H. S. Tournament Here On Saturday

Frosh Elections Cancelled; All Candidates Unopposed

The freshmen elections, scheduled to head the series of class elections to be held this week, were canceled by the Student Congress Monday night.

The Congress decided that, since the frosh were only able to muster a single slate of candidates, those nominees would be declared elected without going through the formality of balloting.

The unopposed freshman officers are: Charles Riley, president; Paul Keohane, vice-president; Matt Barry, treasurer; and Robert Strayer, secretary.

Congress Slate Incomplete

Five of the seven class of 1962 candidates for Student Congress were also declared scholarship ineligible, thus leaving the freshmen with an incomplete slate for the four Student Congress posts they are entitled to fill. Student Congress ruled that the surviving candidates, Dennis Hanaway and Bernard Madison, would be declared elected after one proxy vote to be cast by the present class secretary.

The remaining two posts will be filled by the president of the Student Congress acting in committee with the freshman class officers and their moderator, the Rev. W. Declan Kane, O.P.

The soph class elections are highlighted by the race between Charles McAree and James Geary for the class presidency. McAree, the incumbent president, was challenged by Geary, a political science major from Lonely, Mass., who is assistant vice-president for his idea of the necessary coordination of all activities toward the goals of the NFCCS.

As PC Hosts NFCCS

James Ryan, junior business management major from New Haven, was unanomously elected treasurer of the New England Region of the National Federation of Catholic College Students, at the Spring Congress held at PC last weekend. Ryan will serve his third successive year at the post.

At the same meeting, Thomas O’Herron, a modern language major from New Rochelle, N. Y., was nominated for Regional President of NFCCS, but he was defeated by Donald St. John of Fairfield University by a vote of 27-22.

This year was the first time that the Congress has been held on the Providence College campus, as well as the initial nomination of a PC student for president. Delegates and observers from most of the twenty-five Catholic colleges in the Region numbered about 200.

"This year’s Congress," according to Arthur Boucher, "marks the coming of age of the NFCCS, both on the Providence College campus and throughout New England. Never have I seen this organization so enthusiastic and receptive to new ideas." Boucher, as Student Congress president, was a voting member of the PC delegation.

Ryan Unopposed

Ryan was the only unopposed candidate for office. His nomination was greeted with a standing ovation. In the presidential election, St. John was hailed as an experienced and industrious delegate, O’Herron, although relatively little-known to the delegation, received strong support for his idea of the necessary coordination of all activities toward the goals of the NFCCS.

An Industrial Relations seminar was held on Saturday afternoon, presided over by Rev. Charles Quirk, O.P. Faculty advisor for the event was Dr. J. E. Donley.

National Medical Group
Inducts New Members

Seventeen new members were initiated into the Rhode Island Chapter of Alpha Epsilon Delta at an initiation ritual last April 11.

The national pre-medical honor society initiates are: Samuel Ames, Edward F. Pallon, Joseph C. Flynn, Harold E. Fox, David T. Greenleaf, Bernard E. Hand, Richard E. Holzheimer, Edward A. Iannuccilli, Nicholas A. Mangano, Frederick T. Purry, Edward A. Pollard, John F. Rampone, and Stephen J. Ryan. All initiates are sophomores except Amuso, who is from the class of ’60.

This year Rhode Island Alpha selected two medical doctors as honorary initiates. They are John G. Walsh, R.A., M.D., who is noted in the field of obstetrics and John E. Donley, B.A., the faculty advisor for the event.

Forward for Fellowships
To Offer Fellowships For Graduate Study

Two hundred fellowships for graduate study in 15 foreign countries will be offered by foreign governments and universities. The Institute of International Education for the academic year 1960-61.

The Institute announced today that applications for the fellowships will be available on May 1 and will be accepted until November 1, 1959.

The scholarships cover tuition and varying amounts of maintenance in universities in Austria, Denmark, France, many, Italy, Israel, the Netherlands, Sweden, Switzerland, Canada, Brazil and Mexico.

General eligibility requirements are United States citizenship, a Bachelor’s degree or its equivalent before departure, language ability sufficient to carry on the proposed study, and good health. A good academic record, proved ability to utilize the allocated capacity for independent study are also necessary.

For further information and application forms, prospective applicants should write to the Institute, and will be accepted until November 1, 1959.

