

Juniors Meet Today to Elect Prom Leader

Many Candidates Contest for Important Third Year Post

PROPOSE JUNIOR WEEK

Flynn, Mahoney, Gallogly, and Long in Contest for Chairmanship

Voting on nominations for the chairmanship of the Junior Prom and for members of the committee will take place today at 12:50. Plans for a Junior Week to precede the Prom were considered yesterday noon at a meeting of the Junior Class.

Ballots containing the names of the nominees for chairman, John A. Mahoney, Thomas Flynn, James J. Gallogly and George J. Long, and the names of the candidates for committee posts will be distributed to members of the Class today at an election meeting in Room 17. The names of the complete Prom committee are expected to be revealed immediately after approval by the Rev. Arthur H. Chandler, O.P., Dean of Studies.

Junior Week Planned

The plans for "Junior Week" outlined by Daniel F. Murphy, president of the class, include proposals for a stag banquet for members of the class, a theatre party and open air boxing bouts with the Prom as the climax.

The Prom committee, when completed by the voting today, will include a chairman, four committee members and the four class officers ex officio. Four nominations have been made for the post of Prom chairman and there are fourteen candidates for the Prom committee.

Candidates for committee positions are: Walter V. Boyle, Joseph T. Baldwin, Daniel J. Shea, Francis E. McNinis, Frank D. O'Brien, Raymond V. Pettine, Norman J. Carignan, Harold V. Demers, John L. Hall, Noel J. Doyle, Walter F. Gibbons, Joseph P. Martellino, Edward M. Burke, and James F. Griffin.

According to Murphy, the Juniors hope to inaugurate a tradition in their projected Junior Week program. If sufficient support is shown by the class committees will be appointed immediately.

Coyne Named Head of Junior Staff

Juniors Who Will Direct Veritas Next Year Announced by Moderator

The appointment of Michael A. Coyne as editor of the 1939 issue of Veritas, and the selection of key men for the supporting staff were announced late yesterday by the Rev. John T. McGregor, O.P., Veritas moderator.

The early organization will enable them to cooperate with this year's staff and acquire helpful experience, according to Father McGregor.

Walter F. Gibbons and Harold S. Pivnick will serve as associate editors, while Frank D. O'Brien will be business manager, and John J. Mahoney advertising manager. John Hogan, Joseph McManus, and Frank McNinis will be on the advertising staff under Mahoney.

John A. Graham, co-editor of this year's publication, has requested the cooperation of camera enthusiasts among the students in procuring photographs for the book.

Father La More Condemns All Birth Control

Calls Doctrine "Violation of Natural and Divine Law, Not Church Law"

A smashing attack on birth control was made here last Monday evening by the Rev. Edward C. La More, O.P., of the philosophy department of the College. Addressing the Guild in the small auditorium, Father LaMore denounced the "perversion" of the "generative faculty" in a brief but vigorous talk.

"The Catholic Church does not now, nor will she ever in the future, sanction the doctrines of birth control, as they are understood by the majority of its advocates. The Church will never emulate the arrogance of those men who presume to tamper with the laws of God. The disciplinary laws of the Church may be changed or dispensed with when the circumstances warrant it, but it is within the power of the Church only to interpret and apply the laws of God, never to change them or legislate to the contrary.

"Impossible to Sanction"

"The doctrine of birth control is in violation of the natural and divine law, not of church law. It is therefore impossible for the Church ever to sanction it.

"Although present attitudes and practices would seem to belie the fact, marriage is not a man-made institution, and man may not tamper with it as though it were. God instituted matrimony for the very definite purpose of propagating the human race. And, as in all else, He gave man the means of accomplishing that end. The abuse of the means or the end of matrimony are contrary to the law of God.

INSURANCE MAN ADDRESSES SENIORS

Charles J. Murphy, '38, addressed the members of the Senior Class yesterday in the old auditorium on the opportunities open to young men in the field of insurance.

Manager of the local branch of one of the nation's leading insurance houses, Mr. Murphy is active in the affairs of the Alumni Association and was chairman of the committee in charge of the beefsteak supper sponsored by the alumni last evening.

Pointing out that the insurance business is primarily a business for young men, he told the Seniors that college graduates with initiative and ambition could attain to great success in this field.

Seniors Hold First Veritas Dance Tonite

Eddie Quinton and Orchestra Will Be Featured at Novel Dance

JARRET CHAIRMAN

Large Ticket Sale Reported; Orchestra Leader is College Alumnus

The Senior Class will be host to scores of Providence College students and their friends this evening in Harkins Hall when it introduces to the campus a new social function, the Veritas dance. The popular Eddie Quinton's orchestra will provide the music.

The committee in charge, headed by Aram P. Jarret, has worked industriously for the past few weeks to insure the success of the function. Novel and elaborate decorations featuring a centerpiece which will manifest the spirit of Veritas have been planned.

In presenting Quinton's orchestra the committee brings back to the College a dance band which has proved very popular with the students in the past. Quinton is an alumnus of the College, and is well known throughout New England, having appeared at numerous college and fraternity dances in this section.

