An Editorial

Readers, have a good look at The Cowl while the opportunity lasts. The days of a student newspaper, as it now exists, may be numbered at PC. And the villain is not that standard whipping boy, the Administration—it is the lassitude and disinterest of you, the students.

For several years now, a gravely short-handed staff has given generously of its time and effort to produce a student newspaper for Providence College. This year, it has been supplemented by key editorial personnel who have become involved in the demands of the various Honors Groups in their respective classes. In the week of newspaper work and academic survival have become mutually exclusive propositions.

A rash of resignations due to the pressure of academic work required this year will, in all likelihood, become a fact. There will be no student paper at PC.

The continuation of The Cowl in its present form is contingent on a little more giving and less purely passive getting on the part of the student body. It is shocking to consider that only a single sophomore makes any contribution on the staff. And the freshmen are few and far between.

We particularly need typists and writers to work in the office on Monday evenings when the paper goes to press. A number of students to read proofs at the printers on Tuesday afternoon are also vital to our needs. But, whatever your qualifications or interests, if you are willing to give of your hours and effort you can help save college journalism at Providence College.

Inevitable comparisons with the daily, professional press tends to put the quality of the local papers in a poor light. Nevertheless, we claim to put out a paper at PC which is manifestly superior in its class. For those of our readers who care to study for its survival in the Cowl office on any morning at 10:20. The ballot contains two spaces: one for your name and one for what you are willing to do to make sure that there is a paper next week.

JOHN WILLIAMS CHOSEN TO HEAD DES

John Williams, senior philos. Charles E. Shear and Mr. Charles Opyh major, was elected president of Delta Tau Chapter. E. Cottam. Thirty-seven seniors and juniors were also inducted.

Included among the honor society's inductees were faculty members Rev. J. F. Hines, O.P., and Deytor Henri Ronan, and alumni members Rev. E. F. Smith, O.P.; Mr. Bucklin emphasized the difficulty in trying to meet future demands for the various Honors Groups in their respective classes.

Their first Modern Pops Festival will be sponsored by the Veridames of Providence College on Friday evening, November 6. The Festival will be held at Rhodes-on-the-Pawtuxet from 8:15 P.M. to about midnights.

Admission to the event will be $2.00. Refreshments will be served during the performance. A 45-piece Modern Pops Orchestra, under the direction of Veridames' Capone has been signed as the featured orchestral group. The Dixieland Band, a jazz group, will supplement the pop melodies of Capone's group. The Providence College Glee Club plans to present several selections in the program as part of their first main effort of the current year. Miss Patricia Ann Carney, a pop soloist, and several other groups will also sing with the groups.

Benedict Scholarship Fund

A newly formed Benedict Scholarship Fund will be the beneficiary of the funds raised by the Veridames. The four-year scholarship thus established will be administered by the College.

A stipulation that the recipient of the grant be a relative of a Veridames member will be made, according to a spokesman for the group.

Orchestral selections at the Pops Festival will include selections from the Broadway musicals "Carnival," "South Pacific" and "My Fair Lady," according to band leader Capone. Several Leroy Anderson selections will also be heard.

Special 'Starsquad' Arrangement

Capone also announced a special arrangement of "Starquad," scheduled for presentation at the affair.

This is the first effort along the lines of a Pops Festival by the Veridames. The president of the organization declined to discuss whether the group planned to make the festival an annual event.

"That decision would be up to the officers next year," she stated.

Members of the Friars Club will serve as ushers at the Festival. The gathering will be conducted along strict concert lines. No drinking will be permitted in the College. The event will be held at an establishment where liquor was not served in close proximity.

Capone announced the bill of fare for the group at a campus functions. The bill was ultimately withdrawn before a vote was reached.

Bucklin's proposal called for a clarification and liberalization of the present College restrictions on the use of alcoholic beverages. Providence College clubs and organizations are not permitted to serve these beverages at functions either on or off campus.

Introduced immediately after the call for new business, the proposal had a bombshell effect on the assembled student legislators.

The Very Reverend Robert J. Slavin, O.P., recently warned the Blackstone Valley Club that campus organizations are prohibited from holding functions at which liquor is served, according to the Congress vice-president. He went on to note that the club had previously been operating on the premise that it was permissible to utilize such sites if the bar was located in a separate building.

