NFCCS Elects O'Herron Its World Affairs Chairman

Senior Thomas O'Herron was elected International Affairs Vice-President of the National Federation of Catholic College Students at the annual congress of that group, held this August in Louisville, Kentucky.

O'Herron had represented the NFCCS at an International Assembly of Pax Romana, held in Lisbon, Portugal, earlier this summer.

Teufel Installed As Grand Knight

Senior Henry H. Teufel was installed as Grand Knight of Providence Council, Number 95, of the Knights of Columbus by District Deputy Edward Divine on Sept. 26.

Other Providence College men installed were Joseph R.

HANK TEUFEL

Daley, lecturer; John Siddell, John Sullivan, and Joseph Duerr, guards; and Thomas K. Jay, musician.

Notables in attendance included State Deputy Paul McPeak; State Auditor, Norman Bedard; and the Rev. Richard A. Fleck, O. P., council chaplain.

Teufel, the new Grand Knight, is a business management major from Jackson Heights, New York. He served in the United States Army's Medical Corps from 1953 to 1955.

Teufel has also been active on the PC campus as a member of the Metropolitan Club, of which he was president last year.

On the same night, plans were announced for an "Open House" meeting to be held Monday, October 10, at the Columbus Club, 14 Greene Street, in Providence.

The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will include recitation of the Rosary, presentation of awards by Past State Deputy, Irvin S. Kane, and a showing of the film, "Noble Heritage."

As International Affairs Vice-President, O'Herron will head N.F.'s international affairs secretariat and will be the federation's representative to all international groups. The secretariat, which will provide the federation's programs in the international affairs area, is seated at Trinity College in Washington, D.C.

O'Herron went to Louisville as president of the New England Region of NFCCS, and hence was head of the regional delegation. O'Herron will relinquish his post as New England regional president at the regional congress to be held later this month.

The National Federation chose O'Herron to represent the 300,000 Catholic college students in the United States at the Lisbon assembly of Pax Romana. Pax Romana is the international movement of Catholic students, founded to help develop a spirit of international awareness among college students.

At their convention, the representatives of the many Catholic student groups heard lectures explaining the duties and responsibilities of Catholic students. The 80 delegates from 42 countries discussed the pressing problems confronted in helping the students take their place in the mystical body of the Church.

As representative to this group from the United States, O'Herron now has the responsibility of explaining the conference's ideals to American students, helping them to develop

Insurance Plan Disclosed By SC

THOMAS O'HERRON

National NFCCS Vice-President

ROBERT OPPEL

Heads New SC Administration

Student Congress has announced the inauguration of a student insurance program at Providence College. After careful investigation of the various companies in the field of student insurance, the Congress has concluded that the North American Company for Life, Accident and Health Insurance of Chicago offers the best program.

Robert C. Oppel, Student Congress president, notes that "although participation in the plan will be optional, all students are urged to take advantage of the economies of the group insurance rates."

"These rates are roughly 1/3 of what insurance rates, offering similar coverage, would be if purchased by each student on an individual basis."

Students will have the prerogative of taking joint accident and sickness coverage or the accident feature of the program only. Both plans will extend for a full twelve month period, covering the student twenty-four hours a day while at school or away. The rate for the sickness-accident coverage will be $25 per student for the year, including:

- Hospital Room and Board: $15 per day not to exceed a maximum of 30 days per illness.

- Miscellaneous Hospital Expenses: Up to $100 for X-ray, anesthesia, laboratory tests, use of operating room, medications or temporary surgical appliances, when rendered by a hospital to a student confined as a bed patient therein.

- Surgical Treatment: In accordance with a graduated schedule ranging up to a maximum.

SC Cards Held By 1700; Activities Barred For 400

Four hundred or so students who have failed to secure their Student Congress Activity cards, will be excluded from participation in all functions social or otherwise held under the auspices of the Congress.

The response to the cards by the classes was good, as 1700 cards were purchased from the Congress.

Robert Oppel, Student Congress President, said, "that it is only equitable that students who have done their share in supporting student government should be able to participate in the functions and clubs regulated by the Congress. Those who failed to contribute should be excluded from these same activities."

"I would urge all students who have any intention of joining any club or engaging in any student activity here on campus, to purchase his card during the week at the Student Congress office," stated Mr. Oppel.

The Congress office will be open from 12:30 to 2:30 for the convenience of the students.

Lists will be published naming those not holding a Congress activity card and those students will be requested to purchase the card or forego the privilege of engaging in student activities for the year.

SC Signs Lanin For October 14

Lester Lanin's internationally famed society band will headline the second annual Fall Frolic, sponsored by the Student Congress of Providence College. The dance will be held in the ballroom of Rhodes-on-the-Pawtuxet, located in Cranston, Rhode Island, on Friday evening, October 14, from 9 to 1.

Seniors John J. Hurley and James E. Carroll are co-chairmen of the annual event. After several weeks of contract negotiations, the Congressmen were able to secure the services of Lanin, and they hope that the band attraction will spur ticket sales to a record-breaking number.

Lanin's orchestra has played at many international balls as well as outstanding dances throughout the United States. Particularly impressive in the Lanin record are his many appearances in the New York area, especially the debutante and society balls.

After the publication of his first record album several years ago, Lanin broke all existing records for orchestral albums. His appearance here will be the second time that he has played for a Providence College function. Two years ago, Lanin starred in the Junior Prom.

Hurley and Carroll disclosed that tickets are now on sale for the event, and that the price will be $5.00, as compared with the $6.50 bid for last year's dance. Brian Mullaney and James Lowe have been selected as co-chairmen of the ticket committee.

Mullaney revealed that tickets are being sold in the Rotunda of Harkins Hall during the 10:20 break, at the nighttime meal in the cafeteria, and at both the nighttime and evening meals in Raymond Hall. He stated that sales were progressing at a satisfactory rate and estimated the total sales at approximately five hundred.

Charlie Reilly has been selected as chairman of the decorations committee.

Reilly plans to have Lanin select a queen for the affair. Other committee appointments included Terrance McCarthy, publicity; Joseph Trautman, refreshments; and James O'Leary and Dave Donnelly, ballroom committee. O'Leary and Donnelly are also on the general dance committee with the dance co-chairmen.

This year's event differs in many respects from the dance last year. The Rhodes ballroom replaces the tent, safeguarding against the dangers of inclement weather which severely hampered the previous year's social.

Lanin succeeds Larry Elgart's orchestra. This year will be the first time that a queen will be chosen.

As previously mentioned, the cost of the dance has been reduced, and, contrary to last year, advance sales point to a large attendance.

MEMO FROM THE EDITOR:

Each spring is a time of miracles on this campus. Dozens of class politicians perform the remarkable feat of "standing on the record," a phantom record that they haven't got.