THE DATING SEASON

I have recently returned from a tour of 900,000 American colleges where I made a survey of the dating customs and sold Zorro whips. I have tabulated my findings and I am now prepared to tell you the simple secret of successful dating. The secret is simply this: A date is successful when the man knows how to treat the girl.

And how does a girl like to be treated? If you want to know, read and remember these four cardinal rules of dating:

1. A girl likes to be treated with respect.

When you call for your girl, do not drive up in front of the sorority house and yell, "Hey, fat lady!" Get out of your car. Walk respectfully to the door. Knock respectfully. When your girl comes out, tug your forelock and say respectfully, "Good evening, Your Honor." Then offer her a Marlboro, for what sorority house and yell, "Hey, fat lady!" Get out of your car. In no circumstances must you take her to an oil-cracking plant. She got by with a suspended sentence because she was not a talker. I too was a listener so we just sat all night long, strainning to catch a word, not talking hour after hour until finally a policeman came by and arrested us both for vagrancy. I did a year and a half in the big house, but the man knows how to treat the girl.

2. A girl likes to be a good listener.

Do not monopolize the conversation. Let her talk while you listen attentively. Make sure, however, that she herself is not a talker. I recollect a date I had once with a coed named Greensleeves Sigafoos, a lovely girl, but unfortunately a listener, not a talker. I too was a listener so we just sat all night long, straining to catch a word, not talking hour after hour until finally a policeman came by and arrested us both for vagrancy. I did a year and a half in the big house, but the man knows how to treat the girl.

3. A girl likes to be taken to nice places.

By "nice" places I do not mean expensive places. A girl does not demand luxury. All she asks is a place that is pleasant and gracious. The Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, for example. Or Mount Rushmore. Or the Taj Mahal. Or the Bureau of Weights and Measures. Find places like these to take your girl. In no circumstances must you take her to an oil-cracking plant.

4. A girl likes to be well-informed.

Come prepared with a few interesting facts that you can drop casually into the conversation. Like this: "Did you know, Nicaragua, that when saddle, sheep, cattle, antelope and other members of the cud-chewing family get up, they always get up hind legs first?" Or this: "Are you aware, Hollis, that corn grows faster at night?" Or this: "By the way, love, Oslo did not become the capital of Norway until July 11, 1924." And if you can slip enough of these nuggets into the conversation before dinner, your date will grow too torpid to eat. Some men save up to a half-million dollars a year this way.

By JOHN J. HURLEY

What are you a dorm student for, anyhow? How come you're not going home this weekend? Junior, are you sure that you are happy away from home?

The answer to all these questions is intimately tied up with the largest organized club on the Providence College campus, the Carolan Club. This club has as its primary function the aim to bring all the dorm students closer together, to increase "college development," and in general to make the stay of the dorm student here at PC more enjoyable. And the Carolan Club does an excellent job in performing this task.

Namely, it sponsors the biggest bike store in New England is across the street from Harvard Yard. And in New England is across the street from Harvard Yard.

Under the able direction of Bill "Silver Fox" Clifford, resident students from California to Florida, from Minnesota to seven Rhode Island partake of the many features in the club's program. Vice-president George "Bald Eagle" Dittrich, secretary Pete McCarthy and treasurer Jim Ryan round out the officers of the organization. All four are student prefects.

So that each class may have an equal representation, there is also a board made up of two representatives from each class.
A Job Well Done . . .

Congratulations to the Barristers! The PC debaters, under the direction of Rev. John Skallo, O.P., have finished a creditable season. Now they are preparing to work on the next project, which is the most difficult but most rewarding project: The Second Annual South­eastern New England High School Debate Tournament.

Last year, the first of these tournaments was a great success. It was hailed in educational circles throughout New England, and we are sure that this one will also be. Through keen competition under the eyes of debate authorities, the high school students are encouraged to express themselves on their feet. Recognition of outstanding achievement is accorded in the several awards made at the end of the tournament.

It is no secret that the vast portion of the work for the tournament is done by Fr. Skallo, the Barristers' indefatigable moderator. Last year's tournament was such a success that the same is as no surprise when the college received many more applications for this year's session that could possibly be handled.

