

THE PROSE POEM: AN INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL

Volume 7 | 1998

Distraction
Georges Godeau

© Providence College

The author(s) permits users to copy, distribute, display, and perform this work under the following conditions: (1) the original author(s) must be given proper attribution; (2) this work may not be used for commercial purposes; (3) the users may not alter, transform, or build upon this work; (4) users must make the license terms of this work clearly known for any reuse or distribution of this work. Upon request, as holder of this work's copyright, the author(s) may waive any or all of these conditions.

The Prose Poem: An International Journal is produced by The Berkeley Electronic Press (bepress)
for the Providence College Digital Commons.
<http://digitalcommons.providence.edu/prosepoems/>

Georges Godeau

DISTRACTION

This morning while I was out for a stroll the weather was so nice that I stopped at the prison and asked for Georges Godeau. The guard looked at his list and couldn't find that name. He was going to look again when I told him it was myself, condemned for life for having written too many books. He understood my problem instantly. He made me step behind the bars. I'm still here.

Translated from the French
by Daniel Biggs