Fr. Quirk Denounces Ultra-Conservatives
At Meeting Sunday

The Rev. Charles B. Quirk, O.P., launched a critical attack Sunday evening at the Thomis­tic Institute of Industrial Rela­tions meeting against those Catholics, both clerical and lay, who subscribe to the extreme conservative economic policies advocated by Senator Barry Goldwater and the John Birch Society.

Father Quirk, the chairman of the economics department at the College, told the audi­

Catholic Biblical Association
Names Fr. Collins Consultant

The October issue of the "Catholic Biblical Quarterly" announced the election of Father Thomas Aquinas Collins, O.P., of the Providence College Theology faculty, as a Consultant of the Catholic Biblical Association of America.

Father Collins, a past presi­dent of the CRA, will serve for two years, along with his three fellow-con­sultants: the Most Rev­erend John F. Whealon, Auxil­iary Bishop of Cleveland, the Right Reverend Monsignor Pat­rick W. Stapleton, Rector of St. Dominican Seminary, and the Most Rev­erend John F. Whealon, Auxiliary Bishop of Cleveland, the Right Reverend Monsignor Pat­terson, Rector of St. Dominic's Seminary.

The final evaluation of the role of student govern­ment will be seriously hampered by the lack of communication be­tween the Congress and the va-school year to facilitate the pay­ments of student fees and the cashing of checks.

The need for library cards at the beginning of the year requires no explanation.

The final evaluation of the Congress' efforts to inaugurate these identification cards is stated by Hall as "a lot of work and no results."

One of the most discouraging factors of this failure is the complete loss of about $700 by the Student Congress, which represents an investment in these cards.

Hall, commenting on this as­pect of the problem, remarked: "The role of student govern­ment will be seriously hampered by the fact that we now have very little working cap­i­tal."

Although the plans for dis­tribution of the cards have been permanently cancelled for this year, members of the Congress are still hopeful of renewing the project next year.

The Athletic Department also needed cards; these cards were necessary for the issuing of equipment to students and ath­letic teams.

The Student Identification Card Committee has stopped issuing identification cards for the present year. (See "Memo" on Page 2.)

Joseph Hall, president of the Student Congress, summed up the reason for the discontinuance of the cards: "We have no right whatsoever to collect a $2 fee for these cards which, at this point, have no use whatsoever."

Hall commented further that the reason for this action was the lack of communication be­cause of the lack of communication of the Twelve Congress and the_va-school year to facilitate the pay­ments departments who were tennent of student fees and the be served by the cards.

Alumni Club Holds PC Hockey Match

The Mal Brown Club, one of PC’s Alumni organizations, announced this week that it is sponsoring the PC-Rutgers hockey game, to be played at the Rhode Island Stadium on Friday evening, November 29.

Special student tickets are already on sale at the Athletic Office, and are available for only $3.50. This advanced student ticket must be purchased three days prior to the game, next Monday, after which the tickets will also be sold to the general public.

As a further incentive, those students who purchase tickets in advance will not be charged the $1.00 student activity fee, usually assessed at the door to all PC home games.

MEMO FROM THE EDITOR:

Students, worry no more! The SC has scrapped the I.D. cards for this year.

As this paper goes to press, the distribution of the cards has been halted. Students in charge of distribution have stopped pacing about the campus trying to get some department head to say that he will require students to show the cards.

As I understand the situation, the present dilemma could have been avoided if the moderator of the Student Council, the President of the Student Congress and the Chairman of the I.D. Committee had the foresight to anticipate the problems that have arisen and not have had the cards made. They must have known the project was doomed when a Bursar’s card, Athletic Department card, Student Activity book, and library card appeared during the week.

We praise the action of the Student Congress in cancelling further processing of the cards, yet, at the same time, are disturbed by the fact that the Student Congress stands to lose as much as 700 dollars.

It seems strange that the moderator of the Student Congress, who apparently backed the original idea, would not even use the I.D. to replace the Student Activity Book.

What the solution to the problem will be, we do not know, and hesitate to even suggest. As one senior sage remarked: “Perhaps the Dean of Discipline, who seems to have gotten the Student Congress into the present mess, could get the Congress out of the red by doing it necessary for students to present their cards while paying disciplinary fines.”

I do hope, however, that this action will not permanently cancel the project for future years. Now is the time to begin work on an all-inclusive I.D. for a science.

PHI CHI CLUB

Hears Kennedy

A Realist Philosophy of Mathematics was the topic of the lecture given by Professor Hubert C. Kennedy at the meeting of the Phi Chi Club held last Monday.