Do you have any idea of how much is in your class treasury? Of course not. Last year one class treasurer was forced to admit that HE didn't know himself. And, yet, he and others like him have the temerity to ask for your vote each election time on the basis of their "record." What record?

No one needs or wants an itemized report of every postage stamp bought by the class and college student governments, but, where hundreds of dollars are involved, the students have a right to know where their money goes and how wisely it is spent. The present conspiracy of silence merely makes a mockery of any attempt to evaluate a student administration's alleged "record."

The Cowl understands that the senior class is currently in severe financial hot water. It's a pretty well kept secret, though. What's the excuse?

What is obviously called for are a series of periodic, clear-cut reports on the financial results of each and every student affair conducted by our class, club, or Student Congress officers. And that means publicity on the resounding flops as well as the money-making successes. If the Carolan Club can do it, so can the classes.

Now is the time for student officers to step forward with this information of their own accord. They owe at least this much to the people who elect them. The Cowl will certainly be more than glad to help them carry their story to their constituents, to build a REAL record for the coming year.

a feeling of union between themselves and the rest of the world.

In his position as International Affairs Vice-President and head of the secretariat within the NFCCS, O'Herron will have an opportunity to create a better understanding of international affairs in the Catholic colleges and universities.

The secretariat prepares monthly bulletins treating current international problems. Local groups can contact the secretariat to obtain any information about NFCCS programs. The group also runs an "information please" service, allowing Catholic students to procure facts about world affairs. Speakers are also provided.

Because of his unique experience in Lisbon, O'Herron is expected to speak at NFCCS schools as often as possible.

He explains that, "our chief aim is to point out that what really divides the world is not so much a question of economics as a question of spiritual values, and that Catholic students have a responsibility to aid in the application of Christian solutions to the problems of the world."

O'Herron's stay in Portugal was, he says, "one of the most profound and rewarding experiences of my life."

At the convention, he served as simultaneous translator, working from French to English and vice-versa. Besides the experience of meeting the students from the various countries, the PC senior got a chance to visit some of the sights of Portugal. The entire delegation made a pilgrimage to Fatima, stopping at Nazore and Batalha on the return trip to Lisbon.

At the NFCCS National Congress in Louisville, Providence was represented by Fred Sette and Robert Oppel, PC's senior delegate to NF and Student Congress president, respectively. Oppel took part in the annual Student Government President's Conference sponsored by NFCCS.

FRIARS CLUB DINNER

The Friars Club will hold its first meeting on Thursday, October 13, at the Ledgement Country Club.

New members will be initiated at this meeting.

The program will start at 6:00. Members who desire transportation should be at Stephen Hall at 5:00.

Checkout Post Started Bookstore Adds Stock

The Providence College Bookstore is beginning another year of service to the students of the college complete with new fixtures and a new checkout system.

Upperclassmen will notice how the newly-installed floor and fluorescent lighting are designed to add to the brightness of the store.

"The newly inaugurated checkout system," explains Mr. Sullivan, "is for the greater convenience of the students, and gives us additional time to handle more customers."

Another innovation of the bookstore is the modern drug display which gives the student access to three times more drugs and accessories as in previous years, according to Mr. Sullivan.

The bookstore has increased its stock of writing supplies and paperback volumes, of which there are over one thousand sections now on hand. Also new is the greeting card display located in the rear of the store.

The Bookstore is under the supervision of the Rev. Thomas Fallon, O.P., and the management of Mr. Daniel Sullivan, who is entering his fifteenth year in that position.

Student workers at the bookstore this year are William Scanlon, Albert Girard, and John Pierce.

The Bookstore is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. on weekdays, and 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturdays.

PC Enrollment Up; 2139 Students Set New All-Time High

Enrollment at Providence College this year has broken the all time record, as 2139 students have registered for classes.

The freshman class, with a membership of 740, heads the list of registrants, and is followed by the sophomore class with 505 members. There are 479 juniors enrolled in the college and the senior class has a total of 415 members.

Of the 2089 new applicants, 740 or 38% finally were permitted to matriculate. Altogether 1146 were considered by the Board of Admissions.

Father Gardner, the assistant registrar, gave two reasons for the enrollment increase. First, that there are more students who are college conscious, and secondly, the rise of Providence College in the academic world.

Another factor that could be taken into consideration is the popularity of the basketball team, whose trips around the country and whose exploits are published in all basketball areas, thus spreading the name and reputation of the College to all parts of the nation.

Families Vie For Historical Prominence

FAMILY LIFE MAY NOT always be Paradise, but it can bring plenty of earthly renown.

Ever since the days of Noah and his three sons, 16 grandchildren and 54 great-grandchildren, some families have been chalking up collective honors for size, prosperity, talents or accomplishments, while others have hit the history books and the headlines for their misfortune or misbehavior.

Some famous clans, though, may be famous for the wrong reasons.

If the Barrymores make you think of drama and the Hatfields of the McCoy's, you're right.

But if the Borgias, who ruled Rome in the 15th Century, make you think of poison—as they do most people—then you're probably wrong.

THEY WERE hardly a well-behaved lot by today's standards, but neither were many people in Renaissance Italy. And, modern historians say, they certainly did not make a practice of poisoning an enemy every morning before breakfast. In fact, Lucrezia, who has come down in popular tradition as the most venomous of the lot, was a very nice girl.

How did the Borgias get their sinister reputation? Nobody knows for sure. But they were disliked by many Romans simply because they were foreigners from Spain, and it would have been easy enough for their political foes to start dark rumors of the Spanish Moors circulating around Rome. And the fact is that one Borgia, Rodrigo, became Pope Alexander VII. Another was canonized as St. Francis Borgia!

IN JUST ABOUT every field of human endeavor, there's been at least one family of outstanding achievement. In literature there are the Brontës, in baseball the DiMaggios, in finance and philanthropy the Rockefellers, and in comedy the Marxes—Chico, Groucho, Harpo, Gummo and Zeppo. And so it goes.

While the members of some famous families have pursued their parallel careers separately, others have cashed in on togetherness. For instance, there's the Trapp family. When Baron and Baroness von Trapp fled from Hitler's Austria to the United States in the 1930's, leaving their money behind, they taught their seven sons and three daughters madrigals and folk songs, and sang their way to fame and fortune.

The family choir broke up when the children began to marry and have families of their own, and today the Baron and Baroness have retired to a farm in Vermont, but their story is being sung on Broadway in Rodgers and Hammerstein's "The Sound of Music."

AND THEN there are families who've won their fame by getting into trouble. Generations of college students in psychology, sociology and genetics classes have learned about those awful examples of bad heredity, the Jukes and the Kallikaks.

