Bill Clifford Named Senior Of The Year

William T. Clifford, sociology major from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., has been selected Senior of the Year by a Cowl selection board.

This committee, composed of five members of the editorial staff, chose Clifford as the one senior who most exemplifies the ideal Providence College graduate.

Selection is based on satisfactory academic standing in the service to the class, College, and community, and leadership potential as manifested by support of extra-curricular activities.

During this past year, Bill has served as president of the Caro- llian Club. He is on the executive committee of the senior honor society, Epsilon Sigma. This past year he was also vice-president of the Friars O.S.P. and a member of both the Veterans Club and the Leonine Society.

Bill was a co-chairman of the junior prom of the class of '59.

Clifford's collegiate honors culminated in the spring, with his selection to this year's "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." In addition to his extra-curricular activities, Bill also served as a student prefect in the Carollan Hall dorm this past school year.

In the future, Clifford hopes to enter the field of personal relations, preferably in the field of child guidance.

Closest runners-up to Clifford were James B. Baker, political science major from Newport, R. I., and Edward J. Keegan, economics major from Upper Darby, Penn.

In the spiritual sense, the Mass of the Last Supper is the highlight of the Investiture Ceremony.

In the concluding lines of his investiture address, Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, president of Providence College, declared that the young men who heard his words will be the leaders of the 20th century, and that "today's Providence College is a potential as manifested by support of extra-curricular activities, and in the utmost confidence in the Providence College family, the young men of the future areania the most promising prospects the world has ever known for the betterment of the human condition."

The Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., President of Providence College will celebrate a solemn Baccalaureate Mass on Sunday, May 31. The Mass will be offered in the War Memorial Grotto.

Garbed in their gowns and gowns, the seniors will walk in procession from Aquinas Hall Lounge to the Grotto. The junior class officers will serve as standards and cross bearers.

Parents and guests are invited to attend. In case of inclement weather, the Mass will be celebrated in Alumni Center.

Commencement activities will continue on Class Day, Monday, June 1. The Investiture of the degrees, the final highlight, will commence with exercises in the War Memorial Grotto at 7:30 p.m.

Included in the reception will be greetings from Father Slavin, presentation of academic awards by Father Len- nan, and the class oration by Ralph Daniels, George G. Dit- trich will deliver an address to the parents and Walter F. Gibbons, Alumni President.

Dr. Harry Kelly, Assistant Director of Scientific Personnel and Education for the National Science Foundation, Washington, D. C., will give the address at the 41st annual Commencement of Providence College, Tuesday, June 2.

Dr. Kelly will be awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Science.

Boucher Sums Up Senior Class Year As Powers Swears In New Slate

This meeting was highlighted by the investiture proceedings with the swearing in of class and Student Congress officers in the presence of the Very Rev. Robert J. Big Brothers Tag Day Today

This collection will benefit the children at the State of Rhode Island Children's Welfare Service and the Children's Outing on Mount Pleasant Avenue.

The proceeds of this collection will provide a picnic for the children on Saturday, May 23, 1959.

"We are completely relying on the funds donated by the PC students. Because of our not being recognized as a Col­ lege, we have no other source of income except for this collection," said President Thaddeus McGough.

MEMO FROM THE EDITOR:
The teams of column inches given to PC's play in March's National Invitational Tournament stands as the top news story hereabout for the year.

From that spectacular tourney appearance probably comes the majority of the other key stories. The upset nosing of tall St. Louis, the overwhelming tribute given to the Providence student body in the New York press, the extemporaneous marching in the St. Patrick's Day parade all stand as memorable incidents.

But there were a number of other happenings that snared banner lines in this sheet and others. Father Slavin's attendance at the General Chapter meeting of the Dominican Order in Spain was the Fall's top story coming from PC's administration and faculty. The much publicized and misunderstood and misquoted suspension of COWL editor Dick DeNoia caused quite a stir.

Basketball bounced into the picture in December with Providence playing its first Madison Square Garden game against St. John's.

The continued construction and naming of the College's fourth major dorm—Raymond Hall—was of note. Ditto the public address of Dr. Thomson's "Why I Am A Catholic."

But the initials NIT were everywhere from February, Joe McHenry's pennings rivalled the Summa and when the Friars finally did make the play Pete McCarthy's Catholic.