Dr. Kennedy, new mathematics professor at the IVI program, is a graduate of St. Louis University and studied in Munich before he directed two of the deciples of the late, noted mathematician, Geistate, Peano.

The lecture dealt with the nature of mathematics, especially as exposed by Professor Mathematics. He discussed the idea that there were actually several types of mathematics. Dr. Kennedy explained that this is considered “Pure” mathematics and is different from the mathematics created by rational men. He said that pure mathematics cannot be considered a “game” rather than as an art or a science.

The lecture was preceded by a brief business meeting. Refreshments were served following the talk.

The next meeting of the St. Thomas More Club will be held on Wednesday, November 8, in the Guild Room of Alumni Hall. The business meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. At 8 p.m., Dr. Harold Harrison, Asst. The speaker will bring a screen and slides.

All students of the college are invited.

Redmond Selected as Cadet Colonel

By ROTC Dept.

The ROTC Department of Providence College last week announced the election of senior Lawrence A. Redmond as Cadet Colonel of the college’s brigade. The top-ranking cadet officially assumed his new duties at the brigade’s weekly drill yesterday.

Redmond’s appointment to this post was determined on the basis of two required courses in Military Science, The Herst is a cadet academic achievement, and in this area he has led his class for the past two years, ranking high on the Dean’s List each year.

The other requisite is performance at summer camp. This summer, the Herst was designated second out of the more than 1100 cadets who took part in the rigorous six-week exercise, being once named “Cadet of the Week.”

The new Cadet Colonel is simultaneously holding the position of Placing Rifles Commander, to which he was elected by the members of Company K-12 last spring.

Redmond’s distinctions include his selection as Distinction of Military Student, his membership in the Cadet Officers’ Honor Club, and his re-election of both the Superior Cadet Award and the Alumni Academy of Honor for three consecutive years. His nomination to PCs “Who’s Who” was announced this week.

Redmond, who lives in Columbus, Ohio, is a History major, and was, until this year, a member of the Honors Club. He plans to enter the Army’s Infantry branch immediately after graduation. Following his tour of duty he intends to go to graduate work in History, preferably at Harvard.

Dr. John C. Sheehan, Professor of Organic Chemistry at M.I.T. will speak on "Adventures in Antibiotics," at 7:30 p.m. in Albertus Magnus Auditorium on Monday, November 13. This lecture, open to the public, will inaugurate this year's Distinguished Lecture Series in Science. It is being arranged by Dr. Edmond A. Healy of the chemistry department in conjunction with the NIH Honors Science Program.

Sheehan will also conduct a seminar for a small group of NIH students at 4:30 p.m. He is also noted for his research in the total synthesis of penicillin, and for large-scale development of the important military explosive RDX. He was Scientific Liaison Officer with the American Embassy in London, Office of Naval Research, 1953-54.

He received his degree from the University of Michigan in 1941. He has been associated with M.I.T. for the past fifteen years. He has lectured at Notre Dame, Colgate, Michigan, and Adelphi in this country and at Zurich, Basle, and Berne in Switzerland.

Incubator Wins Lead in Play

Dave McIntyre, a freshman, will portray Erwin Trowbridge, the meek verifier of Oonie Heights who has the uncanny ability to predict winning horses, in the Pyramid Players production of "Three Men on a Horse" to be staged December 7 and 8.

McIntyre as Erwin is driven from his home by his father's household. Because of his drives he has been treated as being a brilliant student by his classmates' jokes. His father's household, because of the resultant hostility toward his father's real wife Castro and his brother were sent away to high school and kept there. They never went home, even at Christmas, and their parents never visited them.

In giving the pro and con about Castro, Carlson declared that he has become acquainted with Castro's father who had been Castro's father-confessor and one of his teachers in high school.

Carlson Clarifies Cuban Concept: Pros and Cons Voiced on Castro

What has been happening in Cuba during the past few years has been confused and misunderstood, John Roy Carlson, a world traveler, author, and lecturer told his audience during a speech he delivered on October 21 in Albertus Magnus Hall on Tuesday evening.

In giving the pro and con about Castro, Carlson declared that he has become acquainted with a priest who had been Castro's father-confessor and one of his teachers in high school.

The priest told him, Carlson said, that Castro and his brother were illegitimate. Their mother was a servant in their father's household. Because of the resultant hostility toward his father's real wife Castro and his brother were sent away to high school and kept there. They never went home, even at Christmas, and their parents never visited them.

Mixer Mishmash

The Junior Class showed progress in the formation of a new idea for "mixers" last Sunday afternoon. Despite the fact that less than a third of the juniors attended, the mixer was a social, if not a financial success.

