11 Seniors Top Slate Seeking Class Offices

By Dick Wolfe

Eleven eligible seniors are seeking election as officers of the class of 1956 of Providence College. At the time of publication only one party, the Dominicate, has been announced. All other candidates are running independently. On Tuesday, October 16, a senior assembly will be held for the candidates to make their nomination speeches. The elections will be held on Wednesday, October 17. The candidates for office are as follows:

President

Francis Brennan, Waterbury, Conn., political science; Ernest Bergeron, Woonsocket, business management, and Tony DeBerardino, Rocky Hill, Conn., education.

Vice President

Jim Coates, Medford, Mass., education; Bob DeCosta, Bristol, R. I., political science; and Jim Flannery, Wilmette, Illinois, business management.

Secretary

Tom Gilligan, Newburg, N. Y., economics, and Ed Ferry, Cranston, biology.

Treasurer

Bill Devine, Quincy, Mass., political science; John Murphy, Providence, biology; and Arnold Sarazen, North Providence, business management.

JUNIOR

A renewed interest in class government was evidenced last week as all of last year's officers of the Sophomore class were among the ten Juniors who filed nomination papers with the Student Congress to seek posts in the four available offices. Any Junior who has not voted today should consider it his obligation to do so before the polls close at three o'clock this afternoon. As rumor has it the Cowl staff is considering the publication of the names of those individuals who do not vote. The nominees, all running independently, stack up as follows:

President

Marty Bartley, New Bedford, political science, and Jim Hagan, Pawtucket, political science.

Vice President

Jack Fay, Woonsocket, education; Ken Johnston, Pawtucket, economics; Jack McCarthy, Marblehead, Mass., political science, and Phil O'Hara, Greenfield, Mass., business.

Secretary

Joe Bell, Providence, and Noel Doyle Jr., Norwood, R. I., economics.

Treasurer

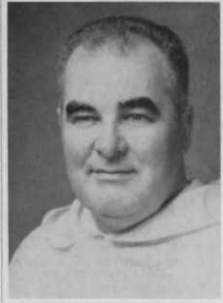

Al San Souci, North Attleboro, Mass., education, and Dave Roche, New London, Conn., business.

Five New Appointments Made By Administration

FR. FENNEL

FR. CLARK

FR. LENNON

FR. MOLLOY

Appointment of a vice president, two deans, and two heads of departments at the college has been announced recently by the Very Reverend Robert J. Slavin, O.P., president of the college.

The Rev. Charles V. Fennell, O.P., has been appointed vice president of Administration and Financial Affairs while the Rev. William R. Clark, O.P., has been appointed associate dean and the Rev. J. Luke Lennon, O.P., has been named dean of men. Named as heads of departments are the Rev. John J. Molloy, O.P., head of the English Department and the Rev. Daniel F. Reilly, O.P., head of the history department.

Father Fennell had previously served as treasurer and bursar of the college, being appointed in 1947. He is an alumnus of the college, graduating with the Class of 1928. He received his master of science degree in journalism from Columbia School of Journalism in 1936 and for two years was assistant editor of the Holy Name Journal, the national monthly publication of the Holy Name Society. During his tenure at Providence College, Father Fennell has served as moderator of the COWL for several years and was head of Aquinas Hall dormitory for two years. In 1942, Father Fennell was acting dean during the absence of the late Rev. Arthur H. Chandler, O.P., Ph.D.

Father Clark was also educated at Providence College, receiving his A.B. in 1928. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1933. Father Clark is the moderator of the Marriage Forum sponsored each year at the college and is also director of the extension school.

Father Molloy graduated from Fordham University in 1930, and after attending Ohio State, received his Ph.D. from Catholic University in 1951. He was assigned to the faculty of Providence College in 1949 and has served as a professor of English. He replaces the Rev. Dennis B. McCarthy as head of the English Department.

Father Reilly, the new head of the history department, was graduated from Seton Hall College in 1930. He was ordained in 1938 and received his Ph. D. from Catholic University in 1941. Father Reilly joined the Dominican faculty at Providence College and in 1945 entered the Navy as a chaplain with the rank of Lieutenant. He returned to the faculty in

BISHOP McVINNEY

The commencement of the academic year, 1956-57, was officially initiated Monday morning in Alumni Hall, with the annual Mass of the Holy Ghost.

Proceeding to the palm-and-flower-decorated altar, Bishop Russell J. McVinney, D.D., Bishop of the Diocese of Providence, was escorted by the Very Reverend Robert J. Slavin, O.P., president of Providence College; and Fathers Vincent C. Dore, O.P., and Charles V. Fennell, O.P., officers of the Administration. They were preceded by an impressive entourage of the white-habited Dominican priests, entering to the processional, "Ecce Sacerdos," rendered by the Glee Club under the direction of Rev. Leo S. Cannon, O.P., director. Seated behind the three rows of priests on both sides immediately before the altar, were the lay members of the faculty and the R. O. T. C. staff.

Robed in the traditional red of his office, Bishop McVinney then celebrated the Mass. Assisting him from the school were Rev. Thomas McBrien, O.P., Chaplain; John Cody '59 and Paul Walsh '59, attendants; and Michael Cristoforo '59 and Vincent Gerry '59, acolytes. During the Mass, the Glee Club rendered "Queen of the Holy Rosary," "Veni, Gesu," and "O Sanctissima."

