries tempted to switch partners in the extreme involved and dangerous game of international chess at the first opportunity.

Nasser Is Real Instigator

Our one NATO ally, Turkey, is presently in grave danger since both the U.S.S.R. and Syria border her territory. Khrushchev recently implied that the United States was encouraging Turkey to begin hostilities with her Syrian neighbors. This statement, like most made by Khrushchev, was absurd, since it has been the policy of the United States to keep Turkey out of any armed conflict. If anyone is responsible for the conditions in the Turkish-Syrian situation it is Egypt's Nasser. It was he who sent troops to aid the Syrians in the event of hostilities. This was really ridiculous since it is Turkey that is lacking in military might—not Syria.

Whatever the outcome of this crisis, there will be many questions asked. One of these may be "How did we lose the Middle East to Russia?" If this happens then I would like to ask, "What will Russia's next target?"
BASKETBALLERS FACE 25 FOES IN '57-'58

The Providence College basketball team will play a rugged twenty-five game schedule against some of the outstanding New England and Eastern teams this year according to the Reverend Aloysius B. Begley, O.P., Director of Athletics.

Among the Eastern teams are: Holy Cross, St. Francis of Brooklyn, and Siena. For the first time in Friar history the team will participate in a Christmas Tournament.

As I See It

CRITICISM

Hank Greenberg was fired as General Manager of the Cleve-lend Indians on Tuesday of last week. The majority of sports writers received this news without surprise, but with satisfaction. Probably no other current sports figure holds the degree and intensity of detestability publicly as Greenberg does. Since October of 1984, the scribes have adversely criticized the former home-run king unabated.

It is very easy to knock the other man for his mistakes. Sometimes defamation is the only form of remedy, but very rarely. Experience of this is not always to be lost, as I very well know. (Said the pot to the kettle, “Get away, blackface.”) —Cervantes—“Don Quixote”

College should do more than teach only the subject matter. By graduation time the virtue of Christian charity should be instilled in all. The character of our fellow men, a realization and appreciation of his ideas should be achieved after the four years. This applies not only to writing, but also to all the actions of our lives.

In school there are always the individuals who can never be pleased. “Of all the carts which are canted in this canting world — I guess there must be more than one...” —the cast of criticism is the most tormenting. —Laurence Stein —“Tirum Shales”

Army had been defeated in the final minutes by Notre Dame, 23:21. Mechanically, resolutely and a bit tiredly, West Point’s head coach Earl J. Blaik made this comment: “If you don’t have the depth, he sighed “you don’t have the depth.”

This was a point that seemed more than amply proved by Michigan State on the same afternoon. It overwhelmed Michigan, M.S.U. and Michigan fielded fine first teams. They were quick, big and strong. In the early part of the game, the Spartans and the Wolverines outplayed each other to have about the same qualities, plus nearly similar versions of the multiple offense.

The difference in the teams became apparent when the substitutes appeared. The edge of Michigan State the difference between the first and second — and even the third — units was steadfastly visible, particularly as Michigan began to wilt under merciless pounding, the difference between the first and second — and even the third — units was steadfastly visible, particularly as Michigan began to wilt under merciless pounding

A COACH'S REMARKS UPON THE GAMES OUTCOME

Red Blaik was pouring over scouting reports that tended to show that the invading Pittsburgh Panthers were in many respects superior to the Fighting Irish. In an interview with reporters before game time, Blaik worriedly said, “The substitute rule is hurting our team today. I am not saying a word about the strong ones.

“There’s no sure way to completely equalize big and little teams, of course, but I feel a player should be able to enter the lineup twice in a period. As it stands now, the large school with squad depth is planting the average school into defeat anyway, there being three complete units into action, one after another.”

Scores 16 points in the final period, Army defeated Pittsburgh 29-17. It was a stirring, surprising finish to what had started out as a grind-out struggle with Pitt dominating the first half. At the same time, in East Lansing, Michigan, an in-terious, and undercard Purdue pulled a stunning football upset. Purdue, a 2:1 point underdog, knocked off Michigan State, the top-rated collegiate team in the country, by a convincing 20-13 score.

Hoop Leader Likes Speed, Spirit, Depth

By Ed Lombardi

While chatting with Captain Eddie Donohue, the other day, we got around to a little hot stove basketball. Easy Ed, when prevailed upon to discuss the upcoming season, made the following comments.

“Providence will have a good running club this season. There are two reasons for this statement. Number one, we have one of the fastest teams in the past few years; plus the fact that while they have speed to burn, they know what they are doing. The team as a whole can shoot better. The good turn around at practice has produced two effects: added spirit and more depth.”

