In today's modern society college seniors are often unwilling to take the initiative and devote long hours of labor to anything that does not seem directly related to their career goals. Jim McClain, a sophomore, is one of those few to find leaders. In past years he has been treasurer and president of St. Patrick's CYO, president of both the regional and diocesan Campus Club, and president of his senior class at La Salle Academy. His classmates at La Salle also refer to him as the "sweetest popular" student.

At present he is on the CYO advisory council and is the chairman of the Providence CYO executive committee. Recently he was appointed to the newly formed Red Cross Weekend committee.

Jim's most recent honor and responsibility is the role of being chosen one of the four representatives from Rhode Island to represent the state at the President's White House Conference on Children.

The Conference, held once every four years, was held March 27. Representatives from all over the world will meet to discuss current youth problems.

When questioned about his aims at the conference, Jim said that he is going to bring to the local youth problems to the conference and together with the cumulative knowledge and experience of the representatives hopes to find a solution. Governor and Mrs. Christopher Del Sesto will accompany the delegate to the conference.

Jim is also interested in sports. In grammar and Jr. High schools he played on the basketball team. At Sallie he was a member of the varsity baseball team. Here at College he runs the mile relay for the varsity track team.

Other campus activities in which Jim participates are the Red Shoe Club and the Art Club.

Band Undecided About St. Pat's Day Parade

Awaits Board Decision

The month of March is tentatively scheduled for a continuation of the newly formed Catholic Literary Society. The spring semester concludes on March 15, 1960, and the students will be free to select a topic of interest for the rest of the semester.

Over a month ago, the board received an invitation to march in the St. Patrick's Day parade in New York City, but as yet has not decided whether or not to make the trip.

Father S. George provided the board with this explanation on the impending decision.

"We have agreed to pay the entrance fee for the parade, but our chief concern is the position of the band in the affair. Last year, the band didn't start marching until 2:30 in the afternoon. Capt. Shannon and I have sent a letter to the chairman of the parade explaining our stand on the matter, and hope, since we are an out of state band, that we will receive consideration from the board in charge of the event."

In a long distance phone call to one of the co-chairmen, Father Morris said that he is going to bring the concerns to the board at its next meeting which determines the order of marching.

"Until then, no decision can be reached," he said.

Next to be considered was the role of the band in regard to the NTC. Father's answer to this was that he hoped the band would attend, but that decision is up to the administration of the College.

The theme for the weekend was previously announced, will be "Weekend on the Riviera." Harkins Hall and Rhodes State Room will be decorated to complement this theme.

Arrangements have been made at a nearby motel to house the guests from out of town. For the first time ever, the freshmen are hoping to obtain permission to hold an open house in Aquinas Hall, their residence.

Tickets for the weekend may be purchased any morning from the members of the ticket committee. Sales will be made in the Rotunda at the 10:20 break, in the cafeterias at the same time, and in Aquinas Hall.

The chairman of the ticket committee are Maurice Lourdes and Andy Sayko.
There is just a little bit of naivete in New England with regard to the problem of college drinking. Certainly no college student with the power of simple observation would deny that there is such a problem, yet parents and legislators in this area show a definite reluctance to come to grips with the situation.

The efficacy of a minimum drinking age of twenty-one seems at least desirable of re-evaluation. In the practical order, it is evident that the law is circumvented, if not ignored, by a majority of the collegiate population.

The ineffectiveness of the law, however, is not its most serious liability. Rather, it is the fact that it contributes to a widespread parental tendency to regard the use of alcohol by minors as intrinsically wrong and therefore to be strictly proscribed rather than controlled, supervised, and channelled. Not only that, but frequent violation of the drinking statute is engendering a lack of respect for the law among young people.

In a sense, then, the authority of the home has been aligned behind a position which is basically unrealistic in the face of the environment encountered by today's college student. And the danger of this orientation in thinking lies in the fact that parental guidance, experience, and advice is therefore withdrawn in favor of wishful thinking, and a 'let's ignore it' unconcern.

Attitudes on drinking should be framed in the home rather than in the barroom. In the larger sense, this is as much a moral matter as the formation of a right attitude toward sex and other areas of everyday ethics.

While it is far from my intention to cajole parents into necessarily adopting a permissive attitude toward alcohol for their sons and daughters, I think it is well to make the point that a simple prohibition, whether legal or parental, falls short of the mark. For most college-age Americans, it is no more an effective answer to the problem of insobriety than an injunction against kissing is an answer to the problem of sex.

CHARLES J. GOETZ

Vincent's Prescription Pharmacy

The Best in Drugs

VINCENT N. CAVATTA, Reg. Pharmacist

364 Admiral Street

GA 1-6003

Campus Barber Shop

Alumni Hall

2 Barbers

8 to 5 Mon. thru Friday

8 to 12 Noon Saturday

Providence College

Providence, R. I.