At the conclusion of the religious service, the Reverend Father Slavin introduced Bishop McVinney to the assemblage. In his speech, our Bishop said the "spiritual anemia prevalent as our country's university level," and pleaded for a cognizance of the spiritual in Man. He also stressed the need for more exercise of influence upon their generation by graduates of Catholic colleges and universities. Bestowing his blessings and wishes for success in the coming year, the leader of Rhode Island Catholics left the altar, once again escorted by the President and officers, and preceded by the members of the Dominican faculty.

Fr. Bergkamp To Receive A. L. Award

The Reverend Joseph Bergkamp, O.P., will be presented an Americanism Award by the Rhode Island Department of the American League. It has been announced by Frank J. Calcagni, the Americanism chairman of the American League.

The award is to be presented to Father Bergkamp in appreciation for the outstanding services he has rendered in preaching and teaching American Constitutional History in the classroom and on radio and television. The award will be presented at the annual Post Officer's Conference at Elmwood Post Legion Home on 880 Elmwood Avenue.

Father Bergkamp has a weekly program on radio station WPRO, Our Political Heritage, and has also made several television appearances.

Friars Club Holds First Meeting

The Friars Club held their first meeting of the year last Wednesday, Oct. 3, at 7:00 p.m., in Room 300 of Harkins Hall. The Friars' Moderator, the Rev. Fr. Schneider, President Robert DeCosta, together with the other members, discussed plans for the Friars Forum. The affair is once again to be held in conjunction with home-coming weekend, Friday, Feb. 9th, at Aquinas Hall.

Also discussed at the meeting was

Hartford Club Plans Social Year

The Hartford Club held their first meeting of the school year last Thursday evening. New members were introduced and a discussion was held concerning the various activities of the club.

The club will have an informal party and dance in Avon on Nov. 9. Tom Fay and Brian Brecker were chosen as co-chairman of the affair. The members of the club also decided to sponsor another Glee Club Concert. Plans were also started for the annual Communion Breakfast. The dates and place of each function will be announced later.

Eugene Daly, club president, stressed the importance of each member being active, both as a worker and in attendance at the various club functions.

Selective Service Examination To Be Given On November 15

The Selective Service College Qualification Test will be given on November 15, at the Harkins Hall Auditorium. All students who have reached their eighteenth birthday and have not yet taken the test are requested to take the test at this date.

The test is given to full time college students to provide evidence for the use of local draft boards in considering deferment of a registrant from military service as a student. The results of the test are sent to the local draft boards and the local boards will give the students their score upon request.

All students who plan to take the test in November will attend an assembly in Harkins Hall Auditorium on October 16 at 1:40 p.m. It is requested that students bring with them to this assembly a mailing envelope, and their selective service registration card. Students should also know the number and address of the local board at which they are registered. At the assembly, students will be given a bulletin of information, an application, any a mailing envelope. Applicants should follow instructions in the bulletin carefully and completely and fill out the application and mail it in the envelope provided. Any student desiring further information should contact the Office of the Dean.

Ivy League Style

Last week, at one of the nation's "better" colleges, one of the country's outstanding personages, a presidential candidate, was subjected to a juvenile demonstration of the maturity of a large number of the college's students. Though he could have been indifferently greeted with a lack of enthusiasm, at least the respect due any standard-bearer should have been afforded him. Instead, loud jeers, defamatory remarks and signs, and proclamations of the worth and superiority of his opponent were hurled at him. Here was a conscientious, earnest American leader engaged in his natural birth-right, the right to seek public office—striving to clarify his platform and explain his political views and feelings, as well as his hopes for an improved United States—he was treated with all the respect of an inebriate denouncing the policy of a neighborhood pub.

We are grateful that the actions of this "better" school are not too typical, and we are grateful that Providence College is not that school. If it were, perhaps one of the century's important men might have had to say to its students as he did to that "better" school's "Surely you shouldn't need lessons in manners from a . . . (better) school" graduate."

Wise Fools

With the annual class elections now upon us it is gratifying to note the enthusiasm that is being generated by the senior and junior classes in that more than two full slates are contesting for the top four positions. However, the situation as far as the sophomore class is concerned is completely different. Actually, it is alarming and pathetic.

Last January, this class of 1959 which had been the largest in the history of the school up to that time, had no less than seventeen candidates campaigning for the four positions. The turnout for this election was one of the best in recent years, and the freshman dance, run under the direction of the elected candidates, was an overwhelming success. Thus the Class of 1959 started out with the fine prospect of being one of the most outstanding in the young history of this college.

However, since last June, what has happened to the class of '59? Instead of seventeen candidates, we find only six. From close to 500 students, are there only six who feel they are qualified to hold office? Or is it that the members of this class are completely disinterested?

The Student Congress did their utmost to encourage the sophomores to file nomination papers. Originally, nominations were to close last Friday, but William Sweeney, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, gave the class until Monday; yet, even with this unprecedented extension, no other prospective candidates came forth. Thus, two weeks from today only six names will appear on the ballot. There is no opposition for the office of secretary or treasurer. Granted, these two candidates may have outstanding qualifications, but there is still plenty of room for opposition.

