Congress Headed By Lovely

Dennis Lovely was elected student body president in Student Council elections held last Wednesday in Alumni Hall, as 1023 students went to the polls.

Lovely, with a 375 count, bested his rivals Jack Sears and Joe Lyons. Lovely is the only Congress veteran among the three candidates.

Bucklin Edges Opponents

The vice-presidential contest was taken by Don Bucklin who edged out opponents Bob Liebowitz and Joe Ciarettolo by a close 15 vote margin. Bucklin remarked that he would try to aid in the building up of the importance of the Congress and try to see it play an even more important role in school affairs.

The race for the secretariat was won by Dave Oppel and Dave Duffy. Both men had been returned to the Congress for the second time. Oppel pulled ahead of Duffy 353 to 482.

Healey Over Madden

The closest for the office of treasurer between Dermot Healey and Bernard Madden was taken by Healey with a majority of 580 to 390 votes.

The arrangements of dormitory accommodations for the academic year 1960 has been announced by Rev. James M. Murphy, O.P., Dean of Men. All students residing away from home will live on campus in the residence halls.

The seniors will be the first class to room in the newly erected Raymond Hall. The junior class will remain in Stephen Hall, and the sophomore will continue to reside in St. Joseph's.

Group Life For Fresh

According to Father Murphy, the primary reason for adopting this arrangement was to permit the freshmen resident students to live together in order to become indoctrinated into college life as a group.

"Aquinas Hall is the only residence hall large enough to accommodate the freshmen residents, who are expected to number approximately 250.

Desired 'Status Quo'

Also cited as a determining factor in the seniors was the general desire of the classes of '61 and '62 to remain in their present locations. Earlier, stu-
MEMO FROM THE EDITOR:

Collegiate Potpuorri

October was a big month for editorializing last year. There was a favorite topic in this sheet that month was the cut (oops!) absence system. Writers here mulled over a number of alternatives and came up with what the writer thought would be a workable proposal.

In essence the paper's editorials on the subject called for a moderate unlimited absent set-up for honors achieving students.

That suggestion may have come too late to help the results in the current academic year, but it's probable that it will be ignored next year also.

However, what the paper put forth was only the students' solution to a problem that had existed for a long time. On Oct. 11, Indiana last week, Valparaiso University released the results of its own survey in regard to the same subject.

University officials there polled their faculty and what these educators thought certainly struck a blow against the COWL'S tendencies.

First off, 80% of the faculty thought non-compulsory attendance would be detrimental to students.

And that will add fuel to the many who thought certainly struck a blow against the COWL'S tendencies.

And that will add fuel to the many who thought certainly struck a blow against the COWL'S tendencies.

The Student Congress meeting held on May 4 continued for almost three hours as several major points of legislation were debated and voted on.

Issues on the agenda included the ring committee reports, a resolution based on the word "Providience" to the blazer, a question as to whether all classes to test non-compulsory attendance in lower division classes.

5 out of 7 declined to volunteer their freshman classes for such a trial.

5 out of 7 favored pilot studies in upper division courses.

With that showing, it can be said that Valparaiso won't employ the unlimited cut system in the near future. And that will add fuel to the many who would oppose such a system.

ROTC DEPARTMENT

The ROTC department will hold its annual Communion Breakfast on May 17, according to Congressman Charles McAree, 61, for the addition in some manner of the word "Providience" on the blazer, which was defeated in an extremely close contest. The blazer committee had previously reported that it would be inadvisable to make a change at this time. James Baker, the designer of the crest, felt that it would destroy the symmetry of the whole device.

Sailing Endorsed

McAree also introduced a resolution recommending to the Administration that the Sailing Club be endorsed as an official organization. This was passed unanimously as an amendment. Congressman McAree also introduced a bill sharply criticizing the electorate of the Student Congress offices of representatives who were appointed and the organization.