Editorial Offices

Harkins Hall

Dr. Paul van K. Thomson, director of the Honors Program at Providence College, was the keynote speaker at a three day seminar of the Pax Romana on an annual affair of the National Commission of Pax Romana, was held last weekend at Thompson, Connecticut.

Dr. Thomson spoke on the topic, "What It Means to be a Twentieth Century Catholic." He outlined the special challenges of the Catholic Church today and means to meet these challenges. He particularly stressed the need for a re-examination of the Catholic Liturgy and the need for a sound historical perspective in treating questions of Church problems.

The Pax Romana seminar was attended by students representing some dozen different countries. The principal director of the Pax Romana was the most senior delegate from Providence College to that organization, attended the seminar as representative of the NFCOS Region and of Providence College.

It proved that the seminar was the best he had ever attended. "It is indeed edifying and instructive to communicate with students from all parts of the world. And the Catholic religion is the most important element in life."

The Pax Romana is an international organization of all Catholic Action student groups. Pax Romana includes some ninety-five college and university organizations from all over the world and recently two million Catholic Students.

Prov. Club To Sponsor Refugee

Refugee This Year

The Providence Club will sponsor a refugee this year. This disclosure came from Thomas Grady, president of the Providence Club.

At its meeting of last Thursday, the Providence Club held a discussion of the question regarding the refugee. Dr. John O'Herron regarding the refugee problem in general, and O'Herron's work with the Rhode Island Committee for Refugees was mentioned. Attention was called to an organization such as the club could alleviate the plight of refugees in many ways. Out of the discussion resulted this resolution to sponsor a refugee.

The club also appointed Charles Reilly, JL's delegate, and set up a committee to look into the possibilities of club cooperation in taking on a project regarding refugees.

President of the program is John Pelletier. Patrick Draw, 62, is treasurer, and John Casey, 61, secretary. Thaddeus McGeehan, who was very instrumental in raising the club to its present position, was president of the club until his death in an automobile accident.

"To be a PC Big Brother a student has to attend all monthly meetings, visit his little brother once a week and try to help the youngster in every way that he possibly can.

A typical visit to the Center usually consists in playing ball, helping a "little brother" with his school problems, or taking a two-hour ride.

The object of the club is not to make a material relationship with the youth, but to give them money or gifts. The students strive for companionship, which is what the boys lack most. The "Big Brothers" will be trying to round up equipment it has out on loan to various students.

"Big Brothers" Enlarge: Fifty PC Men Sponsors

By STAFF REPORTER

One of the most rapidly growing groups on the PC campus is the Providence College Youth Organization, known about the campus simply as the "Big Brothers." The club was founded by Joseph Rivers and Donald Cummings, both of the class of 1959, with Rev. Paul M. James, O.P., of the sociology department.

The purpose of this organization is to fill the gap in the lives of boys whose environment has not provided them with mature guidance and companionship. More than fifty members visit their "little brothers" at the Dr. Patrick O'Rourke Children's Center on Mount Pleasant Avenue, Providence, once a week. These children are for the most part orphans or products of broken homes.

Program for the semester is to be a PC Big Brother a student has to attend all monthly meetings, visit his little brother once a week and try to help the youngster in every way that he possibly can.

A typical visit to the Center usually consists in playing ball, helping a "little brother" with his school problems, or taking a two-hour ride.

The object of the club is not to make a material relationship with the youth, but to give them money or gifts. The students strive for companionship, which is what the boys lack most. The "Big Brothers" will be trying to round up equipment it has out on loan to various students.

The object of the club is not to make a material relationship with the youth, but to give them money or gifts. The students strive for companionship, which is what the boys lack most. The "Big Brothers" will be trying to round up equipment it has out on loan to various students.

The object of the club is not to make a material relationship with the youth, but to give them money or gifts. The students strive for companionship, which is what the boys lack most. The "Big Brothers" will be trying to round up equipment it has out on loan to various students.

The object of the club is not to make a material relationship with the youth, but to give them money or gifts. The students strive for companionship, which is what the boys lack most. The "Big Brothers" will be trying to round up equipment it has out on loan to various students.

The object of the club is not to make a material relationship with the youth, but to give them money or gifts. The students strive for companionship, which is what the boys lack most. The "Big Brothers" will be trying to round up equipment it has out on loan to various students.

The object of the club is not to make a material relationship with the youth, but to give them money or gifts. The students strive for companionship, which is what the boys lack most. The "Big Brothers" will be trying to round up equipment it has out on loan to various students.

The object of the club is not to make a material relationship with the youth, but to give them money or gifts. The students strive for companionship, which is what the boys lack most. The "Big Brothers" will be trying to round up equipment it has out on loan to various students.

The object of the club is not to make a material relationship with the youth, but to give them money or gifts. The students strive for companionship, which is what the boys lack most. The "Big Brothers" will be trying to round up equipment it has out on loan to various students.