The Jukes family was written up by a New York criminologist, Richard L. Dugdale, in 1874, and reported to have a seven-generation history of crime, pauperism, disease, insanity and just plain stupidity.

The Kallikaks, on the other hand, were divided by their chronicler, Dr. Henry H. Goddard, into two clans, the good ones and the bad ones. A Revolutionary War soldier, Martin Kallikak, was the patriarch of both. He and his first wife, who

COWL POLLS FRESHMEN:

Vigilantes Harass Beaned Frosh Tradition Evokes Varying Views

With the beginning of the fall semester, PC's beanie wearers of '64 have undergone all the traditional torture of freshmen. The Vigilante Committee has been diligently seeking out offenders in every area on campus.

Such punishments as holding a sign reading: "I am a beanie violator" in front of the cafeteria during lunch hour have been inflicted by the VC. Chairman Charlie Carroll, who directs the actions of the student court, stated that thus far the freshmen have shown a fine attitude toward this PC tradition.

The Cowl wondered how freshmen actually felt about wearing the beanie. Here are some views of the frosh:

William Archey, Pittsfield, Mass., Economics. "I don't mind wearing a beanie and I think it makes the class unified." He also mumbled something about "power drunk" vigilantes.

Paul Nichols, Clinton, Mass., History. "The wearing of a beanie to class is all right but wearing them to dances is demanding too much. Vigilantes make life miserable. I have enough to worry about without wondering if I'll be nabbed for forgetting to wear my beanie."

Thomas Ronco, Dexter, Maine, Biology. "I don't think beanies are ridiculous and I believe they are a better initiation than those carried on by other colleges. The VC isn't bad on a whole, yet there seem to be a few who give us a hard time. They probably don't know the answers to the questions they ask us."

Donald Hillman, East Paterson, N. J., Physics. "I think beanies help in class unification and I'm not ashamed to wear one. I'm sure law enforcement is necessary and I think having sophs on the VC is a good idea since they've just been through the mill."

Jim Carroll, President Pro tem for the Class of 1946, states: "Thus far the entire class has displayed a wonderful spirit, despite the vengeful attitude of some of the members of the VC. Although they have had to endure many childish pranks on the part of the Student Court, the frosh have refused to buckle under the strain and intend to prove their superiority in the coming tug-of-war."

Fr. McBrien Returns As Chaplain After One Yr. Sabbatical Absence

Resuming his position as Chaplain of Providence College after a one-year sabbatical spent at the Dominican House of Studies, in Washington, D. C., is the Rev. Thomas H. McBrien, O.P.

Father McBrien was Chaplain of the College for five years before he attended the House of Studies in pursuance of his doctorate in Sacred Theology. Father has completed all the course requirements for this degree and he is now working on his doctoral dissertation.

Father McBrien is well-known throughout New England as a lecturer, and, in his own words, "goes over big with ladies' clubs."

PC Starts Classes For 50 H.S. Pilots; Math and Eng. Given

The Rev. J. L. Lennon, O.P., Dean of Studies at Providence College, greeted the pilot groups of the Saturday enrichment program. The students, limited to 25 in each of the two courses, represent the state's public and parochial high schools. The program commenced September 24, and will continue Saturdays throughout the academic year.

"It is not what you have, but what you do with it," stated Father Lennon as he addressed the math section. The dean indicated to the students that no college credit will be received for the courses, but that a memorandum will be made on the students high school record.

Father Lennon stressed that although the sacrifice is great, the students will ultimately benefit if they persevere in their effort to enrich their intellect and broaden their scope of understanding.

The special sections are under the guidance of Father E. Bond, O.P., and Mr. M. F. Flynn in charge of creative writing and math courses respectively.

Renowned Lecturer Here Oct. 11

Mr. Erik Ritter Von Kuehnelt-Leddihn will speak Tuesday, October 11, on "The Future of Democracy Abroad," Fr. Daniel F. Reilly, O.P., announced today.

The lecture will be given at 7:30 in Albertus Magnus Auditorium. Mr. Von Kuehnelt-Leddihn is a renowned lecturer, and an expert on African relations.

In addition to his evening lecture he will conduct a seminar for the history majors of the College. He has also agreed to meet with interested groups of students during the day for further discussions.

Mr. Von Kuehnelt-Leddihn is a native of Austria. He has taught at Beaumont College (England), Georgetown University and was the head of the history and sociology departments of St. Peter's College, New Jersey.

The professor has written a dozen books on diversified titles in several languages. Among his books are "Gates of Hell" which received an award from Cardinal Duquailart and was confiscated by the Nazis.

"America's Founding Fathers" was written by the professor to correct certain misunderstandings of American realities entertained by Americans and Europeans alike.

Professor Von Kuehnelt-Leddihn has visited the United States ten times and has travelled extensively in Europe.

According to Fr. Reilly, the lecture was planned for the evening before the holiday so that more students could attend due to the lessened study burden.

Editorially Speaking

A Hopeful Step...

We hope that our readers are fully aware of the significance to Providence College of Thomas O'Herron's election as a national vice-president of NPOCS. On the level of student affairs, this is an achievement closely parallel to the basketball team's first NIT bid two years ago. It marks the first harbinger of the big leagues.

PC has too long been blindly stumbling along in its own little ghetto as far as these influential collegiate associations are concerned. Even today, sorry to say, our institution is not yet affiliated with the powerful and dynamic National Student Association.

Well, we've been playing dead for a long time, but perhaps the old cadaver is beginning to show a few signs of life!

Wished and Won...

The modification of student athletic ticket procedures has certainly been a source of considerable satisfaction on campus. Due credit should be extended to the athletic department for its obvious good-will in re-evaluating the ticket situation in the light of strong student protest last year.

Chalk one up for the voice of student opinion. It only goes to prove that success depends on backbone, not just wishbone.

As one of the chief spokesmen in last year's student agitation, we are proud to see that the critical and constructive suggestions of the student body were given consideration where a stubborn insistence in the status quo might well have prevailed. This is certainly a highly commendable reflection on the College administration.

Insurance A Buy...

Careful consideration of the new Student Congress insurance plan reveals it to be one of the most constructive steps ever taken by the organization. As far as we can determine, it makes an awful lot of sense on a simple, sound, dollar-and-cents basis.

The group rates offered are clearly below normal rates for comparable coverage. Those who are at all interested in insurance of this type would do well to evaluate the plan with respect to their particular needs. If the coverage is personally acceptable, we wouldn't have any hesitation in maintaining that the price is right.

One project like this a year would certainly give every one more than 100 cents worth for their dollar Student Congress fee.

We Applaud...

We're glad to see that the Vigilante Committee is taking steps to expedite one of The Cowl's favorite projects—the popularization of the College's school songs. Requiring the freshmen to know the Alma Mater and fight songs is a long overdue step.

