MEMO FROM THE EDITOR:

The Friars Club ranks high, if not supreme, among student organizations which have contributed most in terms of benefit to Providence College. It is with a real sense of concern that I find increasing evidence that the club is motivating a wave of antipathy among ever-larger segments of the student body.

PC's familiar white-sweatered Friars are unique for the fact that they constitute the membership of the only campus organization which can in any way be equated with a restricted fraternity. Significantly, the club's discriminating membership policy has recently been bitterly assailed as outright discrimination—in the highly uncomplimentary connotation of the word.

Perhaps the roots of this budding enmity toward the Friars Club spring from the fact that the original concept of the club is becoming warped and distorted, not only among students at large, but also among many members themselves. The difficulty is, quite simply, that the Friars are in danger of degenerating from a service club to a BMOC clique. Some would assert that it is less a danger than a reality.

Inevitably, a selective membership policy tends to generate problems of this sort. Lack of concern over its volatile position is further setting the Friars Club squarely on top of a potential powder keg. It certainly seems that in future selections the Friars might exercise more tact and less mumbo jumbo in an attempt to reduce resentment toward the organization.

From behind this desk, I can only see that the Friars Club is fast approaching a crisis; unfortunately, I can't propose any panacea. But I earnestly hope the members of the Club wake up and start looking for an answer of their own.

Plan Refugee Drive....

In explaining the plans for the drive, the committee head told the Cowl of a television show to be presented on May 1st over WPRO-TV.

"The show takes us on a tour of refugee camps in Europe, in the company of some twenty entertainment personalities, including Burl Ives, Harry Belafonte, and Joanne Woodward. The show depicts for us the wretched position of a camp refugee.

"This program will be followed by a brief presentation by the student committee itself, during which the TV public will be told of the plans of our committee. As soon as this show is over, our students will begin their door to door march."

When asked how the committee would attempt to get 1,000 students to pledge an hour for solicitation, O'Herron told The Cowl that the movement was already underway.

"We hope to make students aware of the tragedy and utter senselessness of the refugee situation," O'Herron said. "The Student Congress and at least five clubs have pledged their support."

On April 26, there will be an assembly, at which time the nature of the refugee problem will be presented to the student body. Plans will be submitted to the assembly, and students will be asked to sign up the same afternoon. The Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., President of the College, will speak to the assembly.

Fr. Slavin has toured refugee camps in the Mid-East.

The PC delegation to the Rhode Island Student Committee for Refugees includes Donald Buekin, Thomas Grady, Charles Reilly, and Joseph Lyons. Plans to enlist student marchers are underway on each of the campuses involved in the drive.

There are some two and a half million refugees who are dependent on others for their sustenance. Over a million displaced Arab refugees, most of whom have been in camps for twelve years, live on a diet of fifteen hundred calories a day, a fare usually considered less than enough even to sustain life.

Three-Semester Year Proposed For Colleges

St. Paul, Minn.—Explaining his proposal for introducing a three semester school year for Macalester College, newly-inaugurated President Harvey M. Rice, recently posed the following question here: "Why has it been assumed that young adults between the ages of 18 and 22 cannot pursue intellectual activities effectively and profitably more than 30 to 32 weeks of each year?"

"Why have we assumed the reality of life and of the steady commitment of oneself to effective living must not begin until a person is beyond 21 years of age? Why should not Macalester explore the possibilities of three semesters in one year instead of two? Why could we not start

Debate Tourney Set For April 30; To Discuss Unions

By PETE WHITE

The polemic strains of debate will once again echo through the corridors and classrooms of Harkins Hall on April 30, as the Providence College Third Secondary School Invitational Debate Tournament gets under way.

The three-round tournament features the return of the 1959 first place schools—Holy Family High School of New Bedford and the Academy of the Sacred Heart of Fall River, Massachusetts—in the role of defending champions.

The number of participating schools has been restricted to twenty-five. Eight of the schools that have applied to participate in the 1960 tournament are beyond the three-state area of Rhode Island, Massachusetts, and Connecticut.

Reverend John D. Skalko, O.P., is the Director of Debate and assisting him in the role of general chairman is Charles Carroll, president of the Barristers.

In letters to Father Skalko, both Christopher Del Sesto, Governor of Rhode Island, and Michael F. Walsh, Commissioner of Education, expressed their best wishes for the success of the tournament. They also stated that they were very pleased to note that the delegates include representatives from other states outside of the New England area.

The tournament debate topic for this year: "Resolved, That the Federal Government Should

RING ADJUSTMENTS APRIL 8

Mr. Richard Catter, sales representative of Dieges and Clust, will be in the Bookstore on Friday, April 8, 1960, for the convenience of juniors who have just received their rings. Any difficulties should be resolved at that time.

Substantially Increase Its Regulation of Labor Unions.

Each participating school will enter two teams, one affirmative and one negative. The teams will consist of two undergraduate students. In Round I of the tournament, teams will be paired, as much as possible, on an inter-sectional basis. Also, no team will be required to debate against its own school, or to debate any opponent more than once.

Announcement of principal awards and presentation of awards will take place in the auditorium of Harkins Hall on the afternoon of the tournament at 3:30 p.m.

Assisting Father Skalko and Carroll will be Richard Grace, James Geary, John Hanieski, Robert Heron, and Ralph Faurello.