The ROTC Department is being observed as a model of its kind. Providence College will have a two-fold participation in the Armed Forces Day celebration.

During this week from May 11 to May 15, the College is being observed as a model of its kind. Providence College will have a two-fold participation in the Armed Forces Day celebration.

A special Armed Forces Day Mass will be celebrated by Father Robert G. Kienzle, O.S.B., in the University Chapel on May 15, at 16:15 for all those veterans and ROTC cadets.
PC Cadets Honored By ROTC Dept.

Eighteen ROTC cadets were honored and decorated in last week's ceremony, in which over 500 cadets participated.

The reviewing party, which inspected the ROTC Brigade, consisted of Maj. Russell J. McVinney, D.D.S., Bishop of Providence; The Very Rev. Robert J. Byrne, President of Providence College; and Major Gen. Sidney C. Wooten, commanding general of the 13th U.S. Army Corps.

The cadets and the awards received are as follows:

They were presented with the following: "Alumni Hall" for President of Providence College; "Alumni Hall" for Maj. Georger Brown; "Alumni Hall" for Col. Leo Mignott; "Alumni Hall" for Capt. Thomas J. Byrne; "Alumni Hall" for Capt. Haller; and "Alumni Hall" for Capt. 2nd Lt. Paul Greeley.

Piloting the Plots

The Cowl is more than glad to hear that Dr. Paul Thompson is to head a committee which will study the expansion of the Honors Group Program for freshmen and seniors. The task of arranging a program for students in various concentrations is hardly an easy one, but we expect that the committee will propose a suitable solution.

The capabilities of Dr. Thompson and the members of his committee are so widely recognized as to defy comment on our part.

The honor students, or "Pilots," as they are popularly called, have more than just their names in common to foster their expansion. They are in the advisory of the Honors Group here at Providence College. The program has been widely successful, and a good deal of the credit for its success must go to those faculty members under whose watchful eyes the program was administered. Once again Providence College has put itself in the educational forefront in inaugurating and supporting a relatively new program, which is now getting more and more support on the college level.

We look forward to the expansion of the honors program, and are convinced that it will be more and more fruitful in years to come. And as it does, the College will take another step forward.

Setting Sail . . .

The Sailing Club of Providence College has just completed a most unique season. It is unique, because for the second year in succession, the club has carried the colors of the Alma Mater with no little success, while at the same time NOT enjoying recognition as a varsity sport.

This lack of recognition has hurt the organization considerably. It has, however, forced us to emphasize the social aspect of the club, since registration fees are high, and no varsity status would diminish the large sum, even after the club members have been paying their own way all season.

No request for recognition, which can only be given by the Athletic Department, has been tabled for discussion at a later meeting. We urge the members of the department to afford recognition to the sailors, by the Athletic Department, has been tabled for discussion at a later meeting. Kelmer's Lament . . .

In the middle of the walk which extends along the east side of Harkins Hall, there is a tree as beautiful as it is tall. The cement sidewalk divides at the base of this magnificent gum tree. We write the above because there are those who believe in the advisability of the Honors Group.

To the Editor:

The Senior class is to be congratulated on its good taste in choosing an ironwork arch for the main entrance. We agree with the Editor that the "entrance is quite impressive." We take sharp issue, however, with his statement that "an arch would not be necessary!" The Editor realized the folly of his statement after he read my very next sentence he stated: "Even if it would help make the entrance to the College more attractive . . ."

On the other hand, we believe in the necessity of beauty in everything we do. The fact that beauty is a matter of taste as well as a matter of opinion is an accepted fact of life. We believe that the arch is an aesthetic addition to the College, and we find it difficult to understand the Editor's opinion.

We are disappointed.

Bellal's Bridge 'Powers' Ended; Iron And Steel Did The Trick

Next time you drive under an over-the-highway bridge . . . or pause to admire a huge water-spanner . . . or stroll through a park . . . give a thought to the days—only 500 years ago when other people thought a bridge could be built only with the help of the Devil.