The sale of tickets has been large. Members of the committee will be stationed in the upper rotunda today for the convenience of those who have yet to secure their bids. Members of the committee are: Joseph F. Donnelly, Andrew J. McBrean, Francis J. O'Rourke, Carl J. Breckel, Thomas E. Devine, and Timothy R. Crawley.

VARSITY CLUB OFFERS PRIZES FOR STUDENTS

A traveling band and five pairs of tickets to the P. C.-State Basketball game at State, March 5, will be awarded as prizes in a raffle being sponsored by the Varsity Club. The proceeds will be used to present Senior lettermen with sweaters and numerals and Underclass lettermen with numerals. Tickets are 10 cents each or three for a quarter and may be purchased from any member of the varsity groups.

State-Friar Clash at Auditorium Expected to Draw Large Crowd

Bobinski Only Veteran Facing High-Scoring Ram Hoopsters

Little Rhody will be treated to its annual basketball classic tomorrow evening when the smooth working Friars collide with the high scoring Rams at the Rhode Island Auditorium. This is the first of a two game series between Providence College and Rhode Island State and its outcome will have a direct bearing on the State intercollegiate basketball championship.

The Rams, by virtue of a win over Brown last week, are one up in the race for the coveted title. Last year Providence and Rhode Island shared the crown when the Friars staged a late season upset to defeat the Rams and the Bruins in the final week of competition.

Building Fund Drive Will Open January 31

The official exam schedule for the mid-year examinations is printed on page 4 of this week's Cowl. The schedule involves radical changes in several respects and is designed with the intention of having one examination a day for each student. In some cases, however, this has not been completely possible. Students should check the schedule daily with that posted on the official bulletin board for any possible omissions or corrections.

Two Divisions Are Formed to Conduct Intensive Campaign

PLAN DORMITORY

Student and Alumni Groups Quick to Endorse Movement

Definite plans for the intensive building fund for the projected College dormitory were disclosed yesterday after the Very Rev. John J. Dillon, O.P., president of the College, had revealed that the new building "will have accommodations for 200 students, rooms for 12 of the faculty members, a chapel and some classrooms."

The drive will open officially on Jan. 31 and is expected to continue for two months. The program will be pursued in two divisions. Over 100 solicitors, friends of the college, will canvass a selected list of prospective donors. In the alumni group the campaign will be conducted separately in each class under the direction of two representatives from each class, who, in turn, will select five aides.

Endorsements Given

Endorsements of the building fund drive were announced this week by the Aquino Literary Club, the Fall River Alumni Club and the Torch and Triangle Club. In a statement presented to Father Dillon, the Aquino Club resolved "wholeheartedly and interestedly to endorse and subscribe to the campaign and urge an active vigorous participation by the student body and other organizations in this drive." The Fall River group announced that to insure the success of the drive "every local graduate has pledged to contact his class representatives on the drive committee."

A brochure, "Meet Providence College," has been prepared by Edward S. Doherty, Jr., and members of the general drive committee. The pamphlet contains a concise illustrated history of the College and its activities. More than 7500 copies have been printed by the committee for distribution in the campaign.

Debaters Victorious Over Boston Univ.

Upheld Affirmative of Question: Shall N.L.R.B. Settle All Disputes

Winning the second consecutive victory in its series of intercollegiate debates, the Providence College Debating Union defeated a team from Boston University in a contest here last Friday night. The Providence College group upheld the affirmative of the question "Resolved: That the National Labor Relations Board Be Empowered to Arbitrate in All Industrial Disputes."

Albert E. Paine, '38, Timothy R. Crawley, '38, and Anthony Robinson, '40, formed the affirmative, while the Boston University men were Joseph Nadolski, John Eccleston, and John Lonergan.

Frank G. McGovern, '38, president of the Providence College Debating Union, served as chairman. The judges were Edwin F. Gibbons, Eugene J. McElroy, and William V. Monahan.

J.; and Elt Deuse, six-foot-four-inch Junior from Fall River, who saw service against the Kingstons last year are expected to play an important role in this year's series.

John "Wink" Crowley, high scoring forward from Cumberland, will pair up with Leo Ploski at the forwards. Although a senior, Crowley, in his first year of actual competition, has stood out in every game played thus far and is an important cog in the "Gen's" current aggregation. Joe Kwamieski, outstanding defensive player, will be the only sophomore in the starting lineup for the locals. Kwamieski was a stand-out in last year's freshman aggregation which turned back the State yearlings in both encounters. He will (Continued on Page 5, Col. 1)

ENLIST IN THE "FIGHT"

The Cowl today urges the support of every Providence College student in a fight against the tons of filthy and immoral literature flooding the magazine market today. On page six of this issue will be found a pledge blank which every student is earnestly asked to sign and to submit to The Cowl office before Tuesday of next week.

In an editorial entitled "The Devil's Press", The Providence Visitor, diocesan weekly, yesterday launched a "fight to the finish" against "this great traffic of filth". Students of Providence College are asked in the editorial to aid in the crusade. Every student can aid in this crusade by filling out the pledge blank published in this issue of The Cowl. These pledges will be given to the editor of the Visitor as a concrete expression of the spirit of cooperation manifested by the students of Providence College.