Promsters Urged To Reserve Rooms For Weekend Dates

Ron Schausier and Frank Dietz, Junior Prom Ticket co-chairmen, have reported that prom ticket sales are moving smoothly.

Juniors purchasing tickets are again urged to place a down payment of $5.00 before April 7, along with the name of their date, in order to insure the printing of invitations.

Tickets will be sold in Raymond Hall during the evening meal and in the cafeteria and rotunda during the day. The bid is split into three segments: $1.00 for the communion breakfast, $3.00 for the jazz concert and picnic. The remainder of the bid will be $12.00 for the Prom itself. Payments may be made in three installments.

A decision was made by all committee chairmen to have black tuxes for the Prom.

Accommodations for juniors who plan to quarter their dates at either the Colonial or Golden Gate Motels on Route 6 have been advised by accommodations co-chairmen John Meddions and Richard Panigrossi. Promsters were urged to make reservations for rooms early, since all customers will be handled on a first come-first serve basis. Reservations may be made any evening in room 113 Stephen Hall or 425 Raymond Hall.

"The Prom itself promises to be a highly successful affair," observed general co-chairman Dick Pierce, who also noted diligent work by most of the chairmen and committee men under his supervision.

He stressed that attendance at meetings was imperative and wished that everyone would keep up the good work.

"Out Of This World" — McClain On White House Youth Confab

By ED FOGARTY

"It was out of this world, a never to be forgotten thrill. If I had to do it all over again, I'd go again right now," said an exuberant sophomore, Jim McClain of Providence.

Jim received the honor of being one of the representatives chosen to represent Rhode Island at the President's White House Conference on Children and Youth, last week, March 27-April 1.

This conference is held once every ten years in Washington and includes representatives from every state and almost every nation in the world. Almost 9,000 attended this year's conclave.

He reported that the conference was divided into many workshops and forums under the directorship of entertainer and UNESCO representative Danny Kaye. His particular workshop was concerned with the problem of leisure time and how to utilize it.

He authored a resolution calling for more complete education of parents, which was incorporated into the final report of the conference.

When questioned about people he met at the conference, McClain said that he had the pleasure of meeting many of the Rhode Island legislators in the Capitol, including Senators Greene and Pastore and Congressman Farand and Fogarty, who introduced him to Capitol Hill. Governor DeLoach sent down his official car and driver which was placed at the disposal of the delegates.

Jim also said that it was an experience to meet Senator Symington of Missouri, but his great thrill was the opportunity of exchanging a handshake and a few words with President Eisenhower. The meeting took place on Thursday night following the Chief Executive's speech to the Conference at a small private gathering.

When asked to cite some of the highlights of the conference, he reported that two issues receiving considerable portions of the Conference attention were civil rights and federal aid to education.

A civil rights resolution brought up at the Conference was blocked initially by Southern delegates, but their opposi-

All entries should be turned in by April 7.

Governor DeSesto Lauds College, Team In Letter to President

Governor Christopher DeSesto last week officially congratulated PC on its success in the NIT. The letter, which was addressed to the Very Rev. Robert J. Slaviv, O.P., read as follows:

"I want to congratulate you, as President of Providence College, on the marvelous success of the Friars in the National Invitation Tournament.

"It seems that everyone I meet is talking about the great success of the team and the credit it has brought not only to the college but to all Rhode Island.

"Both the players and fans of Providence College are deserving of every commendation for their performances in New York and I am sure that the NIT will soon occupy a permanent spot on the Friars basketball schedule."

AED Convention Assembles; Topic Is Careers In Medicine

The thirteenth national convention of Alpha Epsilon Delta, national premedical society, will meet at the University of Louisville, Kentucky, on April 7-9. Representing Rhode Island Alpha from Providence College will be John F. Rampono, official delegate; Father Reichart, faculty adviser; and a large number of Chapter members.

Founded at the University of Alabama in 1926, Alpha Epsilon Delta is an internationally recognized honor society with a membership of approximately 19,500 in 74 active chapters in the United States and Canada. It is an affiliated society of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, an associate member of the National Council on Education, as well as the National Society for Medical Research, and a member of the Association of College Honor Societies.

Rhode Island Alpha chapter was installed on PC's campus on March 20, 1954. The Rhode Island Alpha won the "Activities Award" in 1956 at Jackson, Mississippi, and the "Attendance Award" and "Scalpel Award" in 1958 at the University of Arkansas.

The business sessions of the convention will be held on Thursday and Friday. The convention banquet is scheduled for Friday evening, April 8, when Dr. Ward Darley, executive director, Association of American Medical Colleges, will speak on "Medicine and Its Challenge to Youth."

On Saturday morning, pre-medical and pre-dental advisers and students will have an all-day conference on "Careers in Medicine and Dentistry" planned in cooperation with the Schools of Medicine and Dentistry of the University of Louis-

PC Choristers Enter Contest

The Glee Club will participate in the Second Catholic Intercollegiate Glee Club Festival, to be held this year on the campus of Fairfield University on Saturday and Sunday, April 9 and 10.

The competition will begin with a formal concert on Saturday evening. The competitive singing will take place on Sunday afternoon, following a High Mass in the morning sung by all the participants.

Pietro Yon's Ave Maria is the competitive selection. Providence's other selections will be Syoberg's Visions and Tehnesnokof's May thy Blessed Spirit. The Rev. Leo S. Cannon, O.P., the club's Director, explained that all these pieces are a capella, that is, sung without accompaniment.

