Debaters Here
March 17, 18, 19

Debating teams from 38 colleges and universities in New York and New England states will take part in a district elimination tournament at Providence College, March 17, 18, and 19, which will determine District VIII's representative in the West Point National Debate Tournament.

Each institution will enter a two man team prepared to debate either side of this year's topic: "Resolved: that Congress should be given power to reverse decisions of the Supreme Court.

The top five teams at the end of eight rounds of debate, will represent District VIII at the National Finals Tournament to be held West Point on April 21, 22, and 23.

The opening rounds are to be argued at the Sheraton-Berkeley Hotel on Thursday, March 17, and Friday, March 18. University of Rhode Island students will serve as timekeepers for rounds one and two. These rounds are not open to the public.

Debates will also be held on Saturday, March 18, at Hawkins Hall. PC students will time the final two rounds.

Second Fitting Urged
For Junior Class Rings

Junior class ring committee co-chairman Jack Partridge has announced that the second fitting for the class ring will be made on Monday, March 21, 1960. The sizing will be done by the ring company to each individual. This will be the only free sizing offered by the ring company to the class if an individual fails to take advantage of this opportunity and later decides to receive the ring that it is the wrong size, then he will have to pay for the expense of a re-sizing himself, added Partridge. The committee therefore has urged everyone to take advantage of this opportunity.

The delivery date will be April 1, 1960.

Deviations Tonight

The Rev. Frederick Jelly, O.P., will be the speaker at tonight's Lenten devotions in Aquinas Hall Chapel. The ceremonies will start at 19:30 p.m. Lenten devotions are held each Wednesday evening during the penitential season.

MONEY IS THE ROOT OF ALL FUN, IT SEEMS. Tickets for the freshman class "Weekend On The Riviers," scheduled for May 13-15 are already attracting quite a flood of legal tender. The bids are priced at twelve dollars.

Junior Bids On Sale;
Communion Breakfast
Plans Still Uncertain

The forthcoming Junior Prom went into the active stage today as bids appeared on sale in Harkins Hall Rotunda and the Cafeteria during the lunch hour, announced ticket committee chairman Ron Schauster.

This year's affair will have four different events. A jazz festival will lead off the festivities on Friday night followed by a picnic and the prom on Saturday. Concluding the weekend will be a breakfast on Sunday morning.

Ticket sales at the PC athletic department are far ahead of expectation. 1000 student tickets went on sale at 9:00 Monday and the tickets were gone at 1:00 p.m. The 1000 adult tickets which the school received were also sold out early Monday.

Yesterday, the athletic department reported they received 660 more student tickets and 400 adult tickets and expected them to be gone before the day was over.

This means that an estimated 2500 fans will be entering Madison Square Garden on Thursday evening to cheer for Providence College with tickets purchased at the college.

Mr. Vincent Cuddy of the athletic department estimated that with the Providence fans in the New York area and those from Connecticut, Providence would have a very strong cheering section of approximately 5000 for their first round game with Memphis State.

The student tickets being sold at the athletic department are for the Frosh-Soph to experience the Garden as the PC students held down the junior prom the same way. These tickets are priced at $1.25 each. The adult tickets being sold (Continued on Page 2)

The Friars have returned to the NIT. And they are not alone. Once again, the Providence College cheering section will be one of the largest in Madison Square Garden when Joe Mullaney sends his charges to the floor in quest of the tournament title.

Ticket sales at the PC athletic department were as rapid as could be expected. 1900 student tickets went on sale at 9:00 Monday and the tickets were gone at 1:00 p.m. The 1000 adult tickets which the school received were also sold out early Monday.

Glee Club Announces Spring Concert Plans

The Rev. Raymond B. St. George, O.P., has announced that the 1960 annual Spring Tour of the Providence College Glee Club will take place from March 15 to March 20.

The first concert of the club will take place at Highland Falls, N. Y., on the evening of March 15, with the Glee Club of Ladycliff College. The campus of Immaculate College, in Philadelphia, will be the scene of the next joint concert, on March 16.

The Glee Club traditionally sings each year for the students and faculty at Seton Hall, a Dominican coeducational secondary school in Paterson, Long Island. This concert will be held on the eighteenth.

Solists at these concerts are Maurice Martone, tenor, Donald Procaccini, pianist, and the Dominicans, a double vocal quartet directed by Paul Hodges.

The audience repertoire, according to the Rev. Raymond B. St. George, O.P., musical director, is composed of classical pieces, traditional collegiate selections, and arrangements of popular Broadway music. A special feature of each concert is one of several novels with musical settings. Canon, "never fail to bring down the house.