The object of the club is not to make a material relationship with the youth, but to give them money or gifts. The students strive for companionship, which is what the boys lack most. The "Big Brothers" will be trying to round up equipment it has out on loan to various students.

The object of the club is not to make a material relationship with the youth, but to give them money or gifts. The students strive for companionship, which is what the boys lack most. The "Big Brothers" will be trying to round up equipment it has out on loan to various students.

The object of the club is not to make a material relationship with the youth, but to give them money or gifts. The students strive for companionship, which is what the boys lack most. The "Big Brothers" will be trying to round up equipment it has out on loan to various students.

The object of the club is not to make a material relationship with the youth, but to give them money or gifts. The students strive for companionship, which is what the boys lack most. The "Big Brothers" will be trying to round up equipment it has out on loan to various students.

The object of the club is not to make a material relationship with the youth, but to give them money or gifts. The students strive for companionship, which is what the boys lack most. The "Big Brothers" will be trying to round up equipment it has out on loan to various students.
A NEW BROOM SWEEPS CLEAN. Newly elected freshmen representatives Robert Graham (standing) and Joe Wall get down to business. Graham and Wall were elected near the end of January and will represent the freshman dorm students.

WDOM Plans Announced; New Equipment Loaned

WDOM, surrounded for the few weeks since the semester opened by an aura of alteration, has given an exclusive news release concerning station changes to The Cowl. New packaging, programming, and equipment have been introduced.

The station studios now have a United Press International teletype machine operating 24 hours a day. One of the first newscasts received in the WDOM studio was "PC to the newsflashes received in the news release concerning station over $2000.

Approximately ten colleges and universities have been engaged in discussion on the merits of the compulsory program. The biggest battle over the ROTC issue is raging at Cornell University where an overwhelming number of students voted in an all-school opinion poll in favor of abolishing the compulsory ROTC program and replacing it with a voluntary one. A proposal to reduce the number of accredited military subjects and replace them with normal University courses with civilian instruction has been submitted to the University of Idaho for study.

A committee report calling for gradual elimination of compulsory military training at Michigan State University has been accepted by the 2800 student Congress. A faculty study commission has recommended that a voluntary instead of a compulsory program be installed next fall.

At the University of California, two years ago, students voted two to one against compulsory ROTC, but no action has been taken on this yet.

KNICKERBOCKER
satisfies your thirst for living!

It took four generations of family tradition to produce the matchless Ruppert Knickerbocker flavor. One swallow and you'll know why it took so long. Fine beer, like a fine family name, gains character with each generation. If you want a glorious golden example of family pride, open a Ruppert and swallow deep!

Live a little! Have a Ruppert Knickerbocker!

Compulsory ROTC Aroused Great Deal Of Controversy

A recent Department of Defense policy statement announcing that it does not care whether the nation's college ROTC programs are voluntary or required has brought an eruption of action aimed at changing present compulsory programs to a voluntary basis.

The station studios now have a United Press International teletype machine operating 24 hours a day. One of the first newscasts received in the WDOM studio was "PC to the newsflashes received in the news release concerning station over $2000.

Approximately ten colleges and universities have been engaged in discussion on the merits of the compulsory program. The biggest battle over the ROTC issue is raging at Cornell University where an overwhelming number of students voted in an all-school opinion poll in favor of abolishing the compulsory ROTC program and replacing it with a voluntary one. A proposal to reduce the number of accredited military subjects and replace them with normal University courses with civilian instruction has been submitted to the University of Idaho for study.

A committee report calling for gradual elimination of compulsory military training at Michigan State University has been accepted by the 2800 student Congress. A faculty study commission has recommended that a voluntary instead of a compulsory program be installed next fall.

At the University of California, two years ago, students voted two to one against compulsory ROTC, but no action has been taken on this yet.

The situation was recently highlighted by the hunger strike of an 18-year-old against compulsory service.

Voluntary ROTC at the University of Wisconsin appears to be a possibilty for next year, since the Wisconsin Board of Regents has decided to take a mail vote on the controversial issue.

In a letter to the president of Michigan State University, Army Chief of Staff General L. Lemnitzer expressed grave concern over the trend toward the ROTC programs. "In time of emergency, these young officers constitute the main source of skilled and trained leadership necessary for our company grade officers," said Lemnitzer.

Copies of the letter were sent to ROTC installations throughout the country.

This is the B-52. Advanced as it may be, this airplane has one thing in common with the first war-galleys of ancient Egypt... and with the air and space vehicles of the future. Someone must navigate it.

For certain young men this presents a career of real executive opportunity. Here, perhaps you will have the chance to master a profession full of meaning, excitement and rewards... as a Navigator in the U. S. Air Force.

