Thirty-One Are Nominated to Who's Who

New Science Lab Dedication Scheduled for November 12

On Monday, Nov. 12, a formal dedication ceremony will officially open the new Edward J. Hickey Science Building recently erected here at Providence College.

Vincent E. Price, M.D.

The dedication will begin with Vincent E. Price, M.D., from the National Institutes of Health, meeting with the students involved in the various projects at the new building and explaining to them the opportunities given by the NIH for further development at both the graduate and post-doctoral level.

At approximately six o'clock, an evening dinner is scheduled to take place at Raymond Hall. The meal will be preceded by a short biographical sketch of the late Edward J. Hickey of Detroit, father of the Rev. Frederick O. Hickey, without whose bequest the building would not have been possible.

Following the meal, Doctor Price will give a talk on "Broad Implications of Biomedical Research."

Doctor Price himself has held many important positions in the medical field. A graduate of Oberlin College, he received his M.D. at the University of Michigan and from 1946 to 1948 was Assistant Surgeon of the National Cancer Institution of the NIH. In 1951 he completed his senior surgeon program and was enrolled at the Head Enzymes and Metabolism Section. He comes to Providence College having recently been named Executive Secretary of the Special Grants Program Division of General Medical Sciences of the National Institutes of Health.

The building being dedicated cost about $350,000, but, due to various bequests and grants, this sum is almost fully paid. Besides the regular labs for the students concerned with the NIH program for promoting research, it also contains an animal room, a conference room, a greenhouse, and a storeroom.

From 2 p.m. until 5:30 p.m. that afternoon, the Edward J. Hickey Laboratory will be open for public inspection.

Chosen by College Committee On Scholarship and Leadership

Providence College today announced thirty-one seniors to be listed in the 1962-63 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Those honored and their concentrations are as follows: Stanislaus A. Biejwas, history; Leo E. Carroll, sociology; Gerard P. Cobleigh, history; Robert S. Cronin, Jr., political science; John D. DeFoe, chemistry; David E. Donnelly, economics; Francis J. Egan, economics; Vincent L. Ernst, economics; Raymond L. Flynn, political science; Stephen M. Garfinkel, business accounting; Lombard J. Gasbarro, political science; Robert J. Graham, history; John A. McCarthy, general studies; Paul K. McNamara, business management; Arthur C. Mattos, Jr., English; Frank M. Mazur, business management.

Also Frank R. Mazzeo, Jr., history; Thomas M. Murphy, business management; James A. O'Leary, Jr., political science; Timothy R. Phelan, political science; Thomas F. Rafferty, economics; David E. Russell, political science; Andrew F. Sayko, Jr., chemistry; Richard J. Segura, education mathematics; Robert M. Silva, political science; Donald J. Slover, education mathematics; William A. Torello, education social studies; Frank R. Toro, political science; Joseph W. Walsh, political science; Laurence F. Ward, physics; Peter J. White, political science.

Students recognized each year by "Who's Who" are selected from approximately 750 colleges and universities in the United States. The students nominated were chosen by a committee composed of the Dean of Discipline, the moderator of the senior class, the president of the Carolan Club, and the president of the Student Congress.

Campus nominating committees consider the student's scholarship, his participation and leadership in his college extracurricular activities, and his usefulness to the College during his years here.

The national "Who's Who" foundation maintains a placement service for those seniors who seek future scholarships and employment. The number selected this year is proportionate to the total number of colleges and universities registered as members.

Rev. J. L. Lennon, Dean of Studies, announced in releasing the list that certificates will be presented to these seniors by the Very Rev. Vincent J. Dore, President of the College, at a ceremony to be held in the near future.

Walsh Encouraged by Weekend Ticket Sales

Joseph Walsh, Student Congress president, has announced that tickets for the Congress weekend, "Autumn Journey," which will be held on November 16 and 17, may be split. Walsh indicated that the semi-formal, non-floral dance at the King Philip on Friday night from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. will cost $5.00.

Saturday afternoon's casual Twist party and jazz concert at the Club 400 from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. with Tony Tomasso and his Jewels of Dixie will be $2. The price of Saturday night's folk concert with the Journeyman and comedian, Norm Crosby, at the East Providence High Auditorium will be $5.

Saturday night's program will begin at 8:30 p.m. Individual students who wish to attend the concert on Saturday night may do so at $2.50 per ticket.

President Walsh noted that the demand for tickets has been rising rapidly, especially since the announcement that bids may be split. Walsh added, "We are very optimistic for a successful weekend due to the great increase in ticket sales."