Fr. Cannon, who was instrumental in establishing the Festival last year, also said that it will be augmented by three glee clubs, those of St. Peter's, Seton Hall and Assumption Colleges.

The original participants, in addition to Providence, are Fairfield, Scranton, Holy Cross, Le Moyne, and St. John's.

ville. A large delegation from Rhode Island Alpha will attend this meeting. The dental school discussion will be led by Father Reichart.

The afternoon program will include an exhibit, "Medicine—The Most Rewarding Profession" and a film "I Want To Be a Doctor" prepared for the American Medical Association.

The program will close with a tour of the University of Louisville School of Medicine.

R.I. Knights Give 3rd Degree Rank To 14 Students

On April 1st at the Providence College Chapter No. 95 of the Knights of Columbus located at 14 Greene Street, Providence, R. I., the honors of the third degree were received by fourteen Providence College men. The inductees included the following:

Class of 1960: Roland F. Cronkite, Joseph G. Favreau, Michael J. Jones, William C. Leary, and Leonard J. Roche. Class of 1961: David J. Caley, Thomas A. Drennan, John E. Eagan, Michael F. Hayes, Richard E. Holzheimer, Roger F. Maguire, and Timothy Moynahan. Class of 1963: John J. Sloan and C. Michael Rainaldi.

The conferring of the degree was witnessed by many members representing the Councils of the State of Rhode Island. Onlookers included Irvin S. Kane, state deputy; Anthony Trabelli, district deputy; Rev. Richard L. Fleck, O.P., Council chaplain; Rev. Frederick M. Jelly, O.P., assistant chaplain; Rev. Charles B. Quirk, O.P.; and Rev. Thomas J. Shanley, O.P.

It is anticipated that the following members will receive the honors of the third degree on Sunday, May 15: Class of 1960: Robert Gibson, Paul M. McDonald, and Leonard R. Wilkens. Class of 1961: Leo Conner-ton. Class of 1963: Ralph De Fonce, Vincent L. Ernst, Kenneth F. Jodoin, and Thomas K. Jones.

JIM MCCLAIN

tion was soon overridden by the Conference. Jim expressed surprise that many of the delegates from European and Latin America could not grasp the idea of race problems.

He noted that he found many liberal Southerners who recognized the fact that integration was here to stay.

The second major topic was federal aid to education. The most interesting point brought up on this issue according to Jim was a bill that Rep. Reuss, Dem., Wisconsin, introduced which is now pending passage.

His bill calls for American students to be sent to foreign countries to work while receiving army pay for their years overseas, in lieu of serving in the armed forces so that American culture and ideas may be spread. This measure has received a great deal of support.

LIBRARY TO EXPAND . . . .

(Continued from Page 1) building will begin next year with the actual construction to start in early 1962. When asked for his views on the new library building, Father Hinnebusch said that it should be constructed for a maximum amount of quiet.

"Personally," he said, "I feel that a library building should be strictly a library building and should not include non-library activities such as a band room or classrooms. Anyone coming into the library should be entering only for library purpose."

Reference rooms should be small and they should be reference rooms only. They should not take the place of a study hall. For study there should be a large hall in the basement which would be open even when the main library itself would be closed. For private study there would be desks set up in the stack area.

"Besides a study hall and reference rooms a library building would contain a reserved book room, a room for three day books, a periodical room, and a room for government documents.

"There could also be a small theatre for illustrated lectures, an exhibit area, a typing room, smoking lounge, a room for light reading, and, possibly through an endowment, a music room."

"I would suggest," Father Hinnebusch added, "that seniors when considering the matter of the class gift, give serious thought to aiding the new library building by equipping a smoking lounge or donating exhibit cases."

With the construction of the new building the number of library books is expected to be increased to about 200,000, since the library is now limited only by space, not by funds.

Although the Providence College library has grown rapidly in the past, it would appear that its greatest expansion lies in the years immediately ahead.

Editorially Speaking

Alumni Hall Howls . . .

According to our understanding of Father Begley's rather strong statements Monday afternoon, the College's athletic department has severed relations with The Cowl.

The athletic director further accused this paper and its staffers of deliberately printing false and malicious statements about his department. His statements admit of no other interpretation than as an explicit indictment of the personal integrity of the student editors and columnists.

Father Begley went so far as to question the entire concept of the student press raising its voice in criticism of any faculty member or administrative department.

Our staff is sorry that the athletic department chooses to lower this controversy to the level of slurs on personal character and ethics. Even while directing sharp criticism at inefficiency and bungling, our own editorial column has in every instance given the athletic department credit for acting in good faith.

The Cowl's sports coverage will be maintained to the best of our ability. Meanwhile, we trust that public opinion will exonerate us of being deliberately and maliciously deficient in journalistic integrity. Let anyone examine the record.

National Library Week...

"My library was dukedom large enough."

—Shakespeare, "The Tempest"

Some public relations man somewhere has decreed that this is National Library Week. Having a special "Week" is a unique American custom by which we give some sort of observance to things we might be better off appreciating all year long.

It is difficult to conceive of a college education or a balanced cultural life without resort to the facilities of libraries, both public and institutional. Now, while we as students are inescapably aware of the utility of complete library facilities, it might be appropriate to make a mental memo for future years.

Libraries and their essential cultural role ought to be more vital to alumni than basketball teams and more important to taxpayers than a new coat of paint on City Hall. Remember that when your College or community solicits you to help pay the monetary price of facilities that are intellectually priceless.