Fill out the blank, forward it to the office of this newspaper, and help in this "fight to the finish!"

EMBARRASSING TO WHOM?

"It is always embarrassing when the men of God, who are under the injunction to turn the other cheek and suffer all things patiently, begin to call for battle, murder, and sudden death in the name of their religion." So writes Jay Franklin, Washington columnist, in the local Tribune of Jan. 4. "Today," he continues, "with one great religious communion endorsing General Franco's blood-drenched rebellion against the lawful Spanish government... it is time to pause and ask whether a man or a nation can get anywhere by denying the moral origins of his own civilization and substituting the sword of Caesar for the peace of God."

Mr. Franklin blithely ignores pertinent fact and fails to recognize the existence of such a thing as justice. He thinks we should be embarrassed because large numbers of the Catholic clergy and of Catholic papers have declared their support of the insurgent forces.

For centuries the Catholic Church has stood with the light of history shining upon her great wars, the Crusades. The Crusades were religious wars. Yet, who has ever been embarrassed by them? The writer does not say. Certainly they can but be a source of pride to us, for they testify to the Catholic determination to fight for the right when peaceful means have been exhausted. The future of religious liberty in Spain depends on the success of the Franco army. Why ought anyone to be "embarrassed" because he is fighting for religious liberty?

He speaks of rebellion against "lawful" government. Does he mean lawful as to its constitution or as to its operation? In either case he errs gravely, as even a casual examination of the true state of affairs will indicate.

The Christian doctrine on the justice of war is plain and simple. It is lawful and laudable to resort to violence to repel the unjust aggressor. Especially is this true when religious principles are at stake. But it applies to others as well.

If the writer were conversant with the principles of justice, with the natural law, with the doctrines of religion, with unbiased accounts of the Spanish situation, he would see that the peace of God will come to Spain now only through the sword.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

Father Quinn's clear and pointed statement at a recent assembly that he would do everything possible to insure intramural athletics at Providence College is a sincere recognition by the Athletic department that a class sports program is necessary. We hope however, that some parts of this program may be put into operation now, when they are so vitally needed to complete the rounded education due every student.

Every attempt to run an intramural athletic schedule at the College has always met with handicaps of one kind or another. At times it was equipment. At times it was student interest. At times it was lack of suitable playing accommodations. These can be overcome. They must be overcome.

With the retrenchment of the athletic program which is now being undertaken we can reasonably expect a slight increase in the emphasis placed on athletics as part of the college program. That can be attested by the abundant and welcome publicity which has followed the forming of the Athletic Council and its various activities. And with that vigorous athletic program we can expect more equipment and more of a chance for each student to get out on the basketball floor or the football field.

Student interest, if it is apathetic, and at present, there seems to be a lively support waiting for any intramural program, should be developed. If necessary, it should be forced. Physical training in some way will have to be made compulsory and with the expansion of college resources intramural sports can be made an integral part of a compulsory training for every student.

Under the present athletic system there are adequate fields for football but the facilities for basketball games are somewhat hampered in the crowded auditorium. This could doubtlessly be obviated by a rigid system of schedules which would forestall any overlapping or conflicts.

It is perhaps too optimistic to wish the adoption of a comprehensive intramural program within the immediate future. But there is no reason why it cannot be gradually inaugurated from beginnings made now. May we commend Father Quinn for his determination to introduce intramural athletics but may we also hope that his words will be backed by quick, tangible action.

ATTEND THE BALL!

The participation by the Very Reverend President, by the College orchestra, and by students of the College in radio programs urging attendance at the Birthday Ball is a commendable manifestation of Christian Charity. It is gratifying to see Providence College in the forefront of this public-spirited movement.

Yet, mere assent to the worthiness of the project will not be enough. The Birthday Ball has for its object the relief of paralysis sufferers and the prevention of further spread of the disease. The scientific research and the hospital expenses involved call for our financial support. The best and most enjoyable way of giving this is attending the affair. To do so in the spirit of Christian Charity can bring us an infinite reward, for we shall be serving God with dancing feet.

QUOTABLE QUOTES

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

"If we replace the obsolete, sterile, and repressive curriculum of our school with a dynamic purpose to build originating, participating human beings, we can have in a single generation a nation of singers, artists, inventors, scientists, poets, musicians, architects and builders." Prof. Holland D. Roberts, Stanford University, declares that creative education is needed to replace mechanical teaching of a subject.

"Many textbooks used in schools today are not yet free of material that breeds international dislikes and love for war. Any effective education for peace must be based on sound classroom procedure." M. L. Beck, professor of education at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, thinks the best service the classroom can render is to set up a defense mechanism proof against fallacious reasoning and high-powered salesmanship.

"Educators no longer look upon the emotions as a disease which we can get rid of by a kind of inoculation." The president of Vassar College, Dr. Henry McCracken believes we have also abandoned the social code which pretends any surrender to the emotions is indecent.

Inquiring Reporter

The question: What do you think of Fr. Coughlin's return to the air?

John H. Fanning—Senior—Pre-Law.
"I think that Fr. Coughlin, if he uses moderation in his addresses and refrains from emotional appeals and name calling orgies, has great potential influence in correcting the social and economic abuses so prevalent in the United States today. He has the necessary ability and knowledge and, I think, the confidence of many Americans, Catholic, Protestant and Jew alike."