The frosh may feel silly with "I don't know the PC Alma Mater" signs pinned to their beanies, but a little discomfort now will spare the class from sitting by in close-mouthed shame (like the present upperclassmen) whenever the song is played in public.

Incidentally, both the VC's and the frosh are to be congratulated on this year's beanie situation, one for enforcing the tradition, and the other for complying with it so spiritedly.

Back in 1958, Father Murphy was named Dean of Men. In that year the language department first added a course in Russian to the curriculum.

In 1957, Mr. Vincent Cuddy was made head of the sports publicity of the College. The Cowl entered its twentieth year of publication.

THE PLEDGE YOU SAVE MAY BE YOUR OWN

Today's column is directed at those young female undergraduates who have recently pledged sororities and are worried, poor lambs, that they won't make good. Following is a list of simple instructions which, if faithfully observed, will positively guarantee that you will be a mad success as a sorority girl.

First, let us take up the matter of housemothers. The housemother is your friend, your guide, your mentor. You must treat her with respect. When you wish to speak to her, address her as "Mother Sigafos" or "Ma'am." In no circumstances must you say, "Hey, fat lady."

Second, let us discuss laundry. Never hang your wash on the front porch of the sorority house. This is unsightly and shows a want of breeding. Use the Chapter Room.

Third, meals. Always remember that planning and preparing meals for a household of healthy girls is no simple task. Your cook goes to a great deal of trouble to make your menu varied and nourishing. The least you can do is show your appreciation. Don't just devour your food; praise it. Exclaim with delight, "What delicious pork jowls!" or "What a yummy soup bone!" or "What scrumptious fish heads!" or "What clear water!"

Fourth, clothing. Never forget that your appearance reflects not just on yourself but on the whole house. It was well enough before you joined a sorority to lounge around campus in your old middie blouse and gym bloomers, but now you must take great pains to dress in a manner which excites admiring comments from all who observe you. A few years ago, for example, there was a Chi Omega named Camille Ataturk at the University of Iowa who brought gobs of glory to all her sorors. Camille hit on the ingenious notion of suiting her garb to the class she was attending. For instance, to English Lit she wore a buskin and jerkin. To German she wore lederhosen and carried a stein of pilsener. To Econ she wore 120 yards of ticker tape. Her shinningest gown came one day when she dressed as a white mouse for Psych Lab. Not only her Chi Omega sisters, but the entire student body went into deep mourning when she was killed by the janitor's cat.

Finally, let us take up the most important topic of all. I refer, of course, to dating.

As we have seen, the way you dress reflects on your sorority, but the men you date reflect even more. Be absolutely certain that your date is an acceptable fellow. Don't beat about the bush; ask him point-blank, "Are you an acceptable fellow?" Unless he replies, "Yeah, hey," send him packing.

But don't just take his word that he is acceptable. Inspect him closely. Are his fingernails clean? Is his black leather jacket freshly oiled? Is his ukelele in tune? Does he carry public liability insurance? And, most significant of all, does he smoke Marlboros?

If he's a Marlboro man, you know he has taste and discernment, wit and wisdom, character and sapience, decency and warmth, presence and poise, talent and grit, filter and flavor, soft pack and flip-top box. You will be proud of him, your sorority will be proud of him, the makers of Marlboro will be proud of him, and I will be paid for this column.

The makers of Marlboro, having paid for this column, would like to mention another of their fine cigarettes—mild, unaltered Philip Morris—available in regular size or the sensational new king-size Commander. Have a Commander—welcome aboard.

AED To Witness Installation Of St. Michael's Chapter; Plan Visit To Med Schools

Alpha Epsilon Delta Society of PC will visit St. Michael's College, Winooski Park, Vermont, on Saturday to witness the installation of St. Michael's as Vermont Alpha Chapter of AED.

According to custom, the closest college to the incoming chapter is the installing chapter. In this case, it will be New Hampshire Alpha, which installed our own Providence Alpha. Fr. C. V. Reichart, O.P., moderator of Providence Alpha, will assist the National Secretary, Dr. Maurice L. Moore, of N. Y., in the presentation of the charter.

On Oct. 13, the society, accompanied by Fr. Reichart will travel to the Albany Medical School for the day. The visit will consist of a tour of the Medical Center facilities, luncheon in the doctor's dining room, attendance at a first year class seminar, and an informal discussion concerning medical education.

Movie programs throughout the year and monthly lectures will be posted on the Albertus Magnus and Harkins Hall bulletin boards.

On Oct. 25, the Seton Hall Medical School committee on admissions will interview students interested in attending Seton Hall. Dr. David F. Opydyk will head the committee.

Formerly a national organization, the society, since the admission of McGill University of Quebec, Canada, has become international. Fr. Reichart was elected national treasurer of the society at the bi-annual convention held at Louisville University, at Louisville, Kentucky, last year.

Players Hold Casting Thurs.

Pyramid Players, assisted by a new faculty member, will open the year this week with castings for their fall production. Castings will be held in Harkins Hall, room 107, at 7:30 tomorrow night.

Francis J. Hanley, recent addition to the college's English department, will be aiding the dramatic society in its activities this year, assisting Rev. Robert A. Morris, O.P., club moderator.

Mr. Hanley, a graduate of Rhode Island School of Design, brings a sound background of dramatic experience to the club. He was a member of the UCLA faculty of theatrical art and was chairman of the National Catholic Theatrical Conference in 1955.

Fr. Morris emphasized that any student is invited to read for a part in the play.

Moderator Named For Class of '63

The Rev. Joseph R. Desmond, O.P., has been appointed to replace Fr. Joseph A. Connors in the duties of moderator for the class of 1963. Fr. Connors left Providence College after last semester to join the Trappist Order.

Fr. Desmond was ordained in 1947 and has taught at St. Catherine's Junior College, Ursuline College, and Nazareth College, all in Kentucky. He has also taught at Albertus Magnus College in New Haven, from which he was transferred this year.

Although Fr. Desmond is new to most students, he is not new to PC. He taught here during the 1955-56 school year. He holds S.T.L. and S.T.Lr. degrees.

On commenting about his position of sophomoric moderator, Fr. Desmond said, "I am impressed by the program the officers have in mind, and hope that I will be of assistance in carrying it out."

Fr. Desmond expressed his hope that mixers with Albertus Magnus would be planned. He felt that Providence College, should assume ties with Albertus Magnus, a sister Dominican institution. He also expressed Albertus' interest in having PC join the National Student Association.

WDOM Staffers Shift Offices To Alumni Hall Headquarter

The Voice of the Friars, WDOM, was moved from Albertus Magnus to Alumni Hall during the summer and is preparing to start regular broadcasts in the very near future.