The situation is definitely critical. Is this going to be the stand of the sophomore class throughout the year? If it is, what will the class be like next spring when the annual sophomore hop is held? Even worse, what will happen next year. NO CANDIDATES?

It's definite that the sophomore class must start to reform. Something must be done. It will be the job of those elected to bring the class together. They will have to revive the enthusiasm that was present just a few short months ago. For the class of prime importance a strong turnout on election day is needed to renew the now non-existent class interest. And as far as voting is concerned we hope that the other class will show strongly at the polls. However, with many candidates and spirited campaigns ahead, we feel certain that the turnout of the upper classes will be good.

FLASH!

Since the above editorial was written one sophomore candidate has withdrawn from the race!

Political View Point

By Frank Brennan

This will introduce to you, the students of Providence College, a weekly column which will appear in the Cowl. The general topic which we will deal with will mainly be in the field of politics. But now and again we might stray the beaten path, and drop in on its allied fields. In keeping with the trend of the times I will devote the first three columns to the present presidential campaign which is now in progress. Since it would be impossible to discuss completely all phases of the "Greatest spectator sport in the world," I will limit this week's remarks to the candidates, the four of them, or if you are a staunch Democrat, the five of them.

Adlai Stevenson, the man who talked over the peoples' heads four years ago isn't doing it this year. Mr. Stevenson is still the intellectual speaker we saw in 1952; full of rhetoric, and Shakespearian paraphrases. But in 1956 he is talking to the people in the tones that they best understand; money, education, draft calls, and peace. He is appealing to the emotions of the body politic, an effort which at times is a bit confusing. Four years ago Stevenson spoke in terms of principles, ethics and the political philosophies of the great men in history. But his big push toward intellectualism slowed down to a creep, and finally stopped on election night. All this took place when Stevenson was Governor of Illinois. He lost that state by well over two hundred thousand votes, despite the fact that he was the chief dispenser of patronage. However, the man's courage is unquestionable. He went into the deep South and spoke his mind on tideland oil but the "Solid South" had other ideas on the issue, and I think he sacrificed votes for principles. This is much to his credit.

This year Stevenson has displayed great energy in traveling about the country more than any other candidate. He wants the job, and he's willing to work hard for it. With principles and ambition working for him, Mr. Stevenson might even surprise himself in November.

Estes Kefauver has one thing to his credit, his nomination was won fair and square. This will go along with the people who saw the Chicago convention on television. Mr. Kefauver has great personal attributes in his sincerity and humility, but in politics this could work against him. At Chicago he told the delegates that there might have been others who could do a better job than himself. It was a fine display of the man's virtues, but in politics such declarations could backfire.

As a potential vote-getter Kefauver might prove a question mark. Below the Mason-Dixon line many consider him a southern with northern ideals. In the North where most of the larger cities are, many regard his activities with the crime committee as hurting more people than was necessary.

On the other hand he is strong with the farm vote. The Mid-West wants 100% parity more than anything else, and they think Kefauver can get it for them. At the convention, Kefauver's greatest support was found in the farm belt states. Iowa was particularly sweating it out, since Kennedy had voted of the 90% parity. Their delegates worked like beavers during the second ballot, and the results are history.

Peace, prosperity, and popularity versus heart attacks, Nixon and the farm prices! This seems to be the Republican picture in a nut shell. President Eisenhower's campaign, thus far has been slow, while Nixon has been doing most of the talking. Ike's popularity is positive, and still a reality—much to the distress of the Democrats. The peace and prosperity is a reality too, but as to how positive it is no one can tell. Democrats say it is foolish to wait, and are fighting to convince the people that it is only a temporary calm, before the inevitable storm. Space will not allow for further comment on the issues, but I will go into them more deeply next week.

A Slice of Lemon

By BOB LAFFEY

For want of something better to do, I think I'll talk about television. Quite a long time ago a man stood up before an assembly and asked how long a certain individual would continue to abuse the patience of the people. If there were a twentieth century Cicero, he'd probably ask the same question of television. When this medium first became popular, it was hailed as a means of education and entertainment par excellence. Some of us are still waiting for the entertainment and the education.

I will grant that there are some programs that live up to the expectations, but when these few are compared with the tremendous amount of really nothing programs that are being offered, maybe we'd better call in the steppe cats.

First of all, let's take the situation comedy shows. One prime example of this type is "My Little Margie." This particular show revolves around the exploits of a twenty-odd-year-old female and her handsome father. The father is an executive of some kind, which doesn't say much for executives if they run to type. I'd be tempted to call some of the situations ridiculous, but the word is a bit too dignified. Asinine might be better, but that doesn't really describe them.

Another type of show revolves around the life of an "ordinary American family." Usually the comedy of this show is achieved by painting the husband and father as an idiot, and a rather feeble-minded idiot at that. It goes without saying that this man has provided his family with a well appointed home in the nicest part of town, a new car, and usually a summer place at the "lake," but he, despite all this, is usually incapable of tying his own shoe laces. He's also unable to recognize his own wife through some flimsy disguise.