The social chairman of the Student Congress might look to the juniors for a few ideas toward improving the Friday night mixers which seem to have degenerated against an unlifted social mass chaos.

We suggest that Mr. McCarthy take whatever measures are necessary to raise the level of activities on Friday evenings. One suggestion is to limit the mixers solely to those who can present college identification.

Whatever the outcome, the fact remains that unless a drastic revision is made shortly, no college students will bother coming to PC. The number of girls' colleges sending representatives is now dwindling steadily week by week.

Conservative Ideals

The organization of a Conservative Club at PC appears to augur well for the intellectual life of the campus. The political discussion group is the first of its kind at PC and is an excellent step toward eliminating the apathy for which our students have become notorious in the past few years.

Many will disagree with the views of this organization. Nevertheless, we hope that it will receive support from the students, so that others might be encouraged to form similar clubs. In this way, we feel that an atmosphere of healthy political debate can be created on the campus.

Poor Turnout

The attendance of the student body at the funeral of Father Molloy last Friday morning was extremely poor. A conservative estimate is that less than 400 students lined the drive leading to the College Cemetery. Considerably fewer attended the Requiem Mass at St. Peter's Church.

Here again is evidence of the general decline in student participation on this campus. For basketball yes! A queue will form down the stairs and around the corner in Alumni Hall for tickets. But in showing respect for a man who has taught countless students here for over a decade, the response is somewhat less.

The attitude of the lay faculty must also be mentioned. Relatively few members of this group appeared to pay their final tribute to a fellow member of the faculty.

HUSBANDS, ANYONE?

It has been alleged that coeds go to college for the sole purpose of finding husbands. This is, of course, an infamous canard, and I give fair warning that, small and spunky as I am, anyone who says such a dastardly thing when I am around had better be prepared for a sound thrashing!

Girls go to college for precisely the same reasons as men do: to broaden their horizons, to lengthen their vistas, to drink at the fount of wisdom. But, if, by pure chance, while a girl is engaged in these meritorious pursuits, a likely looking husband should pop into view, why, what's wrong with that? Eh? What's wrong with that?

The question now arises, what should a girl look for in a husband. A great deal has been written on this subject. Some say character is most important, some say background, some say appearance, some say education. All are wrong.

The most important thing—bar none—in a husband is health.

Though he be handsome as Apollo and rich as Midas, what good is he if he just lays all day accumulating bedsores?

The very first thing to do upon meeting a man is to make sure he is sound of wind and limb. Before he has a chance to sweet-talk you, slip a thermometer in his mouth, roll back his eyelids, yank out his tongue, tap his patella, palpate his thorax, ask him to straighten out a horseshoe with his teeth. If he fails these simple tests, phone for an ambulance and go on to the next prospect.

If, however, he turns out to be physically fit, proceed to the second most important requirement in a husband. I refer to a sense of humor.

A man who can't make a joke is a man to be avoided. There are several simple tests to find out whether your prospect can talk a joke over or not. One of these tests is, ask him his "Mad" comics. Or switch his steet raccoon. Or shave his beard.

After each, note good-natured pranks, laugh gaily and shout "April Fool! If he replies, "But this is February nineteenth," or something equally churchful, cross him off your list and give thanks you found out in time.

But if he laughs quietly and calls you "Little Minx!" put him to the next test. Find out whether he is kindly.

The quickest way to ascertain his kindliness is, of course, to look at the cigarette he smokes. Is it mild? Is it clement? Is it hoops of steel, for you may be sure that he is kindly as a sum-

To Strive For Unity

Pope John XXIII told members of the foreign press corps in Italy at a special audience in the Vatican that journalism is a means of "working for universal brotherhood.

Brown Lauds Atlantic Convention

At Recent History Club Meeting

Barry Brown of the "Providence Journal" editorial staff, addressed the first meeting of the Johannine Society Thursday, October 26, in the Guild Room of Alumni Hall.

Mr. Brown, author of the column, "The World Around Us," discussed United Nations and NATO.

He informed the large audience of a significant current event which has as yet received very little publicity. The event he spoke of was the Atlantic Convention movement in London.

The Atlantic Convention is a unique effort to make NATO into a federal union. The participation of the United States in the movement was authorized by Congress last year.

Brown cautioned against deceiving ourselves in regard to the effectiveness of the United Nations as a supra-national entity from which to develop a world community. Rather, he suggested that regional supra-nationalism might be achieved by an organization such as the proposed Atlantic Convention.

