Appropriation of Funds Highlights SC Meeting

By Peter J. White

Appropriating money seemed to be the order of the day at the Student Congress meeting on Wednesday evening.

Three hundred dollars was appropriated by the SC to cover the expenses of the Providence College delegates to the United States National Student Association convention to be held next summer.

Another $125 was appropriated as a donation to the Father Slavin Memorial Fund drive presently being conducted by the Student Body and Campus Clubs Rally to Support of Fund Drive.

Financially, the Student Congress is now operating in the black to the tune of $22.78. Prior to the appropriation of the funds on Monday evening the treasury of the student governing organization stood at a loss.

During the regular meeting, grants were presented to the SC, Joseph Walsh, introduced two motions which were passed by an overwhelming majority. One of these motions was that first of these concerned the establishment of a centrally controlled speakers committee.

This committee will be headed by the senior class officers, and all clubs which receive money from the SC for speaking engagements will be members of the board.

Grant Is Renewed For Data Program

By ED FITZGERALD

Due to the efforts of Congressman John Fogarty, PC has received renewal of its grant from the federal government to continue its computer and key-punch programs. Classes for the computer program began on February 11 and will continue until February 8 of next year, while the key-punch course will be held beginning classes on March 11. The grant has been issued through the Manpower Training and Development Act.

There are now thirty-one students who are participating in the program. The students will work two twelve-hour classes and four lab hours per week. They will be paid $2.50 per hour.

The aim of the key-punch program is to train fifty key-punch operators. Approximately ten students will participate in the course at any one time. Most of these students, to the joy of PC men, will be girls. The students will be placed directly into business companies by the U. S. Department of Employment Security.

Night of the Iguana

Receives No Praise

At D.E.S. Luncheon

The Night of the Iguana by Tennessee Williams is not good literature, concluded Fr. Lins. Williams was guest speaker at the English Department, in his lecture concerning the play last Wednesday afternoon.

This talk was one of a series of luncheon discussions during this term sponsored by the Thwaites Chapter of Delta Epsilon Phi.

"Art must present the truth about life and about God," stated Fr. Walker. "The purpose of art is virtuous recreation (that is) truth delightfully represented."

This play, as well as many other plays of modern drama, cannot be properly termed good literature, according to Fr. Walker, because of its basic premise that one should not sin even oneself the pleasures of life, especially the sexual.

This attitude is echoed by Jennifer Jelks, a major character in this play, when she says, "Nothing human disgusts me completely.""The theme of Night of the Iguana," stated Fr. Walker, "is a theme which is not necessary to every individual."

Fr. Gardner Delivers Speech: Lectures to Universalists

BY DICK COLE

"It was the most unique experience I have ever had in the priesthood. This is, the word, the Rev. Royal J. Gardner, O.P., director of admissions at Providence College, summed up his reactions to his weekend activities. His participation in the Cardinal Archbishop of Boston, Francis Cardinal Spellman, delivered a speech at the Grace Universalist Church in Franklin, Mass., on the subject of great Catholic-Protestant mutual understanding as envisioned and enlarged by the present Ecumenical Council.

In his introduction, Fr. Gardner discussed "the wonderful way in which God works in the fact that he chose as Pope an elderly man from whom none could humanly expect world shaking achievements."

Fr. Gardner recounted his re-election at the time of Pope John XXIII's election as Supreme Pontiff. "When I discovered which of the papabile Guiseppe Cardinal Roncalli was, my head shook slightly and my heart dropped a little. The Patriarch of Venice, a nice red robed man—but old! It appeared to be a reversal of the oncoming new frontier trend, and he didn't really look like a Pope."

"How often I have laughed, when thinking that what I meant was that Cardinal Roncalli did not look like his predecessor: lean, ascetical Pope Pius XII. Then as often before and since in man's history, God must have smiled. His ways, his thoughts, indeed are not ours. Praise be to him that they are not."

"Quickly, very quickly, John XXIII set the stamp on his reign; he would be what he always had been a pastor of souls, who was to endure himself in innumerable ways to his people throughout the world."

"I" he added, "a priest of the Catholic Church, a member of the Order of Preachers, a Dominican, if you will, a spiritual son of a mendicant friar of the 13th century, Dominic Guzman, a scholar in heritage with fellow Dominicans, including Thomas Aquinas, Albertus Magnus, Martin de Porres, Pere Lacroix, Father Zere, wish that he or they might stand before you this day to express adoration for the thoughts that should be expressed; the sentiments that should be acknowledged; the thanksgiving that should be given; the prayers that should be uttered;"

"But here I am and there you are—and time does move on! Perhaps you there and I here is sufficient for the day. We are here together—you and I are here seeking understanding of the other; why? How shall we be able to write in the months ahead seeking to answer that question?"

