

Glee Club Tour Seen Successful & Thrilling

"It was the thrill of my lifetime."
So spoke William L. Paolino, President of Providence College Glee Club, when summing up his reactions on the club's recent tour to New York and Pennsylvania. His elation was echoed by the club's directors Rev. Leo S. Cannon, O.P., and Rev. Raymond B. St. George, O.P., who termed the tour as "highly successful and a tribute to Providence College."

Grady '60 Prexy; Sophs For McAree

Al Tonn

JUNIOR THOMAS GRADY, left, has been elected president of the Class of 1960 for the fourth consecutive year. Sophomore candidate Charles McAree, right, received a landslide vote and will serve his second term as president of the Class of '61.

Junior Tom Grady and sophomore Charles McAree have been retained as presidents of their respective classes as a result of this month's voting. Both were returned to office by a large vote.

Grady was re-elected for the fourth straight time. He promised more complete senior activities and thanked his supporters for their consideration.

Charlie McAree, a political science major from West Haven, Conn., made the following statement for the Cowl: "I am gratified for the warm vote of confidence placed in me. Now that the elections are over, I plan to press forward plans for ring standardization, and I am planning some sort of added social activity in the fall."

Successful Year

"We have just completed an outstanding and unique soph weekend and can boast of a really solvent treasury. In my dual capacity as a member of the Student Congress, I will look out for the class interests in that organization."

He also went on to extend his appreciation to Mr. Geary, his opponent and the incumbent vice-president, for his work during the past year and to welcome in the new officers. He promised to make next year the greatest in class history.

Tight Race

The junior class race for the office of vice-president was a close fight all the way down to the wire. Of the four junior candidates, Reilly defeated John McPoland on the fifth recount by a count of 88 to 85 ballots.

The soph's race for the office of vice-president, between Tom Donovan and Mike Gould, was taken by Donovan, a pre-med major from Cranston.

The three-cornered race for the office of class of '61 treasurer developed into a landslide for Kevin McCarthy.

Cine-Friars Show Films To Shut-Ins

Bringing an evening's movie entertainment to those who are physically incapable of getting out to the theater is the objective of the Cine-Friars. Each month sixteen members of the Cine-Friars, a subdivision of the Camera Club, journey to homes of shut-ins in the metropolitan Providence area and show short subjects for the benefit of their handicapped viewers.

The Cine-Friars were organized in 1952 by Rev. William Clark, O.P., former head of the sociology department and moderator of the Camera Club, who died two years ago. In previous years, recruits for the Cine-Friars had been sociology majors. This year, however, the Camera Club undertook the improvisation of eight two man teams to show the films.

A list of shut-ins is furnished to the Camera Club at the beginning of each year by the Community Workshop, a division of the United Fund of Rhode Island. In accordance with the list, a schedule is devised whereby each client receives a monthly visit from the Cine-Friars.

Presently there are eight two man teams. Each team is assigned one party as their responsibility for the year. Four teams go out on separate nights of the first week of each month, the remaining four follow the second week. Transportation is provided by the individual members of Cine-Friars.

The short subjects are educational or documentary films which run, on an average, twenty minutes. Four such reels usually comprise an evening's entertainment.

These films are obtained from Rhode Island College of Education, General Motors, Modern Films, and the Ford Foundation, by Peter Abbondi and Leonard Parr.

Members of the Cine-Friars appear content in the knowledge that they are providing a little diversion for persons whose activity is, by necessity, narrowly limited. Frequently they receive for their efforts a vivid lesson in the cheerful acceptance of afflictions by their handicapped clients.

Carolan Party

Bill Weston's jazz combo will perform in the Stephen Hall Lounge next Saturday, April 25, from 2:00 to 5:00, as the entertainment feature of the Carolan Club sponsored jazz party.

This will be a repeat performance for Weston and company, who provided the musical fare for a similar function, the jazz concert at this year's Carolan Club Week-end. Tickets for the afternoon of dancing and refreshments may still be purchased for $4.00, announced Jerry Dittrich, Carolan Club vice-president.

MEMO FROM THE EDITOR:

Collegiate Potpurri A new accelerated English program for freshmen at Kent State University of Ohio reminds one of the pilot program at PC. . . .

Each year, students who score high on the English entrance examination are placed in a special program of composition work. Students in the enriched course study analytical reading, practice in writing the essay and submit investigation papers. Head of the Kent English department, Dr. Thomas F. Marshall, says that "these students cover more material in two quarters than the average student does in three."

This is a parallel to the Honors Section program inaugurated here two Falls ago and hailed by a number of the students themselves as well as Administration observers. . . .

On the same note, there is the announcement that a qualifying examination in English composition is now required for graduation in the College of Liberal Arts at Wayne State University in Detroit.

Failing students will be required to pass the test before being allowed to graduate. They will have to attend a composition clinic or, at the request of their major's department, will study under departmental supervision.