Bucklin emphasized the difficulty in trying to meet future demands for the various Honors Groups in their respective classes.
Ecuadorian Bishop At Harkins; Talks On Communist Oppression

The Most Rev. Juan Riosrio, O.P., Bishop of Loja, Ecuador, has been engaged to address the students in the Harkins Auditorium this evening at 7:30. Bishop Riosrio will speak on the subject of Communist oppression.

Bob Murphy, Plays Lead In 'Hasty Heart'

Bob Murphy will make his first appearance with the Pyramidal Players in the leading role of Sergeant Hasty in the musical play "Hasty Heart." Bob Murphy is a sophomore at PC and is a student of the Honors Program. He has been active in campus affairs and has contributed much to the success of the conclave, which is one of the few student organizations that have been forced to either quit or reduce their activities due to the crisis that hovers about The Cowl. Murphy's performance is expected to be a major factor in the success of the conclave.

The circulation staff, which is our most important echelon, will be expected to perform their work and contributions. The staff will be expected to produce a magazine, the bible of pre-sea-

Student Congress Seeks Solicitors

The Student Congress of Providence College is seeking contributors for funds to the United Fund Drive, currently under way. The Congress has arranged a campaign in "Slightly Delinquent." Grathwol said, "This doctor is much more normal than the last." Sophomore Angelo Zuccolo will be playing the part of a demented shell-shock case. He has just finished performing in the Catchwords Community Players' show "Pajama Game." The Student Congress will be providing a list of donors within restricted areas, not to exceed ten establish.

The Providence College Dominates will open their season at a benefit show to be held Monday, November 3, at 8:30 p.m. in St. Pius Auditorium, Providence, sponsored by the Rosary and Altar Society of St. Pius Church. The Dominates are an octet chosen from the ranks of the Providence College Glee Club. They are featured at every Glee Club concert as well as making solo appearances such as the upcoming benefit.

The director of the group, chosen by previous directors on his ability, is Paul Hodges. He is responsible, with the help of President O.P., Bishop of Loja, Ecuador, for the direction of the group in music and arrangements in keeping with the style which the Dominates are accustomed to forging.

With the exception of St. Pius and Gablebar, the Dominates are this year composed of veterans of last year's group.
Douglas Hyde, a former editor of the London Daily Worker, Sunday night warned 600 members of the Providence College Alumni Association attending the annual Communism Day commemoration of the battle of the world is not just a military battle. "It is a battle for man's minds, hearts and souls.

Speaking in a crisp British accent, Mr. Hyde went on to bring out several of the main principles of Marxism and showed how the communists try to use them to dominate the world.

"There has never been so much opposition to the weakness of communism and not enough about its strength," the speaker, short, thin Mr. Hyde said. "The aim of the communists is to make a com-

The Student Congress is to be congratulated for its accord in regard to The Cowl’s editorial urging the same-named neglect of the school Alma Mater. The student legislature has appointed a committee to investigate means of promoting the singing of “Mother of Truths” at all school functions in order to secure admittance to the Fall Frolic. The notice has now disappeared to the accompaniment of rumors that the gate check will be dispensed with.

Now, check this card is not a matter of choice for the Congress; it is a specific and mandatory provision of the original law. We hope that the rumor of any illegal executive liberties being taken with that law is false.

This world cannot save itself by itself. Left to itself alone it has always rotted and disintegrated. The world can only be saved by the World, from the root of the science of the creation of which we live.” He said of the co-feature “No Escape.” But this isn’t saying much as French films are among the poorest.

Popularity and immortality do not necessarily make good bedfellows, for they are likely to get in each other's way. It is the little man with a small talent that is easily identified and enjoyed; a warm reception by the public. But the man of genius, who at least has one foot already in tomorrow, is frequently heralded with less fanfare. In fact he may be whisked overboard. If not, and this is usually the case, the chances are that his more obvious efforts will draw the acclaim, not his best.

In 1899, for a patriotic celebration in Finland, Sibelius wrote his tone poem, "Finlandia," which rapidly spread its nationalism.