Frank Tirocchi—Junior—Pre-Med.

"I think that Fr. Coughlin should not have returned to the air. I do not think that he could do any good. His return may start a new party. This is not necessary, for the affairs of our country have been well managed by the present political parties."

William J. Jones—Sophomore—Pre-Med.

"Fr. Coughlin's return to the air does not affect me in the least. He is trying to perform a miracle in our economic structure. I once read that his idea why the national elections are held is to determine which band of robbers is to be sent to Washington to loot the Treasury. He is like most of the other reformers. He always criticizes, but does not offer any practical solution."

William E. Palmer—Sophomore—Arts.

"I think that Fr. Coughlin is at the head of the class of reformers. While I think that some of his ideas seem to be absurd, others seem to be practical. He gives the poor people un-revised and uncensored facts of the malpractices of some of the high officials in our government. He can do much good if he holds to his idea of being the champion of the people."

Robert A. LeLanc—Freshman—Pre-Med.

"I think that Fr. Coughlin's return to the air will be beneficial to the people of this country. The people are more readily inclined to accept the information that he gives them than the information of propaganda-spreading politicians. I believe that he is trying his best to give them the facts which will help to formulate the proper opinions of politicians in power, and thus bring into action the powerful vote of the people to give us a better government."

Theatre Notes

"Julius Caesar" in modern dress, smash hit of the Mercury Theatre of New York, will open at the Playhouse, Providence, January 17 for two days. This streamlined version of Shakespeare's tragedy, presented in association with Alex. Yokel, producer of "Three Men On A Horse," will then move to Hartford.

Without scenic embellishments and flowing Roman togas—the actors wear street clothes and modern military uniforms of indeterminate nationality—the Mercury Theatre's "Julius Caesar" dispels the belief that a classic is remote and obscure.

As Richard Watts of the New York Herald-Tribune wrote: "so fresh and invigorating and alive is the presentation arranged by the valiant new Mercury Theatre, so completely is it lacking in any suggestion of academic pompousness, that 'Julius Caesar' emerges as something you probably never expected it of being—an exciting tense and very modern play and a great show."

Directed by 22-year-old Orson Welles, the Mercury production uses only a bare stage, a few platform levels and nothing more than the bricks of the back wall of the theatre, thus stripping the play to the essentials of an acting performance.

Members of the Mercury Theatre's regular acting company have been recruited for the cast.

Plain Talking

LEGION OF DECENCY SHOULD TAKE LEAD

The murky waters of the surging flood of indecent literature rush on. The noble structures of morality and morals waver beneath the disintegrating power of this unbridled and unprincipled force. Apostles and preachers of ethics loudly proclaim their doctrines but their words are lost in the maelstrom. Alone the Catholic Church stands as the sole bulwark against indecency in literature unaided by popular opinion but steadfast in its principles.

Particularly during the last two years the literature market has been glutted with the most indecent and illicit sort of magazines and books. Protests of all sorts are to no avail. The magazine market successfully maintaining its usual low standard has taken on new life with the recent vogue of the picture magazine. Therein the modern reader may find in pictorial presentation what their minds have been imagining heretofore.

That some definite plan of attack against this type of literature should be taken, there is no doubt. That the Catholic Church will take unified and concentrated steps to eradicate this evil, there is no doubt at all. At present however, there seems to be the lack of a unified force against indecent literature, such as the Legion of Decency maintains on motion pictures. The good that the Legion has done both to the motion picture industry and to the public is apparent and cannot be denied. Since the Legion of Decency began checking on the motion pictures, a higher grade of films has been shown in our theatres. And since then this organization has made its influence felt in every quarter. It should then with this prestige take the lead in the fight against indecent literature.

Recently a spokesman for the Legion of Decency declared that the organization could not take on the fight against this type of literature without hindering the workings of the Legion in its present phase. This can be easily perceived since the members would have to take on double duties with the ultimate sacrifice of one of the other. Yet the Legion of Decency should recognize that it is the most potent factor against indecency and therefore should take the lead in combatting this evil. If this cannot be undertaken under the present organization, a division of the Legion's activities is not beyond reason.

Specifically the Legion could divide itself into a group to keep vigil on the motion pictures and another to combat indecency in literature. This latter department could be organized with specific duties to carry out the Church's doctrines pertaining to immoral literature. The motion picture division could continue its present activities and work independently of the other department. Both these departments would work separately under the name of the Legion of Decency.

It is our belief that under this plan the Legion of Decency could combat effectively the evils of immoral literature. The prestige of the Legion alone could be a determining factor in this fight. The Catholic Church is the most powerful and effective influence against indecency today and the Legion of Decency is its most potent agency. It is therefore quite proper to ask this organization to take the lead.