This graduation requisite was arrived at after a six-year study by the University's self-study committee. . . .

All this English and science and math too. . . .

Somewhere in this week's sheet is the long-awaited story centering on the activities of this year's class gift committee. Well, the following entry isn't meant to be a suggestion to Mike Charles and his committee because it's hardly applicable here, but. . . .

Seniors at Northwestern University recently voted to give a boost to faculty salaries with their class gift. The Class of 1959 voted to contribute its gift to the University's faculty salaries account. The co-chairmen of the gift committee said that the money would be used primarily to provide added rewards for promising young instructors to encourage them to stay at Northwestern.

Active club members will elect a new president, treasurer, and parliamentarian from the ranks of those, who by participation and dues paying are eligible under the club's constitution.

The Flying Club has announced its slate of officers for the coming year. Art Longlois was elected operations officer; Jack Sears, vice-operations officer; Bob O'Connell, secretary; and Paul Hodges, treasurer.

They announced that the plane is once again in operating order.

Boyd Granted Fulbright

IT LOOKS GOOD. Providence Journal representative Oscar Candage goes over film made entirely by PC students Paul Tougas, Bob Tremble, Al Tavares and John Sykes. They look relieved that all is finally done.

Tuebingen U. For Veritas Head

George E. Boyd, senior German major from East Providence, has been awarded a Fulbright scholarship to subsidize his graduate study in a foreign country.

Boyd plans to study German literature and language at Eberhard Karls University at Tuebingen, Germany.

The Fulbright Scholarship is a grant permitting students to participate in the International Exchange Program of the United States Government. The basic purpose of this program is to increase good will and understanding between the people of the United States and the people of other countries, through the exchange of students, teachers, university lecturers, and research scholars.

Boyd and the other grantees who will study in Germanic countries will set sail from New York in September, 1959. The duration of his German tenure will be the ten month academic year of 1959-60.

During his years at Providence College, Boyd has been an active member and the current vice-president of the Pyramid Players, a frequent visitor at Aquinas Society meetings, and a member of both the History and the Art Clubs.

George's current position as editor of the Veritas, PC's yearbook, is the culmination of four years' work on its staff.

In reply to the standard question "How did you feel when you learned of your good fortune?" George answered, "I hollered, screamed! I just read the first sentence and hollered to my mother in the next room, 'I'm going to Germany!'"

Business Students Make Movie; Journal, Shepard, Aid Direction

By John J. Hurley

A movie made by Providence College senior business students will be released tomorrow morning at 8:30, in Room A-100 of Albertus Magnus Hall. This unique project, entitled "The Daily Salesman," has been co-sponsored by Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., president of the College, and also by the Providence Journal.

This "flick" is something quite new to the field of education. The film, which took over two months to prepare, film and edit, has been the work of PC students exclusively.

Scenes for the movie were filmed mostly at the Providence Journal building, and the Shepard store in downtown Providence. Telling the story of an advertisement, it follows along from the conception of an advertising idea at a store to the final as it appears in a newspaper.

CHOICE QUALITY

If he did, the odds are he'll be hotfooting it right back for America's most popular cigarette. Nothing else gives you the rich tobacco flavor and easygoing mildness of Camel's costly blend. It stands to reason: the best tobacco makes the best smoke.

Instead of fads and fancy stuff . . .

Have a real cigarette—have a CAMEL

VIVE LE POPCORN!

The other day as I was walking down the street picking up tinfol, (Marlboro, incidentally, has the best tinfol, which is not surprising when you consider that they have the best cigarettes, which is not surprising when you consider that they take the best filters and put them together with the best tobaccos and rush them to your tobacco counter, fresh and firm and loaded with smoking pleasure). The other day, I say, as I was walking down the street picking up tinfol in our family. My brother Eleanor's is bigger—more than four miles in diameter—but, of course, he is taller than D. The other day, as I was saying, while walking down the street picking up tinfol, I passed a campus and right beside it, a movie theatre which specialized in showing foreign films. Most campuses have foreign movie theatres close by, because foreign movies are full of culture, art, and esoterica, and where is culture more rare, art more rampant, and esoterica more endemic than on a campus?

Nowhere; that's where.

I hope you have all been taking advantage of your local foreign film theatre. Here you will find no simple-minded Hollywood products, marked by treasely sentimentality and machine-made bravura. Here you will find life itself—in all its grimness, its poverty, its naked, raw passion!

Have you, for instance, seen the recent French import, Le Croyon de Mon Oncle ("The Kneecap"), a savage and uncompromising story of a man named Claude, whose consuming ambition is to get a job as a meter reader with the Paris water department? But he is unable, alas, to enter the flashlight one needs for this position. His wife, Bon-Bon, sells her hair to a wigmaker and buys him a flashlight. Then, alas, Claude discovers that one also requires a leatherette bow tie. This time his two young daughters, Caramel and Nougat, sell their hair to a wigmaker. So now Claude has his leatherette bow tie, but now, alas, his flashlight battery is burned out and the whole family, alas, is bald.