Tickets may be bought in Alumni Hall cafeteria during lunch time or at Raymond Hall during the evening meal.

Seniors are reminded that final sittings for portraits for this year's Veritas will be held on Tuesday, November 13th, through Friday, November 16th. The pictures will be taken in the Student Congress office in Donnelly Hall. Sign-up sheets are posted in the second floor rotunda, Harkins Hall. There will be a $2.00 sitting fee on all pictures.

Activity sheets will be again placed in the second floor rotunda in the near future for those seniors who have not as yet completed and handed them in. Due to deadlines which must be met, THESE ARE THE FINAL OPPORTUNITIES FOR HAVING PICTURES TAKEN AND FILLING IN ACTIVITY SHEETS.

Thomistic Institute Begins Fall Session

The Thomistic Institute of Industrial Relations will open its fall session on November 11, when the Rev. Charles B. Quirk, O.P., chairman of the economics department at PC, will

It was also announced that three other talks are scheduled for this semester. On November 18 there will be a session on "Mass Transportation in Metropolitan Providence," and on the following Sunday a lecture will be given on "The Baby Hoover Commission Recommendations." The final talk, entitled "A Report on Rhode Island Development—1962," will be delivered on Sunday, December 2.

Father Quirk graduated from Providence College in 1930 and was ordained to the priesthood in the Dominican Order in 1939. He received his master's degree at the Catholic University in Washington, D. C., and his Ph.D. at the University of Laval in Montreal.

In addition to being head of the economics department, he is also director of the Industrial Relations Institute and moderator of the Labor Management Club and the St. Antonius Guild. Father Quirk has contributed many articles on economics and labor-management relations to a number of publications and is author of A Frame of Reference, a textbook concerning industrial relations.

Rev. Charles Quirk, O.P.

give a talk on "The Economic Image of America—1962." The lecture will be held at the Guild Room in Alumni Hall at 8 p.m.

AED Seeks Blood For College Bank

On Tuesday, November 29, the AED will conduct a drive to obtain more blood for the Providence College blood bank. Blood will be taken by staff members of Our Lady of Fatima Hospital. All students under 21, who desire to donate blood, must have parental permission. The necessary slips to be filled out will be provided. Further information will be published as the drive draws nearer.

Under the present system, all students at Providence College are covered by this program up to one year following their graduation. However, any student who donates blood to the bank extends this coverage to the members of his immediate family.

Last Thursday, seventeen pre-med students of Providence College were invited to attend the annual pre-med day conducted at the Albany Medical School. In the morning the students were taken on a tour of the medical school and its hospital facilities. Following lunch, they were invited to sit in on a medical class. Immediately afterwards, they attended a lecture given by the dean of the school.

Tomorrow, at 7:30 p.m. in the Guild Room, Dr. Joseph Karas will lecture on "Poison Control and Mouth to Mouth Resuscitation." Dr. Karas will show slides in conjunction with his lecture. This lecture is open to the entire student body.

Thursday, November 15, at 2:30 p.m. in Room A-118, the A.E.D. will sponsor the first of its bi-monthly movies, "The Rival World." It is an on-the-spot account of the endless and costly war between man and insects. The film gives striking close-ups of the enemy and its method of attack and dramatic views of man's counter-attack. The unusual blend of scientific objectivity and great visual impact has won international acclaim for this film. It is in color and runs for twenty-seven minutes. All students are invited to attend its showing.

K-12 Presents Annual Dance In Portsmouth

Company K-12, of the Pershing Rifle unit at Providence College, will present its annual Cord Dance at the Pocasset Country Club in Portsmouth, R. I., on Friday, November 16. Dancing will be from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. to the music of Al Vezina's Band.

Cadet Sgts. Frank Coccoli and Joe Gallo, co-chairmen of the dance, announced that the affair, which will be open to all active Pershing Rifle men and alumni, will cost $4.50 per couple. It will be formal, non-floral.

At the dance, the candidates for Pershing Rifles will receive their cords, the signification of their successful completion of the testing and training program of Company K-12. This program was conducted by Cadet 2nd Lt. Robert Kraus with the aid of the Cadet Sergeants of K-12. Highlight of the dance will be the selection of a queen from among the dates of the candidates.

Senior Class Holds Meeting; Makes Plans for Its Prom

At a meeting to determine the location of this year's senior prom, members of the class of 1963 decided on the King Philip Ballroom in Wrentham, Massachusetts. The meeting was on October 30 in Harkins Hall auditorium.