Still another type of show that assaults television viewers week after week is the "variety" show. The format of this show usually calls for a "star" as master of ceremonies and a weekly slate of "guest stars." Guest stars did quite a lot to ruin radio, and they're doing the same thing to television, such as it is. These shows run the gamut from half-hour bi-weekly efforts to the hour-and-a-half spectacles. The latter seem to have died a natural death, and from what I can see, there aren't many mourners.

One type of show that really stands out is the quiz show. Back in the days of radio, a quiz show was a pretty inexpensive thing to produce; hire a mediocre master of ceremonies and let the studio audience provide the entertainment. Prizes weren't spectacular, but they were sufficient to supply a number of willing contestants. Now we have such things as the "Sixty-four Thousand Dollar Question" and the "Big Surprise." We also have the less ostentatious shows such as "Beat the Clock" and "You Bet Your Life." Bluntly, we have too many quiz shows, none of which, as far as I'm concerned, is worth the trouble. The majority of them fall flat because of their own weight, and the rest don't have enough weight to carry them along.

On the credit side, we have such shows as "Studio One," which produces some really good drama, and "Omnibus," which is perhaps the best thing on television.

What to do about it? How do we possibly strike some sort of balance between the two? You tell me!

A few people have asked why I changed the title of this column. The old title, if you remember, was "Elaoin Shrdlu". The only reason I can offer is that I got tired of explaining what it meant, particularly when I wasn't sure myself.

Shaking hands with a well wisher is Adlai Stevenson flanked by Gov. Roberts.

Cowl Staff Members Meet Adlai Stevenson

By Gerry Pouliot

Saturday, October 6th, on the steps of the City Hall, an address was given by the Democratic candidate for president, Mr. Adlai Stevenson.

Among the guests on the speakers platform were three acting-reporters of the COWL and a Providence College photographer.

The speech itself, limited because of radio time, dealt with the ills of the textile industry in Rhode Island and in New England and what Mr. Stevenson proposed to do about these ills. The speech was received with enthusiasm by the crowd and Mr. Stevenson proved to be as able a wit as has been attributed to him.

Of importance to the Providence College voter and student were these interesting sidelights that occurred as we tried to interview Mr. Stevenson personally. Because of the tight schedule, Mr. Stevenson was to have to press conference nor any interviews. It became obvious in the early morning hours when we assembled it had been a left handed club and consequently the picture was wrong (and also very amusing).

After leaving the platform we stationed ourselves near the door that Stevenson would enter from the Biltmore Hotel. We knew as Mr. Stevenson approached, an interview at that time would be impossible but Jim Di Sarro got some very fine pictures of Mr. Stevenson entering the City Hall. Once in the mayor's office all photographers and reporters were barred but by walking in with two members of the city council Jim Di Sarro and I gained admittance. It was here that I shook hands with Mr. Stevenson and wished him well and that became the extent of the personal interview for this P. C. reporter.

Mr. Stevenson was pressed for time and we all believed that had he more time our request for an interview would have been allowed. He is somewhat smaller than I had anticipated, but his dynamic appearance makes up for this. He has command of the situations at hand, no easy task believe me, and he makes excellent use of the English language.

On the speakers platform was Congressman John E. Fogarty through whose office we, and this includes all the colleges represented, received permission to attend the function as bona fide press correspondents. Mr. William Lynch, Mr. Fogarty's secretary, went to the R. I. Democratic central committee and personally interceded for the college reporters. I know the reporters of all the college papers present thank Congressman Fogarty and Mr. Lynch for affording this opportunity.

The day was brought to a successful conclusion with a roast beef dinner for all reporters in a suite at the Biltmore Hotel.

Pyramid Players Elect Officers

The Pyramid Players have elected their officers for the coming year, it was announced today. They are Richard L. McCarthy, president; Charles R. McLarney, vice president; John E. Welsh, secretary; and Courtney J. Garry, treasurer.

While there are no definite plans, it is probable that the Players' first production will be "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial" sometime in December.

Other plans call for a Lenten play as a result of the warm reception that was given to "The Angelic Doctor". The presentation of "The Student Prince" has also been given some careful consideration by the officers. Among the musicals under consideration for production in the spring is the Broadway hit "Good News".

There will be a meeting of the Pyramid Players, Thursday, October 11, at 8 p.m. in room 300, Harkins Hall. All old members are requested to be present, and anyone who wishes to join is cordially invited.

Providence Club To Hold Meeting

The Providence Club will hold its first meeting of the year on Thursday, October eleventh, at eight o'clock. President John E. Brady has selected the Finnegan Council, Knights of Columbus, on Vandewater Street, as the new meeting place for the club. Extensive planning and newly inaugurated ideas have been incorporated into the Regional Club activities, and with the help of the Student Congress, this should be one of the most successful years in the history of the club. The spirit and cooperation of the freshman was exemplified in regard to the Providence Club, when, during Freshman week, nearly 100 potential members spoke to club representatives. Plans for a hay ride later in the month will be discussed at this meeting, and tentative planning for future events will be heard.

On Friday evening, the Providence Club will sponsor an informal dance at Harkins Hall. All present and future members of the club are asked to attend the meeting so that committees may be appointed for the various activities.

P. C. Cross Countrymen Defeat H. C. 21-35

By Bob Ruggeri

Worcester, Mass., October 5th—Stimulated by the beautiful day that it was, the Providence College Harrier's drubbed their Holy Cross counterparts 21-35. The Crusader frosh almost duplicated that score in defeating the Friar frosh 22-35.