In conjunction with the Mutual Radio Network, WDOM will broadcast the football games of Army, Navy, and the Air Force Academy on Saturdays. The Baltimore Colts' football games will be sent over the air waves on Sundays. The Mutual Network will assist the Friar radio station in the broadcasting of the world champion Colts' contests.

All the PC home hockey games and tonight's Celtic-Laker game are being handled by WDOM. Kevin Stursberg, '62, director of sales and promotion, announced possible broadcast of freshmen home basketball games.

On November 8, the station will take part in reporting election results through the services of the Mutual Network, the U.P.I., teletype service, and the respective party headquarters.

Other personnel of the station are Martin Shugrue, director of programming; Albert K. Aubin, director of personnel administration; and John Cavanaugh, director of engineering.

President Wilson was the first executive to officially proclaim Mother's Day. Miss Anna Jarvis first aroused interest in the holiday in Philadelphia in 1907.

Jazz Artists Exhibit Varied Background

By TOM DRENNAN

Billie Holiday was a prostitute at thirteen. Charlie Parker was a drug addict and eventually died mentally insane. Bix Beiderbecke burned himself out by drinking too much bathtub gin and died at the age of 28. Louis Armstrong learned to play the cornet in a home for problem children.

Benny Goodman and Red Nichols were both accomplished classical musicians before they were in their teens. Dave Brubeck had his own orchestra at the College of the Pacific. Mahalia Jackson started singing in her father's church choir in New Orleans at the age of five, and Paul Desmond studied clarinet and alto sax at San Francisco State College.

These are just a few of the names that serve to make up that complicated media known as JAZZ.

Contrast the piano styles of Erroll Garner, who has never learned to read or write music, to that of John Lewis of The Modern Jazz Quartet, the executive director of the School of Jazz in Lenox, Mass. Musically speaking, Lewis is a genius.

Around Town

By Donald Proacacini

EXPRESSO BONGO. This movie is coarse, stupid and offensive; consequently it has experienced rewording commercial success. Though it purports to be a satire on contemporary British teenagers and their fads, it succeeds only in being an English interpretation of the Folies Bergere.

Some truly fine satirical touches are rendered ineffective by a barrage of scantly clad females, blatantly suggestive dialogue, and a remarkable series of lers.

HIROSHIMA, MON AMOUR. This ageless story told with the classic French touch will probably become a film classic. Though a great deal of the dialogue is lost with the subtitles, the movie is so graphic that this scarcely is measurable. The principals act with an understatement that sharply brings into relief the impending tragedy in their lives. Incidentally, the influence of Bergman is readily seen.

HELL TO ETERNITY. Jeffrey Hunter with the dubious assistance of Vic Damone plods his way through this noisy and aimless war story. However the battle scenes are gory and loud and that is all anyone expects anyhow.

RUBY. With her dark eyes flashing dangerously, Jennifer Jones wades through jungle swamps. She is pursued by Charlton Heston; but alas they both are swallowed up by the mud.

"MADAME BUTTERFLY." Puccini's masterpiece has been made into a movie that is satisfying both musically and pictorially. The vocal parts sung by an extraordinary Italian cast are acted by Japanese performers who wed their own refined acting to the urgency of the music. The scenery of the garden is lovely beyond description. This is a perfect gem of a movie.

Garner a moron, yet when either one of them sits down at a key board, only one thing comes out; JAZZ!

George Shearing and Ray Charles are both blind while Stan Kenton and Ahmad Jamal each have two good eyes, yet when any one of these four sit down at a piano, only one thing ever comes out; JAZZ.

Jazz is a big thing in America, as Marshall Stearns says: "The people of the United States listen to and enjoy more jazz or near-jazz than any other form of music. Because of its all pervasiveness, it has a great influence on most of us. Jazz has played a part, for better or worse, in forming the American character."

Jazz is most commonly associated with the College set. And significantly, more great jazz artists are being featured on college campuses this year than at any other time in the history of jazz. Whether it be Dixieland, swing, spiritual, bop, or progressive, there is something to suit any taste in jazz.

We are going to take a look at some of the artists and components that aid in the makeup of jazz. Some of the stories are going to be nice, some funny, some sickening, some sad, but all of them true.

We will deal with human beings so enraptured with the noise that they make that they forsake all other things. Sometimes even life itself.

But, whether they be prostitutes or spiritual singers, dope addicts or priests, the sons of slaves or the daughters of counts, they'll all have the same thing in common; JAZZ!

What's a coffin nail? A cigarred in the language of the "Beats!"

Danforth Foundation Accepts 1961 Fellowship Applications

The Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Missouri, is accepting applications for the tenth class of Danforth Graduate Fellows. These classes are held for seniors preparing themselves for college teaching and those who plan to enter graduate school in September, 1961, for first-year graduate study. The foundation accepts applicants from all fields of undergraduate study.

Maximum annual grant for single Fellows is $1500 plus tuition and fees charged to all graduate students. For married Fellows the maximum stipend is $2000 per year plus tuition and fees with an additional grant of $500 for each child. Any student may apply regardless of his financial status.

A Danforth Fellow is allowed to carry other scholarship appointments concurrently with his Danforth Fellowship. Applicants for other appointments are invited to apply for a Danforth Appointment.

If a man receives a Danforth Fellowship as well as a Rhodes, Fulbright, or Woodrow Wilson Fellowship, he becomes a Danforth Fellow without a stipend until these other relationships are completed. All Danforth Fellows participate in the annual Danforth Foundation Conference on Teaching.

Very Reverend Robert J. Slavin, O.P., has named Rev. Richard D. Danilowicz, O.P., as the Liaison Officer to nominate to the Danforth Foundation not more than three candidates for these fellowships.

The qualifications of the candidates are: outstanding academic ability, personality congenial to the classroom, and integrity and character, including serious inquiry within the Christian tradition.

All applications, including the recommendations, must be completed by January 15, 1961. Any student wishing further information should get in touch with Father Danilowicz.

Frosh Weekend Shows Profit

A favorable final financial report for the Freshman Weekend, held last May, was released last week by Francis Mazur, financial secretary of the event.

In his report, Mr. Mazur showed that the class of '63 had made a profit of $210 on the affair. The statement also indicated that the gross cost of the entire affair was $1515.20. Taken into consideration under gross cost were miscellaneous expenses, publicity, decorations, the picnic and all refreshments.

On the same day, Tom Murray, treasurer of the sophomore class, reported that the treasury of the class amounts to $505.00.

Faculty To Nominate Fellowship Candidates

Princeton, N. J.—An election campaign promising rich rewards for the successful candidates gets under way today as thousands of faculty members from universities and colleges in the United States and Canada begin to nominate college seniors for Woodrow Wilson graduate fellowships.