According to class president Richard Segura, the affair will be held on the evening of Friday, May 31. A later meeting of co-chairmen Ron DeThomas and Gerald O'Brien with the class officers resulted in the scheduling of another meeting for Wednesday, November 14, at 6:30 p.m. in Harkins Auditorium. Committees will then be formed for the weekend. Those unable to attend this meeting and wishing to work on a committee are asked to submit their names to one of the officers.

The class gift committee has decided to place a suggestion box in front of the Student Congress bulletin board, from November 7 to 16 for class gift suggestions. According to Segura, a list of the two or three most popular suggestions will be voted upon by the class at a later date. He reminded seniors to give class gift money to their respective concentration representatives accompanied by activity book slip number 14.

A treasurer's report showed the class to have realized a $209 profit at the senior mixer. "This money will be used to defray the cost of senior weekend," said Segura. He also stated that 219 seniors had signed a petition asking for the class meeting and only 40 appeared at the meeting.

Aquinas Society Talk Planned

"Infinity—Some Problems for Philosophers" will be the topic for a lecture to be delivered tomorrow evening by Dr. Hubert C. Kennedy, assistant professor of mathematics at PC, before the Aquinas Society. The meeting will begin at 8:00 p.m. in Aquinas Lounge, and all students are invited.

Dr. Kennedy, a member of Phi Beta Kappa, pursued his undergraduate studies at the University of Florida and received his doctorate in mathematics from St. Louis University in 1961. At the 1960 International Congress for Logic, Methodology and Philosophy he presented his paper on "The Mathematical Philosophy of Giuseppe Peano," and his article "An Appreciation of Giuseppe Peano," was published in the Pi Mu Epsilon Journal.

PC Seniors Named For ROTC Awards

Twenty PC seniors were designated as Distinguished Military Students in an awards ceremony yesterday before the entire 633-man ROTC Cadet Brigade.

Selected on the basis of exceptional qualities of leadership, military aptitude and academic achievement, the designees will be offered an opportunity of making a profession of the US Army upon graduation. The ROTC, through this Distinguished Military Graduate program, is the largest single source of career officers for the Army, providing almost twice the number of Regular Army officers furnished by West Point annually.

Seniors selected include Walter J. Campbell, Jr., Leo Carroll, Frank C. D'Angelo, Joseph

De Gennaro, Jr., David E. Donnelly, Joseph Ganino, Stephen M. Garfinkle, Gerald Governo, Paul K. McNamara, Thomas S. Murray, Jr., James A. O'Leary, Jr., Edward J. Quinn, David E. Russell, Donald J. Slover, Terrence E. Sullivan, Alfred J. Theriault, Frank Toro, Jr., James O. Travis, Robert J. Valieres and James T. Whiteman.

Present at the military ceremony honoring the selected cadets were the President of the College, the Very Reverend Vincent C. Dore, O.P.; the Superior of the Dominican Community, the Very Reverend Ernest A. Hogan, O.P.; Reverend Joseph L. Lannon, O.P., Dean of the College and Lt. Colonel Lawrence V. Troiano, Professor of Military Science.

Colonel Troiano concurrently announced leadership assignments within the Cadet Brigade for the school year. Among the key appointments, Cadet Travis will serve as Brigade Executive Officer, Cadet McNamara as 1st Battalion Commander and Cadet O'Leary as the 2nd Battalion Commander. Each will hold the rank of Lt. Colonel. David Russell was previously announced as Brigade Commander.

Frosh — Soph War Games

The freshman class of Providence College won the traditional War Games on Wednesday, October 24, when they took both the basketball and volleyball games and tied the tug-of-war. The highly competitive basketball game ended with a score of 38-36, while the volleyball team, led by Fernando Soria, won an easy 15-8 victory. Following the war games, refreshments were served to the "liberated" freshman.

Antoninus Society Members Hear Tiernan on 'Brokerage Career'

The St. Antoninus Club will hold its first meeting of the year tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Guild Room of Alumni Hall. Mr. John Tiernan, a member of the Payne, Weber, Jackson and Curtis Brokerage will be the guest speaker. Mr. Tiernan will discuss careers in brokerage especially as the concern PC economics majors. John Haniieski, club president, announced that the lecture should be especially interesting for any student who is interested in the stock market. "Mr. Tiernan will provide a sufficient background to make the subject both understandable and interesting to all students," Haniieski noted.

At its December 5 meeting, the club will present Mr. Andrew Bell, an industrial relations representative.

The club's officers for the current year in addition to Haniieski are William Russell, vice-president; James Whiteman, secretary; and, Thomas Trudell, treasurer.