Once again Bill Hanlon and Rod Boucher finished first and second respectively, but this time the gap between these two and the remainder of the Friars was narrowed as Dennis Carey came home fourth, Tom Cummings sixth, and Bob Williams eighth.

In cross country as in golf, low score triumphs and that score is determined by the placing of a team's first five runners, each runner being assessed a number of points equivalent to his position in the race. Still, a team's sixth and seventh men can increase their opponent's score by displacement. That is to say, by finishing before any one of the adversary's first five men. This fact is of importance in a meet where many teams are competing.

The course of 3.8 miles traversed the Holy Cross campus. Hanlon and Boucher stepped into an early lead on the first hill, and ran as twins, until Hanlon edged away on the final straight to lead Boucher to the tape by five yards. In fact Providence held the first four places half way thru the race, but at that point Donahue propelled himself past Cummings and Carey into third place, a position which he held. A second Crusader, Salvatore, overtook Tom Cummings his former high school rival. The final standing showed Holy Cross taking all the odd numbered positions from three to eleven, while Providence in addition to first place captured the even numbered spots from two to ten.

Although the frosh were defeated, they improved on their initial performance as Kerr McIntyre in fourth place, placed first among the young Friars. He was immediately followed by Walsh and McNamara while Gederman finished eighth and McDonald twelfth.

The summary:

P.C.	Varsity	H.C.
Hanlon	1	Donahue	3
Boucher	2	Salvatore	5
Carey	4	Merritt	7
Cummings	6	Riely	9
Williams	8	McGee	11

Also: P.C. Sullivan 10, O'Brien 13, Farley 14, Rabold 15. Holy Cross: McGourty 12.

Time 18:41—Course 3.8 miles.

P.C.	Freshmen	H.C.
McIntyre	4	Carney	1
Walsh	5	Simon	2
McNamara	6	Arnold	3
Gederman	8	Micholski	7
McDonald	12	Laughlin	9

Also H.C. Smith 10, Hanson 11, Zimmerman 13, Merritt 14, Walsh 16. P.C. Krajewski 15, Flaherty 17, Carroll 18.

Time 19:18—Course 3.5 miles.

Gridiron Powers Hopeful For Successful Season

By Phil Jackman

On successive Saturdays later on this month, the National Collegiate Championship will be determined, for on the twentieth, the Spartans from East Lansing, and the twenty-seventh, the Sooners from Norman move into Notre Dame Stadium to play the perennially powerful Irish. The team that fares the best in this crucial set should grab off the title.

Taking the grid powers sectionally—Syracuse, Pitt, Army, and Navy should rule the roost in the East. Moving South, we pick up Georgia Tech, Tennessee and Mississippi as the teams that will be making January first appearances from Dallas, Texas to Miami, Florida. In the wild and woolly Southwest, Baylor T. C. U., S. M. U., and Texas rate mention. Southern Cal will rule the coast until Jon Arnett bows out, then Stanford and California should battle for the roses. Oklahoma won't even be extended in Big Seven encounters, while Michigan State and Ohio State will rule the Big Ten record wise, but Michigan and Ohio State will have to decide the Western Conference entry to the Pasadena classic. Locally, Maine seemingly has the horses to rule the improving Yankee Conference with Uconn and New Hampshire challenging.

Collegiate players who should capture the headlines will be backs Horning, Kowalchuk, Peaks, McDonald, Bosseler, Arnett, Swink, Luppino, Kyasky, Salvatena, Brown, and Arnold. Linemen rating mention are: Kramer, Menantz, Parker, Lundy, Gray, and Altshouse.

Turning to the play for pay ranks, we should see two of the best races in years. In the East, the big M's of the Cards have jumped off to a good start, but these three backs carry too much of the load. Cleveland has its vaunted defense, but without Graham it will not be in the winner's circle for the first time in a decade. Washington's ifs are too great, while the acquisition of offensive backs makes the Giants balance my favorite in the East. The Western Division will have just as close a race but with better teams. Baltimore has the dream backfield, the Bears have a power bolstered defense and Harlon Hill, the Rams air game with a solid performing backfield are right in there also. Detroit rates consideration and a healthy Layne could produce a play-off berth coming up the thirtieth of December. The personnel of the pro's is unbelievably even, each team has two or three backs pushing for all-pro mention, namely Ameche, Shaw, Van Brocklin, Waller, Perry, Watkins, Rote, Ferguson, Webster, Renfro Zayers, Chandonis and Canadian returnee Billy Vessels.

Lombardi Notes Importance Of Q B

By Ed Lombardi

After watching Whitey Ford's pitching performance last Saturday, my mind began thinking of a pitcher in a different spot. This being the month of October, football is the topic of discussion. What else is a quarterback but a pitcher without a mound?

The quarterback position is a very important one on a football team. Blocking is important as you need someone to open the holes; tackling corresponds with the hard running backs; fleet-footed ends are a must; but when you come right down to "brass tacks" it is the quarterback which is the pivotal or base point of a football team. At the high school level, a boy gets his first chance at leadership when he plays quarterback, but pinpoint passing is not stressed in high school. It is at college where the athlete is taught the art of passing. High school football is largely a running game.