To qualify for Navigator training as an Aviation Cadet you must be a U.S. citizen between 19 and 26, single, healthy and intelligent. A high school diploma is required, but some college is highly desirable. Successful completion of the training program leads to a commission as a Second Lieutenant... and your Navigator wings.

If you think you have what it takes to measure up to the Aviation Cadet Program for Navigator training, see your local Air Force Recruiter. Or clip and mail this coupon.

There's a place for tomorrow's leaders in the Aerospace Team.

U.S. AIR FORCE
Editorially Speaking

Untapped Riches . . .

Each year, organizations such as the Ford Foundation, the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, and the United States Government itself spend and invest millions of dollars in the promotion of fellowships and aid for graduate study to promising college graduates. In addition, private and state-operated educational aid funds vary greatly and are not usually available to undergraduate students. These are available to students considering law, medicine, research, the humanities, and home economies.

The complaint is not too infrequent that an application for any aid was too late to receive consideration. Consequently, the student may "throw away" an opportunity for postgraduate work through some simple error of not meeting an application deadline, or lack of concrete entrance data. It seems a shame to waste the possibility of enriching the mind for personal satisfaction, as well as for a sound contribution to society and family because of a technical slip-up.

The time is now, for underclassmen as well as seniors, to change their attitude and getting that "in" about a favorite university. Set a deadline date and then begin writing those seemingly endless letters of application. About half the money set aside each year goes unspent because the right letter did not find its way to the right desk at the right time.

That missing letter might be yours!

Juniors Journalize . . .

Congratulations to the junior class for their display of initiative in publishing a mimeographed class newspaper whimsically entitled The Cowl. We have long heard that plans were afoot for other classes to carry out similar projects, but this marks the first class publication to come off the "presses" this year.

When the subject, however, they wish to inject a few reminders to present and future editors of class publications. Very briefly, our point is that the expression of opinions in print carries with it the responsibility to conform to the journalistic ideals of objectivity and intellectual integrity.

In The Cowl, for example, we take pains to eliminate personal comment or coloration of news stories by the reporters. Personal opinion is strictly segregated and clearly indicated through the media of signed articles and the editorial column.

Class publications are a fine and commendable thing, with potentiality for unfold benefits to the class involved. So long as they are run by student politicians rather than student journalists should be kept as far in the background as possible.

Campus Apathy . . .

"I had to study." "Didn't sound very interesting." " Couldn't afford it."

These are only three of the many varied excuses students can concoct to explain away their absence at an "optional" college function. To them and their associates, the word "optional" means "skip it."

In The Cowl, for example, we take pains to eliminate personal comment or coloration of news stories by the reporters. Personal opinion is strictly segregated and clearly indicated through the media of signed articles and the editorial column.

Class publications are a fine and commendable thing, with potentiality for unfold benefits to the class involved. So long as they are run by student politicians rather than student journalists should be kept as far in the background as possible.

Campus Apathy . . .

"I had to study." "Didn't sound very interesting." " Couldn't afford it."

These are only three of the many varied excuses students can concoct to explain away their absence at an "optional" college function. To them and their associates, the word "optional" means "skip it."

It's a disease called apathy. Chief signs are glazed eyeballs, listless attitudes, empty auditoriums, sparse attendance at meetings. It strikes gradually, imperceptibly at first. Suddenly it gathers momentum, racing ahead to a dead stop.

A campus overcome by apathy is a sad spectacle. Unless one's presence at a function is mandatory, attendance is likely to be sparse. Money-making projects fall because people "just didn't get around to going over there." Club memberships dwindles down to lists of names—so that there'll be a few names left on the lower ones in the credit in the yearbook. Traditional respects of underclasses for upperclasses begins to fade. Gripes sessions grow commonplace. Complaints about lack of social life abound, yet dances are ignored.

Apathy is a villainous disease, for once it begins its progressive spread it is hard to stop. Incubation with interest is a good preventive, with frequent booster shots of gung-ho enthusiasm.

The SEARCH FOR BRIDE SIGAFOOS

It was a dullish evening at the Theta house. The pledges were down in the catacombs; the actives were sunk out upstairs, not doing much of anything. Mary Ellen Krumbald was sticking pins in an effigy of the housemother; Evelyn Reamster was making a matronize over to her charm bracelet; Agnes McKeen was writing a letter to Fabian in blood. Like I say, it was a dullish evening.

Suddenly Dolores Vladyan stood up and stamped her foot. "Chaps," she said, "and everybody, this is the day it was set. Let's do something gay and mad and gimp-making. Anybody get an idea?"

"No," said the sorors, shaking their little saucy curls. "Think, chap, think!" said Dolores and passed Marbro cigarette to everybody, for if there ever was a smoke to start you thinking, it is mild and flavorful Marboro! Things come clear when you puff that good, clean smoke through that fine filter—knots untie, dilemmas dissolve, problems evaporate, cothorns vanish, fog dissipates, and the benevolent sun pours radiance on a new and doury world. Oh, happy world! Oh, Madison! Oh, soft pastel! Oh, flip-top box! Oh, get some already!

