Gershwin's Musical Staged By Players

Miss Elaine Cairo, Rhode Island College of Education sophomore, and Bob Auluhoc, '61, will head the cast for George Gershwin's "Girl Crazy." This musical comedy, the Pyramid Players' Spring production, will be staged at RISD auditorium on Friday and Saturday nights, May 8-9. Tickets are free for Providence College students and they may be obtained at the Bookstore in return for activity book slip number 15. Other tickets are priced at $1 and $2.

If a student purchases a $1 ticket for someone, he can be given a $2 ticket rather than the $1 ducat he would normally receive for his activity book slip. Tickets may also be purchased at the Avery Piano Co., 250 Weybosset St., in Providence.

"Girl Crazy" was first presented on Broadway by George Gershwin's Musical Theatre Company in 1930. Among the members of the original cast were Ginger Rogers, Eileen Herlie, and Allen Kearns.

The story centers around a New York playboy's involvement with a Western beauty (Miss Cairo). The playboy, Danny Churchill (Auluhoc), has been sent out West by his rich father, who is attempting to reform the wayward son.

Young Churchill, however, transports his New York coterie to San Francisco, where he meets Miss Cairo. He falls in love with her and returns to New York with her. When he finds his father has married her, he realizes that she is the daughter of a gold prospector.

The day's activities will begin at 8:30, when all seniors will form in Room 107, Harkins Hall. "All seniors are encouraged to invite their parents," commented class president Ed Kearns.

"Veritas Photos For Class Of '60 Scheduled For May By New Editor"

David Carlin, newly chosen editor of the 1960 Veritas, has announced that senior pictures for the yearbook will be taken from Wednesday, May 6, to Monday, May 11.

Following the ceremonies in Harkins Hall, the seniors will proceed to Hendricks Field, where the formal class picture will be taken.

The proofs will be made by Photoreflect Studios of the Shepard Store and will cost $2.00. Carlin emphasized that the sitting fee will not have to be paid when the pictures are taken, but when the proofs are returned.

Sittings for the pictures will be in the parlors of Harkins Hall between 8:30 and 12:30 and between 1:30 and 6:00 and will be scheduled at ten minute intervals.

Four proofs will be returned to the seniors. Payment must be made at this time. From these, each member of the class of '60 will select his yearbook picture.

Protestant Student Loan Program

A group of students attending Providence College called yesterday afternoon to discuss the Protestant Student Loan Program, which has been established to aid students in meeting the church's work in the field of education. The group is composed of representatives from the Providence College Student Council, the Student Senate, and the Office of Student Life.

The purpose of the program is to provide financial assistance to students who are members of the Protestant faith and who are enrolled in accredited Protestant colleges and universities. The maximum loan amount is $1,000 per year, and the interest rate is 5%.

The loan application process is straightforward. Students interested in applying for a loan should contact the Protestant Student Loan Program office on campus, where they will be provided with loan application forms and other information. Completed loan applications should be returned to the office within 30 days of receipt.

The Protestant Student Loan Program is administered by a group of volunteers who are dedicated to supporting students in their educational pursuits. The program is open to all students who meet the eligibility requirements, and there are no application fees.

The program is supported by a variety of sources, including churches, foundations, and individual donors. The funds are used to provide loans to students who otherwise might not be able to afford college.

New Jersey or similar states.

The program is designed to be flexible, allowing students to receive loans that are tailored to their individual needs. The loans are intended to be a supplement to other financial aid, not a replacement for it.

The Protestant Student Loan Program is committed to providing students with the opportunity to pursue their educational goals in a supportive and encouraging environment. The program is committed to ensuring that all students have access to the resources they need to succeed.

The Protestant Student Loan Program is a valuable resource for students who are interested in furthering their education and who may be facing financial challenges. The program is dedicated to helping students achieve their academic goals and to making college more accessible to all students.

And that in itself is employing discrep­­ency.

Well, it's pretty obvious that such in-the-knows as Tom Grady and Charlie McCree won't make outright committals. And that in itself is employing discrep­­ency.

So you're on your own.

Now what can you offer the school voter?

Do you have College government experience? Not too much, huh?

Do you carry strength by virtue of activity in the dorms? Oh, you don't live on the Hill.

Were you ever elected to an office from your high school, which has a large representation here? You're the only one here from your secondary school.

Are you active in campus doings? You have to work nights and all day Saturdays.

Did you make it to the Junior Prom?

Your girl had the measles, huh?

Do you have experience as a vet?

"No, I'm only nineteen."

Do you run with an organization that fared well in last week's class contest? "Who run?"