"Some will say that we are seeking understanding through fear of a common enemy, materialist atheism. Some will say that more positively it is the bond of charity, the genuine love of our fellowman. Others will claim that we are searching; for God. Can it not be all of these? All of those pressed down to overflow by the weight of God's looking for us?"

"Could it not be this, then, what we share most in common and from which we work to other plateaus: sin? Sin it is that keeps us on the chase; sin it is that prevents God's advancement toward us."

"In getting to know ourselves more and more perfectly, abetted by a common fear, we can indeed share that wisdom which is God and find ourselves led on to charity such as we never dreamed possible as long as we were shackled within ourselves."

"With this in mind," concluded Fr. Gardner, "we can all listen to a kindly old man, an instrument surely of the Lord's, sitting before thousands gathered for the opening of the Ecumenical Council last October 11th in St. Peter's Basilica in Rome. We can listen not glorifying on one hand, nor scornfully on the other."

"Following his sermon, Father Gardner met with members of his audience at a coffee break immediately followed by a question period in the church parlor. "The interchange which took place," commented Fr. Gardner, "was most revealing and informative. It was as much of a lesson to me as I hope it was to the people I addressed."

Riches...

A scant two weeks ago, The Cowl printed the winter financial report of the Class of 1963. That report showed that the senior class has a treasury balance of more than $1800. Such class affluence is almost unheard of at Providence College.

However, there seems to be a trace, rather, definite evidence of a reluctance on the part of the senior class to part with their riches.

The class president has shown an unwillingness to commit his class to any pledges to the Father Slavin Fund.

Private...

Well, the outdoor basketball courts were moved. Now, as all know, they stand majestically on the "dark side" of the campus facing Huxley Avenue. The new courts have their shortcomings, but that is not the problem which faces the dorm students at the present time. For the courts are as they are.

What causes the trouble now is the presence of the hordes of local "children" on the basketball courts. The playing surface was not intended to serve as a public playground for all who wish to take advantage of a "good thing." It was meant to serve as a place in which the dorm students can satisfy their athletic interests.

The Cowl hopes that, in the future, the outdoor basketball courts will be reserved for the use of the dormitory students and that the campus police will apply themselves more diligently to the preserving of the court's privacy.

Books...

During the present week of February 17 to 23, the Catholic Library Association is sponsoring its annual Catholic Book Week. As it has been doing for the past 23 years, the association, located at Villanova University, is setting a week aside for a promotional campaign to encourage the Catholic people of the United States to take advantage of the wealth of Catholic literature which is available to them.

The students of Providence College have a tendency to confine their outside reading activities to those assignments which are specifically given to them by their professors. This is a sorry state of affairs, and it is one which certainly needs rectifying.

For this reason, The Cowl urges the students of PC to take a more lively interest in the treasury of great Catholic literature which has been made available to them in both hardcover editions and in paperback. The literature of such Catholic writers as Louis de Wohl, G. K. Chesterton, Evelyn Waugh, and innumerable others is among the best of the past century. Read a Catholic book this week, and we feel sure that you will find it interesting, informative and enjoyable.

Six ? ? ?

At the present time, the seniors of Providence College have been accorded the right to be absent from each of their classes six times during the second semester of their senior year. This situation was approved by the administration, and promulgated by the Dean of the College. Therefore, it is obvious that the rule is sufficiently lawful to be followed by both students and faculty.

This is not to say that a senior should or must take advantage of the six-absence ruling. After four years of college education, it would seem incongruous for the seniors to purposely absent themselves from class (granting that the class is stimulating enough to satiate the intellectual thirst of the student).

However, there also seems to be an inconstancy in the actions of the faculty. For there are certain teachers at Providence College, those who are instructing seniors, who are quite unwilling to bow to the decrees of the administration and grant their senior-students the six-absence privilege. Granted that these members of the faculty are few in number, still remain these few who refuse to extend to the senior class that privilege to which they are entitled.

Though those teachers who refuse to abide by established rules are in the minority, The Cowl feels that they should acknowledge the six-absence ruling for their senior-students.