Musicals sung this year are Oklahoma!, South Pacific, and My Fair Lady. Classics and traditional numbers include "May Thy Blessed Spirit," "Voa Maria," "Singin' Brothers, Sing On," and Becthooner's "Creation Hymn." In addition are Sjöberg's "Visions," Bullard's "Winter Song," and Frances Allitsen's setting of the Twenty-Sixth Psalm: "The Lord is my Light." Novelties include "Sing a Song of Sixpence," Schubert's "Parking Space," Davis' "The Deaf Old Woman," and Arndt's "An elaborate court system was to be substituted for old fashioned morality and honesty."

What YOU Can Do

For Brotherhood

1. Deal with people as individuals. Don't generalize about groups of people.

2. Have friends in all religion, racial and national groups.

3. Don't blame others for your own faults and troubles;

4. When you hear a bigot challenge prejudiced statements quietly with moral principles and facts.

5. Insist that each person be decided which is the more apropos term of derision.

Horror." People don't seem to have desired to put to the point whether they are as long as the money is right." For their patrons, it's more like "you pay your money and take your choice."

Small return anyone gets out of THAT money!

Apparently, the Student Congress is satisfied to tacitly endorse the high school canteen atmosphere. By all means let's not spoil such a grand and wonderful, moneymaking success; ideals are inconvenient.

The University of Oklahoma, where a campus debate between advocates of the voluntary system and an officer of the Okla­homa Reserve drew headlines in local papers, and the Univer­sity of California at Los An­geles, where a petition against compulsory ROTC had 2300 signatures as of Feb. 15, are the latest scenes of action in the growing move to make ROTC voluntary on college campuses.

 Brigadier General Clyde Watts denounced advocates of voluntary ROTC as "guileless cowards and panty waists" in a debate at Oklahoma last Wed­nesday.

 The case for voluntary ROTC was presented by George Hazel­rigg, past student body presi­dent, who pointed out that the student and faculty senators at Oklahoma had passed a resolu­tion to make ROTC participa­tion on the campus voluntary, and that the resolution had been sent to the Board of Regents of the University.

 UCLA held a rally last week in favor of voluntary ROTC which was concluded with the signing of anti-compulsory ROTC petition. The petition had 2330 signatures by the day's end; the goal is 6000. The petition will then be sent to Governor Brown.

 The ROTC issue is also being debated at Missouri, Oregon State, Arizona State and the University of Washington.

 Motion to abolish compulsory ROTC have already been passed by student and faculty senates at Michigan State and the Uni­versity of Wisconsin. The deci­sion of the Board of Trustees at Michigan is scheduled for sometime in April.

 Of the 313 schools which have an ROTC program, includ­ing Providence College, are already on a voluntary basis. Of the 177 institutions which still have a compulsory program, 61 are land grant schools.

 Though the Morrill Act, which provided for federal grants to land grant colleges, requires participat­ing schools to offer military training courses, it does not re­quire that the courses by compulsory.

 However, nearly all re­quire male students to take two years of basic training. Notable exceptions are Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Min­nesota and Utah State.

 MARRIAGE SPEAKERS
 "Marriage and Morals" will be the topic of this week's Prov­idence College Marriage Forum. The Rev. John P. Kenny, O.P., head of the philosophy depart­ment, will see the featured speaker.

 The forum is being conducted weekly at 7:30 on Sunday nights. The meetings are held in Harkins Hall Auditorium.

 "Maybe I'm just too old to comprehend the modern eco­nomic theory that a man or a nation can live in perpetuity on the cull,"—Inez Robb.

 It took four generations of family tradition to produce the matchless Ruppert Knickerbocker flavor. One swallow and you'll know why it took so long. Like the fine family name, gains character with each generation. Ruppert Knickerbocker tastes the way other beers would like to taste if only they knew how.

 Live a little! Have a Ruppert Knickerbocker!

 "One should look for com­panionship in a husband or wife, but you have to realize that no one is per­fect," stated Rev. James M. Murphy, O.P., at the opening of the annual marriage forum series, Fri. Mur­phy, who is Dean of resident students and chairman of the sociology department, spoke before an app­proximately 300 couples in Harkins Hall Sunday night.

 Fr. Murphy added that no marriage is happy and secure merely by chance. He em­phasized common sense, think­ing and prudent choosing in finding a marriage partner.

 The next lecture of the mar­riage forum will be held next Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

 "I don't know how I can sum up last night's performance in a few words. Perhaps I should say the least, maybe. However, I scored a minor triumph as he passionately threatened the ill-fated Carmen. The death scene was particularly effective. Perhaps the finest all-round performer of the evening was Mildred Allen's Micaela, and that is on the highest grounds. As a result her Carmen is just a bit ragged. Micaela and Carmen emerges not as a real person but as Jean Madeira's interpretation of the fourth annual mar­riage forum.