Well, let's nail something. How popular are ya? "I think the guys I know think I'm alright and could do the job."

You mean you're popular. "Yeah, you could put it that way."

Hey, you're in.

MEMO FROM THE EDITOR:

So you're running for president?

That's Student Congress president. And you're looking for a way to sell yourself. Who isn't? . . .

In the elections that the campus has had in its history, people had to be elected president of the Aquinas Society.

There will be a meeting of the Aquinas Society this evening at 7:30 p.m. in Aquinas Lounge. At this meeting, the guest speaker will be Dr. Paul Van K. Thomson of the English department. The topic of the discussion will be William Shakespeare's tragedy, Hamlet.

Dr. Thomson, who is the author of Why I Am A Catholic, received his doctorate from Brown University. He is well acquainted with English literature, especially about this period.

"Due to the importance of this topic and the discussion leader, I would advise all those interested to get in early. Naturally all those interested are invited to attend, whether or not they are members of the Society," stated moderator Rev. John P. Reid, O.P.

FATHER LENNON PROGRAM

The Evening Bulletin television writer devoted a great deal of last Friday's column to a discussion of the recent television series of Rev. Joseph L. Lennon, O.P.

Fr. Lennon's series appeared on WABR Channel 10's weekly program, "The World Around Us." Hundreds of letters have already been received by the Dean of Studies in response to his two-week series of lectures on the topic "Psychology and Personality."

Preached at this response to a local educational program, Fr. Lennon declared that if this amount of people were made to think even the slightest degree as a result of these lectures, Bob he feels "they have been worthwhile."

THE MANY LOVES OF THORWALD DOKSTADER

When Thorwald Dockstader—sophomore, epicure, and sportsman—first laid eyes upon her, he did not simply choose the first brand of cigarettes that came to hand. He did what any sophomore, epicure, and sportsman would do: he sampled several brands and then picked the mildest, tastiest, pleasingest of all—Philip Morris, of course.

Similarly, when Thorwald took up girls, he did not simply select the first one who came along. He sampled. First he took out an English literature major named Elizabeth Griswold, a bright girl with a ready smile and a size 18 neck. She took Thorwald down to the cinder track where they jogged around 50 times to open the pores. Then they went ten rounds with eight.*, and exchanged a manly handshake and went home to their respective whirlpool baths.

While waiting, Thorwald thought over all of his girls and said that “everything went off surprisingly well and said that “everything went off surprisingly well and...”

Father Lennon's recently completed TV series on Psychology has received hundreds of well-deserved plaudits. To these we add our own congratulations and the confidence of a successful effort in a new medium of education.

Both his topic and his means of presentation were excellent. The importance of a good understanding of psychology cannot be over-stressed, and Fr. Lennon covered the extensive field admirably considering his time limits.

The most surprising and rewarding aspect of the TV presentations, however, was the remarkable reaction on the part of the public. Fr. Lennon has received hundreds of letters signed by everybody on the series. The television channel has received hundreds more. This response, according to the Evening Bulletin, is far greater than expected for a local presentation. Moreover, the response is unique in that it is almost always favorable.

We salute Fr. Lennon and WJAR for their work in choosing TV as a medium. Fr. Lennon's work, aside from its in valuable service to the community, cannot but add to the prestige of Providence College.

The most valuable asset of their work and we hope that the College will continue its work in behalf of the community.

Class Gift . . .

It is not the responsibility of the COWL to select the Senior Class Gift. We cannot, however, pass up an opportunity to comment on the selection made by the gift committee.

In our eyes, the WORST suggestion of all was the proposal to build an arch over the main entrance to the College. This entrance is quite impressive as it stands, and adding an arch would hardly enhance its beauty. Even if it would help make the campus a little more attractive, we feel that the sum would be more properly invested if it were spent on something educational.

With this in mind, it is only natural that we thought the Small 1960 St. Thomas Hall student was the most acceptable. Language laboratories have been tested, and proven an effective aid in the acquisition of a new tongue. With the addition of Russian to the curriculum, and not to choose to live in Stephen. If the Administration wants to keep the freshmen together, which we feel is a good idea, the yearlings could be put into Aquinas Hall, with room to spare. Next year's sophomores, of course, could be left in St. Joseph's, where they now reside as freshmen.

The principle that the upperclassmen should have the preferred accommodations seems quite valid to us. Moreover, there are several disadvantages of any motion to move them from Stephen. If the language laboratory most desirable, next year, a lack of a laboratory here will be felt 12 months hence.

It's done done. Maybe the linguists will have better luck next time.

Fair Housing . . .