When a quarterback reaches the graduation stage in college, if he has any talent at all, the pro scouts are sure to be on his trail. It is in pro football that passing comes into its own as an offensive threat. At the beginning of each season, as the experts survey the teams, they first glance at the quarterback spot. This year the names are for the most part seasoned veterans: New York's Chuck Connely, Detroit with Bobby Layne, Washington and Ed LeBaron, Y. A. Title of San Francisco, Los Angeles has Norm Van Brocklin, and the list goes on and on. One could rave for hours on the merits of any of these men.

This year we find one stellar name missing from this category. In the lineup of the perennial champions, the Cleveland Browns, we find the name of George Ratterman listed at the quarterback spot. This was the position that the mighty Otto Graham held for many years. Graham was a great quarterback, possibly the greatest. His record as the peerless leader of Paul Brown's eleven may never be equaled.

After reading the above you'll probably think that I'd be the last one to have the opinion of why the Browns will not miss Graham. But next week I'll present my ideas and explain this point of view—"Why the Browns will not miss Graham".

Tennis Club

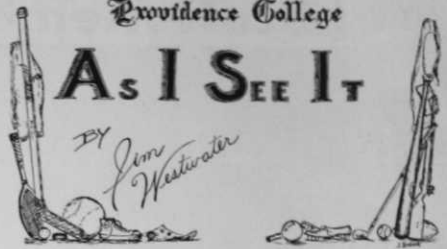

The Tennis Club which has been operating informally in the past will begin its season both on the courts and at the business meetings. It is realized that conflicting schedules make it difficult to plan far ahead but matches will be scheduled with other colleges in New England. Those interested in joining please comply with the notice on student activity board in the rotunda of Harkins Hall.

NOTICE

All students interested in sailing are cordially invited to attend the initial meeting of the Sailing Club scheduled for this evening at 7 p.m., in the old lounge in Harkins Hall.

Providence College

As I See It

For the second time in as many meets this year, Billy Hanlon and Rod Boucher led the cross country team with first and second place finishes. There was one major difference, though, in these two races; the Friars lost the first one to Army, but were victorious at Worcester in the second 21-35.

Cross Country is like any other sport. It takes more than one or two men to bring home a team victory. In the second meet, it was the Sophomore trio of Dennis Carey, Tom Cummings and Bob Williams who made the victory possible. Carey was fourth, Cummings sixth and Williams eighth. If it were not for these men, a victory would never have been possible.

For the material presented him, Harry Coates does a fine job with his cross country squad. Take this year for example, there are eighteen men out for practice; nine each on the varsity and freshmen teams. This problem—the lack of personnel—does not only hold true for cross country, but also for indoor and outdoor track.

On Sunday, October 21, there will be a field day open to all Providence College students at Hendrick Field. The events of the day will be: 60 yard dash, 120 yard low hurdle, high jump, broad jump, pole vault and shot put.

How about it, fellas! Let's go out there and at least make an attempt, sign up now for the race. Do something constructive; be a credit to yourself and your school.

After the race at Worcester Friday, I sat down with Billy Hanlon and had a little chat with him. Billy, a product of La Salle High School, where he earned six major athletic letters and was named to three all-state cross country teams and one indoor team, is one of the most likeable and friendliest fellows you would want to meet. He's only 5' 6 1/2" and weighs 120 lbs, but in that slender frame is a relaxed runner; a runner who likes to converse with his fellow harriers, as he works the hills and strides the flats with ease.

It was during his second year at high school, after he broke the record in a freshman-sophomore race that Billy first decided to run. His coach at the time, Ray Dwyer, encouraged him to follow up his good start. So far this year Billy has been victorious in two attempts, but he, too, was once low man on the totem pole.

This October 26th, will mark the seventh year that Providence College has had a cross country team. On this date in 1949 the Coatesmen went up to Worcester, Mass., to encounter a strong Holy Cross squad in their initial meet. The varsity fell to the Crusaders 15-40, but the Frosh opened gloriously with a 23-32 victory margin.

The members of that honorable squad where: Jim Gannon, who last year appeared as a guest soloist for the Glee Club; Herb Waters, the first negro lad ever accepted for O.C.S. in the Marine Corps; Dick Johnson, currently coaching track at the new Warwick Memorial High School. There was a future graduate of Harvard around then in the person of Ed Keboe. Bob Finnegan, last heard of as a Sports Editor in Lawrence, Mass.; John Weinstein, studying for the Maryknoll Mission and Bob Tiernan, a Providence lawyer, rounded out this team.

(Ed. Note—at this time, freshman were also eligible to run as members of the varsity squad.)

The Varsity competed against the Cross, Rhode Island, Boston College and Brown that year, but it was not until October 20, 1950 that they registered their first victory, with Rhode Island State College the victims. Johnson was first, Gannon sixth, Sherry eighth, McMullin tenth, and Tiernan twelfth. And it was only appropriate for the Brown Bears to be our victory curtain raisers at home, 21-37, with Johnson once again in the winners' circle. Johnson had quite a year for mustering team points and individual honors as he finished 13th in the New Englands, 48th in the ICAA's and second to Seton Hall's immortal Don Schance in the Eastern Catholic Collegiate Cross Country Race at Van Cortland Park, N.Y. Dick's time was six-tenths off the pace setter.