Editorially Speaking

It's Up To You! . . .

Next Friday and Saturday the Student Congress will conduct the first "all student body weekend" ever to be held at Providence College. Once more the advertisements have been posted, the weekend committees are hard at work, and the tickets are being sold. And yet this weekend appears to be lacking in the most important quality it is supposed to foster—college spirit.

This fault cannot be laid at the door of the Student Congress which has labored diligently and faithfully in the creation of "Autumn Journey" but must be ascribed to the student body itself. Too often we at The Cowl have heard the perpetual complaint that campus social life does not measure up to proper standards. Too often have we listened to the Monday morning critics who dissect every attempt to improve PC's social atmosphere and yet ignore every social function given. We wish to hear these puerile wailings and moanings no more.

You, the student body of Providence College, are now being presented with an opportunity to help improve your college's social atmosphere. The Congress has provided an excellent weekend at a reasonable price. From present indications we believe "Autumn Journey" will be both a social and financial success. Yet if the student body continues to remain lethargic and uninterested, that one essential ingredient of intra-college spirit and unity will be missing. You can provide that ingredient by attending "Autumn Journey" and making it truly a college weekend. The choice is up to you!

Plaudits . . .

As the class of 1963 passes its last year on the PC campus, we note with pride that thirty-one of its members have been selected for inclusion in the student "Who's Who." Some may argue that although such a listing is an honor and a tribute it is devoid of any real or practical significance. Yet it is The Cowl's belief that those who scoff and belittle membership in an honorary group of this nature do both an injustice to themselves and to those who are honored.

Selection of the candidates cannot be compared to a campus popularity contest. The triple standard of scholastic excellence, extra-curricular leadership, and service to the College ensures that those chosen will be the best and most well-rounded students that this College has to offer.

The Cowl extends its congratulations to the thirty-one new members of "Who's Who." We believe that these campus leaders of the class of 1963, who have already established their academic vigor and prowess of leadership, will do much to bring glory upon their Alma Mater in the years to come.

We urge all Providence College students to follow the fine example of their thirty-one fellow collegians in academic superiority, creative leadership, and useful service both during college years and later life as well.

Summa: Secondary Source . . .

Catholic colleges in general are distinguished from their non-sectarian counterparts by the basic objective toward which they operate. In the Catholic college, an attempt is made to develop the intellectual and social potentialities of each student in conformity with the truths of the Catholic faith. The significance of the Catholic student's intellectual activity is derived ultimately from his growing awareness of the relation of that activity to his supernatural goal.

At Providence College, although the attempt to produce properly integrated students is evident to some extent in every area, that attempt finds its most specific and emphatic expression in our courses in Theology. Three years are devoted to gradually introducing the student to the explanation and defense of the many truths of Catholicism presented by St. Thomas in the Summa Theologica. Taken in its proper perspective, then, Theology is in many ways the most important course undertaken by the undergraduate.

contains, as was noted above, a brilliant explanation of Catholic beliefs, it is obviously not the SOURCE of those beliefs. It is, so to speak, a secondary text.

Thus, we feel it is unfortunate that no attempt is made at Providence College to instruct the student in the primary source of his faith, i.e., Sacred Scriptures. We realize that the development of a thorough acquaintance with the scriptures is a life-long study; but this is also true of the Summa. Yet the Catholic must have some knowledge of the written deposit of his faith, especially in our day, when so many varied sects attempt to claim the Bible as their own.

Perhaps a course could be inaugurated which would not profess to explain the content of scriptures in detail, but would rather familiarize the student with the principles upon which the interpretations of the Church are based. With this background the Catholic student would feel more confidence in approaching the Bible, whether it be to defend his faith or for his personal spiritual development.

GLOOM AT THE TOP

Oh, sure, you've been busy, what with going to classes, doing your homework, catching night crawlers, getting married—but can't you pause for just a moment and give thought to that dear, dedicated, lonely man in the big white house on the hill? I refer, of course, to the Prexy.

(It is interesting to note here that college presidents are always called "Prexy." Similarly, trustees are called "Trixie." Associate professors are called "Axy-Pixy." Bursars are called "Foxy-Woxy." Students are called "Algae.")

But I digress. We were speaking of the Prexy, a personage at once august and pathetic. Why pathetic? Well sir, consider how Prexy spends his days. He is busy, busy, busy. He talks to deans, he talks to professors, he talks to trustees, he talks to alumni. In fact, he talks to everybody except the one group who could lift his heart and rally his spirits. I mean, of course, the appealing, endearing, winsomest group in the entire college—you, the students.