Faculty Profile

Dr. Leopizzi Serves As Italian Consul

A member of the faculty of Providence College who has distinguished himself in more than one way is Guido Leopizzi, Professor of Modern Language department. In addition to being a native of Italy, he is also a resident of Rhode Island and Bristol County, Massachusetts.

Born in Italy, Dr. Leopizzi attended the schools of his native town, Gallipoli, Lecce, in 1918. He received a Doctor of Jurisprudence degree from the University of Rome, and in 1948 he was admitted to the bar of Rhode Island. He was an attorney for a time in World War II he taught military law to Italian army officers, and at the close of the war went into the practice of criminal law.

Dr. Leopizzi traveled to Canada and while there was called upon by Italy to come to Boston to organize a foreign service office. However, soon after he arrived at Boston, a situation arose where a repre­ sentative of the Italian government was needed in Rhode Island. To fill this need Dr. Leopizzi accepted an appointment in charge of the Consul General of Italy.

This year marks an anniversary for Dr. Leopizzi in that it is the tenth year he has been living in Rhode Island and has served the needs of the Balsamo area. In this time and the priority of other subjects generally hamper the thorough study of a foreign language on the college level for anyone but language majors, Dr. Leopizzi suggests that the high school student not be allowed to change his choice of a modern language, but rather that he take one foreign language for at least that time and the priority of other subjects generally hamper the thorough study of a foreign language on the college level for anyone but language majors.

Dr. Leopizzi has jurisdictional power in the Rhode Island area; he issues passports, visas, and takes care of all documents and affairs pertaining to Italian citizens.

The Vice Consul's hobbies include music, the visual arts, and painting. He explained that he engages in hobbies for two reasons. One is that he can avoid any worries that may creep up on me, and, through my hobbies, I can avoid unnecessary worries and knowledge so that I can better serve my students, Dr. Leopizzi explained that he prefers to try different styles with the object of getting the ambition of being a better artist. He says that he will create a better artist if he can judge the work of other painters with greater keenness.

Accordingly, Dr. Leopizzi also visited the Rhode Island School of Design and Museum and a member of several educational seminars. He said that he enjoys painting, he said that Dr. Leopizzi is the perfect example of a modern Italian and willingly offers others both on a governmental and on a tutorial level.
To the Editor:

Among rhetoricians it seems axiomatic that there are often four speeches involved in a presentation: the speech intended; the speech recited; the speech reconsidered, and the speech as required in the press. On Wednesday, December 3, the pleasure to address the January 20th a letter to The Cross, the Classroom, and the Constitution. This speech was repeated in the April 5th edition of The Cowl. The threefold presentation of this article has a history of the development of parochial education in the United States, and the consequences of governmental neglect of this system in the Twentieth Century.

I did not say that parochial schools were established in the United States to "assimilate the great number of immigrants of Catholic background into the American church," but rather that "Christian education takes a role in the whole of human life, not to departmentalize it in any way, but rather to elevate, regulate, and perfect it in accordance with the teachings of Christ." The Cowl placed two quotations in a mutually incompatible position. No reference to the "morality" of any position addressed in the recent hearings at the Rhode Island Legislature was made by the General Assembly on text book aid was made. The article continued as if it was quoting the speaker rather than Professor Philip Kurland in "Of Church and State" which appeared in the University of Chicago Law Review, Vol. 22, No. 1, Autumn, 1961. Of lesser consequence, but, in the interest of journalism, there was no reference made to "Cortland vs. the American Mass." Although the article mentioned that there were several references made to Cochrane vs. Board of Education, it should be noted that the Everson vs. Board of Education 330 U.S. 1 (1947) also refers to the problem of transportation for parochial school children in the United States, and the Supreme Court referred to Cochrane vs. Board of Education 329 U.S. 1 (1947) in the same article.

All speakers appreciate covariant points of view; and we appreciate the problems facing college newspapers, but, when copies of the speech are available, I respectfully submit that reporters utilize them as a check on their reports.

Letters to the Editor

1. I'll tell you what you have to do. You have to look for fringe benefits. That's the big thing today.

Yes — the big thing.

2. You have to consider your needs. You don't have to get married some day, aren't you? Then you need life and accident insurance.

Go on — go on —

3. You're going to have kids — so you'll want maternity benefits.

I'd like lots of children.

4. And what about medical bills? That's something every big family has to think about. You need a good medical plan that covers almost everything.

5. And you're not going to want to work all your life, are you? You're going to want to take it easy — you know, travel around, live it up. So you need a retirement plan that guarantees you plenty of dough.

I can see it now.