Eddie Casey Praises Hank Soar's Playing

Speaks at Campus Club Meeting; Club Plans Gala Night During February

"Hank Soar is one of the finest players performing in the National Professional Football League," stated Eddie Casey, former All-American football player and at present National Youth Administrator for Massachusetts, who addressed the Campus Club in a meeting at Harkins Hall, Tuesday evening. Casey went on record as favoring the new rule changes made recently: "both changes will benefit the game insofar as it will make it more interesting. Both changes favor the offensive team and will make for more frequent scoring. The defensive team will have to be on its toes constantly. I also think the goal posts should be moved back to the goal line." Jim Thorpe, All-American Indian from Carlisle and one of the greatest athletes of all time, was rated as the greatest football player of all time by Casey.

The Club will hold a Campus Club Night in February. The event, which promises to be a gala affair, will have a variety of entertainment. There will be talented artists, prominent speakers, and all that which tends for a good time for everyone. The Rev. Leo M. Carolan, O.P. assures that "the student body and friends will enjoy every minute." The exact date of the event will be posted soon.

Patient Sitters Wait to See Rev. Dean

A considerable furor swept the College at noon yesterday. A long line of grim-faced students was observed squatting on the floor along the wall of the Dean's office. The immediate inference, to our social-conscious student body, was a sit-down strike. Had the distribution of Catholic Workers by the Catholic Action Committee earlier in the morning aroused the radical in the usually docile men of Bradley Hill?

One early explanation of the phenomenon, that the Sisters were a delegation of ex-puschart merchants of Balbo avenue who had mistaken Harkins Hall for the City Hall in the storm, was blasted when one of the suspected strikers said his name was Kelly.

The wild rumors were soon discredited, however. The men were not striking, merely tired. The apparent grime was only fatigue. Yesterday was the deadline for changes in schedule; the line was long, the waiting wearisome. So the boys sat.

FATHER MEEHAN NAMED TO WAGE-HOUR BOARD

The Rev. Edward C. Meehan, O.P., of the business administration department at the College has been named by Governor Quinn to serve on a State commission to determine maximum hours and minimum wages for the laundering and dry cleansing industry of Rhode Island. With Father Meehan, Walter W. Goff, attorney, and Prof. Philip Taft of the economics department of Brown University will represent the public on the board which includes representatives of labor and the employers.

Action Committee Distributes 'Worker'

Complete Sell-Out Reported During First Hour's Sale By College Unit

Continuing its campaign to promote an active spirit of "social consciousness" at Providence College, the Catholic Action committee reported a complete sell-out during the first hour yesterday, when it set up temporary facilities for distribution of the "Catholic Worker". The "Worker" is a militant New York Catholic labor organ.

The committee in charge of the circulation is Thomas F. Flynn, '39, president of the unit, Daniel J. MacArthur, '40, William Rock, '40, Charles Corcoran, '39, Albert McAloon, '38, and John Houlihan, '40. A poem written by Houlihan is included in this edition of the "Worker".

Father Dillon and Orchestra on Radio

The Very Rev. John J. Dillon, O.P., president of Providence College, and the Providence College Orchestra will participate next Sunday in radio programs preparatory to the Roosevelt Birthday Ball, Jan. 28.

Speaking at 10:30 from Station WJAR, Father Dillon will stress the need for supporting the work of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, and will urge attendance at the Ball. The 25-piece Symphony Orchestra will broadcast a half hour program from station WEAN at 7:00 p.m., under the direction of the Rev. Leo S. Cannon, O.P.

SCENES FROM "MONASTERY"

SCOWL WITH F. MAURICE SPILLANE

What with nothing to scowl about and everyone hereabouts toeing the line (in front of the Dean's office) with submission and the utmost decorum, imagine your Scowler's fendish glee when he heard that the Pyramid Players were planning to produce a musical comedy titled, "The Scowler Is A Sissy." Which makes us ask, sissy? With inflated diaphragm and fiery mien, the Scowler is not a sissy and to prove it he challenges T. Casey Moher, "rasslin' champ." ("What A Difference An 'a' makes") to a tango contest in Harkins Hall. And if that doesn't satisfy him, we tango to a public hall.

is going to sue Tin Pan Alley for false advertising. After listening to every orchestra in the Town (via radio) play "There's a Gold Mine in the Sky", he went glassy eyed, blew up his water wings and made a trip into the stratosphere. When they picked him up in Seekonk he sobbed, "I didn't mind not finding that gold mine in the sky, but when I found out that there wasn't a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, that's what hurt." "Why doesn't someone tell me these things," he screamed as they buttoned the straight jacket.

V is for valizes, may they be scarce and few.

E is for Eddie, pride of the Quinton crew,

R is for rhythm, the blare of the blues.

I is for intermission, the period of rest,

T is for "truckin'", let's hope it's the best.

A is for apple, a dance full of zest.

S is for "swing" and a swell time I guess.

Which is our humble way of saying that there will be a meeting of leather and wax tonight when the Seniors will come out of the closet and do themselves proud (and do everyone else the price of admission) by sponsoring the Veritas dance. Sponsor Tracy will not be there. Ladies will wear gowns, gentlemen will wear sponsor trousers.

Head Committees for Monthly Event

The third in a series of beefsteak suppers being conducted by the Providence College Alumni Association was held last night in Harkins Hall under the sponsorship of the classes of 1928 and 1929. Charles A. Murphy of Providence was chairman of the committee from the class of '28 and D. Wilfred Corman, of East Greenwich, for the class of '29.