Friars Club

The Friars Club held its first Mass and Communion breakfast on Sunday, October 29.

The Reverend Vincent C. Dore, O.P., President of the College, celebrated the Mass in Aquinas Hall Chapel and addressed the club members after the breakfast in the Alumni Hall Annex.

Father Dore urged the students to prepare themselves for their role in a crisis-ridden society through study of theology. The President indicated that Catholic graduates who have an awareness of the truths of theology are obliged to use their positions of leadership to advance these truths.

The first annual Communion breakfast of the Providence College Youth Guidance Organization was termed a "tremendously successful affair" by Rev. Thomas H. McBrien, O.P., Chaplain of the College.

The Rev. Paul M. James, O.P., moderator of the organization, celebrated the Mass in Aquinas Hall Chapel, Sunday, November 5, for the club members and their young guests.

Big Brothers Hold Annual Breakfast

The first annual Communion breakfast of the Providence College Youth Guidance Organization was termed a "tremendously successful affair" by Rev. Thomas H. McBrien, O.P., Chaplain of the College.

The Rev. Paul M. James, O.P., moderator of the organization, celebrated the Mass in Aquinas Hall Chapel, Sunday, November 5, for the club members and their young guests. Forty-eight children from the Dr. Patrick F. O'Rourke Children's Center attended the Mass accompanied by their "Big Brothers."

Immediately following the Mass, breakfast was served in the Alumni Hall Cafeteria. A movie was shown of the Providence-Holy Cross game of the 1961 NIT. Jim Hadnot, PC basketball captain and a member of the club, added some humorous observations to the film.

When asked for his appraisal of the breakfast, President Dick Ferrigno observed: "For the first Communion Breakfast, it was entirely successful. Father James and all who worked on the affair are very pleased with the fine turnout, which is an indication of the spirit of this organization."

It's sporty, it's speedy, it's a SPRITE ...and it's yours!

All you have to do is like win!

Grand Prix CONTEST FOR NEW ENGLAND COLLEGE STUDENTS

Here's the story, man. Eight, count 'em, eight of these swinging Sprites will go to eight guys or gals in New England colleges. The other 44 states strictly don't count. Get the picture, get the odds? This is one deal you've got to get in on.

First thing to do, get your hand on a Registration Envelope, which gives you the easy Contest Rules. You'll find Registration Envelopes everywhere—all around campus and in your local smoke shops. Our Liggett & Myers Campus Rep has stacks of them, too—so track him down.

Next, you take a little quiz. It's printed right on the envelope, see, it's about sports cars and you can do it in like 47 seconds. Then smoke 5 wonderful packs of Chesterfields or L&M's (or, if you're a menthol man, Oasis), tear the bottom panels off all 5 packs, tuck them in the envelope, sign your name and mail it.

Now comes the brain work. If you pass the quiz you'll receive a limerick in the mail with the last line missing. So finish it! Send in the best rhyme you can think of. If the judges (an independent, impartial lot) think your line is the cleverest, you're like behind the wheel of your Sprite already.

Enter incessantly! Because there are 8 Sprites up for grabs, dad! The 4 winners of the Fall Contest will be announced at the end of the Fall Semester. Then the whole jazz goes into high gear again—and toward the end of the Spring Semester the other 4 Sprites go on the block. So stay with it all year—keep smoking those wonderful Chesterfield, L&M or Oasis cigarettes—keep trying! Win, man!

Buy 5 packs and get started. There will be 8 new '62 Sprites on the campuses of little old New England by next May, and you might as well jingle the keys to one of them in your jeans... right?
There are a number of notable movies opening at local theatres this week, notably good and notably bad. On the plus side are "The Devil at Four O'Clock," "Town Without Pity," and "Two Women," while we must say thumbs down to "1 plus 1."

"The Devil at Four O'Clock" is a ziz-sagging spectacular that starts out as a power and the glory," with Spencer Tracy, that old master of the Roman-collared roles, portraying a whiskered priest forced to give up his life's work, careers in something similar to "My Three Angels" in the persons of three convicts, including Frank Sinatra; then suddenly veers into something vaguely resembling hanky-panky."In the Sixth Happiness," with the rescue of a group of children from a mountain-top leper colony. This may sound like a soggy mixture, cliche-ridden and trite, but thanks to some memorably dialogue, Tracy's acting and some of the best character actors in the business in supporting roles, it becomes the best of all possible hokum.