Good Public Relations...

There's a popular song title to the effect that "Little Things Mean a Lot." Without subscribing to any corny sayings, we'd like to commend the athletic authorities of the College for not overlooking a small detail that might easily have gone unremembered.

Our reference is to the formal thank you cards recently received by all friends of the College who in some way tendered their assistance or best wishes to the school during the NIT.

We'd like to encourage this sort of thing at Providence College. Anytime there's a chance to win a friend for a card and a four cent stamp, the opportunity ought to be taken for the bargain that it is.

Frosh Queen Announcement

The Freshman Class Weekend Queen Committee, headed by David E. Donnelly and Paul George, has announced that nominations for the queen of the Weekend are now open. The queen will be crowned at the Friday night dance and will reign over the entire weekend; runners up will serve as her escort.

Any date of a freshman may be entered in the contest. The following rules apply:

1. Picture of the candidate may be placed in a box to be provided in the Rotunda.
2. The name and address of the candidate must be firmly attached to the photo.
3. No entries will be accepted after the Easter vacation.
4. All photos and snapshots will be returned to their owner.

MOVIES

"Suddenly Last Summer." The degenerate and decaying world of Tennessee Williams is given a superb but terrifying glance by Elizabeth Taylor and Katherine Hepburn. Their brilliant but subtle performances are masterful characterizations. The movie itself is a peculiar blend of adult entertainment and downright sensationalism, but as with most of Williams' efforts, the plot is acutely tuned to the voice of modern society.

"Our Man In Havana." Graham Greene's urbane and sophisticated spy story is given a polished production by Sir Carol Reed and a cast of old pros. Set in Havana, the story starts out as a rather cockeyed whodunit and ends up satirizing foreign diplomacy. Alec Guinness and Noel Coward play parts that fit them like gloves. The biggest surprise for this reviewer was the excellent acting skill of Ernie Kovacs.

"Home From The Hill." Robert Mitchum and Eleanor Parker star in this adaptation of a "rich and earthy novel." (If by this they mean "dirt," I quite agree.) The picture is a violent and ugly one stressing perversion, adultery and what-have-you. It is a shame that so much talent was wasted on such a trashy story.

Last year Tom Grady was elected president of his class for the fourth consecutive year and Holy Cross defeated Providence's diamondmen 3-0 on one-hit pitching.

Back two years to 1957 the annual student body retreat was about to begin. Eddie Donahue was elected captain of the Mullaneymen and Lou La Fontaine was selected to lead the hockey team.

The year before, Very Rev. Father Slavin was chosen vice-president of the N.C.E.A. Ten pre-medical students were initiated into the Rhode Island chapter of Alpha Epsilon Delta, the national pre-medical honor society.

In 1955 Hal McIntyre's music put many couples in a dreamy mood at the minor Prom. The baseball team was just about to open its season against Springfield.

Back nineteen years to 1941, Rev. Frederick C. Foley was appointed officer and chaplain of the Providence College Alumni Association. Larry Clinton, who was to play at the prom, predicted that the music would change from swing to smooth dancing. How about 'Rock and Roll' Larry?

COLLEGE: THE FOE OF EDUCATION

In your quest for a college degree, are you becoming a narrow specialist, or are you being educated in the broad, classical sense of the word? This question is being asked today by many serious people—including my barber, my podiatrist, and my little dog Spot—and it would be well to seek an answer.

Let us examine our souls. Are we becoming experts only in the confined area of our majors, or does our knowledge range far and wide? Do we, for example, know who fought in the battle of Salamis, or Kant's epistemology, or Planck's constant, or the voyage of the Beagle, or Palestrina's cantatas, or what Wordsworth was doing ten miles above Tintern Abbey?

If we do not, we are turning, alas, into specialists. What, then, can we do to escape this strait jacket, to broaden our vistas, lengthen our horizons, to become, in short, educated?

Well sir, the first thing we must do is throw away our curriculum. Tomorrow, instead of going to the same old classes, let us try something new. Let us think of college, not as a rigid discipline, but as a kind of vast smorgasbord, with all kinds of tempting intellectual tidbits to sample and savor. Let us dive in. Let our pent-up appetites roam and snatch where they will.

We will start the day with a stimulating seminar in Hittite artifacts. Then we will go over to marine biology and spend a happy hour with the mollusks. Then we will open our pores by drilling with the ROTC for a spell. Then we'll go over to journalism and scramble a font of Bodoni. Then we'll go to the medical school and palpate a few spleens. Then we'll go to home economics and have lunch.

And between classes we'll smoke Marlboro Cigarettes. This, let me emphasize, is not an added filip to the broadening of our education; it is an essential. To learn to live richly and well is an important part of education, and Marlboros are an important part of living richly and well. Do you think flavor went out when filters came in? Well, ha-ha, the joke is on you. Marlboro, with its Selectrate filter, delivers flavor in full measure, flavor without stint or compromise, flavor that wrinkled care derides, flavor holding both its sides. This triumph of the tobaccoist's art comes to you in soft pack or flip-top box and can be lighted with match, lighter, candle, Welbach mantle, or by rubbing two small Indians together.