CHRISTOFARO

The officers of the Rhode Island chapter of the American Public Health Association were elected at a meeting held recently in the Providence office of Dr. John M. Christofaro, president of the Rhode Island chapter. The other officers are: Edward A. Pollard, secretary, and Peter G. De Rosa, historian-secretary.

Flood And Dittrich
Picked By Pollsters

Top vote getter in this year’s Senior Superlative Poll was Patrick J. Flood, philosophy major from Zanesville, Ohio. Flood topped the class scholar award by the greatest margin of any of the eighteen various fields.

About 25 percent of the class voted in a fairly accurate cross-representation in the different categories.

Political science major George G. Dittrich from Englewood, New Jersey was selected as the man most likely to succeed. Close runners-up were George D. and Leonard F. Clingham.

Baker Best All-Around Senior

Follow point two, James B. Baker was picked best all-round business major. William J. Clifford and Arthur G. Boucher. Clifford, however, was a double winner, capturing both the hardest-working senior award and the most popular senior award. A close second in both of these categories was class president Edward J. Langer.

Student Congress and Pyra­mid Players president Arthur G. Bousher was named as senior comedian. Runners-up in this category were James B. Baker and Jack I. Winkelman in that order.

The John A. Caccabito from Providence was named friendship senior, based on his relations with the rest of his class and Jack I. Winkelman in that order.

Next month four members of the Providence College faculty will celebrate their silver jubilee. The Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., Rev. Edward A. Vitte, O.P., Rev. Robert C. Reilly, O.P., all have spent the past twenty-five years in the service of God and their fellow man.

The students of PC have greatly benefited from the dedication of these men. It is only fitting, therefore, that we pay some small tribute to those who have given so unselfishly of themselves.

To the best of the school in extending to these men our most sincere thanks, and hearty congratulations.

Sheridan was shelved from the mound in the seventh as singles by Joe Cafarella and Riordan, a double by Howe, a homer by Muro, and a triple by Bassett accounted for the Black and White's final four tallies of the contest.

Against Springfield, Murray ran into pitching difficulties as all three of his mound operations experienced notable control troubles. At the same time, however, the Springfield hurl­ers were finding the plate a little too often and the Murray­ men blasted accounted for three homers, by Cafarella, Riordan, and Muro; two doubles, by Stulvey and Guimares; and half a dozen singles.

Circuit Blow...

Five of the Gymnastics' runs also crossed the plate on circuit clouts. Jim Havlick homered with one on and Jim Stone connected with two on board.

COMMENTS

By JIM CARROLL

A long, disappointing and frustrating season drew to a close yesterday and as it did things were looking up on the Providence campus for baseball followers for baseball followers will with two years of eligibility remaining. The mainstay of his infield, Joe Cafarella also returns to the confines of Hendricken Field for another campaign.

Another infielder who has developed quite rapidly this season is Pete Muro and, along with upcoming freshmen Joe Evans and Al Izzo, the hard­ ting soph should contribute to an improved infield in '60. Murray Nicholas, a freshman, and Bob Souza, a sophomore, also appear ready to help solve Murray's infield problems come next year.

For the outfield, Danny Guimares joins Cafarella as a returnee. After finally breaking out of a miserable slump, the fleet centerfielder raised his average to a respectable figure in the last two weeks of the campaign.

Seasoned Warren House will again be available for catch­ing duties.

Junior Win Fairbanks and Sophomore Jim Brennen head the list of pitchers who will once more wear the flannel of the Black and White. Ron Doane, another sophomore righthander, also remains among the list of eligibles.

Add to these freshmen Mike Trodden and Jim Hodgkins as well as two other promising hopefule, Milt Bell and George Frese, and a sizable, experienced and efpective pitching staff seems entirely possible. Everything con­ didered, next year appears to hold much more in store for the Friar baseballers than did this year's drab and listless season.

As the athletic season draws to a finish, reflection on the accomplishments of the various teams reveals the tendency of Providence College representatives in the athletic world to continue upward in their rise to fame and fortune.

Whether on hill and dale, ice, the hardwood, a rifle range, ciners, clay courts, hot fairways and putting greens or closely cropped diamonds, the varsity forces of Providence College deserve a salute as the year grinds slowly to a halt.

These athletes and their coaches are to be congratulated and commended for a job well done.

William Horridge has been recently elected president of the Spike Shoe Club, which is composed of Friar trackmen. The elections were held in connection with the club's annual banquet last Saturday afternoon.