It is the Prexy's sad fate to be forever a stranger to your laughing, golden selves. He can only gaze wistfully out the window of his big white house on the hill and watch you at your games and sports and yearn with all his tormented heart to bask in your warmth. But how? It would hardly be fitting for Prexy to appear one day at the Union, clad in an old rowing blazer, and cry gaily, "Heigh-ho, chaps! Who's for sculling?"

No, friends, Prexy can't get to you. It is up to you to get to him. Call on him at home. Just drop in unannounced. He will naturally be a little shy at first, so you must put him at his ease. Shout, "Howdy-dooey, sir! I have come to bring a little sunshine into your drear and blighted life!" Then yank his necktie out of his vest and scamper gaitlike around him until he is laughing merrily along with you.

Then hand him a package and say, "A little gift for you, sir." "For me?" he will say, lowering his lids. "You shouldn't have."

"Yes, I should," you will say, "because this package is a carton of Marlboro Cigarettes, and whenever I think of Marlboro, I think of you."

"Why, hey?" he will say curiously. "Because Marlboros have taste, and so do you," you will reply.

"Aw, go on," he will say, blushing furiously. "It's true," you will say. "Moreover, Marlboro has a filter, and so do you."

"In my swimming pool, you mean," he will say. "Yes," you will say. "Moreover, Marlboro has a soft pack, and so do you."

"My limp leather brief case, you mean," he will say. "Yes," you will say. "Moreover, the Marlboro box has a flip-top, and so do you."

"But I don't have a flip-top," he will say. "But you will," you will say. "Just light a Marlboro, and taste that tasty taste, and you will surely flip your top."

Well sir, you will have many a good chuckle about that, you may be sure. Then you will say, "Goodbye, sir, I will return soon again to brighten your lorn and desperate life."

"Please do," he will say. "But next time, if you can possibly manage it, try not to come at four in the morning."

Italian Club Sponsors Lectures on Culture

The Italian Society of Providence College will hold a meeting tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m., according to society president, Stephen Cielline. A notice for the place of this meeting will be posted on the bulletin board in Harkins Hall.

A series of discussions will be held concerning the Italian culture during the school year. Dr. Salvatore G. Scotti, moderator of the club, will present the first lecture to the society on November 15, at 7:30 p.m. in the Guild Room entitled, "Italy, in general." Other topics for discussion are: Italian Government, the Renaissance, Art, Poetry, and Contemporary Italy.

Club officers besides Cielline include: Joseph Tutalo, vice president; Jerome Visconti, treasurer, and Morris Sabatini, secretary.

Spectrum Club Holds Meeting

"A dream is a disguised fulfillment of a suppressed or repressed wish," said Thomas Hallee, '64, at the last meeting of the Spectrum Club. The subject of his speech was "Freudian Symbolism in Dreams."

Hallee discussed the Freudian interpretation of dreams and the background of Freud's life as an influence on his writings. Rev. John Gerhard, O.P., a member of the philosophy department, explained the attitude of the Roman Catholic Church in regard to Freud and his works.

Military Duty Obligations Explained by ROTC Dept.

By Capt. John C. Grant

EDITORS NOTE: One of the cold hard facts facing the young American male of today is his obligation to his country in the form of military service. In an effort to inform and prepare its readers for this unquestioned role in the military, THE COWL will provide a series of bi-weekly articles prepared by the staff of the military science department. This series, in content, is directed to all PC students, ROTC and non-ROTC alike.

It is fitting, considering the objectives of this column to begin this series with an article discussing the many programs by which a young man can fulfill his military service commitment. It should be considered that these programs are continuously being revised based on the needs of the armed forces. Further, the programs cited below are subject to change without notification and should be considered in this light. For reasons of space, only minimum essential information is included. Detailed aspects of each of these programs can be gained by contacting members of the appropriate service.

COMMISSIONED SERVICE Army

The Army has recently announced a requirement for 17,500 commissioned officers for fiscal year 1963 (July 1962-June 1963). In order to meet this increased requirement a number of actions are being taken to increase the active Army officer input. First, ROTC graduates scheduled for active duty will be called for a period of at least two years. The 6-month active duty for training program, suspended in August of 1962, will remain suspended throughout the current fiscal year. The Reserve commitment for the ROTC grad remains at 3-years in the Ready Reserve with 1-year in the Standby Reserve.

