Ivy League Style

Last week, at one of the nation's "better" colleges, one of the country's outstanding personalities, a presidential candidate, was subjected to a public examination of the maturity of a large number of the college's students. Though he could have been indifferent, he chose to stand his ground, and to face the students down face to face, whatever the reaction. For that the respect due any standard-bearer should have been afforded him. Instead, loud proclamations of the worth and superiority of his opponent were hurled at him. Here we have a man who, conscientious, earnest American leader engaged in his most critical birthright. The right thing was to utilize this opportunity to clarify his platform and explain his political views and feelings. The man is Adlai Stevenson, the "better" school—but he is a 'better' school graduate.

Wise Fools

With the annual class elections now upon us, Wise Fools must大约 and conscientious in that more than two full sessions are contesting for the top four positions. However, the situation as far as I am concerned is not entirely different. Actually, it is alarming and apathetic.

Last January, this class of 1959 which had been a "model" example of a junior college, was in a situation where the annual election would mean nothing. The turnout for this election was one of the largest in the history of the school and it is gratifying to note the enthusiasm that was present just a few short months ago. For the class of prime importance a strong turnout on election day is needed to renew the now non-existent class spirit. As far as I'm concerned we hope that the other class will show strongly at the polls. However, with many candidates and spirited campaigns already, we feel that the turnout of the upper classes will be good.

FLASH!

Since the above editorial was written one sophomore candidate has withdrawn from the race!

Political View Point

By Frank Brennan

This will introduce you, the students of Providence College, to the great political world of radio and television. When the time is right, when they are qualified to hold office? Or is it going to be the stand of the sophomore class together. They will have to revive the enthusiasm that was present just a few short months ago. For the class of prime importance a strong turnout on election day is needed to renew the now non-existent class spirit. As far as I'm concerned we hope that the other class will show strongly at the polls. However, with many candidates and spirited campaigns already, we feel that the turnout of the upper classes will be good.

This year Stevenson has displayed great energy in traveling about the country more than any other candidate. He wants the job, and is willing to work hard for it. With principles and ambition working for him, Mr. Stevenson might even surprise himself in November.

Estes Kefauver has one thing to his credit, his nomination was won fair and square. This year Stevenson has displayed great energy in traveling about the country more than any other candidate. A Slice of Lemon

By Bob Laffey

For want of something better to do, I think I'll talk about television. Quite a long time ago I stood up before an assembled crowd and asked quite a long time ago I stood up before an assembled crowd and asked long how a certain individual would continue to abuse the patience of the people. If there were a twentieth century Cicero, he'd probably ask the same question of television. When this medium first became popular, it was hailed as a means of education and entertainment for all. Some of us are still waiting for the entertainment and the education.

I will grant that there are some programs that live up to the expectations, but when these few are compared with the tremendous amount of really nothing programs that are being offered, maybe we'd better call in theapeptic.

First of all, let's take the situation comedy shows. One prime example of this type is "My Little Margie." This particular show revolves around the exploits of a twenty-year-old female and her handsome father. The father is in executive of some kind, which doesn't say much for executives if they are to be elected to some of the situations ridiculous, but the word is a bit too dignified. Astin might be better, but that doesn't really describe them.

Another type of show that revolves around the life of an "ordinary American family." Usually the comedy of this show is achieved by painting the husband and father as an idiot, and a rather foolish-minded idiot at that. It goes without saying that this man has provided his family with a well ap­pointed home in the nice part of town, a new car, and usually a summer place at the "lake," but he, despite all this, is usually incapable of tying his own shoe laces. He's also unable to recognize his own wife through some flimsy disguise.

Still another type of show that assaults television viewers week after week is the "variety" show. The format of this show usually calls for a master of ceremonies and a weekly slate of "guest stars." Guest stars did quite a lot to ruin radio, and they're doing the same thing to television, such as it is. These shows run from half-hour to hour-long efforts to the hour-and-a-half spectacles. The latter seem to have died a natural death, and from what I can see, I shouldn't have many mourners.

One type of show that really stands out is the quiz show. Back in the days of radio, a quiz show was a pretty inexpensive thing to produce; hire a pretty girl, a mediocre master of ceremonies and let the studio audience provide the entertainment. Prices weren't spectacular, but they were sufficient to supply a number of willing contestants. Now we have such things as the "Twenty Thousand Dollar Question" and the "Big Surprise." We also have the less ostentatious shows such as "Beat the Clock" and "You Bet Your Life." These shows run from half-hour to hour-long efforts to the hour-and-a-half spectacles. The latter seem to have died a natural death, and from what I can see, I shouldn't have many mourners.