The suppers held each month are sponsored by two different classes. Committee members from the class of '28 were: Walter Dromoleo, Dr. George J. Dwyer, William F. Kenny, Frederick M. Langton, Edward T. Lewis, and John H. O'Connell. Thomas C. Harding, James E. MacDonald, and Lawrence Mailloux.

Assisting Gorman on the '29 committee were: George P. Earnshaw, James F. Hanaway, Joseph L. Breen, Clarence A. Lyons, Dr. Frederick J. Burns, John F. Keough, Thomas J. Curley, Joseph A. Fay, and John J. Sullivan.

FRIARS-RAMS CLASH

As far as local sports fandom is concerned, this weekend's spotlight will be focused on the Arena where competition for the Rhode Island Intercollegiate basketball crown will continue as the Friars and Rams resume athletic hostilities this time for court honors. Basketball of the highest grade will be definitely furnished to Little Rhody's rabid basketball followers who are expected to fill the North Main Street sports house to capacity.

Both teams are confident of emerging on the long end of the score, and with both star-studded aggregations in excellent physical condition and primed for a killing a spirited and thrilling battle is in the offing. A victory for either team will greatly enhance the winner's chances of gaining the coveted diadem at stake.

State has already captured the first leg of the title by virtue of a one-sided triumph over Brown last week in the first set of the title series. A win tomorrow night would put the Kingstonians out in front by a comfortable margin, whereas a Friar victory will knot the count.

Some of East's outstanding players will be on parade. Chet Jaworski, rated by many as one of the outstanding ten players in the country, will lead the high scoring quintet from the Valley, and will be ably assisted by Ed Tashjian and Morry Fabricant. On the Providence side of the picture will be high scoring Captain Ed Bobinski and John "Wink" Crowley aided by Joe Kwasniewski and Leo Ploski.

Basketball is a very unpredictable sport and this game is no exception. About the only certain predictions which could be made are that an overflowing crowd and thrills galore will be much in evidence. From here Keeney's Rams, by virtue of past performances, appear to have all the better of the argument which does not, however, mean they are sure to top the fighting Friars.

AROUND THE CIRCUIT

The Friar Athletic Council's program for the expansion of the sports program was met with satisfaction and approbation by students and alumni alike. Included in this expansion program are plans for extensive intramural sports. An excellent plan! There are many students who enjoy participating in some form of sport, but are not quite good enough for varsity competition. This would give every student an opportunity to participate in sports and improve physically. A person needs some physical exercise to go along with the mental exercises and unless a proper balance of both is had the individual's health usually suffers greatly. An interesting feature of tomorrow night's basketball card will be the Ram-Friar yearling encounter which will provide its share of high class basketball. Duke Abruzzi, State's loquacious all-round star, and "Lefty" Fallon, Providence's basketball and baseball ace, will resume their athletic duel that waxed so hotly during their high school days. This in itself has all the earmarks of a red hot battle. "Wink" Crowley's father wanted him to be a pugilist, but "Wink" decided he would rather play basketball and baseball. And he has done very well in both. We do not doubt but what he would have been successful in the ring, if he had decided upon that course. He is a natural athlete.

INTRAMURAL LEAGUE STARTS AFTER EXAMS

The intramural basketball league will commence immediately after the mid-year recess. Plans for the league are now being formulated by the Cowl sports staff in cooperation with Father Quinn.

This year's circuit will be comprised of eight teams which are as follows: Seniors, Juniors, Sophomores, Freshmen, Friars Club, Guzman Hall, Campus Club, and Cowl. Representatives of these teams are asked to attend an important league meeting to be held in Room 21 at 12:50 next Wednesday. The schedule will be released in next week's issue of The Cowl.

The Campus Club five is the only newcomer to the league. Last year's championship was won by the strong Guzman Hall I team which has been hard hit by graduation. Runners up last year, the present Seniors appear to be the team to defeat for the 1938 crown.

In accord with the new athletic program, this provides the students with an excellent opportunity to participate in athletics. Games will probably be played two or three evenings a week during the months of February and March.

Friarlets Split In Two Games

Lose to Bryant, 38-30; Defeat
Bridgewater Teachers, 46-45,
at Bridgewater

Maintaining their 500 per cent average for the current campaign, the Providence College freshmen hoopsters split even in a pair of contests during the past week, losing to the Bryant College five, 38-30, and topping the Bridgewater Teachers, 46-45, at Bridgewater, Mass. Prior to this week's encounters the young Friars had bowed to the Connecticut State yearlings and edged out the Naval Training quintet.

After setting the pace most of the way in the Bryant game, the Friar juniors' defense weakened, enabling the Hope Streeters to gain the decision. The Bridgewater affair was not decided until the last ten seconds of play when Captain Steve Fallon, Friarlets' leader, hooked a toss from the foul line to give the Black and White their one point margin. Fallon took scoring honors in both tilts, garnering nine points against Bryant and tallying nineteen in the contest with the Teachers.