When we have embarked on this new regimen—or, more accurately, lack of regimen—we will soon be studded with culture like a ham with cloves. When strangers accost us on the street and say, "What was Wordsworth doing ten miles above Tintern Abbey?" we will no longer sink away in silent abashment. We will reply loud and clear:

"As any truly educated person knows, Wordsworth, Shelley, and Keats used to go the Widdicombe Fair every year for the poetry-writing contests and three-legged races, both of which they enjoyed wildly. Well sir, imagine their chagrin when they arrived at the Fair in 1776 and learned that Oliver Cromwell, jittery because Guy Fawkes had just invented the spinning jenny, had canceled all public gatherings, including the Widdicombe Fair and Liverpool. Shelley was so upset that he drowned himself in the Bay of Naples, Keats went to London and became Samuel Johnson, and Wordsworth ran blindly into the forest until he collapsed in a heap ten miles above Tintern Abbey. There he lay for several years, sobbing and kicking his little fat legs. At length, peace returned to him. He composed himself and, noticing for the first time the beauty of the forest around him, he wrote Joyce Kilmer's immortal Trees . . . And that, smarty pants, is what Wordsworth was doing ten miles above Tintern Abbey."

Poets and peasants alike know that if you like mildness but you don't like filters, you can't do better than Marlboro's companion cigarette—Philip Morris.

Phi-Chi Hear Lecture On Philos. Of Science

The Rev. W. A. Wallace, O.P., from the Dominican Priory at Dover, Mass., was the speaker at last Monday's meeting of the Phi-Chi Club. The subject of his lecture was: "St. Thomas, Galileo, and Einstein."

Father Wallace has a Bachelor of Electrical Engineering degree from Manhattan College, a Master of Science in Physics from Catholic University, and a Doctorate of Philosophy in the History and Philosophy of Science from the University of Freiburg in Switzerland.

During World War II, Father Wallace was a naval officer doing research and operational analysis in mine warfare. By the end of the war, he had become a Lieutenant Commander. He received a Legion of Merit award for his work in establishing an undersea mine blockade of the Japanese home islands.

Since the war, his main interest has been in the history and philosophy of science. Father Wallace is now considered one of the outstanding authorities on the philosophy of science in the Dominican Order.

At present he is giving Newman Club lectures at M. I. T. on philosophy and modern science.

In his talk Monday night, Father Wallace pointed out that while the abundance of the theological writings of Aquinas tend to overshadow his works in the natural sciences, Aquinas' scientific work was also outstanding for his time.

Aquinas studied under the great Dominican scientist, St. Albert and was thus in a position to contribute to the science to his day. St. Albert built up a physical theory based on Aristotle's "Physics" and Thomas elaborated on this. He claimed that the physical reality of being was more fundamental than the mathematical reality.

Galileo, who is credited with beginning much of modern science, was, according to Father Wallace, too willing to accept weak proofs for physical theories which he wanted to hold.

Einstein went to the opposite extreme regarding mathematical proof and was quoted as saying that, "if a mathematical proof conformed to reality it was imperfect, and if it was perfect, it didn't conform to reality."

Father Wallace stated that in his opinion one of the outstanding contributions of Einstein to modern science was this offsetting of the previous extreme trend started by Galileo.

The lecture was followed by a lengthy question period in which the topic of conversation tended toward the current subject of agreement between philosophy and the physical sciences.

YOU CAN'T BUY ANY CAR FOR LESS... UNLESS IT'S A LOT LESS CAR!

There's no secret about it—Chevrolet can give you more basic comforts and conveniences because it makes more cars and builds them more efficiently. As a matter of fact, if other low-priced cars gave you what Chevy does, they couldn't afford to be low priced. But see for yourself what we mean.

You have more ways to go in Chevy with 24 engine-transmission combinations to choose from—more than any other car in the industry. You also get hydraulic valve lifters in all popular engines—another Chevy exclusive that hushes noise to a murmur and prolongs valve life. Fuel economy? The new Economy V8 gets up to 10% more miles on every gallon and Chevy's Hi-Thrift 6 is famous for the way it skimps on gas. Credit Full Coil suspension for the unruffled ride—only Chevy among the leading low-priced three has the friction-free cushioning of coil springs in the rear. Try it for yourself soon—say, tomorrow.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

The Student Congress, in accord with the passage of a bill at its last meeting, wishes to extend congratulations to Mr. Daniel E. Sullivan, manager of the Providence College Book Store, for his unsolicited work in developing the extensive library of paper-backed books in the Book Store. The availability of such books can, indeed, effectively satisfy a good part of the extra-curricular reading demands of the Providence student, covering, as they do, a wide range of interesting subject matter.

We salute Mr. Sullivan and the Book Store for their work and encourage both students and faculty members to recommend additional selections to this worthwhile project.

The Student Congress

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

We take a great deal of pride in being able to publicly announce the candidacy of Mr. David A. Duffy for the presidency of the class of 1961. We have been authorized to release the following statement on his behalf.

"After much serious consideration, I have decided upon the urging of many of my fellow class members to enter the race for the presidency of the class of 1961.

"I am a candidate primarily because I sincerely feel that the class needs enthusiastic revitalizing to operate efficiently for the important Senior Year. A change is badly needed in order to assure its success.

"I cannot see how the class can continue to function properly through the use of power politics. We need spirit and a new life. It is my hope that we can provide the Class of 1961 with the lift that it needs for its final college year."