This is not to say that "Finlandia" is without merit. Thousands have enjoyed it in the past and will in the future; and while without refrigeration.

More vitamin C than orange juice. New instant TANG is the breakfast drink you can keep right on your bookshelf—because TANG keeps anywhere without refrigeration.

Make as much as you want, whenever you want. Just mix with cold water—nothing to squeeze, nothing to unrefrigerate.

Drink TANG every morning and get more vitamin C than orange or grapefruit juice gives you. Plus vitamin A. Tastes real good, too.

Today's assignment: get TANG!

we should use the ideals of youth to fight communism.

The Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., celebrated Mass in the War Memorial Grotto. Father Slavin read the alumni neologism and preached the sermon.

After Mass, the alumni toured Raymond Hall, the new dining hall-dormitory where they had dined. Daniel F. McKinnon, president of the Alumni Association, read a congratulatory message to the Rev. Daniel M. Gallagher, who is celebrating the 50th anniversary of his membership in the Order of Preachers and he thanked the 600 members of the alumni, the largest crowd of PC men ever to attend this affair, for their presence.

The ceremonies ended with Benediction in the Grotto.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Hyde, under the auspices of Salve Regina College, addressed more than 200 people at Rogers High School in Newport.

By John J. Hurley

This past weekend the Boston Pilot, the weekly tabloid of the Archdiocese, carried an editorial praising a Paulist series of lectures currently being held at their Center on Park Street.

Naturally for such a series to be singled out in the hub, there must of necessity be several outstanding lecturers. And, in reading over the names of Sen. Eugene McCarthy, Edwin O'Connor, Jim Bishop, etc., one can readily see the reason for this.

Here's one that the only lectures currently being given in Boston on Sunday evenings there is a series conducted by the Ford Forum involving such personalities as the Permanent Representative of the U.S.S.R. to the United Nations. On continuing down the list of such lectures one would find a series at Boston College, Harvard Law School, etc., to mention only a few.

Hence one could almost maintain that the city goes overboard in this regard. At any rate the story goes that on entering the Celestial Gates, an ancient Husonian was disappointed in not finding a single lecture scheduled there.

Be that as it may, we are certainly proud to see that Providence is also making itself felt in this regard. The Convocation held at Brown this past weekend certainly would emphasize this fact, in an excellently presented theme based on "The Individual Man in the Expanding Universe." Our East Side neighbors are to be congratulated for doing an outstanding job.

Both the caliber of the speakers and the ability of the panelists were quite notable. Under the direction of President Keeney and Ambassador Alfrich each meeting presented an outstanding phase as regards our friend the man. And to have the Provost of Yale, the dean of U. of Penn Law School, a member of the Cabinet, etc., as but a few of the participants is no little undertaking.

However it would probably be well to note that such commendable intellectual undertakings also involve that interesting topic—money!

Now while such organizations as the Industrial Relations Institute, the History Club, AED, DBS, and notably the Aquinas Society do an outstanding job with what they have, nevertheless again and again that frightening word comes up to squelch hopes for a more knowledgeable discussion.

There are various answers to this problem. Possibly these organizations could combine their resources to finance such an undertaking. Possibly the Administration could subsidize a lecture series. But, at any rate, progress continually is being made. The distance between Boston and Providence is gradually being narrowed down, little by little.

Bucklin's suggestion. Crosby and McAfee indicated that the wording of the proposed bill made too strong an issue of the matter.

They suggested that the Congress organize a special four-man commission to informally consult with Father Slavin on the liquor question.

Bucklin voluntarily withdrew his original bill from consideration, and the Congress adopted the proposal for an informal committee.

How's your beer

I.Q.?

Did you know that Joseph Priestley's theories on oxygen, life-essential of air, were formed while observing bubbles rising to the surface of a vat of beer in an English brewery? Did you know that John Alden was asked to join the Mayflower company because he was a cooper by trade and could take care of the barrels in which the vessel's beer was carried?

Did you know that Knickerbocker's the frostiest, smoothest-tastin' beer in town? If you haven't tried it lately, try it now! It's brewed to satisfy your beer thirst better!