State-Friar Frosh Clash Packs Punch

Other 1937 Stars In Lineups

Three members of the 1937 Rhode Island all-state schoolboy basketball quintet will answer the starting whistle at the Auditorium, tomorrow night, when the young Friars of Providence College, led by Steve "Lefty" Fallon, and the Ramlets of Rhode Island State, paced by Bud Conley and Duke Abruzzi, meet in what appears to be one of the finest yearling court battles to be staged between these bitter intra-state rivals in many years.

The State first-year-outfit is a well-balanced five which possesses much speed and great accuracy in shooting.

team up with either Eli Deuse or Bill Spinner at the guards.

John "Slip" Barnini, Jimmy Leo, Paul Sweeney, and Ralph Paparella, all sophomores, are expected to see much service in reserve roles. Four other sophomores who may break into the lineup during the course of the game are Jim Bagley, Larry Shattuck, Dick Mezejewski, and Jim Padden.

Providence dropped the first game of the season to the undefeated Connecticut State quintet, 40-32, and then came back strong in its next two starts to defeat Assumption, 60-31, and St. Anselm's, 42-38. Last night they played Dartmouth, Eastern Intercollegiate League leaders, at Hanover, N. H.

"Two Points a Minute"
Coach Frank Keeney's "two-point a minute" quintet has been the talk of New England as it has registered one triumph after another in impressive fashion. The Rams have a season's record of seven victories in eight starts including last night's win over Maine. Their lone defeat came at the hands of Boston University in a free scoring encounter. State jumped into the basketball limelight in its opening game against the Alumni by passing the century mark.

Chet Jaworski, leading New England scorer, will lead the Rams' offensive attack. He should have plenty of assistance from Ed Tashjian who has the highest individual scoring average per game of any player in New England. Morry Fabricant of Pawtucket, Hank Soar's former high school teammate, is one of the finest defensive players ever uncovered at Kingston.

State is known for its wide open and colorful style of play. Rapid fire and long range shooting from all angles of the court plays an important part in the Blue and White's attack. Emphasis is laid upon individual play more than is usually done in most colleges. Speed is the underlying factor in both their offensive and defensive play.

In a preliminary, the yearling aggregations of both colleges will meet. The tapoff is scheduled for 8 o'clock sharp with the varsity tilt expected to get under way about 9:30 o'clock, marred only by the setback handed them by the strong Brown freshmen. Outstanding among their triumphs were wins over the Boston University yearlings by a 61-55 count and the Northeastern U. frosh, 75-15.

The Blue and White will line up with Duke Abruzzi and Conley at the forwards; Keeney and Franchuk, guards, and Harrington at center.

Against this capable quintet, Coach McClellan will probably start Kusnitz and Terrace, forwards; Levey

STATE GAME PRICES

Admission prices for the Providence College-Rhode Island State basketball game at the Auditorium were announced yesterday by John E. Farrell, graduate manager of athletics. General admission to the game will be fifty-five cents, while seats surrounding the floor can be purchased for eighty-five cents. Box seats are priced at a dollar and ten cents.

The Freshman game will start at 8 o'clock. The Varsity game is expected to begin at 9 o'clock. Farrell stated yesterday that the demand for tickets has been large and he urged all those who want to get good seats to arrive early, as the first-come-first-serve policy will be carried out.

New Equipment For Musicians

One violin, cello, two trumpets, one clarinet, one alto horn, and one flute have recently been added to the College's musical equipment, according to the Rev. Leo S. Cannon, O.P., faculty moderator of the orchestra.

Fr. Cannon has begun a campaign to increase the membership of the orchestra. He is especially desirous of enrolling violin players.

into a business laboratory to relieve the cramped conditions in that department when the new residence hall with its large chapel is opened. "With the chapel in the residence hall," he said, "we can convert the present chapel in Harkins Hall into additional facilities for the business department which is already overcrowded. The increase in our student activities, the larger number of faculty members and the greater variety of extension courses that are being offered, necessitate our expansion at this time."

Father Dillon revealed the plans for the dormitory Wednesday night in an address before the new Connecticut Valley alumni club at its first formal meeting and dinner at the Hotel Stoneham, Springfield. Other guests at the meeting were Rev. Robert G. Quinn, O.P., Rev. Jeremiah T. Fitzgerald, O.P., vice president of the College, Joseph H. Lyons, president of the alumni association; Dr. Daniel J. O'Neill, Louis C. Fitzgerald, director of publicity, and Edward Moran, president of the Pittsfield Providence College Club.

Friar Quintet Shades Hawks

Defeats St. Anselm's, 42-38, in Contest Saturday at Manchester

Staving off a last period rally, Providence College's basketball five defeated St. Anselm's Hawks last Saturday at Manchester, N. H., 42-38. Apparently headed for an easy win, the Friars, with only three minutes to play, held a 13-point lead but were hard pressed in the dying moments as the locals rallied and nearly drew up even.

The visitors' first period whirlwind play brought about the victory. With "Wink" Crowley and Ed Bobinski setting the pace, Providence got away to an early lead and remained in front throughout. Crowley and Bobinski garnered field goals between them before the Hawks scored their first basket. Seeing the Friars had little difficulty breaking through their defense, the locals shifted from a zone to man-to-man defense with decided success.