Respectfully,
Committee for David A. Duffy
George Gunther, Chairman

To the Editor:

We have forwarded the following letter to Mr. J. Vincent Cuddy and would appreciate publication of it in this week's Cowl:

"In the March 30th issue of the Cowl, the undersigned were quoted as follows in answer to the question: 'Why do you think Len Wilkens wasn't named to all of the first team All-American lists?'

Hank Teufel, '61: "... Due to lack of publicity..."
Joseph R. Daley, '61: "Lack of publicity on the part of those responsible..."

"Since publication, upon our own investigation, we have found that at the conclusion of each week's basketball activities you forwarded to some two hundred newspapers news releases relative to the team's accomplishments. In addition it was also learned that you send wires at the conclusion of each game to the various new services.

"Realizing that the publication of these releases is not under your control but is left to the discretion of each sports editor, we acknowledge that our remarks are not justified. We therefore apologize for making them, and assure you that in the future whenever we are confronted with like queries we will first ascertain the facts."

Sincerely yours,

Henry A. Teufel,
Joseph R. Daley, '61

To the Editor:

I and my two friends are really glad to read in The Cowl while in New York that the PC men don't like the Friday night "mixers" either. We went all last year to the dances and to the first few this year but then we stopped. It was just too much!

We don't know whose fault it is, but they have certainly ruined a good thing. Why don't the checkers play tough for a change; if they can't do it why don't they get a priest to help? It's no wonder the PC men don't want to ask the "good looking" girls to dance. They have to push there way through gangs of eight or ten giggling highschoolers just to get near a girl, then drag her back through the same mess.

Get with it PC! If you start having real good dances (like the Freshman mixer) you'll start getting nice looking girls back and plenty of them too. Who cares about cash, anyway?

Sincerely yours,

Three Local Coeds

(Names withheld upon request)

To the Editors:

In the Freshman assembly last Tuesday one candidate was prevented from speaking to his classmates. The candidate was told that he had an "incomplete" mark for the first semester. Upon investigation it was discovered that this mark was not turned in by his English teacher even though it was "complete." He was not even told that his mark was in arrears by the unknown Congressman who checked the marks. As a result of not speaking he managed to gain only a tie for Congress Representative.

I, for one, and I think that I am speaking for the class of '63, feel that this gentleman deserves an apology from the Congress and the English Department for the grave injustice that has been done to him.

Sincerely,

Richard Jones, '63

Carolan Club Sponsor Of Picnic-Dance Day

Co-chairmen Bob Owens and Carol Zielinski have announced that the Carolan Club will sponsor a picnic-dance on Saturday, April 29. Girls from fifteen invited schools, including Emmanuel, Newton and the Elms, will meet at Harkins Hall at 12 o'clock to proceed to Lincoln Woods where there will be a picnic-lunch.

After a buffet dinner for the girls there will be a dance in Stephen Hall Lounge at 7:30. Music will be provided by records on the Carolan Club's new hi-fi. The dress for both of these occasions will be informal and Bermudas may be worn.

Co-chairman Bob Owens said, "As of now we have received replies from Emmanuel, Newton, and the Elms. The other girls' schools have until April 12 to reply."

Dean's Honor List—First Semester

The Very Rev. Joseph L. Lennon, O.P., Dean of Studies released the 1959-60 first semester Dean's List to The Cowl this week. He accompanied the release with the following statement:

"Father Lennon wishes to congratulate all those students whose quality of academic work made them worthy of attaining the Dean's Honor List.

"According to the statement in the Providence College Bulletin, a student in good standing who, at the end of a term, has attained an average of 3.0 or better and no grade less than C, is placed on the Dean's Honor List for the succeeding term."

KNICKERBOCKER 8 Capt. Space Egan: satisfies your thirst for living! Tops With Teammates

It took four generations of family tradition to produce the matchless Ruppert Knickerbocker flavor. One swallow and you'll know why it took so long. Fine beer, like a fine family name, gains character with each generation. Ruppert Knickerbocker tastes the way other beers would like to taste if only they knew how.

Live a little! Have a Ruppert Knickerbocker!

JACOB RUPPERT, NEW YORK CITY

By TOM DRENNAN

Checking a book of Irish surnames, one would probably find that Egan means "son of fire." Whoever was responsible for the derivative must have had our own John Egan in mind.

Since the day he first put on a Friar uniform, Space has never failed to thrill his audience. His daring style of play has often overshadowed his genuine ability to carry out the fundamentals of basketball.

It was no surprise that John was elected captain of the Mullaneymen for 1960-61. Everyone felt that the kid from Hartford would be the only logical choice.

In a way, it was taken for granted that John would be captain! And in a larger sense it has been taken for granted that Egan would naturally become a star as well as one of the best collegiate players today.

Prior to the arrival of Jim Hadnot, no other player in PC history had received the advance publicity that Egan had. And he had a tough audience to please. Most of the basketball fans here, both students and "friends," are of the doubting nature. They seem to feel, "Well, you're the star. Show me what you can do."

And Egan showed them. We need not go into his fabulous basketball career. We need not dwell on the relationship between John and Bob Cousy and their similar styles of play. But we should dwell on this one question: "If I were Egan, would I have done what he did this year?"

Egan was picked as a sure-fire All America in preseason polls. His scoring power and flashy style of play labeled him star material.

Then it happened! Standing up after having tried to straighten a rug on the floor of his room, he heard and felt a crunch in his knee. Providence College's season almost crunched with it!