Cowl Staff Members Meet Adlai Stevenson

By Gerry Pouliot

Saturday, October 6th, on the steps of the City Hall, an address was given to the meeting's candidate for President, Mr. Adlai Stevenson. Among the guests on the speakers platform were three acting-reporters of the COWL and a Providence College photographer.

The speech itself, limited because of radio time, dealt with the ills of the textile industry in Rhode Island and New England and what Mr. Stevenson proposed to do about "ind  in New England and what Mr. Stevenson would have done. Mr. Stevenson was to have been present when the picture had been published in the Providence Journal and wished him well and congratulated him on his efforts. It became obvious in the early morning hours when we assembled at Harkins Hall that to get that interview would be almost impossible. We, and I mean Frank Pate, Ed Maggacomo, James Di Sarro, and myself, decided to see Mayor Reynolds' executive secretary, Mr. John Davis, in order to get an admittance pass to Mr. Stevenson's suite. Kind, courteous, patient, Mr. Davis, nonetheless, was steadfast in his refusal of our request. That Mr. Davis was justified was obvious by the fact that he had turned down members of the City Council with like requests.

On the platform reviewing a parade of fire apparatus was the Honorable Mayor of Providence, Walter Reynolds. Though pressed for time he granted to the P. C. reporters an informal interview which centered around an amusing event that had happened early in his political career. Not being a golfer, the mayor explained, he was asked to take a picture swinging a golf club. Later, when the picture had been published it was pointed out to the mayor that it had been a left handed club and consequently the picture was wrong (and also very amusing).

After leaving the platform we stationed ourselves near the door that Stevenson would enter from the Biltmore Hotel. We know as Mr. Stevenson approached, an interview at that time would be impossible but Jim Di Sarro got some very fine pictures of Mr. Stevenson entering the City Hall. Once in the mayor's office all photographers and reporters were barred but by walking in with two members of the city council Jim Di Sarro and I gained admittance. It was here that I shook hands with Mr. Stevenson and wished him well and that because of the extent of the personal interview for this P. C. report.

Mr. Stevenson was pressed for time and we all believed that he had more time our request for an interview would have been allowed. He seems smaller than I had anticipated, but his dynamic appearance makes up for this. He has command of the situations at hand, no easy task believe me, and he makes excellent use of the English language.

On the speakers platform was Congressman John E. Fogarty through whose office we, and this includes all the colleges represented, received permission to attend the function. Some good press correspondents were barred but by walking in with Mr. John Davis, the college photographer, we were permitted to attend the function. Mr. William Lynch, Mr. Fogarty's secretary, went to the R. I. Democratic central committee and personally inquired for the college reporters. He knew the reporters of all the college papers present thank Congressman Fogarty and Mr. Lynch for affording us this opportunity.

The day was brought to a successful conclusion with a roast beef dinner for all reporters in a suite at the Biltmore Hotel.

Pyramid Players Elect Officers

The Pyramid Players have elected their officers for the coming year, it was announced today. They are Richard L. McCarthy, president; Charles H. McArthur, vice-president, Charles H. McArthur, president; William Lynch, secretary, and John E. Welch, treasurer.

While there are no definite plans, it is probable that the Players' first production will be "The Case Murphy Court Martial" sometime in December.

Other plans call for a Lenten play as a result of the warm reception that was given to "The Angelic Doctor". The presentation of "The Student Prince" has also been given some careful consideration by the officers. Among the musicals under consideration for production in the spring is the musical hit "Good News". There will be a meeting of the Pyramid Players, Thursday, October 11, at 8 p.m. in room 300, Harkins Hall. All old members are requested to be present, and anyone who wishes to join is cordially invited.

Providence Club To Hold Meeting

The Providence Club will hold its first meeting of the year on Thursday, October eleventh, at eight o'clock. President John E. Brady has selected the Finnegan Council, Knights of Columbus, on Vandewater Street, as the new meeting place for the club. Extended planning and newly inaugurated ideas have been incorporated into the Regional Club activities, and with the help of the Student Council, this should be one of the most successful years in the history of the club. The spirit and cooperation of the freshman was emphasized in regard to the Providence Club, when, during freshmen week, nearly 100 potential members spoke to club representatives. Plans for a lay ride later in the month will be discussed at this meeting, and tentative planning for future events will be heard.

On Friday evening, the Providence Club will sponsor an informal dance at Harkins Hall. All present and future members of the club are asked to attend the meeting so that committee members may be appointed for the various activities.

Remember October Rosary Devotions

It is the time of the year to reflect on God's love and his care for the poor. The Rosary is a beautiful way to do this. The October Rosary is especially special because it is a time to remember the Blessed Virgin Mary. She is our mother, our guide, and our friend. The Rosary is a time to pray for her protection and guidance.