In '51, the Frosh was second in Tufts for the New England title. Our own Bill Horage won that race. Incidentally, Bill has returned to Smith Hill this year after four years with the armed services. The Varsity was third to Boston University and M.I.T. in the senior event.

1952 marked our first meeting with West Point; we were beaten badly, 17-46. This defeat was short-lived though, as Lohner's first place finish gave us the nod next year, 27-30.

Chris Lohner's once again headed the way with a 12th place showing and a team standing of sixth in the '53 New Englands. The Frosh took the title with a familiar name, Rod Boucher, running third. Art Hewes, another returnee, who will be eligible the first of January, was fourth. This same Frosh squad took 4th place in the ICAA's.

1954 was a banner year as we became the only school to defeat Manhattan College, since the men from New York City were ICAA champs that year. If there was ever a team victory, that was it, with Boucher 2nd, Wallack 3rd, Madden 5th, McDonough 6th and Farley 7th.

The Frosh won a triangular meet in '54 with Harvard and Boston University. Billy Hanlon came in first, Jerry Corrado second, and Bob Ruggeri third. Hanlon and Ruggeri were one and two at the Point to give us a 29-30 victory. Hanlon and Corrado continued their fine showing with a first and second respectively in the New Englands—team finished second. Billy was second and Jerry eighth in the ICAA's.

The Varsity polled 45 points to Army's 39 and St. John's 47 in a triangular meet last year. The boys took second place in the New Englands with a team total of 68 points. (Normally this would win any New England meet.) The Frosh placed sixth in their race.

To those concerned—the gymnasium with its facilities (basketball, handball and squash courts, a general exercise room, golf room, six tennis courts and steam room) are open to all students Monday thru Thursday from 12 noon to 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Friday 12 noon to 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. The Saturday and Sunday schedule is 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Attention basketball prospects, practice will start on October 15. Please watch the bulletin board for further notice. . . . Note cross country schedule this week: Friday, October 12, it's off to Maine against Bates and Bowdoin. . . .

Dear Members of the Senior Class:
It is with a sense of sincere duty and humility that I again put my name before you for re-election as President of our class—The Class of 1957. As your President I would lead the class with its other elected officers, and together we would strive with our combined abilities to fulfill the following obligations which I set upon myself:

To represent the class in the Student Congress with 100% attendance, and to insure that each individual or groups of individuals who have any constructive complaints will find me willing to present them to the Congress.

To cooperate with the administration in any service which they might see fit to call upon us to render, and to make ourselves available to the administration in any activity in which we might be useful; also to expect from the administration the same cooperation which we will give them.

To call upon the most capable students to organize the Farmers Festival which will be held on Nov. 16th, and to work with them in every possible way so that this event will be the success it should be. (Since this dance is shortly after our election, I urge all seniors to give added cooperation to their elected officers.) It goes without saying that there will be no free bids at this dance or any other dance sponsored by the Senior class.

To establish an efficient Senior Class Gift Committee, which will decide on a gift to Providence College that will be a credit to our class. Since this is such an important decision, we will circulate cards among the Seniors in order to determine which gift they would think most appropriate. These opinions will act as an accurate guide to the committee.

In order to have an efficient and well organized system of class representation the class officers will meet once a week. This meeting will be standard, and posted once it is decided upon, so that any Senior who wishes will be able to contact any of the officers, and have his particular suggestion or problem brought before the elected officers of the class.

To bring on the campus, in the immediate future a representative of Dieges and Clust—the company which manufactured our class rings. This will allow any individuals of our class the opportunity to discuss any repairs which they think their rings might need.

To assist in every way possible the appointed members of the Veritas, and to put at their disposal all the resources of the class officers and the Senior Class.

To work with real in organizing our commencement activities — not stressing one to the exclusion or neglect of others, but striving to make each segment of our final days at Providence College events which time will not dim. Furthermore, it will be my sincere effort to achieve, along with the other class officers, a greater quality of success at the Commencement Ball than we realized at the Junior Prom.

These are the obligations I promise to fulfill for the Senior Class of Providence College — obligations which will require a great deal of time and work. In these efforts I can guarantee the quantity that will be done. If you think the quality is present to meet these demands, then I respectfully ask you to re-elect me President of the Senior Class.

Sincerely,
Frank Brennan

Men of the Class of '57:
Once again the time has arrived for the election of class officers. Most of us face this election with a certain amount of regret and with a feeling of optimism.

I say regret because most of us must be saddened at least subconsciously, by the fact that in a few short months our life at Providence College will be a thing of the past.

I say we must face this election with a feeling of optimism because there is a certain degree of instability in all of us as to how these last few months will be spent at Providence College. Will this be an enjoyable year or just an average year? That is the big question in everyone's mind.

The spirit of the class shown by the number of nominations accepted in the Student Congress office is a tribute to the spirit of this senior class. In no other year has the competition for each office been so close for our class.

I am glad to see the spirit of our class as enlivened as it is this year and sincerely hope your anticipated success will be realized.

If you once again elect me to the office of secretary of the class, I will do all in my power to make this senior year of the class of '57 the best year we will have spent here and also one that will long be remembered.