Prospects for advanced schooling for the ROTC grad are good. ROTC graduates may request delay from call to active duty for the purpose of obtaining advanced degrees. Department of the Army is placing considerable emphasis in this area as can be substantiated by the following statistics. Approximately 20 percent of all Army officers have completed graduate study. This compares very favorably with a nation-wide total of 2.3 percent as furnished by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. ROTC graduates granted such a delay must agree to serve on active duty for two years.

For the non-ROTC graduate the Army's Officer Candidate Schooling system is currently undergoing considerable expansion. An enlistment option has recently been initiated which will permit college graduates to enlist in the Army for the purpose of attending OCS. The service obligation incurred here is the same as that for the ROTC commissioned officer. Additionally, greater numbers of qualified personnel serving in the active, enlisted ranks are being encouraged to apply for officer candidate training. One thought to be considered here is that individuals failing the OCS program will be required to complete the balance of their obligation as enlisted men.

The Navy offers two programs applicable to PC students by which they can fulfill their obligation as commissioned officers. The first, The Navy Reserve Officer Candidate Pro-

the taste to start with... the taste to stay with

The question is: IF SOCRATES WERE ALIVE TODAY, WHAT WOULD HE ADVISE SMOKERS? Good, smart advice. Of course it makes sense to enjoy the fine-tobacco taste of Lucky Strike. This taste is the best reason to start with Luckies... the big reason Lucky smokers stay Lucky smokers. And this same taste is what makes Lucky Strike the favorite regular cigarette of college students. Try it today.

Gary Ruggeri Paces Team As Friarlets Top Orange

The freshmen harriers, with a score of 31, continued their winning ways by defeating Syracuse, Brown, and Fordham in a quadrangular cross country meet held in the wind and rain at Van Cortland Park, New York, Saturday, November 3. Gary Ruggeri placed a strong third for the Friarlets.

The fine balance of the squad again enabled the freshmen to outscore their rivals, as Paul Foster, Jerry Riordan, and Richard Duggan picked off the all important low scores of the fifth, sixth, and seventh positions, respectively.

Coach Ray Hanlon said that his freshman runners are capable of doing better, but felt that the team "held together well" despite the adverse weather conditions.

Ruggeri, who actually finished in a tie for second place twice, but who later was declared the third place finisher, said that he liked the course and enjoyed running despite the weather.

The Friarlets now have a record of six wins and one loss, and are slated to run against Central Connecticut State at Boston later this week.

'Long John' . . .

"So far in practice the team looks good, but it's best to wait to see how we do in the pressure of a game. I think the attitude of this year's team is as good as that of last year's. But since we're not ranked this year and since we are disappointed with our performance of last year, we want to go all out to prove ourselves this season. Naturally we'd like to win as many games as possible, but the important thing is to play well."

Frosh Hockey . . .

bell is perhaps the best frosh goalie prospect in the East and conceivably in the country."

Comparing this present frosh squad with last year's one-beaten powerhouse, Eccleston said that this year's unit lacks the overall balance and depth which was a definite factor in last year's freshman team, but they have evidently more outstanding individuals.

Practice for the frosh is limited to two one hour sessions a week plus a weekly scrimmage with the varsity. Hindered by a lack of defencemen, Coach Ducharme will shift a few forwards and centers to defense for better balance on the squad. The campaign, which opens up on December 3, will have the Friarlets playing a number of outstanding teams. Besides facing off against local high schools, the first year men will tussle with the Plebes of the United States Military Academy, the Pups of Boston University, the Brown University Cubs, and the Eaglets of Boston College.

Obligations . . .

gram, requires the college student to enroll in an organized Navy Reserve until prior to his junior year in college. He is then required to attend weekly drill periods and two 6-week summer training periods. These summer training periods are done normally while in college but under some circumstances can be completed following graduation. This program incurs a 3-year active duty period, a 1-year, 9-month Ready Reserve commitment and a 1-one year Standby Reserve commitment.

The second Navy program is Officer Candidate School. The college grad enrolls in this program following graduation with applicants being carefully screened prior to acceptance. The total service obligation is the same as in the NROC program above.

Marines

The Marines offer two programs similar to the Navy's. The Platoon Leaders' Course requires the college student to enroll in the Marine Reserve normally prior to his junior year. The individual has no weekly drill requirement but again must attend two 6-week summer training periods. This training can be done after graduation in certain circumstances.

The second Marine program is Officer Candidate School which requires the college grad to enlist directly for OCS following graduation and attend a rigid 10-week course. The obligation for both of these programs is a 3-year active duty period, 2-year Ready Reserve and 1-year Standby Reserve.