Or have you seen the latest Italian masterpiece, La Donna B Mobile (I Ache All Over), a heart-shattering tale of a boy and his dog? Malvolio, a Venetian lad of nine, loves his little dog with every fibre of his being. He has one great dream: to enter the dog in the annual Venetian dog show. But this, alas, requires an entrance fee, and Malvolio, alas, is penniless. However, he saves and scrimps and steals and finally gets enough together to enter the dog in the show. The dog, alas, comes in twenty-third. Malvolio sells him to a vivisectionist.

Or have you seen the new Japanese triumph, Kibutzi-San (The Radish), a pulse-stirring historical romance about Yamoto, a poor farmer, and his daughter Ethel who are accosted by a warlord one morning on their way to market? The warlord cuts Yamoto in half with his samurai sword and runs off with Ethel. When Yamoto recovers, he seeks out Ethel's fiancé, Red Buttons, and together they find the warlord and kill him. But, alas, the warlord was also a sorcerer and he whimsically turned Ethel into a whooping crane. Loyd Red Buttons takes Ethel home where he feeds her fish heads for twenty years and keeps hoping she'll turn back into a woman. She never does. Alas.

High School Debaters Throng Harkins; PC Debate Tournament Is Great Success

TROPHY WINNER. As moderator Rev. John D. Skalko, O.P., looks on, awards are displayed to chairman Jim Geary of the Debate Tournament, and R. I. Commissioner Lane.

Twenty-four schools from Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Connecticut, and New Hampshire participated in the Second Annual South-eastern New England Secondary School Debate Tournament held in Harkins Hall, Saturday, April 18.

The Laordaire Debating Society with Rev. John D. Skalko, O.P., moderator, hosted the debaters who discussed the topic: Resolved, That the United States should adopt the essential features of the British system of education.

Awards Presented

Gold cups were awarded to the affirmative team, Holy Family High School of New Bedford, Mass., and to the top negative team, the Academy of the Sacred Heart from Fall River, Mass. Each of the four members of the winning teams was presented with silver medals to commemorate his achievement.

Individual honors were taken by Leon Morse of Winnacunnet High School, Hampton, New Hampshire, as top affirmative speaker and by Ann Levesque of Dominican Academy, Fall River, as top negative speaker. Both received a gold medal for their winning efforts.

Chairman James M. Geary called the assembly to order at 8:45. Following the welcoming address by the V.P. Rev. Vincent C. Dore, O.P., Academic vice-president of the College, pairings for the debaters were announced and the contestants began the first of three rounds of competitive debating.

Nine Colleges Participate
Students from nine colleges in Rhode Island, Massachusetts, and Connecticut served as judges. In addition to their familiar function as guides, the Priars Club also acted as chairman and timekeepers.

Upon the completion of two rounds of debating, contestants and their coaches, along with the supervisory staff, adjourned and proceeded to the cafeteria, where they enjoyed a lunch as guests of the College. After lunch the final round was completed and the judges selected the leading teams and speakers. Mr. Michael F. Walsh, Commissioner of Education in Rhode Island, gave an address and handed out the awards to the winning contestants.

FROSH WEEKEND SET

General plans have been completed for this year's Freshman Weekend, according to committee chairman Jim McLain. The dates are May 1, 2, and 3.

Class Gift To College

Ballots will be distributed shortly in senior theology classes to determine the Class of '59's choice for a class gift, the Class Gift Committee announced yesterday.

At a meeting in March, the Committee met and organized, with Michael J. Charles of New York City being chosen chairman and Leonard F. Cingham of Providence, secretary. Other members of the Committee are Ralph S. Daniels and Ignazio E. Salone, both of Providence, James E. Riordan of New London, Conn., and Patrick J. Flood of Zanesville, Ohio.

Representatives of several insurance and investment funds have appeared before the committee and discussed features of their plans. In addition, the Committee has considered suggestions offered by class members and by faculty members. Several suggested class gifts will be submitted for the class' approval in the poll.

The insurance and investment fund plans will be on the poll.

Although they differ greatly, basically these involve investing a certain amount of money in either an insurance policy or an investment fund, with the dividends as they accumulate going to the College. All of these plans work in a different manner; some require pledging of money for a number of years, while others involve the investment of money for one year.

Another gift to be suggested is an archway over the main College entrance at River Avenue and Eaton Street. This was voted for by the class of 1958 but was not obtained. At the same time, a statue to be placed either in a new library or a new chapel, or a similarly appropriate place on campus, has been suggested.

Several suggestions were received urging the purchase of books for the library. Rev. Ernest Hogan, O.P., Librarian, pointed out to the Committee that the library has sufficient funds for the purchase of books, and if anyone has suggestions for needed books, he would be glad to receive them and obtain the books.

race, a closely contested race between incumbent Gene McCarthy (Dominicane) and Len Wilkens, (Veritas Union) was carried by Wilkens with fourteen vote margin.