Yours truly,
EDWARD L. FERRY

Members of the Class of 1957:
In one week you will be voting for the last time to pick four men who will lead our fine class in their final year at Providence College.

These four men will have the honor of carrying out the wishes of the senior class and therefore should be chosen with care.

I would be privileged to be one of the men to lead our class and make our last year at P. C. our finest year.

I am running as an independent candidate for the office of treasurer, not just for the sake of running, but because I feel that I can fulfill the duties of this office.

Any vote cast for a candidate for treasurer should be given careful consideration because of the responsibilities of the job. A loyal, trustworthy person should be the man to receive your vote. Any functions of the senior class will be treated with the utmost consideration should I be elected to this office.

Thank you,
Arnold A. Sarazen
candidate for treasurer

The Senior Class has among its candidates for class president a newcomer to campus politics. Ernest "Lefty" Bergeron is 26 years old and a Korean War Veteran. A resident of Woonsocket, Mr. Bergeron is studying Business Management here at P. C.

A member of the Dean's List, he is also an active member of The Carolan Club, Woonsocket Club, Veterans' Club, and the Ship and Scales Club. Lefty played freshman baseball and served as a committee chairman for the Junior Prom.

An important consideration is that Lefty was a resident of Aquinas Hall for two years. For this reason, he feels qualified to be able to deal with those particular problems of campus life.

Ernest Bergeron is a new face with new ideas, and his platform will not be based upon wild and invalid promises. "My only objective," spoke the candidate, "is a sincere desire to serve the class of 1957 to the best of my ability. I don't wish to sound trite, but I think we have the potential to become the best class in P. C. history."

Lefty believes that the best method of achieving success at class-sponsored functions is to appoint only the sincerely willing members to serve on various committees. These and other

"I'm starved for affection", wailed Sheedy, "but the girls think I'm just a cur. Whenever I paw to talk to one she makes tracks for the tall timber and hides." Poor old Sheedy felt so lousy he wanted to pack up and flea. "Don't be such a shaggy dog," said his Den Mother. "Get yourself some Wildroot Cream-Oil and spruce up." Now J. Paul's the most popular wolf in the forest, because his hair looks healthy and handsome, the way Nature intended. . . neat but not greasy! Campus Cartoonist Has Chance For Fame

For the first time in the history of humor, a search is being undertaken to find a young humorist from among the nation's colleges and universities, and bestow upon this young student the recognition he so rightly deserves as the "Campus Cartoonist of the Year."

Three of the world's foremost humorists, Groucho Marx, Steve Allen and Al Capp have joined forces with Bill Kennedy, proxy of Box Cards, the leading designer of contemporary studio cards, to initiate a search which will start on October 15, 1956, and continue through December 1, 1956, and end with the final selection, from the ideas submitted to the judges, of the student who is to be accorded this year with the annual recognition of "Campus Cartoonist of the Year."

The contest will be channeled through the local college bookstore. Each college bookstore will have complete details including general information, rules and entry blanks for the contest. The stores will also have samples of Box Cards to enable the student who wishes to participate to see clearly the style of humor which will be judged in the contest.

The winning student will receive a FREE all-expense paid seven-day holiday in Paris, France, via T.W.A. Trans-World Airlines Super-G Constellation.

In addition, the winner will receive a royalty contract with Box Cards which will enable the winner to immediately benefit from an exciting and lucrative career in the field of studio card design.

The contest definitely closes on

Dear Members of the Senior Class: Senior year, being the last year of our college career, should be a lasting memory in our years ahead. To make it such, the officers who are elected must fulfill their obligations with an untiring effort. That is why we, the members of the Dominicate Party, humbly ask for your vote in this coming election, Wednesday, October seventeenth.

We realize that to ask for your vote is a brazen thing without promising you something in return. But the only promise we can make and will make to you is our wholehearted and honest support to any and all endeavors that come before our class during this, our Senior year. We feel that this is the only firm foundation upon which a platform can be erected. If we are fortunate enough to be your officers we shall never deviate from this promise.

Sincerely,

The Members of the Dominicate Party

P. C. Alumnus To Address Alpha Epsilon Delta

Mr. George A. Kenny, '31, Director of Public Health Education for the State of Rhode Island, will address the members of RHODE ISLAND ALPHA EPSILON DELTA, Monday evening, October 15. This will be the first formal meeting of the year for the chapter, and the first of a series by speakers from the state and national levels, for the Providence College chapter of the national pre-medical honor society.

Following his graduation as a biology major in 1931, Mr. Kenny was an instructor in the Biology Department from 1932 to 1943. He received a Master of Science degree in biology from Providence College in 1937 and a Master of Public Health from Harvard University in 1946. Since that time he has held various offices in Massachusetts and Rhode Island in the field of Public Health Education, and is currently Director of that department in Rhode Island. Mr. Kenny will discuss the purpose and makeup of a Public Health department.

The meeting on Monday evening will be held at 7:30 in Room 12 of Albertus Magnus Hall. It is open to all students on campus and all biology majors are urged, particularly freshmen, to attend. One of the major activities of Alpha Epsilon Delta is to provide pre-medical students with information about the various fields that are related to the healing arts. If you are interested in medicine or dentistry as a career you cannot afford to miss any one of these lectures sponsored by P. C.'s pre-medical honor society.