Air Force

The Air Force offers one program applicable to PC students. The Officer Training School program calls for the college grad to enlist in the Air Force for OTS following graduation. The successful completion of this school gives the individual a 4-year active duty commitment (5-years for flyers) and a 2-year Standby Reserve obligation.

Coast Guard

Officer Candidate School is the program for those students desiring to fulfill their obligation as Coast Guard officers. This program requires the student to sign up for four months prior to graduation. Successful completion of this school incurs a 3-year active duty requirement, 2-years in the Ready Reserve and one year in the Standby Reserve.

These are the commissioned officer programs available to PC students. Again it should be pointed out that all of the above programs are subject to change dependent upon the needs of the services. A representative of the US Air Force recently visited PC for the purpose of discussing the Air Force program with students. Representatives of the Navy and Marines can be expected here in the near future. They should be contacted for detailed information.

In our next article we will point out enlisted service options available to PC students.

Eccleston Faces Difficulty; Team Loaded with Goalies

By Joe Reihing

Facing Coach Tom Eccleston this year is a problem many other coaches wish they had. Before the first game on December 8, he has to make a decision as to who will be his starting goalie. This year Providence boasts of three top-flight goalies, all with impressive records.

"How well we'll do this year depends a great deal on our goalie," commented Eccleston. "Besides being a star at defense, Jack McGeough stopped a lot of shots last year. He will be a tremendous loss and consequently the goalie will have a lot more work this year."

Hornstein

Returning this year is Dan Hornstein who has been the regular goalie for the past two seasons. Dan minds the nets that his brother once held here at PC. After playing for Hope High and Bridgeton Academy in Maine, Dan alternated in the goal in his freshman year. He took over the first string job in his sophomore year and made the second All-Star Team in the Christmas Tournament at Boston that Providence won that year. His top game last year was the victory over a strong St. Lawrence team, 7-3.

Haugh

Moving up from last year's freshman team is Tommy Haugh, from St. Paul, Minnesota. Tommy comes to Providence College from Cretin High School in St. Paul, a school which has PC stars such as Marsh Tschida and Jim Wana-macher. According to Coach Eccleston, "Tommy was the backbone of the freshman team last year. He was having trouble with his eyes this year, but now is wearing glasses." Beating Brown in the last game of last year's season was Tom's strongest game.

Transiskus

Returning to school after a few years in the services is Transiskus who hails from Buffalo, New York. Bob was a part time goalie for PC during the 1960 season and has been playing amateur hockey in Buffalo and Niagara Falls for the past few years.

"Right now," said Eccleston, "it's a dogfight between Hornstein and Haugh but you can't count Transiskus out yet."

Eccleston

Commenting on the team's progress to date, Coach Eccleston said that he was very pleased with their hustle and spirit. He was disappointed in their showing Saturday in a scrimmage against some of the alumni, however. "We have no super-stars this year," he said, "but we should make this up with better team balance. We

Ski Club To Meet; Students Welcome

On Tuesday, November 13, the first meeting of the Providence College Ski Club will be held. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will take place in A-100. An excellent ski movie will be shown during the course of the evening and there will be free refreshments served.

All those students who are interested in skiing regardless of whether you have skied or not are welcome to attend this meeting.

Plans for the year will be discussed and dues will be collected at this time.

still have a long way to go, but will be ready when the season opens."

Frosh Quintet Mixes Speed

The Providence College freshman basketball team, coached by David Gavitt, has begun preparations for its forthcoming season.

Leading the squad after the first week of practice are Bill Blair of Boston, a 6-3 forward who possesses a fine jump shot and is a great leaper; Bill Benedict of Hartford, a 6-3 guard who owns a good jump shot and will anchor the backcourt; and the team's big man, Bill Lasher of Plainfield, Conn., a 6-6 center who has good moves around the basket and is a strong rebounder.

Other prospects include Bill Deegan of Concord, N. H., Jack Cullinan of Waterbury, Conn., Joe Towney of Lawrence, Mass., Joe Tangney of Boston and Dennis Gurn of Attleboro, Mass.

In appraising his overall prospects, Gavitt said: "We have speed and shooting power. Our offense will take advantage of this by being open and fast breaking, when possible. Since we lack a real big man, we'll operate without a pivot man, but Blair and Lasher should be able to handle the rebounding load. If necessary, Benedict can be moved into the corner. Our defense will be mainly man to man with an occasional press. All in all I look for a good season."

'Long John' Looks over Coming Season

By George O'Brien

It has been the feeling of many PC followers that the success of this year's basketball team will depend largely on the performance of John Thompson. The 6'11" junior had a fantastic freshman season two years ago, when he averaged 32.2 points and 15 rebounds a game. Many fans were disappointed when John didn't maintain his torrid pace last season, his first with the varsity.