 Yet, in spite of this, Miss Madeira's singing was no ex­cellent and it seems to this re­viewer almost forgot her poor acting. Yet with all this, the opera is sung and clear, in the lower earth­ly and throaty.

Helping Hand Needed...

As previously announced, The Cowl will "hit the streets" with a special NIT edition in Madison Square Garden tomorrow evening. Our usual press run will be increased to an effort to ensure wider publicity among the tournament's hoop fans. The papers are also being pre-folded for added convenience.

It is planned to split bundles of papers among staff members, who, in turn, will seek your aid by subdividing the distribution task among volunteers from the ranks of students present. If you can spare but a few moments tomorrow night, we'd like you to help us help Providence College.

On The Spot...

It's probably unnecessary to drop any reminder that Providence College will not only be in the spotlight this coming week, but it will also be on the spot. In short, there will be more than a few people waiting to see whether the Friar fans come home with the same spooking reputation that they earned in New York last year.

Student conduct last year did more for the school than a million dollar worth of paid press-agency advertising. One can't just buy the type of complimentary advertisements that metropolitan newspapers applied to us last year. This year, it's going to be up to all of us not to make a mess out of a good thing.

Remember that we're going to a basketball game, not a football game. It's had enough to suffer a slam from a local columnist, but that doesn't quite compare to the verbal manhandling that several other groups of rambunctious college hoop fans took from the wire services lately.

There will be a lot of eyes watching in New York. Let's give them something good to look at.

Blaze(r) The Trail...

If you own, or can beg, borrow (but not steal) a Providence College blazer, tomorrow night is the time to show it off. The college is planning a semi-formal dance and a jamboree to provide music for their program.

The Cowls of the past month amounted to $2,000,000. The college has long been postponing some urgently needed repairs—a lightning rod for the men's dormitory, new hoops for the basketball court, leather patches for the chess team's elbow and a penknife for the Director of Admissions.

"An Embarrassment of Riches"

Twinkle, lovable old Dr. Waggast Sigafous, head of chemistry at the Upper Rhode Island College of Science and Palmistry, cares naught for glory and wealth. All he cares about is to work in his laboratory, to play Marquis quarter with a few cronies, to smoke a good Marboro, and to throw sticks for his faithful dog Trey to fetch.

So when, after years of patient research, Dr. Sigafous discovered Revero, a shaving cream which causes whiskers to grow inward instead of outward, thus enabling a man to bite off his beard instead of shaving it, he never even crossed his mind that he had come upon a key to fame and riches; he simply assigned all his royalties from Revero to the college and went on with his quiet life of working in the laboratory, playing Marquis quarter, smoking good Marlboros and throwing sticks for his faithful dog Trey. (Trey, incidentally, had died some years earlier but habit is a strong thing and Dr. Sigafous to this day continues to throw sticks.)

As everyone knows, Revero turned out to be a modestly successful shaving cream. Royalties in the first month amounted to $200,000, which in handy money was, because the college had long been postponing some urgently needed repairs—a lightning rod for the men's dormitory, new hoops for the basketball court, leather patches for the chess team's elbow and a penknife for the Director of Admissions.

But I digress. We were speaking of the royalties from Revero which continue to accrue at an astonishing rate—now in excess of one million dollars per week. The college is doing all it can to spend the money; the student-faculty ratio which used to be thirty students to one teacher is now thirty teachers to one student; the Gulf Stream has been purchased for the Department of Marine Biology; the Dean of Women has been gold-plated.

But money does not buy happiness, especially in the college world. Poverty and ills—that's the academic life—not power and self. The Upper Rhode Island College of Science and Palmistry is frankly embarrassed by all this wealth, but I am pleased to report that the trustees are not taking their calumity lying down. Last week they earmarked all the royalties for a research program headed by Dr. Waggast Sigafous to develop a whisker which is resistant to Revero. Let us all join in wishing the old gentleman success.

The sponsors of this column can't offer you money but they can offer you fine smoking flavor—with or without Alter. If you favor filters try a Marlboro. If non-filter* are your pleas'...

WINNERS OF EIGHTEEN out of their last nineteen games, the courtiers of Coach Joe Mullaney are set for Providence College's second consecutive National Invitation Tournament.

Tommorow night following the Villanova-Detroit clash which opens the annual post-season classic, the Friars will make another attempt to win over the cynics and skeptics of the New York, journalistic world. Of course, this year the setting is a little bit different.

Captain Lenny Wilkens will be leading a team which has been ranked among the top twenty teams in the nation since mid-January. No longer are the Smith Hillers the Cinderella five, merely attempting to make a decent showing...