It is with public service of the nature of the debate tournament that the Providence College group is a place among the leading schools of New England. The good will engendered by such an affair is tremendous; the publicity given the college is invaluable. Providence College is fast becoming one of the leading schools in New England in the field of debate, and we can justifiably be proud of our guest debaters who may be tomorrow's PC varsity.

The Cowl tips its hat to Fr. Skallo and his squad for their end is most laudable: Catholic Action.

Out Of The Doldrums . . .

Last weekend saw the spring council of the New England Region of the National Federation of Cath­olic Students of America held for the first time. Even more important to the PC students, however, is the feature which accompanied the council; the revitalization of a campus organization which has too long been ignored. This week marks the advent of the next year of the PC varsity.

The Cowl is disappointed to learn that none of the Catholic Action will be on campus. The college will receive many more applications for this year's session that could possibly be handled.

The class having a voice in their school will be greatly missed. The class membership or reject it.

The man who makes $5,000 a year has the right to act otherwise. In other words, an individual may choose whether or not he will have that second cup of coffee, go to movies, smoke Camels, or take in a movie tonight. It is a generally accepted principle, that a man cannot be forced or morally obliged one way or the other, unless there be a sufficient reason for action or abstention, as the case may be.

Prayers will decrease in membership seems to be in the light of a very remote principle of free society. This is frequently stated as if someone washed your car without your consent, and then presented you with a bill! I do not see, then, any reason why a man must join a given labor union, and hence I am against the principle of "union shop." There are, moreover, several advantages of the open shop system that we hope to discuss at a later date.

If we follow the principle of "40-hour week, minus three days a week" to act otherwise.

The most often heard argu­ment against the open shop is that since the union must represent workers, it should be free to choose union membership or reject it. I have yet to see that valid reason.

WHAT'S NEW IN TV?

A-100 (Carelson Club): "Shane." This epic western with the ever-present cowboys and the lovely Virginia O'Brien is a strong punch in more ways than one.

A-200 (Dancers): "Dance." Wall Disney transforms a teen-age boy into an oversized midget. This is a typical example of Fred Mac Murray and a rather un­convincing dance in the cow­dancer canoe. "Mickey Mouse Club" viewers won't want to miss Annette Funicello. Also playing "Missouri Traveler" in a difficult picture of the American town after the Civil War with Lee Marvin and Kran­dall. Out Of The Doldrums . . .

Aven: The ever versatile Fern­andel comes forth with some "Forbidden Fruit." The more one has of it, the better he likes it. This is a typical example of Fern­andel. Also playing, "Raising A Colt."

Play: "The Second and the Fury." Yul Brynner gets away from epics to produce a well­acted, well­written, well­directed play. Marie­anne Woodward and Mar­gel artwork are the stars of this well­played version of William Faulkner's novel. Also playing, "A View from the Bridge."

Lowew: "Some Like It Hot." The comedy's cast features Fred Astaire. No­men again does attract attention. It is this kind of representation of the whole of American town after the Civil War.

Carolan Club...

One of the more popular features of the Carolan Club's program is the weekly movies run in Albertus Magnus Hall. Here projector runners Bob Tremble, Jim Garner, Joe Moore and Dick LaVoie show some of the "greatest films of the fifties" to two audiences on the cinema screen. Where else, they say, can one see "Brigadoon" or "Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison" for the price of twenty cents?

Pool Sharks Ahoy

Always in use are the five pool tables in Stephen and Aquinas Hall. A welcome addition to the set was a billiard table bequeathed by a Mr. Hoppe, international champion, Willie Young of Newport to the club for the price of twenty cents".

Telephone booths; candy and soda vendors, washing machines and dryers—all are under the supervision of Bill Clifford and the boys.

Sports Not Neglected

Athletics certainly aren't neglected by the club. There are annual basketball and softball leagues, pingpong tournaments, pool tournaments, all of which provide trophies or other awards for the winning teams. Seldom does an evening go by which doesn't have a Dorm League basketball game down at the gym or a softball game out on the drill field.

Also under the sponsorship of the club are the Altar Servers group and the Dorm Chess Club. Both of these organizations are under the leadership of club members Larry Allen and Gene Rzeczkowski.

One could go on and on recounting past affairs, and looking forward to a planned record library and the jazz session to be held on Saturday afternoon, April 25. And certainly with an added two hundred resident students in Raymond Hall, the activities of the Carolan Club are going to continue to expand.