3 More know 'des and will spend $2000 pounds

Now Geraldine Quirkman, her dropping brain cells revirified by a good Marboro, leap up and cried, "Oh, I have a perfect guess of an idea! Let's hypnotize somebody!"

"Oh, hush!" cried the sorors. "Oh, tingle-making!"

At this point, in walked a young pledge named Alice Blue-braun.

"Excuse me, misteress," said she, tugging her lambok, "I have finished making my beds, doing your homework, and brushing your pleats. Will there be anything else?"

"Yes," snapped Dolores Vladyan. "When I count to three, you will be hypnotized."

"Yes, excellency," said Alice, hobbing a curtsey.

"One, two, three," said Dolores. Alice promptly went into a trance.

"Go back," said Dolores, "back into your childhood. Go back to your fifth birthday, back to your birth, to your last incarnation . . . Now, who are you?"

"My name is Bridey Sigafoos," said Alice. "The year is 1818, and I am in County Cork."

"Coo!" said the sorors. "How old are you?" asked Dolores.

"I am seven," said Alice. "Where is your mother?" asked Dolores.

"I don't know," said Alice. "She get sold at the fair last year."

"Coo!" said the sorors. "Tell us about yourself," said Dolores.

"I am five feet tall," said Alice. "I have brown eyes, and I weigh 220 pounds."

"Coo!" said the sorors. "Isn't that rather heavy for a girl?" said Dolores.

"Who's a girl?" said Alice. "I'm a black and white guernsey."

"Coo!" said the sorors.

"Moo?" said Bridey Sigafous.

"Moo!" said Bridey Sigafous.

We, the makers of Marlboro, have our doubts about this story. We, however, are quite sure that false statements are sometimes made by self-evident Marlboro for filter smokers. Philip Morris for non-filter smokers. Try some.

The STAFF

CHARLES J. GÖTZ, EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

UNDERGRADUATE ADVISOR, Dale P. Faulkner; MANAGING EDITOR, HENRY RAMSEY; BUSINESS MANAGER, Paul Humann; ASSOCIATE EDITORS, John Casey, David Donnelly; SPORTS EDITORS, Burton Hills; ART DIRECTORS, Arthur Martin, Peter A. Konis; SPORTS ASSISTANT EDITOR, Krumbald; ASSISTANT PHOTOGRAPHER, Alan D. Jones; CONTRIBUTING EDITORS, Charles J. Götz, Lester D. Klimek.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS, Robert P. Glavich, John J. Contiague.

THE COWL, Published weekly each full week of school during the academic year, at 371 Cowl House, Providence, R. I.

(Author of "I Was a Teen-age Dwarf", "The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis", etc.)

THE COWL -- FEBRUARY 24, 1950
LETTERS...

To The Editor:

The tremendous demand for tickets to the Holy Cross game again pointed out the fact that for the bigger basketball attractions, Alumni Hall with its 3300 capacity is hopelessly inadequate. In the future, the Holiday Tournament and games with the likes of Holy Cross, Niagara and St. Bonaventure should be shifted to the larger Rhode Island Auditorium. The Auditorium's capacity for basketball exceeds 6000. The difference between that figure and 2300 would take care of any rental difficulties and would leave the school a much larger profit than it could hope for at Alumni Hall.

It is reasonable to expect that the increased revenue would allow the athletic department to return the school a much larger profit than it could hope for at Alumni Hall.

Another consideration is that the better Eastern teams would think more seriously about the Providence campus in an attempt to secure spots in the Rhode Island School of Design. A statement released elsewhere of any connection with the station's project during the second semester.

Respectfully yours,

Ken Clements, '59

(Please note: This letter was continued from Page 3.)

& W。DOM on F

I. and represents R

LILLA, B.S., Ph.G., a freshman.

To The Editor:

Having resigned as station manager of WDOM previous to the commencement of the second semester, I object to The Cow's reference to me as "station manager." In the article, "RICE Students Favor Broad Possibilities," in last week's Cowl, Cowl's reference to me as "staff manager" in the article, "RICE Students Favor Broadcast Possibilities," is in last week's Cowl.

With my resignation, I have no further connection with WDOM, and I feel it a personal responsibility to vindicate myself of any connection with the station's project during the second semester.

Respectfully yours,

Samuel J. Amuso

The Cowl erred in referring to WDOM as "RICE Students Favor Broadcast Possibilities," in last week's Cowl. In reply to the letter by the Nomadic Twenty-four in the February 17, issue, I would like to state that a small group of PC fans who were in the Alumni area last Saturday for the wedding of a Providence student and who elected to go to the Sienna game last Saturday received excellent assistance from our own athletic department in the person of Fr. Begley who extended to us every hospitality and we would like to reciprocate by offering our appreciation.