Asked to comment on the schedule Eddie went on to say that it wasn’t going to be an easy one, but he has high expectations. It is hard to single out all the good teams and their strengths, but Ed and I chose the following: Brown —”tops” around here, Joe Tebo, selected by many as All-East, and Gerry Alamo are back, watch Dave (Continued on Page 5)

Tracksters Seek Initial Win Against Boston University

Frustrated in their first three outings, Providence College's wireless cross country squad takes to the road today for an afternoon with the harriers of Boston University.

The Terriers beaten by Harvard who also beat the P.C. runners, will field a good, but rather unseasoned team against the wireless Coasters.

If previous scores can give any indication of the future, the Friars seem to have a slight edge as the Scarlet and White were beaten by Harvard in a perfect meet of 15:50 while the Crimson beat the Friars by a score of 15-45.

Friday afternoon the U.R.I. Rats met the fluf-u ridden Friars on Hendrickson Field in the last home meet of the year. Our traditional state rivals had no mercy in downing the crippled P.C. contingent 15-4.

The Blue & White, were led by French, Cushman, Wilson, H. Hamsey and McIntosh. These finished in first, second, third, fourth and fifth respectively. Ed French, a big gun for the Rams won the meet with a time of 25:50.

A Stab In The Dark

"Black Saturday" took it's toll on the COWL's football "experts" last weekend as it did to football prognosticators and oddsmakers throughout the country. Although his unbeaten string went by the board, Phil Jackman retained his first place status with an 8 for 10 showing. Lombarbi moved into the second slot with a duplicating of 8 for 10. The senior's year mark now stands at 16 for 20. Rounding out the five pickers are Jim Westwater and Dale Faulkner deadlocked for third and Gerry Murphy last.

Taunton

The officers of the Taunton Club have announced a meeting for this Thursday evening, October 24. The meeting will commence at 7:30 p.m. and will be held at the C.Y.O. Hall. In order to allow the members sufficient time for their studies the meeting has been limited to one hour. There will be an open discussion concerning club activities in the very near future. Since there are still many plans to be settled it is most important that all members are present.

Kent County

The Kent County Club held its monthly meeting on October 14th. Elections were held and the following were chosen: Ed Lombardi, President; Bill Sullivan, Vice-President; John Runanski, Treasurer; and Ray Blais, Secretary. Roger Rouselle and Al Langlass were named co-chairmen of the social committee. Plans were discussed for the social calendar. A luncheon was served as the meeting was closed. The next meeting will be held on the evening of November 4th. All prospective members are invited to attend.

Blackstone

The first meeting of the Blackstone Valley Club was held Thursday evening, October 15 at the LeFoyer Club in Pawtucket. Amendments were made to the Constitution, dues were set and collected, and elections were held.

The officers elected were: Jim Hagan, President; Mike Brossette, Vice-President; Dick Norton, Secretary; and Graham McKnight, Treasurer.

Plans were also made for a Halloween Dance to be held October 30 at the LeFoyer Club. Charlie Brossette was named Chairman of the dance committee for this opening social event.

Fall River

The Fall River Club of Providence College held its first meeting of the current year at the Catholic Community Center on Franklin Street. Of prime importance was the selection of officers with the following students elected to their respective positions: Major Wheeler, '58, President; John Brennan, '59, Vice-President; Edward Cox, '59, Treasurer; and Barry Nestor, '60, Secretary.

The business discussed was chiefly the location of future meetings with various opinions being expressed by members of the club. The final decision was left to the new officers who will make the necessary arrangements and then announce the new location to the members. Also mentioned was the possibility of a dinner-dance to be held in the near future and a committee was appointed to seek out the necessary information.

The attendance showed a marked increase and promises to be one of the best carollcan Bobby Cox should have bought a ticket to the game. Also in the Midwest, Purdue, aided by Wally Kowachyk's last minute fumble on their own, 30, held on to subdue the supposed Rose Bowl Bound Slaters. Texas, off to a great game against Oklahoma, again rose to glorious heights in their 17-0 hammering of 9th ranked Arkansas.

Upsets of a lesser degree found Oregon State on the short-end of a 27-6 score against U.C.L.A., Colgate on two last minute scores downs Princeton, and Maryland slipping their old boss Jim Tatum and North Carolina 20-7.

Oklahoma piling up 447 yards on the ground on their way to a 47-0 shellacking of Kansas will probably gain the number one rating again, but from there on the top ten is in complete doubt. Texas A & M (7-0 over Texas Christian) should take the runner-up spot ahead of Michigan State, with Mississippi (50-0, Tulane) ranked fourth. After that Notre Dame, idle Saturday, is the only sure bet for the top ten, as even the teams who escaped defeat, had all they could do to win.

In games on tap this week, we find "The Little Brown Jug" battle, Minnesota and Michigan in the spotlight, along with a well rested Irish taking on its old nemesis Pitt, Illinois, off its great game against Minnesota, meets a fired up Michigan State at State's homecoming, while locally undefeated Ull faces Brown in what could be a surprise to Rhode Island fans.