In a recent Cowl interview Thompson discussed the coming season and specifically the role that he will play. He is looking forward to getting back to the single pivot. He said, "I should play better in the single pivot since that is my natural position. I don't feel any pressure in going back to the single pivot since that's the spot that I know how to play."

Speaking of last season John said this. "I felt that my position in the double pivot was good experience. It helped me because I'm playing to learn. It was a difficult time to set up, and it was hard to tell how well it would work. We found that the presence of two big men in the pivot was hurting us rather than helping us. It caused confusion and worry, and it hurt our chances of playing well as a team."

Moved into Corner

When the double pivot was discarded, Thompson was moved to forward, a position that he was unaccustomed to playing. Talking about this change he said, "I never lived up to my so-called potential because my potential was based on my play as a pivot man, and I never really played the pivot last year. This year I'm glad that I'm back in the pivot, and I'm going to hope for the best."

Looking forward to the coming season, John commented: (Continued on Page 7)

Freshmen Hockey Tryouts Begin; Ducharme Optimistic about Team

Freshmen hockey tryouts officially got under way early Monday morning at the Rhode Island Auditorium, home rink of the Friar ice men. This year approximately thirty boys from the class of sixty-six will be fighting for berths on the frosh hockey squad coached by George Ducharme.

Heading the list of candidates are three outstanding pucksters. They are: Frank Brander, a rugged defenseman from Kirkland Lakes, Ontario; John Campbell, a goalie out of Chatham, Ontario; and Danny Griffin, a member of last year's New England interscholastic hockey champions, Melrose High School in Melrose, Mass.

Backing up these bright prospects are a few other fine candidates. This group includes: Gately from Cushing Academy; McGowan out of Potsdam High School in New York; Monahan from Kimball Union Prep; Nolan from New Prep in Boston, a school which always comes up with standout hockey teams; Sheridan out of La Salle Academy in Providence; and Sullivan from St. John's in Danvers, Mass.

When asked about any one boy who has made an early impression thus far, Mr. Eccleston, head coach, noted that, "Camp" (Continued on Page 7)

Harriers Finish Third; Shanahan Paces Team

By Paul Martin

The Providence College varsity cross-country team placed third in a four team meet over the five mile course at New York City's Van Courtland Park last Saturday, November 3. The Harriers were defeated by Fordham (37) and Brown (40) while totaling a score of 64 in defeating Syracuse (77).

Dave Farley of Brown was the winner of the meet with a time of 26:52. He was followed by teammate Vic Boog at 27:08. The first PC finisher was team captain Don Shanahan who placed eighth with a time of 27:54. Stan Blejwas (28:03) and Bill Lavigne (28:05) finished tenth and eleventh for the Friars respectively. PC's John Hamilton was fifteenth at 28:14.

Other PC runners in the event which was held at one of the toughest courses on the Friar schedule on an after noon of pouring rain with winds measuring forty to fifty miles per hour, were Jim Harlow, George Knuttel, Bill Smith and John Douglas.

In defeating the Orangemen of Syracuse, the Friars attained a victory over a team which had beaten West Point, a team to which the Black and White have their only other loss this year.

The Harriers now have a seasonal record of 5-3 and will par-

Friar Nimrods Gun at W.P.I. In First Meet

"This Saturday, at ten o'clock, the Providence College rifle team opens its season with Worcester Polytechnic Institute," began Sergeant Patterson, coach of the Friar nimrods.

Three seniors, four juniors, and three comprise the team captained by senior Al Theriault, an economics major. Thus far this year, Mike Lovett holds the record fired in the three positions during practice sessions at 235.

Meanwhile this week, the Friar shooters are holding two postal matches against Loyola University and Middlebury College. This simply means that the results are mailed to the opponents with each team firing at its home range.

The individual records held by team members include a 287 fired by Gerald DeMaria in the National Rifle Association sectionals last year. The total team record, which was established on February 7, 1959 with a score of 1417 against the University of Rhode Island, still stands.

Winners of the turkey shoot in which fifteen pound gobblers were offered as a prize to the top three scorers, include Richard Pion, 211 Illinois St.; Doug Walker, 406 Bryant St., Cumberland; Richard Ruzanski, 99 Pulaski St., Warwick. Their scores were 59, 53, 53, respectively.

"The turkey shoot itself was a success as we realized a sufficient profit, allowing us to purchase some needed equipment during the year," concluded the captain Al Theriault.