In announcing the opening of the competition for the academic year 1961-62, Dr. Hugh Taylor, President of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, estimated that well over 9,000 students will be nominated by the closing date of October 31.

The program is open to college graduates mainly in the humanities and social sciences. Those who receive awards are not asked to commit themselves to college teaching, but merely to "consider it seriously" as a possible career.

Of the nominated candidates who fail to win Woodrow Wilson Fellowships more than 80 per cent, Dr. Rosenhaupt said, went on to graduate school anyway, often with financial help from other sources. He estimated the annual need for new college teachers at 30,000 a year for the next ten years.

The Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation does not accept applications directly from students. Every candidate for the award must be nominated by a faculty member. Nominated students are invited to declare themselves active candidates for the award by sending the necessary application forms to the chairman of the selection committee for the region in which the prospective candidate is now located.

A list of the fifteen regions and the names of the regional chairmen may be obtained from the Foundation's national headquarters, Box 642, Princeton, New Jersey, or from the Woodrow Wilson representative on any campus in the United States and Canada.

The Battle of Bunker Hill which Bostonians celebrate each June 17 was actually fought on Breed's Hill. Revolutionary forces defeated 2,500 British.

Gamache Presented With Service Award

Mr. Leonard F. Gamache, the administrative specialist of the Selective Service Department of the Army here at PC, received a ten year gold service award from the Department of the Army Civilian Personnel on Monday.

The award was presented by Lt. Col. Lawrence V. Troiano, PMS & T, in his office at Alumni Hall, on Monday.

Also attending the presentation were: Major Robert A. Murch, Captains Donald J. Norton, Paul Listro, Norman C. Farrar, SFC. Martin W. Hopkinson, and M/Sgt. Ronald C. Orchard.

Mr. Gamache, a native of Rumford, R. I., previously served as transportation clerk with the Army Civilian Personnel at the Fields Point Army Service Examination Station. He came to PC in 1953.

"A budget helps you pay as you go—if you don't go anywhere."

Fulbright Scholarship Applications Must Be Submitted By November 1

Only one month remains to apply for some 800 Fulbright scholarships for graduate study or research in 30 countries, the Institute of International Education. Rev. Royal J. Gardiner, O.P.

action reminded prospective applicants today. Applications are being accepted until November 1.

Inter-American Cultural Convention awards for study in 17 Latin American countries have the same filing deadline.

Recipients of Fulbright awards for study in Europe, Latin America, and the Asia-Pacific area will receive tuition, maintenance and round-trip travel. IACC scholarships cover transportation, tuition, and partial maintenance costs. IIE administers both of these student programs for the U. S. Department of State.

Applicants will be required to submit a plan of proposed study that can be carried out profitably within the year abroad. Successful candidates are required to be affiliated with approved institutions of higher learning abroad.

Enrolled students at Providence College should consult the campus Fulbright adviser. Competitions for the 1961-62 academic year close November 1, 1960. Requests for application forms must be postmarked before October 15. Completed applications must be submitted by November 1.

The Very Rev. Joseph L. Lennon, O.P., Dean of Studies released the 1960-61 second semester Dean's List to the Cowl this week. He accompanied the release with the following statement:

"Father Lennon wishes to congratulate all those students whose quality of academic work made them worthy of attaining the Dean's Honor List.

"According to the statement in the Providence College Bulletin, a student in good standing who, at the end of a term, has attained an average of 3.0 or better and no grade less than C, is placed on the Dean's Honor List for the succeeding term."

FRIDAY! THE GREATEST SIXTY-ONEDERFUL CHEVROLET

Here's the car that reads you loud and clear—the new-size, you-size '61 Chevrolet. We started out by trimming the outside size a bit (to give you extra inches of clearance for parking and maneuvering) but inside we left you a full measure of Chevy comfort. Door openings are as much as 6 inches wider to give feet, knees, and elbows the undisputed right of way. And the new easy-chair seats are as much as 14% higher—just right for seeing, just right for sitting.

Once you've settled inside you'll have high and wide praises for Chevrolet's spacious new dimensions (in the Sport Coupes, for example, head room has been upped as much as 2 inches, and there's more leg room, too—front and rear). Chevy's new trunk is something else that will please you hugely—what with its deep-well shape and bumper-level loading it holds things you've never been able to get in a trunk before.

Yet, generously endowed as this car is with spaciousness and clean-etched elegance, it holds steadfastly to all the thrifty, dependable virtues Chevrolet buyers have come to take for granted. Your dealer's the man to see for all the details.

There's never been a trunk like it before! The floor's recessed more than half a foot and the loading height is as much as 10 1/4 inches lower.

NEW '61 CHEVY CORVAIR

More space . . .
more spunk
and wagons, too!

The newest car in America: the CORVAIR 700 LAKE-WOOD 4-DOOR STATION WAGON.

CORVAIR 700 CLUB COUPE. Like all coupes and sedans, it has a longer range fuel tank.

CORVAIR 700 4-DOOR SEDAN. Provisions for heating ducts are built right into its Body by Fisher.

Here's the new Chevy Corvair for '61 with a complete line of complete thrift cars.

To start with, every Corvair has a budget-pleasing price tag. And Corvair goes on from there to save you even more. With extra miles per gallon . . . quicker-than-ever cold-start warmup . . . you start saving sooner . . . a new extra-cost optional heater that warms everyone evenly. Riding along with this extra economy: more room inside for you, more room up front for your luggage (sedans and coupes have almost 12% more usable trunk space).

And our new wagons? You'll love them—think they're the greatest thing for families since houses. The Lakewood Station Wagon does a man-sized job with cargo, up to 68 cubic feet of it. The Greenbrier Sports Wagon you're going to have to see—it gives you up to 175.5 cubic feet of space for you and your things.

Corvair's whole thrifty lineup gets its pep from a spunkier 145-cu.-in. air-cooled rear engine. Same rear-engine traction, same smooth 4-wheel independent-suspension ride. See the polished and refined 1961 Corvair first . . . you get at your Chevrolet dealer.

Spare tire is in the rear in coupes and sedans—leaving more luggage space up front.

Even middle-seat passengers sit pretty, thanks to Corvair's practically flat floor.

Now in production—the GREENBRIER SPORTS WAGON with up to twice as much room as ordinary wagons (third seat optional at extra cost).

Green Garb Featured For Fall

By D. E. DONNELLY

A whole bright fresh new look of color, springing from multicolored fabric, ground and coupled with new fabric weights and blends will give the fall and winter lines of men's clothing a strong campus appeal.

Purpose of the compound colors is to lighten softly the whole clothing color picture. Patterns remain conventional and traditional, achieving their newness when reflected against the "ground color." The total color effect of the new fall line is not only one of fresh, bright color, but one of elegance and refinement.