Wilkens observed, "This is certainly a tremendous honor for me, and I will try to be worthy of the trust placed in me."

Phil Caliendo won his second term as secretary for the class of '61, defeating Ken Quirk by a majority of 279 to 156 votes in what had been predicted to be a close race. Caliendo pledged his co-operation and promised to make the junior year a really successful one.

Savage Re-elected
The juniors' race for secretary resulted in Walt Savage's retaining his post against opponents Jim Cooney and Pat Marsella.

Two of the 1961 seats in the Student Congress were taken by incumbents, Dave Duffy and Bob Oppel. The other positions were taken by John Hurley and Jim Carroll.

The 1960 Congress positions were battled for by nine candidates. Joe Lyons, Jack Sears, Dennis Lovely, Bob Leibowitz, Joe Cianciolo, and Don Bucklin were declared the winners.

Dale Faulkner, running unopposed, was declared class agent of the class of '60.

Both classes had voting percentages of 91%, with the sophomores establishing a class record.

Frosh Proposal . . .

An officer of the class of 1962 has proposed that freshman class elections be held after the other classes ballot for their officers. We wholeheartedly support this idea and recommend that the Student Congress set plans in motion to effect the change.

The fiasco of frosh elections this year dramatizes that the present set-up is hardly adequate. Although the freshman class can hold successful elections under the present system, the situation is hardly ideal. Many pitfalls could be easily avoided simply by changing the date of the frosh elections to a few weeks later.

Freshmen, even after almost a year, are still neophytes in the college arena; they learn by observing the proceedings of the other classes. If other classes were to hold elections previous to the frosh campaign, the yearlings could observe the procedure and customs of the College regarding nominations, campaigns, posters, and so on. Now they receive this information second hand or not at all. But how could one remain unaware of elections when he has to dodge posters in order to get to class?

We see this proposal as quite significant. First of all, it came from a freshman; secondly, it seems a frontal answer to at least some of the problems which plague college freshmen in their efforts to adjust.

Visit the Sick . . .

This week's COWL contains an article explaining the work of the Cine-Friars, a branch of the Camera Club. The Cine-Friars each give one night a month to provide movie entertainment for the physically handicapped. They have been doing this all year.

Perhaps the most remarkable aspect of the Cine-Friars is the quiet, unassuming way in which they tackle their job. They exemplify the Christian attitude; indeed, their sole purpose is the fulfillment of one of the corporal works of mercy. Their actions are a credit to their own industry and to the college in general.

The Cine-Friars have thus far resisted all temptation to establish themselves as a separate club. We salute their prudence in this matter, for they have avoided the rituals of a constitution, officers, meetings, etc., which bog down so many organizations. The sponsorship of the Camera Club seems more than sufficient for any organizational problems which the Cine-Friars might encounter.

It is generally recognized that the motive force of the Cine-Friars resides in Leonard Parla, '59. We congratulate Lenny and his associates and feel sure that their fine work will continue to grow in scope as well as fervor.

Unless a Catholic College differs from a non-sectarian school in its Catholicity, it loses justification for existence. The Cine-Friars typify that distinction.

Proof of the Pudding . . .

The Class of 1962 has recently been cited in various circles for alleged shortcomings regarding elections and other endeavors. We feel that some of this criticism is deserved, and is already proving fruitful. A slight "rocking the boat" seems to have brought out a good deal of the spirit and enthusiasm among the members of the freshman class.

We feel that the freshmen can and will vindicate themselves in the presentation of the forthcoming Freshman Weekend. The class has already made plans for the event, which includes several excellent new ideas. Among the innovations is a Friday night dance highlighted by an unusual decoration scheme of forty-foot Oriental murals. The frosh are also planning that Sunday Mass be held in the grotto, which we consider an excellent idea.

We are confident that our friends in the freshman class can establish that class among the finest. The students seem to be supporting their weekend in high style and, more important, seem determined to prove their critics dead wrong. We have been numbered among those critics; we will be more than happy to acknowledge the anticipated progress of the class.

WHAT'S PLAYING?

A-100 (Carolan Club): "White Feathers." This colorful Western epic stars Rory Calhoun and Colleen Gray. It ends up with Rory, as usual, cementing relations between the Indians and cruel whites. This is highly recommended for "Zorro" enthusiasts.

Albee: "The Shaggy Dog." Walt Disney's newest continues to attract hot-rodgers and teenagers of all ages. A good feature is "The Missouri Traveler."

Art: "Adventures of Tom Sawyer." In this David O. Selznick Twainian contribution to the educational field, the kiddies with the week off are finding a welcome piece of entertainment. Also playing for those who like to reminisce, "Gulliver's Travels."

Avon: "Ditto."