"Town Without Pity" is a new tale of violence from Hollywood's realist factory which we spoke of in this year's initial column. There is a thin line between sex for sex's sake and sex for the sake of truth and art. This film deals with rape, and though it tactfully tries to handle the battle between duty and conscience of the attorney defending four GIs who do violence to an Austrian fraulein and the destruction of her reputation, it becomes heavy-handed and preachy at times, possibly because it is well aware it is not dealing with a subject proper to the movies. Well done it is, in all respects, but it still leaves the basic question of whether or not it should have been done at all.

"Two Women" is a thrilling Italian film that returns Sophia Loren to stature as an actress, and does much to tear down the sex symbol. It deals with a mother and daughter ravaged by war, counting a great deal on its shock value and play on the emotions for its power.

The final opening this week, "I plus 1," is by far the worst we have had in quite a while and certainly one of the most disappointing. Imagine attempting to put the Kinsey report on film! Out of this absurdity has come an equally absurd and disgusting. Imagine attempting to put the Kinsey report on film! Out of this absurdity has come an equally absurd and disgusting. "Youth has been trapped by the 'fanatical' John Birch Society." The speaker emphasized that the Senator and his followers are "obsessed with an unrealistic return to the 'laissez faire' economics of the 19th and early 20th century." Senator Goldwater is sincere but his conservatism can hardly be equated with the demands of the socialization of Pope John XXIII," Father Quirk added.

The socialization advocated by the Pope is an outline of a mixed economy, similar to the present U. S. economy.

Father Quirk acknowledged, in a response to a question from the floor, that many Catholic youth are alleged advocates of conservatism. He pointed out the movement on the part of white collar" parents who "intune their children with some phase of the corporation mentality, including an anti-union bias." "Youth has been trapped by the 'fanatical' John Birch Society. He charged that the Senator and his followers are "obsessed with an unrealistic return to the 'laissez faire' economics of the 19th and early 20th century."

Miller Remains Aloof in Book Controversy

(From Trinity Tripod)

Henry Miller, author of "Tropic of Cancer," will stay out of the controversy touched by the banning of his book. According to his publisher, Grove Press, Miller does not wish to comment or become involved in the controversy. Miller's decision not to get involved is well in fitting with his character. He has never led violent demonstrations when his books have been banned.

The years from 1930-1940 he spent almost entirely in Europe. It was during these years that he wrote "Tropic of Cancer."

From its publication in France in 1934, "Tropic of Cancer" has been both denounced and praised. Although banned from the United States and England, it has been lauded by such literary figures as T. S. Eliot, Ezra Pound, Lawrence Durrell, John dos Passos, Sir Osbert Sitwell, and George Orwell.

About his own style, Miller has written: "Whatever the language employed, no matter how objectionable . . . one may be certain that there was no other idiom possible. Effects are bound up with intentions, and these in turn are governed by laws of compulsion as rigid as nature's own. That is something which non-creative individuals seldom understand."

Although Miller hasn't commented on the ruling that "Tropic" is "raw obscenity," two years ago when a ban against "Sexus" was being appealed in the Norwegian Supreme Court, Miller wrote the following to his lawyers:

"I do not implore you to suspend or withhold judgment of me or my work. Neither I nor my work is that important. (One cometh, another goeth.) What concerns me is the harm you are doing yourselves . . . When you write me off the books, as to speak, will you find your food and wine more palatable, will you sleep better, will you be a better man? These are the things that matter—what happens to you, not what you do to me."

TAX IS NOW HALF OF GASOLINE COST

Direct taxes on gasoline now equal nearly one-half the cost of the fuel itself, according to American Petroleum Institute figures. Gas taxes rose 51 per cent during the '50s to an all-state average of 10.2 cents a gallon at the close of 1959. The average regular unleaded cost of a gallon of gas at the end of last year was 21.18 cents—plus tax.

THE VARSITY HOCKEY TEAM had a sort of a "wait-and-see" attitude about this year's frosh star, which many people had been touting as being potentially one of the best in the college's history. But the frosh, after having played together for only a couple of weeks, nearly ousted their varsity "Big Brothers" in a recent scrimmage.

Now the varsity players are predicting an undefeated season for the frosh.

Incidentally, the varsity defense corps, weakened by the loss of Red O'Call and Larry McManus, through graduation, and Ray Zifcak who used up his three years eligibility, has been strengthened by the addition of the grittiest—but smallest—man on the team, Jim Gergear.

UNDER THE HEADING "Class Will Tell" the 1901 Converse Basketball Yearbook tells the story of a little fellow who used to be called "Howdy Doody," who wanted to excel in a tall man's game—basketball.

Later they called him "Mr. Biddy Basketball" as his team won the 1954 world Biddy Basketball championship.