A recent petition passed among the students in Stephen Hall now in the hands of the Sophomore resident. The petition asked that those sophomores who are now living in Stephen Hall be allowed to remain there next year.

We see no reason not to grant the request of the students involved. Raymond Hall will be sufficiently large to hold the seniors, as well as the juniors who do not choose to live in Stephen. If the Administration wants to keep the freshmen together, which we feel is a good idea, the yearlings could be put into Aquinas Hall, with room to spare. Next year's sophomores, of course, could be left in St. Joseph's, where they now reside as freshmen.

Fiedler's Boston Pops Draws A Mixed Review

The Program:

Fiedler's Boston Pops Orchestra

Russian Wedding Overture

March Slav

Overture to "Don Quixote"

Tchaikowsky's March

"Gayne" Suite

"Sabre Dance"

"Marche Slav"

"My Fair Lady"

"Love is a Many Splendored Thing"

"Dancing Through the Ages"

Combining schmaltz, schollaz, saccharine and a bit of the truly great, and you have a typical Boston Pops concert. Friday's concert was no exception. "Greensleeves" Highpoint

Arthur Fiedler opened the program with a raucous interpretation of Berlioz' "Rackoczy March"; this was followed by a hurried reading of the Weber, a reading which was rather pedestrian. The high point of the program, for me, was the love­ly, restrained playing of the "Greensleeves." Unfortunately this was followed by that hideous amalgamation of bombast, the "Gayne" Suite which included the "Sabre Dance," a most over­rated composition. The whirling dervishes had my head reeling.

Whirling Performance

Close upon this was that grand old pastiche "Marche Slav," a veritable cauldron of many colors (all loud). Mr. Fiedler's whirling performance of the Strauss Waltz nearly brought the house down, proving once again that most people like their music "dripping sweet."

The remainder of the program was devoted to a concert­ized arrangement of popular and theater tunes. The "My Fair Lady" melody was just a little too polished and slick for my taste, it seemed to lose some of its sparkle when burdened down by a rather heavy symphonic version. But the "76 Trombones" from "The Music Man" was treated in a most jocose manner—the musicians played this with tongue in cheek.

Dance Medley

As a finale, the orchestra played "Dancing Through the Years," a delightful arrange­ment of various dancing styles.
Mr. Fiedler's orchestra, composed of many of the musicians in the Boston Symphony Or­chestra, has maintained a high quality of playing throughout the years. However, their choice of music sometimes leaves much to be desired.

Spring sports are currently coming into their own here at Providence College as the baseball teams wade into the midst of their crowded schedules.

Besides the usually predominant sport of the spring, baseball, Providence is being represented in various other fields of athletic endeavor, some for the first time, others without official recognition as a varsity sport.

The tennis enthusiasts of the College are being treated to their first taste of intercollegiate competition. Without a varsity team for the first three matches of the season, the team, led by Jack Devereaux and Leo Quinn, is slowly developing into a formidable foe for its usually more experienced opposition. Also enjoying varsity status for the first year is the golf team. Once again, the representatives of PC overcame difficulties galore in being raised to the varsity level and have done themselves proud on the fairways and greens of college competition.

Another group of sporting Friars have taken up where they left off last year in their drive to attain varsity recognition here at Providence. The sailing team achieved numerous victories on an informal scale in 1958, including the defeat of a highly ranked Brown University team. This year, as a matter of fact just last week, the sailing Smith Hillers finished a respectable second while encountering New England-wide competition. Despite paying their own freight, the best-riding sailors continue to bring fame and repute to the College.

Freshman baseball seems to be the pride and joy of the campus as a result of the fine performances turned in thus far this year. With the hitters delivering in fine style and the pitchers turning in four complete games in four starts, the freshmen are really rolling along. Despite never having played together as a unit, the freshman infield has looked surprisingly crisp and sure of themselves and has supported the excellent pitching exhibited by the rookie staff. This week's stiff schedule, including Holy Cross on Saturday, will serve as an acid test for the all victorious frosh.

Meanwhile, their varsity counterparts continue to disappoint diamond followers because of their lackluster showings. Perhaps the thrilling yet futile comeback against Brown University last week will enable the winless varsity to rebound against Assumption College this afternoon.

Coach Bob Murray has been plagued with miserable pitching all year. Only Bob Plante has delivered regularly adequate chucking and even he was belted by Brown. It seems that the varsity pitchers are as determined not to shine as the frosh are to turn out satisfactory, workmanlike jobs.
Providence College's mile relay team finished high in team standings at the University of Pennsylvania last Friday and Saturday.