Loew's: "Some Like It Hot." Jack Lemmon steals the show although Marilyn does attract a bit of attention.

Majestic: "Rio Bravo." When you get a master producer (Howard Hawks), a master Westerner (John Wayne), a master sordough (Walter Brennan) and a master fall guy (Dean Martin), then a boxoffice success is a certainty. However, when rockster Ricky Nelson is added to the cast, even if for a relatively minor role, there can be no doubt of the picture's popularity.

Ricky: "Colorado" does some rather formidable shooting and strutting in a unique and enjoyable manner. Dean Martin's performance as an alcoholic is masterful; he is becoming quite used to this type. The real comedy of the movie comes from the pseudo-senile behavior of "McCoy" Brennan. Then, of course, Angie Dickinson brings out the best in Wayne, as she would in anybody. Strangely enough, here is another unique Western.

Strand: "Gidget." Sandra Dee, favorite of the "beach generation" stands out with the Four Preps. Also playing, Randolph Scott in "Ride Lonesome."

THE LIGHT HOUSE

Turning The Tables

By TOM O'HERRON

Several weeks ago this column dealt with a shameful abuse of rights in the South. The case of Jimmy Wilson was discussed, and this writer felt that Wilson's race was a major factor in his conviction and sentence of life imprisonment for a theft of $182.

The Wilson case was an instance of racial injustice, in that a man was exploited on account of his color. The last few weeks, however, have produced developments which tend to show that racial bigotry and misunderstanding are hardly nonexistent.

I am referring to the case of "Pumpie" Green, an infielder whom the Boston Red Sox recently sent to their Minneapolis farm team. Green is a Negro. He is also a second-rate ballplayer, as far as one can tell from past performances. Last year with the Millers, Green was hardly a Lou Gehrig at the plate; he hit .253. Neither did Pumpie present a serious challenge to Con Edson in the power department; he hit six home runs and drove forty-three times across.

Now any Red Sox fan will testify that the Hub club can hardly support any more 253 infielders, since they are traditionally well stocked in that department, and often come up with a man who, after several seasons, will reach .260. Green started spring training very well, hitting above .300 and sparkling in the field. But when his stickwork tapered off near the end of the training period, it was only natural that the parent club, which officially entertains hopes of winning a flag, sent him to the minor leagues.

Now it is entirely probable that the officials of the NAACP do not study statistics regarding minor league ballplayers, and this is most unfortunate. The NAACP, along with several other groups in the Boston area, claim that Green was sent back because of his race. This is highly reminiscent of the notes filed against the New York Yankees when slugger Vic Power, potentially the first colored Yankee, was traded to Kansas City, in exchange for half of the KC team. Several organizations of do-gooders said that Power was traded on account of his color; the fact that the Yankees received several star ballplayers in exchange for him was deemed insignificant in the eyes of the complainers, who admittedly were not baseball fans.

The Red Sox have denied emphatically that there is any race barrier in Boston, and say that Green was sent back for more seasoning. Green himself has made no comment. But the NAACP and its friends are not quite so silent. The American Veterans Committee told the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination that it was upset over the stories of Green's transfer. Witness the logic: "... (we are) loath to lay charges against the Boston Red Sox management, but it has aroused suspicion in our minds. While the cutting of Green makes sense, we are disturbed by the publicity on the matter."

The AVC is protesting to the Red Sox because of bad publicity, as if the Sox had anything to do with the publicity. They also admit that the "cutting of Green makes sense." Then why all the commotion?

It seems to me that the NAACP and the AVC are putting themselves in a poor light in supporting a groundless stand. It is often stated that these organizations are sensational, irresponsible, and prey to communist machinery for causing dissension. Therefore it would seem prudent that these groups act in a most conservative manner if they want to be at all effective in the fight for racial justice. The Green case is hardly indicative of such an attitude.

The arrival of Spring in the Hub has brought pickets to Fenway Park. The pickets, mostly young men, carry placards saying, "We Want a Pennant, Not a White Team." I doubt that it seems that they want first of all an integrated group, and then a ball team. I hardly feel that Green would bring Boston a pennant. And I'm sure that Green wants to make the team on account of his ability, and not his color.

LETTERS . . .

Dear Editor:

Although the editorial concerning frosh elections, printed in last week's Cowl was justified, I feel that certain circumstances must be considered to complete the picture.

The freshmen, like everyone else, returned from an extended vacation, and while still reliving the glories of the NIT, plunged into a week of exams. This especially affected the frosh, to whom college life is still quite new.

We were also handicapped by the fact that the election bulletin, which was posted on the day we returned from vacation, was not read by many, which is so often the case with bulletins.

To avoid a similar occurrence in future years, I suggest that frosh elections be held after the other class elections. In this way, the enthusiasm of the upperclassmen would orbit the competitive spirit of the frosh.

The Class of '62 has tremendous potential and spirit as demonstrated by our NIT attendance and in the Marlboro contest, and as we will demonstrate Freshmen Weekend.

