Students to Spend Varied Vacations

Providence College seals and stickers will be seen on many trains and on almost all major highways leading from the city this weekend as almost all of the students return home for the Christmas holidays, which begin this noon and end at 8:30 a. m. on Tuesday, January 3, 1939.

The coming week will find many of the local students toting mail-bags, while others will be behind counters in gift shops and department stores. The remainder will probably spend their time doing Christmas shopping.

The New York, New Haven, & Hartford Railroad has reduced fares considerably for this period for the convenience of students.

After the pre-Christmas rush is over the students will, in most cases, buckle down to serious study in preparation for the coming mid-years.

VACATION DATES

The Christmas recess begins today with the suspension of classes at noon and will continue through a two-week period with regular classes commencing again Tuesday, Jan. 3, 1939.

Lectures for the first semester will end Thursday, Jan. 19 at 12 o'clock and on the same day at 2 p. m. the semi-annual examinations will begin. The exams will end with the closing of the first semester on Jan. 28.

A short recess will follow the exams with lectures of the second semester beginning Monday Feb. 6 for Freshmen, Juniors and Sophomores. Senior lectures begin the following day, Feb. 7.

Requiem Mass Said Wednesday

Fr. McKenna Reads Memorial Mass for Deceased Member of Class of '39

A memorial Mass was celebrated Wednesday morning in the chapel by Rev. Charles H. McKenna, O.P., chaplain, for Francis Moriarty, who died in 1936 while a student of the College.

Moriarty, one of the most popular and witty members of his class died on November 27, 1936, the victim of myelogenous leukemia, a rare blood disease causing an overabundance of white corpuscles. At first afflicted with a sore throat, Moriarty was ordered to the hospital by the College doctors and upon examination, the presence of the rare disease was discovered.

Despite several blood transfusions from fellow students Moriarty was unable to rally sufficiently to overcome the ravages of his illness and died at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Moriarty's death was regarded as a personal loss by virtually the entire student body at the time. His good nature, ready wit, and his willingness to help had endeared him to all who had any contact with him. While a student at the College, Moriarty was a cheerleader, and took part in the first two musical comedies presented by the Pyramid Players.

Amateur Performers Thrill Audience of Literary Critics and Guests

A Christmas party in the senior literary criticism class which was intended to be a home-spun affair with the whole assembled family of budding literary critics spinning yards around the spangled Christmas tree, metamorphosed into a hi-de-hi jam session and a paprika vaudeville program which packed laughs from beginning to end.

Playing before an overflowing house, amateur performer who showed remarkable versatility in the entertainment field, held sway for more than an hour. Ray Pettine and his orchestra furnished the pit music for the actors from a corner in the room. William Cunningham was at the clarinet with a help-mate, Archie Oliveri at the trumpet, Dan McGettrick beat the drums, and Maestro Pettine at the keyboard.

George Comstock was master-of-ceremonies and "traconteur". Victor Gabriels opened the program with a song and was followed by a short skit in which George Comstock, Terence

Weekly Movies On Thursdays Starting Soon

Yesterday's Trout Proves Huge Success with Student Body

A weekly series of educational moving pictures will be presented to the students every Thursday during the free 11:30 period, it was announced yesterday by the Rev. Arthur H. Chandler, O.P., dean, following a try-out showing of movies in the auditorium.

Father Chandler stated that the experiment with the hall the moving picture camera had proved highly successful.

Plans for this series have been under way for quite some time, it was stated. Curtains have been placed in the hall to block out the light from the windows in the hall. Experiments with the acoustics in the hall have been carried on and the result has been successful. Yesterday's showing proved that the hall was adapted well enough to present moving pictures.

In the past there has been much agitation for a definite assembly program for the 11:30 free period on Thursday. Demands for a well-drawn up list of either speakers or educational programs were voiced often by the editorial columns of The Cowl as well as by students. During the showing of yesterday's movies, Father Chandler stated this series was the answer to the definite program of Thursday assemblies.

He said that this idea had been under consideration for a year or two and that if the trout proved successful, the idea would be carried out. After the assembly was over, he stated they would purchase a camera and begin preparation of the educational programs.

The idea of the movies proved a hit with the students. They were all most unanimously in favor of the series.

The gifts and generosity of the alumni and friends of the College throughout the State have been partially responsible for the construction of this sorely-needed unit in our program of expansion, and the members of the administration and faculty appreciate the assistance given us by so many of our friends during the campaign last February whose donations and pledges the College received and is receiving."

What Do You Think?

Question: Do you think that at least one formal dance a year should be held at the College?