This club is big in numbers, objectives and above all in achievements.

Vodka Boom Increases Orange, Tomato Sales

The odds are that 10 years ago you never heard of vodka. Yet today, it's a rare cocktail party that doesn't include the clear and vigorous liquid known as vodka.

Last year Americans drained 10,546,000 gallons of it: not quite enough to float a battleship.

Whether or not you drink vodka, you're likely to find that tablets of vodka fare make interesting conversation. Many imbivers would probably be surprised to learn, for example, that the lifeblood of their Bloody Mary is not fermented potato juice. Only the cheapest European brews derive from the lowly spud: the best grades of foreign vodka—and all American brands—are distilled from high quality grain.

Another common fallacy is that most of our vodka comes from Russia. During the Korean War, the American Bartenders Union actually voted to stop mixing the "unpatriotic" Moscow Mules. Fact: virtually no Russian vodka is sold in this country, and only two Iron Curtain brands—one from Poland, the other from Czechoslovakia—have been imported here.

We can thank Russian communists, however, for the high quality of American vodka! When the Reds came to power, many of the most skillful Russian vodka artisans emigrated. Once the Czar's official distiller, Ste. Pierre Smirnoff, left Russia to part of a Yankee company, Heublein, Inc., which makes and sells its brew in France and America.

We also get the name of the drink from Russia. "Vodka" means "water" in Russian. "Ra" is an affectionate Slavic diminutive. Thus vodka can be literally misleadingly translated as "little water."

Most Slavs don't mix their "little water" with any other liquid. They take it neat and take it often, downing a jigger in a single swallow. Poles think vodka is a digestif, not a lubricant. Believing that vodka will "wash the stomachs of the working people," it is an affectionate Slavic diminutive, and way the Russians drink it with their meals as Americans drink ice-water!

In contrast to Slavic consumers, most Americans feel that vodka was made to be mixed. Of the 10's of millions gallons we downed last year, only a trickling five percent was taken straight. The rest was added to quinine water, ginger ale, lemon-ade, the juice of oranges, grapefruit, prunes, navel oranges, tomatoes, and other less likely media.

Pay Attention, All You Bargain Hunters!

Here's A Shopping Guide For Shirt Values

Who hasn't gone shopping for a bargain? Everybody loves the something-for-nothing gambit—or something-good-for-a-little-bit-less. But do you really know a bargain when you see one? For instance:

To determine whether those fabrics are good quality, look for a smooth,lasting finish—meaning that the threads are mercerized. Also look for the label "Sanforized"—meaning that the shirt will never shrink out of fit. When synthetics come into the picture, there are other things you should look for. When there's cotton blended with the synthetic (such as Dacron and cotton), look for a firm weave, true color, and as little "synthetic feel" as possible.

Check Stitching

Women often look at the seams of a dress to determine quality, and you can do the same with a shirt. Of course there should never be a raw edge showing anywhere. Every seam should be double-stitched. Close stitching is a sign of quality. Never accept chain stitching, or stitching with occasional knots or imperfections. Look for clean stitching at strain points such as under the armholes.

As for design, there are a number of things you can check. The collar and cuffs are the best places to look. The new permanent stays stitched into the collar are a sign of careful design, as are innovations such as link cuffs and convertible cuffs. Colors should be clear and colorful. Designs should be perfectly printed.

Mass! Madness!

LEST WE FORGET: One of the more interesting dates of the social season is the annual celebration of Patriotic Day every April 19th. This day commemorates the well-known ride of Paul Revere on that momentous occasion on the 18th of April in '75. This is how it shall always appear to Longfellow readers, although, in truth it was poor forgotten William Dawes who made the midnight journey from the Hub to Lexington and Concord. Poor Paul didn't get much farther than Cambridge when the British stopped him.

Thus throughout each town in Middlesex County, this is the day for the mayor to commemorate the universal of "that shot heard 'round the world," while also putting in a plug for history. The Bostonians then break into another history to recreate the famous marathons of classical Greece. This unique twenty-five mile race is an information center on all phases of exchange.

Do You Think for Yourself?

1. If your parents exhibited "baby picture" of you to a friend, would you be (A) embarrassed? (B) merely interested in your friend's reaction? (C) just plain annoyed?

