Memo' Stirs Golia Controversy Anew

SC President Oppel Claims
"Board Is Not Infallible"

"And Don't You Dare Say That It Hurts!"

Dear Mr. Hanaway:

Because of the misunderstanding and general confusion that has accompanied the Student Congress protest of the decision of the Disciplinary Board in the Golia case, a statement of explanation seems to be in order.

Although we are aware that the Committee on Discipline is primarily composed of clerical personnel, we are not aware that the members are, as individuals or as a group, infallible and above the human failing of misjudgement. If the Committee on Discipline can make a mistake, then Student Government has no right to suggest that they, in any specific case, have erred; if, on the other hand, they can make a mistake, and sometimes do, there is no more logical action than for the Student Government, recognized by the Administration as the official spokesman of the Student Body, to bring such an error to the attention of the Administration. We have, I believe, established that the Student Congress does have the right to petition that

Junior Class Elections Suspended By SC;
Senior Officers Will Be Chosen In The Fall

Two Student Congress meetings were held last week concerning the problem of Junior Class elections. It appeared that Charles Rolli, President of the Junior Class and now seeking re-election to that office, did not have the necessary vote for his candidacy to be considered by the Student Congress.
MEMO FROM THE EDITOR:

It is unfortunate that at this College a student who wishes to audit a course is forced to pay a fee of $10 per semester hour for the privilege of sitting in the rear of a classroom and listening to lectures. For this fee no credit is received for a course audited.

I question the advisability of charging a fee which seems to stifle the incentive of an ambitious college student. An extra student in a classroom costs the College nothing. He simply fills a seat in a classroom which, if empty, is useless.

A college such as Providence should strive to develop interest among students in concentrations other than in their majors. The student should be encouraged to broaden his scope of knowledge in as many fields as possible. Thus, if a business major wishes to audit a course in English literature, why should he be charged for the privilege. This student actually is exhibiting good taste, insofar as he is striving to become better rounded.

According to reports from Collegiate Press and other newspaper clipping services, I see that in the past two years many colleges have abolished costs for auditing courses. Several of these colleges have developed plans by which students with normal cumulative averages can audit as many as three courses per year free of charge.

I propose an even more liberal policy here at Providence College. I feel that any student should be allowed to sit in on classes provided that chairs are empty in the classroom.

This policy, if adopted, should give PC students an incentive to broaden their education, and to do something constructive rather than sitting in the cafeteria drinking coffee.

Accident Claims Two Sophomores:
College Stunned By Sudden Loss

Two Providence College sophomores were killed in an auto accident Saturday morning at 12:15 outside New Haven, Conn. The sophomores, both resident students at the College, were James Johnson, and Thomas Murphy. Both students were 20 years old.

Hastings College Puts New Audit System On Trial

A system of honorary audit is now on a trial basis at Hastings College. Under the plan, a junior or senior with an average grade of 2.4 may audit one course per semester without charge. He will only sit in on lectures, and will not be required to take examinations.

No action has been taken to make this a part of the student's permanent record, however. Under the present system of auditing, half tuition is charged and the course is shown as a permanent record, although no grade or credit is earned.

SC Announces Ballot Results

Elections have been held for the offices of the Class of '62. Due to the fact that candidates for offices of the Class of '62 elections were running unopposed and were declared ineligible, elections for the class will be held next September.

Joseph Walsh and Frederick Lombardi were elected to the presidency of the Classes of '63 and '64 respectively. Walsh defeated Charles Verde and Kenneth Tahan, while Lombardi defeated James Dunn and George Parento to retain his office.

Richard Segura and Paul McNamara, both unopposed, were elected vice-president and secretary respectively of the sophomore class.

William Archey took an easy victory over Edward Feldstein and Farrell Sylvester for the freshman class vice-presidency, and Theodore Alexo nipped Francis Devlin for secretary.

Peter White edged Michael Rocco for treasurer of the Class of '63, and William Abbott, unopposed, will serve as the treasurer for the Class of '64.

Robert Silver, David Donnelly, Leonard Gasbarrow, and Paul Austin were elected to Student Congress in the sophomore class elections. Austin was declared a member of the Student Congress because he was the only dorm student running for this office.

Elected as Student Congress representatives in the freshman class elections were Robert Shepard, William C. Glendenen, Robert Chernov, and Gerald Mussari.

was an economics major at the College.

Johnson, a business major at Providence College, resided in Stephen Hall. He was a resident of Greenfield, Mass. Johnston was a participant in the College ROTC program and Glee Club.