Sincerely yours,

Ken O'Rourke, '63

To The Editor:

In reply to the letter by the Nomadic Twenty-four in the February 17, issue, I would like to state that a small group of PC fans who were in the Alumni area last Saturday for the wedding of a Providence student and who elected to go to the Sienna game last Saturday received excellent assistance from our own athletic department in the person of Fr. Begley who extended to us every hospitality and we would like to reciprocate by offering our appreciation.

Sincerely yours,

Ken Clements, '59

WDOM EQUIPMENT

(Continued from Page 3)

rector; Bill Molinaro, publicity; and Maureen Baldwin, executive secretary.

Student representative of the station of the RICE campus is Daniel Pires, a freshman. Ken O'Rourke represents WDOM on the Rhode Island School of Design.

A statement released elsewhere.

D'Orio's Lounge

903 CHALKSTONE AVE

Dancing Fri. & Sat. Night

"2 Specs"

MA 1-2834

Your Home Away from Home

WDOM EQUIPMENT

Sensational Record Bargain!

12" LP VINYL

Specially Pressed by RCA Custom Records

Just released for VICEROY

— The Cigarette

A Thinking Man's Filter... A Smoking Man's Taste!

WHAT A RECORD!!

10 GREAT JAZZ NUMBERS

Marlins' Luoloshy — March Of The Toys
Royal Garden Blues — Just A Mood
Eroit's Bounce — St. James Infirmary
Cublinhia — Tin Roof Blues

Played By Your Favorite Artists

Benny Goodman — Louis Armstrong
Eruit Geiner — Sherry Rogers
Aldo Biondo — Dick Bongos
Ben Webster — Red Norvo
Bob Scoby — Buck Clayton
Vic Dickenson — Sax Stewart

Dukes Of Dixieland

Get

Campus

Jazz

Festival

—the Hottest Jazz Record In Years

For Only $1.00

— and 2 VICEROY Cigarette packages!

Hurry! Hurry! Get this truly great jazz record at a low, low price, while the limited supply lasts! Record features your top favorite Jazz Instrumentalists— winners in a national popularity survey of American College and University Students. Send for Campus Jazz Festival today. Use coupon below!

To: The Cowl by WDOM. We intend in the future to be of service to the College with programming, with which we hope will entertain, inform, and interest the resident students and the faculty.

WDOM is located at 600 on your standard radio set. It is transmitted on the campus only through the electrical wires.

This station of the RICE campus has just completed the construction of record shelves in the office capable of holding 1000 L.P. albums. Other equipment has been installed.
By Donald Procaccini

AT  the Loews is "Solomon and Sheba" which must be chalked up as another colossal, stupendous, five million dollar flop. The utter lack of characterization of the parts of Solomon and Sheba is faithfully reflected in the movie, which consists almost entirely of a procession of uninspired essays in conventional pseudo-Biblical language with a few gory battles thrown in for good measure.

Yul Brynner manages to muster two facial expressions, one silly and the other too lewd to describe here. Gina Lollobrigida looks for all the world as if she had swallowed a canary but after all she was properly contrapposto and that take it in her sole function. Unfortunately there is nothing to excite, but even interest, other than the battle scenes.

Radiation from a Third World War has wiped out all earthly life with the exception of the isolated continent of Australia. But here too the threat of radiation increases day by day; people drop out of sight nevermore to return; cities are cold and silent. The last stronghold of a dying race is weakening. Such is the theme of "On The Beach" based on the late Neville Shute's award winning novel.

The emergent movie is an honest, forthright story that wisely leaves all moralizing to the audience. The effect is nerve-shattering. So devastating in fact that audiences throughout the world sat in stunned silence at the conclusion.

A great deal of the power of the story hinges on the sensitive and uniformly adept portrayals of blighted humans by the fine cast headed by Gregory Peck, Ava Gardner, Tony Perkins and Fred Astaire. This is a picture not soon forgotten.

At the Majestic is one of the worst pictures I have seen in years, "Jack The Ripper." Sketchily concocted of a few badly spliced episodes, the movie emerges as a pastiche of muggings of properly wide-eyed actresses, the inevitable chase (shades of Mack Sennett), and a humdrum, uninspired finale. Indeed the advance ads in the newspapers generated more excitement than the movie itself.

HOCKEY
(Continued from page 8)
The Friars battle Eastern Collegiate hockey's one-time powerhouse Boston College at McHugh Forum, Feb. 27. The Eagles came into Providence on February 4 with a 9-3-1 record and the Eastern leadership in their pocket. However, BC was upset by the Friars 5-1, and has been having troubles ever since. The Eagles have lost four of eight contests since the PC game. They have also lost the services of their outstanding goaltender Jim Logue for the remainder of the year and forward Jack Cunack for two games.