2. You are making a speech—and suddenly find you have a large hole in your clothes. Would you (A) excuse yourself and leave? (B) pretend you didn't know the hole was there? (C) cover up the hole with a handkerchief?

3. Would you rather have the characteristics of (A) U.S. Grant? (B) Thomas Edison? (C) J. P. Morgan?

4. You have taken your date to dinner and find you haven't money to tip the waiter as well as take your date home. Would you (A) ignore the waiter? (B) take him aside and tell him you'll tip him next day? (C) tip him and walk your date home?

5. Mathematics is your poorest subject, yet you are fascinated by the idea of being an atomic physicist. Would you (A) try to overcome your difficulties with math? (B) pick an easier subject? (C) ask yourself if it's physics you like or its glamour?

6. Your roommate is a nice person, but suddenly finds he has no Turning? •• How do you react? (A) a complete non sequitur? (B) something long-lasting? (C) not sure.

7. Do you believe the maxim "It's a long way that has no turning" is (A) a complete non sequitur? (B) a well-known fact? (C) an allusion to a common phenomenon?

8. Would you rather have as a birthday present (A) a $100 bill? (B) something lasting? (C) something beautiful?

9. In choosing a filter cigarette, would you (A) pick one that (a) claims it filters best? (B) merely says it tastes good? (C) gives you a thinking man's filter and a man's taste?

CARROLL’S COMMENTS

By JIM CARROLL
Sports Editor

Head coach Bob Murray may have pressing problems in so far as his rather porous infield is concerned, but he certainly must be pleased with the hitting of Joe Caffarella. The sophomore giant has been hitting at a sensational clip in the first two games. Currently loping along with a stratospheric average of .714, Joe scored the first Friar run of the year against Brown last Saturday and, later on in the same game, belted a home run which cleared the Hendricken Field fence.

While on the baseball track, don’t be alarmed at the unimpressive showings of right-hander Joe Guglielmo. Despite receiving shoddy support, the captain of the PC diamond forces still managed to exhibit the same stylish form which enabled him to beat the Providence pitchers last year.

At the recent rally held in honor of the Providence College Basketball team, Len Wilkens and Space Egan each received a bundle of awards. Perhaps the least known of all the awards was the fact that Wilkens had been selected on the All-NIT team. Others selected to the mythical team were Alan Seiden and Tony Jackson of St. John’s, Cal Ramsey of NYU and Joe Billy McDade of Bradley. Jackson was named Most Valuable Player for the tournament and well deserves the honor as Friar fans will remember.

As the official ending to NIT comments in this column, it seems that congratulations are in order to the cheerleading squad and its fine captain, Phil Caliendo. Bill Mosher, Jack Lyons, Carl McCorden, Bill Kearns and Bob Botus made up the remainder of the squad.

Charlie Goetz, erstwhile cross-country runner, placed third in the annual Cathedral Road Race held in Boston. Competing against top flight runners, Goetz opened the season for the road-racing Friars and for the second year in a row was the recipient of one of the major awards. The Intramural Championship series began last night at Alumni Hall. Tony McElroy’s Cinderella Metropolitan Club collides with the early line favorites, the Shamrocks. The Met Club has scored upset wins in its last two play-off encounters and will again be underdogs in the final.

On the major league scene, it looks like the Yankees and the Braves once again in the September classic known as the World Series. However, watch out for the fast rising Cleveland Indians in the junior circuit. A good year from Herb Score will enable the Indians to seriously challenge the perennial champions from the Bronx.
Wilkens Possesses Needed Quality
To Captain Providence Hoosters

There are three characteristics that one looks for in a captain. First, he must have the ability of a first rate player; second, he must have the respect of his teammates; thirdly, he must have a certain amount of poise both on and off the court.

Next year's basketball captain, Len Wilkens, possesses these three characteristics and others as well.

As a relatively obscure high school player, Len has developed into one of the finest basketball players in the country. After having played only six months of high school basketball, Len graduated in January of this year. Len was a honorable mention All-American selection and was also chosen on the first string All-New England team.

NIT Thrill

A man of few words, Len admits that receiving the bid to the NIT was one of the biggest personal thrills that he has had. When asked about how he felt after the St. Louis game, which he had scored thirty points and made numerous defense, Len said, "I can only remember New York crowds and received a three minute standing ovation!"