New Haven to the Connecticut Turnpike. Both students were transported by ambulance to the Grace New Haven Hospital where they were pronounced dead on arrival. According to police reports cause of death for both students was listed as "skull fracture combined with multiple injuries."

Johnston was hurled about 15 feet from the car onto the highway. Murphy, identified by police as the driver, was pinned in his seat by the engine of the car which had been propelled through the dashboard.

According to a direct report from Mr. Al Mitchell, city desk reporter for the New Haven Register, the contractor of the highway, Mr. Joseph Mariani, was killed at the same location last May 27. Mr. Mitchell explained that the highway narrowed from three to one lane at this intersection and the students struck a cement abutment.

The police report stated "although the car was travelling at a fast-clip" there was no indication of abnormal speed. The report definitely stated that there was no drinking involved as a contributory cause to the accident.

PC Students Asked To Donate Blood For Heart Surgery

A Blood Bank drive will be held on May 10 by Mr. Charles Mastrobuono and his staff members from the lab of Our Lady of Fatima Hospital. The drive will be on hand to draw the blood. The Blood Bank drive will start at 11:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. at the Student Health Office.

The Blood Bank is calling for 100 pints of "O Positive" blood, which will be donated at the beginning of this serious heart operation. A PC student's sister or brother may donate blood.

Senior Prom Plans Announced

Senior Prom plans have been announced by Chairman Jack Eagan of the Senior Prom committee, to be held on June 3, 1961, which will round out the Senior Prom. The event will include some unannounced social activities, ending with the Commencement exercises to be held at the Sheraton-Biltmore that evening.

The events will include jazz supplied by a combined Dixieland and modernbeat band. Activities also planned for that afternoon are beer and soda, which will be served.

Editorially Speaking

Electoral Switch . . .

Last week the Student Congress cancelled the junior class elections until the fall. Undoubtedly, the Congress has started a precedent which could lead to many complications, as well as confusion.

Just as easily as the Congress postponed the elections, making no proper provisions for their being held, so could the new Congress postpone them once more in the future.

This would leave the present slate of officers holding their positions regardless of whether or not they qualify for re-election, and would practically place the majority of the class.

Judging from the power the Congress has attempted to assume, it is not unreasonable to see the Congress following this precedent in future years, with the result that the student vote would become null.

Freedom of Speech . . .

Academic freedom is at stake in New Hampshire State University, where Dean J. O. Welch and Mr. Powell, are calling for immediate dismissal from the University New Hampshire for the 18 students involved in a demonstration against the Civil Defense Commission.

The Board of Trustees, which has been paid for by the students, and which has been called into existence, is not only to control universities and colleges to the extent that they produce only amateurs, but is also to deny all opportunity for expression of freedom.

Indeed, the next trend has been established away from the "rubber stamp" attitude, and that all resident education majors were to remain on campus during the week in question.

Mr. Golia deliberately violated a disciplinary probation was imposed on March 14, over two years ago. The facts are that the head of the Education Department, in conjunction with the dean of men, explicitly stated that all resident education majors were to remain on campus during the week in question. Mr. Golia was given time to reflect upon the seriousness of his action; their methods left much to be desired.

From and Weekend was a huge financial and social success, with 225 couples in attendance. The Veritas was released to the student body, for the first time since the film was taken when the facts clearly show the innocence of Golia.

Mr. Golia deliberately violated a disciplinary probation was imposed by the Board. The Disciplinary Board minutes of the disciplinary board meeting reveal that the one of you to come visit me during the summer except there is no access to my room. The makers of Marboro Cigarettes, after I missed several donuts, walked me in. All I have is a mail slot into which I drop my lunch and which they supply me with Marboro Cigarettes and such food as will slip through a mail slot. (For six months now I have been living on after-dinner mints.)

I am only having my little joke. The makers of Marboro have not walled me in. They could never do such a cruel thing. Mr. Golia deliberately violated a disciplinary probation was imposed on March 14, over two years ago.

The Disciplinary Board attempted to assume, it is not unreasonable to see the Congress following this precedent in future years, with the result that the student vote would become null.

We do not sympathize with these students for their action; their methods left much to be desired, and they are endeavouring to make up for their error. The only clear way of doing this is to prove the question:

"Does a government have the right to enter into affairs concerning the academic welfare of students at a college when the Constitution gives these students the right to freedom of speech?"

The answer to this question is affirmative, it seems to deny constitutional rights while at the same time giving government the right to control universities and colleges to the extent that they produce only amateurs, but is also to deny all opportunity for expression of freedom.