6. That's why I say you have to look at the fringe benefits when you look for a job.

But don't you also have to look for interesting work, good income, the chance for advancement?

7. You sure do. That's why I'm going to take a job.

You get all those jobs advantages — and the fringe benefits too.

I admire your thinking.

To the editor:

I wish to congratulate Mr. Raymond LaJeunesse for his column on "Keeping up with Catholic Ethical Wish to suggest a corollary to the February 6th column in The Cowl. I refer to Europe's arms build-up which Mr. LaJeunesse stated that the United States should assist. I refer to European's arms build-up, not to the United States such a policy would be weakened. In future dealings with European nations the United States should be more ingenious and less dependent on nuclear force.

In the United States, the purpose of the blazer committee to assist the student government and the Student Congress  banquet was to award Father Dore this annual "Man of the Year" award. The purpose of the blazer committee was to give an expert in foreign affairs. Raymond LaJeunesse for his speech are available, I respect his right to vote on the issue of the blazer contract in order to avoid any possible conflict-of-interest charge.

The Congress was also asked to investiagte the reasons for the financial aid to the Aquinas Hall curfew. A committee of two, president Walsh and president of the freshmen class, Richard Vermeule, was selected to contact the Dean of Men concerning the situation.

Ed Kuszar, chairman of the Student Congress, announced that voting machines would be used in this year's election. Election rules and dates will be announced by the blazer committee of the Congress.

Elections

According to Ed Kuszar, chairman of the Student Congress and means committee of the Student Congress, elections for the Executive Board and Student Congress, and Student Congress officers will take place on March 11 in Freshman Hall, March 12 for Sophomores, and March 13 for Juniors.

Nomination papers may be taken out from Feb. 27 to Mar. 2.

Campaign rules will be issued by the committee.

PC Drill Team Places Fourth In Drill Meet

This past Saturday (Feb. 16), the Providence College R.O.T.C. Drill Team, led by Cadet Lt. Robert Kraus, participated in the Annual Coast Guard Academy Drill Meet at Groton, Conn. The meet was their first of the season.

Among eleven competing teams, the P.C. team placed fourth in regulation drill, fourth in trick drill, and fourth overall. "This was considered very good," said Lt. Kraus, "since most of the men on the team were marching for the first time."

The next competition will be on March 9 when the team travels to New Jersey for the annual St. Peter's Drill Meet. Lt. Kraus concluded by saying, "I believe the team will do better in this meet now that it has performed publicly."

meeting with techniques and media, Mr. Hanley feels he is giving his paintings a freedom entirely in keeping with the concept of painting as a plastic rather than a static art form.

Mr. Hanley also commented on the effort the Art Club is making to interest students in the appreciation of art as an integral part of their education. To this end, the Art Club is trying to maintain this series of exhibits. By this, and by the annual student's exhibit to be presented in the spring, the club hopes not only to provide a means for the student to enlarge the scope of his liberal education, but also to interest him in a program of participation. Paul Cavanaugh, president of the Art Club, mentioned that many members will be graduating this spring, and that any student who wished to join the club would be welcome.

PR Captain Outlines Schedule of Group For This Semester

Cadet Capt. Francis J. Darigan, Jr. newly appointed commander of the Pershing Rifles, this week outlined the busy schedule facing the members of the organization.

The members of Company K-12 will take part in a regimental inspection on March 5. The points gained in this inspection weigh heavily in determining the best company in the Twelfth Regiment.

Fort Devens, Mass. will be the sight of regimental maneuvers on March 16, 17, and 18. These events all look forward to what Cadet Darigan calls "the most important event of the year." This is the regimental drill meet to be held in Boston on April 27. Company K-12 will try to repeat its performance of last year when they won eleven out of 33 trophies and were selected the best company in the Twelfth Regiment.

PC Sextet Faces Norwich on Friday

On Friday, February 22 the PC icemen will be the guests of the Norwich University Cadets, at Northfield, Vt. Returning from a losing season last year the Cadets have tallied a 9-6-1 record to date and will be anxious to boost it on Friday night.

Coach Bob Priestley is fortunate to have 12 lettermen remaining from last year's team, of whom are veterans. Brennan returned to the squad this year as a junior after a year's absence from school. George Philbrooks is the goalie for the Cadets.

The two starting defenders for Norwich are Charlie Shugren and Francis Ireinem who are veterans. Brennan was third in the line up and Jerry Rietman who placed second in the line up. Last year the Cadets were tied or honored in the high jump, and a Friar relay team was the high scorer in the Bast, and plays a high scorer for the team last year. Coe, who was the top scorer in his soph year was sidelined for half of last season with an injury. He plays center for the Cadets.

