

THE PROSE POEM: AN INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL

Volume 8 | 1999

Chance And The Lot Of Time Pierre Reverdy

© Providence College

The author(s) permits users to copy, distribute, display, and perform this work under the following conditions: (1) the original author(s) must be given proper attribution; (2) this work may not be used for commercial purposes; (3) the users may not alter, transform, or build upon this work; (4) users must make the license terms of this work clearly known for any reuse or distribution of this work. Upon request, as holder of this work's copyright, the author(s) may waive any or all of these conditions.

The Prose Poem: An International Journal is produced by The Berkeley Electronic Press (bepress)
for the Providence College Digital Commons.
<http://digitalcommons.providence.edu/prosepoems/>

Pierre Reverdy

CHANCE AND THE LOT OF TIME

The dial where the digits are carried along by the wind. The measured sun. The hours coming to an end. He is leaving. We forget everything. Measure and time. The mind slides further down. A handful of sharp pictures. And the shattered rays mark a slower time. The water sleeps. The wing comes back. The color is wider at the winning number.

From La balle au bond
Translated from the French
by Michel Delville