Jepson Inks Four-Yr. Contract

Providence College took out an insurance policy on its basketball future as the Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, OP, president, announced yesterday the signing of basketball coach Joe Mullaney to a new four year contract.

The new contract will go into effect at the termination of the present agreement, which still has a year to run, and will constitute Mullaney in the coaching post through the season of 1964.

One of the most successful of the nation's young coaches, Mullaney has guided the Friars to 29 wins against 30 losses over the past four seasons. His 56-59 squad won 20 games the most in the history of PC basketball, against seven losses, the most in the history of the program.

Joe Mullaney served one year as a player-coach of the Smyrna Air Force bomber pilots, and then served as assistant coach at the University of Bridgeport, Long Island. He returned to his alma mater in 1958 to coach the Crusaders into the national basketball spotlight. He played a season of professional basketball with the Celtics before starting his coaching career at St. Mary's Academy in Glens Falls, N. Y.

He is married and the father of two daughters, ages 14 and 12, and is to live with the friends of the Friars.

Before coming to Providence, Mullaney served one year as assistant coach of basketball coach Bob Ruffin at Northwestern University, where he won 18 and lost 6, making his overall record of 146-118. He has been a member of the Providence faculty since 1958.

Diamondmen Out Of Doldrums; Top Springfield, 16-11; Smash Rhody

Bassett Goes Route; Stickmen Shine Twice

The varsity baseball forces of Coach Bob Mur- ray did an about face last Thursday afternoon at Hend­ drickson Field, when the Friars defeated Springfield College by a score of 16-11. After losing their first eleven games, the diamondmen suddenly showed, the ability which they had all year, edged one of the top teams on their schedule, and scored two runs over URI at the same cache Saturday.

The DIAMOND MEN con­ cluded their 1959 season at Hendrickson Field yesterday afternoon, defeating Assump­tion College 4-3 behind the 6- bit pitching of senior Bob Murray. Murray, who had led the Friars at the plate with two singles and a triple.

Frank Basset, who had been hampered by a sore arm ever since joining the Friars, was said to have been able to give the Friar hurlers was forced to tune up in chilly weather, with the wind blowing in from left field. Murray struck out the Rams to notch his first victory of the season amid experiencing control trouble in the early stages of the game and allowing the Rams to score once in the first frame and twice more in the third. Boc­ k, the Friars' ace, fanned invaders from Kingston on five hits and no walks and went the rest of the route.

In the top of the first, three walks and a sacrifice fly scored the first run of the game for State. The rally was cut short however as Roger Pearson was nabbed trying to go from second to third on the sacrifice fly.

Rams Take Offensive

Still ahead by a count of 1-4, the Rams took the offensive again in the third. Tom Harring­ ton drew a free pass and after Pearson's double, Harrington crossed the plate on a single by Bob Petter. Pearson scored on a foul out, error, and another walk put runners on first and second with only one out. But Pete Muru robbed Tony Verdi of a line drive base hit and clipped to Red Maloney at second to double up Petter and end the inning.

Providence scored their first two runs in the last of the seventh. Canton Maloney first brought the Friars to within an inch of an error, Jim Riordan was hit by a pitched ball, and a walk to Denzy Gainesma loaded the bases. Pete Muru popped out, but when Maloney threatened to dash home after the steal, the liberty first sacker fired the ball over the catcher's head and both Maloney and Riordan crossed the plate.

A combination of two walks, a single by Maloney, a pair of errors, and a double by Red Riordan gave the Friars a 5-3 lead, but fell one run short in losing to Smith and DiPierro.

In the other two singles encounters, Connerton and Dever­ ex lost to Baker and Bron­ son, 6-2, 6-2, and Johnson and McLean were defeated 62, 75 by the combined forces of Dro- tar and Leonard.

ONE OF TEN: Warren Howe crosses the plate with another PC run in the Friars' 16-3 triumph over URI.

Tennis Team Closes Season With Defeat By Hartford U.

The Providence College tennis team finished its first season with a 5-4 loss at the hands of the University of Hartford Friday night.

The other two Friar singles performers, Brian Sullivan and David White, played well enough to make two of the four sets, but lost all their matches this season. The other two Friar doubles teams lost to each other, Connerton and Dever- ex lost to Baker and Bron­ son, 6-2, 6-2, and Johnson and McLean were defeated 62, 75 by the combined forces of Dro- tar and Leonard.