After the injury had been diagnosed, his future looked dim, and many of his friends advised John to drop out of school; have an operation; rest up and strengthen the leg and come back next season as a junior again. In that way, he could save face.

He could plead injury and then come back and still not lose the press backing. But his answer was a firm "No!" He once told me, "I'm not here for personal glory. I'm here to help win games for PC. As long as the coach wants me to play, I play."

And play he did! He hobbled through the first twenty games, sometimes showing spurts of the old Space but always giving

Then, up in Albany in the second half of the Siena game, he exploded. Over the last five regular season games and the four N.I.T. tilts he scored almost 200 points, more in nine games than in the first twenty put together.

Everyone was happy. The team was winning, Lenny was at his greatest, Hadnot had lost his sophomoritis, and Space was moving again.

This was the way the season ended, not with a whimper but with a bang!

Egan hadn't lived up to pre-season expectations according to the press. But we knew that he had risen above these early accolades. He had sacrificed personal honor and glory for the team and it had paid off in victories.

But pleasure does not come without pain. This was the way the season was with John. It was a pitiful sight to see a joyous dressing room after a victory when all Space could muster was a slight grin. He admitted recently that in every game he played this past season, he constantly had the pounding pain going through his leg.

Yet he continued to play, turning moans into baskets and groans into assists. He ran out of the sight of the press clippings into the hearts of his teammates.

Yes, John Egan is the captain next year. He's had it good and he's had it bad. But a word to the wise should be sufficient. If you know anything about basketball, you'll never accuse Egan of not having team spirit, especially if you're talking to members of the squad. As far as they are concerned, he invented it!

That's why they unanimously elected him captain.

Notes From The SPORTSDESK

by JIM CARROLL

BEING THE EXTREMELY DARING type, this week's column will deal with the controversial subject of legs. Now don't get excited fellows, this is strictly on the up and up and also in keeping with the non-coeducational atmosphere on campus.

Strange as it may seem, legs are in the news in the world of sports this week. Perhaps the most famous legs currently being discussed are those belonging to hoop captain-elect Johnny Egan. In the Egan case of course, it's really only one leg, the left one.

THIS YEAR was supposed to be the year for Space. It turned out to be anything but although the Hartford junior turned in many spectacular games and provoked much discussion over his dazzling and colorful type of play.

In a pre-season injury, Egan tore a cartilage in his knee and for a spell was in danger of not playing at all. Opening the season with a brace on the injured knee, Egan was ineffective but gradually came back and finished strongly.

Still, the injury was there and the brace still hampered him. The burning question in the minds of those close to the basketball scene is what's going to happen to the controversial and troublesome knee.

Actually Egan doesn't know himself. At the end of the month, Space will be heading southward to Johns Hopkins where further investigation of the injury will continue. Should the consulting medics decide on an operation, then that's what it will be, according to Space.

MEANWHILE, long-distance runners are also worried about their legs. Bob Bamberger and freshman Stan Blejvas have begun the season with appearances in earlier races while Barry Dougherty and Pat Stewart continue to grind out the miles, coaxing their aching limbs into shape.

Participating in what is probably the most thankless and least-publicized sport, these fellows help spread the name and reputation of Providence College in much the same way as their varsity counterparts in other sports, if not to quite the same extent.

This strange breed of athletes is an interesting group. Off by themselves on the daily eight, ten and twelve mile jaunts through the countryside, they provoke many humorous remarks by those whom they encounter on the way.

Right from the rock-throwing young boys to the giggling girls, from the quizzical older folks to the understanding fellow-students, these road-running enthusiasts provide a topic of conversation for all those whom they pass.

STILL MORE legs are in the news nowadays. Coach Alex Nahigian has his baseball squad outdoors after an exhaustive attempt to bring the club from the doldrums of an overweight and sluggish existence to the apex of physical condition.

Reports have it that Nahigian has been remarkably successful in this attempt, although after last year's fiasco-laden season anything will be an improvement. Evidently this present team's potential far exceeds that of its predecessor. The coming season could be the best in years for the diamond forces of Providence College.

All-Opponent Teams

Bradley and St. Bonaventure in basketball and Boston University and Brown in hockey are well represented on this year's all-opponent teams selected recently by the Providence court and ice teams.

The basketball team picked a ten-man all-opponent squad and the hockey team picked first and second teams according to positions.

Bobby Joe Mason, Mack Herndon, and Mike Owens are the Bradley representatives on the roundball team. Mason, who starred in the regular-season encounter between the two teams, did not play in the NIT in which Herndon and Owens starred.

The sixth boys, Tom and Sam, are the Bonnies picked by Len Wilkens and Co. Tom was a shoo-in for the team after his 46-point performance in their game at Olean. Sam is the only repeater from last year's team.

Rounding out the squad are Frank Sobrero (Santa Clara), Jack Foley (Holy Cross), Pete McCaffrey (St. Louis), Bill Hooley (Boston College), and Cornell Green (Utah State).

The hockey team picked goalie Barry Urbanski and forward Bob Marquis of Boston University on their first all-opponent sextet and placed

Captains Selected By Hockey Team

By FRANK MAZZEO, Jr.

Exclusive To The Cowl

Juniors Joe Keough and Jim Wandmacher were elected co-captains of the 1960-61 Providence College hockey team last Thursday night.

JIM WANDMACHER and JOE KEOUGH

Keough, a Malden Catholic product, came out of Massachusetts schoolboy ranks with every existing scoring record at his high school and gained all-state recognition as a result of his stellar play.