His greatest thrill, however, was beating Al Confalone for third place, behind John Kelly and Jimmy Green in the Winchester Ten Mile Races last summer. "The thrilling thing about it was that for Kelly, Green, and Confalone this was a tuneup for the Pan-American Games in Chicago. Confalone was pretty surprised when I finished ahead of him and I guess I was too. This was definitely my best race to date."

In a sport that takes so much wear and tear on the body "Bambi" finds his greatest problem is keeping his studies up while trying to keep his training habits. "I don't ever seem to have enough time," Aside from hitting the books (he's an Education Natural Science major) he follows a schedule that includes running from six until seven in the morning before breakfast, weight lifting (to strengthen arms, chest and shoulders) pushups and other such exercises. He also maintains that his diet is an important factor in conditioning. He advocates eating high protein foods, honey for dextrose, and salt pills to replenish the system. All of this and ten hours sleep every night!

After graduation, Bob would like to teach in Connecticut near Groton where Johnny Kelly lives. "He's a close friend of mine and a school teacher at Fisk High School. When asked why he prefers distance running, he answered: "I like it because the road runners themselves are natural guys who love to run. We are like a big club; everybody helps everybody else; there's no pressure, no professionalism; we all run not for glory, but because we love to run."

Bob Bamberger will continue to run cross country and track but his first love will always be road races. And in a sport that maturity is reached at age 28 and one's peak lasts until 32, Bambi, might just run himself into the Olympics. But, glory or not, he'll continue running. In road racing whether you are first or last you are always a winner and Bambi's no exception.

If Dale Faulkner were still penning clever sports columns for this paper, he could well begin this week's commentary with: "I told you so." About a year and a half ago, while Sports Editor for this paper, he predicted that Providence would eventually have a basketball powerhouse in the making.

This prophecy came in the form of a letter addressed to the basketball coaches of Holy Cross, Boston College, and Boston University. These events came to mind because of a few words from a column by Bob Casey in the New Haven Evening Register.

Quoting a phrase or two in reference to that much read 1960 Basketball Yearbook, "In addition to Egan there's a couple of photos of Wayne Lawrence, the ex-Stonington High star. . . Lawrence is now playing for Texas A&M." The connection between these two notes is that Lawrence almost came to PC and if he had, Faulkner's words would ring truer than ever.

Providence Harriers Stun BC

Halt Eagles' Streak

On Muddy Course

Providence College varsity cross country team edged Boston College, 27-28, in a dual meet held last Saturday at Franklin Park in Boston.

First place was one for the harriers as they handed BC its first defeat in nineteen years.

Bob O'Leary, of the Eagles, commented, "It was too heavy a rain, a fierce wind, and the PC runners, as he led them in, knew they had to cover the mile course in 20 minutes and 48 seconds.

Victory Earned

The charges of Harry Coates, however, proved the better team by taking second, third, fifth, seventh, and tenth places among the Eagles. The Smith Hillers earned the victory as they placed first, fourth, sixth, eighth, and ninth.

O'Leary was followed by two Providence runners, one of whom was Horridge and Bob Bamberger. He placed twelve seconds separated O'Leary and Horridge in edging Bamberger by two seconds. Horridge captured the title by a string of leading the Friars to victory.

Fourth place was taken by BC's Bill Quinn. Charlie Goetz placed second in Providence and Quinn in fifth place. Sixth, eighth, and ninth places were earned by Bob Duff, and Hagan of the Eagles.

Manchester and Stewart

Vin Lamco and Pat Stewart were vital factors in the victory. The pilots took the tenth places respectively. Oth.

er who finished for PC were Dougherty, Iannotti, Mazzarella, and

WHAT MAKES 'BAMBI' RUN

By Tom Drennan

One of the big reasons that Providence College's track team has been so successful has been in the way that he himself runs. "Bambi" has been a great inspiration to all his teammates. His philosophy is that a Catholic liberal arts education and also because it possessed the dean of American track, Harry Coates, as its track and cross-country coach.

Since coming to PC, Bob has emerged as one of the top runners in the America by the editors. Lenny Wilkens also garnered individual honors by be-ging placed on the first team all America. Jim Hadret, sophomore center, was mentioned as one of the most promising newcomers in the nation.