Edward Burke, Senior, Business:

Yes. As long as the girls always dress formally for the dances which are now held at the College, the Providence College students should also wear formal attire. Providence College students are college men and should act accordingly. In my opinion it is only common decency for the fellow to dress, if the girl is so required. In 80 per cent of the colleges in the United States the Sophomore Hop is a formal dance. The Sophomore Hop is next to the Junior Prom in undergraduate importance as a social activity, and because of its importance it should be a formal dance.

Karol Dubiel, Junior, Business:

Yes. I think we should have at least one formal dance at the College. At the present time there are too many informal dances at the College. Almost every other college has one or more formal dances at the college. It is fitting that Providence College hold a formal dance in Harkins Hall. Formal attire lends a dignity, not otherwise attainable, to the occasion.

James Bagley, Junior, Philosophy:

No. The Junior Prom is the big dance of the social year. A formal dance at the College would do nothing but detract from the Junior Prom. It is difficult enough at the present time to persuade the students to go to one formal dance. It would be twice as difficult to persuade them to go to two formal dances. The average student cannot afford to go to two formal dances.

Thomas Fitzpatrick, Junior, Business:

Yes. All the other colleges have at least one formal dance at the college. As long as the girl goes formally attired, the escort should also attend the dance in formal attire. There are many students in the College who have tuxes, and a formal dance would give them more opportunity to wear them.

George Hickson, Senior, Philosophy:

Yes. As a matter of fact all the class dances should be formal. A formal dance shows that the students have a class spirit and a realization of the social obligations of a college man. A formal dance creates a better atmosphere and outlook for a rapidly growing College such as Providence College. A Providence College man is a gentleman and he should look and act as one. A gentleman should know how to dress for a formal occasion, and he should learn how to conduct himself at a formal dance before he leaves college.

Kenneth McGovern, Sophomore, Business:

Yes. The girls dress formally for the dances at the College, and the fellows should do likewise. Formal attire lends dignity to the occasion and makes it look like a college dance. Other colleges have formal dances and Providence College should do likewise in order to maintain its social standing in the collegiate world. The college student will have to meet his social obligations after graduation, and he should learn how to meet these obligations while he is a college student.

Ted Pashalides, Sophomore, Business:

Yes. A formal dance brightens the otherwise dull life of a college student. A formal dance is far more colorful than an informal dance. Formal attire makes the dance more distinctive, and attracts more people and attention because of its formality. Even if it had no other value, a formal dance would give the students some practice in tying a bow tie.

Joseph Baldwin, Senior, Pre-Med:

Yes. As it is a practice here for the girls to dress formally, it is only fair to them that their escorts should be correctly dressed. The students should adjust themselves to the proper attire for such occasions. They will profit by their training when as college graduates their real social life commences.

Iowa City, Ia.—(ACP)—Nino Martini, leading Metropolitan opera tenor, paid two fines in kangaroo court at the University of Iowa for violation of the Men's Week code.

"That," said Mr. Martini, "is more like it." He complied without ado.

Akron, O.—(ACP)—A South African journalist of no mean achievements has "invited" the University of Akron to confer upon him "an appropriate degree, perhaps in arts, literature, science (zoology preferred) or philosophy."

Accompanying the invitation were four of the author's manuscripts and two volumes of his letters, and he

THE COWL STAFF.

And it came to pass, that in those days there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that the whole world should be enrolled.

This enrolling was first made by Cyrinus, the governor of Syria.

And all went to be enrolled, every one into his own city.

And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth into Judea, to the city of David, which is called Bethlehem; because he was of the house and family of David.

To be enrolled with Mary his espoused wife, who was with child.

And it came to pass, that when they were there her days were accomplished, that she should be delivered.

And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him up in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country shepherds watching, and keeping the night watches over their flock.

And behold an angel of the Lord stood by them, and the brightness of God shone round about them; and they feared with a great fear.

And the angel said to them: Fear not; for, behold, I bring you tidings of great joy, that shall be to all the people;

For, this day, is born to you a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord, in the city of David.

And this shall be a sign unto you. You shall find the infant wrapped in swaddling clothes, and laid in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly army, praising God, and saying:

Glorify to God in the highest, and on earth peace to men of good will.

And it came to pass, after the angels departed from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another: Let us go over to Bethlehem, and let us see this word that is come to pass, which the Lord hath shewed us.

And they came with haste; and they found Mary and Joseph, and the infant lying in a manger.

And seeing, they understood of the word that had been spoken to them concerning this child.

And all that heard, wondered; and at those things that were told them by the shepherds.

But Mary kept all these words, pondering them in her heart.

And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God, for all the things they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them.

HOT OFF THE FRYER

By Dan Murphy

The basketball team opened the 1938-39 season by defeating an Assumption College quintet to last Thursday night. None too impressive in this game, due to their inaccurate shooting the boys went into the Dartmouth tussle on Monday night on the short end of the betting odds. Despite "Joe" Kwasniewski's stellar shooting, and his guarding of the Indians' star Soph forward the Friars dropped this one by a 41 to 24 score. That sends the team home for the holidays with a half and half record . . . half victory and half defeat is the story of the two games played thus far. The story won't read that way for very long during January, however, when the Friars start to click.