It was believed that the Devil was lord of all the world's waters and forests. And every time they were crossed by God's creatures. The saying went that the Devil would destroy any bridge not paid for with a human soul. Whenever Irish peasants crossed a bridge, they used to pray for the soul of the builder because "Sure, and the poor fellow must be roasting in hell!"

Norse Mythology Inspiration

"London Bridge is falling down, falling down" once was close to the truth. It never actually collapsed, but it did sag dangerously because too many houses and stores were built on it. The famous bridge, built in 1176, took 33 years to build and stood as a symbol of London social life for 600 years. Began through the ages the Devil was thus satisfied. But it was unfinished. The iron bridge went up in Coalbrookdale, England, that people began to believe the Devil's powers over bridges and their builders might be ended. Iron, they thought, certainly seemed suited to defy comment on our part.

But the bridge builders were ready. By this time engineering knowledge was making engineering feats possible, and about the same time the bridge builders had better material structural steel—and appeared on the scene. And so it was to receive a lasting kicking!

"Devil's Era" Ends

In 1873 the world's first steel arch bridge was finished. It spanned across the Mississippi at Minneapolis and was considered the wonder of the world. Steel had arrived, and the long-span bridge was a challenge of the hour.

HAD NOT LIKES PC . . . .
the guys on the whole are tops.

Majors in Economics

Here at PC Jim is an economics major, following in the footsteps of this year’s starting five. He pulls C’s for the most part, and he states, “I am always striving hard to pull up my marks.”

Being the farthest-from-home
student ever to hit the campus,
there are naturally nights of homesickness. Jim credits his two “great” roommates John Quinn and George Frese with helping him out here.

“These two are tops,” he said, and then pensively added, “however, unfortunately both my roommates and I are always broke.” — A familiar story!

Dorm Life Pleases

Dorm life goes well, then,
with “the Californian.” Though social life and home remembrances may sadden him at times, weekends in Massachusetts with buddy Bill Russell
are a big help.

“In the next few years I expect PC to become just as much of a home to me,” Jim my added and smiled.

The Westerner takes well to the East. He likes the people, the NBA, the NIT and the many sights.

Of course, he delights
in telling how things grow a great deal taller out in the West. Yet, 5’7” high school sweetheart Barbara Moore is still the one that holds the Jimster’s heart.

Big Year Ahead

Looking forward to playing with Lenny and Johnny next year, Jimmy is confident of being on the best team in the East. This includes capturing the NIT for the hooper.

He also envisions another
NBA championship for the Hub,
as the Celtics are led by his favorites Frank Ramsey and, of course, Russell.

While basketball is his first love, Jim is just as crazy as any other college student over the products of Hollywood.

He also hopes to join the Big Brother movement here at the College. As he puts it, “I get a great kick out of little kids,
and maybe my ‘little brother’
will make up for missing my real one.”

“My greatest ambition is to meet the President of the United States,” Jim concluded.

Who knows, Jim, maybe meeting you someday will be his greatest ambition, at your current rate.

cause the grant from the ad-mnistration will soon be withdrawn. An individual who does not pay may be prohibited
from attending social functions,
from holding office, or from

This bill was unanimously passed by the congress. The final bill of the night was authored by Charles McAree, who asked for the formation of a committee to discuss the possibility of an All-College-Weekend in the fall under the auspices of the SC. “The fall season is conspicuous for its lack of dances, for day students particularly,” McAree observed.

Matt Barry, acting freshman representative, introduced a resolution calling for freshman elections in the spring to be held after the other elections to instill spirit and set an example to the freshmen in the future. He felt that this would show them the way, prevent the dangers and pitfalls which plagued this year’s freshman class. The bill was defeated on the grounds that it could be called coddling the freshman, and that by then they would already have one election behind them.