Mr. Heeley has had a widely varied career in advertising and decorative art. He has done a great deal of work as both illustrator and muralist, but has been concentrating almost exclusively on portraiture during the past ten years.

The portrait will be unveiled on June 5th and will hang in the Aquinas Hall lounge along with the portraiture of the past five presidents of the college.
Aquinas Society Guest Will Discuss Education

"Soviet and American Education" will be the topic of a speech by Mr. Nicholas De Witt at tomorrow's meeting of the Aquinas Society in the Guild Room of Alumni Hall at 8 o'clock.

For the past ten years, Mr. De Witt has been an associate at the Russian Center, Harvard University and is also now a staff member of the Office of Scientific Personnel of the National Academy of Sciences, directing research on educational and professional manpower in the Communist bloc. Born in Kharkov, Russia, May 12, 1923, he completed his primary and secondary education in that country.

After coming to the United States in 1947, Mr. De Witt received his A. B. degree from Harvard in 1952, and a year later his M. A. degree, also from Harvard.

Tomorrow night's meeting, like all Aquinas Society meetings, is open to all PC students and to the public, as well.

The bill postponed represented the motion of Congress officers, such as the President and Vice-President, to be elected this year. Only representatives of senior class are eligible for those positions.

Byrnes' bill was passed by the Congress. Only Dan Lilly, junior representative, voted against the bill.

A second special meeting was held last Thursday, May 4, at which Byrnes proposed a motion that he felt would solve the difficulties and injustices that might have stemmed from the procedures of the previous night, when the Congress re-in- terpreted the vote. The motion stated that to his knowledge the 2.0 rule was one of the administration, not of the Congress.

Others in attendance at the meeting said that Rieelly should be allowed to run because of his conscientious opposition and because it was only an illness that prevented Rieelly from attaining a 2.0 average. Rieelly's cumulative average was 1.974.

Father Jurgelaitis again said that "in my opinion, consideration of academic requirements is the right of the Congress. The Dean of the college establishes the academic requirements and the Dean would not take one case as an exception and not others."

He was referring to the other candidates whose average was below the 2.0 mark. These candidates later turned down the offer of the Congress to review their cases also.

The motion concerning Rieelly's eligibility was passed 13 to 4, in favor of Rieelly. There was one abstention on the roll call vote.

A motion for the Congress to consider the case of Jimmy Hall, who likewise claimed such an eligibility, was then made which would delete the 2.0 rule. This motion passed without a vote. Jimmy Hall, who likewise claimed such an eligibility, was suspended for one candidate, it was pointed out, "because it was only an illness that prevented Rieelly from attaining a 2.0 average. Rielly's cumulative average was 1.974."

By Paul Martin

It has been announced by officials of the National Rifle Association of Americas that Providence College's Team I has placed 39th out of 295 teams which competed in the National Intercollegiate Sectionals. The team fired a score of 1128 out of a possible 1200 points.

Seniors Cop Spike Shoe Run: Win Four Events; Sweep One

A strong showing by seniors, who captured first place in four events and all three places in the two lap run, enabled them to win the Spike Shoe Club's Annual Interclass track meet. The 80 yard dash was won by Amie Parisi, senior. First was Bill Torello, a sophomore with freshman Ed Zannella first followed by freshman Jack Thorhill and junior J. Conley. The seniors won the four lap relay with a team consisting of first place being achieved.

Maroons Nip PC, 2-1; Lose In Extra Frame

A tenth inning single by Archie Moore drove in Mike Mould with the winning run as Springfield nipped Providence College, 2-1, Monday at Hendrick Field. The loss dropped the Friars' record to three wins and four losses.

The Maroons opened the scoring in the second inning when catcher Charlie Boys opened with a single off the losing hurler, Jim Hodgkins. Left fielder Pete Sylvester then doubled, after rightfielder Chris Smith's grounder filling the bases. Maroon second-sacker Tom Johnson then worked Hodgkins for a pass, forcing the runner at the plate.

PC came back to tie the score in the sixth inning when Captain Joe Caffarella opened the frame by punching a single into right field. Deney Gui mares followed with a sacrifice, Caffarella moving to second, and Joey Evans knotted the count, driving in Caffarella with a single to center.

Hodgkins and Springfield pitcher Roland Thompson proceded with a tight pitching duel, neither side scoring for the first four innings, but the deciding single broke up the tie in the tenth.

Hodgkins pitched an outstanding game, allowing only five hits, walking and striking out seven. His counterpart, Thompson pitched an equally brilliant game, allowing (Continued on Page 9)