Joe has been the varsity's leading goal collector for the past two years with 23 and 22 goals. Although his goal production dropped one notch this year, Keough raised his assist total from 12 to 21, thus becoming the team's top scorer with 43 points.

Wandmacher came to Providence from Cretin High School in St. Paul, Minnesota, where he was a schoolboy standout. Jim's work in his second varsity season was vastly improved over his first campaign.

As a sophomore Wandmacher tallied only two goals and three assists. This season he upped his point count to 17 as he harvested six goals and eleven assists. Moreover, he played a vital role in making the line he played on the Friars' best.

Both Keough and Wandmacher, who played on the same line as freshmen, were prominent factors in the frosh's successful campaign that season. Wandmacher expressed hope Monday night that the team will be among the East's better sextets and Keough stated, "With the returning material and help from the freshmen we should have a good year."

Coach Quits Suddenly, Has No Definite Plans

★★★★ EXCLUSIVE ★★★★★

By DAVE DONNELLY

Jackie Allen, frosh basketball coach for three years and now a senior at Providence College, announced today in a "first to The Cowl" interview that he handed in his resignation to the Athletic Committee this morning. Allen this year coached the frosh five to a eighteen win, one loss season. In his three seasons at PC, he has lost only five games.

As a primary reason for his resignation, Mr. Allen mentioned a desire to spend more time with his wife Mary, and his four children, Jack, Jr., Ann, Bruce, and Robert. Allen now commutes 70 miles daily from his Newport home. Allen emphasized that his coaching career at Providence was "generally happy and satisfactory to me."

The ex-coach indicated that he has no definite present plans for the continuance of his basketball coaching career. He did say, however, that he is considering several offers. Mr. Allen, now a education-social studies major, has in the past indicated a deep desire to teach or work with youth.

Jack was graduated in 1942 from De La Salle Academy, a Christian Brothers school in Newport. He later returned to the school (where he was a four letter man) to coach basketball. After high school, Allen entered service where he played under the well-known Hank Soar.

In 1946, Allen entered the University of Rhode Island where he made the varsity basketball team in his freshman year. He accompanied the team to the NIT that year.

Jack played basketball in the old Eastern League—in 1949, he was voted the league's Most Valuable Player. He has also played with Bobby Knight, a Globetrotter, and Ray Felix, now with the Detroit Pistons.

Since entering PC in 1956, Allen has maintained a high scholastic average. In the summer after his freshman year he was offered the job as freshman coach, vacated by Ernie Calverly, an old teammate on the URI team. Calverly had left Providence to accept his present job as coach of URI.

Blejwas Impresses In Boston Run; Bamberger Places Twenty-Eighth

By Pat Drewry

Stan Blejwas, running against seasoned distance runners, finished fourth in the Cathedral Ten Mile Marathon at Boston, Massachusetts, last Saturday afternoon.

Considering that this was Blejwas' first try at the ten mile distance, his performance merits high praise. The PC freshman grabbed a leading spot early in the race and kept a grueling pace throughout the run, finishing in 63:14. He was running with an eight minute handicap.

Bob Bamberger placed 28th in the field although his overall time of 61:52 was eleventh best. Bamberger, who was running with a four minute handicap, said that he felt tired and couldn't get going in the early stages. At the start of the last quarter, he was among the tail-enders. But then Bamberger finished strong and moved up to 28th.

Pat Stewart was also scheduled to run in the Cathedral, but was forced to withdraw because of a pulled tendon.

Over the Easter vacation several of PC's trackmen will participate in distance races.

Bob Bamberger has set his sights on winning the Lexington five mile run on Patriot's Day, April 19. Bambi will have to be at his best because the field includes Norm Higgins, recent winner of the Hyde Shoe race; Ed Dunkin, National 30 kilometer champion; and Stan Tiernan, National 12 mile champ. Bamberger has taken five days off from training to rest before beginning serious workouts for the Lexington event.

He plans to resume his training this Friday. The PC harriers told The Cowl: "I think I have a chance to win this one and I will be up for it."

Pat Stewart and Barry Dougherty will also run on Patriots Day. Both are entered in the Roxbury Road Race, which is a three mile affair. It includes a field of about fifty entrants, most of them intercollegiate runners.

Pershing Rifles Repeat Champs Of New England

By JIM O'LEARY

Providence College's Pershing Rifle rifle team has won the New England Pershing Rifle championship for the second year in a row. Sgt. Ronald Orchard, rifle team director, stated that this win will allow the team to participate in the national P.R. championship match. The Friars posted 902 out of a possible 1000 total.

Besides having the high team score, the high individual score also emanated from the hot-shooting PC squad. Ray Ouelette, turning in his best performance of the year, was the top man in New England. Ouelette was backed up by Ed Harvey, John MacDonald, Dick Palazzini, and Bob Devaney.

"This has been an outstanding team, and it has one of the best season records ever compiled by a PR team," Orchard stated. "The team, composed almost entirely of underclassmen, holds even greater potential for next year," he continued.

The PR rifle team, one of the most unnoticed squads in the school, had a perfect season of twelve wins and no losses this year. These men practice just as hard as do the varsity riflemen, although they do not fire under shoulder-to-shoulder pressure.

John McNiff, captain of the varsity shooters, and Al Izz, first baseman of the varsity baseball team, are also members of the PR team.