The Newport Representatives
Three of the more talented members of the "first ten" division of the basketball squad hail from Newport. "Bill" Sacks, "Sam" Kusnitz, and "Harry" Speckman, all of whom starred for the high school quintets in the City by the Sea some few years back, have all shown up very well in the games played by the Friars thus far this season and are making the holders of the starting team berth go at top speed in order to hold on to their coveted spots. Sacks and Kusnitz, along with the injured "Lefty" Fallon, were the standouts on last year's Frosh squad. Take a bow, Newport.

He's In Again
"Hank" Soar, the most distinguished of the ex-athletes of Providence College, is given the credit for the announcement of the National Professional Football League championship by the New York Giants. The man who beat Boston College almost single-handed when he played for the Dominican eleven in 1934 as a Sophomore, is being called the hardest running back in pro circles since he played the major role in ripping the Green Bay Packer's line to shreds last Sunday afternoon. Hank's teammates up here always said he was a little better than many All-Americans . . . and it seems as though they were not exactly fooling.

They Like the Huddle
The French punch is being introduced to the American game of football by a group of former collegiate stars under the direction of Fordham's coach Jim Crowley. According to the newspaper reports, they do not care very much for the game . . . except for the huddle. It seems that the boys huddle "to cheer the other team," and not to compare notes on the beautiful blonde in Section A, seat 14, of the grandstand, as we had always thought!

On Your Mark
Intramural basketball will start immediately after the Christmas holidays. Better start now to cut down on those cigarettes and get into some kind of condition, boys, the competition this year is going to reach a new high for keenness. There should be quite a number of fast, hard-fought games played during the schedule which has been arranged by Director Crotty and the Students' Athletic Council. Competent officials and coaches have been appointed to insure the efficient carrying out of the new basketball program. So, get on your mark and be set to "go" after the vacation.

Ragging the Puck
The students who are trying to organize a hockey team to represent Providence College on the ice haven't been helped much by the good-natured clowning which followed their announcement. Players who really wish to help the boys organizing the proposed sextet should contact Don Cronin as soon as possible . . . before he gives up the idea. Incidentally, one wonders if it is true that Doctor O'Neill is going to supply the equipment for the skaters again this year. He did a few years ago, they tell me.

Friars Suffer First Defeat At Hanover

Strong Dartmouth Quintet Wins 41-24; Becker Next Foe

The Friar basketball machine met its first defeat of the season at the hands of the smooth-working Dartmouth quintet which has given every indication that it is very much in the running for top honors in Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball circles. After battling pretty much on even terms throughout the first half the locals were unable to keep abreast of the Hanover sharpshooters in the final twenty minutes and dropped a 41-24 decision.

"Swede" Broberg, the Indians' Sophomore star who was able to amass a total of 34 points in the first two games, was limited to two points by the stellar P. C. left guard, Joe Kwasniewski. He was unable to sink a single floor goal, but points being caged from the charity stripe. "Handsome" Joe Deuse paced the Providence team offensively, popping in seven field goals for a total of fourteen points.

Fall to Stop Dudis
While the Crottymen were successful in this respect they failed to bottle-up the Dartmouth Captain, Roger "Moose" Dudis, who rang up 19 markers. The Indian leader towers two inches above our own Elt Deuse and time and again served Providence backboard shots that might otherwise have been turned into floor goals were halted by his enormous reach.

The home athletes, sparked by Dudis, forced the play in the opening period and enjoyed a 12-5 lead after the first ten minutes. As the second session got under way the Friars' attack really clicked when a rally, in which Joe Kwasniewski and Elt Deuse figured prominently, sent them out in front by a 20-17 count midway through the period. Providence's inability to count via the foul route prevented them from increasing their lead and Dartmouth held a slight advantage at the rest period. During the course of the entire game the locals made good on but two free throws losing many other possible points through inaccurate shooting.

Early in the third stanza the Green put on a scoring spree that abetted its margin tremendously and kept it in a commanding position for the remainder of the contest.

After the Christmas recess the Friar hoopers will renew their court wars when they encounter Becker College of Worcester here on Jan. 6. On Saturday night of Jan. 14 of the following week they will hoop up with R. I. State in what promises to be the feature game of the current campaign at the Rhode Island Auditorium.