Respectfully yours,
Matt Barry, '62

TO THE CLASS OF '60 FELLOW CLASSMATES:

I want to congratulate my opponent Len Wilkens, and the other victors Tom Grady, Phil Reilly and Walt Savage for their victory in the recent elections.

Also I would like to thank the members of the class for the privilege of being your class treasurer for the past three years.

I know Tom, Phil, Lenny and Walt will do a fine job and I wish them every success.

Gene McCarthy

TO THE CLASS OF 1960 FELLOW CLASSMATES:

I wish to sincerely thank all the members of the class of 1960 who voted and elected me into the office of Student Congress Representative. It is with great humility that I accept this honor and with great pride that I represent the "politically alive" class of '60. I will serve the entire student body of Providence College to the best of my ability.

MOVIE MAKERS . . .

 running for twenty-five minutes, is truly a pioneer and precedent-setting accomplishment. On advertising, it covers a very important aspect of today's business world."

The idea of movie making by students who cannot find a visual training aid may indeed catch on and establish a precedent. Various educators have often maintained that a film on a particular subject can save thousands of words.

This "epic" movie was produced and directed by Robert Tremble. The story was co-written by Paul Tougas and Robert Tremble, with technical assistance from the Providence Journal Co., and the Shepard Company; Paul Tougas is the narrator. The whole project is under the moderation of Mr. Louis C. Fitzgerald, senior advertising instructor of the business administration department. Al Tavares, a fellow student, handled the lighting.

"Tub-thumper" Sykes said that director and producer Tremble has been very active on campus with the Camera Club and the Ship and Scales Club. He is vice-president of Valley Sound, a distributor of sound and movie equipment from Springfield, Mass. Hence, he has a good background in this Hollywood field.

Paul Tougas is a veteran. Paul merits dual credit, as he not only narrates the film, but his wife also serves as a participating actress.

Fellow seniors Jim Toomey and Bill Thibodeau were members of the planning committee.

 by the Administration and the heads of the science departments, this program should prove to be of interest to both science majors and students in general, who are interested in the latest developments in the natural sciences.

At the start of his discussion, Dr. Caldwell showed how the scientists' attempts to formulate the laws which govern the behavior of elementary particles are very similar to the attempts of a person to learn the rules of a game, such as baseball, by observing a number of games and noting the things that recur.

One of the main difficulties in such research is the fact that the particles under consideration are extremely small in size. For example, if an electron, one of the principal particles of the atom, were as heavy as a ping pong ball, a ping pong ball would be as heavy as the earth.

In another talk earlier in the day, the prominent physicist described the development of machines such as cyclotrons and betatrons which are used formance was outstanding and I was most proud of the group."

Following the Scranton Festival, the Friar Larks went on to Immaculata, Pa., for a joint concert with the Immaculata College Glee Club, consisting of 120 voices. This, too, was an outstanding success and it was the general feeling of the club's officers that it will be repeated next year. After a night's layover in New York City, the Glee Club returned to Providence last Wednesday morning.

Remaining on the club's calendar for this season are joint concerts with St. Francis Hospital School of Nursing of Hartford on April 29, and with Bridgewater State Teachers College on May 2. The club's activities will end with its annual banquet, details of which will be announced at a later date.

CARROLL'S COMMENTS

By JIM CARROLL

Providence has certainly been the home of champions this year. In the fall, the barriers of Coach Harry Coates won the Rhode Island State Championship and finished third in New England.

This past winter, the exploits of the Black and White's basketball team were heralded throughout the nation as well as creating untold stir here in Little Rhody. Today, a salute is due to another team of champions, the Shamrocks of the Intramural League sponsored by the Carolan Club.

Captained by Jim McLean, the Shamrocks emerged victorious for the second consecutive year by decisively whipping the Metropolitan Club in two straight outings. The depth-laden Dormies simply had too many guns for the talent this New Yorker.

John McBennett was the big gun in the first encounter. An unexpected scoring spurt by the diminutive guard iced the game and sent the defending Champs off to a one game lead. Capable performances were also turned in by Bruce Dunn, Alex Lachiatto, Jack Bagshaw and McLean.

The following evening, Tommy Glennon spearheaded the winners' attack, putting on an effective shooting exhibition and snaring numerous important rebounds. The successful season and tourney served as a tribute to club president Bill Clifford.

As the season progresses, it has become evident that Coach Bob Murray believes that stringing along with his rookie sophomores will be more beneficial to the team than relying on the old guard, the more experienced veterans on the squad.

This attitude has provoked some rather bitter feelings on the team on the part of the bench-riding veterans. However, it seems that the talented sophs have begun to blossom under Murray's careful handling. This would appear to strengthen the varsity mentor's position.