Len Wilkens answered, "I was happy that we did it!"

"Next year," said the new captain-elect, "we will be able to have a lot of fun. We are going to be easy for shooting with Jim Tolman, and we have the best guards and the best players there could be. I want the New England team," said Len.

And speaking of playing with others, Len has a definite idea about John Woods, "I'd like to run and I enjoy playing with him. One thing about Len, he's always moving and he helps keep the club alive."

When ordered by mail, twenty-five cents is the price of our pamphlet's price of one. In order to defray the cost of handling and mailing, once again it was the first inning jinx that hurt PC and Starter Joe Guglielmo as the Bruiuns put together three singles, a bit batman, two errors and a double steal for three runs. Brown picked up two more runs in the fourth inning and one in the fifth, but for all practical purposes the game was over in the first frame.

Special NIT Booklet Product Of Tourney

Providence College has announced the publication of a twenty-four page brochure concerning the Friars' participation in the National Invitation Tournament. The booklet, entitled, "Providence College Goes to the National Invitation Basketball Tournament," contains news stories, action photos, cartoons and features. The booklet is on sale for one dollar on Thursday, April 16. Copies may be obtained at the Athletic Business Office and the college bookstore.

Pope McCarthy's Providence Journal reports on each of the Friars' tourney games as well as representative headlines and action photos. The Providence Journal accounts of each of the Providence's New York sojourn will be jammed.

Bob Lives With Egan

Many of the questions that are asked of Lenny concern flashy Johnny Egan and how the two players fit. According to Len, "There is no problem with Space, we like to run and I enjoy playing with him. One thing about Len, he's always moving and he helps keep the club alive."

Frosh Called For Initial Diamond Go

Freshman baseball candidates were announced last week, by Coach Vin Cuddy. Over sixty ballplayers answered the tryout notice as the Frosh began working to select the New England team. At the annual outing. This will come in two more weeks, with the election and activities. The previous best of the team was only fourth in New England. Next year will be a rebuilding year, since we lose the services of Captain Flanagan, Al Shurney, Jim Baker, Bill Haas, and Jerry Gravel when they graduate in June, but I look forward to seeing the same team.

The Providence College rifle team walked off with its first place honors for the fourth straight year in the fifth annual R.I. (COTC) Intercollegiate rifle range. Last year the team received the Tournament trophy, and this win sets them right off in the first leg of the next trophy.

On the line, Secretary Henry B. Locke, New England College, disclosed that the first copy of the booklet will be presented to Rhode Island Governor Christopher Tolman, (10-1 for Providence), and his having attended Providence's New England team.

The final two wins came on Friday and Saturday, and were admitted to membership. The previous best of the team was only fourth in New England. Next year will be a rebuilding year, since we lose the services of Captain Flanagan, Al Shurney, Jim Baker, Bill Haas, and Jerry Gravel when they graduate in June, but I look forward to seeing the same team.

Rifle Team Completes Its Most Successful Season

The Providence College rifle team walked off with its first place honors for the fourth straight year in the fifth annual R.I. (COTC) Intercollegiate rifle range. Last year the team received the Tournament trophy, and this win sets them right off in the first leg of the next trophy.

PC led the way with a score of 1,299, second was Roger High School of Newport with a score of 1,282. URI got third place by shooting 1,343, and Brown topped fourth with a 1,389 mark. Top three singles were: Gardner Sherman of Roger with 282, Jim Brierly of Roger with 281, and Al Shurney of PC with 280.

Other scorers for the "shooting" Frosh were Jim Baker with 280, Jim Flanagan with 277, Ed Bailey with 276, who scored in the top five of the varsity for the first time in his firing career, and Lou Benotti with 275. Other high scorers were John Bueno of Brown with 279, and Theodore Desoek of URI, who fired 260.

In recapitulating this successful year, there were many standouts. The College team was un defeating in the Southern Group of the NECRL. They were second in the New England Championship and the NRA sectional, held at Boston University.

Next year will be a rebuilding year, since we lose the services of Captain Flanagan, Al Shurney, Jim Baker, Bill Haas, and Jerry Gravel when they graduate in June, but I look forward to seeing the same team.