DUNKEL'S RATINGS show us to be the third-ranked quintet participating in the NIT. Perhaps the only reason PC isn't among the seeded clubs in the tourney is the tremendous gateway attraction which they have proven themselves to be.

This has been a year of proofs for Mullaney's five. First came what many felt was a disastrous western trip, during which Providence dropped three consecutive ballgames, including one on the way home, to old nemesis St. John's of Brooklyn. It was on this tour, however, that the Friars proved to be a team capable of meeting high calibre competition.

Then came the St. Joseph clash, and last year's performance against Villanova in Philadelphia provided perhaps a bigger challenge than ever St. Joe's could provide, for Providence had won many fans with its inspired play against the Wildcats. This year, the thrilling, come-from-behind win and the eye-popping display put on by Wilkens was enough for the Palestra fans, however, and PC walked off the court with their fine Philadelphia reputation untarnished if not increased.

A CHALLENGE to Providence's New England supremacy rose next in the form of Holy Cross' highly-ranked Crusaders. Jim Hadnot, Space Egan and, of course, Wilkens proved more than capable of overcoming the threat. The Crusaders were disarmed to the tune of 80-68. For the first time in her history, Providence College had gone undefeated (Continued on Page 4)
URI Swamped By Thirty-One At Ram's Gym

The PC basketball team closed out its regular season on Thursday night with a second-period surge that buried the University of Rhode Island, 80-49, at Kingston.

The upset Rams gave the Friars their first loss of the season and, for the latest happening, buckled the Rhode Island team in the last five games against five teams with winning records. The only really bright light for the Rams was Dave Ricceto, high-scorer with 27 points, most of them in the first half.

Near the end of the opener the Mullaneys pulled out of their zone defense and started playing man-to-man. The Rhode coach Ernie Calverly had hoped they would be assigned to guard Ricceto was, of course, Wilkens, and he did his usual job on the fast runner.

Bill Jim Hadot was top scorer for the Friars with 25 points, followed closely by Jack Donahue, who was an early decision to mix in on the Friars if saw action, and all figured in the closing minutes of the period when the Providence lead went up to 36-10 at 1:47.

The victory was the third for the Friars over Brown this season. PC had previously defeated the Bruins in the season’s opener 8-2 and later 2-1 in overtime at the Boston Arena Christmas Tournament. The victory also gave theucketers an 11-9 seasonal record.

Providore did not do as well against NCAA tourney hopeful Boston University on Wednesday night in the same arena, as they lost 7-4.

The Friars’ Jack Turner tallied the game’s first goal at 12:27 of the opening period, as BU’s Bill Quinn tied the score a minute and forty-two seconds later.

Quinn, Dave MacLeod, and Bill McCormack bruisied the Friars’ goal in the second period giving the Terriers a 4-1 lead.

PC’s Bert Ferris, Joe Trinque, and Jack Donahue exchanged goals with BU’s Maslo, Leon Gagnon and Al Jersius in the final period.

The Providence College varsity hockey team overcame a two-goal deficit and defeated Brown University 6-3 at the Rhode Island Auditorium Saturday night.

The Bruins took a two-goal lead by Dave Kelley and Ed Jones, Brown for the greater part of the period, as they out-shot the visitors 10-5.

Joe Koech tallied PC’s first goal in the opening seconds of the second stanza. The Friars countered with John Jim Geiger defeated the Bruins’ corps from close up at 8:16. A long slap shot by Koech about three minutes later gave the Friars the lead.

Koech scored the opposition’s last goal on a breakaway at 11:39.

The Black and White scored in the closing minutes of the period, pulled the Providence back in.

But it was the Friars all the way in the second half. They came out and turned on the gains right away as all of the players turned in capital performances. The only really bright light for the Rams was Dave Ricceto, high-scorer with 27 points, most of them in the first half.

Gus Scannapieco Leads Relay Team As Providence Wins Event Easily

Running before 10,000 track fans gathered for the annual Knights of Columbus Games at Madison Square Garden Saturday, February 7, the Providence College mile relay team, led by Senior Gus Scannapieco’s 51.1-second opening leg, outdistanced Pennsylvania, Colgate, Bates, and Mountclair State for the gold medal.

The team, which also includes Ed McNamara (51.4), Pete Wallack (51.0), and Vin lamacono (50.8), running in that order, finished fifth in the team’s five indoor meets this season.

The victories came in the Milrose and KC Games in New York, and the KC in Boston. They took the silver medal in the New England AAU meet at M.I.T. and finished third in the Boston Athletic Association meet at Boston Garden.

The convent are new ides until March 19, when the outdoor season will open with the University of Connecticut Re­lays at Storrs. All of the top New England teams will com­pete in this meet.