Halfway through the third period with Providence ahead 22-14, St. Anselm pulled up to within four points of the leader. With Leo Ploski showing the way, the Smith Hillers increased the lead, 30-18. At this point Ploski and Barnini left the game via the foul route. St. Anselm's team then staged a belated rally.

"Babbling Brooks" Carter, the New Bedford flash who boasts that he had the best seat on the bench during the last football season, was no end dismayed when a chum of his walked into class and bellowed, "Here's the glove that your lady friend forgot in my car."

Alumni S

Wearing snowsuits and carrying skis, the alumni turned out in full force and fine fettle for another one of Joe Lyons' excellent beefsteaks at the College last night. The spirit that is being manifested among the local graduates in attending these splendid socials is but indicative of the resurrection of the esprit de corps that the alumni as a whole is showing in cooperation with the President of the College in fostering greater alumni activity.

That the alumni have finally come to life can be attributed to three causes. Probably first is the college president, Father Dillon. Young, energetic, active, and well liked, the boys from '23 up see in him the leader that we have needed to help the College through the period of expansion, and have fallen in willingly to get behind any project that will increase the prestige of this institution. Another dominating cause is the fortunate selection of Joe Lyons as leader of the alumni body. A tireless and indefatigable worker, Brother L. has talked, written and telephoned, until now every alumnus is well aware of his interest in the College, his desire for a greater and more unified alumni association. The third reason may be gleaned from an appreciation of the changing status of the graduates, who are only today making their way in the world and beginning to hold down jobs of importance. Obviously their desire is to see their Alma Mater on a plane far above rival colleges and they are willing to make the necessary sacrifices to help this institution attain that goal. It would be a happy solution if this triumvirate of causes were allowed to remain unchanged for a couple more years, but the by-laws say that Item 2 must soon relinquish his post and become a member of the governing board. It's not too early to look about for a successor, for to find one with equal merit and ability will be a difficult task.

If Uncle Peter appears to have gone ashy on you during the last two paragraphs, it has been for but two reasons; the one, that he means it sincerely; and the other, that he has been trying to get up his courage to tell you of the alumnus from Westerly, George Foley by name, who walked into Doctor O'Neill's office the other day and exclaimed: "Wow! What a color. And I DO mean HUE!" Here and there with these and those: Daniel Nash of Holyoke is now assistant manager of the Holyoke Hotel . . . We'd quote rates if we knew them and if weren't free advertising . . . There is absolutely no connection between the two facts that Ed. Keegan has a four months old son and has moved from Pittsfield to Lee, Mass. . . . He just wants to get Junior that much nearer to Providence College . . . And in the new son department we might mention that Fr. Perrotta will baptize Michael Monti's male offspring on next Sunday . . .

As we started to write a note about Fred Gorman being acting manager of the New London office of Social Security, a bulletin from the press bureau indicates that he has been moved back to Woonsocket . . . which is Connecticut's loss . . . And to slide back to romance for the nonce, we note with glee the fact that Erville Williams, who taught in the business department for a short time before he gave the Sun Oil Co. the break it had been looking for, has gone and got himself engaged . . . Don't you think this was the most wonderful column—Uncle Pete didn't mention Myrna Loy even once . . .

Father La More Hits Birth Control

trary to the law of God.
"Destroys Harmony"

When the Church says that the means used to prevent child birth are unnatural, she is not speaking in ambiguous terminology, nor is she trying to increase the confusion in the minds of those who do not agree with her. She simply means that acts which are in harmony with nature are good, and those not in harmony are bad. To exercise the generative faculty in such a way as to prevent it from attaining its natural end is to destroy the harmony between the faculty and its object. Such an act is contrary to nature and therefore bad. Nothing—social utility, race welfare, personal happiness, or economic expedient—can justify this unnatural perversion of a human faculty.

Professedly it is the object of the supporters of birth control to limit the procreation with a view to the survival of the fittest. Special effort has been made by them to diffuse their doctrine and method among the poorer classes. One might logically infer therefore that the poor are especially undesirable as a class, that the rich (who, no doubt think themselves better) will carry out the mandate of the natural law to conserve human species and will assume responsibility for the production of the higher type of individuals. The irony of the fact is that the rich, who can well afford to have children, are the most faithful in the practice of birth control, that the poor, as a class, are by far the more desirable type of individual."

CANDID-CAMERA SNIPERS

Candid-camera sharpshooters have an opportunity to enter their snapshots in a contest now being conducted by Michaels-Bauer, local jewelers and opticians. But these pictures must be of a definite nature. Specifically they must show the different ways a student wears his wrist watch, in the classroom, the laboratory, the gym, or at social functions. The style or brand of the watch doesn't matter. The quality of the picture alone will determine its rank in the contest.

Poetry Club Meets

The Rhode Island Catholic Poetry Society, a unit of the Catholic Poetry Society of America held its regular bi-monthly meeting at 3:30 p.m. in the small auditorium, last Sunday, Jan. 9. Miss Mary O'Neil read a paper on "Whether poetry should be or mean", and a lively discussion ensued. A poem entitled "When I am Dead", was read by John Houlihan, '40, and criticized by the group.