The starting line for Norwich is composed of John Kennedy, Robert Skinner, and Richard Cee. Kennedy, captain of the Brown Places First

In both the one and two mile races and anchoring the two mile relay race, the PC freshman track team placed second in a triangular meet with Brown and Boston College at Marvel Gym on February 12. Other outstanding runners for PC were Bob Fico, who placed third in the mile run and Jerry Rietman who placed second in the mile.

On Wednesday, February 13, in open competition at Andover Mass., Brown placed fourth in the one mile race, Don Brennan third in the three mile event, and John Douglas, who led until the last lap, occupied tenth place in the 3,000 yard event.

Coach Ray Hall is satisfied with the progress of the team as a whole, and singles out Barry Brown for his outstanding performance in the triangular meet against Brown and Boston College.

This Saturday in the National AAU Games at Madison Square Garden, the Friars will compete in the one and three mile races, the 1,000 yard run, the 60 yard dash and the two mile relay race.

PC Accepts NIT Bid

On Monday Providence College accepted a bid to play in the National Invitational Tournament to be held at New York's Madison Square Garden from March 14-23. It will be the Friar's fifth consecutive appearance in New York's post-season classic. In 1961 PC won the event by beating St. Leo in the final game. Vin Ernst, then a sophomore, was voted the tourney's most valuable player. In 1960 the Friars had been edged out by Bradley in the year Providence lost its first round game to Temple 80-78.

Other teams that had accepted N.I.T. bids as of Monday were Miami and Canisius, both of whom have beaten the Friars this season. Three other unannounced teams also received bids.

The acceptance of the N.I.T. bid ended the possibility that the team might participate in the N.C.A.A. tournament. Before Monday PC was considered a strong contender for one of the two Eastern at-large berths in the N.C.A.A. as well as for an N.I.T. bid.

The N.C.A.A. committee informed the school Monday that it was being considered along with Pittsburgh and Penn State for the second eastern berth. New York University had already been offered the first berth. The final decision would come for a week or more. Thus the school decided not to attend.

Lamortello upped the count on a ten-footer at 3:11 of the second period. Haugh on a 15-footer at 3:11 of the period and beating Friar goalie, Tom O'Brien, set the tone for the Huskies marching in 15 games.

The young Friars are now 6-2-1.

With the Friarlets trailing, Jack Gately scored on a breakaway at 14:30 of the second period that tied the score at 1-1. Fred Sullivan put P.C. ahead at 4:10 of the third period. Andre Branchaud made it 3-1—when he scored on a slap shot. The Huskies registered another goal and missed a chance for a tie when John Campbell, PC goalie, stopped a shot with his elbow with one second remaining on the clock. The game was marked by 12 penalties, 7 in the first period.

Commenting on the performance of his squad this season Coach Ducharme said, "Their play has been very satisfactory except for the New Prep game. Frank Brander, a defenseman, has been a standout. He is the best freshman prospect in the team and really put pressure on the Army's defensive corps.

Both of last week's victories boosted the Friars' chances of landing a berth in the upcoming ECAC Tournament. PC is presently 10-4-2 overall and 9-2 against conference teams with six games remaining.

Hoopsters to Face Assumption, Seton Hall, and Rated St. Joe's

The Friar hoopsters will take on a tough club from Assumption of Worcester tonight at Alumni Hall as they begin their final week of home games for the 1962-1963 season. Seton Hall comes to town on Saturday and St. Joseph's of Philadelphia will be in to close out the home campaign on next Tuesday. The Friars have been in recent games.

Tonight's game could turn into a tautie if the Greyhounds ever get a lead and thus a chance to employ their ball control tactics. Assumption is sporting a 9-2 record and a shooting for an N.C.A.A. small college tournament berth. They boast a defensive average of around 55 points. Coach Mulaney looks to the game cautiously as he says, "You always have to respect Assumption... They are well coached and control the ball real well. Once they've got it, it's hard to get it away from them." Top performers for Coach Andy Laska's Frosh are John Jenkins, a 6'5" center and Stever Warner, a 6'5" forward.

The nation's leading scorer Nick Werkman and his Seton Hall mates will face the Friars on Saturday. Werkman is averaging 30.8 points per game. He's a great driver and hustler and leads the Hall in rebounds as well as in scoring. Mulaney.