There are no garish contrasts, no sharp patterns or colors. The suitings look lighter, but only in overall effect. Sportswear looks more conventional and darker, but only because the color effects are more subtle and intricate. Actually this brightening of suitings and the sobering of sports wear is a planned effect, according to the nation's menswear manufacturers.

With regards to styling, the trend of fall 1959 is being emphasized even more so in the fall of 1960. From head to toe, it's beginning to be a slimmer, trimmer look, with emphasis on more comfortable, lightweight, yet longer-wearing clothing.

Even men's shoes will be lighter in weight. Whatever you may choose to call this popular new trend in today's styling, it all adds up to the most flattering men's fashions to come along in years.

Officers were elected at the club's first meeting. Paul S. Kelly was elected president; Joe Keough, vice-president; Phil La Chapelle, treasurer; and John Dietz, secretary.

As his first official act, Kelly established two new offices in the club. John Lynch was appointed Parliamentarian, and Paul Bienvenue, Publicity chairman.

was feeble minded, had a ne'er-do-well son, who in turn became the father of 10 more ne'er-do-wells, from whom generations of ne'er-do-well Kallikaks descended. Next time, the story goes, old Martin did better and married a young woman of high intelligence, and from this union came generation of prosperous and prominent citizens.

Practically everybody, of course, knows about the feuding Hatfields and McCoy's.

But few people could tell you what really started the backwoods vendetta — or what ended it.

THE TWO FAMILIES lived across a narrow creek from each other, but the Hatfield side was in West Virginia and the McCoy side in Kentucky.

This geographical accident was partially responsible for the beginning of the feud, since it put the McCoy's on the Northern side in the Civil War and the Hatfields on the Southern.

Not even the Romeo-and-Juliet romance of Anne Hatfield and Rose Anne McCoy could stop them. Years later, when the law stepped in to stop the shooting, it was to create such bitter feeling between the two states that they actually prepared to send troops against each other.

The feud guns weren't stacked until 1899, when old "Devil Anse" Hatfield and those of his sons who had survived got religion, were baptized, and made peace with their enemies.

Since then, the Hatfields and the McCoy's have produced doctors, lawyers, and even a United States Senator. The younger generations of both families, still living in the Kentucky-West Virginia border region, are, by and large, getting along fine.

Nobody believes it, though. As late as 1947, when a McCoy, trying to interfere with the arrest of a friend, was shot by the local police chief, who happened to be a Hatfield, headline writers from coast to coast gleefully proclaimed the reopening of the feud.

Egan ...

last year's. What do you think of it?

Immediately, it was evident that this opinion was not shared by Space nor his roommate, Tim Moynahan, who sported a surprised look on his face.

Egan: "All right, you talk first and then I'll talk."

"Well, among the missing are Bradley, St. Joseph's, St. Louis, and St. John's (not on the regular schedule). There is definitely no team on the schedule as good as Bradley and no three that can match St. Joe's, St. Louis and St. John's. If you want to get ranked with the best, you have to play the best."

Egan: "OK, I'll grant no one is as good as Bradley. But look at the whole schedule. We hardly have any breathers and most of the tough games are on the opposition's court."

"Look at the early part of the schedule. St. Francis, away; Santa Clara and San Francisco on the Coast. San Francisco's freshman team lost only one game. Canisius is a good basketball school. Then we play Gonzaga up here; they have Ernie Burgess, third highest scorer in the nation last year. Then on to New York to the Holiday Festival. We have drawn St. John's in the opener and if we get by them, we will probably face Ohio State" (no comment was needed).

"In the second half of the schedule we run into Niagara with Al Butler, St. Bonaventure with Tom Stith and a sophomore named Crawford who broke most of Stith's freshman records, and Holy Cross with Jack Foley. In February we play De Paul who could be in the top ten this year. And even around New England, Boston College, remember last year's game, and Rhode Island with Don Lee back, will cause plenty of trouble. This is an easy schedule!"

We thanked John for the interview and left with a much higher opinion of the schedule than we previously entertained.

Foreign Service Exam Applications Available

SPORTSDESK

IT'S GENERALLY CONSIDERED A BAD SIGN when one starts off a new year apologizing for the old one. Being a firm believer in that adage, I'll just mention and not apologize for a slight miscalculation made in this column at the tail end of last year.

While commenting on the improved spirit of the Friars' baseball aggregation last spring, this columnist brought up the subject of umpire-baiting. It seemed logical to draw upon two of the more infamous umpire-baiters currently among the ranks of major league managers, namely Paul Richards and Danny Murtaugh, for examples of what not to do.

At that time Murtaugh's Pirates were languishing in fifth place as the San Francisco Giants raced off to an early bulge in the league standings. The Orioles, in the meantime, under the guidance of Richards, were fighting to maintain a slim grip on third place.

AT ANY RATE, the comment was made that neither Murtaugh nor Richards were helping their clubs win ball games through their constant ruckus-raising with the men in blue. The comment didn't raise any great controversy at the time, as some Cowl comments do. As a matter of fact, it was probably the most untalked about column of the year.

However, the off-campus elements involved caused more than a little comment during the course of the summer months. The Pirates slammed their way to the National League pennant, and today, while you're reading this sorrowful tale, they are opening the World Series at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh.

The Orioles might well have been in the same enviable position, were it not for a late season slump. They led the American League for a good part of the summer, and only a fifteen game winning streak on the part of the World Champion New York Yankees prevented them from copping the bunting.

RECEPTION FOR FROSH

Members of the freshmen class from New Jersey were received at the home of Anthony Murphy in Dumont, N. J., Frank Casey of Newark, N. J., and John Rossmoondo of Haworth, N. J., and president of the Carolan Club spoke about the various phases of collegiate life and ROTC.

AND SO THE story goes. Murtaugh is a shoo-in for the National League manager-of-the-year award. Richards also has a just claim for the same award in his league, although the venerable Mr. Stengel also has his eye on it.

From all this mixed-up affair, one sure thing results. This tells here will never win the award for being the prophet of the year.

football and AI in basketball.

Jim started his collegiate career at St. John's where he was captain of the frosh. In January of '58, he transferred to PC. He became eligible for varsity ball in January of his sophomore year and became an instantaneous success. His patented set shot thrilled many Alumni Hall patrons.

In December of 1957, at the Quantic Marines Christmas Invitational Tournament, Jim led the Friars to the championship, and gained the Most Valuable Player trophy.

The highlight of his collegiate career came in March of 1959, when Jim led the Friars into the semifinals of the NIT. PC was ousted by St. John's (the eventual winners) but they had already made their mark in big time ball.

Jim joins the athletic department highly recommended by his former coaches. He has a reputation of being a student of the game and was always known as a "hungry athlete."