It also should be pointed out that when given the opportunity to show their wares, the rebuked upperclassmen failed to particularly impress onlookers by their supposedly superior diamond ability. At least the sophs have shown a refreshing brand of hustling, scrapping baseball.

While on the subject, it certainly is discouraging to witness the large number of called strikes that have been slipped past the three hitting Friars. Opposing pitchers must sometimes wonder what causes the PC batsmen to suffer these prolonged "watching" spells.

Time and again hitters who can least afford it have fallen behind by taking one, two and, on occasion, even three strikes. In the Brown game of two weeks ago, two timely rallies were choked off as a result of this glaring error.

Crusaders Defeat PC On Jim Farino's 1-Hitter

Holy Cross College downed Providence Saturday afternoon 3-0 on the strength of Jim Farino's one-hitter.

The Friars' shortstop, Don Mezzanotte, garnered the only hit off Farino as the ace right hander walked three and fanned eight while shutting the Friars out.

Bob Plante was credited with the loss, though he gave up only six hits, two of the game the bizarre type, and walked five while striking out eight.

Cross Scores First

The Cross opened the scoring in the third frame when Jerry Nelson's shot caromed off first baseman Jim Riordan's chest and continued into foul territory. Nelson ending up with a double. He scored moments later when Ron Gowozd singled.

By the fourth the Crusaders threatened to blow and the game went open when a single and two walks loaded the bases with one away. However Plante evened the score with Nelson by fanning him and got Gowozd on a fly to Denny Guimaraes.

Plante Strong

For the next three innings, Crusaders hitters were helpless as Plante set them down in order. But with one down in the eighth Lew Panella broke the string with a single to right. Paul Joly then misjudged Johnny Allen's long fly to left and Allen wound up with a triple, Panella scoring. Allen scampered in with the third run on Bob O'Brian's fly to left.

Farino was in trouble only twice in the tilt. In the second with one out, Red Riordan walked and Joly reached on an error. Pete Muro was then hit by a pitch and the sacks were jammed. Here Farino bore down and struck out Bob Souza and Plante to end the inning.

In the seventh, the Murrays had runners on first and third with two out when Farino again fanned Plante.

Except for Mezzanotte's double in the third, Farino handcuffed the Friars. They left stranded all six men that reached.

Bridgeport Wins

On Friday, Bridgeport University downed Providence College 12 to 11 on a tenth inning, two out, bases loaded single by Dick DiMuro.

Bridgeport grabbed an early lead by tallying once in the first, five times in the third and once more in the fourth. The Friars drove five across in the fifth after garnering two in the fourth to tie it up. After Bridgeport went ahead 10 to 7, a four run rally gave Providence its first lead. Bridgeport tied it in the ninth and in the tenth two walks and a single set the stage for DiMuro's timely blow.

Fairbanks Loser

Win Fairbanks, the fifth Friar chucker was charged with the defeat. Soph Joe Cafarella kept up his spectacular hitting with three doubles while Jim Healy gathered two singles and a triple and two BB's. Don Mezzanotte and Red Riordan each had two hits. Bobby Giampola had four for four for Bridgeport while DiMuro had three hits, two singles and a double. All told, there were thirty safeties in the tilt.

Tracksters Fare Well In Patriots' Day Race

Providence College tracksters fared well in the annual Patriot's Day Association 3-Mile Road Race held last Monday, April 20. While capturing third, fourth and eighth places, the runners also were second in the running for the team trophy. The trophy was ultimately won by the Worcester AC.

Scoring first for PC and third in the race was Robert Bam-burger, a sophomore from Portsmouth, New Hampshire. Right behind Bob was Charlie Goetz, speedster from the Brooklyn area. Then in eighth place was Pat Stewart of Albany, New York. All three runners are on the track team, and also ran cross-country.

Other finishers for Providence included Harry Geder-man, Bill Horridge, Bob Ruggieri, Denny Carey and Mario Mazarrella. This was the first major race for Mazarrella, a freshman runner.

The winner of the race was Joe Abelson, of the New England AC. Second, was John Hurley, a Boston College runner. According to reports, the inclement weather hurt both the times and efforts of the contestants. Nevertheless a 15:51.1 time for this three mile race was turned in by the eventual winner.

In the major race of the day, a Finnish runner, Ennio Oka-sean, grabbed the laurels, although he was also hindered by the weather drawback. Second in the race was Boston University's and now Connecticut's Johnny Kelley the younger.

This road race is only one of the many running events held in and around metropolitan Boston. The race itself was run in the Roxbury section of the area. The most famous one, the twenty-six mile marathon, runs from Hopkinton to Kenmore Square, but is mainly run by well-experienced and much older racers.

Ordinarily these races are run on the 19th, but since this date fell on Sunday this year, it was moved up to the following day. The races are only a part of the celebration held on this day annually, in commemoration of the Battles of Lexington and Concord, the "midnight ride" of Paul Revere, and the outbreak of the Revolutionary War.