2. arly 2 for you. Several letters to this column (all written by people who wanted somebody to answer unsigned communications) have asked me to look into last year's Crystal Ball and give them the winners. Here they are:

Sideline Talks

The fast-passing, eagle eye basketball flashes of Providence came out of the Dartmouth contest on the short end of the score. The encounter with the Indians was a closely fought battle until the last seven minutes of the fracas. It is safe to say now that "Handsome" Joe Kwasniewski is headed for stardom without a hair of doubt. Joe has compiled 22 points thus far. Steve Fallon is expected to resume his activities on the court shortly. By the way, Steve claims that Walter Shinn, Captain of the University of Pennsylvania grid forces gives him the greatest laugh of the moment whenever he burst into one of his ferocious like yells of joy. The event took place in Saranac Lake, N. Y. this past summer where Shinn and Fallon played on the same baseball club.

Sam Kusnitz was the victim of a practical joker in Hanover, N. H. Coach Crotty caught him throwing his shoes all over the hallway. Poor Sam! What a laugh the boys got out of it. This writer warned the fans to watch Danowski and Soar in the pro grid playoffs because they would star. That's exactly what they did. Hank Soar must have "soared" through those Packers because his devastating charges spelled victory when the battle was over. At the present time Hank is in the hospital awaiting a nose operation. That certainly will aid Hank considerably in his football exploits all the more.

We have heard rumors to the effect that Captain Frank Kleniewski of St. Raphael Academy is on his way to Providence. Frank is the outstanding back in R. I. high school football circles. There is always room for a good man in Coach Devore's newly installed Notre Dame system. John Grady claims he's a better looking fellow now that his nose is fully healed. Don't let your girl hear that John. William Murphy, new Friar court star, couldn't even sit on the Friar bench a year ago but since Crotty's debut he's worked his way up.

East Providence Caseys Enrolling P. C. Members in League Squad

Providence College students who are interested in hockey and have had experience in high school or any other organized look will be afforded an opportunity to manifest their puck-ragging ability according to plans being forwarded by the East Providence Caseys of the Inter-City League. A number of puck enthusiasts have already signified their intentions to try out for the squad.

Art Cuddy, a member of the freshman class, who gained All-State honors while at La Salle Academy last year, tended goal for the Caseys last night against the Glenwoods. Cuddy is not inexperienced in amateur circles as he has performed in the Inter-City Loop before. Don Cronin, sophomore, who turned in some fine performance as a member of the Auburn Club last year, will join the East Providence aggregation after the Christmas holidays.

The second issue of the Alembic, Providence College literary quarterly, was distributed to the students yesterday from the office of the magazine. The issue featured short stories and essays written by the students. This is the last issue of the first semester.

Among the contributions published in the Alembic are: "We the Students Elect," a narrative by Robert C. Healey, '39; "Famous Infamy," a short story by Norman J. Carrigan, '39; "Oops I Split An Infinitive," an essay by Charles McGovern, '41; "End of Day," a short story by Walter F. Gibbons, '39; "A House Built on Poles," a short story by Irving Wardle, '39; "Old Schrieber," a short story by John T. Hayes, '40; "Guiana Hell," an essay by Charles E. Sweeney, '41; "Ignominy," an essay by Ira T. Williams, '41; and "On My Learning to Swim," an essay by Seymour Sherman, '41.

For the next issue of the Alembic, which is scheduled to be published during the first week of March, the members of the editorial board of the magazine have sent an invitation to Freshmen and Sophomores to contribute articles. They are seeking to encourage members of these two classes so that the book will have a more complete representation of student literary ability.

weights and the other between the heavyweights. They will play four eight-minute quarters. Students of Guzman Hall, who in the past have had their own club, will be allowed to play for their respective class teams.

After the opening games set for Jan. 16 and 17 the schedule will be interrupted by the exams, and will not be continued until Feb. 8. However from this date till the end of the schedule there will be no further interruptions and the games will continue two nights a week.

Because of the fact that the varsity basketball schedule is as yet unsettled some of the dates for the games may be rearranged. But for the present they will stand as they have been scheduled.

The Monday, March 13, following the close of the season a round-robin series will be held to decide the champion of the clubs in the school. Students who participated in the regular intra-class season will be eligible to play for their clubs as well. It is expected that the Friar's Club, the Cowl, Carolan Club, and many others will enter into this competition.

STUDENTS TO SEE ASSEMBLY MOVIES

Harkins Hall Little Theatre featured an educational picture of a scientific nature. It was an informative type of movie that attempted to show the educational values of the movies. It emphasized that the movies give the high educational advantages which costly apparatus and hazardous adventures produce. The main feature of the mid-day program was a musical comedy home-town-girl-makes-good affair which had comely, blonde Virginia Bruce making good and doing the warbling. Miss Bruce, taking the role of Wenda Wander, the Swedish, small-town operatic star aspirant, who falls in love with a home-town boy, goes to the big city, and finally vows a dummy audience with her singing and her fetching smile. The film closes when Wenda get her man—her swagger manager. The movie received a howling approval.