Logue and Cunack were suspended for their actions in the Bean Pot Tournament game the Eagles lost to Northeastern 6-5. It seems BC scored the potential tying goal after the game was over. Logue, who disputed the ruling, took a swing at Referee Dick Kelley. Cunack tried to get through the glass protecting the goal judge. Sophomore Charlie Driscoll is the new BC goaltender.

BC's first line will be composed of Bill Daley, out of the first Friar-Eagle game with an injury. Ron Walsh and Owen Hughes. The second line will be made up of Jack Cunack, playing after his suspension, Bobby Leonard, and Captain Chris Smith.

A challenging future awaits the right person in IBM...a company whose growth is as dynamic as the services it renders.

As an IBM MARKETING REPRESENTATIVE, you will be highly trained in the practical applications of data processing to business and management practices. Your work will bring you into daily contact with top-level executives in many different industries. You will learn to apply modern data processing techniques and developments to a wide variety of business problems in banking, insurance, manufacturing, transportation, government, and many other fields.

Qualifications: Bachelor's or advanced degree in engineering, mathematics, science, economics, accounting, business administration or liberal arts.

To help you fill positions leading to challenging and rewarding management responsibilities, you will receive comprehensive training plus the support of experienced specialists. Additional advantages are a long list of liberal company-paid benefits, a tuition refund plan for continued study, and a program of promotion from within.

Make a date to talk to an IBM representative on campus. Contact your College Placement Officer to arrange for your interview. If you cannot attend, call or write,
ORDINARILY, when a season-long winning streak comes to an end, many excuses are given and much soft-hearted (and often softheaded) sympathy is directed toward the previously undefeated team.

With this in mind, one hesitates in approaching the unfortunate official who had blown away the tying basket, after due consideration, it seems that some violently protesting the call, mention has to be made concerning the demise of the frosh’s undefeated skein, Allen’s team has been vastly neglected in the doling out of publicity. It’s unfortunate that Led by its pint-sized high scorer, Vinny Ernst, they’ve Alumni Hall fans with a far more devastating offense than have their seniors.

Ernst has time and again been compared to the remarkable Dick Whalen. Earlier in the year, PC had romped over the same Eaglet team, winning 84-72. At one time in that contest, Coach Jackie Allen’s crowd-pleasing basketeers had led by as much as 31 points and, during one searing stretch, had outscored the opposition 23-2. Ray Flynn’s shooting has been likened to that of the remarkable Dick Whalen. Former stars Spencer and Jenkins have controlled the backboard with such completeness that Jim Hadnot must be wondering about next December and Jake Woods. * * *

Boston College proved to be the culprit, lurking in Robert’s Center on the BC campus. Earlier in the year, PC had led by as much as 31 points and, during one searing stretch, had outscored the opposition 23-2.

SO EXASPERATED was the BC coach, that he pulled out his first five in a desperate ple for Allen to remove his bomb-throwing demolition experts.

The Friarlings led throughout most of the contest, but never by more than five or six points. Then, midway through the second half, the Eagles became red hot, erased the PC lead and shot out in front. Gradually they increased their margin, spurred on by a fanatic crowd who smelled an upset. With two minutes remaining, the score read 61-50 and BC seemed to have a secure lead. It’s ironic that it took a defeat to qualify this club for comparison with the ‘56-’57 undefeated five. They’ve earned the term ‘great team’ now.

With four seconds remaining, the score read 61-50 and BC plus side. Outside, the riotous PC fans continued their celebration. It lasted well into the night.

IT WAS a tough way to lose, as fans were heard to remark. Comments varied from “it was a good try” to “that was some comeback, wasn’t it?” Allen and his charges furiously slammed around the unfortunate official who had blown away the tying basket, violently protesting the call. It was to no avail. And as PC patrons at almost every home encounter. They’re a solid explosive club with as lethal attack as has been seen on Smith Hill in some time.

Ernst has time and again been compared with the fleet Space Egan. Ray Flynn’s shooting has been likened to that of the remarkable Dick Whalen. Former stars Spencer and Jenkins have controlled the backboard with such completeness that Jim Hadnot must be wondering about next December and Jake Woods. * * *

ERNST has time and again been compared with the fleet Space Egan. Ray Flynn’s shooting has been likened to that of the remarkable Dick Whalen. Former stars Spencer and Jenkins have controlled the backboard with such completeness that Jim Hadnot must be wondering about next December and Jake Woods. * * *

With two minutes remaining, the score read 61-50 and BC seemed to have a secure lead. It’s ironic that it took a defeat to qualify this club for comparison with the ‘56-’57 undefeated five. They’ve earned the term ‘great team’ now.

UNTIL LAST Saturday, there was one talent which they had as yet not displayed. It was the ability to produce when the scoreboard wasn’t in their favor, they wouldn’t quit. BC players and fans will attest to the yearlings’ gameness.