Frosh Diamond Men Edge Nichols Behind 3-Hit Pitching Of Hodgkins

Coach Vin Cuddy's freshman baseball nine won the opening game of their 15 game slate, downing Nichols Junior College by a score of 3-1 behind the three-hit pitching of Jim Hodgkins, former standout from La Salle Academy.

REWARD: Captain Jim Flanagan and other PC riflemen admire trophy won in late season encounter by Friar rifle team.

Season Closes For Providence Range Experts

Master Sergeant Ronald Orchard announced the completion of the Providence College Rifle team season by releasing plans for a team outfit to be held in the near future.

This year marked the most successful season in Providence rifling history and was marked by several outstanding team and individual performance. M/SGT Orchard voiced his pride in being associated with this year's nimrods and cast anxious eyes on next year's prospects.

Orchard expressed particular pleasure with the captain of the PC marksmen, senior Jim Flanagan. "His outstanding leadership and steady influence on the remainder of the team proved to be invaluable in the compiling of our excellent record.

"No more could be asked of a captain than that contributed by Jim. We'll miss him sorely next year; the fellows on the team will have quite a job filling his shoes when they elect next year's captain," said Orchard when pressed for a statement.

While speaking of Flanagan, Orchard released the information that next year's leader will be elected at a special meeting to be held next week and will be announced exclusively in the COWL on April 26.

Guglielmo Heads Murraymen In Addition To Mound Chores

This year's baseball captain has been aptly described as a "little guy with a lot of talent." But as a leader of his team 5' 7" Joe Guglielmo ranks among the giants in the true sense of the term.

A native of West Haven, Connecticut, Joe pitched for West Haven High and one year at Cheshire Academy. While at West Haven he compiled a 27-3 won-loss record and this, coupled with his 9-1 prep season, saw him enter college with a spectacular 36-4 record.

Defeats Cross

Here at Providence he has compiled a 5-5 showing with his best effort a 2-0 victory over Holy Cross. In that game he struck out fourteen Crusaders. "That was my greatest thrill in college," he remarked. As to no-hit games, Guglielmo has chucked four, one in high school and three in the fast West Haven Twilight League.

The amicable right-hander admitted that "I like hot weather to pitch in. This year a combination of too many curves and the cold weather limiting us to three days of practice made my elbow swell. I hope I'll be able to throw right for Boston College Wednesday."

Despite the disappointing year the Friars have had thus far, Guglielmo has captained them in keeping with his valor and team spirit. The "Goo" can be properly classified as "a little guy with a lot of talent," a world of determination and a strong right arm.

While we are mentioning hitters Joe had a few words of praise for Joe Cafarella, the leading Friar hitter with a 470 average. "He's a natural, just great, and what makes him even Both hurlers turned in creditable performances on the mound. Hodgkins allowed but one double and a pair of singles, while walking two and striking out 11.

Smith allowed the Friar frosh eight safeties, all singles, and he also yielded a pair of free passes. He fanned six hitters while going the route for the losers.

Both clubs looked good on the field as the game failed to produce an error, and the Black and White came up with a double play.

Freshman Nick Mezzanotte got off to a good start in his attempt to follow in the tracks of his varsity brother, Don. The younger brother collected two hits in four trips and also registered a stolen base in his college baseball debut.

Coach Vin Cuddy called Hodgkins the ace of his staff and an outstanding varsity prospect while praising his performance in the season's lid-liter.

Racketmen Lose In First Encounters

The PC Tennis Team inaugurated its initial season last Tuesday, bowing to Rhode Island University, 6-3. George Devereaux and Leo Connerion captured their singles matches, then teamed together to take their doubles encounter for the Friars.

On Thursday, the Netmen succumbed to Brown University, 9-0. Brown fielded a team that ranks as one of the major powers in the East. Here again, Connerion and Devereaux played strong games, only to lose in close battles.

Gym Closed

Providence College Athletic officials announced this week that the Alumni Hall gymnasium facilities will be closed to students as of this weekend and for the remaining weeks of the scholastic year.

The announcement also specified that beginning next Monday, April 27, the gymnasium will also be closed weekday evenings. This ruling will also be in effect for the remainder of the year.

CAPTAIN JOE GUGLIELMO

better is that he loves the game. He could definitely go places."

And speaking of going places, Joe himself has had over a half dozen offers. When asked about the possibility of signing a contract after graduation he responded, "I'd love to sign. I only hope that I get a chance. Being 5' 7" has its disadvantages, especially when pitching. But I'd like to prove to them that I can make it."

Young Club

As far as this year is concerned he commented: "we just can't get started. We have a good club and it's young. Seven of the nine starters the other day were sophomores. I hope we get going soon."

And as regards Bob Murray, the coach, Joe explained: "I think he's a very good coach. One thing about him, he's a great guy and he'll always stick by his team. Mr. Murray always thinks of his boys first, and he knows more baseball than many people realize."