Need Money? College Men

How would you like a part-time job while going to school that has the following features:

★ EARN $100 PER MONTH
★ WILL NOT INTERFERE WITH STUDIES
★ WORK 3 HOURS (6-9) 3 EVENINGS PER WEEK AND 3 HOURS SATURDAYS
★ PLEASANT WORK, DIGNIFIED AND GOOD EXPERIENCE

If you are ambitious, need money, have the use of a car and can fit this job into your schedule, write Mr. R. S. Butler, Jr., assistant professor of English, Harkins Hall.

IT'S FOR REAL! by Chester Field

IF I HAD A MILLION

"Life," he cried, "is so unfair! I should have been a millionaire! I'd drive a car, a white Jaguar with leopardskin trim and built-in bar, Complete with blondes and red heads too, A movie queen or two would do . . . I'm lazy, crazy, debonair I'd make a perfect millionaire!"

"Instead," he sobbed, "at twenty-five I'll have to work to stay alive!"

Moral: If you are $990,000.00 short of being a millionaire, but you like your pleasure big, Enjoy the big full flavor, the big satisfaction of a Chesterfield. Packed more smoothly by Acet-Ray, It's the smoothest tasting smoke today!"

Dear Members of the Senior Class:

It is with a sense of sincerity and humility that I again put my name before you for re-election as President of our class—The Class of 1957. As your President I would lead the class with its other elected officers, and together we would strive with our combined abilities to fulfill the following obligations which I set upon myself.

To represent the class in the Student Congress with 100% attendance, and to insure that each individual or group of individuals who have any constructive complaints will find me willing to present them to the congress.

To cooperate with the administration in any service which they might see fit to call upon us to render, and to make ourselves available to the administration in any activity in which we might be useful; also to expect from the administration the same cooperation which we will give them.

To call upon the most capable students to organize the Farmers Festival which will be held on Nov. 10th, and to work with them in every possible way so that this event will be well organized system of class representation the class officers will meet once a week. This meeting will be standard, and posted once it is decided upon, so that any Senator who wishes will be able to contact any of the officers, and have his particular suggestion or problem brought before the elected officers of the class.

To bring to the campus, in the immediate future, a representative of Dieges and Geust—the company which manufactured our class rings. This will allow any individuals of our class to decide on a gift to Providence College if that will be a credit to our class. To decide on a gift to Providence College this year is a thing of the past. The spirit of the class shown by the number of nominations accepted in the Student Congress office is a tribute to the spirit of this senior class. In no other year has the competition for each office been so close for our class.

To work with zeal in organizing our commencement activities—not just for the sake of running, but sincerely, by the fact that in a few months will be spent at Providence College. Will this be an enjoyable year or just an average year? That is the big question in everyone's mind.

The Senior Class has among its candidates for class president a new comer to campus politics. Ernest "Lefty" Bergeron is 26 years old and a Korean War Veteran. A resident of Woonsocket, Mr. Bergeron is studying Business Management here at P. C.

A member of the Dean's List, he is also an active member of The Campus Club, Woonsocket Club, Veterans' Club, and the Ship and Scales Club. Lefty played freshman baseball and served as a committee chairman for the Junior Prom.

An important consideration is that Lefty was a resident of Aquinas Hall for two years. For this reason, he feels qualified to be able to deal with those particular problems of campus life.

Ernest Bergeron is a new face with new ideas, and his platform will not be based upon wild and invalid promises. "My only objective," asked the candidate, "is a sincere desire to serve the class to the best of my ability. I don't wish to sound trite, but I think we have the potential to become the best class in P. C. history."

Lefty believes that the best method of achieving success at class-sponsored functions is to appoint only the sincerely willing members to serve on various committees. These and other

Campus Cartoonist Has Chance For Fame

For the first time in the history of humor, a search is being undertaken among the nation’s colleges and universities to locate upon this young student the recognition he so rightly deserves at the "Campus Cartoonist of the Year." Three of the world’s foremost humorists, Groosho Marx, Steve Allen and Al Capp have joined forces with Bill Kenneth, promoter of Box Cards, the leading designer of contemporary studio cards, to initiate a search which will start on October 1, 1956, and continue through December 1, 1956, and which will culminate in the ideas submitted to the judges, the student who is to be acclaimed this year as the winner of "Campus Cartoonist of the Year." The contest will be channeled through the local college bookstore. Each college bookstore will have complete details including general information, rules and entry blanks for the contest. The stores will also have samples of Box Cards to enable the student who wishes to participate to see clearly the style of humor which will be judged in the contest.

In addition, the winner will receive a royalty contract with Box Cards which will enable the winner to immediately benefit from an exciting and lucrative career in the field of studio card design.