Rev. Aloysius B. Begley, O.P., remarked: "We're very happy to have Jim back with us. As a captain, he possessed a vast amount of leadership and ability and we feel that his coaching career will be every bit as good as his playing career."

Friars Capture Informal Title In State Sailing

On Saturday, October 1, the Providence College sailing team won the informal state sailing championship at Barrington. The Friars nosed out URI, 23-22, while Brown and RISD trailed with 20 and 17 points respectively.

PC, which came from behind in winning had its A division boat skippered by Paul Hackett with John Finerty as crew. John Dunn was skipper for the Friars in the B division with John Casey as crew. Twelve-foot "tech" dinghies were the type of boat used in the competition.

The A division raced over a two lap course, beginning with a run across the starting line, up to the mark, and then a beat back to the finish. B division sailed the same course.

Because of delays which plagued the event, the second and third races consisted of only one lap each. Hackett took a second and a third in this division. In capturing first place, Hackett had to outmaneuver RISD and then edge Brown coming across the line. With this finish, Providence gained a tie with Brown.

In B division's second race Dunn got off to a bad start and finished fourth. But in his last race Jack sailed wide around the turn, avoiding a jam involving the other boats.

In doing this, he sailed to a more windward position of the other boats. As they came to round the finish line, the four boats were strung out in a line, giving the appearance of an impending close finish.

However, Dunn, being more windward than the other boats, came across the line first, clinching first place for Providence.

Egan Answers Reporter's Quiz

By PATRICK DREWRY

On May 31, 1960, long after the basketballs had been packed away and Alumni Hall Gymnasium was darkened and empty, the success of the 1960-61 basketball season at Providence College was very much in the balance.

For that was the day Captain John Egan underwent surgery at Johns Hopkins Medical Center in Baltimore to correct the knee condition which hampered his play during the 1959-60 season. Now, as the time for practice draws closer, the predominant question among PC hoop enthusiasts is "How is Egan's knee?"

The Cowl interviewed John about the knee and here is how the discussion went in room 128 Stephen Hall.

What actually was done to the leg and by whom?

Egan: "Dr. Edmond McDonnell performed surgery for the removal of a cartilage. Incidentally, he discovered that it was split in half."

Did you have to wear a cast on the leg?

Egan: "No, that wasn't necessary."

Do you have to follow any program of redevelopment?

Egan: "Yes, I have to lift weights which are attached to a boot. I began with five pound weights and have to work up to fifty pound weights by December. Right now I am working."

Did you play any basketball this summer?

Egan: "No, not any competition. But as the leg became stronger I was able to practice shooting and running."

"How is it now and will you have to wear a brace this year?"

Egan: "During practice I will have to wear a brace. As for the regular season I am still not sure; the Doctor hasn't decided yet. The knee feels fine and I am hopeful of getting along without it."

ar's potential for the season, Coach Harry Coates wasn't too optimistic. He does think, however, that he has a good man in Stan Blejwas with which to build his hopes on. As for this year "I'm afraid I'll have to use that old Brooklyn saying 'wait till next year.'"

BOB BAMBERGER

The freshmen took the first four places Saturday as they defeated Massachusetts Maritime Academy 16-45.

Tom Zimmerman, the first frosh to cross the line, ran the course in 16:13.3. John Hamilton and Dave Shannahan finished at 16:27 and 16:33 respectively. Tom Souza was the lone Friar to go over the 17 minutes, as he completed the course in 17:08.

Jimmy Swartz Returns To PC As Assistant Basketball Coach

By TOM DRENNAN

If, in the vicinity of Alumni Hall, you see a stocky six-footer tossing in line-drive over-the-head set shots, don't think that this young hot shot is a new basketball player. Chances are you'll be looking at Jimmy Swartz, captain of the 1959 Friars and the new assistant basketball coach at Providence College.

Jimmy returns to his Alma Mater after a year of teaching and coaching at St. Agnes of Rockville Center, Long Island, New York. His duties here include, besides basketball, varsity tennis and sports publicity aid.

Those of you who remember the '59 Mullaneymen will recall the valuable asset that Jim was to that talented brigade. He was the playmaker, scorer, and leader that co-ordinated Johnny Egan, Len Wilkens, John Woods, Pete Schementi and company, which became the first national Invitational Tournament quintet in Providence history.

Jim comes from a family of athletes. His father was a great semi-pro baseball and basketball player. His older brother Artie played with Maurice Stokes at St. Francis of Loyola, Pa. A younger brother, Richie, plays basketball at Hofstra in New York. The two youngest Swartzes are stars at Champlain High School on Long Island, Tom in (Continued on Page 11)

Athletic Dept. Inaugurates New Student Ticket Program

Rev. Aloysius B. Begley, O.P., Providence College athletic director, announced at the opening of school that the College has inaugurated a new student ticket program.

In the past, students had to purchase a $10 ticket book to secure any reduction in admission to athletic events. However, this year every student has been issued an identification card to be used when purchasing tickets to obtain reduced rates.

Students also have the alternative of buying two types of ticket books for home games. The one for basketball is $10 and another for hockey is $5.

Tickets will go on sale in the downstairs box office at Alumni Hall ten days before each sports event for 72 hours. The office will be open during the two lunch periods each day while tickets are being sold. After the students' period for buying tickets ends, the tickets will be sold to the general public. After that period, students will have to take what tickets are available.

The identification card must also be used by the students whenever they want to use the gymnasium's facilities and equipment.

Celtics and Lakers Play Here Tonight For Joseph McGee Scholarship Fund

The World Champion Boston Celtics, and the recently-transplanted Los Angeles Lakers will bring pro basketball to the Providence College campus, tonight at 8 p.m. The game, sponsored by the Providence College Alumni Association, is a benefit game for the Joseph P. McGee Memorial Scholarship Fund.

The Celtics will feature their usual veteran cast of Bob Cousy, Bill Sharman, Tommy Heinsohn, Bill Russell and others. More prominent rookies slated to play with the Celtics include "Satch" Sanders of N.Y.U., Sid Cohen of Kentucky, and Jim Smith of Steubenville. The Lakers, who shifted from Minneapolis to Los Angeles at the conclusion of last year's N.B.A. campaign, will have the fabulous Elgin Baylor, Rudy LaRusso, Tom Hawkins, and Ray Felix along with the West Virginia great, Jerry West. Los Angeles will also be making their bow under a new coach, former West Virginia tutor, Fred Schaus.

The Joseph P. McGee Scholarship Fund is in memoriam to one of the Friar greats. McGee captained the first PC football and basketball teams while also being an outstanding baseball player. Later, he directed Friar football fortunes for many years. The fund was inaugurated last year by a group of Rhode Island businessmen.