FRIARS CLUB . . .

of the Club, thanked retiring president Harry Lyttle and the other seniors for their support during the past year. Plans were made for a banquet sched-

Many Hitters

Hitting honors were well distributed among the freshmen with Wally Minot the only one to collect two safeties. An eight run rally in the seventh inning clinched the verdict for Providence who led by only 2-1 going into that frame.

CARROLL'S COMMENTS

By JIM CARROLL

After dropping their game, Providence College's something to look forward three more games remaining.

Last Saturday, Coach Bob Murray's club stayed off every attempt by the University of Rhode Island to hand them the ball game and managed to keep their losing streak alive, but only after a strenuous thirteen inning struggle.

It seems that the Friars are having an extremely difficult time combining effective pitching and satisfactory hitting in the same ballgame. When the hitters hit, the pitchers don't pitch and eleventh consecutive ballvaristy baseball team had to anyway. There are only on the schedule.

When the pitchers hit, the hitters fail to hit. Hendricken Field was the sight of several fine pitching performances during the last two weeks. A week ago, Providence's Jim Brennan hooked up with Bob Defino of Holy Cross in a pitching duel that attracted the largest crowd of the year to Hendricken.

Brennan was the losing hurler in the 4-1 decision but nevertheless contributed three innings of stout pitching. The sophomore righthander was bested by the Crusader's Defino who limited PC to only four hits. Despite the loss, the game was one of the best team efforts of the long and dismal season.

Earlier in the week, freshman Mike Trodden unfurled a masterful handcuffing of the Quonset Fliers as he set the servicemen down for nine innings without a single hit. Trodden spaced his no-hit effort by injecting fifteen strikeouts and giving up only one base on balls.

Trodden, who last year starred for Tolman High while winning All-State honors, allowed only two men to reach base in the game. The few that did managed to score even more worthwhile when one considers that for all nine innings Trodden was working without any runs to back him up. The Providence Fresh won the game 1-0 by scoring in the bottom of the ninth.

As of late, there has been quite a bit of murmuring going on here at PC concerning the possible beginning of a soccer team. However, nothing constructive has been done to hasten the appearance of this sport on the athletic agenda. Without this first definite step, nothing can develop toward the attainment of such a goal.

The baseball season of Providence College comes to a weary end this week as the Friars face three opponents at home at Hendricken Field.

An exciting baseball game turned into a comedy of errors as the Rams of the University of Providence College succumbed as usual to the University of Rhode Island.

In their previous four outings, the diamondmics had been shaded 8-7 by Northeasterners, edged 3-4 by Boston College, defeated 4-1 by Holy Cross, and trounced 16-2 by Brown University. With two out in the last of the 12th, Providence was able to advance its lead by one run ahead by a score of 3-1, it appeared. But Ron Stenhouse, who had homered in a three-run lead and the PC losing streak would end at ten.

Ron Grenier Chosen Rifle Team Captain
G. Ronald Grenier has been elected captain of the Providence College Rifle team for the coming season, announced M. Reg. Ronald Monday.

Grenier, a junior from Cumberland, Rhode Island, was a letter winning member of the varsity team for the past two seasons. He also was a member of the championship team which won the William Randolph Hearst Shield.

The captain-elect, a business major, is also a member of the Providence College 1000 Yard Three Rifle Team. He starred on the range for the St. Raphael Academy team in his senior year.

Ron Grenier succeeds Jim Flanagan, who captained the team two years ago and was an outstanding rifleman. Grenier is not an unfamiliar face to the Providence rifle team, having contributed an unassisted double play to end a threat by the opposition in a loss against his team in the fall.

The second Rhode Island out of the 13th set the stage for Act II. A 375 foot home run could have ended the game nicely, but Grenier, with a bases-loaded pitch, delivered 13 innings of fine baseball for the Rams enabling them to advance to the pitched ball. Then a pop-up to the second baseman could have sent the game into the 14th inning, but Ron Grenier was up to the plate.