"Weni, widi, Winston!" Thus did Caesar (a notoriously poor speller) hail the discovery of Filter-Blend—light, mild tobaccos specially selected and specially processed for filter smoking. He knew that a pure white filter alone is not enough. To be a complete filter cigarette, it must have Filter-Blend up front. And only Winstons’ got it! That’s why Caesar would never accept another brand even when it was offered gratis. In fact, history tells us he’d glower at the extended pack and sneer, "El tu, Brute?" In a stirring peroration to his legions, Caesar put it this way: "For the Numerical 1 filter cigarette—for the best-tasting filter cigarette—for the noblest filter cigarette of all—smoke Winston!"

"Winston tastes good like a cigarette should!"

P.S. to bachelors. If you’re lucky enough to find a gal who’ll keep you in Winstons, Caesar!
The two dressing rooms told the story. One was a clamoring, exciting and spartaling spectacle. The other was a strangely quiet place, with the hissing of showers predominant over the low murmurs of its occupants. Coach Joe Mallamy of the winners was seen wandering about muttering, "That Foley, he was tough."

Then he hit a jumper, notched a Jumper with 15 points, followed by a short jumper, two by fours, and zeroed in with three key baskets that broke the back of Wagner. But the Smith Hillers never lost the icy cold calm of a team hungry for the end of a twenty year famine.

Young Jimmy Hadnot's 29 points marked the game of his life. Tallying twelve points, Space Egan pulled out all the stops with a halfballing exhibition to rival the wizards of the NBA. Len Willikens teamed with Egan to bedevil the Crusaders with a series of setup hoops dropped into the hands of the towering 6'10" Hadnot.

Dick Whelan almost seemed to lie in ambush until the Crusaders threatened mid-way in the second half. Then he uncoiled his patented one-hander and scored in with three key baskets that broke the back of the BC rally.

Both teams started slowly with Providence chalking up 8:17, 10:53, and 12:7 advantages in the first seven minutes of the game.

The teams traded points frugally until baskets by Wilkens and Hadnot shot PC into a 26-14 lead with eight minutes left in the half.

With the Friars still ahead, they scored nine of their first 10 shots.

Eagles threw the ball away after Jimmy's charity toss, but Cap, Len Willikens was fouled as he took Len Guimares' pass. He stepped to the line and provided the Friars with their final three-point advantage.

Willikens was run-up to Hadnot in the scoring parade with 12 points, followed by Egan (10). Space also set up numerous shots for his teammatues, especially Hadnot. Other PC scorers were Dick Whelan (8), and John Woods and Rick Holzheiner (2 each).

Saturday night the Mallaney was watched by Coach Dan Canha's Siena Indians, who played tight, ball-control game. The Sirens were defeated into a 26-19 advantage after the first period. The Indians, who played tight, ball-control game in the opener, hit on most of their shots, while the Friars were sinking only nine of their 27 attempts.

Legacies scored the first four points early in the game on a pair of long set shots. The Indians tied the game at 5:9, 13:18, and 17:17, and finally, at 15:45 of the period, they took the lead at 18:17 on a free throw by Pat Martone. Martone scored another before intermission for Siena and Hadnot exploded in a two-pointer from close-in as the Friars finished the first half.

But it was a different story in the second half, when Egan took over. Jimmy was high scorer in the game with 16 points, most of them in the final, during which he hit on 11 of 11 field goal attempts.

Willikens was right behind Egan with 10 points, and he set up many of Space's baskets. Hadnot scored nine points in this game, but had one of his worst shooting nights percent-wise. He hit on only three of his first 10 shots.

The Friars then stretched their advantage to 80-35, until a guy named Foley started to pour in the points.

Foley hit a jumper from the side, Shea shot a jumper and two free throws, and the score was 84-41. Foley hit a foul shot. He then hit a jumper from the side and rocketed two on a tap-in. Baskets by Guimares and Whelan during this siege provided PC with a 83-46 edge, but "The Shot" was had, and Hadnot had four goals.

The score read 66-56 when a jumper from Foley brought the Crusaders up to 66-59. But they missed their free throw, giving the Friars a 67-59 lead.

Foley hit the cords for his eight baskets in the first half. Crusaders up to 66-59. But they hit the cords for their eight baskets in the first half.

Foley hit the cords for his eight baskets in the first half. But they missed their free throw, giving the Friars a 67-59 lead.

Foley hit the cords for his eight baskets in the first half. But they missed their free throw, giving the Friars a 67-59 lead.

Foley hit the cords for his eight baskets in the first half. But they missed their free throw, giving the Friars a 67-59 lead.

Foley hit the cords for his eight baskets in the first half. But they missed their free throw, giving the Friars a 67-59 lead.

Foley hit the cords for his eight baskets in the first half. But they missed their free throw, giving the Friars a 67-59 lead.

Foley hit the cords for his eight baskets in the first half. But they missed their free throw, giving the Friars a 67-59 lead.